Semi-annual drive held

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Cameron's semi-annual cattle drive was held last weekend when a score or more of Creole area cattlemen and riders drove their cattle from winter ranges at Johnson Bayou to summer ranges in the Creole area.

This Creole to Johnson Bayou trek started in 1940 when the Creole area cattlemen organized to make the 3 day trip and transport their approximately 1250 head of cattle, on foot, to the lush winter range on the extreme western end of the parish. Most of the land is leased from the Crain Bros. of Grand Chenier.

Prior to the Johnson Bayou trek, many of the cattlemen drove their cattle to Chenier Teague, on four sections of land which belonged to the McIlhenny family of Tobasco fame. The drive took eight days down the beach to the eastern marsh range. Many of the cattle were lost on high tides along the way.

At night the cowboys would camp out and sleep on the beach. Boats were rented along the many bayous they would have to cross to aid in getting the cattle across.

Some of the oldtime cowboys who drove their herds in these drives from the lower part of the parish were Johnny Meaux, and the late Ojust Richard, Arceneaux Miller and Amedy Welch. These drives started in the late 1800's and continued until around 1956.

Two children drown Sunday

An outing for the Gabriel Hebert Jr. family of Lake Arthur ended in tragedy Sunday when two of their children drowned in the Gulf at Rutherford Beach.

Sheriff Claude Eagleson said Jo Ann Hebert, 11, and Brian Keith Hebert, 7, apparently fell off two large boards on which they were playing in about five feet of water.

The accident occurred about 12:05 p.m.

The sheriff's department was notified of the accident at 1:05 p.m. and when units arrived at the scene, the body of the boy had been recovered.

Members of the family apparently saw Brian Keith go under. Efforts to revive the boy were unsuccessful.

The girl's body was not recovered until about 3:50 p.m. when it surfaced the sheriff's department said.

Red and White game is Fri.

CATTLE GRUB CONTROL

Now is the time to plan a cattle grub control program, using the commercially available systemic grubicides. The egg larvae season of this pest is already underway since the grub larvae emerge as adult flies with the first warm days of the spring season. These larvae hatch within a few days and spent the next several months moving from the underline of the animal to the back. Systemics are most effective during the early stages of the grub cycle.

The materials that are currently recommended by LSU for the control of grubs are Co-Ral and Ruelene. These may be used in several ways. In addition to controlling grubs before they reach maturity, systemics may also be of use on other pests.

According to the entomologists, the heel fly should finish laying eggs about the first week of May. As soon as the season is over, it is time to treat your animals for grubs with Co-Ral or Ruelene as recommended.

RICE WATER MOLD AND SEEDLING DISEASE

Water mold and other seedling diseases have created much of a problem to rice farmers this season. This is in all probability due to the cool nights along with some of the rice fields not being able to be drained off completely.

Farmers are advised to drain their field when this problem first appears. The present recommended fungicides, which is a seed treatment, are only about 15% effective.

The water mold appears as a light to dark brown discoloration on the soil surface around the seed after the water is removed. However, before the water is removed, the seed usually has a fluffy fungal growth around it.

Pennzoil to drill offshore

Pennzoil Offshore Gas Operators, Inc. (POGO) will erect a total of four production platforms during August and September on two offshore Western Louisiana blocks, President W. A. Hover told stockholders attending the company's first annual meeting.

As a result of initial exploratory drilling, POGO has ordered two platforms scheduled for erection in August on Eugene Island Block 330 and two to be ready the following month for East Cameron Block 270.

POGO has drilled or participated in the drilling of 11 wells on its newly awarded leases offshore Western Louisiana. "This puts us well ahead of our announced goal of exploratory wells to be drilled by the end of 1971," Hover said.

POGO results in West Cameron Block 270, for which two production platforms have been ordered, include a second well drilling near 5,000 feet, Hover said. POGO is also supporting a well being drilled by AMOCO in Block 580, which is only 330 feet west of the west line of POGO's East Cameron Block 334, he reported. The latter well is now at 9,318 feet, he reported.

Top "clackers" named at Cameron Elementary

Until recently, the familiar sound around most homes and schools was pop-pop-pop of "clackers," an inovation to shatter most people's nerves.

As a result of the interest shown by so many students, the Cameron Elementary School held a clacker contest recently. The object of the contest was to determine which children could "clack" the longest.

Each fifth, sixth and seventh grade class participated and three class winners were announced in the boys' division and in the girls' division.

These winners then met in a final run-off before their classmates. Each contestant received three chances and first, second and third place winners were announced in each division.

The winners in the boys division were: Charles Willis, 7th grade, 2 min. 18 sec.; Richard Southern, 5th grade, 1 min. 27 sec.; and Bradley Trahan, 5th grade, 1 min. 18 sec.

The girl winners were Rhonda Nunez, 5th grade, 8 min. 15 sec.; Theresia Giroir, 7th grade, 7 min. 35 sec.; and Shirley Fountain, 6th grade, 1 min. 49 sec.

Mrs. David Ellison Warren

The altar at the First Presbyterian Church in Walla Walla, Wash., was flanked with garden baskets of flowers and candles for the April 10 afternoon wedding of Miss Mary Jo Beck and David Ellison Warren, Dr. Edward V. Wright officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beck of Walla Walla; the benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Warren of Cameron.

Miss Beck wore a white bridal gown of silk organza and beaded peau-d'ange lace fashioned with empire waistline outlined in motifs of beaded lace. Her peek-a-boo yoke and high neckline were appliqued with beaded lace and lace ruffles at the wrist enhanced the long tapered sleeves of organza with lace motifs. The A-line organza skirt over satin was softly gathered at the back. Her full-swept chapel train was edged with a band of matching lace. The shoulder-length veil of illusion flowed from a full Juliet cap of beaded peau-d'ange lace and she carried green cymbidium orchids on a white Bible her mother had carried as a bride.

Miss Suzanne Beck, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Diane Warren, was bridesmaid. They wore identical floor-length dresses of pale yellow crepe, yellow picture hats and carried small white garden baskets of daisies. Two younger sisters, Candy and Cindy Beck, were candlelighters.

The bridegroom's father, Sam Warren, was best man and Frank Corteau and Frank Turninello, Baton Rouge, were ushers.

The reception followed at the Walla Walla Country Club.

Bridge views are sought

The U. S. Corps of Engineers has asked for the views on any interested party on the construction of a new high level fixed highway bridge over the Intracoastal Canal in Cameron parish at Gibbstown.

The bridge will consist of 750 feet of continuous steel span on concrete piers. The navigational clearances are 73 feet vertical above high water elevation and 250 feet horizontal between timber bulkheads.

The existing pontoon bridge at the same location will be removed upon completion of the proposed bridge.

Taylor boy injured in mishap Sat.

A 7-year-old Cameron boy was in critical condition at St. Patrick Hospital in Lake Charles after he was injured in a go-cart accident late Saturday.

Larry Keith Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Taylor of Cameron, suffered head injuries, according to State Trooper John Prescott who investigated the accident.

He said the Taylor lad was in a go-cart traveling east on Louisiana 2782 about three miles east of Cameron. A late-model, heavy automobile driven by Francis O. Theriot of Cameron was traveling west.

Prescott said the boy apparently swerved the go-cart into the side of Theriot's car.

LeBleu to fight new district

Rep. Conway LeBleu of Cameron said last week that he plans to fight a reapportionment plan which would put Cameron and Jefferson Davis parishes in the same legislative district.

Cameron is presently in a district with Calcasieu, but a new plan to be offered to the current legislature would put Calcasieu in a district by itself with Cameron and Jeff Davis making up a new district.

Rep. LeBleu also said he plans to offer a resolution urging the U. S. Wildlife Service to permit construction of a hurricane evacuation route through the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge along the east bank of Calcasieu lake.

Supt. Montie is given gifts

W. J. Montie, who will retire as Cameron parish school superintendent June 1, was presented a stereo tape player by the teachers, principals and school employees of the parish at the May meeting of the school board.

He was also presented with a copy of a resolution adopted by the Cameron Parish Teachers Association congratulating him for the outstanding service to the school system.

Succeeding Montie as superintendent will be W. R. Smith.

Tarpon trackmen win honors at DeQuincy

South Cameron's Omer Neil Smith won two first places and the school's 440-relay team took another in the Region II-AA track and field meet at DeQuincy Friday night.

The five trackmen will compete in the state track meet in Baton Rouge this week.

Churches throughout the state will observe Louisiana Baptist Children's Home Sunday on May 2 using the theme "Your Concern . . . Their Hope." Special attention will be focused on the program and work of the child care agency which is now in its seventy-second year of service. The Home is located in Monroe.

During 1971 the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe will receive 5.21 percent of each dollar given through the Cooperative Program as compared with 5.7 percent of each dollar given through the Cooperative Program in 1970. The Home urges churches to give regularly through the Cooperative Program on a percentage basis of their weekly budget gifts. About half the operating needs of the Home comes through Cooperative Program support.

First graders fingerprinted

Fingerprinting all first graders in the Cameron parish schools has been completed, reported Cameron Parish Sheriff Claude Eagleson. The fingerprinting project was started by the sheriff's department in 1969, when everyone enrolled in the school system was fingerprinted. Each year the file is updated.

The information is filed in the vault in the sheriff's office to be used in case of a disaster. Cameron parish Deputies Gene Constance and Allen Hinton are in charge of the project.

Radio system to be expanded

The first phase of a new $14,000 communications system in the Cameron Parish Sheriff's Department will be started immediately, according to Sheriff Claude Eagleson.

Sheriff Eagleson was presented with the first part of the grant this week by Travis Whitley, District Director of the Southwest District Law Enforcement Planning Council. The funds are part of the Omnibus Crime Bill which help small police departments improve their systems.

The first phase will include the installing of a base radio unit and an antenna. A generator will also be installed to give electricity to the radio center in case of any power failure. The main concern in setting up the communications center is to be sure the department will always have a means of radio contact in cases of emergencies such as storms, hurricanes, and power failures. Cameron is in such an isolated area there would be an extreme emergency during a power failure if there were no emergency generator.

The second phase of the program, which will be installed next year, will be the dual multichannel units in each Sheriff's Dept. car. This will give Cameron parish deputies their own private frequency. At this time they share frequencies with the State Police and surrounding parishes which poses a very crowded situation. Also, they hope to hook up with the Sheriff's Department in Port Arthur, Tex..

Movie shown

The Creole community had a rare treat Monday night when the motion picture "The Louisiana Story" was shown at the KC Hall during the meeting of Scout Troop 202.

Also present at the meeting was the star of the movie, Creole's own J. C. Boudreaux. "The Louisiana Story" was filmed in 1948 and had a 5 year run in New York City.

Boudreaux was only a young boy at the time the picture was made. He has been a Cameron Parish resident for many years and is employed by the Cameron Telephone Company. He resides with his family in Creole.

Cancer drive

Mrs. Guthrie Perry, president of the Grand Chenier Home Demonstration Club, announced that a total of $177, - .33 has been collected in the Grand Chenier-Oak Grove area in the Cameron Parish Cancer Drive. Mrs. Perry was chairman of the area.

Workers helping her were: Mrs. Walter Dupuis, Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. Sevan Miller, Mrs. Guy Murphy, Jr., Mrs. Garner Nunez and Miss Arlene Tarter.

Prior to that time, many of the Creole cowboys drove their cattle to St. Martinville. They followed Grand Lake at Catfish Locks until they hit shore close to Lake Arthur. The drive would take about two weeks. Mostly steers would be in the herd, and after being pastured over the winter they would be taken to the sale in St. Martinville.

There were usually around 600 head and Lynex Richard remembers his grandfather saying that $17 a head was considered a very good price for a steer. The main cowboys in this drive, all now deceased, were Armelan Richard, P. B. Boudoin and Unin Boudoin.

Richard recalls hearing his grandfather, Armelian, tell that they were paid for their cattle in gold which they put in money belts around their waists for the return trip home. The belts were so heavy they blistered the skin.

The alligators were so bad in the marshes they had to ride through they lost many calves. He tells of Adolph Theriot's stirrup being broke in two by an alligator but he managed to escape. Some of the Kaplan helpers on the trip were: Russ Green, Sam Green and "Choppy" Marceaux.

The practice of moving the cattle back and forth between the two ranges help the ranchers in canying out conservation of their rangelands. The modern rancher is very conscious of good conservation practices and seek the technical services of the local Soil Conservation Service office and carry out needed conservation measures by cost-sharing with the Federal Government, through the local ASCS office in planting permanent pastures, establishing ground covers, building cattle walkways in the marsh, and building stock ponds and wells.

The high point in the weekend trip back to "Home range" in Creole took place Saturday morning when the herd reached the Calcasieu river for the swim across from the Holly Beach area to Cameron. Swimming the Calcasieu is not something that you walk up to and do. It is a wide, deep channel where ocean going ships past from the Gulf of Mexico to the Port of Lake Charles.

It is also a stream of swift currents when the tide is going in or out. There is a period of less than an hour when the tide is at a standstill, twice a day. This is the time the trail boss, "Sono" Savoie, must give the order to plunge. When the current is still cattle can swim straight across to the opposite side.

It must be determined that no large ship enters the channel at the same time because it would not be able to stop.

The cowsare brought up to within a half mile of the river where they stop and wait for the river to give the orders. The cowboys stand watch and take refuge under small scrubby trees.

Large sticks of wood are placed in mid-stream, and when their motion comes to a dead stop the "Trail Boss" gives the signal to move the cattle forward. They are driven fast to gain momentum as they hit the river. The guide homes hit the river first with the cattle following close behind.

As the stream of animal bodies moves across the river to the tune of cracking whips and screaming cowboys, they form a living bridge. Cowboys in motor boats on each side of the swimming cattle serve the same purpose as horses do on land. Calves that stray out of line are picked up by the boats, who also ride herd on cows that stray out of line. Constant vigil must be maintained during the 40 minutes it requires to make the crossing.

The drive continues on to Creole where the cows are cut out by individual owners and each rancher takes his cattle to his individual ranch.

The exciting trip is over for the time being, but come October and the procedure starts all over again, but back in the other direction. As Lynex Richard says, "It has been a tradition in our family for over 175 years and one which we pass on from generation to generation."

Creole team second in La.

The Creole 4-H Club cattle judging team composed of Larry Myers, Cecil Myers, Toby Landry and Russell Savoie placed second in the state contest at the Louisiana Junior Angus Field day held Saturday at the Rainer Newsom Angus Farm near Tickfaw.

The team score was 3 points below the winning team, out of a possible score of 600 points. They are first alternates for an all expense paid trip to the National Judging contest to be held at Nashville, Tenn., in June.

Cecil was 4th highest individual and Toby placed in 10th place. In the event the winning team cannot make the trip to Nashville, the local boys will go.

Lost wallet is found on beach

Proof that there are still some honest people in the world was evidenced last week in Cameron Parish.

Last summer Dave Dupree of Emlca was shrimping near Holly Beach when his boat capsized. He lost his wallet, containing all of his credit cards and $175 when he was thrown into the water.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Bill Havard of Holly Beach was taking her usual walk on the beach and spotted the wallet, washed up on shore. She brought it to her cafe, Bill's Bar-B-Q where she determined to whom it belonged. She then notified Sheriff Claude Eagleson in Cameron. Sheriff Eagleson called Dupree's home and advised him of the wallet being found and that he was mailing it to him.

CONGRESSMAN
FOR GOVERNOR

CONGRESSMAN
GOVERNOR

There is a restless movement among the voters in Louisiana. You can feel it in the air. You can sense it in the conversations between concerned citizens. From Caddo to Orleans and from Sabine to St. Tammany the mood for change is strong. The people are demanding a new face . . . a man with new ideas for governmental management of our State.

Emerging from the handful of candidates for Governor is a United States Congressman from South Louisiana who has served with excellence and honor in all three levels of government (local, state and national). His record unblemished, his popularity decisive, Edwin Edwards is setting new records of early support from virtually every section of our State. His ideas are forged from the echo of the people's cry for better government . . . now! As the campaigns begin to stir and take shape, Congressman Edwards is the name on the lips of the voters as the one candidate who can turn our state around and lead us toward an era of excellence . . . a time that we have waited for too many years.

On Friday, May 28, 1971, more than one thousand people from the length and breadth of Louisiana will journey to Lafayette to honor and support the candidacy of Edwin Edwards for Governor. Will you join us? Will you come and hear his ideas about a totally new and practical form of State government . . . one which is fiscally sound and managed with the 1970's (and not the 1920's) in mind? Will you get involved in the movement to return lawmaking to the State Legislature and reduce the powers of the governor to their rightful place . . . that of managing the business of State Government? It's a gigantic task . . . but we've got a good man. Edwin Edwards. Come along.

Central air

Hay fever time means sneezing, and other symptoms for sufferers, and it usually comes at a time when the majority of people are trying to escape the heat.

Such problems can be easily alleviated by central air conditioning, the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out.

Pollen and other impurities are filtered out and the air is dehumidified and cooled at the same time.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank all our relatives, friends and neighbors for all their good deeds, kindness, floral offerings and masses during the long illness and death of our beloved daddy, Archie Roux. Also thanks to the doctors, nurses at Andersons Hospital in Port Arthur. Also for the nice sermon that was given at the funeral. Everyone has our everlasting gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Roux, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bertrand, Connon, Raymond, Russell and Phillip

A few consumer items with "built-in maid service" acutally cost less in their processed form. One study showed that frozen orange juice, canned or frozen lima beans cost less in a package.

To be officially labeled peanut butter, a product must be at least 90 per cent peanuts. Other ingredients such as stabilizers and seasonings cannot exceed 10 per cent.

Having a small washable rug at the door where children enter with muddy shoes is a labor saver. It is also helpful to have an extra small rug to serve as "parking lot" for boots. The rugs can be machine washed as often as needed.

SHOWN CUTTING the last few feet of beach to open up a new mouth for the Mermentau river last week was the dredge "Shamrock."

New Mermentau channel opened

The dredge "Shamrock" cut through the last yards of beach before dawn Sunday to open up a new channel for the Mermentau river into the Gulf of Mexico near Grand Chenier.

Some water was flowing through the new channel this week and by July or August most of the Mermentau waters will flow through the new channel.

The new channel, plus the construction of a rock jetty system cut into the Gulf, is a part of the $1 million Mermentau river improvement project being carried out by the East Cameron Harbor & Terminal District.

When completed, tug and barge traffic will be able to enter the Mermentau from the Gulf and proceed up the river to Grand Chenier, the Intracoastal Canal on Lake Arthur.

In addition to opening the river up to traffic, the new channel will provide better drainage for thousands of acres of grazing and marsh land in Cameron parish.

Kingfisher Marine, Inc. of Port Lavaca, Texas has the contract for the dredging.

Another firm is presently picking up the old granite jetty stones that put down in 1875 to create a channel for the Calcasieu river through Calcasieu lake. When the new Lake Charles ship channel was constructed later, this jetty was no longer needed. These stones now will be used in constructed the new Mermentau jetties.

Compressor plant to be enlarged

Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America has announced plans to add 11,500 total horsepower to two compressor stations on its Louisiana supply line to help transport gas recently acquired in several offshore drilling agreements.

Natural, a subsidiary of Peoples Gas Company of Chicago, has asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to install two 4000-horsepower reciprocating-type engines at its Devers, Tex., compressor station, and a 3500-horsepower turbine at its Johnson Bayou, La., station.

The additional horsepower will enable Natural to handle gas produced under agreements with Chevron Oil Company, with a group of three producers headed by Shelly Oil Company and with Shell Oil Company. Added capacity also would help the company transport gas obtained in future purchases from other onshore and offshore sources in the area.

Built in 1965, the Johnson Bayou's compressor station is Natural's only station on "stilts" -- elevated on a concrete platform to protect it from tropical storms. It currently houses three 1040-horsepower turbines; upon completion of the proposed construction it will have a total horsepower of about 6600. The station is located about 30 miles west of Cameron, La.

Mother of five to be among the graduates

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

A burning desire to have her picture included on the wall of her mother's home has led to the high school graduation of a 37 year old Cameron woman, Mrs. Phalia Saltzman.

Mrs. Saltzman was one of seven children, reared and educated in Gueydan. She said that of the seven, five had graduated from the Gueydan high school and had their pictures taken in their graduation gowns. The mother, Mrs. Alice Nolan of Gueydan, had hung each 8 x 10 picture on her wall. Mrs. Saltzman had quit school before she graduated and could not be included in the picture gallery. Her secret desire to be included in the group led her to go back to school in October 1970, after being out of school for 20 years, and study for her diploma in the Adult Education classes of South Cameron High School.

Mrs. Saltzman admits that it was not an easy thing to do, but her driving ambition led her to complete her course, under the teacher Orie Cantk of Grand Chenier. The classes met twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday nights, at South Cameron High School.

Mrs. Saltzman is glad that she can graduate from South Cameron High School before her children do. She has five, ages 16, 13, 9, 7 and 5 and another one due in July. Her husband, who is owner of the Saltzman-Gorden Welding Service in Cameron is as proud as the children of Mrs. Saltzman's achievement.

She had her picture taken in her graduation gown this week and will receive her diploma next week from McNeese State University. Her picture will then go up on the wall of her mother's home in Gueydan along with the other five.

Ambulance service to be discontinued here

O'Donnell Funeral Home, which has operated the only ambulance service in Cameron parish for the past 32 years, announced this week that it will discontinue the service as of midnight, July 1.

Joe O'Donnell, owner of the funeral home, said that due to new federal regulations he has no alternative but to terminate the service.

O'Donnell said that funeral homes in Calcasieu and Beauregard parishes discontinued ambulance service this month and that most of the funeral homes in Louisiana and throughout the nation were having to get out of the business.

New federal regulation require that ambulances be operated by two men, one the driver and the other qualified to administer first aid, oxygen and other emergency procedures.

In addition, these men now come under the wage and hour law, which requires a minimum wage, eight hour shifts, etc. These requirements make it impossible for most funeral homes to continue in the ambulance business, O'Donnell said.

O'Donnell said he had sent letters to the Cameron parish police jury, local doctors and the South Cameron Memorial Hospital advising them of the discontinuing of the service.

It is expected that the police jury will seek some means of providing ambulance service for the parish. Various plans for operating of an ambulance by the hospital, sheriff's department, fire department and others probably will be considered.

O'Donnell said that he appreciated ambulance business that the people of the parish had given him over the years and that he was sorry that he was having to get out of the business.

He will continue to operate his funeral home as usual.

Dates announced for fishing rodeo

It's that time of the year again, deep sea fishing rodeo time, that is, so you'd better start planning now for one of this area's leading outdoors event.

Sonny Hackett, president of the 1971 Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, has announced the dates of July 2-3-4 for the big annual affair headquartered in Cameron.

Hackett said there would be some important rule changes this year and advised all contestants to become familiar with them when they are published in detail in the rodeo program to be available early in June.

Again this year, Hackett said, the rodeo will feature a beautiful, fully self-contained, 17-foot travel trailer as the grand prize. This year's prize is air conditioned and comes with all features normally wanted in a travel trailer, he said.

Rodeo headquarters will again locate at Pete Henry's pier in Cameron and will be under the direction of veteran rodeo judge J. Marshall Smith.

Within several weeks, Hackett said, official rodeo registration forms will be available for contestants at all local and area sporting goods dealers. Hackett reminded that all contestants should be sure and register prior to starting their competition.

Hackett said fishing offshore from Cameron had been rather dull for several weeks, but lately, the tempo has picked up and good catches are starting to come in.

Rigs in the Oil City area have been producing nice red mapper catches and some are scoring with king mackerel and large cobia.

No catches have been reported but some of the menhaden spotter pilots have confided that they have seen some small schools of tarpon southeast of Cameron.

School is given concert tickets

For the 5th year, Cameron businesses have donated Community Concert tickets to the Cameron Elementary School, according to Principal William O. Morris. The ten season tickets will enable 50 students to attend the concerts held in Lake Charles.

Each ticket represents five performances. Two Cameron Elementary teachers, Lawrence Rhorer and Mrs. Larry Dyson, accompany the students, who are selected through the chorus group of the school. Morris said it is hoped that through the concerts the students will learn more of music appreciation.

Trailer burns at Cameron

A trailer home belonging to Martha January in the Penhoff subdivision at Cameron was completely destroyed by fire last week, according to Ray Burleigh Chief of the Cameron volunteer fire department.

The fire started from a hot water heater which exploded.

FORESTS SUPPLY CLEAN WATER

America's forest lands receive, store, and make available about 60 percent of our country's total water supply, according to the Southern Forest Institute. It is estimated that woodlands owned by the nation's forest industries (pulp and paper, lumber, plywood, etc.) generate six times more water than those same industries use in all of their operations combined.

MANY PRODUCTS MADE FROM WOOD

Southern Forest Institute reports a list of products derived from trees ranging from acids to zithers. A few of the more unusual include: Baking yeast, bleach, bubble gum, cattle feed, dietetic foods, fingernail polish, ice cream, linoleum, medicine, photographs, plastics, perfume, root beer, shoe heels, rayon for tires, turpentine, weather balloons, xylophone keys, and even zippers.

FREE! THE STORY OF PAUL VI
Vicar of Christ- The Pilgrim Pope

From St. Peter to Pope John XXIII, of course, the Papacy has played a historic role in human affairs.

But never before has a Pontiff of the Church stirred the imagination and interest of the whole wide world as does the present Pope — Paul VI.

He is the first Pope since St. Peter to return to the Holy Land — to the sites made sacred by the life and passion of Jesus. The first in 525 years to meet personally with a Patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church . . . the first ever to visit India . . . the first to set foot on the soil of the United States.

Even more historic, however, is the Holy Father's apostolate for spiritual unity and good-will among all the followers of Jesus Christ . . . and for renewal within Christ's Church to meet the challenges of the modern world. Leaders of all faiths are aware, of course, of the Holy Father's aims and his dedication to this great Christian cause. But the rank and file of all Christians should similarly understand . . . and we've put a thumb-nail story of Pope Paul into a free pamphlet you can read in a matter of minutes.

It is the story not only of Paul the priest, the Cardinal and finally the Pope, but of the world-wide society of the faithful over which he presides as the Vicar of Christ, the successor of Peter, "the servant of the servants of God."

Although his predecessor, Pope John XXIII, instituted the move for Christian unity, this little story reports the dedication of Pope Paul to the same purpose in these words voiced before he became Pope: "The first action of the apostle must be that of presenting to the world an admirable, attractive Christianity. The first testimony will be that of our unity, our mutual love, our interior cohesion. The second will be that we love those whom we wish to evangelize . . . It is not a conquest but a service."

Whatever your church affiliation may be . . . and even if you belong to no church at all . . . the quest for Christian unity will affect your world, your life, your family. And you should be interested in what Paul VI — the Vicar of Christ — is doing about it. Write today for our free pamphlet No. KC-40. It will be sent promptly, without obligation. And nobody will call on you.

Brown pelican nests found at Grand Terre

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, today announced the first successful nesting of Brown pelicans in Louisiana in more than a decade.

According to Hoffpauer, 13 nests containing 20 eggs were located precariously perched on a small shell island in Barataria Bay, near the Commission's research laboratory at Grand Terre. These birds are a direct result of a restocking program carried out by the Commission's Refuge Division.

Pouplations of Brown pelicans have declined drastically in North America during the 1960's, with Louisiana's last recorded nesting effort in 1961. Because of this rapid decline a meeting was held in the spring of 1968 at the Commission-owned Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge to determine the past and present population trends of Brown pelicans and to investigate the possibility of re-establishing a resident colony in Louisiana.

As an outgrowth of this meeting plans were made to secure 50 birds from Florida for release in Louisiana. These plans became a reality in September, 1968, when 25 banded pelicans were set free at Grand Terre and again in October with a release of 21 birds at Rockefeller Refuge in Grand Chenier.

After a mysterious die-off of the Rockefeller pelicans, which was later attributed to cholorinated hydrocarbons such as DDT, other releases were again made, with a total of 196 birds being released, of which 150 were released at Grand Terre.

Nesting was first reported in March of this year by the personnel of the Grand Terre Marine Laboratory. To date there have been nine hatchings from the 20 eggs.

Although the fate of the Brown pelican is still inconclusive, it is hoped that enough knowledge can be gained from these hatchings to insure against the threat of extinction to this species.

Bids asked on facility

Charles S. Hackett, Cameron-Calcasieu ASCS County Executive Director announced a forthcoming sale of a facility acquired under the Farm Storage and Drying Equipment Loan Program which might be of interest to area farmers. The facility is located in Morehouse Parish on the N. W. Sherwood farm, which is eleven miles east of Mer Rouge, Louisiana, off Highway 2 in the section of the parish known as "Little Missouri."

Approximately 1 acre of land is offered in the sale with storage bins and equipment. The sale will go to the highest bidder and the property may be inspected by anyone interested in buying.

Hackett said that bid forms are available in either the Cameron or the Calcasieu offices located in the Cameron Courthouse and the Federal Building in Lake Charles, respectively. Bids will be opened in the Louisiana State ASCS office in Alexandria, La., at 2 p.m. on Friday, June 4, 1971.

Hurricane season just around corner

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

From a vantage point in space they seem quite small, flat spirals drifting on the sea. But where their drift takes them across shipping lanes and islands, and the coasts of continents, their passage is commemorated by property destroyed, prospects diminished and death.

They are tropical children, the offspring of ocean and atmosphere, powered by heat from the sea, driven by the easterly trade winds and temperate westerlies, the high planetary winds and their own fierce energy.

In their cloudy arms and around their tranquil core, winds blow with lethal velocity, the ocean develops an inundating surge, and as they move toward land, tornadoes now and then flutter down from the advancing wall of thunderclouds.

Their broad spiral base may dominate weather over thousands of square miles. Their winds may reach 200 miles per hour, and their lifespan is measured in days or weeks, not minutes or hours. No other atmospheric disturbance combines duration, size and violence more destructively.

As they occur in different oceas and hemispheres, they bear names given locally: bagulo in the Philippines, cyclone in the Indian Ocean, typhoon in the Pacific. In our hemisphere, the name is hurricane - the greatest storm on earth.

Even though she is named for a lady, the name is deceiving - she is no lady. Hurricanes have been given ladies names since 1953. In 1960 a semi-permanent list of four sets of names in alphabetical order was introduced. After four years, when the four sets have been used, the sets are used over again in the same manner.

If a major hurricane seriously affects the United States, the name assigned to it is "retired" for 10 years and another name is substituted in the list.

The list of 1971 hurricanes has been released by the National Hurricane Center - ESSA (Environmental Science Services Administration) in Miami, Fla. They are: Arlene, Beth, Choloe, Doris, Edith, Fern, Ginger, Heidi, Irene, Janice, Kristy, Laura, Margo, Nona, Orchid, Portia, Rachel, Sandra, Teresa, Vernna and Wallis.

Along our Gulf Coast the normal hurricane season is from June through November. Early in the season, the Carribean and Gulf of Mexico are the principle areas of origin; in July and August, this center shifts eastward and by September spreads from the Bahamas southeastward to the Lesser Antilles and eastward to the Cape Verde Islands off the west coast of Africa. After mid-September, principle areas of origin shift back to the western Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico.

If this is an average year, there will be fewer than 10 tropical cyclones, of which about six will develop into hurricanes. These will kill 50 or 100 persons between Texas and Maine and cause property damage of more than $100 million. If it is a worse-than-average year, we will suffer several hundred deaths, and property damage will run to billions of dollars.

As the hurricane season nears, the people of Cameron parish, who will forever bear the scars of Hurricane Audrey of 1957, brace themselves for a "watch". For them, this lasts the whole season for there has been but one year, since the fateful '57 storm that they have not had to evacuate their homes and flee northward to higher ground when the threat of a hurricane moved their way.

This did not mean the hurricanes came in there, but the ever cautious populas are not taking any chances when the threat is near.

From the moment an easterly wave (a westward-moving trough of low pressure embedded in the deep easterly current) develops or a low pressure forms in in the Caribbean or Gulf of Mexico every eye in Cameron Parish is upon it. The local Civil Defense organization, under the able leadership of the director Roland Trosclair is also alerted.

The disturbance is kept under surveillance and is tracked on charts. The local base of operations is the historic Cameron courthouse. The well organized local unit has constant radio contact with all areas of the parish as well as the Lake Charles Civil Defense headquarters and contacts all up and down the Gulf Coast.

Members of Cameron's Civil Defense man their pots as soon as the hurricane becomes a threat locally and do not leave until all danger is past. If the danger is eminent and it looks as though the hurricane will come ashore in the vicinity of the parish, a meeting of parish leaders is called in the courthouse and a decision is made whether or not to call for an evacuation. If one is made, every resident is given the warnings to leave.

Most householders do not wait for the decision to be made, they know far in advance, themselves, for each household is a virtual weather station. Standard items in most houses are barometers, thermomemters, wind and water guages and radios and TV sets. There are also many short wave sets. Weather jargon, such as easterly waves, high pressure areas, troughs, barometric readings, etc. are standard words in the "Cameronite's" everyday language.

These hardy coastal people are determined that they will never be caught napping again. They will leave for higher ground when the hurricane approaches, but they will not go far, for they will return to their homes as soon as possible, hoping against hope, that they have been spared another time.

The Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe has again called the public's attention to the fact that it does not send out any magazine salesmen. Reports reach the Home from time to time that some young people selling magazine subscriptions in the state give would-be customers the impression that they are from the Home.

Wool vote set for June 7-18

Charles S. Hackett, Cameron-Calcasieu county executive director, announced that word has just been received in the parish ASCS offices that a referendum for wool and lamb producers will be held to approve or disapprove a new agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council Inc.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced the mail referendum being held June 7 - 18 will determine if the subject producers will approve or disapprove the agreement which provides for the Secretary to withhold a part of each wool payment on 1971-73 marketings. The payment deductions would be used by the Council to finance advertising and promotion programs for wool and lamb.

Vaccinate horses now

Dr. F. B. Wheeler, State Veterinarian, Louisiana Livestock Sanitary Board and Dr. Forrest E. Henderson, Veterinarian in Charge, Animal Health Division, ARS, USDA, urge horse owners to have their animals vaccinated against encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness) as an early case has been reported in the vicinity of New Iberia.

Sleeping sickness in horses usually occurs each year; therefore, annual vaccination is routinely recommended.

The bivalent type vaccine should be used as both Eastern and Western types viruses have been responsible for horse losses in the past. Vaccination should not be delayed since immunity depends on two intradermal injections of vaccine seven to ten days apart, and an additional seven days after the last shot is required for adequate protection to develop.

Vaccination given under the skin rather than between the layers of skin loses nine-thenths of its immunity producing potential. Animals vaccinated under the skin will probably not have adequate immunity to protect against exposure. For this reason, livestock owners should have their local veterinarian give the injections.

Louisiana horse owners are asked not to wait until the disease occurs in an area to vaccinate as the animals will not have time to develop protection before exposure.

REAP practice makes land usefull again

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Alverd Duhon, a Hackberry farmer and cattleman is singing the praises of one of the REAP practices being carried out through the cost-sharing of the U. S. Department of Agriculture through the local ASCS office.

In 1970 Duhon had a 40 acre tract of rangeland that was almost completely covered with mounds of Cherokee Rose bushes higher than a man's head. The spreading roses rendered the field practically unless for grazing purposes, or anything else for that matter. Duhon applied for government assistance in the local ASCS office, which pays for one half the cost of clearing the undesirable shrubs, up to $10 per acre.

To be eligible for the assistance a representative of the local ASCS county committee must determine that the practice is needed. It must be performed in accordance with sound grassland management principles. Where the control of competitive shrubs will reduce the vegetative cover to such an extent as to induce erosion, the practice must be followed by seeding as soon as practical.

Control measures may consist of pulling, grubbing, pushing out, applying chemicals, or otherwise killing the plants by methods approved by the county committee.

Where control is by use of chemicals, ordinarily one treatment a year by the following formula is sufficient: 1 gallon 2-4-D, 10 gallons diesel fuel, 1 box soap detergent, and 39 gallons water. The amount of pounds for each treatment depends upon the density of the growth.

Duhon chose to bulldoze his cherokee roses, using two tractors and a bulldozer. It took 12 days to clear the 40 acre tract.

The total cost was $812, with the government, through the ACP program (now called REAP) paying $400.

With the added grazing on the improved pasture Duhon will realize an approximate increase of $1876 per year. This is figured on the basis of a cow and calf at the time of sale. Before the improvement approximately 6600 pounds of beef could be raised on the ground, at an approximate value of $1648 per year.

After the control measures were established Duhon is able to graze 13,000 pounds of beef at an approximate value of $3,724 per year. So in one year's time the increase forage has more than paid for the cost of carrying out the practice.

For further information on this and other REAP practices, farmers in Cameron and Calcasieu parishes can contact the Cameron ASCS office in the Cameron Courthouse Building, or the Calcasieu ASCS office in the Federal Building in Lake Charles.

Government urged to permit escape route thru refuge

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The people of lower Cameron Parish are deeply distressed to learn that the Department of Interior is opposed to the Cameron to Lake Charles hurricane evacuation route proposed to be built along the east side of Calcasieu Lake through the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge.

They have organized a letter writing campaign to the Secretary of the Interior, the Congressional delegation in Washington the Fish and Wildlife Service, and other interested parties letting them know the feelings of the people here.

With the hurricane season approaching, the Cameron parish population cannot understand why the U. S. Department of the Interior is favoring wildlife over human lives in their objection to the construction of an evacuation route through the Sabine Refuge.

J. P. Landuska, acting director of the U. S. Department of the Interior stated in a letter:

"While we are anxious to cooperate in the establishment of a new hurricane escape route, we must protect the important wildlife and ecological values of the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge.

"In our opinion, the construction of this road would drastically alter the ecology of the marsh and reduce its carrying capacity for waterfowl and other birds. It would also damage the habitat for a variety of other animal life, including alligators, muskrats, shrimp, and various estuarine fish.

"The Bureau believes that state highway 21 provides a reasonably alternate route, and improvement of this highway from Creole northward would appear to be the most logical solution."

The question is asked why should this road be more harmful to wildlife than the road from Cameron to Hackberry which cuts through the Refuge for 8-1/2 miles. Apparently it hadn't disturbed the wildlife. Alligators can be seen leisurely swimming in the bar ditches on the side of the roads at almost any time.

The suggestion of everyone following Louisiana 27 through Creole isn't much comfort to the people in the town of Cameron. The road from Cameron to Creole runs parallel to the Gulf for a stretch of about 15 miles. Many of the 529 who lost their lives in 1957 in Hurricane Audrey could have been saved if they could have escaped through a northern route away from the treacherous Gulf. The water had come over the highway between Cameron and Creole and trapped them.

When a hurricane evacuation alert comes, traffic on Louisiana 27 becomes bumper-to-bumper with cars, trailers, moving vans, ambulances, tractors, trailer houses and farm equipment. People leaving out try to salvage as many of their personal possessions as they can. They make many trips in and out, so the traffic coming into the parish from the north, choles the escape route to only one lane. The narrow shoulders prevent the pulling off of disabled vehicles from the highway.

Some persons to whom you can write to express your opinion are: Roger C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, Washington D.C. 20240; Senator Russel B. Long, Senator Allen J. Ellender, and Representative Edwin W. Edwards, Washington D.C. 20240, and the President of the United States, White House, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Write and let the "powers that be" know that we are asking in the name of humanity for the decision to be reversed and permit the building of the hurricane evacuation route though the refuge.

Florida bass released here

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, announced the commission had undertaken a cooperative research project comparing the native Louisiana largemouth bass with its larger sized Florida sub-species, which commonly run from 15 to 20 pounds.

"The purpose of the super bass project is to carefully screen the new species before open releases are made," stated Hoffpauer. "A newly introduced species has to be evaluated as to the effect on our resident fish population. In an aquatic environment this would involve your predator prey relationships or food chain cycles, as in a bass-bluegill pond. We are not only concered with the possibility of disrupting existing balances, but the introduction of new diseases or parasites has to be considered. Also introduction on a scale large enough to fill the request of pond owners and maintenance of brood stock could be tremendously expensive, time consuming and possibly not justifiable," added Hoffpauer.

For these reasons fry and fingerling bass were flown to Louisiana from the Richloom Fish Hatchery, Webster, Fla., recently. They were placed in research ponds at the LaCombe Fish Hatchery, Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge and Louisiana State University. These three distinctly different types of habitat will lessen the chances of losing the study to threats of hurricanes or the like.

Calves asked to help build assoc. office

Glenn Vincent, district vice president of the Louisiana Cattlemen Association, spoke to a joint meeting of the directors of the Cameron Parish Farm Bureau and Cattleman Association last week at Fred's Restaurant in Cameron.

Vincent asked for donations of calves from the Parish Cattlemen Assn. members to help build an office for the Louisiana State Association. in Baton Rouge. He said that each parish had been given a goal and those parishes reaching theirs would be given a pair of cowboy boots.

A committee was formed to recruit donations. They are: Ernest Hamilton of Hackberry, P. H. Montie from Creole, Charles Bonsall from Grand Chenier and James Cox from Sweetlake.

The two organizations decided that in the future when a barbecue is held, those invited will be the immediate family, including the husband, wife and children living at home. All guests will be charged $1.50 a meal.

James Cox, Cattlemen president, discussed the use of farm license plates. He said that some farmers have reported being stopped and checked. Some vehicles are not being used within the prescribed law written regarding the use of the licenses, thus making it hard on the farmers, Cox said. He stressed that fact that it is illegal to use trucks with farm licenses for personal use.

A special guest at the meeting was Gene Whitler, of Lake Charles, who is head of the state rice advisory committee for the Louisiana Farm Bureau.

A resolution was also adopted to petition the Secretary of the Interior to reconsider his stand against the Cameron "Hurricane Route" going through the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge.

Sustaining memberships provide 27% of the Council operation budget. The goal of the council is to have, by December 31, 196, 9020 boys registered in scouting within the five parishes.

Robin will serve the council as swim instructor for six weeks this summer at Camp Edgewood. Cameron scouts interested in attending the Boy Scout Camp Edgewood may contact O'Neil Roberts, Scoutmaster, Troop 210, Cameron.

Edwards is an announced candidate for governor in this year's election.

Those attending from Cameron Parish were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Precht, Mr. and Mrs. Dupre Cuddy, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Ambulance study to be made by jurors

The Cameron police jury Monday agreed to study various plans for providing ambulance service for Cameron parish after O'Donnel Funeral Home discontinues its ambulance service on July 1.

Joe O'Donnell, funeral home owner, said he was having to get out of the ambulance business because of new federal regulations that will make the cost prohibitive.

A letter from Kenneth Hopper, administrator for the South Cameron Memorial Hospital was read, stating that if the hospital should take the service over that the cost for a three year trial would be $96, 000.

The jury reappointed Edison Mhire to the board of the Lower Cameron Hospital service district and Earl Domingue was renamed to the Hackberry recreation commission.

The body agreed to look into the possibility of securing insurance on the federal food stamps that it handles. The jury was informed that if the stamps were stolen, the jury would have to bear the loss.

Ray Stevens, commander of the American Legion, and Diel LaLande, parish service officer, reported they had had trouble in securing a color guard from Fort Polk for a military funeral. They jury adopted a resolution to send to Congressman Edwards asking that this service be made available when needed.

A certificate of appreciation from the Civil Defense agency was presented to Sonny McCall for his services as Cameron parish CD director from November, 1967.

New program set at library this summer

A new type of summer reading program is planned this year at the Cameron library, according to Mrs. Coral Perry, librarian. She said the emphasis this year will be more on doing than reading. It will be a summer experience for young people in conservation and good citizenship centered around reading and the general use of library resources and materials.

Young groups interested in ecology, such as 4-H Boy Scout, church, and others interested in ecology are urged to participate.

When participants sign up for the program they are given a project book entitled "Conserve America's Resources and Environment." They are asked to bring the book with them each time they visit the library.

Each time a library visit is made the book will be stamped. A participant must check out at least one piece of library material - a book, phamplet, etc. There will also be a required number of books to read, but a person will have to come only every six weeks.

Certain projects in the book must be fulfilled, such as watching a bird, squirrel, caterpiller, or some form of wildlife, and observing and reading about it; picking up litter, listing ways to stop pollution; and listing some form of conservation project being undertaken by organized groups.

Participants also are asked to tell what they got out of the program when it is finished. Good citizenship certificates will be awarded to those who complete the requirements for the project, Mrs. Perry said.

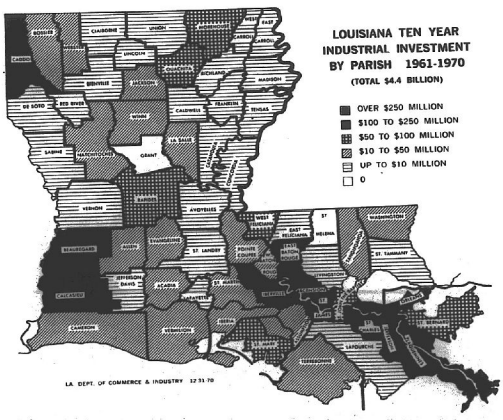
Parish industry grows

Cameron Parish was among 62 of the 64 parishes that shared in Louisiana's industrial and employment growth over the 10-year period ending December 31, 1970, the Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry reported this week.

Figures released by the Louisiana Commerce and Industry Department reveal that Cameron Parish gained $30, 560, 834 as a result of investment by new industry or expansion of existing industry over the past decade.

Commerce and Industry board chairman James R. Baker, Pineville, reports industrial investment during the past 10 years in Cameron Parish provided new permanent jobs for an estimated 383 persons in the parish.

Only jobs provided directly by manufacturing investment are recorded by the department, Baker pointed out. No record is maintained on additional employment for special services or work force expansions not accompanied by additional investment.



Ellender gives warning on flood insurance

Senator Allen J. Ellender warned this week that federal disaster assistance will not be available on property in coastal Louisiana which is eligible for federal flood insurance.

Ellender said he was extremely concerned about the poor response that has been given the flood insurance in the coastal areas that are subject to flooding during hurricanes.

Cameron parish, which was hard hit by Hurricane Audrey in 1957, is one of the areas of the state qualified for flood insurance.

A local insurance man said his firm had sold about 300 flood policies to Cameron residents with other insurance agencies probably having sold several hundred more. He said he believed that the Cameron coverage was good.

However, he pointed out to home owners and business people who have not purchased flood insurance that there is a 15 day waiting period. To wait until a hurricane was found in the gulf to take out the insurance would be too late, he said.

Ellender's statement is as follows:

"With the hurricane season approaching again, I am extremely concerned about the many Louisiana people who have not bought federal flood insurance.

"The Federal Insurance Administration advised me this week that only 17,000 flood policies have been sold in Louisiana since the program started two years ago. This is about one fourth of the total number of policies sold around the nation. As the insurance administrator said this week, the reaction to this new program has been apathetic.

"Practically all of South Louisiana is subject to hurricane flood damage. More than a million people are under such threat. Yet only 17-thousand policies have been sold. I realize that there have been some problems involved in this program...and that some people have waited to buy policies until after the problems are cleared up.

"However, the insurance administrator issued a reminder this past week that federal disaster assistance will not be available on that part of the property which is eligible for federal flood insurance. This is a very serious warning.

"In other words, if your property is eligible for flood insurance and you do not buy it, then you will not be able to get federal disaster assistance on that particular piece of property after a major hurricane. There are few exceptions to this section of the law. They concern mostly low income families. I remember there was a great outcry for federal flood insurance after Hurricane Betsy struck Louisiana. Your Louisiana delegation worked hard to obtain this new program. I would hate to see our state hit by another major hurricane when only 17,000 families are covered by federal flood insurance."

"Statistics provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development show that only 8200 policies have been sold in New Orleans ... about 5300 in Jefferson Parish ... about 2400 in St. Bernard Parish ... only 318 in Terrebonne Parish ... only 216 in Lafourche Parish ... and only 12 in St. Tammany Parish, which was so hard hit by Hurricane Camille.

Arrests made by deputies

Two sets of unusual arrests were made by Cameron parish deputies this past week.

Two women and a man from Lake Charles were charged with shoplifting about $200 worth of clothes from Cameron Clothing Store. Deputies Riley Richard and Paul Boudreaux made the arrests.

Four young men from the Lafayette area were charged with indecent exposure after they were seen in the Creole area riding in a car with no clothes on. Deputies Gene Constance and Allen Hinton made the arrests.

Reading program

Mrs. Coral Perry, Cameron Parish Librarian, announced that a statewide summer reading program for physically handicapped and blind children, ages 6 to 14, has been launched for the second year by the State Library in Baton Rouge.

Any child who is temporarily or permanently unable to handle a regular book can listen to his favorite book or magazine on records, tapes and cassettes, and participate in the Summer Reading Cruise sponsored by the State Library June 15 - Aug. 15.

Grass tetany causes cattle deaths

By CLIFFORD MYERS

RICE WATER WEEVILS - The rice water weevil appears to be with us again this year. The adults have been feeding on the rice leaves during the last three weeks or so. Where treatment is required, apply furdan at the rate of 1/2 lb. of technical material per acre. Example, if a 3% sand core granule is used, you would need to apply 18 lbs. of it per acre. Do not apply later than 7 days following permanent flood nor within 48 hours after propanil.

Do not apply propanil after furdan has been applied. Also, do not apply more than one application per season. Furdan will also control the dark rice field mosquito if applied one day prior to - to four days after permanent flood.

ARMYWORMS IN RICE - Flooding is effective for armyworm control if plants are sufficiently developed.

GRAIN SORGHUM - In spite of the dry and cool weather conditions, the grain sorgium in the parish appears to be doing well. There have been cases where aphids were found on the leaves, however, the beneficial insects such as the lady beetle are destroying them. This is another example of how beneficial insects will do a better job than chemicals, thereby eliminating extra expense and putting chemicals in the air.

This is in no way to condemn chemicals as we need all of them, including the controversial DDT. However, I am saying that we must learn to use the right chemical at the right time on the right plant or animal. When all of the present chemicals on the market are treated in such a manner, then they all become perfectly safe. Remember! Read the label and heed to all precautions.

GRASS TETANY - This disease killed more cows in Louisiana this past winter than all diseases combined. It is caused by an improper balance of nutrients in the soil, namely: potassium and magnesium. It is primarily a disease of older cows nursing calves up to three months. Next are springers, bulls, and yearlings in that order but not common in these animals. Cows are found dead but may be trembling, staggering, very excitable and fall when they run. Death is usually within 12 hours.

Anyone losing cattle on fertilized pasture this past season and do not seem to know the cause of it are asked to submit soil samples for analysis so as to determine if it was caused by the im-balance of potassium and magnesium. Excess potash will surpress the uptake of magnesium by the plant even if there is a very large amount of magnesium in the soil.

Therefore, grass tetany is simply a deficiency of magnesium in the forage caused by applying excess potash. Also, a low soil pH will give the same effects. Soil samples are analyzed at no charge at the LSU soil laboratory. Just let me know and I will be happy to assist you in collecting your samples.

WHAT'S SO SPECIAL about a simple electric meter?

Nothing really, except that just a few years ago, hardly anyone living in rural Louisiana had ever seen an electric meter because commercial power companies figured it would be unprofitable to extend electric service to sparsely-settled rural areas.

Not to be denied, however, hard-working farmers and other visionary rural leaders labored feverishly at the grassroots level to establish 13 Rural Electric Cooperatives to supply themselves with electric service to mechanize their chores and bring the comforts and conveniences of city life to their homes.

Operating in 54 parishes, these tax-paying rural electric systems stand tall as glowing examples of democracy in action—people planning together, working together . . . for themselves, their families, neighbors, friends . . . for their communities . . . and their entire state.

The results speak for themselves:

● Before the Electric Co-ops were established, less than 2 per cent of our rural people had electricity; today, just 30 years later, the figure is better than 99 per cent.

● The Rural Electrics have built over 30,000 miles of lines to bring essential electric service to nearly 500,000 people in rural Louisiana.

● The Rural Electrics offer rates and services comparable to those in the cities, making electric power available to any home, farm, business or industry that needs it, thus paving the way for rural development and an expanding economy, beneficial to both town and country.

● Of special significance, the Rural Electrics are owned and controlled by the people . . . the people they serve . . . with each member having an equal vote in the affairs of his system.

Democracy in action?

You bet . . . In the finest sense!

Stevens rites held at L. A.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. F. Stevens, 80, of Lake Arthur, were held there at 4 p. m., Thursday, May 27, in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Lester Nance, pastor, officiating.

Eastern Star graveside rites followed in Lakeview Cemetery. Members of Live Oak Lodge No. 346, F. and A. M., served as pallbearers.

Mrs. Stevens died in a Jennings nursing home after a long illness.

She was the former Corinne Sweeney, a native of Grand Chenier. She was born Aug. 3, 1890, daughter of George Carter Sweeney and Aurelia Miller Sweeney. Her grandparents on both sides were pioneer settlers in Grand Chenier.

Mrs. Stevens had lived in Lake Arthur for the past 50 years save for 1935-1944, when her husband's position with the S. P. Railroad Co. caused them to transfer to Sulphur.

Mrs. Stevens was a member of the United Methodist Church, the Kinslow Bible Class, and the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Through her efforts the Lake Arthur Chapter No. 144, Order of the Eastern Star, was formed. She served as its first worthy matron. In 1967, her chapter honored her on her 50th anniversary of membership by dedicating to her a special program, "This Is Your Life, Corinne Stevens."

As a member of the Woman's Library Club, she early served as librarian of the Lake Arthur Public Library. She was an honorary member of the club at the time of her death.

Mrs. Stevens is survived by one son, James Stevens of Lake Arthur; eight grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. She leaves a host of relatives and friends in Cameron Parish.

News article tells about Gwen Neugent

The Galveston Daily News of May 9 carried a story about Mrs. Dean (Gwen Nunez) Neugent in its County Personality Profile section and dealt with the many activities of this busy woman.

Mrs. Neugent is the daughter of the late Sebastian Nunez, a native of Grand Chenier, who was killed in the Texas City disaster. Beatrice Nunez was her grandfather.

Mrs. Neugent is president of the Dickinson (Texas) Chamber of Commerce, wife of a state representative, member of the Weed 'N Wish Garden Club and because of these is involved in more activities than most people.

"I'm just doing my thing and having a good time at it. I enjoy everything I do," was her summation of her involvement in so many things.

She is the only woman president the Dickinson Chamber has ever had; she and a woman in Thornton are the only woman presidents listed in a directory of East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Because of her husband's position as representative she has met some "marvelous people" and made some "wonderful friends." One of her biggest thrills was a trip to the LBJ Ranch when a group was personally escorted over the ranch by the former president.

Of her work Mrs. Neugent says, "I feel like a woman has to stay a woman and keep her femininity but at the same time be able to do the job."

Color schemes

Parish farmers urged to buy flood insurance

Francis Klein, Chairman of the Cameron Parish USDA County Defense Board has issued an urgent message to Cameron Parish farmers and other rural residents of Cameron Parish this week.

Klein said that the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 specifies that anyone who does not buy flood insurance in a community which is eligible will not receive Federal financial disaster aid for flood losses that occur after one year from the date a community or county becomes eligible to the extent that loss could have been covered by flood insurance. For the parish of Cameron, the year expires on June 15, 1971.

The National Flood Insurance Program operated by the Federal Insurance Administration in the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development provides for the sale of limited amounts of flood insurance to owners of certain types of property in eligible communities.

Flood insurance on homes is made available by means of a Federal subsidy and may be obtained from local property and casualty insurance agents and brokers.

Flood insurance in eligible communities is available to the owners of one to four family, residential dwellings, small non-farm business properties and the contents of both in amounts up to $17,500 for single family homes and up to $30,000 for two to four family homes and small business. Contents coverage is available in amounts up to $5,000 per dwelling unit.

The subsidized rates vary from 40 cents to 70 cents per $100 of insurance on the structure and between 50 cents and $1 per $100 of coverage on the contents depending on the type and value of each structure.

Flood insurance policies become effective following a 15 day waiting period.

Klein said he is very concerned that not everyone in Cameron Parish who is eligible has taken advantage of the insurance. He also pointed out that until a hurricane is in the Gulf [illegible] because of the 15-day waiting period before it becomes eligible for coverage.

Crackdown on DWI under way

A crackdown on DWI violators has been announced by Cameron Sheriff Claude Eagleson. Eagleson said that 14 persons were arrested for DWI in May and that six have already been arrested this month.

Each person picked up is given an intoximeter test. There are six qualified operators of the intoximeter in the Sheriff's department, Eagleson said.

Planning begun for 1972 fur festival

Jennings B. Jones Jr., who has served as president of the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival since 1967, was unanimously re-elected for another year at a meeting of the festival's board of directors Thursday night at the Rockefeller Refuge at Grand Chenier.

Elected to serve with Jones are: A. J. Howard, Wilmer Smith and Ray Dinas, vice-presidents; Mrs. D. W. Griffith, secretary; and Garner Nunes, treasurer.

75 people were in attendance and enjoyed a supper following the business meeting.

Police jury members W. F. "Frankie" Henry Jr., Lyle Crain, Horace Mhire and Charlie Precht congratulated the board on the success of the festival and how well all organizations in the parish work together on the festival.

Jones congratulated Wilmer Smith on the fine job he did this past year putting the Festival Book together. Jones explained that this was a new project being tried, using local recipes, pictures and a different format. It was such a huge success it will be carried on in future festivals.

The board of directors voted to sponsor a float in the Sugar Bowl parade which will be held in New Orleans on New Year's Day 1972. Miss Cherie Griffith, the reigning Louisiana Fur Queen will ride on the float and will represent the festival in the Sugar Bowl Queen contest.

The directors decided on how to choose the industry and king to be honored at the 1972 Festival, which will be held the second weekend in January. Each year a different Cameron Parish industry is chosen to be honored by the festival. From that industry a "King Fur IV" will be chosen. The menhaden industry was the first industry honored with Jack Styron reigning as "King Fur I", the Fur industry was next and Alvin Dyson was "King Fur II", the cattle industry was honored this year and Mark Richard is the reigning "King Fur III".

The committee, which will poll the board of directors to choose the industry and king, is composed of W. F. Henry, Jr., chairman, and Lyle Crain, Ward Fontenot, Louis Ganik, Jack Moore, Johnny Boudoin, Pat Doland, and the presidents of the Cameron Parish Home Demonstration Clubs.

Jones asked all of the organizations who helped out on the last fur festival if they were willing to assume the same responsibilities in the next festival and they all agreed to do so.

Ward Fontenot asked that the board move one of the contests, the muskrat skinning contest, inside. Fontenot explained that this is one of the main contests during the festival and this year will be especially important, since the world champion fur skinner J. A. Miller from Cameron will be defending his title.

The board agreed that it should be held on stage during the Saturday night program. Fontenot explained that this is the way the contest is handled at the National Outdoor Show in Cambridge, Maryland.

Jean Henry, past district governor of the Lions Club will be the guest speaker at the Cameron Lions Club ladies night Wednesday, June 16, at 7 p.m. at Fred's Restaurant in Cameron, according to A. J. Howard, president.

Ed Kelly is chairman of the event.

Youth charged in hit & run

A 17-year-old Kaplan youth was charged with hit and run and negligent injury following an incident Saturday morning when a 9-year-old Port Neches girl was struck by a car driven by the youth.

State Trooper John Prescott said that a Volkswagen driven by Jenues Abshire struck Lisa Lancaster as she was running along the beach. The little girl was knocked down and suffered deep lacerations on her left knee.

The car did not stop and it and the driver were later found at a camp on the beach and identified with the help of two of the girl's brothers who saw the incident.

Aiding Trooper Prescott with the investigation was Deputy Paul Boudreaux.

Cal-Cam district voted by committee

A committee of the Louisiana House of Representatives last week voted 806 to keep Cameron and Calcasieu parishes in the same representative district, but there was some fear this week that the senate might decide to stay with its earlier decision to link Cameron with Jeff Davis with one representative.

Calcasieu and Cameron have had five representatives, but population losses reduced that to four. Since Jeff Davis Parish lacked population to justify one full representative, the joint committee and the Senate agreed to put Cameron in the Jeff Davis district. Calcasieu would have had four representatives in a district by itself.

Some members of the committee and the AFL-CIO objected to keeping Cameron with Calcasieu, with four representatives, because of the population deviations.

Jeff Davis by itself has a 14.8 per cent deviation under the norm. Calcasieu and Cameron together are 10 per cent over the norm.

Rep. William McLeod of Lake Charles was spokesman for the Calcasieu-Cameron legislative delegation, which he said unanimously supported keeping the parishes together.

McLeod said a recent court decision on reapportionment in Mississippi allows large deviations if they are brought about by a rational basis. Here is the rational basis he cited for allowing the deviations:

There are no roads connecting Cameron and Jeff Davis parishes. Motorists have to drive through Calcasieu or Vermilion to get from Jeff Davis to Cameron.

Both parishes are in the same judicial district.

"Economically and in every other way we are one; Cameron does not share the same thing with Jeff Davis," McLeod said.

Rep. Conway LeBleu of Cameron said this was a special problem area the court would approve. "Cameron and Calcasieu are always together, and there is very little common consideration between Jeff Davis and Cameron," LeBleu said.

LeBleu noted that keeping the parishes together would not affect reapportionment elsewhere in the state. He said Rep. Norman Ordoneaux of Jeff Davis supported keeping Cameron with Calcasieu.

"If you vote down this amendment, you're going to have to appropriate funds to provide me a mush buggy to get to Jeff Davis to politick," LeBleu told the committee.

Rep. Carl Bauer, a member of the joint reapportionment committee, said he was disturbed by the deviation factor, which he said makes it the largest in the plan. "But we can make strong rational points for keeping the parishes together," he said.

Gordon Flory, vice president of the Louisiana AFL-CIO, was the only person to speak before the committee against the amendment to keep Calcasieu and Cameron in the same district.

Knights to meet

A meeting of the J. P. Boudoin Sr. Knights of Columbus Council No. 3014 has been called for Thursday night, June 10 at the KC Hall in Creole at 7:30, according to Telesmar Bonsall, Grand Knight. Officers to serve for the coming year will be nominated at the meeting. Bonsall said a supper will be served prior.

Blessing of fleet set for July 1st

A blessing of the fleet, the first in many years for Cameron, will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 1 prior to the opening of the annual Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Owners of all boats--fishing rodeo boats, shrimp boats, pleasure boats, etc.--are invited to join the procession in the river in Cameron passing in front of the fishing rodeo headquarters where the boats will be blessed.

The Rev. Alcide Sonnier, pastor of Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church, will bless the boats. He invited all boat owners to participate and urged that the boats be decorated for the occasion.

Youth revival set on Bayou

Rev. Robert C. Williford will be the evangelist for the Johnson Bayou Baptist Church youth revival June 14-20. Rev. Williford is youth director of the Calvary Baptist Church in Alexandria.

A covered dish lunch will be served at the church following Sunday morning worship services on June 20, in connection with the revival. The public is invited to attend.

Cheerleaders are selected

South Cameron High School elected the cheerleaders who will serve the school for the upcoming 1971-72 school session. They will all attend the Northwestern State University Cheerleader school this summer.

They are Dianne Broussard, Mitzi Savoie, Ann Savoie, Ivy O'Hara, Jackie LeDoux, Mary Kelly and Terri Theriot.

A variety of other on-shore activities are planned during the fishing rodeo Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 2-4.

$3,000 worth drugs stolen

Two separate incidents occuring over the weekend are being investigated by the Cameron Parish Sheriff's Department, according to Sheriff Claude Eagleson.

A 22 caliber bullet was shot through the plate glass window of the Calcasieu Savings and Loan Association window at their office on the main street of Cameron.

Dr. G. W. Dick's Clinic on Oak Grove was broken into and around $3,000 worth of drugs were stolen. Entry was gained through a window in the drug room.

Primeaux collection shown at library

The antique bottle collection of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Primeaux will be featured in the Cameron library for the next two weeks, according to Mrs. Coral Lee Perry, parish librarian.

This is the second collection of bottles exhibited in a summer program to feature a different collection every two weeks.

The Primeauxs have been collecting bottles about a year and most have been found in Cameron parish. Their collection consists of about 200 bottles, and they are limiting it to only those bottles made before 1900, and only those requiring corks, no screw-types.

Bottle collecting is a family affair with the Primeaux. Their three sons Corey, Scott and Charles, Jr., are already avid collectors. Young Corey even has his own shovel and boots for his digging. Mrs. Primeaux said it has helped the youngsters in learning about the history of Cameron parish, for which she is grateful. The Primeaux family was one of the early settlers in the parish.

The Primeauxs have attended bottle shows in Beaumont, Lake Charles and Sulphur and have bought and traded a few of their bottles. They consider their two Warner and Safe Kidney and Liver Cure bottles the most valuable in their collection. They date from the 1860's. There are two black glas bottles in the collection that are collectors items.

Mrs. Primeaux is partial to the peppersauce bottles which were made in the middle 1800's. One has turned purple, as has some of the others made around 1880. This was due to the magnesium used in the glass making process which tends to turn the glass pur-

Fishing rodeo rules changed

As opening day for the 1971 Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo is rapidly approaching, President Sonny Hackett called special attention to several major rules in the annual contest.

Hackett said the single most important rule, placed on the official books this year, is that no rodeo registrations will be made after noon on the opening day, Friday, July 2.

This change, Hackett said, was made to promote better sportsmanship and to insure that all contestants competing in the rodeo were officially registered.

Rodeo registrations can be made now at all sporting goods dealers in Lake Charles, by writing to the sponsoring SW. La. Fishing Club at Box 5711, Drew Station, Lake Charles, La. 70601, and from board members of the sponsoring club.

On Thursday, July 1, the day prior to the rodeo's opening, official headquarters will be opened in Cameron and registration can be made there through noon of the first day. After that, no one will be able to register to compete in the rodeo.

Secondly, Hackett said, everyone must be registered to take part in the rodeo. Registrations cost $5 and each entitles the contestant to one ticket in the drawing for the rodeo grand prize, a new 17-foot-air-conditioned, self-contained travel trailer. Also, additional trailer tickets can be had for donations of one dollar each.

This year, rodeo prizes and awards total in excess of $6,000, Hackett said.

The official rodeo program will be distributed within a few days, Hackett said, and he urged all contestants to get one along with their registration ticket and to become familiar with all official rules for the 1971 rodeo.

Wool referendum no in progress here

Louisiana sheep producers can participate in a nationwide referendum June 7-18, according to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

Hardin called the referendum to determine whether sheep producers of the nation want to continue their promotional efforts for lamb and wool through 1974.

The Secretary said the recent extension of the Wool Act led to his decision to call for the referendum to determine whether sheep producers who support this self-help program want it continued.

Promotional efforts are conducted by the sheep industry's own promotion organization, the American Sheep Producers Council, Denver, Colo. The Council has been engaged in promoting lamb and wool since 1955.

According to Dr. Carol Wilson, sheep specialist with the LSU Cooperative Extension Service, any producer who has owned sheep six months of age or older for at least 30 days during 1970 is eligible to vote in the referendum. Ballots may be obtained at the parish ASCS office.

"With more than 1,200 agricultural commodities and thousands of other commercial products being promoted at the market place, competition for sheep products is very keen.

"Lamb and wool could lose their consumer identity if they are not effectively presented and brought to the attention of the American consuming public," Wilson adds.

Contributions for promotions come from deductions made from incentive payments, including 1 1/2 cents for each pound of shorn wool and 7 1/2 cents for each 100 pounds of unshorn lamb. These deductions are automatically taken from the incentive payment, so all producers pay their fair share for supporting the promotional work.

Use marinade for kabobs

Sirloin steak or sirloin roast or tip steak, cut into one and one - half inch size pieces for kabobs, responds to marinating for interesting flavor.

A good marinade for this purpose uses ½ cup salad oil mixed with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ teaspoon garlic salt, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Allow the cubes of beef to marinate in this several hours or overnight. After threading on a skewer, grilling time will be from 15 to 20 minutes, depending upon the degree of doneness desired.

Keep blooming

Annual flowers exist to produce seeds which will perpetuate the species. If you want them to keep blooming, prevent seed formation by picking all spent blooms promptly.

A few minutes a day spent tidying the flowers will give you lots more.

Walls move with family

Most divider systems use pressure poles that fit snugly in place between floor and ceiling.

That way, you can arrange divider walls to suit your fancy. And when moving time comes, you can take your walls with you.

A Johnson Bayou truck driver was hit by a rock or a chunk of cement last week near the Gulfgate bridge, on the Port Arthur side, and sustained a broken jaw as a result.

Joseph O. Griffith, 44, of Johnson Bayou was taken to St. Mary hospital and listed in good condition after the incident.

Patrolmen Bill Rice and Dan Williams of the Port Arthur, Tex. Police department said Griffith was approaching the traffic light at the Gulfgate bridge on Seventh street about 11:30 p.m., when the rock crashed through the window of his truck and struck him in the mouth.

It was not known who threw the rock. Griffith did not see the thrower and could give officers no reason why he was singled out.

Draft board hours are cut

Cameron Parish Local Board No. 13 Chairman Dell G. LaLande advises that due to a "budgetary crisis," Selective Service National Headquarters in Washington has ordered a reduction of working hours for local boards throughout the nation.

Effective June 14, 1971, Local Board No. 13 will be open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of each week from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. It will be very much appreciated if the registrants will remember this schedule and appear at the local board office on these days.

The local board members have registered strong protest against this reduction of hours of operation to the Selective Service National Director and to our Congressional Delegation. It is the opinion of the local board that registrants cannot be properly served with part time operation of the office.

DELEGATION URGES EVACUATION ROUTE

A delegation of Southwest Louisiana officials and citizens flew to Washington Tuesday in an effort to get the U. S. Department of Interior to agree to the construction of a hurricane evacuation route between Cameron and Lake Charles.

Although the Louisiana legislature has already made funds available for the road, the Department of Interior has opposed the route because it says the road will damage the ecology of the marsh in the Sabine National Refuge through which the road would go.

Cameron citizens contend that the road is badly needed because they have to travel 15 miles parallel to the Gulf before they reach Creole and the highway heading north to safety. If the Gulf comes up over this road their escape route is cut off.

The delegation carried with them petitions signed by over 1000 Cameron parish citizens urging the passage of the measure. An organized letter writing campaign has been going on for the past month with local citizens writing to their Congressmen and President Nixon.

La. Representative Conway LeBleu, who knows first hand what being trapped in a hurricane means, having rode out Hurricane Audrey in a tree, headed the Washington delegation.

Other members of the group were La. Rep. Richard Breaux, from Iberia Parish, chairman of the hurricane committee; Bill Rostect, president of the Calcasieu Police Jury; W. F. "Frankie" Henry, Jr., president of Cameron Police Jury; Art Dumesnil, past-president of the Calcasieu Rod and Gun Club; W. T. Taylor, with the La. Highway Dept.; Jerry Jones, president of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission; Rep. Dick Guidry from LaFourche Parish and C. A. "Buster" Rogers, Cameron business man.

The group was flown to Washington on planes owned by W. T. Buston and Rep. Dick Guidry.

Girl hit by boat in river

A 12-year-old Grand Chenier girl was seriously injured when she was hit by an outboard motorboat in the Mermentau river Sunday.

Cynthia Nunez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nunez, Jr., suffered severe injuries to her pelvic section and leg. She was taken to the Lake Charles Memorial hospital.

The girl, who was swimming in the river, was hit by a boat powered by a 140 horsepower motor and operated by Andre Jon Hebert, 14, of Lafayette who was pulling his father, Gerald Hebert, on water skis.

After the boat hit the girl, the youth lost control of the boat which crashed into a tugboat along the bank. The impact threw the boy into the rear of the boat.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Raleigh Rutherford. No charges were filed.

Bob Jones

Bob Jones in senate race

Vowing to continue to press for "aggressive reforms" in State Government, State Representative Robert G. "Bob" Jones, today, formally announced his candidacy for the State Senate from District 14 (Calcasieu, Cameron and Jefferson Davis Parishes).

Representative Jones has been described in the press as one of the prime movers in the efforts to bring orderly decorum to the chambers and floor of the House of Representatives in the State Capitol.

Bob Jones was one of the pioneers of the call for a constitutional convention to rewrite Louisiana's constitution (second longest in the world). He was also in the vanguard of the "Young Turks" group of representatives working to reorganize and reduce the overlapping of functions of state agencies (which now number over 270).

Jones, 32, is a lifetime resident of Lake Charles, where is manager of the Lake Charles Office of Kohlmeyer and Company. He and his wife, the former Sarah Quinn, are the parents

Time limit on the project will be four and a half months.

Arlene, Beth, etc. unwelcomed here

Arlene could be the first to arrive. She might be followed by Beth, Chloe, Edith, Fern, Ginger, and others.

But they're not welcome in Louisiana. Some of the state's residents, upon hearing of an impending arrival, run for places to hide; others board up their homes and businesses, and, unfortunately, a few do very little . . . even though history has shown that Arlene's relatives have brought cities to their knees.

Arlene and the "girls" are this year's possible hurricanes. And now, says the Insurance Information Institute, is the time to begin preparing for their unfortunate arrival -- not when the weather bureau pin points the exact location where one of these storms will roar in with uncontrollable savagery and fury.

Today, however, through a cooperative effort of the federal government and the private insurance industry, flood coverage for homes and small businesses is available to minimize damage from flooding. Coverage is limited to $17,500 per dwelling unit and $30,000 for any single structure with two to four dwelling units. The attached list shows all the areas such coverage can now be purchased.

While most hurricanes occur in August, September and October, the Atlantic hurricane season runs from June 1 through November 30.

Still in the minds of many people, however, is Camille, "the greatest storm of any kind that has ever affected this nation," according to the National Hurricane Center. This savage storm which hit August 17, 19-

Parish has one fallout shelter

There is only one licensed fallout shelter in Cameron Parish, according to Francis Klein, Chairman of the USDA County Defense Board of Cameron Parish. Klein said it is the Cameron Courthouse. In case of a National disaster the work of the local board will be carried on from this location.

Klein said that there is a USDA County Defense Board in every parish in Louisiana, and each of these boards has developed an Emergency Plan of Operation for its parish. The President of the United States has assigned certain defense responsibilities to the United States Department of Agriculture including preparing national emergency plans and develop preparedness programs covering: food resources, farm equipment, fertilizer and food resource facilities; rural fire control, defense against biological warfare, agriculture activities; and rural defense information and education.

In case of inclement weather, the service will be held in the new parish church adjacent to the shrine.

Rev. Sonnier said that everyone is invited to attend the mass.

Onshore plans are announced

A variety of onshore activities are planned for the weekend of the Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo by members of Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church.

A blessing of the fleet will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 1 in the river in front of the fishing rodeo headquarters.

What to do when a hurricane approaches

When a hurricane approaches an area, residents are alerted through the issuance of hurricane watches and hurricane warnings. A hurricane watch is issued when a storm appears likely to strike an area within 24 to 36 hours. A hurricane warning is used when it is likely to strike within 24 hours.

When a hurricane threatens, certain precautions are recommended by the Insurance Information Institute for protection of life and property:

1. Leave low-lying areas which may be inundated by abnormally high tides or storm waves. Evacuation should not be delayed until the last minute because roadways leading to safety may become impassable before the actual arrival of the hurricane.

2. If your home is safe from high water and flash floods, remain inside.

3. Batten down the hatches. In other words, don't leave lying about any objects such as lawn furniture, or garden tools which might be blown against buildings or through windows. Also be sure garage doors, awnings and storm shutters are secured.

4. Remove boats from the water if possible. Otherwise have them strongly and properly moored. Don't try to secure a boat after waters have become dangerously rough.

5. Be sure your automobile or other vehicle is on high ground and not in a spot where trees or other objects may be blown onto it.

6. Keep a full tank of gasoline in your car because a power failure can put gasoline pumps out of operation. If you must use your car, be on the lookout for fallen wires, fallen trees and flash flooding.

7. Have a flashlight in good working condition and a supply of extra batteries. If you must use candles or emergency cooking facilities with an open flame, guard against fires.

8. Stock a generous quantity of drinking water in clean, sealed containers to guard against contamination.

9. Keep on hand a supply of food that does not require refrigeration or cooking.

10. Keep a window opened slightly on the side of the building opposite the side from which the wind is blowing. This will prevent certain types of wind damage and provide ventilation. If a window is blown out, open a window on the opposite side of the house as wide as possible to prevent further damage.

11. Keep your radio or television on. A battery powered radio will prove useful in case of power failure.

12. If, in the midst of the hurricane, there is suddenly a lull in the wind and the skies clear, be cautious. This is most likely the eye or center of the hurricane passing over your area. This lull may last anywhere from a few minutes to a half hour. Remain inside, however, because the wind will return from the opposite direction without warning.

AFTER THE HURRICANE

1. Avoid felled or low-hanging power lines. Avoid coming in contact with metal objects which may be touching the damaged power lines. Notify police or utility company of dangling or broken wires.

2. Be cautious of streams or rivers. The water level can rise rapidly even after the heaviest rain has ended.

3. Control your curiosity. Stay away from areas of greatest damage. Allow seduce and first aid workers to operate without interference.

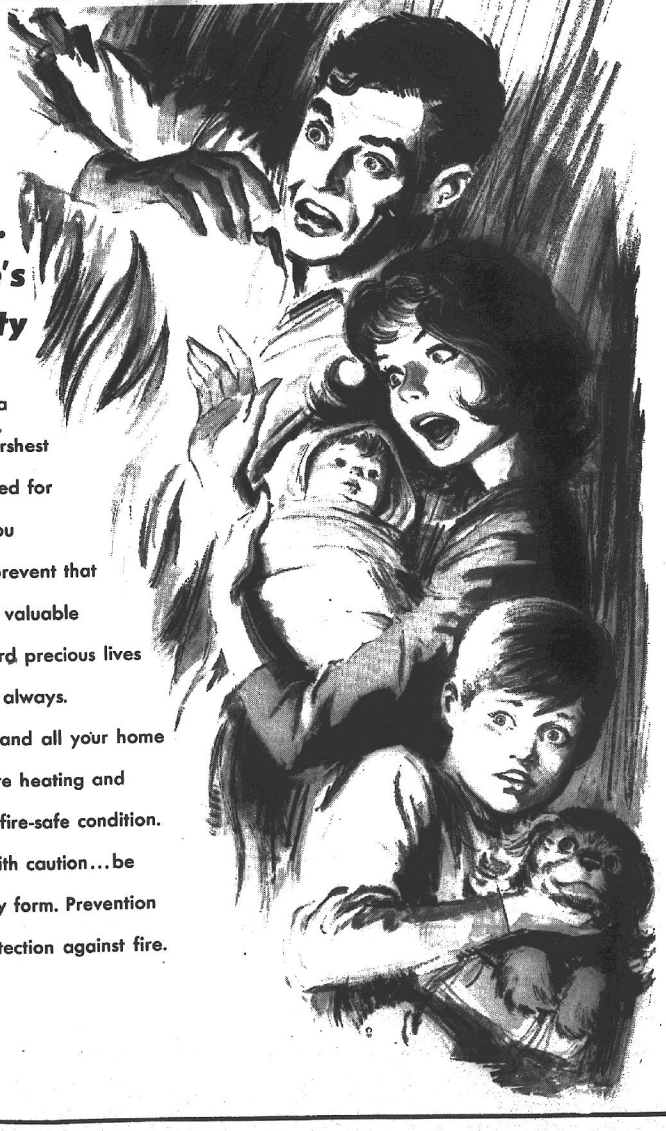
4. Listen to your radio for instructions. Drinking water may have to be sterilized.

5. If the power is off, don't open freezers unnecessarily.

Add shortening

The way you add shortening to flour to make pastry determines the character of a finished baked product. Pastry and biscuit recipes always call for "cutting" shortening with a pastry blender or two knives. This slicing movement mixes fat into the flour in layers and produces a flaky end product.

FIRE PREVENTION IS YOUR JOB TOO



Stop Fires, Save Lives . . . It's Everyone's Responsibility

The awful tragedy of a home on fire is the harshest lesson of all on the need for fire prevention. Are you doing all you can to prevent that tragedy? Protect your valuable property and safeguard precious lives ...practice fire safety, always. Keep attic, basement and all your home clear of debris. Be sure heating and wiring systems are in fire-safe condition. Handle flammables with caution...be careful with fire in any form. Prevention is ever your best protection against fire.

The Drug Scene

By SHERIFF CLAUDE EAGLISON

Marijuana is probably the best known drug to most parents because for years we have been hearing about it. Marijuana has long been in use in what we now term minority groups, but now it has spread across the land like cancer. Its manufacture and distribution is, of course, prohibited by law except for approved research purposes.

Marijuana is the dried flowering or fruiting top of the plant Cannabis Sativa, L., commonly called Indian Hemp. Usually it looks like fine, green tobacco. It is smoked in pipes or cigarette form. Hashish, also a preparation from Cannabis, is taken orally in many forms, and infrequently it is made into candy, sniffed in powder form, mixed with honey for drinking or with butter to spread on bread.

The primary effect is a feeling of great perceptiveness and pleasure and an exaggerated sense of ability, resulting from even small doses. Erratic behavior, loss of memory, distortion of time and spatial perceptions, and hilarity without apparent cause occur. There is a marked unpredictability of effect.

Of course, these reactions are usual in the user of alcohol too, but with the drug user there is no alcoholic breath odor. Breath odor though is most always unpleasant.

Because of the visions and exhilaration which result from the use of Marijuana, abusers may lose all restraint and act in a manner dangerous to themselves and others. User is usually accident prone because of his time and space sense upheaval. Dependence leads to anti-social behavior and could be the forerunner to use of other, far more deadly drugs.

Street terms (names) for Marijuana are: joints, sticks, reefers, weed, grass, pot, muggles, mooters, Indian hay, locoweed, Mu, giggle-smoke, Griffo, Mohasky and Mary Jane.

By the millions, and rightfully so, parents are more and more concerned or even panicked about drug use. Most disturbing is that drugs, especially Marijuana, are becoming popular even among junior high and high school students. One 37-year-old father said in recent interview, "My seven-year-old daughter can spell Marijuana. I never heard of it until I was in college."

On and near by high school and college grounds, raids and arrests for possession of Marijuana and other drugs are increasing across the country. Simple possession of Marijuana is a felony -- rightly or wrongly -- that can be punished by jail terms of 2 to 10 years or more. Drug use is, without doubt, becoming a way of life for some young people -- and, for an untold but large, if not larger number of adults also.

And so, think about these things, my friends -- we are all in this together. As adults it is up to US to head this thing off in our community. To do this we must all know more about drugs, their use and misuse.

Recommendations are given on program

Agriculture leaders representing various Federal and State agencies met in the ASCS office in the Federal Building in Lake Charles recently to discuss and review conservation problems and needs of the Calcasieu-Cameron area. The development group decided to submit the following recommendations to be considered when the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) is developed.

1. The underground irigation practice is a great need in the Bi-Parish area. The group feels that to encourage participation, they would like to see the cost share based on 50% of the cost of carrying out the practice.

2. They recommended considering the use of plastic pipe in performing the pipe drops practice, in addition to A.C. and Corrugated pipe, which is now being used.

3. They recommend that the fencing requirement be discontinued, due to diminished free grazing by sheep, hogs and cattle. Damage over a period of years by grazing is very limited. They also recommend the inclusion of the cost of land preparation in determining the cost share payment.

4. They recommend that a survey be conducted and that a life span be placed on cattle walkways on the basis of the findings.

5. They recommend that tallow trees be included in practice F-2-F-1(a) the controlling of competitive shrubs.

6. They recommend that program details and allocations be announced earlier in the year so farmers may plan and start practices by Jan. 1.

7. They recommend that the REAP formula not be changed for the 1972 program year.

8. They recommend that all F-2 practices, which are practices put in by the local county committees, be continued for the 1971 year.

The development group discussed the REAP investment plans and decided that the funds estimated to be spent for pasture establishment and pipe drops were to be $20,000 for pasture establishment and $12,000 for pipe drops.

Organizations represented at the meeting were: The Cameron and Calcasieu ASCS County Committees, Cameron-Calcasieu District Conservationists, Louisiana Forestry Service, Gulf Coast Soil and Water District, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, and a Cameron County Agent.

By BERNICE STEWART

Several Lake Arthur teachers and students spent their first day of vacation reveling in sun, sand and gulf waters of the Johnson Bayou Beach.

They collected beautiful shells and curious old bottles -- empty flasks that had once contained imported liquor, whiskey from Scotland, rum from the Bahamas.

Then one of the party espied a funny old green bottle, half-hiding in the sand. On picking it up, the finder discovered a paper within.

The bottle was handed to Leto Comeaux, Lake Arthur high school coach, who removed the stopper. Unable to arrive at the contents, he broke the container.

1 A - 1F - 3 - 70

Please, will the finder return this note to me? (One dollar (USA) will be sent to the finder.)

Please state date and where you found the bottle. Write to: Mr. D. Harald, 22 Cliff Road, Malvern East, Germiston, Transvaal, Republic of South Africa.

The Comeaux have returned the note to the writer, retaining a photostatic copy of it.

If only the little green bottle could have talked! Could have traced its course and described its journey!

Germiston lies slightly southeast of and not far from Pretoria, the administrative capital of the Union of South Africa. The sixth largest city in the country, it lies in the great gold fields of Transvaal Province. It contains the world's largest gold refinery.

But to go back to the note from Afrika. How did it get to the open seas in the first place? Germiston is an inland city. Was it deposited on some river that finally carried it oceanward? Was it tossed directly into the Indian Ocean or the Atlantic?

Whatever its impetus the green bottle evidently traveled thousands of miles to reach a Cameron beach. It might easily have become marooned or broken along the way. Instead, it bobbled along on ocean drifts or streams through countless waters to its final resting place and its point of discovery.

How similar to the voyage of the bottle is the journey of man through life! To what extent are both the victims of circumstance? And to what degree are they aided by the divine order of the universe?

Except by its shape and weight, both of infinitesimal value within themselves, the bottle lacks any determining factor of its own. Man, on the contrary, holds freedom to make choices when alternatives are offered.

A wise decision at a crucial point is like a well-set sail that carries its vessel to an anticipated port, other factors being equal. A foolish choice may lead to woe on the jagged rocks of self-destruction. A premature or a long-delayed decision may cause one to miss the moment of embarkation to a cherished goal.

Brutus, in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," expresses it aptly: "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries; . . . and we must take the current when it serves, or lose our ventures."

Poor Brutus . . . wise words . . . wrong current. More laudable was the green bottle that delivered its message honorably though by that act its very existence was necessarily shattered.

Gas rate is increased

According to A. J. Breaux, Vice President and Louisiana Division Manager, bills rendered to United Gas, Inc. customers in Louisiana after June 20, will be adjusted to reflect the impact of an increase in the cost of gas purchased from the company's pipeline supplies.

Stated Breaux, "This gas cost adjustment, which will amount to approximately two cents per day for the average residential customer, is not a rate increase on our part but merely flows through the higher cost of gas from our supplier."

Plastic advances

The triumph of plastic over its beginnings as a substitute material has finally come with a new miracle plastic called ABS which furniture people are turning into the best - looking, sturdiest but lightweight chairs and tables that will key the homes of the future.

Typical is the classic Parsons table shape that an American firm is making in brilliant colors that go all the way through so they never chip or scratch off. What's more, they are less than half the price of the similar table in wood and far more modern because they reflect the technology of today.

Deep sea rodeo around corner

That's right, in just a few more weeks, it will be time to shelve all chores and head for the big pond to try your luck against some of this area's best sportfishermen in the 1971 Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Rodeo President Sonny Hackett said all planning has been finalized and that rodeo registrations are now available along with copies of the official program. They may be obtained from local and area sporting goods dealers or by sending the entrance fee of $5 to the sponsoring Southwest Louisiana Fishing Club, Box 5711 Drew Station, Lake Charles, La. 70601.

Hackett said the single most important rule change he wanted to call to everyone's attention was that rodeo registrations can only be made through noon on the opening day, Friday, July 2. After that, you will not be able to register.

The rodeo president said the rule was adopted by the board of directors to insure that everyone participating in the rodeo would be registered before beginning their competition.

In addition to local sales, registration can be made in Cameron starting on the evening of Thursday, July 1. Headquarters once again will be at Pete Henry's pier with senior judge J. Marshall Smith in charge.

Hackett urged all sportsmen to register early and to secure a copy of the program and become familiar with all rules governing the contest.

Grand Prize in the rodeo, he said, is a new 17-foot self-contained travel trailer complete with all furnishings and air conditioning. Registered rodeo participants will secure one ticket in the grand prize drawing with their registration. Additional tickets can be obtained for a one dollar donation.

Hackett said fishing in the gulf south of Cameron has been improving steadily. In recent weeks, large king mackeral have made their seasonal appearance and have been taken in numbers in the East Cameron Block 160 area.

Other areas are reporting good catches of large cobia, bluefish and red snapper. Little action has been noted with Spanish Mackeral, dolphin and bonito, he added.

Hackett also advised the inboard-outboard clan that the Grand Chenier channel outlet has been opened to the Gulf of Mexico. You can now launch your boat at Grand Chenier park, head south, and be in the gulf within minutes.

When you enter the gulf, you're practically in the McDermott rig cluster and save some miles as opposed to running southeast from Cameron, he added.

Ancient Incas had peanuts

Peanuts were unknown in North America in the days before Columbus, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, they were so important to the ancient Incas of Peru that they even buried them with their dead and carried them to other parts of South and Central America.

69, along the Gulf Coast between New Orleans and Mobile, claimed more than 260 lives and resulted in 112,000 separate insurance claims on which the property insurance industry paid an estimated $225 million.

According to the Institute, there are a number of vitally important insurance related matters which can and should be done before and after a hurricane.

First, property owners should have a thorough understanding of the insurance coverage they now have and additional coverages which may be available.

It should be stressed that except under extremely limited circumstances, no ordinary insurance policy protects a home or household possessions against damage caused by tidal wave, rising water or overflow whether driven by wind or not. The exception is a loss caused by rain entering the building through an opening made by the wind.

BEFORE THE HURRICANE

In addition, every property owners should:

--Carefully read all insurance policies and clearly understand their provisions. If you have any questions, contact your agent or company representative.

--Make and itemized list of everything of value in your home. Photos are helpful. This will help to substantiate your claim and also to prove uninsured losses, which are tax deductible.

--Keep all policies in a safety deposit box or other safe place, and know the name and location of your agents and the name of the company which issued the policy.

AFTER THE STORM

If, as a result of the hurricane, your property suffers damage:

--Make temporary repairs to prevent further loss from rain, wind and looting. The expenses of such repairs are covered by most policies, so keep track of them and save receipts.

--Contact your company or agent as soon as possible. If you have to leave your home, leave an address or telephone number at which you can be reached.

--Be patient. While all losses will be adjusted and claims paid as quickly as possible, hardship claims are usually handled first.

--Don't assume your settlement will be the same as your neighbor's. Policy forms differ and storm damage is often erratic.

INDUSTRY WILL DO ITS PART

In the meantime, the insurance industry has a proven catastrophe plan which can be implemented on short notice.

In order to expedite the large number of claims, insurance companies and adjusting organizations move additional insurance adjusters from other parts of the country into any disaster area and, in some cases, temporary catastrophe offices are opened to provide immediate facilities for the prompt adjustment of losses.

Lions support 'Flag Day'

A report on ladies night and officer installation was made at the weekly meeting of the Cameron Lions Club by Ed Kelly who is general chairman. It was to be held Wednesday night, June 16 at Fred's restaurant.

A. J. Howard, club president, read a letter from Congressman John P. Saylor of Pennsylvania asking the local club to go on record favoring the making of June 14 a legal holiday as "Flag Day." He asked that club members express their support of the proposal by writing or contacting Congressmen and Senators.

The club voted to support the Louisiana Lions League for Crippled Children's "Buck-A-Lion" program and send a check of $1 for each member. Howard announced that once again the Lions are getting prepared for the annual football game between the New Orleans Saints and the Kansas City Chiefs on August 21 in Baton Rouge.

On motion of Mr. Trahan, seconded by Mr. Richard and carried, the Board dispensed with the reading of the minutes for the meeting in April, 1971, and approved same as published in the official journal.

On motion of Mr. Richard, seconded by Mr. Taylor and carried, the Board accepted the following resignations effective at the end of the 1970-71 session: Theodora Crestiadon, Cheryl Whitlow, Wayne Ryan, Henry Griffin, Mrs. Marie Manuel, Mrs. Kent Yoes, Joan Allison, Mrs. Terrance Hoffpauir, Mrs. Rose Robichaux.

On motion of Mrs. Riggs, seconded by Mr. Taylor and carried, the Board approved appointments and assignments of teachers for the 1971-72 session as recommended by the Superintendent.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Trahan, seconded by Mr. Richard and carried unanimously by the Board:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Cameron Parish School Board is concerned about the proposal that the Office of the State Superintendent of Education be made appointive rather than elective, and

WHEREAS, the Cameron Parish School Board realizes the importance of the Office of the State Superintendent of Education to the educational effort of local school boards, and

WHEREAS, the Cameron Parish School Board believes that should the Office of State Superintendent of Education be made appointive, the Louisiana State Board of Education should be the appointive agent,

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the Cameron Parish School Board that this Board does hereby seek the approval and support of area legislators of measures vesting the Louisiana State Board of Education with the authority to set qualifications, assign duties, and appoint the occupant of the Office of State Superintendent of Education, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED That copies of this resolution be forwarded to each member of the Cameron Parish Legislative delegation.

On motion of Mr. Trahan, seconded by Mrs. Riggs and carried, the Board agreed that no students would report for school on the day prior to the last day of school and that all teachers would report at 8:30 A. M. on that day and remain until 2:00 P.M., or until such time as teacher had completed all reports and checked out with the principal, whichever time is later. Lunchroom workers would work through two days prior to the last day of school.

The Superintendent reported to the Board that the following teachers would retire at the end of the 1970-71 session: Mrs. Rose Vallott, Mrs. Leona O'Connor, Adam Thibodeaux, Mrs. C. W. Krumm. John LeBlanc, janitor at Audrey Memorial School, retired effective April 1, 1971.

A letter from Robert Manuel, President of Cameron Parish Teachers Association, was presented to the Board indicating that teachers are interested in obtaining information about annuity and insurance income protection. A recommendation by the Cameron Parish Teacher Welfare Committee was made to the School Board authorizing insurance agents to interview school faculties for the purpose of providing information concerning annuity programs. On motion of Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mr. Trahan and carried, the Board agreed that agents could contact the school faculties relative to this program with the provisions that meetings would be open to all agents and meetings would be after school hours. Meeting arrangements would be made through the President of the Teacher Association.

The Superintendent reported that the Louisiana School Board Association had requested each school board president to appoint a legislative liaison person for the purpose of developing better communication between the Louisiana School Board Association and the local school boards on legislative matters, to contact or confer with local legislators and to keep the local school board informed of Louisiana School Board Association legislative activities. The President, Percy David appointed Mrs. Riggs to serve as the liaison person from the Cameron Parish School Board.

The South Cameron Athletic Association presented a Resolution to the Cameron Parish School Board requesting that the Board seek out and be guided by the recommendation of the present coaches and the principal of the South Cameron High School before filling the present vacant position on the coaching staff at that school.

On motion of Mr. Richard, seconded by Mr. Trahan and carried, the Board appointed Hayes Picou, Jr. as third assistant coach at South Cameron High School. Not voting on the question was Lee J. Conner, Mervyn Taylor, and Percy David.

The Superintendent discussed with the Board the reinvestment of $100,000.00 proceeds from matured U. S. Treasury bonds. On motion of Mr. Conner, seconded by Mr. Taylor and carried, the Board agreed to invest surplus funds in Certificates of Deposit for ninety days; one-half to be invested through Calcasieu Marine National Bank and one-half through Cameron State Bank.

On motion of Mr. Richard, seconded by Mr. Trahan and carried, the Board granted a sabbatical leave to Jerry Ford for the first semester of the 1971-72 session.

The Superintendent presented to each member his letter of recommendation for the dismissal and discharge of Jack Adcock in his capacity as teacher at Grand Lake High School; such dismissal caused by the School Board's effort to reduce the number of teachers over the State allotment for the 1971-72 session. On motion of Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mrs. Riggs and carried unanimously, the Board accepted the recommendation of the Superintendent that Jack Adcock be discharged or dismissed as teacher in the Grand Lake High School due to the fact that the School Board considered it financially necessary to reduce the number of teachers for 1971-72, and the Superintendent wad directed to notify Mr. Jack Adcock in writing that he had been so discharged or dismissed.

On motion of Mrs. Riggs, seconded by Mr. Richard and carried, the Board adopted the following regulation: All teachers in the parish are required to teach a minimum and maximum of five (5) classes per day and one (1) study hall.

Mr. Landry of Amoco Production Company appeared before the Board requesting approval of a survey of Section 16, Township 12 South, Range 13 West, Cameron Parish, Louisiana. On motion of Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mr. Richard and carried, the following resolution was offered and adopted:

B. Hill, registered Civil Engineer and Surveyor, as shown by proces verbal of field notes of said survey and map thereof, said proces verbal being dated April 7, 1971, all of which are attached hereto and made a part hereof; and

WHEREAS, Cameron Parish School Board is the school board of the parish in which the 16th section land aforesaid is located; and

WHEREAS, Cameron Parish School Board believes it to be to the best interest of the Board and the state to have on file in the State Land Office an official survey of said 16th section; and

WHEREAS, Amoco Production Company and Mathilda Gray Stream, the record owners of all sections of land contiguous to and surrounding said Section 16, have had notice of said survey, approve the procedure followed in connection with making survey and the field notes of the survey and map thereof attached, all as evidenced by the written approval of said owners, which appears below, and

WHEREAS, the survey made by A. B. Hill, registered Civil Engineer and Surveyor is considered to be equally as competent and correct as one that had been or might be ordered by the Register of State Land Office, pursuant to LSA R.S. 50:121 et seq., and, it is assumed, may be approved by the Register of State Land Office with the purview, spirit and objectives of LSA R.S. 50:121 et seq.;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Cameron Parish School Board, acting pursuant to the powers vested in it by all applicable provisions of LSA R.S. 17:87 (5), does hereby accept and approve the survey made by A. B. Hill, registered Civil Engineer and surveyor, whose proces verbal or field notes of the survey are dated April 7, 1971, covering Section 16, Township 12 South, Range 13 West; Cameron Parish, Louisiana, the same being sufficient for all purposes, particularly those enumerated in LSA R.S. 17:87 (5) and 87 (6).

Memorial books given to library

One of the many services provided by the Cameron Parish Library is the memorial books program. Many people donate books to the local library in memor of a loved one. The family of the deceased is sent an appropriate card from the library giving the name of the donor.

When the book arrives at the library the family is sent the book to be reviewed before it is put on the library shelves for distribution. A plate is also put in front of each memorial book giving the name of the donor and the person it is given in memory for.

Constance improves 70 acres of range

By TERRY J. CLEMENT
(Soil Conservation Service)

"Plowing is the answer," says J. B. Constance of Hackberry. The Gulf Coast Soil and Water District Cooperator plowed 70 acres of heavily infested McCartney rose "Cherokee", tallow tree, and smutgrass pasture last summer.

The area was so infested with the brush, that he had to bulldoze it off in order to plow. By plowing four times during the hot summer months, the brush and grass roots left in the soil were destroyed.

Ryegrass, Bahiagrass and white clover were seeded in the fall with financial assistance from the Cameron Parish A. S. C. S. REAP program. The ryegrass and clover furnished immediate cover for the exposed soil, while also furnishing top quality grazing. Bahiagrass is appearing now and will furnish a perennial summer grazing cover. All grazing is controlled in order to maintain the grass cover and prevent re-infestation of brush and weeds.

Constance developed a complete conservation plan for his place in 1963, with technical help from the Soil Conservation Service assisting the District. He intends to plow and seed areas annually, until he has improved the farms' entire 250 acres.

Lions officers installed here

Clifford Myers, Cameron Parish county agent, was the recipient of the Lion of the Year award at the annual Cameron Lion of the Year Award banquet held last week at Fred's restaurant in Cameron. Earl Mouton, who received the award last year made the presentation to Myers. Myers is serving his third term as secretary and treasurer of the club.

Past recipients of the Lion award are: Hadley A. Fontenot, E. J. Dronet, James L. DeRouen, Alvin Dyson, Ray Dimas, E. W. Swindell, Dr. Cecil W. Clark, Roland J. Trosclair, Sr., Jennings B. Jones, Jr., J. Berton Daigle, Rodney Guilbeaux, Sr., A. J. Howard, Ray Champagne, Claude Eagleson and Earl Mouton.

A. J. Howard, club president, was in charge of the program. The general chairman of the banquet was Ed Kelley. The invocation was given by Rev. Arby Coody.

Joe O'Donnel served as Master of Ceremonies. Rodney Guilbeaux, Sr. introduced the Lions District Governor Rodney Guilbeaux, Jr., who introduced the principle speaker, Past District Governor Gene Henry from Rayne.

Henry praised the local club and the part it has played in the affairs of the community and in the state. He congratulated the club on breaking the attendance record when it hosted the recent District Lions cabinet meeting in Cameron.

Rodney Guilbeaux, Jr. installed the new officers. They are: Roland Trosclair, Jr., president; Ed Kelly, first vice-president; William Morris, second vice-president; Earl Mouton, third vice-president; Clifford Myers, secretary-treasurer; Jimmy DeRouen, tail twister; Ruben Morales, lion tamer; J. Berton Daigle, Larry Taylor and George Wilkerson, two year directors; Ward Fontenot, Claude Eagleson and Rodney Guilbeaux, one year directors.

Memorial mass set for storm dead

The 14th anniversary of Hurricane Audrey, which will be on Sunday, June 27, will be observed with an outdoor memorial mass for the storm's more than 500 victims at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 26.

The Rev. Alcide Sonnier, pastor of Our Lady Star of the Sea Parish in Cameron, invites all of the people of Cameron Parish and surrounding area, regardless of faith, to attend the service.

Members of the Knights of Columbus of the Cameron, Creole, and Grand Chenier area will receive communion at the Mass. Fourth Degree K. of C. members will be dressed out in full regalia as honor guard for the occasion, Rev. Sonnier said.

In case of rain, the service will be held in the new church immediately in the rear of the Shrine at the same time.

The shrine was erected in 1963 at the suggestion of Bishop Maurice Schexnider. It features a marble statue of the Blessed Virgin with a protective hand around a child and carries the inscription "Do Not Harm My Children," a plea to spare Cameron from future storms.

Swim lessons to be taught

Benny Sanders, Hackberry recreation director, announced that swimming lessons will begin June 29 at the recreation center. The schedule is as follows:

8 - 9 a.m., adult women's class;
9 - 10 a.m., beginners class; 10 - 11 a.m., advanced swimmers class.

There will be no charge for the swimming instruction, but each participant must pay the regular pool admission.

Coffeeweeds to be sprayed

Francis Klein, Cameron ASCS County Committee Chairman asks farmers in the lower Cameron area who are going to participate in the aerial spraying for coffeeweeds program to sign up as soon as possible in the Cameron ASCS office. The practice will be carried during the first party of July, depending on the weather conditions, Klein said.

In order to take part in the REAP program, a farmer must sign up in the ASCS office, then a representative of the local county committee must visit the area to be sprayed and determine that the practice is needed. The farmer must point out the area on an aerial map when he makes application for the cost-share assistance.

Klein said that this practice is really a bargain to the farmer. The government, through the REAP program, cost-shate 50% of the cost of carrying out the practice with the farmer. The average amount being charged this year is $2.50 per acre, which makes the cost to the farmer only $1.25 per acre.

Those farmers who have carried out the practice in the past are reminded that it is their responsibility to maintain the practice and keep any competitive shrubs under control, Klein said.

Any reasoning growth must be treated by 1-2-4-D in a mixture of 1 gallon 2-4-D, 10 gallons diesel fuel, 1 box detergent and 39 gallons of water."

Fishing rodeo is next week

The big one is next week so now's the time to start thinking about getting yourself registered for the big July 4th weekend Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at Cameron.

Rodeo President Sonny Hackett said registration tickets, along with official rodeo programs, are now being placed at area sporting goods dealers for distribution to the general public.

Calling attention to the new rule that all registrations will close at noon on the first day of the rodeo, Friday, July 2, Hackett said sportsmen should complete registration now to be sure they are eligible to participate in the big three-day event.

"After 12 o'clock noon of the first day, Friday, July 2," Hackett said, "we'll close the registration books and no one else will be allowed to enter. We've taken this step to insure that all participants register before heading offshore to start their fishing.

"We don't want any one left out," Hackett said, "so we're urging everyone to register before they leave for Cameron and to register early. Registrations will only be available in Cameron the evening before the rodeo at the headquarters stand (Pete Henry's pier) and through noon on the opening day," he said.

Registrations can be made at the following Lake Charles locations. E & M Sporting Goods, House for Sports, Boat Town, Dick's Marineland, Fenley's Sporting Goods, Fontenot Marine, Pak-A-Sak, University Conoco Station, Rick's Bait Stand, Black Angus Restaurant, Clays Marine, Gibson Discount Store and K-Mart Shopping Center.

Out of town participants can write to the sponsoring Southwest Louisiana Fishing Club, Box 5711 Drew Station, Lake Charles, La. 70601. Registrations cost $5 and included will be one ticket in the grand prize drawing for a 17-foot self-contained travel trailer.

Eligible fish in the rodeo have been divided into four groups this year. They are:

Group I - tarpon, sailfish, marlin and tuna

Group IV - speckled trout, redfish, salt water drum, gaftop catfish, flounder and sheepshead.

Awards will be made for the three largest fish entered in each species with an outstanding angler award to be made, determined by a point system, in each group. Special awards will also be made to the overall outstanding angler earning the most points in all groups and to the top sportfishing boat and top charter boat, also to be determined by the point system.

Hackett urged all contestants to secure an official rodeo program and to become familiar with all rules governing the 1971 contest.

Postal Service Day is July 1

Postal Service Day, marking the inauguration of the new United States Postal Service, will be observed at the Hackberry Post Office, along with other offices across the nation, Thursday, July 1.

Postmaster Marie Johnson has announced that all members of the community are invited to visit the office that day and enjoy a cup of coffee with the staff.

Adult visitors will be given a souvenir envelope imprinted with the old and new insignia of the Postal Service. Customers of the office are asked to check their Social Security cards to see if the digits of the local ZIP CODE 70645, are contained therein (digits do not have to be in that sequence.

Any holder of such a card will be award an 8 by 10 poster, "This Is Your Flag." Painted in bright patriotic colors, the poster is suitable for framing and will accent a den or child's room. Winners may pick up the gift at the office on Postal Service Day.

Mrs. Perry is named to post

Mrs. Charles Perry of Cameron has been elected vice president of the Southwest Louisiana Chapter of the Council for the Development of French in Louisiana, it has been announced.

Mrs. Perry will represent Cameron Parish in the organization.

Truman Stacey, editor of the Lake Charles American Press, is president of the chapter, which was formed at an organizational meeting in Lake Charles earlier this week.

Other officers elected were Ada M. Sabatier, of Lake Charles, vice president for Calcasieu Parish; Mayor Delmer Sonnier of Chataignier, vice president for Allen Parish; Vance Plauche, Lake Charles, secretary; and Dr. Larry DeRouen, Lake Charles, treasurer. A vice president for Beauregard Parish will be elected at a later date, it was announced.

The chapter will include members from Calcasieu, Cameron, Allen and Beauregard Parishes, and the organization's board of directors will include one member from each of the wards of the four parishes.

James Domengeaux of Lafayette, state chairman of CODOFIL, addressed the meeting in Lake Charles, saying it was time to end this country's linguistic provincialism. "We have now reached a level of educational sophistication when we can embark upon a project to develop our ethnic languages," he said.

He said it was important in this day of mass communication to be able to speak more than one language. "Communications must be used to build a better understanding with others, and language will do that like no other vehicle," the former U. S. Congressman said.

Domengeaux reminded his audience that one and one-half million people in Louisiana speak and understand French. He said that before the CODOFIL program began three years ago, people in Lafayette were reluctant to speak French.

June 30 is deadline

Charles S. Hackett, Calcasieu-Cameron ASCS office manager reminds area farmers in the Bi-Parish area that he would like to have certification completed by June 30. The goal is to release as many program payments as possible immediately after July 1, 1971.

In order to accomplish this, a major portion of the certification must be completed prior to June 30, Hackett said. Farmers are reminded that payments cannot be made until certification is completed.

Hackett said that the ASC county committees are concerned about the large number of farmers who have not yet certified, and who may not realize the final certification date is so close.

It appears from the number of farmers who have not yet certified that there may be a line of farmers waiting to certify during the last few days before the deadline, Hackett commented. He advised that any farmer who has his operations "all set" and is sure his yields accurage meets requirements, should come in to the parish ASCS office as soon as possible to certify.

Yes...MIRACLES Happened at Fatima!

You may not agree with the Catholic belief in miracles.

Perhaps you don't believe in miracles at all...and especially not in miracles attributed to the prayer of the Blessed Virgin.

But if God does look with special favor upon Mary...and does wondrous things at her request ...is it not of vast importance to you to find out? Is it not worth the few minutes required to examine the evidence?

What, for example, did God's angel mean when he said:

"Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou amongst women..."?

Was she to be full of grace only temporarily — and "blessed amongst women" only during her life on earth?

This is not reasonable in view of Mary's unique role as the earthly mother of the Son of God. Nor can we discard and forget Mary if we believe Holy Scripture, for there we find Mary's words (Luke 1:48): "... henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." Where, excepting among Catholics, does anyone honor Mary as did God Himself?

"But," you may insist, "show me a miracle! And prove that Mary had anything to do with it."

We might, of course, recall that Christ's mother appeared to Bernadette at Lourdes in France, and that scientifically-authenticated cures have been occurring there ever since. Or we might cite similar apparitions to the three children at Fatima, Portugal, and the subsequent awesome spectacle of the sun spinning and dancing on its axis and then seeming to plunge toward the earth...a spectacle witnessed by 70,000 persons. And we could mention Mary's prophecies concerning the conditions under which Russia would be converted.

But Catholics don't require earth-shaking supernatural demonstrations to attest Mary's love, nor to prove her influence at the throne of God. It's the little "miracles" that take place in their daily lives when...in faith and trust...they pray: "Hail, Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee..."

Catholics pray for one another and ask the saints in Heaven to join them in prayer. "I believe," says the Apostles' creed, "in the communion of saints." And Mary is in Catholic hearts the greatest of the saints. So we ask her to intercede for us with God, Who has often performed miracles in answer to her prayer.

An exciting and authentic pamphlet—describing the miraculous happenings at Fatima and a peace plan from Heaven—will be sent to you. And nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet No. KC-41.

MUSING . . .

By BERNICE STEWART

(EDITOR'S NOTE--This is the first of two columns on the old packet boats that used to operate on the Mermentau River between Grand Chenier and Lake Arthur.)

Adam Nunez, whose demise came earlier this year, was the last of a long line of men who captained the packet boats that plied the Mermentau River. To the end he had kept renewed his captain's license and an engineer's to operate a steamship of unlimited tonnage.

Six weeks prior to Captain Nunez's death his first cousin, Nunez Miller, also a former Mermentau River captain, passed away. Both men were natives of Grand Chenier. Nunez moved to Lake Arthur in the 1920's; Nunez to Lafayette in the '50's.

To our knowledge, the sole survivor among the Mermentau River operators of passenger and freight boats who has consistently maintained a captain's license is a woman, surprising though it may seem. She is the widow of the aforementioned Nunez Miller and was the former Edna Theriot, a native of Chenier Perdue.

By the end of the 19th century steamboats had practically put out of business the small sturdy schooners that had once run between Grand Chenier and Mermentau, stopping perhaps at Lake Arthur.

* * *

JUST AS THE stern-wheeler OLIVE had gained an edge over schooners such as Captain Charles C. Nelson's D. HEBERT and Alcide Miller's E. O. CLADYS, the fastest sailing vessel of its kind, so did the gasoline launches finally monopolize the river trade. By 1908 the latter had taken over.

We learned from Theogene E. Broussard, a native of Grand Chenier and now a retired pharmacist of Lake Arthur, that the earliest gasoline launch taken to Grand Chenier was owned by Captain Louis Zampini.

It might be said that the launching of the late Adam Nunez's career as a boatsman was simultaneous to that of the WHITE LILY in the Mermentau. Adam and his uncle, Joe Nunez, were co-owners and operators of the WHITE LILY, one of the first gasoline-motored boats on the river.

* * *

ON ONE OCCASION the WHITE LILY had been loaded with bales of cotton at its Grand Chenier dock in preparation for transport to Lake Arthur. An attempt was made to start the motor. It backfired, igniting the cotton. Before the bales could be cast overboard, the boat was aflame. The event occurred before 1919. We are told that the WHITE LILY was salvaged, rebuilt and sold.

The CRESCENT was a gasoline launch owned by Isaac (Ike) Vaughan of Grand Chenier, a man who later moved to Lake Arthur. Excursion trips aboard the CRESCENT became very popular. Many were made to Hackberry Beach, located beyond the mouth of the Mermentau.

On one occasion, at least, the CRESCENT carried a load of passengers to Lake Arthur to a gubernatorial political rally. Annually, it took people to the South Louisiana Holiness Camp Meeting at Lake Arthur.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. NUNEZ Miller owned the WYNONAH, named in honor of their elder daughter. If we are correct, their boat was used principally in freight transport.

The SUMMER GIRL, purchased by Pierre Vincent of Pecan Island in 1961 from an Hebert of Vermillion, ran on the Mermentau for many years. The Vincents, who had moved from Big Pecan to Lake Arthur in 1918, moved again around 1921, this time to Grand Chenier. Captain Nunez Miller rented the SUMMER GIRL and operated it in place of the WYNONAH for several years since it was a smaller vessel and yet of sufficient size to accommodate his freight. In 1921, Herbert Vincent, son of the owner, took the boat over and made weekly trips in it for two or three years. Then Adam Nunez got the boat, and Herbert (Bert) Vincent worked for him for some two and a half years. About 1929, the SUMMER GIRL was sold to the Lake Arthur Dredging Company.

* * *

THE TUBOR for years made regular trips up and down the river, carrying passengers and freight. It was owned and operated by Adam Nunez.

On one occasion my grandparents, in returning to the Chenier from New Orleans, were aboard when five waterspouts formed over Grand Lake. The vessel, already in its waters, rocked perceptibly. Readers who have been in the lake during severe weather know how rough it becomes.

Captain Nunez, sensing my grandmother's anxiety, assured her that the TUBOR was staunchly built and that such weather, though unusual, had occurred before.

Later on, Captain Nunez and his brother, Lee, purchased the DELTA from the Delta Hunting Club, located below New Orleans. It was a diesel-powered vessel much larger than the TUBOR. It made bi-weekly trips between Grand Chenier and Lake Arthur.

* * *

DURING THE same period Captain Henry McCall, another Grand Chenier native, operated his vessel, the MARGIE, up and down the river twice a week.

Business was good, for the Mermentau was the main highway between the eastern half of lower Cameron Parish and the outside world. Cotton was the principal export from the parish. In earlier days oranges and syrup were shipped out. At times dairy foods and poultry, cattle and hogs were transported in limited numbers.

Ship to shore phone service to begin here

Ship-to-shore telephone service for the Cameron parish coastal area has been inaugurated by the Cameron Telephone Company, it was announced this week by William L. Henning, president.

The new service will permit telephone calls to be placed between shore telephones and all types of vessels in the Gulf of Mexico.

Vessels whose radios are equipped to send and receive on the ship-to-shore channels (156.8 and 161.6) will be able to place telephone calls anywhere in the country by calling the Cameron marine operator, KQU 437 on Channel 24.

Anyone on shore who wishes to place a telephone call to a vessel or offshore rig in the Gulf has only to call the Marine operator to have his call placed.

The Cameron Telephone Company will be happy to assist any boat owner in having the necessary crystal added to their radio equipment to make it possible to use the ship-to-shore service, Mr. Henning said.

The July 4th weekend annual rodeo commences at sunrise Friday and will continue through 6 p.m. Sunday. Upwards of 500 registered sportsmen are expected on some of the top Gulf Coast sportfishing boats.

Rodeo President Sonny Hackett said all planning has been completed and that official rodeo headquarters, at Pete Henry's pier, will open in Cameron Thursday afternoon.

Special trophy awards will be made for the three largest fish in each eligible species along with awards for the outstanding anglers in four groups and an overall top angler.

Trophies will also be given to the three top sportfishing boats and to the top charterfishing boat. Boat captains need only to check in and list their boat name at rodeo headquarters to be eligible for boat awards, Hackett said.

Inland fishing is protested

State Representative Richard Guidry of Galliano has protested commercial fishing in Louisiana's inland coastal watem. In a letter to Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, Guidry stated:

"I am very much concerned about the continuing problem caused by commercial fishermen seining in our inland coastal waters. They are devastating our sports fishing and wiping out entire areas with their activities.

"Most of the reports I have received concern out-of-state fishing boats, but something must be done wherever they come from.

"I would like to see two courses of action.

"First, if the laws we now have on the books are sufficient to stop this, then please concentrate available agents on enforcing these laws before a great fishing area is destroyed.

"Second, if there are loopholes in the law which permit these depradations to continue, please leave the Commission's attorneys draft legislation to close these loopholes. I will see that this legislation is introduced and passed at the next session of the Legislature."

By JERRY WISE

It's all over now, and Louisiana, and the nation, may never again see such a spectacle, but it was "sumthin" while it lasted.

We are referring to the "Celebration of Life" festival which came to a grinding halt Monday, four days before it was supposed to end. Three deaths (two by drowning and one by a drug overdose), increasing arrests for drug violations, 100 degree heat, dust and filth all combined to force the early end of the festival that drew some 50,000 young people from every part of the nation.

While on a trip to Baton Rouge last week we ran into a fellow newspaper publisher who urged us to drop in on the festival with him on our way home.

Since the little community of McCrea where the festival was held was too small to be on the map, we had to do a lot of inquiring as to directions. We crooked and turned over country roads for nearly an hour before we saw by the debris along the road that we were getting close.

(Thousands of festival goers had camped along the highway for several days while the officials of Pointe Coupe parish tried unsuccessfully to block the festival.)

State Troopers were stopping all traffic about two miles from the festival site to look over festival goers and to warn those without tickets or the $30 per head admission fee to turn around. There was very little traffic on the road at that time.

At the entrance to the festival grounds there were a large number of officers -- sheriff deputies, state police and a number of troopers on horseback.

A young longhaired man at the gate waved us on through the gates after examing our press passes. We had been told earlier not to park our car on the highway as the police were hauling all such cars away in order to keep the road clear.

The festival ground turned out to be a 700-acre site between the levee and a bend of the Atchafalaya river. For as far as the eye could see there were thousands of tents, lean-tos, trucks, trailes, cars, and motorcycles.

Mrs. Charles Rogers

Mrs. Rogers has big collection of jars

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Remember all those "goodies" Mom and Grandma used to put up in fruit jars every year? These same old jars, and even older ones are now being dug up out of old trash piles, rooted out of old shallow wells, sitios, bams, chicken houses and smoke houses. The prices on them are steadily going up, and some of the very old ones are as scarce as "hen's teeth."

There are many books which list the different varities of fruit jar that have been manufactured. One such book tells that some 1200 different molds were made up to 1960. There are even more now, as more research and discoveries are made. There are several magazines with special sections on "jars" which give listings and important information about the value of them.

The preserving of food in jars was started in America about 1812. This was after a French cook, a Mr. Appert, discovered the fact that heated food put in a jar and sealed would keep fresh for several weeks - the hotter the food, the longer it kept from spoiling. He soon learned to boil the food, heat the jars and seal, and the food kept perfectly for years. He received an award from the French government for his discovery. He later published a book on his important discovery and recipes for canning and preserving meats, fruits and vegetables. His book brought the idea of canning to America.

There have since been many changes and improvements in jars and lids. Over the years many different materials have been used for lids such as corks, wax, clamps and screws, wires of various kinds, glass and metal, paper, and beeswax.

Many patents have been taken out on the various jars and lids. The most widely-known man who experimented with containers and closures was John L. Mason. He held over ten separate patents between 1856 and 1873. His name still appears on modern day jars. A fortune has been made on the sale of these jars, yet Mason died a poor man in 1902.

In the 1897 Sears Catalog, Mason pints sold for $3.75 for a case of 6 dozen. A case of 8 dozen quarts was $6 and a case of 6 dozen half-gallons sold for $5.50. Today, the total of this amount of money often will only buy one of these old jars.

Fruit jar collecting is a favorite hobby of Mrs. Charles Rogers of Cameron. Mrs. Rogers is the former Roberta Eagleson of Grand Chenier and is one of the most famous cooks in Cameron Parish. She first became interested in jar collecting when she dug up several old ones on her farm at Dry Creek. One of her neighbors, Mrs. Bessie Steele gave her several more that had belonged to Mrs. Steele's mother, which were blue masons and patented Nov. 30, 1858. This was the start of her collection about a year ago and has grown to over 100 different jars at this time.

Mrs. Rogers says the prefers jar collecting because she likes to can and preserve fruits and vegetables. Many of her friends collect bottles, but Mrs. Rogers just specializes in jars.

An advantage of collecting jars is that they are usually easier to identify than bottles. There is always a visible name or trademark on the jar. The manufacturer's name, oftentimes the place of manufacture, and many times the patent date are on them, making them very easy to identify. The older jars can be identified by their imperfections. There are bubbles or waves in the glass in the jars or tops. The later ones were better perfected as the manufacturers learned to perfect the molds and to mix the glass, thus producing better jars. Today, one can easily identify a new jar.

Mrs. Rogers has purchased several of her jars from flea markets in DeRidder and Sulphur. This month she attended an antique bottle show at Justine's, an old southern home in New Iberia, where she found a few more old jars to add to her collection.

Mrs. Rogers says that some of her jars are valuable, and others are just different, but all are going up in value. The most valuable jar in her collection are a 65th anniversary cobalt blue quart Kerr (1908-1968). The cobalt in the otherwise clear glass has turned one side of the jar a lovely blue; a very rare Melville Atmospheric with a clamp and screw top that holds the glass top in place very snug, which dates from 1858; an amber Kerr; also two amber snuff jars dating 1872, which were used for canning after the snuff was used. The amber jars were used for canning fig preserves because they helped keep the figs and syrup a thick rich dark brown.

Some of the others in her collection are a French's Medford Brand Prepared Mustard jar, several clear, aqua, and blue lightenings, a clear Foster Sealfast; green, aqua and clear telephone; Schram Automatic Sealer; Atlas E-Z Seal; Tight Seal; A blue quart R. E. Teague and Bros. Co. Inc.; Lustex, Phil, Pa.; a clear Texas Mason pint and quart (they have an etched state of Texas on the side and have gained in value from $3 to $10 in the past 6 months.

There are many more valuable jars in Mrs. Rogers collection and each one of the over 100 are different. They may be seen for the next two weeks on display at the Cameron Parish Library in the display case in the foyer.

This is the second display being featured in the local library during the summer months. Mrs. Coral Perry anounced that all durine the summer a different display of local bottle collectors will be exhibited. Mrs. Perry extends an invitation to everyone to come by the library to see the display.

Fishing licenses on sale

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, urged all fishermen to obtain valid 1971-72 fishing licenses immediately, reminding anglers that presently current 1970-71 fishing licenses expire June 30.

He said that a concerted drive will be undertaken by the commission's enforcement division during the Fourth of July holiday period, and that fishermen without valid licenses would be issued citations.

Hoffpauer said that fishing licenses could be purchased at all sheriff's offices and at many sporting goods stores.

The cost of fishing licenses are:

Resident, expires June 30, 1972 - $2

Non-Resident, expires June 30, 1972 - $6

Non-Resident, seven consecutive days - $3

Hoffpauer stated that persons under the age of 16, whether residents or non-residents of the state, are not required to obtain fishing licenses; and that persons who have resided in the state for two or more years prior to application and are 60 years of age or older will be issued free fishing permits.

He added that no fishing license is required of a resident using a rod or pole with hook and line as long as neither a reel or artificial bait is used.

Congressman Explains:

HOW REA LOANS HELP ALL AMERICANS

REA loans for rural electrification are paying big dividends to ALL Americans. Here is how Louisiana's conservative Congressman Otto E. Passman, a successful businessman and member of the House Appropriations Committee, explains his strong support of REA loans:

"Compared to grants to cities, doles and giving away of the people's tax dollars for everything under the sun, including over $200-BILLION for foreign aid, repayable REA loans are a refreshing breeze . . ."

"You have those who criticize the low-interest rate on REA loans. When the interest formula was agreed upon, the government was paying only 1½% for money it borrowed. For years, the government profited from interest on REA loans . . ."

"But, that is only a part of the story . . REA loans are one of the most profitable investments ever made by the government. Not counting increased agricultural production, better living conditions, new industry, new jobs, recreational facilities and hundreds of other benefits from REA loans, here is a factual aspect seldom, if ever, mentioned:

A Fact Seldom Told

"The average rural home bought an average of $1,000 of electric appliances, not counting replacements. This means that every family paid indirectly into the U.S. Treasury $50 in excise taxes. Furthermore, the manufacturers of appliances paid 52% of their net profits on the sales . . . also the distributors, retailers, pay taxes on profits from appliance sales."

"The rural people, who without REA, would not be receiving this vital service, have paid, or caused to be paid into the federal Treasury in excess of $17-BILLION which would have not been paid.

"This alone is nearly TWO-AND-ONE-HALF times the total of all REA loans advanced to bring electricity to rural Americans since 1936. It is just one of the dividends benefiting ALL Americans."

"Also seldom mentioned, is that Electric Co-ops pay state and local ad valorem taxes. They are not nearly as subsidized as many other segments of the private enterprise system, of which the Rural Electrics are a part. For instance, publications alone get a $4-BILLION annual postal subsidy."

"REA-borrowers are among the few repaying the taxpayer anything — a refreshing breeze, indeed," the Congressman emphasized.

Our home-owned Rural Electric Cooperative is helping build a better state and nation while paying great dividends in terms of new taxes generated and progress — in both Town and Country.

Chicken in every pot

By BERNICE STEWART

AS I lifted the golden brown portions of fried chicken from the sizzling fat and placed them on a serving dish, I was reminded of the vast importance of chickens and eggs in the early days of our parish.

They were primarily used for home consumption. Lack of refrigeration precluded the availability of much beef. Supplies of salted pork and smoked bacon and sausages were usually exhausted by early summer.

And, so chicken -- fried, baked, stewed, enriched with dumplings, or providing the basis for gumbos -- found its way almost daily to Cameron tables. On Catholic fast days, if seafoods were not obtainable, the cook utilized eggs in one dish or another.

* * *

"EGG MONEY" was one of the few sources of income open to a housewife. Carefully she wiped the fresh eggs with a soft, dry cloth and counted them into a gallon syrup can, a tin pail, or a small basket.

Occasionally, a merchant might pay her in cash, perhaps as much as a "bit a dozen" for the eggs. Usually, however, she was forced to barter her eggs (take them out in trade) for staples purchased.

At times, a buyer went through the country buying chickens and eggs. A make-shift coop in his wagon accommodated the poultry. The women culled and sold the old hens and roosters no longer wanted on the yard. In some cases, the buyer accepted only fryers.

During spring, hens had a tendency to avoid scaffolds as laying places and to deposit their eggs according to the dictates of their own feathered instinct. Some "stole nests" in bagasse pile or weeds, under a comcrib, or up in a hayloft. Many were discovered; but always some wise old biddy outwitted her owner to emerge later clucking solicitously to her newly hatched brood.

* *

WHEN WE CHILDREN were sent to gather eggs, we were always warned to leave the "nest egg" lest the hen quit laying in that particular spot. A china or wooden egg was often kept in a nest. Besides reassuring the old hen, it was supposed to prove fatal to the chicken make that gulped it down. We were told that a snake, having swallowed eggs, wrapped himself around a post in order to crush them prior to digestion.

"What happens if there is no post around?" we chorused.

"In that case, he slithers up a wall and flings himself to the floor or hard ground," we were informed.

* * *

IN OUR HOME, eggs to be set were first marked with scrolls and cuslicues made with an ink-dipped match. Then, if another hen "laid to the nest" of the setter, the fresh eggs might be recognized and removed.

The first mechanical incubator that I saw belonged to Supt. and Mrs. Thomas W. McCall at Grand Chenier. I observed its hatching with much the same wonder and awe that I felt as I watched our astronauts land on the moon.

The poultry-raiser was seemingly in a constant battle against fleas and chicken mites, "limbsneck" and "pip" (poultry diseases), and varmints, such as coons, opossums, and whasf rats.

On the farm, chickens that broke an unwritten code of their owners were penalized. The sharp spur ends of a belligerent rooster were cut back. Hens that pecked their babies had the tips of their beaks snipped off or were forced to wear a feather-inserted crosswise through their nostrils. Chickens that flew over the fence into the garden had their wings clipped. To cure a hen of "setting" overly long she was placed in a pan of water within a cage.

* * *

ROOSTERS, WE were told, always crowed for a specific reason. Surely in no other field was there such a variety of specifications. They cock-a-doodle-dooed for Christmas or company, midnight or daybreak (the word "dawn" was foreign to early Cameronites) with equal gusto.

I knew but one old hen that crowed. At least, her falsetto was a reasonable facsimile of her mate's. I was intrigued, partly because of the rarity of her performance and partly because of the couplet recited by my grandmother whenever I tried to whistle:

"Whistling girls and a crowing hen
"Shall always come to no good en."

That prophecy proved true for the old hen. She wound up in a gumbo pot. It sort of worked backwards for me. Threat of dire consequences had kept me from attempting my secret desire to whistle as my brother did. When I had outgrown the fear and really tried, I could scarcely muster a sound, never a note till this day.

Lovely Cheri Griffith, Louisiana Fur & Wildlife queen, here places a phone call on the new Cameron Telephone Company Ship-to-Shore system.

The Cameron Telephone Company is pleased to announce the inauguration of Ship-to-Shore radio telephone service, connecting shore telephones with all types of vessels out in the Gulf.

Anyone on shore who wishes to place a telephone call to a vessel in the Gulf has only to call the Marine operator to have his call placed.

The new service will be of great benefit to fishing boats, crew boats, tankers, pleasure boats, etc.

Vessels whose radios are equipped to send and receive on the ship-to-shore channels (156.8 and 161.8) will be able to place telephone calls anywhere in the country by calling the Cameron marine operator, KQU 437 on Channel 24.

McCall clan has first family reunion

The first planned reunion of descendants of Milledge William McCall and his wife, the former Sarah Bray Martin, was held last Sat. in the summer home of Miss Forest Fern Gauthier at Morgan Shores. Assisting her in hospitality duties were her brothers, Gordon Gauthier of Lake Charles; Boyd Gauthier of Baton Rouge; and Clyde Gauthier of Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Curtis Welch of Jennings and Morgan Shores.

The 48 individuals present were from Corpus Christi and Houston, Tex.; Baton Rouge, Indian Bayou, Lafayette, Crowley, Lake Charles, DeQuincy, Jennings, Grand Chenier and Lake Arthur.

The day was spent in fellowship, in conversation, in exchanging family anecdotes that had become tradition, in leafing through scrapbooks of family memorabilia prepared by Miss Gauthier. Younger members boated on the lake. Pictures were made.

Guests, upon arrival, were registered by Mrs. A. P. Stewart and Mrs. Archie Hollister, and name tags were issued. A "covered dish" lunch was served at noon.

Milledge William McCall was born in Georgia on Dec. 24, 1803, and died in Grand Chenier on Aug. 26, 1880. Mrs. McCall, a native of North Carolina, was born Feb. 7, 1809, and died in Grand Chenier on Dec. 16, 1902. They lived for a time in Hinds County at Brownsville, Miss., before journeying to Grand Chenier by way of Abbeville. They are believed to have arrived at the Chenier about 1841 to take up a homestead there. They were the first permanent settlers on Grand Chenier.

Born to Milledge and Sarah McCall were twelve children. Thomas died in infancy. Milledge Bird McCall, second son, was shot by jayhawkers on March 19, 1864. William Harrison McCall, a soldier in the Confederate Army, contracted pneumonia and died on Jan. 23, 1864, in north Louisiana.

Descendants of five children were present Saturday, representing the lines of Eliza Anne Stafford, William H., Albert, James B., and Jessee D. McCall.

Along the river bank there were hundreds of little shelters made from stones taken from the riverbank revetment and covered over with branches, tarpaulars, cardboard or what have you.

Thousands of young people could be seen everywhere in various stages of dress. Most of the young men wore nothing but shorts or ragged britches and practically everyone had long hair and shaggy beards.

(Dozens of planes buzzed over the beaches sight seeing during the first several days creating such a hazard that the FFA had to establish an off-limit air zone around the festival grounds.)

A peculiar musty smell hung over the camp, and it took some time before we realized that it was the odor of marijuana. Many people could be seen smoking what appeared to be marijuana cigarettes, and the marijuana, heroin and pills of all description were being hawked everywhere you looked.

(Why didn't the police arrest the sellers, was the question most people have asked. The answer is that hundreds of arrests were made filling up all of the jails in the area. Informers pointed out "pushers" as they left the grounds at the end of the festival and many arrests were made then. But as far as arresting all of the people on drugs at the festival, it would have taken the entire Louisiana National Guard to have done so.)

We saw one hawker who was selling marijuana seeds and an instruction book on how to grow the plants. He had two of the plants growing in pots which he exhibited to the crowd.

We were impressed by the politeness of the festival goers and by orderliness of the camp. Although we were snapping photographs throughout the camp, no one objected. Only several people spoke to us.

One was a young man who asked for a handout saying that he was about out of money and that the prices of food at the festival was exorbitant.

A young man, dressed in dark garb resembling Salvation Army uniforms, came up and asked for donations to their order, which they said was working with drug addicts at the camp.

In the area where massive stage was being erected for the rock bands, several young hippie-type guards stopped us but permitted us to enter the area after we explained that we were with the press. They cautioned about the construction work as several people had been injured by a falling scaffold earlier.

Long haired workmen in shorts swarmed over the mammouth two-story stage trying to get it ready for the start of music that night. (We had to leave before the music started.)

We saw a number of American flags being flown upside down, a protest symbol, and a number of unprintable signs here and there.

On our way out, we saw unbelievable sight -- a couple on a motorcycle riding around the camp clothed in nothing except a thick coat of river mud.

Whatever you might have to say about the unconventional conduct and dress of the festival goers, you have to admit it was quite a sight. We doubt that we will see the equal again.

Tax vote called on ambulances

Property owners living in the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District will vote Sept. 18 on a two-mill addition to the hospital tax to finance ambulance service for lower Cameron.

The board of commissioners of the district Friday agreed to buy two ambulances from O'Donnell Funeral Home for $8,000.

O'Donnell recently gave notice that the firm was getting out of the ambulance business because new government regulations were making operation prohibitive.

Under an agreement reached between Joe O'Donnell and the hospital board, O'Donnell will continue operating the ambulances until Aug. 1 when the hospital will take over the service.

The hospital district, which is composed of Wards 3 and 2 and the lower part of Ward 1, presently has a three mill hospital tax. Approval of the new millage would increase the tax to five mills. Homestead exemption would not apply.

The new millage is expected to bring in about $30,000 a year for the operation of the ambulance service. In addition, a fee of $15 a call plus $1 per mile would be charged to users of the service.

The hospital plans to hire two additional persons to man the ambulances which will be stationed at the hospital.

Coffeeweeds to be sprayed

Saturday, July 17, has been set as the date for the aerial spraying for the control of coffeeweeds, according to Charles S. Hackett, Cameron-Calcasieu ASCS office manager. The spraying will be done in lower Cameron Parish.

Hackett urged area farmers, who have not done so already, to sign up in the ASCS office in Cameron for cost-sharing under the REAP program.

Under this program, the government cost-shares with the farmer 50% of the cost of carrying out the eradication of competitive shrubs. Hackett also said that farmers must not wait too late to apply because a representative of the local office must visit the farm prior to the spraying.

When a farmer applies for cost share assistance he points out the area to be sprayed on aerial maps of the parish.

Evacuation route program explained

La. Representative Conway LeBleu of Cameron this week issued a statement on construction of the proposed hurricane evacuation route between Cameron and Lake Charles and other phases of the state hurricane protection plan.

In 1968, the Louisiana legislature, by resolution offered by Rep. Richard Guidry of Galliano, created the Legislative Hurricane Protection Sudy Committee. This committee is composed of members of the House and Senate who represent parishes adjacent to the Gulf of Mexico.

Immediately after Hurricane Camille hit Louisiana and Mississippi in 1969, the entire legislature was invited by the committee to take a bus trip into the devastated area of Louisiana, to see the actual destruction. Over two-thirds of the 144 members took the bus trip.

After many meetings of the Legislative committee, and after joint meetings with the Governor's Task Force Committee to study hurricane protection, it was decided that adequate insurance must be provided and that evacuation routes must be built and improved.

Federal flood insurance is now available in Cameron Parish, after much work by the Cameron Parish Police Jury and the Hurricane Committee.

As a further result of these studies, the Hurricane Committee proposed to the Louisiana Long Range Highway Construction Committee a list of projects along the entire coast of Louisiana, which it felt would best serve the needs of the people in the coastal areas.

The 1970 Legislature passed a bond issue, payable out of the General Fund, of over $115 million. A specific amount for each of the projects is set forth in the law. Those projects for Cameron Parish include:

1. Relocation of the Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach Road---$1, 000, -000.
2. High Bridge at Ellenden Ferry site---$6, 300, 000.
3. Gibbstown Bridge---$4, 200, 000.
4. Escape Route (New Highway from Cameron to Lake Charles--$12, 000, 000.

In addition, a new bridge will be built at Kelso Bayou in Hackberry, but will be financed under the Long Range Highway Program.

A new high level bridge will also be constructed at Forked Island in Vermilion Parish, for a cost of $3, 150, 000.

The intent of relocating the Holly Beach-Johnson Bayou road is to move the highway back away from the beach in an effort to correct the flooding problem which is now so serious.

The new bridge at Ellender's Ferry will have a forty-foot roadway, the same as the Gibbstown and Forked Island bridges. It will have a 50 foot vertical clearance with a lift span to 135 feet within a period of 90 seconds.

Gibbstown and Forked Island bridges will have 73 feet of fixed span vertical clearance.

Both the Ellender Ferry Bridge and the Gibbstown Bridge will use identically designed approaches. Ellender's engineering is almost 60% complete, while Gibbstown is 20% complete.

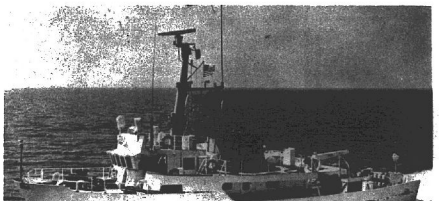
However, when Ellender's is finished, and the approach design is applied to Gibbstown, then Gibbstown will be virtually complete, LeBleu said. The Louisiana Highway Department expects to receive bids on these two bridges by late fall of this year.

The thinking behind the Escape Route road from Cameron going north is to get the people of Cameron away from the Gulf to high ground as quickly as possible. This would eliminate the 12 mile drive parallel to the coast from Cameron to Creole. It would also alleviate the greater portion of the traffic problems that now occur during an evacuation.

It is Rep. LeBleu's hope that in the future, new highways can be built north from Johnson Bayou and also north from the Grand Chenier area to the Lowery area. Also it is hoped to reconstruct the Creole to Hackett's Corner road, to provide a speedy evacuation route from every part of lower Cameron Parish.

LeBleu said that discounting the Forked Island Bridge, Cameron Parish projects amount to $23, -500, 000, which is over 1/5 of the amount of the total bond issue for the state.

The $23, 500, 000 is not Cameron Parish's "share" of the total, LeBleu pointed out, but is the amount of the cost of Cameron Parish's projects, and can be spent only for those items listed in the law.



The RUDE

Vessels to search for Gulf hazards

A four-month search will get underway August in the Gulf of Mexico for dangers to shipping.

The project will be carried out by America's only wire drag vessels, the RUDE and HECK. Their mission, acquiring several years, is to find sunken wrecks and other submerged hazards in the shipping lanes leading to U. S. ports in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida. The Gulf survey was begun last year.

The RUDE and HECK are operated by the National Ocean Survey of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The sister ships are scheduled to leave Norfolk, Va., July 13. They will work this year in the shipping lanes leading to New Orleans and Galveston. The 90-foot, 190-ton vessels are commanded by Cdr. James Collins of Hyannis, Mass., and each carries a normal complement of two officers and a crew of eight.

The NOAA ships will conduct operations within shipping lanes (known also as fairways) first charted by the National Ocean Survey in 1966. The fairways were placed on nautical charts to guide coastal and ocean-going vessels safely between the numerous oil well platforms which rise above the Gulf surface as far out as 60 miles. No drilling structures are allowed in them.

Fairway ports include: Texas--Brownsville, Port Isabel, Port Mansfield, Corpus Christi, Aransas Pass, Port Lavaca, Port O'Connor, Freeport, Houston, Galveston, Orange, Beaumont, Port Neches, Port Arthur; Louisiana--Lake Charles, Cameron, Houma, New Orleans; Mississippi--Gulfport, Biloxi, Pascagoula; Alabama--Mobile; Florida--Pensacola, Panama City, Port St. Joe, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Bradenton, Punta Gorda.

The ships' task will be to search the fairways for partially removed oil platforms, pilings, pipes, sand bars and rocks, wrecks or any submerged object that presents a hazard to vessels. More than 70 reported navigational hazards will be included in the search.

The vessels use a method perfected by the Coast and Geodetic Survey (predecessor of the National Ocean Survey) more than a half century ago. The two craft tow between them a steel wire suspended underwater from surface buoys. The wire, towed at various depths down to 60 feet, is maintained close to the bottom in shallower areas. As it catches on an obstruction, it becomes taut and the surface buoys form a letter V. If necessary, scuba divers examine the obstruction. A determination is then made of the depth over its highest point and its exact location.

Blessing of fleet held here Thursday

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Ah old tradition was revived here last Thursday evening when the first Blessing of the Fleet in years was held in Calcasieu river at Cameron.

In the 1940s and 1950s the shrimping industry was booming so local citizens decided to hold a festival during the July 4th weekend. A shrimp queen was chosen to reign over the festivities. The blessing of the fishing fleet was held and later a fishing rodo evolved from it.

A fishing rodeo queen is not chosen at the present day rodeos, even though at one time they were. Cameron has a State Festival each January, the Fur and Wildlife Festival, where a queen is chosen to reign throughout the year. She is recognized as a state queen and reigns as such with the other state queens.

No one seems to be able to remember why the early Shrimp Festival folded, or the exact date, but it was in the early 1950s. The annual fishing rodeo, as we know it today was revived in the late 1950s with on-shore activities being participated in by the local people. However, the "Blessing of the Fleet" ceremony was not incorporated into the event until this year.

Father Alcide Sonnier, pastor of the Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Cameron blessed the parade of boats this year. Father Sonnier was stationed on the "Sunrise No. III" owned by "T-Boy" McCall and blessed each boat as it passed. The parade of boats was led by the Sheriff's boat.

During the ceremony a choir stationed on the Rockefeller Refuge boat anchored out in the river was singing. Mrs. W. J. Broussard accompanied the choir on an electric organ and the choir was led by Larry Dyson.

Plans are being made to keep the "Blessing of the Fleet" a regular part of the annual July 4th fishing rodeo year, now that it has been revived.

Man injured in well blowout

Boat traffic in the Intracoastal Canal near Sweet Lake was held up for awhile Friday night after an oil well in the lake blew out causing injuries to one worker.

Noland Hulin, 43, of New Iberia was admitted to St. Patrick Hospital. A hospital spokesman said Hulin received minor injuries.

The blow out occurred about 7 p. m. on a well belonging to Union Oil Co., according to State Police.

A Union Oil worker said Hulin was the driller on the rig.

Coop to meet here Monday

The annual meeting of the members of the Jefferson Davis Electric Cooperative has been set for Monday, July 12, at 10 a. m. in Cameron, according to J. S. Robbins, Coop. manager. It will be held in the auditorium of the Cameron Elementary School. Registrations will begin at 9 a. m. on that morning.

The meeting is being held for the purpose of electing directors for Districts Two, Four, Six, and Eight, who will serve for the coming two years; and for the purpose of passing upon reports from the previous fiscal year, and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

Robins said it is important that as many members as possible attend the annual meeting of this Cooperative.

Appointment of teachers made

They were: Mrs. Ann Gray, Hackberry high school; Henry Griffin, South Cameron elementary; Claire Briggs and Charles R. Vining, Johnson Bayou high school; and Mrs. Barbara Reppond, South Cameron high school.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Carolyn Chamber and Mrs. Kathy Pickett, teachers at Cameron elementary.

Conner named Grand Knight

Grand Knight, Eddie Joe Conner; Deputy Grand Knight, Robert Landry; Chancelor, Darrel East; Advocate, Lynex Richard; Warden, Fredman Theriot; Inside Guard, Bobby Baccigalopi; Outside Gaurd, Gary Baccigalopi; Treasurer, Dalton Richard; Recorder, Don Broussard; 3 year Trustee, Blane Bonsall.

Pat Doland presented The Youth Expansion Program trophy from the state deputy and the distance tennis trophy.

Applications were read and approved for Robert D. Theriot and Lawrence LeBoeuf and transfer for F. J. Gaspard.

Welfare office

Lebnard Sonnier, Cameron Parish welfare visitor, announced that he will be on military leave July 5 - 17. During that time the local welfare office will be open on Monday and Wednesday only, from 9:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m.

Sonnier says that if an emergency arises participants in the welfare program may contact Mrs. M. Miller in the Calcasieu Welfare office in Lake Charles.

Library has pattern books

A new service has been added at the Cameron Parish library, according to Mrs. Coral Perry, librarian. In order to fill the needs of the fashion conscious and seamstresses in the parish, counter pattern books from Simplicity, Butterick, McCall and Vogue patterns have been added to the list of books and magazines to be checked out.

Mrs. Perry said that the new editions a year will be available for library patrons.

Seay awarded commendation

Army Sergeant Alex R. Seay, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Seay, Hackberry, recently received the Army Commendation Medal near Duc Pho, Vietnam.

The medal was awarded for meritorious service. Such service can be over an extended period of time or for outstanding achievement in a single situation. In either case, the recipient must have demonstrated skills and dedication far above the average.

Sgt. Seay received the award while assigned as a rifleman in Company D, 3rd Battalion, 1st Infantry of the 23rd Infantry Division's 11th Infantry Brigade.

He also holds the combat infantryman badge.

SLEEP SICKNESS THREAT IS TOLD

NEWSPAPER MICROFILM

The Venezuelan type of sleeping sickness among horses has been discovered in East Texas and a federal vaccination program is expected to set up in Cameron parish within the next week or so, County Agent Clifford Myers said this week.

Cases of the sleeping sickness have been reported just across the Sabine River in Port Arthur, Texas.

Because of this emergency a meeting concerning tuberculosis in cattle which had been scheduled to be held Thursday night at the Cameron elementary school has been cancelled. The federal veterinarians, who were to have been with parish cattlemen, will be tied up with the horse program.

Myers urged any Cameron parish home owner to call his office immediately if any of their horses are discovered to be acting strangely. A test will be made on the horse to determine if it has the sleeping sickness.

The county agent said, that while the details have not been worked out yet, it is expected that the federal veterinarians will set up a program to administer the vaccine to horses in the parish. He said the vaccine would be free.

Myers said the Venezuelan strain of the disease is different from the Eastern and Western types of sleeping sickness.

The agent said that the disease was dangerous not only to horses but also can be transmitted to humans. He stressed the importance of getting all horses vaccinated as soon as the vaccine is available here.

WORKMEN HERE prepare to move the back half of Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic church's old santuary. The church, which has stood on the courthouse square for years, has been replaced by a new building.

Old church is moved

An old landmark has disappeared from the Cameron Courthouse Square. The wood building which formerly housed Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church has been moved back of the new church, which was dedicated last year.

The old church was built in 1937 and was a Mission of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Catholic Church of Creole. The Rev. F. I. Bishop was the pastor.

Before the church was built, Mass was held in the courtroom of the Cameron courthouse each Sunday by a priest from the Creole church.

The 60-foot building was built on the square as a donation of John Daigle, Rudolph L. Richard and Mark Richard. The altar was donated by F. D. Phelan of Beaumont, Tex.

In the 1950s, the church was doubled with an addition of 60 more feet. It was also made into a parish and the name was changed to Our Lady Star of the Sea.

The Rev. Alcide Sonnier, pastor, directed moving operations. He said that it will be used as an educational building, where classrooms will be set up for the teaching of catechism.

RACE TRACK PLANNED

A 200-foot scale model of a proposed race track and entertainment mecca for Cameron Parish near the Sabine causeway was on display at a public planning meeting at the American Legion home in Port Arthur Tuesday.

Dr. J. W. Doughty, a 36-year-old Vidor, Tex., veterinarian who is promoting the race track, said, "We already have the 40 acres needed for our track and need about 50 more acres for the amusement rides."

Doughty said the plans were incomplete but the track's grandstand and a planned motel will overlook Sabine Lake.

He could not estimate the total cost, but said, "It will be pretty big.

"We plan to map our strategy for making application for the race track with your Louisiana government," he said.

Doughty said he heads a committee promoting the track plans. He said committee members include Jim J. Flanagan of Port Arthur Steamship Co. and Bob Trimm of Beaumont, a member of the Hug-The-Coast Highway Commission.

He said most parking facilities will be on Pleasure Island, the land area near Port Arthur which is the subject of a boundary dispute between Louisiana and Texas.

Shrimp season is extended in lake

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, today announced that there will be a ten day extension of the 1971 spring shrimp season on Calcasieu Lake, making the new closing effective midnight, July 25.

Hoffpauer stated that data from this and previous seasons have shown the movement of harvestable brown shrimp into Calcasieu Lake during the first weeks of July and said that the season as set by law is basically designed for the shrimp population that occurs in the eastern portion of the state.

"Past experience has shown that the fisheries for Calcasieu Lake generally produces the best grade of shrimp just prior to closure of the spring season," according to Hoffpauer.

He added that it appears an extension of the current season for a period of 10 days will be in order to more fully utilize the fisheries and to realize their maximum production.

This extension will cover Calcasieu Lake Proper and that the Turner's Bay area, located at the north end of Calcasieu Lake, the Mud Lake and Old River area above East and West Pass will not be extended past the July 15, closing date.

Hoffpauer noted that this extension is subject to a 24 hour notice to close the area if problems develop in regard to enforcing the boundaries or if the examination of catches indicate sufficient numbers of undersize white shrimp being taken.

1100 acres to be sprayed

Around 1100 acres will be sprayed for eradication of coffeeweed Saturday, July 24, in Cameron Parish. The date for the aerial spraying had originally been set for July 17, according to agricultural agencies in the parish, but has been set forward a week due to the extreme drouth in the lower part of the parish.

Clifford Myers, Cameron County Agent explained that during a drouth of this magnitude, tiny plants from the coffeeweeds which have lain dormant for long periods of time, break through the ground. He said that the 2-4-D which is used in the eradication is for a contact kill and will only destroy the plants which are sprayed. For this reason it was decided to put off the spraying so more plants could be killed.

The government, through the REAP program, is costsharing with the farmers and cattlemen 50 percent of the cost of carrying out this conservation practice. To be eligible, a producer must sign up for cost-sharing in the ASCS office. A representative of the local ASCS county committee must visit the farm to determine that the practice is needed before the work is started.

Sheriff Claude Eagleson

Eagleson asks re-election

Claude Eagleson announced his candidacy for reelection as sheriff of Cameron Parish this week. He is seeking his third term of office.

The Sheriff has been a supporter of the Cameron Little League teams. He said when he took office 8 years ago he pledged to the people that he would put his full support behind this program.

Eagleson stated that he was appointed a juvenile Officer for the Parish and plans to have a Junior Deputy Program going all over the Parish this fall. He has already started a pilot program on Hackberry.

During his term of office Eagleson has added cars to all Wards in the Parish and has put deputies on 24 hour call in all wards. He has also put deputies on 8 hour shifts in the town of Cameron at all times.

He established detectives who do nothing but investigation work. He also has six men trained on the intoximeter, with working hours so arranged that there will be one on duty at all times to check DWIs.

Sheriff Eagleson has sent all his men, within the allowance given him, to the L. S. U. training school, on different phases of law enforcement.

He also held a 15 week retrainer course in Cameron Parish to train the department personnel on the changing phases of law enforcement.

Eagleson is at this time installing radio equipment and a 77 foot tower at a cost of $15,000 that will assure the citizens of Cameron Parish continuous communications outside of the parish in case of hurricane or other disasters.

The Sheriff said that the records will speak for themselves on the convictions on narcotics and other offenses.

Eagleson is married to the former Hortense Conner of Lake Arthur, and

550 connections made to sewer

Dr. R. F. Miller, director of the Cameron Parish Health Unit, advised some 550 premises have been connected, or have made arrangements with plumbers to make the connection to the Cameron public sewer system.

These connections have been made voluntarily since the sewer system has been completed. No notices of violations have as yet been issued.

Dr. Miller said that there are some individuals who have not made arrangements to connect to the sewer system who will be contacted during the coming weeks to determine if legal notices will be necessary. He stated that the Sanitary Code of the State of Louisiana provides that all premises within 300 ft. of a sewer main or lateral must connect thereto.

Commercial establishments that have not been connected will be contacted first after which residential property owners will be contacted. Dr. Miller advised that if proper connections are not made within a reasonable period of time, legal action will be instituted again the owners.

If all premises in the community are not connected to the sewer system the community is not afforded protection from outbreaks of diseases normally transmitted through humane wastes. The home owner who connects to the public sewer system is affording protection to his neighbor, but if the neighbor does not connect to the sewer system the connected home owner is not afforded the same protection.

Classroom to be moved

Supt. W. R. Smith explained the move was necessary because shifting of students from Cameron to South Cameron due to promotions.

The shift also caused the rerouting of a school bus. Winston Theriot, who drove a bus to Cameron elementary this past year, will drive a bus between Cameron and South Cameron this fall.

Goldie Washington was named as a bus driver for South Cameron elementary and high school, replacing Agnes Nash, who is retiring.

Adam G. Nunez

Gabe Nunez to be candidate

Adam G. Nunez, Lake Charles attorney, has announced that he will be a candidate for state representative in the November Democratic primary.

He will be seeking one of the four posts in the Calcasieu-Cameron House district.

A native of Lake Arthur, Nunez is a graduate of the LSU School of Geology and the LSU Law School. He has been a practicing attorney for nine years.

Nunez, 38, is married to the former Patricia Wellman of Texas City, Tex. They have one son, Craig, 9.

He is a certified lay speaker for the United Methodist Church, and assistant scoutmaster of the Boy Scouts of America and a director and past secretary-treasurer of the Lions Club.

Nunez is a veteran, having been honorably discharged from the U. S. Air Force with the rank of captain. He speaks French fluently.

Nunez maintained a law office in Cameron for six years and was formerly associated in Nunez Insurance Agency of Creole and Grand Chenier.

He is the son of the late Adam Nunez, who was a native of Grand Chenier and owned and operated the Delta freight boat between Grand Chenier and Lake Arthur.

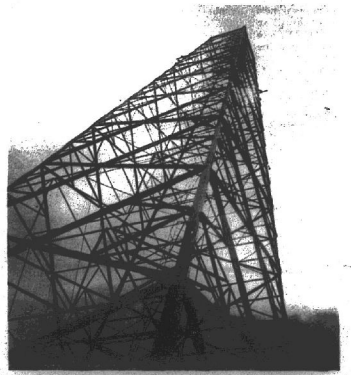
950 flood policies sold in the parish

Francis Klein, chairman of the Cameron Parish USDA County Defense Board, announced that as of June 18, 950 National Flood Insurance policies had been sold in Cameron Parish. Klein said he was very proud that this represents almost a complete coverage for the lower part of the parish, which is the part of the parish which would be affected during a flood.

The National Flood Insurance Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Through this program, Flood Insurance has been available since early 1970 in some areas of the United States, Klein said.

In early 1971 the USDA was requested by HUD to disseminate information on the program. A listing was sent out of areas eligible for flood insurance. Cameron Parish became eligible under an emergency program on June 12, 1970 and the regular program was initiated on Sept. 4, 1970.

Klein pointed out that the uninsured are not eligible to receive Federal Disaster Relief Assistance for their property in event of a flood subsequent to one year after the effective date of the Flood Insurance Program. This provision does not apply to low income persons for whom such a restriction would cause undue hardship, Klein pointed out.



THIS 200-FOOT tower was recently erected at Cameron by the Cameron Telephone Company to provide the company's new ship-to-shore telephone service.

Shrimp fleet docks at G.C.

By ELORA MONTIE

The tropical wave in the Gulf, which did not become a hurricane and which moved inland near Corpus Christi, did cause some 20 shrimp boats to come up the new Mermentau river ship channel for safety.

They docked along the new Crain Bros. and Transocean Oil Co. docks and also along the riverbank.

With the opening of navigation on the Mermentau shrimp boats and other boats should become a familiar sight to local residents.

Congressman Explains:
HOW REA LOANS HELP ALL AMERICANS

REA loans for rural electrification are paying big dividends to ALL Americans. Here is how Louisiana's conservative Congressman Otto E. Passman, a successful businessman and member of the House Appropriations Committee, explains his strong support of REA loans:

"Compared to grants to cities, doles and giving away of the people's tax dollars for everything under the sun, including over $200-BILLION for foreign aid, repayable REA loans are a refreshing breeze . . .

"You have those who criticize the low-interest rate on REA loans. When the interest formula was agreed upon, the government was paying only 1½% for money it borrowed. For years, the government profited from interest on REA loans . . ."

"But, that is only a part of the story . . REA loans are one of the most profitable investments ever made by the government. Not counting increased agricultural production, better living conditions, new industry, new jobs, recreational facilities and hundreds of other benefits from REA loans, here is a factual aspect seldom, if ever, mentioned:

A Fact Seldom Told

"The average rural home bought an average of $1,000 of electric appliances, not counting replacements. This means that every family paid indirectly into the U.S. Treasury $50 in excise taxes. Furthermore, the manufacturers of appliances paid 52% of their net profits on the sales . . . also the distributors, retailers, pay taxes on profits from appliance sales."

"The rural people, who without REA, would not be receiving this vital service, have paid, or caused to be paid into the federal Treasury in excess of $17-BILLION which would have not been paid.

"This alone is nearly TWO-AND-ONE-HALF times the total of all REA loans advanced to bring electricity to rural Americans since 1936. It is just one of the dividends benefiting ALL Americans."

"Also seldom mentioned, is that Electric Co-ops pay state and local ad valorem taxes. They are not nearly as subsidized as many other segments of the private enterprise system, of which the Rural Electrics are a part. For instance, publications alone get a $4-BILLION annual postal subsidy."

"REA-borrowers are among the few repaying the taxpayer anything — a refreshing breeze, indeed," the Congressman emphasized.

Our home-owned Rural Electric Cooperative is helping build a better state and nation while paying great dividends in terms of new taxes generated and progress — in both Town and Country.

By BERNICE STEWART

The geographical nomenclature of Southwest Louisiana runs true to that of other parts of the world. Some of the names are originally those of early settlers, Indian tribes, nations, famous persons, and saints. Others are based on particular physical features of the land. Many are derived from names of animals, flowers, or trees. Some may be traced to Biblical, classical, or historical writings. A few feature the abstract and the whimsical. A number of the names are combinations of one or more words or are corruptions of the same.

Cameron, the name of our parish was discussed at length in the centennial editions of THE PILOT last year. It seems certain that it was the surname of a man, but which particular man received the honor rests in obscurity.

There are two explanations for Mermentau, both of Indian origin. The first is that Mermentau is derived from both French and Indian--from the French, "mer," meaning ocean, sea, or a large body of water, and the Attakapas "Immanatu," name of an Indian chief. However, Dr. William Alexander Read in his book, LOUISIANA PLACE NAMES OF INDIAN ORIGIN, claims that Mermentau is a form of Mementou, name of an Attakapas chief in the last quarter of the 18th century. In 1784, Mementou sold a tract of land and subsequently was mentioned as the chief of the village by the river of the same name.

Through a clerical error, Nementou became Mementou. The latter was, in turn, corrupted by folk etymology into Mermentau through confusion with French "mer," meaning sea, as we have noted.

From "The War of the Rebellion - Correspondence" we find that the correct spelling for the river in the 1860's was Mermentau.

Since the parish of Cameron was carved in part from old Imperial Calcasieu and since the river by that name flows through the parish, let us consider the name. Calcasieu is of Attakapas origin, from "katkesh," meaning "eagle" and "sok," "to cry." This appelation, "Crying Eagle," was the war title of an Indian chief living along the river from which the parish later borrowed the name.

Subsequent spellings found on early maps or in land records have been Calkousiouk, 1807; Culkeshoe, 1816; Kelke-chate, 1817; Quelqueshoe, 1815; Calcasult, still later.

Lacassine, the name of bayou and a wildlife refuge within the parish, derive their name from Chief Lacassine of the Comanche tribe. Each year during the hunting season in the early 1800's the Comanches migrated into Southwest Louisiana. When the season ended, they returned to their homes in the central part of the state. There came a day, however, when Lacassine and his squaw settled near what is now the village of Lacassine in Jefferson Davis Parish.

The settlement of Lowery bears the surname of a Terre Haute, Indiana, man, a Capt. Lowery, who had purchased an 8,000 acre plantation from Desire Hebert and who attempted large-scale rice-farming on it.

Such names as Lakeside, Grand Lake, North Island, Hackberry are easily conjectured. Since "chenière" meant "a grove of oaks," and since oak trees were there in abundance, the term is a part of the name of many settlement -- Grand Chenier, Little Chenier, Chenière Perdue (Lost Chenière), Chenière du Fond (a terrain of oak trees) then Oak Grove itself with its anglicized version.

Johnson's Bayou and Leesburg (old name for the town of Cameron) were named for early settlers.

Intelsmier, which is one of the branches from the main ridge of Grand Chenier, may have been named for an early pioneer. It may also be a corruption of the word "latanier," meaning "palmetto." Cow Island, another branch, derived its name from the herds of wild cattle roaming the ridge when the white man explored it.

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare had one of his characters soliloquize. "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Undoubtedly, but it is interesting and informative to learn why and by whom our towns and waterways were so called.

Vaccination of horses in Cameron parish and southwest Louisiana against a mosquito-borne strain of sleeping sickness is expected to begin Friday, but locations of the vaccination stations have not been announced yet.

No cases of the Venezuelan type of sleeping sickness have been confirmed in Louisiana as yet, but hundreds of horses have died from the disease in Texas.

There have also been numerous cases of the disease in humans in Texas and one death of a small child. In most cases, the disease is mild in humans.

640,000 acres to be sprayed

Some 640,000 acres of Cameron will be sprayed this week to kill the mosquitoes to try to stop the spread of home sleeping sickness that has moved into south Texas from Mexico. The disease is spread by mosquitoes.

T. E. Kinsey, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture plant protection supervisor for Louisiana, who is in charge of the operation, said that four huge DC-3 airplanes will spray each acre with 3 ounces of technical Malathion, which is expected to kill mosquitoes and yet not harm wildlife and fish.

Marian Aerspray, Inc. of Savanna, Ga. has been hired to do the spraying and will be based at the Lake Charles Municipal Airport.

Mr. Kinsey said 80,000 acres, mostly along the Sabine River, also will be sprayed in the same operation, which is expected to take four or five days.

A second spraying will be done seven days later.

The area to be sprayed in Cameron parish is located between Highway 27 (the Creole road) and the Texas border and generally north to the Calcasieu line. The towns in the area, including Cameron and Creole, will be sprayed, but no large bodies of water will be sprayed, which will leave out Calcasieu Lake.

The planes will carry 540 gallons of the insecticide at a load and will operate at 200 foot heights. They will fly in tandem and will use landmarks to line up their runs.

The USDA will have a pilot in a small single engine plane who will monitor the spraying.

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The search for adventure brought three young people through Cameron Parish this week on their way from Canada to South America.

The trio is composed of two handsome Canadians, Kelly McGuire, 22, of Vancouver, British Columbia and Earl Constantine, 21, of Montreal and Rae Mathews, 26, of New Orleans.

McGuire and Constantine left Montreal on April 23 on 10-speed English bicycles and rode the two-wheelers 1400 miles to Murray, Kentucky.

At Murray State University, they became acquainted with Ed Jajosky, a professor who convinced them they should continue their trip south by the rivers, taking their bikes with them.

How could they do this? They had each left with $100 each for expense money for the trip. The logical answer - build it. They purchased the supplies and built a 17 foot fiberglass canoe for $40. First they made the mold and molded the boat around it. It took them seven days. They donated the mold to the University for use in making other canoes.

They dismantled their bicycles and loaded them on the canoe for the trip South and launched it at Kentucky Lake, then went down the Tennessee River, and into the Ohio River. At Cairo, Ill., they entered the Mississippi River and traveled on down to New Orleans.

At New Orleans they met Miss Mathews who was the editor of the Nola Express and does legal research work. She explained that some people call the newspaper an "underground paper" but it really isn't at all. She became interested in their trip and decided to join them.

I asked her what her parents thought about her joining two boys on a trip of this kind and she answered that at first they were shocked, but after considering that she was 26 years old, she was old enough to know her own mind. She only weighs 100 pounds, but manages to keep up with the boys.

These youths are definitely not hippies. They are very well groomed and clean. They say they always manage to get a bath every day along the way.

Earl has a degree in psychology from Carlton University and plans to get more education when he has completed and gotten rid of his "wunderlust." Kelly had not been to college, but has had a lot of practical experience working at resorts in the Canadian Rockies.

It was in the Rockies last summer that the two young men met and starting their trip to South America. Kelly had broken his leg and it was in a cast for six months. He decided that the Ocean Protein has a menhaden plant at Cameron, but the two pilots were working for the firm's Dulac plant.

The dead men were identified as Norbert Guthrie, who at one time lived in Cameron and Gordon Ellis.

The bodies of the men and plane wreckage were picked up by two pogy boats later that day.

Tourney to be held at Creole

A men's slow pitch softball playoff will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Creole field with the first game set for 7 p. m. Friday.

Teams in the playoff are Comeaux's, Trosclair's, Bailey's, and Marlins.

A peewee little league exhibition game will be held prior to the final game of the tournament. The final game is at 6:30 p. m. Sunday.

An all star team will be announced and a first place league trophy and first, second and third playoff trophies will be awarded.

Sheriffs to meet here Fri.

Cameron Parish Sheriff Claude Eagleson will be the host at a state meeting of the Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement Friday night at the Cameron Recreation Center. The business is slated to get underway at 5 p. m. followed by a seafood supper and reception.

It is expected that many of the candidates for governor will be on hand for the occasion. Approximately 30 Louisiana Sheriffs will attend along with the judges, district attorneys, state representatives and the publisher of the Louisiana Peace Officer Magazine will be a special guest.

The Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement was formed about three years ago. It is composed of the Sheriffs in Southwest Louisiana. It was formed so the local departments could have better coordination and understanding of area problems. They discuss law enforcement problems, legislation, and mutual problems.

Information should be given to Mrs. Bernice Bertrand at the South Cameron Memorial Hospital between the hours of 9 and 10 a. m. and 2 and 4 p. m. - Mondays through Fridays.

The hospital will take over the operation of ambulance service in Cameron parish as of Aug. 1. A two-mill property tax election has been called for Sept. 18 to provide funds for the operation of the service.

Winds do damage here

A sudden rain squall, accompanied by what may have been a small twister, hit Cameron about noon Tuesday causing scattered damage.

At the airstrip, a small fish spotter plane owned by Gulf Menhaden Co., was pulled from its moorings and flipped over on it back causing extensive damage.

A trailer owned by C. B. Kornegay and parked across the street from Kornegay's Grocery was flipped over on its side.

By BERNICE STEWART

The geographical nomenclature of Southwest Louisiana runs true to that of other parts of the world. Some of the names are originally those of early settlers, Indian tribes, nations, famous persons, and saints. Others are based on particular physical features of the land. Many are derived from names of animals, flowers, or trees. Some may be traced to Biblical, classical, or historical writings. A few feature the abstract and the whimsical. A number of the names are combinations of one or more words or are corruptions of the same.

Cameron, the name of our parish was discussed at length in the centennial editions of THE PILOT last year. It seems certain that it was the surname of a man, but which particular man received the honor rests in obscurity.

There are two explanations for Mermentau, both of Indian origin. The first is that Mermentau is derived from both French and Indian--from the French, "mer," meaning ocean, sea, or a large body of water, and the Attakapas "Immanatu," name of an Indian chief. However, Dr. William Alexander Read in his book, LOUISIANA PLACE NAMES OF INDIAN ORIGIN, claims that Mermentau is a form of Mementou, name of an Attakapas chief in the last quarter of the 18th century. In 1784, Mementou sold a tract of land and subsequently was mentioned as the chief of the village by the river of the same name.

Through a clerical error, Nementou became Mementou. The latter was, in turn, corrupted by folk etymology into Mermentau through confusion with French "mer," meaning sea, as we have noted.

From "The War of the Rebellion - Correspondence" we find that the correct spelling for the river in the 1860's was Mermentau.

Since the parish of Cameron was carved inpart from old Imperial Calcasieu and since the river by that name flows through the parish, let us consider the name. Calcasieu is of Attakapas origin, from "katkeih," meaning "earlet" and "sok," "to cry." The appelation, "Crying Eagle," was the war title of an Indian chief living along the river from which the parish later borrowed the name.

Subsequent spellings found on early maps or in land records have been Calkoustouk, 1807; Culkeshoe, 1815; Kelkecahute, 1817; Quelqueshoe, 1818; Calcasult, still later.

Lacassine, the name of bayou and a wildlife refuge within the parish, derive their name from Chief Lacassine of the Comanche tribe. Each year during the hunting season in the early 1800's the Comanches migrated into Southwest Louisiana. When the season ended, they returned to their homes in the central part of the state. There came a day, however, when Lacassine and his squaw settled near what is now the village of Lacassine in Jefferson Davis Parish.

The settlement of Lowery bears the surname of a Terre Haute, Indiana, man, a Capt. Lowery, who had purchased an 8,000 acre plantation from Desire Hebert and who attempted large-scale rice-farming on it.

Such names as Lakeside, Grand Lake, North Island, Hackberry are easily conjectured. Since "chenieres" meant "a grove of oaks," and since oak trees were there in abundance, the term is a part of the name of many settlement -- Grand Chenier, Little Chenier, Chenieres Perdue (Lost Chenieres), Chenieres du Fond (a terrain of oak trees) then Oak Grove itself with its anglicized version.

Johnson's Bayou and Leesburg (old name for the town of Cameron) were named for early settlers.

Lataignier, which is one of the branches from the main ridge of Grand Chenier, may have been named for an early pioneer. It may also be a corruption of the word "latanier," meaning "palmetto." Cow Island, another branch, derived its name from the herds of wild cattle roaming the ridge when the white man explored it.

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare had one of his characters soliloquize. "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Undoubtedly, but it is interesting and informative to learn why and by whom our towns and waterways were so called.

TWO CANADIANS, Kelly McGuire and Earl Constantine, and a New Orleans girl, Rae Mathews, paused briefly in Cameron Tuesday while on a bicycle trip to South America.

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The search for adventure brought three young people through Cameron Parish this week on their way from Canada to South America.

The trio is composed of two handsome Canadians, Kelly McGuire, 22, of Vancouver, British Columbia and Earl Constantine, 21, of Montreal and Rae Mathews, 25, of New Orleans.

McGuire and Constantine left Montreal on April 23 on 10-speed English bicycles and rode the two-wheelers 1400 miles to Murray, Kentucky.

At Murray State University, they became acquainted with Ed Jajosky, a professor who convinced them they should continue their trip south by the rivers, taking their bikes with them.

How could they do this? They had each left with $100 each for expense money for the trip. The logical answer - build it. They purchased the supplies and built a 17 foot fiberglass canoe for $40. First they made the mold and molded the boat around it. It took them seven days. They donated the mold to the University for use in making other canoes.

They dismantled their bicycles and loaded them on the canoe for the trip South and launched it at Kentucky Lake, then went down the Tennessee River, and into the Ohio River. At Cairo, Ill., they entered the Mississippi River and traveled on down to New Orleans.

At New Orleans they met Miss Mathews who was the editor of the Nola Express and does legal research work. She explained that some people call the newspaper an "underground paper" but it really isn't at all. She became interested in their trip and decided to join them.

I asked her what her parents thought about her joining two boys on a trip of this kind and she answered that at first they were shocked, but after considering that she was 26 years old, she was old enough to know her own mind. She only weighs 100 pounds, but manages to keep up with the boys.

These youths are definitely not hippies. They are very well groomed and clean. They say they always manage to get a bath every day along the way.

Earl has a degree in psychology from Carlton University and plans to get more education when he has completed and gotten rid of his "wanderlust." Kelly had not been to college, but has had a lot of practical experience working at resorts in the Canadian Rockies.

It was in the Rockies last summer that the two young men met and starting their trip to South America. Kelly had broken his leg and it was in a cast for six months. He decided that the

Two pilots die in plane crash

Two pilots flying fish spotting planes for Ocean Protein Corp. of Lafayette were killed when the planes collided south of Morgan City in the Gulf.

Ocean Protein has a menhaden plant at Cameron, but the two pilots were working for the firm's Dulac plant.

The dead men were identified as Norbert Guthrie, who at one time lived in Cameron and Gordon Ellis.

The bodies of the men and plane wreckage were picked up by two pogy boats later that day.

Tourney to be held at Creole

A men's slow pitch softball playoff will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Creole field with the first game set for 7 p.m. Friday.

Teams in the playoff are Comeaux's, Trosclair's, Salley's, and Martins.

A peewee little league exhibition game will be held prior to the final game of the tournament. The final game is at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

An all star team will be announced and a first place league trophy and first, second and third playoff trophies will be awarded.

Dwight Erbelding

Erbelding is Jury candidate

Dwight Erbelding, a native of Johnson Bayou, announces that he will be a candidate for Police Juror in Ward 5 in the November Democratic Primary.

A graduate of Johnson Bayou High School, he is married to the former Judy Trahan, also of Johnson Bayou, and they have three children.

Dallas Domingue

Domingue gets special award

Dallas Domingue of Cameron, highway maintenance superintendent for Cameron Parish, has been awarded a trophy for excellence of work production.

The award was in recognition of Mr. Domingue's departmental efforts in attaining the "best work production rate in the six parishes of Highway District 07" for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Mr. Domingue used 59.95 percent of the man hours normally required to complete the quantity of work performed, using planning, scheduling and work procedures outlined in a new maintenance management system of the department.

Other parishes and their district standings, include Jefferson Davis Parish, A. W. Chaisson, parish superintendent, second with 60.96 percent of the man hours required; Beauregard Parish, Henry A. Fazzi, parish superintendent, third with 72.32 percent; Calcasieu Parish, Joseph W. Higginbotham, parish superintendent, fourth with 83.76 percent; Allen Parish, Julius D. King, parish superintendent, fifth with 84.92; and Evangeline Parish, Aaron M. O'Neal, parish superintendent, sixth with 97.46 percent.

Sheriffs to meet here Fri.

Cameron Parish Sheriff Claude Eagleson will be the host at a state meeting of the Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement Friday night at the Cameron Recreation Center. The business is slated to get underway at 5 p.m. followed by a seafood supper and reception.

It is expected that many of the candidates for governor will be on hand for the occasion. Approximately 30 Louisiana Sheriffs will attend along with the judges, district attorneys, state representatives and the publisher of the Louisiana Peace Officer Magazine will be a special guest.

The Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement was formed about three years ago. It is composed of the Sheriffs in Southwest Louisiana. It was formed so the local departments could have better coordination and understanding of area problems. They discuss law enforcement problems, legislation, and mutual problems.

Yankees are parish champs

The Cameron Minor League Yankees nosed out the Hackberry Mustangs last week at the Cameron Parish Little League field in Cameron to become the parish champions.

640,000 acres to be sprayed

Some 640,000 acres of Cameron will be sprayed this week to kill the mosquitoes to try to stop the spread of horse sleeping sickness that has moved into south Texas from Mexico. The disease is spread by mosquitoes.

T. E. Kinsey, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture plant protection supervisor for Louisiana, who is in charge of the operation, said that four huge DC-3 airplanes will spray each acre with 3 ounces of technical Malathion, which is expected to kill mosquitoes and yet not harm wildlife and fish.

Marian Airspray, Inc. of Savanna, Ga. has been hired to do the spraying and will be based at the Lake Charles Municipal Airport.

Mr. Kinsey said 90,000 acres, mostly along the Sabine River, also will be sprayed in the same operation, which is expected to take four or five days.

A second spraying will be done seven days later.

The area to be sprayed in Cameron parish is located between Highway 27 (the Creole road) and the Texas border and generally north to the Calcasieu line. The towns in the area, including Cameron and Creole, will be sprayed, but no large bodies of water will be sprayed, which will leave out Calcasieu Lake.

The planes will carry 540 gallons of the insecticide at a load and will operate at 200 foot height. They will fly in tandem and will use landmarks to line up their runs.

The USDA will have a pilot in a small single engine plane who will monitor the spraying.

Trailer brakes to be required

Brakes are now required on all trailers, with the exception of farm use trailers, as of July 1, State Trooper John Prescott reminded parish trailer owners this week. This includes boat trailers.

However, farm trailers which have farm license tags, will not be required to have the brakes until July 1972.

The brakes are required by a new state law.

Ambulance list is sought here

Due to the uncertainty of the ambulance service, the people of the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District are again reminded to submit names of patients to the South Cameron Memorial Hospital who cannot be moved other than by ambulance when and if an evacuation is ordered because of a hurricane threat.

Information should be given to Mrs. Bernice Bertrand at the South Cameron Memorial Hospital between the hours of 9 and 10 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m. - Mondays through Fridays.

The hospital will take over the operation of ambulance service in Cameron parish as of Aug. 1. A two-mill property tax election has been called for Sept. 18 to provide funds for the operation of the service.

Winds do damage here

A sudden rain squall, accompanied by what may have been a small twister, hit Cameron about noon Tuesday causing scattered damage.

At the airstrip, a small fish spotter plane owned by Gulf Menhaden Co., was pulled from its moorings and flipped over on it back causing extensive damage.

No other reports of damage were received, although many small branches were blown from trees and some hail fell.

Creole Boy Scout Troop 202 are seen in the above picture, participating in a Flag Raising ceremony on July 4, just before leaving for Camp Edgewood.

The scouts will be coming home Saturday.

MUSING . . .

By BERNICE STEWART

The geographical nomenclature of Southwest Louisiana runs true to that of other parts of the world. Some of the names are originally those of early settlers, Indian tribes, nations, famous persons, and saints. Others are based on particular physical features of the land. Many are derived from names of animals, flowers, or trees. Some may be traced to Biblical, classical, or historical writings. A few feature the abstract and the whimsical. A number of the names are combinations of one or more words or are corruptions of the same.

Cameron, the name of our parish was discussed at length in the centennial editions of THE PILOT last year. It seems certain that it was the surname of a man, but which particular man received the honor rests in obscurity.

There are two explanations for Mermentau, both of Indian origin. The first is that Mermentau is derived from both French and Indian--from the French, "mer," meaning ocean, sea, or a large body of water, and the Attakapas "Immanatu," name of an Indian chief. However, Dr. William Alexander Read in his book, LOUISIANA PLACE NAMES OF INDIAN ORIGIN, claims that Mermentau is a form of Mementou, name of an Attakapas chief in the last quarter of the 18th century. In 1784, Mementou sold a tract of land and subsequently was mentioned as the chief of the village by the river of the same name.

Through a clerical error, Nementou became Mementou. The latter was, in turn, corrupted by folk etymology into Mermentau through confusion with French "mer," meaning sea, as we have noted.

From "The War of the Rebellion - Correspondence" we find that the correct spelling for the river in the 1860's was Mermentau.

Since the parish of Cameron was carved apart from old Imperial Calcasieu and since the river by that name flows through the parish, let us consider the name. Calcasieu is of Attakapas origin, from "katkesh," meaning "earle" and "yok," "to cry." This appelation, "Crying Eagle," was the war title of an Indian chief living along the river from which the parish later borrowed the name.

Subsequent spellings found on early maps or in land records have been Calkousiouk, 1807; Culkeshoe, 1816; Kalkasheute, 1817; Quelqueshoe, 1818; Calcasuit, still later.

Lacassine, the name of bayou and a wildlife refuge within the parish, derive their name from Chief Lacassine of the Comanche tribe. Each year during the hunting season in the early 1800's the Comanches migrated into Southwest Louisiana. When the season ended, they returned to their homes in the central part of the state. There came a day, however, when Lacassine and his squaw settled near what is now the village of Lacassine in Jefferson Davis Parish.

The settlement of Lowery bears the surname of a Terre Haute, Indiana, man, a Capt. Lowery, who had purchased an 8,000 acre plantation from Desire Hebert and who attempted large-scale rice-farming on it.

Such names as Lakeside, Grand Lake, North Island, Hackberry are easily conjectured. Since "chenieve" meant "a grove of oaks," and since oak trees were there in abundance, the term is a part of the name of many settlement -- Grand Chenier, Little Chenier, Chenieve Perdue (Lost Chenieve), Chenieve du Fond (a terrain of oak trees) then Oak Grove itself with its anglicized version.

Johnson's Bayou and Leesburg (old name for the town of Cameron) were named for early settlers.

Lataignier, which is one of the branches from the main ridge of Grand Chenier, may have been named for an early pioneer. It may also be a corruption of the word "latanier," meaning "palmetto." Cow Island, another branch, derived its name from the herds of wild cattle roaming the ridge when the white man explored it.

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare had one of his characters soliloquize. "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Undoubtedly, but it is interesting and informative to learn why and by whom our towns and waterways were so called.

Pattern books not checked out

Mrs. Coral Lee Perry, Cameron Parish librarian, said that the pattern books on display in the local library are not to be checked out.

Due to the fact of the limited number in the library they are only to used there for reference and the convenience of the library patrons.

SLEEPING SICKNESS CAMPAIGN BEGINS HERE

Cameron Pilot

TWO OF THE DC-3 planes which will spray Cameron parish for mosquitoes this week are shown in the top picture at the Lake Charles Municipal Airport. In the lower picture is the tank truck that brought in the insecticide that will be used.

Vaccinations to start Fri.

Vaccination of horses in Cameron parish and southwest Louisiana against a mosquito-borne strain of sleeping sickness is expected to begin Friday, but locations of the vaccination stations have not been announced yet.

State and federal veterinarians will administer the shots with no cost to owners of the animals. Vaccination of horses is compulsory.

About 100,000 doses of the vaccine was expected to be received in this area by Thursday.

Dr. Frank Wheeler, state veterinarian, said he hopes that most of the horses in Southwest Louisiana will be vaccinated within three weeks.

In the meantime, a quarantine has been placed on the moving of horses. However, horses may be moved to vaccination spots and then returned to their home pastures.

No cases of the Venezuelan type of sleeping sickness have been confirmed in Louisiana as yet, but hundreds of horses have died from the disease in Texas.

There have also been numerous cases of the disease in humans in Texas and one death of a small child. In most cases, the disease is mild in humans.

TWO CANADIANS, Kelly McGuire and Earl Constantine, and a New Orleans girl, Rae Mathews, paused briefly in Cameron Tuesday while on a bicycle trip to South America.

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The search for adventure brought three young people through Cameron Parish this week on their way from Canada to South America.

The trio is composed of two handsome Canadians, Kelly McGuire, 22, of Vancouver, British Columbia and Earl Constantine, 21, of Montreal and Rae Mathews, 25, of New Orleans.

McGuire and Constantine left Montreal on April 23 on 10-speed English bicycles and rode the two-wheelers 1400 miles to Murray, Kentucky.

At Murray State University, they became acquainted with Ed Jajosky, a professor who convinced them they should continue their trip south by the river, taking their bikes with them.

How could they do this? They had each left with $100 each for expense money for the trip. The logical answer - build it. They purchased the supplies and built a 17 foot fiberglass canoe for $40. First they made the mold and molded the boat around it. It took them seven days. They donated the mold to the University for use in making other canoes.

They dismantled their bicycles and loaded them on the canoe for the trip South and launched it at Kentucky Lake, then went down the Tennessee River, and into the Ohio River. At Cairo, Ill., they entered the Mississippi River and traveled on down to New Orleans.

At New Orleans they met Miss Mathews who was the editor of the Nola Express and does legal research work. She explained that some people call the newspaper an "underground paper" but it really isn't at all. She became interested in their trip and decided to join them.

I asked her what her parents thought about her joining two boys on a trip of this kind and she answered that at first they were shocked, but after considering that she was 26 years old, she was old enough to know her own mind. She only weighs 100 pounds, but manages to keep up with the boys.

These youths are definitely not hippies. They are very well groomed and clean. They say they always manage to get a bath every day along the way.

Earl has a degree in psychology from Carlton University and plans to get more education when he has completed and gotten rid of his "wanderlust." Kelly had not been to college, but has had a lot of practical experience working at resorts in the Canadian Rockies.

It was in the Rockies last summer that the two young men met and starting their trip to South America. Kelly had broken his leg and it was in a cast for six months. He decided that the

Two pilots die in plane crash

Two pilots flying fish spotting planes for Ocean Protein Corp. of Lafayette were killed when the planes collided south of Morgan City in the Gulf.

Ocean Protein has a menhaden plant at Cameron, but the two pilots were working for the firm's Dulac plant.

The dead men were identified as Norbert Guthrie, who at one time lived in Cameron and Gordon Ellis.

The bodies of the men and plane wreckage were picked up by two pogy boats later that day.

Tourney to be held at Creole

A men's slow pitch softball playoff will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Creole field with the first game set for 7 p.m. Friday.

Teams in the playoff are Comeaux's, Trosclair's, Bailey's, and Martins.

A peewee little league exhibition game will be held prior to the final game of the tournament. The final game is at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

An all star team will be announced and a first place league trophy and first, second and third playoff trophies will be awarded.

Dallas Domingue

Domingue gets special award

Dallas Domingue of Cameron, highway maintenance superintendent for Cameron Parish, has been awarded a trophy for excellence of work production.

The award was in recognition of Mr. Domingue's departmental efforts in attaining the "best work production rate in the six parishes of Highway District 07" for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Mr. Domingue used 59.95 percent of the man hours normally required to complete the quantity of work performed, using planning, scheduling and work procedures outlined in a new maintenance management system of the department.

Other parishes and their district standings, include Jefferson Davis Parish, A. W. Chaisson, parish superintendent, second with 60.96 percent of the man hours required; Beauregard Parish, Henry A. Farris, parish superintendent, third with 72.32 percent; Calcasieu Parish, Joseph W. Higginbotham, parish superintendent, fourth with 83.76 percent; Allen Parish, Julius D. King, parish superintendent, fifth with 84.92; and Evangeline Parish, Aaron M. O'Neal, parish superintendent, sixth with 97.46 percent.

Cameron Parish Sheriff Claude Eagleson will be the host at a state meeting of the Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement Friday night at the Cameron Recreation Center. The business is slated to get underway at 5 p.m. followed by a seafood supper and reception.

It is expected that many of the candidates for governor will be on hand for the occasion. Approximately 30 Louisiana Sheriffs will attend along with the judges, district attorneys, state representatives and the publisher of the Louisiana Peace Officer Magazine will be a special guest.

640,000 acres to be sprayed

Some 640,000 acres of Cameron will be sprayed this week to kill the mosquitoes to try to stop the spread of home sleeping sickness that has moved into south Texas from Mexico. The disease is spread by mosquitoes.

T. E. Kinsey, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture plant protection supervisor for Louisiana, who is in charge of the operation, said that four huge DC-3 airplanes will spray each acre with 8 ounces of technical Malathion, which is expected to kill mosquitoes and yet not harm wildlife and fish.

Marian Airspray, Inc. of Savanna, Ga. has been hired to do the spraying and will be based at the Lake Charles Municipal Airport.

Mr. Kinsey said 90,000 acres, mostly along the Sabine River, also will be sprayed in the same operation, which is expected to take four or five days.

A second spraying will be done seven days later.

The area to be sprayed in Cameron parish is located between Highway 27 (the Creole road) and the Texas border and generally north to the Calcasieu line. The towns in the area, including Cameron and Creole, will be sprayed, but no large bodies of water will be covered, which will leave out Calcasieu Lake.

The planes will carry 540 gallons of the insecticide at a load and will operate at 200 foot heights. They will fly in tandem and will use landmarks to line up their runs.

The USDA will have a pilot in a small single engine plane who will monitor the spraying.

Trailer brakes to be required

Brakes are now required on all trailers, with the exception of farm use trailers, as of July 1, State Trooper John Prescott reminded parish trailer owners this week. This includes boat trailers.

However, farm trailers which have farm license tags, will not be required to have the brakes until July 1972.

The brakes are required by a new state law.

Ambulance list is sought here

Due to the uncertainty of the ambulance service, the people of the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District are again reminded to submit names of patients to the South Cameron Memorial Hospital who cannot be moved other than by ambulance when and if an evacuation is ordered because of a hurricane threat.

Information should be given to Mrs. Bernice Bertrand at the South Cameron Memorial Hospital between the hours of 9 and 10 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m. - Mondays through Fridays.

The hospital will take over the operation of ambulance service in Cameron parish as of Aug. 1. A two-mill property tax election has been called for Sept. 18 to provide funds for the operation of the service.

Winds do damage here

A sudden rain squall, accompanied by what may have been a small twister, hit Cameron about noon Tuesday causing scattered damage.

At the airstrip, a small fish spotter plane owned by Gulf Menhaden Co., was pulled from its moorings and flipped over on it back causing extensive damage.

No other reports of damage were received, although many small branches were blown from trees and some hail fell.

By BERNICE STEWART

Seven or eight decades ago in Cameron Parish it was not at all unusual for one to invite a neighbor in for a "cup of peaberry." The English-speaking segment of the population understood readily that they were being offered coffee.

The general merchandise stores, though small in size and few in number, all carried coffee. It was probably shipped in by barrel at first as were other staples, such as flour and sugar. By the early 1900's, it was brought in by bag, each weighing slightly more than 130 pounds. Well-cured, it was called "green" because it remained unparched. Peaberry coffee was the choice of the more prosperous families. An inferior, cheaper blend was almost always available.

Sold by the pound, the green coffee was taken home to be parched and ground. Various parching procedures prevailed. Some women (I would have been one of them) parched their coffee in big iron pots set on furnaces outdoors. Better that the smoke should lose itself in the open atmosphere than that it should settle darkly and greasily on kitchen walls and ceiling.

Others parched their coffee inside on wood-burning or coal-oil stoves. Such was the practice of my family. It was parched every other day -- sometimes daily.

"Coffee loses its flavor unless its freshly parched," my grandfather would declare.

She always used a bit of lard in her parching. Her explanation was that the coffee beans were easier to stir and that the lard produced a richer flavor.

Other ladies added sugar to their parching. They reasoned that the roasted product was sweeter and blacker by so doing.

No matter what was added or omitted, the person parching the beans had to stand over the stove stirring constantly lest they burn. The timing had to be right, too, neither overdone nor underparched. By first placing the pot of green coffee in the oven and letting it heat thoroughly, one cut down on the time otherwise spent over the hot stove.

Each family had its own convictions as to how coffee should be ground and brewed. The latter more or less controlled the former. The first coffee mill sat on a table. Both hands were needed to grind coffee in it -- one to hold the mill, the other to turn the handle. The mill that was later designed to be attached to the wall won quick approval. A thumb-screw attached to either mill was tightened to produce a finer grind or loosened for a coarser.

In our home coffee was ground just before it was to be dripped. The exception was that for the early morning brew for which it was ground and the dripper prepared the evening before. Grandfather always arose early, made coffee, and carried a cup to the bed of each family member. And he definitely did not relish fumbling around with a coffee mill before daylight.

Some families continued using their cloth drip sacks, on wire frames, submerged in coffee pots even after the dripper pots came on the market. A few old-timers made theirs by boiling the ground coffee in a utensil, then straining the beverage.

In our home fresh water was brought to a rapid boil and used for immediate dripping. A few individuals dumped grounds from the previous brewing into their kettle of water, brought it to a boil, and poured it over the freshly ground coffee to "add strength."

Coffee, in those days, was rarely served at breakfast unless there were guests. It was definitely considered an eye-opener and a ten- or three-o'clock pickup. Regardless though of the hour, it was always served to company. Almost before a visitor was greeted at the front steps the kettle was set upon the stove. Cold coffee was seldom poured out lest one of the men might want "a swallow." He usually drank it cold.

Yes, Cameron folks were practically born a-drinking good strong coffee, and most of them have kept right on all the days of their lives.

Company dish

The Kingdom of God — WHERE IS IT?

According to this version, He is patiently biding His time until that fateful day when He will decide to destroy the world and call all men to a final judgment. If we believe this, there would appear to be no need to worry about this day of reckoning until we grow old and our time begins to run out.

For Catholics, however . . . and for most other Christians, too . . . "the kingdom of God is at hand." By this we mean that the first phase of the Kingdom of God is an external kingdom right here on earth . . . that here God reigns among men with all the fulness of His divine nature, but in a manner understandable to our human intelligence.

We know this is true because that is what Jesus Christ, the Son of God, told us during His lifetime on earth. To help us understand this was, in fact, the whole purpose of Christ's mission of redemption. God's eternal kingdom, He said, is a "house of many mansions," with room for us all . . . but our right to live there in eternal joy will depend on how we serve the Kingdom of God on earth.

Belief in God, Jesus said, is the first requirement for membership in the Kingdom. But merely believing is not enough. Being human, we must manifest our faith and our obedience to God in human ways, which is the external aspect of the Kingdom of God on earth. God commands us, for example, to treat our fellow-men with charity and justice . . . and to comply with certain standards of virtue and morality. Doing these things obviously requires a human manifestation—an external act—even though the objective is our spiritual perfection.

Having come to establish God's Kingdom on earth, Jesus made sure that each generation could readily recognize it. He accomplished that by founding His Church to instruct and sanctify the faithful . . . to minister to men's spiritual needs . . . to provide the means by which all men could achieve personal holiness. In appointing Peter the first head of His Church, Jesus said: "To thee I will give the keys of the kingdom."

If you would like a better understanding of the nature of the Kingdom of God, let us send you a copy of our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled: "The Reign of God Among Men." It covers such topics as The Kingdom of God—External and Internal; Internal Holiness Through External Authority; the External Reign of God; In The Kingdom of God — a Supreme Ruling Power, and The Shepherd and Teacher of All Christians.

We'll be happy to send you a copy free upon your request. No obligation—and nobody will call on you. Write today . . . ask for Pamphlet No. KC-56.

Around the Capitol

By JACK GOULD

BATON ROUGE -- Odds' n' ends:

"GENERAL ORDER"

around the office of the governor has been "tip-toe--softly, at least until Aug. 11." The date, of course, is that of the next -- and possibly the last -- bidding on the New Orleans Domed Stadium. Commented one McKeithen friend: "The stadium and the North-South Expressway are things John hoped to brag about twenty years from now. If anything happens to the highway, he may go back to Columbia -- for good."

* * *

THE MAN who has dealt the most misery to the governor on the stadium, Sen. "Super-grocer" John Schwegmann, reportedly is gaining in some polls on the race for governor, up to No. 5. He confirmed (in the Capitol Press Room) that it was he who offered the salary and use of "The Mansion" to either of two men he wanted as running-mates. No takers. His latest gag is a paper overseas cap, labeled "Super Dome Holdog -- $2.00. With Mustard -- $2.75. Pay No More!"

* * *

MOST POLLS, even those taken by mail or phone, appear to be in agreement on just one thing: at least 51 per cent of voters have not made up their minds about whom to vote for as governor. Some objective observers here say that such surveys are meaningless except to two leading candidates -- one of which had not announced at this writing. These two are carefully saving their "best for the last," the analysts say, to peak in September; leaving the rest of the field to "get known" while they can.

* * *

ONE POSSIBLE candidate, a state official, has now changed his mind about running for the top post for two reasons: (1) he can't figure out how the next governor can get enough money to make up for the $30 million deficit being left by the present administration, and (2) there doesn't seem to be enough "campaign" money left to elect a major candidate. Another would-be governor is having trouble making newspapers take him seriously! Still another late would-be mention dweller is hitting every major opponent -- except one. Hmmmm.

SHORTS: Louisiana's actual output of oil is declining by about 20,000 barrels a day each month . . . One capitol fiscal officer, after a look at falling employment figures, said he hoped that "1971 will not be the good old days" . . . Both ears of Adj. Gen. David Wade must be buring from remarks of legislators passing through here, about his charge that many members were paid off to block anti-pinball legislation . . . If you hadn't heard, the official total on Louisiana's population in 1970 was 3,643,180. . . . One minor candidate for governor has a weakness for throwing dice -- for high stakes . . . Plans are ready for a $100-a-plate dinner for a candidate for Education Superintendent and a $25-per-plate affair for a would-be lt. gov. . . . State Troopers are conducting a quiet campaign for use of two men in every police car, one armed with a shotgun.

HEYWARD PEPPERS was feted last week on his birthday by the "Courthouse Crew" in the Courthouse coffeeshop. He was presented with an engraved plaque "Cameron's Greatest Baker" in appreciation for all the homemade bread and rolls he has baked and sent to the courthouse employees.

Marriage announced

The marriage of Miss Janith Ruth Savoie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam V. (Jodie) Savoie of Cameron, to John Lockwood, son of Mrs. Ethel Lockwood and the late Allen Lockwood of Baton Rouge, was quietly solemnized June 30 at the St. Dominic Catholic Church in New Orleans. The Reverend R. M. Patrick, C. P. officiated at the ceremony.

Serving as witnesses in the wedding were Mrs. Thania Elliott, Bill Elliott, and George Kennedy all of New Orleans.

Immediately after the ceremony, a brief reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Elliott.

After a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., the couple will reside in Metairie, where both are employed as teachers in Jefferson Parish.

The bride is a graduate of McNeese State University in Lake Charles where she received a Master's degree in Education.

The groom is a graduate of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree.

A. In addition to all other taxes heretofore authorized, the Board of Levee Commissioners of the Orleans Levee District, hereinafter referred to as the board, may levy an annual tax of two and one-half mills on the dollar of all taxable property within the parish of Orleans, the proceeds of the tax and of the sale of any bonds secured thereby, as hereafter authorized, to be used solely and for no other purposes than to pay the portion to be borne by Orleans Parish of the cost of the federal flood protection project known as the Lake Pontchartrain, Louisiana and Vicinity Hurricane Protection Project and to construct levees, levee drainage, flood protection and for other necessary incidental expenses in connection with such project.

*As it appears in the enrolled bill.

B. In order to provide ready funds for the purposes for which the tax is authorized, the board may issue, sell and deliver, from time to time, bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness not exceeding seventy million dollars ($70,000,000.00) in the aggregate and to secure such bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness, the board may pledge and dedicate the avails and proceeds, or any portion thereof, of the tax authorized by Subsection A of this Section.

The bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness shall be authorized and issued by resolution or resolutions adopted by the board and shall be issued in such series, bear such date or dates, mature at such time or times (not exceeding forty years from their respective dates), bear interest at such rate or rates, payable annually or semi-annually, be in such denominations, be in such form, either coupon or fully registered without coupons, carry such registration and exchangeability privileges, be payable in such medium of payment and at such place or places, and be subject to such terms of redemption as such resolution or resolutions may provide. The bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness shall be exempt from all taxation for state, parish and municipal purposes, and savings banks and insurance companies are authorized to invest the funds in their hands therein, and the bonds, notes and certificates of indebtedness may be used for deposit with any officer, board, municipality or other political subdivision of the state of Louisiana, in any case where bonds may by present or future laws be required. C. D. Any bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness issued under this authorization may be refunded by this board, provided the total of the principal and interest to be paid on any refunding bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness shall not exceed the total of the principal amount of the bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness to be refunded, the premium (if any) payable upon their redemption and the interest which would have been paid upon such bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness, were they not refunded. The refunding of bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness shall be authorized in all respects as original bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness are herein provided to be authorized.

E. The provisions hereof are self executing and no further enabling legislation is required or necessary and the board is authorized to effectuate the provisions hereof.

Section 2. This proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors of the state of Louisiana at the next election for members of the legislature to be held in Louisiana on the first Tuesday next following the first Monday of February, 1972.

By BERNICE STEWART

Occasionally, a home, even a buggy or a wagon, made its way up or down the river. Later, it was not unusual to see a car or a truck parked on the boat. Lumber and other building materials, furniture and farm implements, household commodities, foodstuff, even ready-made caskets -- everything imported by Cameronites that did not arrive through the mails -- was brought in by the riverboats.

* * *

DURING HER TEENS, this writer made many trips on the DELTA and the MARGIE. Boats regularly departed from Grand Chenier at six o'clock in the morning.

The first stop was made at Vaughan's Landing, later called Earl's Landing, its name changing to the surname of the family living there. Further up the river came the Telemar Theriot Landing. Both were on the south shore of the river.

If any person living along the river wished to send mail, produce, an order for goods, or to bring a passenger aboard, he came by skiff to the channel to meet the packet. Nearly always there was someone from Chenier Perdue or Little Cheniere. Fishermen at Catfish Point usually had a supply of fish and crabs ready to ship to Lake Arthur.

The passengers on the boat welcomed the sight of Streeter's Ranch at the extremity of Lowery, for it meant that the five-and-a-half-hour boat trip was nearly over. Then came Lakeside and finally the big wharf at Lake Arthur.

The packets were hosts to a varied clientele. Included were circuses, orchestras, and hordes of gypsies. There were traveling dentists, photographers, optometrists, and drummers, all with the paraphernalia of their trade. There were home-traders and cattle-buyers, new schoolteachers, and visiting relatives.

Each packet boat became in time an institution with a personality and tradition all its own. This did they continue until 1938 when the completion of Highway 42 drove the MARGIE, the last of them, from the river.

Captain Nunez, who had bought the WYNONAH from the Millers, sold it in 1941 to an oil company that turned it into a pleasure craft. Nunez converted the DELTA from a passenger boat to a tug. He purchased two more tugboats, the ALINE and the MARY N.; then, in 1945, sold the three vessels to Pershing Nunez and Earl Hardin of Vermilion Parish.

* * *

THE PICTURESQUE Mermentau and the lazy way of boat days have bowed to progress. No longer do the old freight and passenger carriers ply the river. But, when the end of their era came, they did not die. They changed form and, like their captains, just sailed away.

Development and further use of lightweight packaging materials can result in lower transportation costs that should produce savings for consumers. Lighter weight containers for food and other items can reduce 69 billion pounds of shipping weight by about 15 per cent, a decrease of nine million pounds. The dollar savings on this would be $270 million in transportation costs.

Bernadine Kreis, author of "Up from Grief: Patterns of Recovery," suggests these ways in which a friend can ease the recovery of someone who has suffered the loss of a loved one.

1. Don't say, "Let me know what I can do to help." A person in shock, the first stage of grief, is in no position to tell you what to do. If you want to do something, do it yourself.

2. Get to him as soon as possible. If you can't see him, send a note. Keep calling, even if the person won't come to the phone. If the person doesn't want to speak to you this week, next week he may.

cycling would be good for strengthening his leg after being laid up for so long. Thus the bicycles were decided upon as the mode of transportation.

Earl speaks fluent French and is able to converse quite well with the Louisiana "Cajuns." He says that he plans to learn Spanish when he gets "below the border." Actually, he explained, it will not be so hard since he can already speak other languages.

The packs the cyclists carry are very small. They contain a change of clothes, a sleeping bag, toilet articles and a mosquito net. Each ounce extra you carry makes a difference - they said. They are packed in plastic bags or in knap sacks.

They camp out at night along the way, people take them in, sometimes they stop at Universities along the way. They only travel from sun-up until sunset, never at night.

They stopped over in Cameron to take showers in the jail of the Cameron Courthouse. They are following the "Hug the Coast" highway down to Brownsville to cross over into Mexico on the way to South America, their ultimate goal. They plan to stay there a year. They study the people and cultures as they travel. They said that many things in different areas are different, such as the ways of eating.

Kelly McGuire plans to homestead a piece of land near the ocean when he gets back to Vancouver. He said there is still vast areas there available for homesteading. For a miner's fee of just $5 one can stake a claim and it remains yours as long as you do at least $100 worth of work on it every five years.

Rae Mathews hasn't decided what she will do at the terminus of her trip. I asked her if she planned to write a book, since she was a writer, "Oh, I don't know," she said, "To write, one must be an onlooker and maybe I am too close to the subject. I want the adventure and closeness to nature this trip brings."

These "Free Spirits" rode off into the wind toward Holly Beach, maybe for a swim in the Gulf of Mexico, or possibly a ride on a surf board before they cross the line into Texas. It made us a little envious - no deadlines - no timetables - no worries - no responsibilities - except to whip the challenges of nature.

Ambulance list being compiled

A list of persons is being compiled of persons who would have to be moved by ambulance should and evacuation be ordered of lower Cameron parish due to a hurricane, according to K. H. Hopper, Civil Defense hospital director.

He asked that these names be turned in to Mrs. Bernice Bertrand at South Cameron Memorial Hospital by calling 775-5786 or 542-8940.

He said the list is needed so that the number of ambulances needed from Lake Charles, as well as the local ambulances, would be known at all times. Patients will be responsible for the ambulance charges.

a.) Name
b.) Age
c.) Detailed description of route to person's home from the South Cameron Memorial Hospital
d.) Destination
3.) Doctor
f.) Special medication
g.) Any other pertinent information that should be known

Reader gives version on naming of Cameron

How did the parish of Cameron get its name? A new reader of the Pilot, Mrs. Bertha Henry Duhon of Jennings, has come up with a new explanation.

It had been suggested by various persons that the parish was named for Simon Cameron of Abraham Lincoln's war cabinet or for Robert Alexander Cameron, a soldier in the Confederate Army who took part in Bank's Red River expedition. (Cameron parish historian Archie Hollister, favored the latter explanation.)

But now Mrs. Duhon has come up with a new source for the name. She writes:

"I am a new subscriber and wish to say that I like your paper. I am a native of Cameron (once called Leesburg) and although I left at an early age I began my teaching career in Creole at a later time.

"I note with particular interest your speculation regarding how Cameron got its name. Among my father's old records I found this clipping which gives one version of the naming of Cameron. My father was Arthur McDonald Henry, deceased 1937.

In another article there is a statement that my grandfather helped to have Calcasieu divided and that Cameron became part of it.

The clipping that Mrs. Duhon sent came from the March 20, 1902 issue of the New York Morning Sun and reads:

"The Hon. Samuel P. Henry, "father of Cameron parish," in Louisiana, died yesterday at Cameron, age 72. He was a native of Lancaster, Pa. He went to Ohio and was professor of languages and mathematics in an Ohio college.

"He settled in Louisiana in 1870, in Calcasieu parish, the southern part of which he had cut off and made into a new parish.

"He gave it the name of Cameron in honor of his friend, Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania. He was chosen Parish Judge, which office he held until it was abolished in 1878.

"He was then sent to the Legislature, of which body he was twice Speaker. He was a member of the Legislature at the time of his death.

G.B. Komegay dies Thursday

Komegay, who had been a Cameron resident for the past 25 years, was the owner and operator of Komegay's Supermarket, Cameron Food Mart, Sears Catalog Store, G. B.'s Drive-Inn, and the Cum Bar.

Born April 3, 1912 in Georgetown, S. C., Komegay attended high school there and studied for three years at the University of Georgia before poor eyesight forced him to give up plans to enter medical school.

During the war he served as a medic with the Army in Germany and Italy.

Komegay later went into the shrimping business and worked in Brownsville, Texas and Cameron. He also became associated with John Santos in the menhaden business, an association which lasted nearly 40 years.

Moving to Cameron in 1946, Komegay went into several businesses, including a variety store, freight line and a ice cream stand.

Following Hurricane Audrey, he entered the grocery business opening Komegay's Supermarket, later also buying the Cameron Food Mart.

He was a Mason, a Shriner and a member of the Lions club. He was also a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Funeral Services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Wakefield Methodist Church with the Rev. Aubrey Coody, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery under the direction of O'Donnell Funeral Home.

Survivors include one son, Bryan B. Komegay; one daughter, Mrs. Thomas J. Watts, both of Cameron; one brother, W. B. Komegay of Patterson; and two grandchildren.

No VEE cases are found in La. yet

No cases of the Venezuelan sleeping sickness has been found in Cameron parish or Louisiana so far, and it is hoped that the massive vaccination of horses and the spraying of mosquitoes may have stopped the spread of the disease from Texas.

More than 101, 898 horses were vaccinated in Louisiana last week, including 8,000 in Southwest Louisiana. Cameron parish horse owners who did not get vaccinations last week are urged to contact the county agent or any veterinarian to have the shots given.

Thousands of acres in Cameron and Calcasieu parish were sprayed by with pesticides by air this past week to kill the mosquitoes which carry the disease.

The same areas will be sprayed again in about eight days.

A limited quarantine has been placed on the moving of horses in the state, which means that the horses can be moved from farm or pen to the vaccination clinic, then directly back to the farm.

Weed spraying postponed here

The aerial spraying of coffeeweeds in lower Cameron Parish which was scheduled last weekend was postponed because of the emergency mosquito-spraying program to combat the VEE spread, according to Clifford Myers, Cameron Parish County Agent.

Myers said that two DC-8s were doing the mosquito spraying and were traveling side by side, spraying a 1000 feet swath as they went through. Since the area to spray the coffee-weeds would be in some of the same area, it was impossible to carry out the coffeeweed spraying operation.

The new date has been set for Saturday, Aug. 14. Myers said it was not set up for this coming weekend because the area to be sprayed for mosquitos would be sprayed again in another week and there would again be a conflict.

Over 1200 acres are due to be sprayed for the coffeeweeds, sometimes called perennial coffee shrubs or Rattlebox.

Sheriffs have meeting here

More than 100 people attended a state meeting of the Louisiana Sheriffs for Better Law Enforcement Association Friday night at the VFW Home in Cameron. Cameron's Sheriff Claude Eagleson was host to the meeting.

Calcasieu Sheriff H. A. "Ham" Reid, association president, was in charge of the business session. He introduced members of the bi-parish legislative delegation and praised them for the work they did in the legislature benefiting the sheriffs. He said they were real friends of law enforcement.

Members attending were: State Sen. Jessie Knowles, State Repts. Conway LaBleu, Bob Jones, Dr. William Boyd, Harry Hollins and Bill McCleod.

The guest speaker was William Dent, Director of the Dept. of Public Safety, who explained the computerized system being used by the La. State Police for aid in criminal detection. He explained the importance of having the criminal records all on one system at the disposal of all the crime departments.

The next meeting of the organization is slated for November in Abbeville.

Parish historical society planned here

A dream is finally coming true for Cameron Parish "History Buffs" who have been concerned about preserving the colorful history of the parish.

An organizational meeting is planned for Aug. 19 at the Cameron Library for the Cameron Parish Historical Society, according to Mrs. D. W. Griffith.

Eight years ago the Cameron Parish Home Demonstration Council started the conducting of area "Know Your Parish Tours" where one day each year was set aside to tour an area of the parish. Historical data was researched and a tour book was compiled for each person making the tour.

With this background information, Mrs. Griffith said the historical society will have something to start on.

Cameron parish celebrated it's Centennial last year and a time capsule was sealed in the Cameron Courthouse with historical data to be opened in 50 years. The interest in the parish history was revived at that time and there are many in the parish and also from other area who have ties in the parish who have been wanting a society formed.

Mrs. Griffith said that everyone is invited to attend the planning meeting where plans will be made as to what the organization will do.

Levee bids asked

Contractors have been asked to bid on constructing 8.32 miles of the Calcasieu east bank levee of the Cameron-Creole Watershed. Cameron Parish drainage districts No. 3 and 4 have called for sealed bids to be received in the office of the Cameron Parish Police Jury at 2:30 p.m., Aug. 18.

Plans and specifications for the work may be obtained from the Louisiana Department of Public Works office in Baton Rouge, or Jennings. Engineering work for the project is being performed by the La. Department or Public Works personnel, in cooperation with the USDA Soil Conservation Service, who administers all Public Law 566 Watershed Projects.

This will be the second contract to be let on the project which involves flood protection and agricultural water management for nearly 113,000 acres of wildlife, cattle, crop, and residential land in the Cameron-Creole area.

MRS. BRAXTON BLAKE is shown with two of the rare items in her bottle collection.

Mrs. Blake has rare bottle collection

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The collecting of bottles is currently one of the most popular of all the hobbies. Bottle collecting is the nation's third largest and fastest growing hobby. In the ten-year period from 1959 to 1969 the hobby of collecting bottles grew until it is involved thousands of collectors, over one hundred clubs and several periodicals.

There are many bottle collecting hobbiests in Cameron Parish and the Cameron library is featuring the collections of many of them throughout the summer months for two week periods at a time.

Mrs. Braxton Blake's collection is being featured at this time. Mrs. Blake started her collecting about four years ago. It all started with a certain round bottomed whisky or wine flask her husband brought home to her. Each afternoon he rode his horse along the Cameron beaches and as a surprise to his wife, would pick up one of the many colorful bottles that can be found in the surf or in the sea marsh grass along the coastline and bring it home to her. She began to comb the Cameron beaches herself, and with the aid of her two daughters, Roberta Carol "Bertie" and Carla Jo, has come up with some rare finds.

Mrs. Blake also attends flea markets searching for bottles to add to her collection.

One of the most valuable bottles in Mrs. Blake's collection is her case gin bottle. Containers for gin have been many and varied over the year. During the 17th and 18th centuries case bottles were used extensively by chemists and apothecaries; since gin was originally dispensed as a medicine, it is safe to assume that from its inception it was distributed in a case bottle. This particular bottle is an 18th century Dutch free blown with a square body achieved by pressing with a wooden paddle.

Another bottle Mrs. Blake considers to be one of the most valuable is her ruby red bottle. A group of beer bottles which are unusual because of their color are the ruby examples produced mainly for the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company by the Anchor Hocking Glass Company periodically during the 1950's and 1960's. These brilliant red bottles were made in large quantities (50 million in 1950 and 4 million in 1963) but only a small percentage have survived to be included in bottle collections. Mrs. Blake only has one but is still looking for the smaller glass can and the throw-away quart.

Quite often a bottle collector obtains a container that is opalescent, reflecting a milky play of colors in a rainbow effect. Bottles and other glass that display this iridescence are commonly called "Sick Glass." The name is actually ver descriptive -- the glass is "sick;" it is dissolving. Usually one would think that bottles which suffered erosion are less desirable than those in mint condition. Instead the more sever the deterioration, the more colorful the vessel generally is, and therefore more in demand. The example in Mrs. Blake's collection is an early 1800 3-piece mold bottle, which was given to her by a friend who brought it from South Carolina.

"Black Glass" was in demand because of wine and spirits merchants' belief that their products would keep better in dark containers. In the mid 1800's, glassmakers catered to the demand by making a very cheap "black glass," adding iron slag to achieve the dark greenish-amber color. Mrs. Blake's example is unmarked and is a three piece mold variety. All three piece molds date it before 1880.

There are many early medicine bottles in Mrs. Blake's collection. One is a ceramic beige and gold jug from the civil war. It was found near a Civil War hospital site in Texas. There is a Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Sure, Rochester, N. Y. with an embossed picture, made around 1900. There are also several drug store bottles of the same period, some have the measurements on the sides, all required corks. There is a Dr. Tischners antiseptic bottle 2 1/2 inches high in the collection. A beautiful cobalt blue was probably a poison bottle. One old glass stoppered medicine bottle was found on her farm in Dry Creek.

Two of the bottles on display are "signature bottles," so called because they are engraved with the signature on the side. One is a Thomas A. Edison, which held Edison Battery oil, made in Bloomfield N.J. and other is a Charles F. Fletcher castoria bottle.

There are old ink bottles, shoe polish and barber supply bottles. There is a miniature collection that belongs to Carla jo and soda bottles which belong to Roberta Carol. Notable among these is the Coke bottle written in German that was found on the Cameron beach.

There are also foreign bottles from Scotland, England, Portugal, Canada, Cuba and Italy. They can all be seen in the display cabinet at the Cameron library. Mrs. Coral Lee Perry, parish librarian, cordially invites the public to come by and view the display.

German youth visits with relatives here

By BERNICE STEWART

His earnest young face glowed with an expression of trustful expectancy as I welcomed him into my home. Then a quick, happy smile -- the kind that radiates from eyes as well as lips -- lit up his whole countenance. I knew at once that Hartmut Hiltmann was experiencing the thrilling reality of a dream, his first trip to America.

The fifteen-year-old German lad had flown from West Berlin to visit the families of his mother's first cousins, Mrs. Rene J. Beanel of Hackberry and Mrs. L. W. McDonald of Lake Arthur.

Until his plane landed in Houston a couple of weeks ago he had seen none of his American relatives except Mrs. McDonald and her husband, who had visited with him in Berlin several years ago.

However, Hartmut and his young relatives have are no strangers. Over the years a steady stream of correspondence and snapshots have flowed back and forth. His choopy little poodle that demands the best of meats and the rawest of eggs was named Bonnie as a tribute to his charming little Lake Arthur cousin, Bonnie McDonald.

Hartmut Hiltmann

Hartmut is the only child of Robert and Ursula Hiltmann. His father is a city detective in Steinstadt, the suburb of West Berlin in which they live. His mother is employed as a secretary in the finance department of Siemens, a huge plant that manufactures every type of electrical appliance from the tiniest to the most colossal.

Hartmut, having completed the Volksschule, or elementary school, is classified as a ninth-grader at the Gymnasium, a classical high school. Besides his native German, he speaks English and French more or less fluently. He began his study of Russian two months ago; that of English at the age of ten. He considers English infinitely more difficult to master than any of the others.

His favorite studies are geography and history. Science is dear to his heart. He firmly expects to become an expert criminologist and detective when he grows up, and is already planning to enroll in a police-training school when he has completed the Gymnasium.

In West Germany all children between the ages of six and eighteen are required to attend school. The Gymnasium consists of grades seven through 13, the last two years being equivalent to our junior colleges. For students who do not plan to attend college there are the vocational, or technical schools, called the Berufsschule.

* * *

On a typical day young Hiltmann rises at seven, bathes, and dresses, then breakfasts on a Wurst (sausage) sandwich and boiled eggs. He packs another sandwich and walks to the nearby school, which opens at eight o'clock. When his six classes are over at 1:30 p.m., he returns home to a hot lunch, does his homework, and watches TV.

Supper at six o'clock is like a miniature smörgasbord with its tray of cold cuts, usually ham, pork, veal roasts; cheeses; relishes; and cold drinks. For the children there is a form of mild wein (wine) of small alcoholic content; for the adults and who desire it, bier (beer).

After supper, Hartmut again enjoys television or radio. His favorite TV programs are "Hawaii-Five-O" and "Bonanza," given in German by means of synchronization. His favorite radio program is a musical broadcast from a station in the American section of Germany. He scintillates to jazz.

His hobbies include reading, especially mysteries, tape-recording, stamp-collecting, and the playing of dominoes and monopoly.

He enjoys playing German football, and he modestly admits that he holds a track record of running 110 yards in 13 seconds.

He attends school parties and birthday parties given in the homes of his friends. Weihnachten (Christmas) and Sylvester (New Year's Eve) are as important to West Berliners as they are to us here.

Hartmut, fond of traveling with his family, has traversed all of Northern and Southern Germany, Austria, and Switzerland. His parents, who accompanied him as far as Hamburg, are now vacationing at Malente, near the Baltic Sea.

His deepest impression of America, from his debarkation at Houston through his visits with Cameron and Jefferson Davis relatives to his sight-seeing in New Orleans and Baton Rouge, is two-fold: the hugeness of everything and the friendliness of the people.

He was immensely thrilled when he visited the Lake Charles Tourist Bureau. Mayor James E. Sudduth presented him with a key to the city and a certificate of honorary citizenship.

When asked how American youth compares with the young in his homeland, he answered quickly, "No difference; no difference at all!"

He spoke sadly of the Berlin Wall that will have been there ten years on the 13th of August. And he deplored the widespread use of harmful drugs in Germany today.

Hartmut's Cousin Clara is teaching him to drive her car while he is here, and his Cousin Bill has already taught him the secrets of riding lawnmowers.

The well-groomed, courtly-mannered youth bids auf Wiedersehen (goodbye) to his new-found relatives and friends on August 16, but assures them that he will return. His being here has strengthened and shortened the bridge between his homeland and ours.

VFW and Auxiliary meet here

Mrs. Dot Bourgeois, auxiliary president, presided over the business meeting of the Auxiliary. The Americanism Repoat was given and reported that more than 30 American Flags were flying on Independence Day in Cameron.

This is a project of the Auxiliary.

A report was also given on the recent sandwich sale held during the Southwest Louisiana July 4th Fishing Rodeo. Funds derived from the project were set aside to use for special expenses of the Auxiliary.

Plans were made by the Auxiliary to assist the Post with ticket sales on the fishing boat and trailer to be given away soon. It is now on display at the Calcasieu-Marine National Bank in Cameron.

Mrs. Ellis McWhirter, a delegate to the Department Convention, gave her report and presented the President with a souvenir of the convention.

The Gold Star Mothers chairman reported that two of the Gold Star Mothers have been hospitalized recently. They are Mrs. Christina Nunez and Mrs. Eli Obey. She also reported that the Mothers were recently honored at the Flag Day Ceremony at the Richard Bros. American Legion Post Home in Creole, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Post.

Draft board still functioning

Mrs. Emmye Peppers, who manages Local Draft Board Number 13, in Cameron, says the current congressional impasse over extending the induction authority, has created great uncertainty among area draft-age men.

Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft age men, the high probability that draft cass will resume in the near future, and that the current impasse in the congress is not likely to affect any registrants chance of being drafted.

"Our Local Board has been specifically instructed to register and classify men, and to order pre-induction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months," said Mrs. Peppers.

Men with lottery numbers through 125 were available for induction in June and in order to fill draft calls, since then, the defense department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July-August. This request is being held by Selective Service Headquarters, pending final congressional action on the draft bill, which is expected in several weeks.

"Those young men with relative low lottery numbers, who are eligible for induction this year, particular those with numbers below 175 (the current processing ceiling) have a very good chance of being processed for induction, after draft calls are restored," said Mrs. Peppers.

"Many young men seem to think that the Selective Service act has permanently expired, and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped, they are wrong, since it is only the induction authority that has expired. They therefore may unintentionally be breaking the law, by failing to register by the age of 18, by not keeping their local boards informed of their current address, and by failing to report, if ordered, for their pre-induction physical examinations," said Mrs. Peppers.

"Local boards are continuing to consider C. O., hardship and student deferments, and to take other classification actions. Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferment or exemptions are encouraged to do so, Mrs. Peppers said.

"The expiration of the induction authority does not affect our responsibility to classify young men, Mrs. Peppers also added. Mrs. Peppers may be contacted at Cameron Courthouse, the address of local board number 13.

Sweetlake tour draws favorable comments

Not only did many Cameron parish Home Demonstration Club members enjoy the Sweetlake "Know Your Parish Tour," but it also drew some favorable comments from some out-of-parish residents.

Among those who expressed their appreciation for the Sweet Lake HD Club booklets were Mrs. H. C. Free, a former Home Demonstration agent. Mrs. Free said she could not lay down the booklet until she had read the last page! She said she could visualize every place, everything, just as if she had been touring with them.

Mrs. Charles Giesen, wife of the pastor of the Sweet Lake Methodist Church, after reading the booklet, exclaimed, "This is just what we needed when we first came to this community, it would have been so much help to us."

Sunday a week ago, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Chalkley and Mr. Chalkley's sister, Hannah, covered the tour. While on the tour they stopped awhile at Mrs. Tom Taylor's home. Mrs. Chalkley expressed her delight in having learned so much. In her own words she said, "I have learned more about this part of the country on this tour than in all the years I've lived here."

Miss Hannah said they had thoroughly enjoyed the tour. One of the highlights of the tour was enjoying the beauty of Mrs. Charles W. Hebert's daylilies.

From Mrs. Taylor's home the Chalkey's drove to the Sweet Lake Methodist Church. Mr. Chalkey's father was instrumental in its establishment and was a benfactor of the church for many years.

The tour of the Sweet Lake and Grand Lake Communities was written by Mrs. Tom Taylor and Mrs. Charles Precht. The outline of the tour was planned by Mrs. Charles Precht, treasurer and Mrs. Lena Guidry, president of the Sweet Lake Home Demonstration Club.

Steel jaw traps bill is opposed

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission last week went on record as opposing passage in the 92nd Congress, House Resolution 8784 and Senate Bill 2084, which is designed to prohibit the use of steel jaw traps on animals in the United States.

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Commission, stated that this legislation would have a terrific impact on Louisiana's fur production and fur economy. He added that the steel trap is a selective means of controlling furbearer populations to prevent crop depredation, marsh and levee erosion and furbearer diseases.

Hoffpauer pointed out that Louisiana's fur industry is participated in by 5,000 trappers, 125 buyers, and 25 fur dealers, who generate a $10,000,000 annual industry, whose principal fur bearers, muskrat and nutria have tremendous reproductive and food consuming capacities.

He said that because of these capacities the population of these furbearers must be constantly controlled to prevent crop depredation in the state's rich sugar cane and rice belts which lie adjacent to the coastal marshes; to prevent marsh and levee erosion and loss of vigorous stands of vegetation that lessen storm damage to low-lying coastal areas; and to prevent occurrences of furbearer diseases transmittable to man.

He called attention to the fact that trapping has a built-in safeguard against species depletion since trapping is discontinued when the catch drops below a point of effort. It was further stated that the trapper was avant-garde in the settling of this continent and has been most important.

Hoffpauer stated that a large part of the world's fur economy is dependent upon Louisiana production which supplies 95% of the world's nutria and 20% of the world's muskrat supply and that this economy is predicated on the continued use of the steel trap.

ant in the past in establishing and maintaining ownership and boundaries; and as minerals decline, furbearers and trapping management will again become important in maintaining these ownerships.

Jury opposes bill on traps

The Cameron parish police jury went on record Tuesday opposing the proposed bills in the U. S. Congress which would outlaw the use of steel jaw traps in taking furbearing animals.

Jerry Jones, jury secretary and chairman of the Louisiana Wild Life Commission, said that the bill, if passed, would put trappers out of business as there is no other feasible way of trapping furbearers.

It was pointed out that the passage would have a serious economic effect on Cameron parish, which is one of the most productive fur producing areas in the nation.

Candidates to qualify

The Cameron Parish Democratic Executive Committee will meet at 10 a. m., Monday, Aug. 9 in the Courthouse Annex to issue the call for the Nov. 6 Democratic primary election.

Gamer Nunez, committee secretary, said that qualifying for parish and ward offices be between Aug. 9 and Aug. 16, with the deadline set at 5 p. m. on the 16th.

Parish offices for which elections will be called include sheriff, clerk of court, assessor and coroner. Ward officies will include police juror, constable, justice of the peace and members of the Democratic committee.

Members of the Democratic committee, who will meet to call the election, are Rupert Doxey, president, Cameron; Nunez, secretary, Grand Chenier; Dr. Cecil Clark, Jerry Jones, Cameron; J. A. Lowery, Leo J. Vincent, Hackberry; Lionel Theriot and Kenneth Nunez, Grand Chenier.

The committee is expected to set the same qualifying fees as in the past.

The second primary, if necessary, will be held Dec. 18, with the general election set Feb. 1.

Vaccinations continue here

State and federal veterinarians were making a house to house check in Cameron parish this week to make sure all horses here have received the sleeping sickness vaccine.

Clifford Meyers, county agent, said that the vaccination campaign has been very successful with most of the horses in the parish having been given the shots. He urged anyone having unvaccinated horses to contact him or any of the veterinarians to have the shots given.

No cases of the Venezuelan sleeping sickness have been found in the parish or Louisiana and it is hoped that the massive vaccinations and mosquito spraying may have stopped the spread of the disease from Texas.

Meyers said he knew of only one horse that had a bad reaction from the shots and that the horse is over it now.

Lions endorse ambulance tax

The Cameron Lions Club unanimously endorsed the proposed 2 mill tax to be voted on Sept. 18 by voters in Lower Cameron Hospital Service District. At the club meeting an explanation of the ambulance service to be provided by the South Cameron Hospital was made.

It was emphasized that the hospital had taken over the ambulance service on a temporary basis for 90 days to give the people an opportunity to vote on whether or not to continue it. If the tax passed the service could be continued.

Jury opposes gas limits

The Cameron Parish Police Jury Tuesday voted to intervene in a case pending before the Federal Power Commission which would limit the amount of natural gas for consumption in Louisiana.

The parish would be the only one in the state to intervene in the case, because it was felt that Cameron, being one of the largest gas producers in the state, had a special interest in the matter.

In the case in which Cameron is intervening, as well as the State of Louisiana and the Louisiana Municipal Association, United Gas Corp. is proposing to limit the amount of natural gas any distribution system can draw upon to provide domestic consumption.

J. B. Jones, Jr., legal advisor to the juror, said that Fred Benton, Baton Rouge attorney who is representing Louisiana in the case, also would represent Cameron at no cost to the parish.

Jones said that Benton would try to get the Federal Power Commission to approve a special allocation of gas for the parish based on the argument that the parish produces the gas and has a large expense providing roads, etc. to do so.

Civil defense meets being held in parish

Roland Trosclair Jr., newly appointed director of the Cameron Parish Civil Defense organization, is holding a series of community meetings with civil defense members in each area of the parish.

Trosclair's first meeting was held in Creole last week at the Richard Bros. Post Home. Dalton Richard, Creole CD Director, introduced Trosclair who went over emergency plans to be used in case of an evacuation. He also passed out CD identification cards and arm bands. Hard hats were also presented to members of the police force.

The parish director called for volunteers to help work in the local office of CD that is set up at McNeese College during an evacuation. He also discussed insurance that is available to CD members.

The following officers will head the Creole Civil Defense for the coming year: Dalton Richard, director; Joe G. "Johnny" Boudoin, assistant director; Eddie Jo Conner, chief of police; Joe Kouk, chief of transportation; Mrs. Elogia Richard, chief of welfare; Mrs. Geneva Griffith, chief of public information; Joe G. Boudoin, chief of supply; Kenneth Hoppen, director of hospital service; J. M. Theriot, chief of rescue; Clarence Boudoin, chief of cattle rescue; Telesmar Bonsall, fire chief; Otis Duhon and D. W. Griffith, engineers; James R. Savoie, chief of agriculture.

The fires of yesterday

By BERNICE STEWART

The fires set in Grand Chenier marshes by recent jagged streaks of lightning called to mind the annual autumnal burning of dry marshlands by the trappers long ago in preparation for their winter trapping. It took days and weeks for the big areas to ignite and burn through then.

Today, an individual travels on marsh buggy through the proposed trapping lands and sets fire as he goes. In a brief time the work has been completed.

I wondered if the children of the Chenier today watched the blazing marshes by night and conjured dreams of adventure and mystery, imaginings of what the fires were all about as we did in the slower days of yester year.

EXAMINING A mosquito trap being put out in areas sprayed in Cameron parish are Don Woodard, with USDA Mosquito Research lab in Lake Charles, Dr. Dayton Steelman, LSU Dept. Entomology, and Clifford Myers, County Agent for Cameron Parish.

Traps put out

2nd spraying may not be needed

Dr. Dayton Steelman, with the LSU Department of Entomology, Don Woodard, with the USDA Mosquito Research Laboratory in Lake Charles were in Cameron parish last week setting up mosquito traps. They are working with Clifford Myers, Cameron County agent. Areas in which the traps will be located are Hackberry, Johnson Bayou, Cameron and Creole.

Woodard explained that the traps are equipped with a tiny electric light which attracts the mosquitos. When they fly to the light they are swept downward by a suction from a tiny fan run off a battery, into a bag where they are trapped. They cannot fly back up because of a downdraft that keeps them there.

The traps will be checked daily and a count of the insects taken. From this information will come the decision as to whether another flight to spray for VEE will be needed. All of the lower Cameron Parish westward from Highway 27 has had one aerial application of insect spray to kill the mosquito population.

Dr. Steelman said that this part of the country is not experiencing the trouble that California had. It seems that the mosquitos there had developed an immunity to insecticides. This is probably because a vast aerial spray program has been conducted there for a number of years. This is not true of this area. It is known fact that after a certain length of time insects will develop a tolerance for poisons.

If the results of the mosquito traps proves that another aerial spray is necessary because the number of insect population warrants it, it will be carried out in the parish.

John R. "Bud" Rollins of Hackberry has announced he will be a candidate for Police Juror of Ward 6, Cameron Parish.

Rollins, a resident of Hackberry for the past 26 years, has owned and operated Rollin's Mobil Station for 15 years.

He is a veteran of the Army in the Korean War and spent 14 months in combat duty in Korea. During his stay in Korea, he was awarded the Korean and U. N. Service ribbons and the Combant Infantryman badge.

Meeting and spraying reset

Two events which were cancelled because of the horse sleeping sickness emergency in Cameron parish have been rescheduled, according to Clifford Meyers, county agent.

The aerial spraying of coffeeweeds in the lower part of the parish has been set for this Saturday with about 1400 acres to be sprayed. An earlier spraying was postponed because the same area was being sprayed by air to kill the mosquitoes which carries the sleeping sickness virus.

The plane which will do the spraying will use a landing strip at Creole. The eradication program is contained with the farmers through the U. S. Department of Agriculture's REAP program.

A meeting on the cattle tuberculosis situation in the parish has been set for 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 10 at South Cameron high school. The meeting had been postponed because federal veterinarians were involved in the sleeping sickness campaign.

N.C. fugitive arrested here

A fugitive was arrested last week in Cameron by two Cameron parish Sheriff deputies, J. B. Constance and Sweeney Hebert. He is Colton Gause, age 22, of Charlotte, N.C., wanted for violation of the Selective Service Act., by the FBI in North Carolina.

Colton was arrested on a menhaden fishing vessel, the "C. Leader" on which he was working. He was turned over to Larry Dailey, US Deputy Marshall by the local sheriff's office.

Recreation study set for Ward 5

The recreation needs of Ward 5 will be studied by a 10-man committee to be appointed by the Cameron parish police jury as a result of a petition filed with the jury Tuesday.

The petition, signed by some 100 residents of the ward, asked that a recreation district be created for the ward.

Ward 5 Juror Archie Berwick said that the committee would study the recreation needs of the ward and find out the cost. He said he did not know whether the entire ward would be in the proposed district or just the Johnson Bayou area.

Police Jury President W. F. Henry reported that 21.6 miles of new road construction is being planned in the parish with contracts to be let this fall.

Installation of reflectors on curves on parish roads were approved.

The jury conducted a review of parish property assessments but no one appeared to make any protests on their assessments.

The jury agreed to take out a $500 policy on the food stamps that it distributes for the federal government. The policy would cover loss or theft.

A resolution to the Department of Housing and Urban Development asking for a $25,000 grant to study low rent housing needs in the parish was approved.

The jury asked the state to suspend until 1972 the enforcement of the law requiring brakes on boat trailers. Farm trailers already have been given an extension to 1972.

Pesticides should be locked up says agent

All pesticides should be stored in a cabinet, room or building that can be clearly marked and that can be locked, according to Ruth C. Hemandez, Home Demonstration Agent with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

Pesticides should be stored in a cool, dry, well-ventialted place. It is best if a separate building is used away from feed and processing areas.

A warning sign should be posted on the door. Always keep them under lock and key.

Pesticides should be kept out of the reach of humans; domestic animals and other forms of beneficial life. Children account for 70 per cent of the victims of pesticide injury.

Pesticides should not be stored where there is food, feed or seed. They can become contaminated.

Always keep pesticides in their original containers. They should be tightly closed and plainly labeled and marked with the year of purchase.

Do not stack or store unlike materials together. Maintain a neat and orderly storage at all times.

Check the label for any special storage instructions or precautions.

Remember, always read the label and observe Farm Safety Week, July 25-31.

Processed potatoes are expected to be plentiful in May and in months to follow. Instant mashed potatoes should be available at attractive prices. Inventories of frozen French fries are substantial.

Whatever they divine

PLEA TO PRESIDENT

A Memorial Will be Forwarded to Mr. McKinley

BY GOV. TAYLOR OF KENTUCKY.

The Parties Charged With Complicity in the Assassination of Gov. Goebel Have Engaged Attorneys.

Frankfort, Ky., March 17.—Gov. Taylor spent Friday at the executive mansion in conference with his political leaders, principal among whom were John W. Yerkes of Danville and D. W. Lindsay of this city. It is understood that a memorial to President McKinley, asking him to intervene and take a hand in the political contests, was the subject of this conference, but as several of those called to the conference do not arrive in session was not reached as to the exact terms of the measure that would be sent to the president. Gov. Taylor refused to state the contents or the import of the appeal to President McKinley, but it is said that Gov. Taylor has expressed a desire for the assistance of a small body of troops, and also for support in the way of recognition of him as governor.

As a result of meetings held by a number of prominent citizens of Louisville it is announced that ex-Gov. John Young Brown has accepted the employment of chief counsel for the men arrested for the murder of the late Wm. Goebel. This action, its promoters say, is taken in order that no innocent man may be convicted through the agency of the $100,000 reward appropriated by the last legislature.

Ex-Gov. Brown will be chief counsel and with him will be associated Hon. George Denny of Lexington, W. C. P. Breckinridge of Lexington, Hon. J. C. Sims of Bowling Green, Hon. A. E. Willson of Louisville and several others. These lawyers have been instructed to push the cases to an early [illegible] and failure [illegible] to institute [illegible] proceedings in the state and federal courts.

Out on Bond.

Frankfort, March 17.—Secretary of State Powers, Capt. John Davis, W. H. Coulton and W. L. Hamilton, were arraigned before Judge Moore Friday and after some argument between the attorney Hazelrigg was released on $10,000 bond. Judge Moore set the examining trial for Monday. County Attorney Polsgrove said he did not think the state could get ready for trial by that time, and in case they did not would ask for a continuance of two days.

Has a Perfect Right.

Berlin, March 17.—Referring to the attack on American missionaries in China and to the [illegible] issued by the United States Minister Watson to send a warship to Taku to look after the interests of the missionaries, a high official of the German foreign office said:

"Germany does not claim authority over the entire Shan Tung peninsula and the United States government has a perfect right to send a ship there for the protection of American citizens."

Sent to Jail.

Guthrie, Ok., March 17.— Chief Justice Burford in chambers has denied the application of W. H. Redwine of Pawnee for release upon a writ of habeas corpus. Redwine declined to testify in the probate court at Pawnee in a case involving title to lots, and was ordered to jail for contempt. Justice Burford holds that he must stay in jail until he is willing to testify.

Flaver, Aguinaldo's secretary of war, as surrendered to Gen. MacArthur.

FOR PRETORIA.

Lord Roberts Will Soon Start in the Direction of that City.

London, March 17.—With railway communication to the Cape intact, Lord Roberts will, in a very few days, be in a position to begin the advance on Pretoria. His deep political intuition, combined with his bold strategy, is having the result desired in the southern sections of the Orange Free State, which are rapidly calming down.

Mafeking is now the only point for anxiety, and as it is known that a force left Kimberley, its relief may be announced before many days pass. The efficiency of the relieving column is heightened by the fact that it is partly composed of regulars.

In the lobbies of parliament Friday evening it was rumored that Lord Roberts is about to issue a proclamation announcing that the former system of government in the Orange Free State is abolished and promising Free Staters who immediately surrender due consideration.

It is understood that all the continental powers, with one exception, uncompromisingly refused to intervene. The exception was Russia, whose reply was couched in less firm language, although like the others, she declined to interfere. It is said that the pope was appealed to, but he declined to do anything beyond writing a letter to the queen appealing to her to stop the further effusion of blood. Dr. Leyds' efforts with King Leopold were quite as fertile.

The latest advices respecting the surrender of Bloemfontein show that the approach of the British caused a stampede. Thirteen trains, each composed of forty cars and all crammed with Boers hurried northward just before the line was cut. Mr. Steyn would have been compelled to surrender, but he pretended that he was going to visit one of the outposts and at midnight took a carriage which was waiting for him outside the town and thus escaped. The Boers got the bulk of their wagons and military stores away.

Great Enthusiasm.

Passed Senate.

Washington, March 17.—After a debate, at times spirited, extending over parts of two days, the senate Friday passed the Puerto Rican relief bill. As passed the measure carries $2,095,000, the president being authorized to use that sum "for public education, public works and other governmental and public purposes" in Puerto Rico.

Mr. Chilton compared the bill to the Little was done in the house.

Venezuelan Bill.

London, March 17.—In the house of commons the parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, Mr. St. John Brodrick, answering a question, said the British expense in the case of the Venezuelan arbitration from 1896 to date was $65,625. He added that there was no suggestion that British Guiana should defray any part of the expense.

New York and Texas at Galveston.

Galveston, Texas, March 19.—The Texas and New York put in their appearance today and were piloted without difficulty into Bolivar Roads, where they are anchored. There is already quite a crowd in the city and by this time tomorrow the town will be full of visitors. The committee on arrangements have worked faithfully and if the crowds are not properly entertained it will not be attributable to lack of preparation. Visitors in the past have sometimes complained of having been robbed on account of the high prices charged for various things here. Whether this be true or not, every effort has been made to prevent this being the case at this time. The greater percentage of the businesses will host out for a 50-cent rate from the city to the ships, but every influence possible has been brought to bear to get this reduced. The bureau of information will be diagonally opposite the Union depot and the comfort of the visitors will be looked after as much as possible. The story has been circulated that the New York would not be able to cross the bar, but she has crossed it and that is the most substantial evidence of the unreliability of the story. Her regular draft is 27 feet, but she has been lightered for this occasion until she draws only a fraction over 25 feet. The unfortunate stranger who fails to get a boat out to the ships while in the city can say that he saw them anyway and that will be some satisfaction. The Machias will arrive tomorrow morning.

Arms for Natives.

Lorenzo Marques, March 19.—A dispatch from Pretoria, dated Saturday, March 10, says: The garrison is holding its own. We have heard numerous rumors that the siege will be raised, but so far that is not the case. We are pegging along patiently on quarter rations, supplemented by the occasional capture of cattle. Our home-made gun erratically bombards the Boer trenches. Horrible stories are current that the Boers are [illegible] ling nameless tortures [illegible] native runners. These [illegible] true, but they are tending [illegible] native passions to such an [illegible] it may soon be impossible to [illegible] natives in check.

Owing to [illegible] leaving [illegible] women [illegible] native [illegible] Colonel Baden-Powell has armed [illegible] natives, but he has only allowed them to act on the defensive, although they have clamored to be allowed to go out and attack at the point of the bayonet. They will be prevented as long as possible from inflicting reprisals on the [illegible].

Killed His Daughter.

Butte, Mont., March 19.—Thomas Pooley, a saloon keeper, last night shot his son-in-law, Thomas Littlejohn, and the latter's wife, Lyda, during a difficulty on the street in the upper part of town. There has been bad feeling between Littlejohn and Pooley since Littlejohn married the latter's daughter. The marriage was without the father's consent. Last night Littlejohn and his wife, the latter carrying their baby, met Pooley on the street. They quarreled and Littlejohn knocked Pooley down, and, according to the latter's story, began kicking him. Pooley drew a pistol while on the ground and shot Littlejohn. He died in a few minutes. Another shot missed the intended victim and struck Mrs. Littlejohn in the head. She died after being removed to the hospital. The baby was uninjured. Pooley was arrested.

A General Strike.

Chicago, March 19.—After the conference between the representatives of the International Association of Machinists and the administrative council of the National Metal Trades association ended at 10:30 yesterday morning, President James O'Connell of the union declared that strikes would be called immediately in all parts of the United States and Canada. Such strikes would involve 100,000 men and cause to be shut down for an indefinite period, national figures an aggregate capital of millions of dollars. Chicago labor troubles are responsible for the disagreement which is expected to precipitate the general machinists' strike.

Atlanta, Ga.—The United States industrial commission, which is in vestigating conditions in the South, will begin their hearings in Atlanta Monday.

Charleston, S. C.—Major General Miles and staff arrived in Charleston from Washington. The party will go to Charleston, Port Royal and Savannah.

Amazon Corps.

London, March 19.—A Daily News dispatch from Bloemfontein dated March 16 says: Events have occurred which induce some to predict that the war will last only so long as it takes to march to Pretoria. The educated Boers, even the Transvaalers, are ready to accept the inevitable. I am told that a corps of 2000 women has been formed at Pretoria. It is called the Amazon corps. All the members are uniformed in kilts and are armed.

"Three years ago," she [illegible] when we moved to Rochester I was [illegible] dible condition. I had just received [illegible] critical experience in a girl's life when she [illegible] from girlhood into womanhood.

"I had grown too fast and rapid growth had sapped my strength, rosy me of a robust constitution at the [illegible] most needed. Consequently whenever change which are incident to this [illegible] life took place my system was unequip[illegible] it and I became [illegible].

I gained in weight, great strength, my cheeks took on a healthy color, and I looked and felt like a different girl. In fact I was [illegible] well enough in three months to accept a position and start work.

The suspension bridge that is to connect New York with Hoboken will be the longest of its kind, having a span of 2,700 feet. It is estimated that the bridge with its approaches will cost $60,000,000. Probably the bridge will be double decked and provided with a carriage road, a footpath, a bicycle path and four trolley car tracks on the upper deck, besides the six tracks for regular steam railroad, freight and passenger trains on the main deck.

At the Close of the Year

It is necessary to take some medicine to tone up the system and no other medicine will do this as effectively as Wolfe's Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps. It has a most pleasant taste and once in a family will be without it. It has cured thousands of obstinate cases of Colic, Flatulency, pains in the stomach and bowels, and is a specific for all cases of Kidney and Bladder troubles. Ask your druggist for it. Refuse worthless substitutes and insist on having Wolfe's Schnapps.

Writing on the decline of the French language, M. Jean Finot points out that at the end of the last century French was the language spoken by the greatest number of civilized people, whereas now it stands fourth. English is spoken by 116,000,000, Russian by 85,000,000 German by 80,000,000 and Frenchonly 52,000,000

New Life Awaits in Rural Louisiana

And this new life style, which awaits the thousands who are seeking an escape from the rush-rush, hurry-hurry world of the big cities, is much to the credit of the Electric Cooperatives serving rural Louisiana.

The people who own and operate the Electric Co-ops know that a key ingredient to successful rural development is an abundant supply of adequate, dependable electric power to ease family chores, and to speed and automate the production of farms, business and industry.

With rural electrification setting the pace in small communities, other things follow: good water, sewerage and drainage systems, good schools, churches, recreational and cultural facilities. They're all part of the total commitment of the Electric Co-ops to make rural Louisiana a good place to live, work and play.

The Rural Electric record speaks for itself: Just over 30 years ago, less than 2 per cent of Louisiana's rural homes and farms enjoyed the benefits of electric service; today that figure is just about 100 per cent. Anyone who wants electric service can have it at rates on a par with people living in the cities.

Owning nearly half the electric lines in the state (34,000 miles), but enjoying less than 5 per cent of the total revenues of the electric industry, the Co-ops today are extending vital electric power to some 500,000 people.

If you're looking for fresh air, peace and contentment, try rural Louisiana. While enjoying your new life style, you'll meet lots of good neighbors, like the people who own and operate the Electric Co-ops.

Two platforms to be launched

Pennzoil Offshore Gas Operators, Inc. and its partners will launch two 18-well production platforms August 5 from J. Ray McDermott's shipyard at Morgan City for installation on East Cameron Block 270, approximately 80 miles offshore Western Louisiana, POGO President W. A. Hover announced.

"They will be the first production platforms erected by the industry on offshore Western Louisiana tracts leased by the Department of Interior last December," Hover said. It will take approximately one month to set the platforms in place before commencing development drilling that will be done by Diamond M Drilling Company's Rig 90 and Dixilyn Corporation's Rig 7.

Pogo is ahead of its scheduled 18-well drilling program for 1971 on the new Western Louisiana leases. To date it has drilled 11 wells and supported four. Two wells are currently drilling, one on Eugene Island 256 at a depth of approximately 11,006' and the other on West Cameron 587 at a depth of approximately 11, 108'. In addition, Pogo is supporting a well being drilled by Chevron Oil Company on Eugene Island Block 305 currently at a depth of approximately 9000'.

The "Intrepid" rig, which has just finished drilling for Pogo on East Cameron 334, will be moved to adjoining Block 317 to meet a prior commitment. It will drill the first exploratory test on Block 317, owned 80 percent by Humble Oil and Refining Co. and 20 percent by Pogo. Pogo was unable to complete its evaluation of the Block 334 test because of mechanical difficulties encountered just below 13,000 feet. Additional drilling will be done on this tract before the end of the year.

Cameron Pilot

More on how parish named

By BERNICE STEWART

It was with interest that I read Mrs. Bertha Henry Duhon's account of the naming of Cameron Parish that appeared in The Pilot, on July 29.

It is my opinion that the Simon Cameron referred to by the Hon. Samuel P. Henry and the Simon Cameron of Abraham Lincoln's war cabinet were one and the same.

The clipping from the March 20, 1902, issue of the New York Morning Sun, quoted in The Pilot, stated that Henry was a native of Lancaster, Pa.

"Cameron, Simon (1799-1889), an American senator. He was born in Lancaster County, Pa. He learned the printer's trade, and in 1822 edited a paper in Harrisburg, supporting the candidacy of Andrew Jackson. He was elected to the United States Senate in 1845. In 1856 he joined the new Republican party formed after the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and was again elected to the Senate. A failure as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet from March, 1861, to January, 1862, he was appointed minister to Russia, where he stayed from 1862-63. He was again Senator, 1866-77. In 1877, he resigned."

Since both S. P. Henry and Simon Cameron (Secretary of War for less than a year, but U. S. senator at the time Cameron Parish was created) were natives of Lancaster, Pa., it would seem likely that they were friends, the latter gentleman being some 20 years the elder.

Swim parallel

By MRS. EDITH GRIFFITH

Recently I was watching a television show and an item of interest caught my attention. I feel that I should share it with those who didn't see the show. It should be of special interest to swimmers, and anyone living on the coast as we do should know about it. It concerns rip currents.

Occasionally a swimmer will notice that he has gotten a little too far out. He then feels a strong current that seems to be pulling him even further out. In an attempt to try to head back to shore and safety he will invariably head straight back in, only to be pulled further out to sea. This is known as "Rip Current."

There is a way to tell where the currents are and how to get out of them. As you know, waves run parallel to the beach. In a rip current the waves will run perpendicular to the beach.

You can stand on the beach and look out across the water and spot them. A rip current runs about 20 to 30 feet wide.

There is a safe way to get out of one when you are caught. Instead of heading toward the beach, swim parallel to the beach until you have swam out of the current.

Most of the deaths of persons caught in a rip current (also called rip tide or undertow) could have been avoided by remembering four simple words "Swim parallel to shore."

Second spraying begins in parish

Summer showers that caused a speedy hatch of mosquito larvae caused Agriculture Department officials Monday to launch a program to respray 660,000 acres in Calcasieu and Cameron parishes.

Almost 900,000 acres were covered two weeks ago as part of an effort to wipe out mosquitoes suspected of carrying a sleeping sickness fatal to horses. Officials called the program a "total success" at that time, but set up traps to monitor the mosquito population since the spray kills only adult mosquitoes and does not affect larvae.

Hatch numbers increased because of rains, bringing about the decision to begin the current spraying program.

Planes are covering an area bounded on the east by La. 27 (Creole), on the west by the Sabine Ship Channel, north by Starks and on the south of the Gulf of Mexico.

Ant poison to be sold here

Mirex fire ant poison will be sold to Cameron Parish farmers and other persons who need it on Monday, Aug. 20, according to County Agent Clifford Myers, county agent.

The schedule is as follows:

9:30 to 10:30 a.m. - John Duhon's old home place at Sweetlake

11:15 to 12:15 - E. Nunez store at Creole

12:45 to 1:15 - Courthouse at Cameron

1:45 to 2 - Mason Istre store, Holly Beach

2:45 to 3 - Riggs grocery at Hackberry

The poison will be sold at cost by a truck from the Louisiana Department of Agriculture.

Fire ants have become a serious problem to Cameron parish farmers in recent years building large mounds that interfere with hay cutting and also harming young calves.

Firemen lauded for efforts

State Trooper John Prescott expressed appreciation to Cameron Fire Chief Ray Burleigh and members of the Cameron Voluntary Fire Department for their efforts last weekend in helping avert what could have been a catastrophe.

Prescott said a Scurlock Oil Company tank truck, loaded with gasoline was involved in a traffic accident on Deep Bayou. It turned over and was leaking badly.

The Cameron volunteer fire department was called and Chief Burleigh and other firemen responded and stood by for abot three hours until the truck could be unloaded.

Any parent who has a child who will be five years old before Jan. 1, 1972 and has not been registered for Kindergarten is invited to the meeting.

In order that all the essential information be given to all parents concerned, it is requested that every effort be made to attend this meeting.

Possession is charged here

Charged with having the drug on his person was Johnny O'Donnell. The 21-year-old owner of the car and a 24-year-old passenger, were not charged.

The sheriff's department said the car was stopped because it matched the description of a car in which the three occupants were wanted for questioning in connection with another offense. (No connection was established between the two incidents.)

O'Donnell was released on $1000 bond. Possession of marijuana was recently reduced by the legislature to a misdemeanor with the maximum penalty being a six month jail sentence.

Two charged in gator matter

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, today revealed that after weeks of intensive undercover investigation, two Jefferson Parish men were arrested and charged with the illegal possession of alligators.

The men, Joseph Lawrence Gambino and Forrest Raymond Comardelle, Jr., both of Westwego, were arrested on charges of illegal possession of alligators and illegal possession of undersized alligators. At the time of the arrest agents seized 108 alligator hides.

Wildlife agents Ray Monica, Tommy Candies, Irvin Dees and James Nunez made the arrest at a St. Charles Parish motel as the arrested subjects attempted to deliver the hides for sale to a prospective buyer.

Hoffpauer added that this is the largest number of hides ever seized by wildlife agents in an action of this kind.

Cameron parish, which probably has the largest concentration of alligators in the state, has been plagued in recent years by alligator poachers.

MRS. ELLEN BRYAN MOORE has announced that she is seeking her fifth term as register of state lands.

Offshore oil find announced

A four-company combine says exploratory drilling has indicated the presence of oil in a tract of land off the Louisiana coast purchased in the 1970 offshore lease sale.

The combine, called the SLAM group, Monday announced discovery of significant oil reserves in the east Cameron area in Block 321, about 98 miles from shore.

The combine is made up of Signal Oil and Gas Co., Louisiana Land Exploration Co., Amerada Hess Corp., and Marathon Oil Co.

The group said oil had been encountered in at least six sands to a depth of 7,000 feet in three wells. Production is expected as early as the spring of 1972, the announcement said.

Around the Capitol

By JACK GOULD

BATON ROUGE -- How much do the newspapers influence the outcome of a statewide election?

One veteran writer for a metropolitan paper once said he had made a careful study of his own rag, and estimated that it had, at most, less than 10 percent "influence" on its readers.

And an editor of another large newspaper once admitted, after several Martinis, that endorsement by his daily seemed to amount to a political "kiss of death!"

This does not mean that the larger newspapers do not have some influence. And certainly they try, directly or indirectly, to have more.

One large daily in North Louisiana, for example, "buried" the story of the formal announcement of one candidate for governor in the middle of the paper -- despite the fact that the candidate had once lived there and is now an acknowledged top contender in the race.

Far more subtle was the method used by a metropolitan daily in South Louisiana to boost the image of one candidate -- and undermine others -- by "word association."

About their own apparent choice, they used words such as "political courage," and "seems equally at home with hardhats and longhairs," and "a warm, friendly person."

About a rival candidate for the office, they interviewed him in a scene showing "an ugly crow" which peered at him "through a pair of black, beady eyes" from a "scraggly limb."

Another candidate was pictured dreaming, already learning to use the word "governor" before his name; and describing himself as handsome "before I lost my hair." Still another aspirant was described as "one who walks slowly . . . stammers as if lost for words."

There were still more "word portraits" in the series -- but the picture is plain!

Still another big paper reportedly has decided it can't live with any of the three probable winners, so will "back" a "respected" probable loser.

How about the smaller dailies and weekly papers -- any influence? Samples seen here seem to show they do have in their areas, for three reasons:

(1) Generally, they are more thoroughly read, (2) editors are better known -- and trusted, and (3) many smaller papers just say, bluntly, "we like one man because . . ."

Not that all small papers are perfect. One columnist, for instance seldom mentions one leading candidate for governor -- and the candidate is at a loss to find out why!

But generally speaking, candidates for statewide offices might well read many "local" papers to find out what's really going on.

Border on field has benefits

By TERRY J. CLEMENT

If a landowner set out to find a way to improve the environment, benefit wildlife, and conserve soil, few things would come nearer to fulfilling all requirements than vegetative field borders. A field border of permanent vegetation is "right on" when it comes to doing these jobs.

The field border is a strip of permanent vegetation 10 to 30 feet wide on the edge of a field next to a road, ditch, woodland, stream or whatever might border the field. Plants should be perennials, and adapted to the local soil and climatic conditions.

These green strips improve the environment in many ways, but the two most important ways are silt reduction and beautification. As water leaves a field it passes through these field borders. When passing through a dense stand of vegetation, the water drops its load of sand and silt. This means water leaving the field is almost clear and not carrying silt that fills ditches, streams and lakes. Field borders also make farm land much more attractive when the fields are plowed by breaking up some of the barrenness of the fields.

Wildlife benefit from these strips because food and cover are provided. Shrub and sericea lespedeza, fescue and other plants provide food for rabbits, quail, deer and turkey. Quail and rabbits use these plants for nesting and loafing cover.

These strips also attract many other kinds of wildlife such as songbirds which help control insects and make the land a more cheerful place to live.

The Soil Conservation Service conservationists assist land users in soil and water conservation districts plan wildlife conservation practices on their farms.

For all around environmental protection on the land, field borders are hard to beat.

By BERNICE STEWART

The dwarf palmetto, once extremely abundant on the Chenieres of Cameron Parish, grows in limited quantity today. In the long, hard struggle between the landowner and the low gregarious palm to possess the land, the man seems to have won out over the plant.

The palmetto has large fan-shaped leaves that end in dagger-like points. It might be more accurate to describe the individual stiff leaves as radiating in a fan-shape from the short, tough stalk of the plant.

The word "palmetto", Dr. William A. Read tells us in his book, LOUISIANA-FRENCH, is of Indian origin. The French called it "latanier," a derivative of Carib "alatanni," or "palmier nain," meaning "dwarf palm."

Early Cameron settlers found a variety of uses for the palmetto. It was used as a thatch covering for outhouses or for some of the earliest temporary dwelling places. Palmetto roofing was in use longer than were palmetto walls. When the roof became dry and brittle, it was removed and replaced by fresh green palmettos.

One side of a palmetto stalk is flat; the other, rounded. Two stalks were cut near the ground, and the flat sides laid against each other and fastened securely, usually by rapping with cord. The spines of the plant were then slit into long fine sections. The result: an excellent brush for shooing away mosquitoes and flies, or a handy switch for driving home the milk cow or starting an ornery little calf. I am told that it occasionally found its way to the spankable portions of obstreperous youngsters.

Hats and belts were woven from the palmetto, also. It was fashioned into fans by cutting and rounding it to the proper size, but as such it was too heavy. However, the imported palmetto fans were probably found in every home in the parish till electricity was brought in with its accompanying electric blowers.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Do we have a Senator or Governor who will put a bill on the floor of the Senate to get prayer back into our schools? If he will do this, I will get the signatures he needs on the petition. Ohio is doing it, and I always understood the South was the Prayer Belt of the United States.

There had not been a campus riot until they took prayer out of our schools. Even on our money we have "In God We Trust" but we don't have God in our schools.

This might help our youths to become well adjusted adults, if they know how to pray.

Dear Editor:

Someone in Cameron Parish thinks everyone is rich, and we don't have to work for our money. They want a 2 mill tax on our property from now till forever plus charge us for ambulance services.

If we are sick enough to need an ambulance we are sick enough to go to a hospital in Lake Charles. This will cost us approximately $100 plus our tax.

Let's either have the tax and free ambulance service or pay for it, but not both.

Mr. O'Donnell did an excellent job and he did not charge this much.

Oil industry to be honored here

The oil industry has been chosen to be honored at the 1972 Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival in January in Cameron.

This decision was made by the board of directors of the Festival. W. F. Henry, Jr., was chairman of the committee that was chosen to conduct the poll of the directors. Other industries receiving consideration were rice, farming, shrimp and fishing.

Each year an industry is chosen to be honored and a king is chosen from that industry to reign over the Festival.

The first industry so honored was the menhaden fishing and King Fur No. 1 was Jack Styron.

Last year the Cattle Industry was chosen and Mark Richard reigned as King Fur No. 3. He will relinquish his crown at the 1972 festival to the new king for the oil industry.

The committee was composed of presidents of the Home Demonstration clubs throughout the parish and others appointed by the president of the Fur Festival, J. B. Jones, Jr.

The committee met this week at the Rockefeller Refuge. A gumbo, prepared by Jones, was served to the committee after the ballots were counted.

Rice cut final blow Edwards declares

"This may be the final blow in completely destroying what was once a healthy segment of American agriculture.

I and other Members of Congress from rice-growing areas have repeatedly urged the Department of Agriculture to increase PL 480 funds and and export subsidies so as to stimulate foreign rice movement of American rice into foreign markets. This would have contributed to a more favorable balance-of-payments situation, would have generated income taxes for the federal government and maintained a healthy rice economy.

Regretably, this Republican administration and particularly its State Department are more concerned with keeping world rice prices down and in favoring other rice-producing nations than they are in maintaining a healthy rice economy here in America. It is an attitude which I cannot understand and which will undoubtedly contribute to bankrupting many small rice farmers.

The action of the Administration today represents a sharp setback and casts grave doubts on the administration's willingness to cope with the severe economic ills of the country. The rice farmers of Louisiana, and indeed the nation, will not soon forget this action, nor the administration's disregard for the plight of the small farmer who finds himself caught in the cost-price squeeze.

I will arrange a meeting of all U. S. congress and senators interested in rice production as soon as Congress reconvenes in September so that we can register protest and make every effort to change the Department's unrealistic attitude.

At the very least, if this acreage cut must be tolerated, certainly the Department should give favorable consideration to raising support prices. Rice farmers will not be able to bear the economic burden of this decision.

Armyworms hit pastures here

By CLIFFORD MYERS
(County Agent)

Several Cameron parish pastures have been infested with armyworms.

The worm eats the leaves and tender stems, leaving only the tough stems, he said. Severe damage can occur in a short time when the worms are present in large numbers.

Young worms are light colored with a dark head, but older ones are dark green or black with several lighter colored stripes along their back. Look for the worms in the leaf sheaths or on the ground in areas where the leaves have been eaten.

Cool, wet weather is ideal for armyworm development. Under these conditions, the worm could cause extensive damage.

They can be controlled by the use of Sevin at the rate of 1-1 1/2 pounds of technical material per acre. A 50% and 80% wettable powder is available on the market. Three pounds of 50% or 2 pounds of 80% W. P. Sevin per acre would give 1 1/2 lbs. of technical material per acre which would be the maximum amount to use. Mix it in enough water to cover the entire acre. It could be applied with a 5 gallon hand sprayer or any cattle sprayer type pump. When used as above, there are no limitation periods on pasture or hay crops.

Weed spraying aids pastures

By CLIFFORD MYERS
(County Agent)

The mangrove spraying conducted on the Edras Nunez farm earlier this summer was very successful. More recent spraying of mangrove was done by A. P. Trahan and Leyton Miller.

The herbicide used, namely 2, 4 - 5-T, in addition to other ingredients, is a contact kill only. It will only control the present growth as it has no residual effect. There will no doubt be future growth of mangrove on the sprayed areas just like cofferwood comes back in future years after sprayed.

The results of bermuda grass growth is amazing in this mangrove sprayed area as compared to the adjacent area not sprayed. The bermuda that was once struggling to grow directly under the brush is now nearly the height of the dead mangrove brush while the grass under the mangrove in the unsprayed area remains stunted.

I now feel like we have enough control data to recommend the spraying of mangrove brushes with the formula used.

Spraying is completed here

An aerial spraying program, which was partly responsible for preventing the spread of horse sleeping sickness into Louisiana, has been completed in Cameron and Calcasieu parishes with 746,294 acres having been sprayed.

A fleet of six airplanes working out of Lake Charles and Houston, Tex., airports covered a section from the Sabine River west to Louisiana 27 (Creole Hwy.) and from the Gulf of Mexico north to about 2 1/2 miles north of the Intracoastal Waterway.

Planes operating out of Lake Charles also sprayed more than one million acres in three East Texas counties to complete a program designed to wipe out mosquitoes capable of carrying VEE a sleeping sickness disease fatal to horses, officials said.

The just-completed spraying program was the second phase of an aerial attack against the mosquitoes. Earlier, planes had applied Malathion, a non-pestilent pesticide to some 900,000 acres in the two parishes.

The second spraying was begun after daily showers caused an unusually large hatch of mosquitoes in Southwest Louisiana and Southeast Texas.

There are no plans for further spraying, it was announced.

Musing . . .

By BERNICE STEWART

Louisiana's political office-seekers are on the move. All of them must be aware of the widespread criticism that the state has gamered for decades in regard to its own ethical -- or not so ethical -- manner of handling its internal affairs.

Over the centuries derogatory terms of "corrupt," "crooked," "depraved," "dishonest," or "an unholy mess" have been applied to the functions of governmental systems at times wherever they existed. In some cases these epithets, as time has proved, were justified; in others, erroneous.

The sad fact is that no individual is safe from slander in any walk of life . . . least of all a politician. Equally as sad is the truth that some elected persons do violate the trust that catapulted them into office and that they are guilty of dishonest dealings and disgraceful conduct.

Politicians include not only the candidates themselves but also the persons who work in party politics to get their nominees elected. We realize that both groups are necessary to the success of democratic government. The latter work during campaigns to help define issues and between elections as the liaison between officeholdem and the public.

Politicans are generally thought of as having only party or political aims. In contrast, statesmen are regarded as being concerned with the interest and needs of their country as a whole. They are accredited with a broad and general knowledge of politics and government.

Actually, there is no reason why a politican cannot be a statesman. Like the Ten Commandments, the flaws of statesmanship contain a few "Thou shalts" and a few "Thou shalt nots."

1. Thou shalt look to the future success of thy country.
2. Thou shalt act on enduring principles and for immortality.
3. Thou shalt be morally circumspect, faithful and sincere.
4. Thou shalt discharge thy duty thoroughly and well.
5. Thou shalt subordinate personal desires to principle and personal ambition to the love of thy country.
6. Thou shalt not regard merely the present and the next election.
7. Thou shalt not be animated by greed or selfishness.
8. Thou shalt not put principles on or off at the dictation of a party.
9. Thou shalt not use underhand and dishonest means to win a victory.
10. Thou shalt not make false promises to thy public.

* * *

Too many people complain about the outcome of elections. We adhere strongly to the belief that the only ones who have any right to voice their opinion are the qualified voters who went to the polls on election day and voted their convictions.

Some time ago a Chicago government poster bore this inscription: "Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote."

Four centuries before Christ, Plato, the Greek philosophet, said, "The punishment suffered by the wise who refuse to take part in the government is to live under the government of bad men."

Important as it is for a citizen to vote, it is also imperative that he study the candidates who are up for election and the amendments under consideration.

An American educator, William Bennett Munro, wrote, "People vote their resentment, not their appreciation. The average man does not vote for anything, but against something."

Any community is impoverished when the electors feel that candidate timber is so inferior that their only recourse is to vote against the worst.

Before such a situation reaches a climax, public-spirited individuals should seek to find a capable, dedicated person interested in better government and willing to serve in an elected capacity. The next step is to recognize the profession of the politican, or statesman, as essential to the welfare of the state and to educate the community into realizing it.

Lastly, we would hope that the office went to the best qualified and most scrupulous candidate instead of to the one who was out to snag for himself the seven cardinal principles, namely, the five loaves and two fishes.

We salute with pride and respect all dedicated officials who have served our parish in the past and who are serving it today in honesty and sincerity to the best of their ability.

Collecting urge

All signs indicate that we are becoming a nation of collectors.

In a reaction to more and more products being produced in mass quantities, things like commemorative plates and limited editions of ceramic sculptures have special appeal, it seems. A famous pottery in England has its skilled handcraftsmen working hard to meet the demands of the American market for the limited editions of plates that commemorate occasions such as the 250th anniversary of the Mayflower sailing and the 100th anniversary of the death of Charles Dickens.

Backfire

The backfiring car almost seems a relic of bygone days. However, the modern car can backfire, too — especially when the fuel mixture is too lean and the engine cold.

Other possible causes are sticky or leaky valves or ignition leakage. If your car backfires, take it to your favorite service outlet.

Thank You

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the citizens of Cameron and Calcasieu Parishes, for giving me the opportunity to represent you, the next four years, on the Democratic State Central Committee.

My efforts, the past four years on the committee, has been directed mainly toward giving the voters more opportunity and voice in the affairs of the Democratic Party, especially in the selection of delegates to the national conventions, and to be able to express a preference in a meaningful primary to select a candidate for president of the United States. Although some progress was experienced toward that direction, much more is needed in legislation and party rules, to give you more voice in the affairs of your government.

I promise to continue my efforts in this direction in the next four years. Thank you for your vote of confidence by permitting my election un-opposed at this time.

Historical group formed

Forty-six persons from Southwest Louisiana and Southeast Texas, who are interested in the preservation of the history of Cameron parish, gathered in the Cameron library Thursday night to organize the Cameron Parish Historical and Genealogical Society.

W. T. Block, Nederland, Tex., author and historian, was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Mrs. D. W. Griffith, who gave him credit for providing the spark that "lit the fire" to organize the society at this time.

Block, who is a teacher at Lamar College in Beaumont, Tex., has written an account of the Battle of Calcasieu, a famous civil war battle fought at Cameron.

Mrs. Griffith said it is her hope that the society can do something about marking the graves of the 26 or more the Civil War dead who are buried in Cameron, on Monkey Island.

Block outlined his ideas on what a historical society should do. He discussed historical collecting and the possible sources.

Some of these are early census lists, gravestones in the parish graveyards, early-day baptism, marriage and death records in the churches, family Bibles, old documents, abstracts, pension claims, muster rolls of military units, etc.

He also suggested the use of tape recorders to interview elderly citizens to record their memoirs. Oral history should also encourage the preservation of the folklore of the region.

Block had some journals of the Southwest Texas Historical and Genealogical Society which he exhibited. He also pointed out that his interest in the history of Cameron parish is deep rooted since ancestors from both sides of his family came from the parish.

Mrs. Charles Perry, parish librarian, served as temporary chairman of the meeting and appointed a nominating committee who will present a slate of officers to the next quarterly meeting which has been set for Oct. 7, at the local library.

The group agreed to set the following dues for the organization: $5 for a regular active membership, for a husband and wife membership, $2.50 for associate membership (no voting privileges), $1 for student memberships (no voting privileges), $15 for institutional and Organizational (Libraries, Home Demonstration Club, etc. and other historical societies) and $25 contributing membership.

They also decided to elect 14 members to the board of directors, two from each community in the parish.

Youth wanted for thefts

The Cameron Parish Sheriff's Department is looking for a young white male wanted for theft.

The subject was given a ride from Cameron to the Mecom ranch at Holly Beach last week. He stole some tools, clothes and a pick-up truck from the ranch. When he got to Johnson Bayou the truck went out on him and he then stole a truck from Francis Erbelding and transferred his belongings to it.

He then stole a mini-bike from a garage at the Alton Trahan home. The truck was spotted passing the Sabine Causeway into Texas at 4 p. m.

The Port Arthur police department reported that they had seen the suspect in the truck heading west.

Investigating officer for the local department is J. B. Erbelding, III.

Trapping dates set for state

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission has set the trapping season for nutria, beaver, mink, muskrat, otter, raccoon, opossum and skunk from Dec. 1, 1971 to Feb. 29, 1972.

Commission action came at the regular monthly meeting in New Orleans with a provision that if additional time is required to prevent the overpopulation of nutria and muskrat in some areas, the recommendations for an extended season must be presented at the commission's January, 1972 board meeting.

Trapping permits on wildlife management areas may be obtained from district offices.

Parish in new district with part of Calcasieu

The court-ordered reapportionment plan for the Louisiana House and Senate which was announced this week has greatly changed the political picture for Cameron parish.

The parish will be in a new single member Representative district, District 36, made up of the southern portion of Ward 3 in Calcasieu parish and all of Cameron parish.

The new Senatorial District 26 will be composed of the portion of Ward 3 south of Prien Lake Road in Calcasieu parish, Wards 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Calcasieu parish and all of Cameron parish. It will be represented by one senator.

Precincts in that portion of Ward 3 of Calcasieu parish in the representative district with Cameron are located south of Prien Lake road and include Creinwich School, Ward 3 barn, Prien Lake School, Prine Lake park, Brentwood elementary, McNeese Arena, Our Lady Queen of Heaven hall and Dolby elementary.

The portion of Calcasieu parish in the senatorial district with Cameron includes all of the wards west of the Calcasieu river, including the Westlake, Sulphur, Vinton, Starks and DeQuincy areas.

Conway LeBleu of Cameron, presently a representative for the old House district, which has been composed of Calcasieu and Cameron, announced this week that he will be a candidate for reelection in the new district.

Of the candiates who have already announced for representative, those in the new district with Cameron include Dr. William Boyd, also an incumbent, Lon Tyndall, a former representative, and Ed Burge.

The federal court set new qualifying dates, Sept. 7-10, for both the House and Senate seats. Qualifying under the old districts had ended about two weeks ago.

Although qualifying fees will be deposited candiates who have already deposited fees when they qualified will apparently have their money refunded them.

Opponents are expected to attempt injunctive action but because the plan provides for election of single members by districts which is favored by federal courts many believe injunctive relief will not be given.

No posts other than those of senator and representative are affected by the new plan.

The redistricting for the Senate race leaves Jesse Knowles, incumbent, and Tubby Lyons as the two announced candidates in the Cameron district. The other incumbent senator, Bobby Jones, will be in district made up of Wards 1, 2 and 8 of Calcasieu and all of Jeff Davis parish.

Duck, goose seasons announced for state

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission has selected a split season for the 1971-72 duck hunting season. Elimination of the former federal 10 per cent penalty in hunting days for a split season and liberalization of the bag limits granted this season led to the split duck season.

Duck hunting in Louisiana will begin Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 1971 and extend through Nov. 28. The second and longer split will be from Saturday, Dec. 11 to Jan. 11 for a total of 50 days.

Under regulations by the U. S. Department of Interior, hunters will be allowed six ducks daily, with a possession limit of 12.

The daily bag limit will be restricted to two mallards, not more than two woodducks, nor more than one canvasback or redhead. The possession limit may contain four mallards, a maximum of four woodducks, and one redhead or canvasback.

Shooting hours for waterfowl will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The coot season will run concurrent with the two segments of duck hunting and provides for a daily bag limit of 15, with a possession limit of 30.

There will be a bonus of two scaup (dos gris) during the duck season in that portion of Louisiana which lies south of the Intracoastal waterway from the Texas line to Morgan City, south of U. S. Hwy. 90 from Morgan City to U. S. Hwy. 61, northeast of U. S. Hwy. 61 from New Orleans to LaPlace, east of U. S. Hwy. 51 from LaPlace to Hammond, south of U. S. Hwy. 190 from Hammond to the Mississippi line. These are allowed over and above the regular daily limit on ducks, possession limit is four.

This recommendation was made to exclude that part of the state above the Intracoastal Canal commonly used by ring-necked ducks. This species is not included in the bonus bag but closely resembles the scaup in appearance.

The commission also set the goose season. It will be a split season, opening Nov. 11 and extending through Jan. 9. The second and shorter segment of the goose season will be from Feb. 5 through Feb. 14.

The daily bag and possession limit on geese will be the same, or five geese. The bag may be made up of any mixture of blue and snow geese but cannot contain more than two white-fronted geese.

The taking of Canada geese is not permitted in Louisiana.

'Alligator Man' is back in jail here

A. J. Caro, Cameron parish's own "Alligator Man," was back in the parish jail here this week awaiting arraignment on 23 charges of illegally taking alligators.

Caro, 28, of Lake Charles has served a number of jail sentences in Cameron parish for illegally taking alligators in the parish. His most recent jail term was for about six months with him being released earlier this year.

The Cameron Sheriff's department had been looking for Caro since April 22 on charges of having 13 untagged alligator skins and 10 skins of alligators under four feet in his possession.

On that date he eluded deputies by throwing the hides out, jumping out of his truck and running. It was believed that he hitched a ride out of the parish.

Last weekend Caro was arrested in Jeanerette on a traffic charge and was returned to Cameron parish Monday to await arraignment on the alligator charges.

Caro made statewide news about a year ago when it came out in one of his alligator trials that he had been working as an undercover agent for the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

The commission however denied that Caro was working for the commission at the time he was arrested. He was convicted.

Alligator poaching has been common in Cameron parish in recent years because alligator hides bring high prices and the parish has a big concentration of alligators.

Vinton man is accident victim

Lonnie D. Murphy, 22, of Vinton was killed at 5:35 p. m. Saturday in a one-car accident five miles south of Hackberry on Louisiana 27.

Murphy was Cameron Parish's third traffic fatality of 1971.

Trooper John C. Ahelire, Jr., of State Police Troop D, investigating officer, said the Murphy vehicle was traveling north on Louisiana 27 and attempted a curve to the left.

The car ran off the road, back on again, off again and then slid across the highway where it hit the shoulder and flipped over. The car came to rest in the roadside ditch on its four wheels.

Both Murphy and his passenger, Michael Breaux, 23, of Vinton, were thrown from the car.

Murphy was dead at the scene and Breaux was taken to South Cameron Hospital where he was treated and released.

2232 students are enrolled

A total of 2232 students were enrolled in Cameron parish school Monday as the 1971-72 fall session opened, according to W. R. Smith, superintendent.

This was almost identical to the figure of 2233 for the first day enrollment last year, but a slight increase over enrollment for the last day of the past school session.

Enrollment by schools were:

Ambulances to be discussed

Jules Dronet, Commander of the Richard Bros. American Legion Post of Creole at the meeting of the post last week announced that 100% membership has been reached for the Post on 1972 dues, making the local post the first in the state to reach the goal. He congratulated the membership chairman, Firman LeBoeuf, on bringing in all the memberships.

Approval was given for the construction of a kitchen and meeting room for the ladies auxiliary.

The special election by lower Cameron Hospital Service District to levy a 2 mill tax for the purpose of operating and maintaining ambulance service was discussed. No action was taken by the post, but it was decided that a special meeting

COAST HUGGER—This map shows the route proposed by the Hug-the-coast Highway association to be designated U.S. Highway 11. The association hopes to stimulate tourist travel along the coastal cities through a colorful promotion campaign. Bumper stickers and highway markers are just two of their ideas to promote the cause.

Hug-the-Coast road plans told

Alvin Dyson, Cameron businessman and a vice-president of the Hug-the-Coast Highway Association, has just returned from the semi-annual meeting of the group in Brownsville, Tex., where a report on the progress of the route was made.

Dyson has been a member of the association since its organization 22 years ago with its goal to link Canada with Mexico with a route along the coast.

He said that Mexico has completed work on their part of the highway, to be designated U.S. Highway 11. There is still some roads in Texas and Louisiana that do not meet the designated standards.

One in particular, Dyson said, is the highway in the Oak Grove area. He said that plans are to designate this section as a scenic highway.

The Gulf of Mexico is approximately two miles to the South of the road, separated only by a seawall, filled with wildlife of all sorts.

The purpose of the association is to stimulate economic development of cities along the coast by having certain lower Gulf Coast highways designated U. S. Highway 11. Dyson said it is hoped this will be realized in at least two years.

A colorful promotion campaign for the association was adopted. An emblem was adopted to be placed on large highway markers, place mats, window and bumper stickers and on a map of the proposed route.

Representatives were present from Texas, Louisiana and Mexico, Dyson said.

Bottle collection on display at library

In keeping with the practice of showing exhibits of local collectors, the Cameron Parish library has on display for the next two weeks the bottle collection of Mrs. Bye Billiot of Johnson Bayou.

Mrs. Billiot has an extensive collection, most of which were found along the beach near her home. Her hobby is roaming the beaches in search of the lovely treasures. She keeps her collection that she wants to "age" out in the sun at all times when she is not using them. She has racks in back of her house where she stores them. They change colors when exposed to the elements.

Mrs. Billiot says that decorating with bottles has a very pleasing effect in the home. You can create beautiful arrangements with just a little practice.

By staying within a color range of from very dark to the lightest tones, and using place mats of the same color, or bright ones that will bring out the bottle colors you can create a very pleasing atmosphere in the home.

She stated that her interest in bottles is mostly for decorating, and also trying to collect one from each foreign country is also a great challenge.

All the foreign bottles were found along the beach, and all but a few are liquor bottles. Those in her collection are from England, France, Germany, Japan, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Ireland, Scotland, and the Scandinavian countries.

She has beer and ale bottles from Manila, Belgium, Mexico, Cuba, Bahamas, Virgin Islands, (St. John, St. Croix, and Martinique), Venezuela, and Bolivia.

She has also started a miniature collection and has 50 bottles in it. These are nice as shelf decorations. They are in clear, green, deep amber and cobolt blue.

Everyone that views Mrs. Billiot's collection marvels at how beautifully they shine and how clean they are. She said she devised her own formula for cleaning them. She first soaks them for two weeks in water. The she fills each bottle to be cleaned with hot soapy water (preferably rainwater for it's softness) and adds a handfull of tiny peat gravel. She then gently swishes it back and forth in the bottle. She said this cuts the dirt, or anything that is in the bottle better than anything she has ever found. She said the gravel must be small and must be handled carefully so as not to break the bottle. She then rinses thoroughly with clear water and allows them to dry on sawhorses in the yard.

Mrs. Coral Perry, Parish Librarian, invites everyone to come by the local library and view Mrs. Billiot's collection which is in the showcase in the foyer of the Cameron library.

The importance of the domesticated goose a century ago in Cameron parish is surely remembered today.

When I was a very small girl, my Grandmother Stine fascinated me with tales woven around her own childhood experiences. I can almost see the lass that she must have been, so real did she make the little Susan McCall, born in 1863, appear to me then.

One of the stories that she told was about the flock of geese that each family raised. They furnished meat for the table. The eggs, though large and rich, were seldom used unless chicken eggs were scarce, and then only in cakes or cornbread. But the principal reason why the geese were kept was to furnish feathers and down for pillows and mattresses (feather beds, the early settlers of Cameron called them).

"Picking the geese" was done just prior to the molting season when the feathers were naturally becoming loose. It seems that an older person, or youth, would catch a goose, hobble its legs, slip a hood, or sack, over its head, and hand it to a youngster to remove the soft down of the breast. The goose was held on its back or side during the "de-downing" process. The soft feathers and down under the wings were never plucked. They were retained as cushions for the wings to rest upon.

When the goose squawked too loudly, it was apparent that the remaining feathers were tightly embedded and that it was time to turn it loose.

"Grandmother, didn't you feel sorry for the poor goose?" I would wince and ask.

"Yes, I was both sorry for it and scared of it. But once the goose had pecked you hard enough to raise a blood blister, you felt sorrier for yourself than you did for it."

The best stuffing for pillows, Grandmother explained, was made from a mixture of three quarters down and one quarter goose feathers. Down alone did not provide enough body or springiness. Sometimes goose down and feathers were mixed with duck feathers.

"Quills or wing feathers of the goose made ideal writing pens," Grandmother continued. The, when I had found a chicken feather in the yard and brought it to her (There were no geese on our farm in my day.), she would pick up a penknife and demonstrated how the goose quill pen had been fashioned.

"The goose has influenced our expressions of speech," she tole me. "They are pretty intelligent creatures, but people think they are silly because of their constant cackling. That's why a stupid person is called a goose. When a goose decides to outsmart a person, it usually does. If it runs away, it is hard to find. So, when people fail to get what they go out for, we say they go on a wild goose chase. If one fails, we say he got a goose egg, because geese hide their nests very well."

Grandmother then told me that people are said to have "goose flesh, goose pimples, or goose bumps" because their skin contracts as does that of the poor goose when it is being plucked.

"When prospects look good," Grandmother added, "we say that the goose hangs high."

"Why?" I would ask.

"Where was it hanging?"

"I don't really know how the saying began," she would reply. "Perhaps it once meant the goose honks high, for the wild goose flies high when the weather is fair."

Then would come her usual climax to the goose stories, her telling of the well-known fable of the goose that laid the golden eggs. She always ended with the admonition, "My child, as you grow up, never kill the goose that lays the golden eggs."

I doubt that she realized the hundreds of times her words were to come back to me in moments of decision. I doubt . . . and yet, I wonder . . . My grandmother was as wise as she was gentle.

Boy Scouts learn how

The scouts are working toward the earning of the fingerprint merit badge. Those attending were: Kevin Colligan, Richard Kiffe, Terry Dronet and Bobby Doxey. Timmy Colligan also attended.

Holiday date changed here

Cameron parish schools will be closed for Veteran's Day on Thursday, Nov. 11, instead of Oct. 25, as originally announced.

W. R. Smith, parish superintendent, said that Veterans Day was one of the holidays that had been rescheduled for a Monday so as to provide a long weekend. However, the bill which would have authorized these changes in Louisiana was vetoed by the governor.

The schools' first holiday this year will be Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 6.

Lions to put up billboard

Michael Faulk was welcomed as a new member of the Cameron Lions Club last week by President Roland J. Trosclair at the noon meeting at Fred's restaurant.

Garner Nunez was appointed corresponding secretary. The president requested that Kenneth Hopper keep the club informed of club members who are in the local hospital.

The club approved donations of $75 to the local Boy Scout troop and $25 to the Cub Scouts. It also decided to erect a community billboard. All clubs will be invited to put their emblems on it for a set fee.

It was announced that some of the club members will attend the fall seminar in Lake Charles Aug. 28. The local club was also represented at the cabinet meeting in Crowley Sept. 19.

No test needed to register

Miss Wynona Welch, Cameron parish registrar of voters, reminds those eligible to register to vote that they do not have to take a test of any kind. There is also no charge.

All anyone needs to do is come to her office in the Cameron Courthouse building and fill out the registration card. She asked that they also bring their social security card, if they have one.

Ambulance . . . .

A meal, prepared by Mrs. Woodrow Bertrand, was served to both the Post and Auxiliary.

Lions speakers

Mrs. Coral Perry, Cameron Parish librarian, and Mrs. Geneva Griffith appeared before the Cameron Lions Club this week to explain the newly organized Cameron Parish Historical and Genealogical Society. They told about the plans of the organization.

Buying melon?

When buying a honeydew melon, look for a creamy white appearance and a pronounced honeydew aroma, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. A ripe melon will have a springy to soft blossom end and a skin with an evident waxy coating. An unripe melon may feel prickly or hairy and have a greenish color with a hard blossom end.

Plumber's friend

When using a plunger, known as the "plumber's friend," be sure there is enough water in the sink to cover the entire suction cup.

24 candidates unopposed

Twenty-four Cameron parish candidates will be unopposed in the November Democratic primary election and therefore will not appear on that ballot. However, they will be on the ballot for the general election next February.

Democratic committeemen representing wards who are unopposed are Kenneth P. Nunez, Ward 2; W. F. Henry, Jr., Ward 3; Ronald Istre, Ward 5; and J. A. Lowery, Ward 6.

Yes, signs and religious objects help our Faith! That's why Catholics use "Sacramentals"

Your Catholic neighbor makes the sign of the cross, prays the rosary, wears a medal around his neck. He kneels to pray, lights a devotional candle, perhaps displays a crucifix in his home or car.

The answer is "yes" . . . and we think the explanation will interest other Christians.

The sacramentals, a term which generally describes the religious articles and devotional forms used by Catholics, are designed as everyday helps to the faithful in their pursuit of spiritual perfection. They stir the heart, stimulate the mind and nudge the spiritual conscience of the Catholic to keep him ever alert to his responsibilities to God.

There is, of course, no religious value . . . and very little intrinsic value . . . in the articles themselves. What gives them meaning and value is the blessing of Christ's Church. By this blessing, the purpose represented by the religious object becomes the purpose of the official prayer of the whole Church. This, combined with the fervor of the individual using the sacramental, gives the object meaning and spiritual value.

It is possible, of course, to be a good Christian without using the sacramentals . . . and without visible manifestation of our inner thoughts and feelings. But it is the natural and normal thing for human beings to give outward expression to what is in the heart. And Christians have been doing this ever since the time of Christ.

Our Lord Himself, in fact, resorted to signs and objects to make His divine purposes understandable to the human mind. He need not have bothered to make a salve of clay to heal the the blind man (John 9:6), but He did. He could have blessed little children without laying His hands upon them, but He did. He could have prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane without kneeling, but He knelt. He might have instituted the Holy Eucharist without consecrating bread and wine, but He used both. And baptism with water is, of course, the established Christian form.

We have prepared a new and interesting pocket-size pamphlet explaining the sacramentals and their spiritual value . . . and we will gladly send you a copy free on request. And nobody will call on you. Write today - ask for Pamphlet No. KC-38.

Questions For Congressman Edwin Edwards

1a) Did your sponsor Governor John McKeithen squeeze you in under a blind man's bluff deal?

1b) How did you tangle with your conscience, when you jumped into the picture for the first time, never before having done anything to get this new plant for Southwest Louisiana?

1c) Now, Congressman, are you always such an opportunist, smiling proudly while you grab the undeserved impression to the public that you had even lifted a finger to help Southwest Louisiana obtain this new plant?

2. Now, do you say you were busy in Washington, well this is what you told 14,000 of the Lake Charles area people last year while they waited in the rain at the McNeese Stadium for you to come tell them what you were going to do to help them on the school busing problem, when even Republican President Nixon says he will not implement busing? Did you say you had to be in Washington?

3. Did you tell the rice farmers last week, when they suffered insult added to injury, with the new 10% cut in rice allotment, that you were in Washington, while the newspaper reported you were celebrating in Florida at that time?

4. Was your presence in Washington the reason the rice farmers have suffered a reduction totaling 25% rice allotment during the period you represented Southwest Louisiana, the rice capitol of our nation?

5. Oh yes, Mr. Edwards, what is your answer to John Schwegmann's recent publication in the Lake Charles American Press that Edwin Edwards of Crowley was absent 122 times out of 125 roll calls. Since you were not at the plants, on the farm, or in Washington, where have you been? Should I answer and tell if you fail to respond?

6. One more question, Mr. Edwards, there is another industrial complex coming to Lake Charles soon which I feel you will not know of until called by Governor John McKeithen so you can get in the picture. Would you see if he has your shovel ready and let me know if you intend to grab a little dirt on this occasion?

REPLY REQUESTED

Congressman, if you neglect to reply to these questions, as you have neglected to show up for us in Washington, then I will commence to look under your covers and print the correct answers to these questions.

The Governor's race

The Coldwater Committee will be on the ballot

Last week a transparent hoax of monumental proportions was perpetrated on the people of the state of Louisiana. That the hoax was the creation of the management of three of Louisiana's most influential news media is of great concern to those of us who try hard to present the news to our readers with fairness and impartiality.

A survey was released that proported to prove that the top men in the governor's race were Con. Edwin Edwards, Sen. John Schwegmann and Sen. Bennett Johnston. The circumstances that led to the conduct of this survey and the subsequent manipulation of the news marks the entire episode as one of the most wanton abuses of the journalistic license in the history of the Louisiana press.

To begin with, the survey did not prove, or even indicate, that the above-mentioned candidates would be governor of Louisiana, and in fact, showed that at least one of them definitely could not win that office.

The pollster responsible for the survey, in his opening remarks to the group paying for the poll said, "Gentlemen, this poll shows that anyone of the top six or even seven candidates could win this race."

Reporting on the survey, the Shreveport Times commented: "In summarizing the survey, the pollsters concluded anyone of the top six or seven candidates in the race at this time could reach the second primary."

This is what the poll said. At best the results are inconclusive, but despite the advice of the pollster who maintained that anyone of seven candidates might win, the poll was bailyhooed as a definitive document that reduced the field to three candidates who could win.

Television station WDSU-TV in New Orleans, in a special report about the poll, withheld all information that tended to be favorable to candidates Speedy Long, Jimmie Davis, Taddy Aycock and Gillis Long.

In Baton Rouge, while information favoring these candidates was included in several stories appearing in the Morning Advocate and the State Times, it was very deep in the bodies of the stories. Channel 2 television in Baton Rouge carried only information favorable to Edwards, Schwegmann and Johnston.

It is interesting to note that the owners of these news media also helped pay for the poll. It is remarkable that these owners also sit in as members on a political activist committee called the "Coldwater Committee", which is concerned with electing a governor of Louisiana.

The December 10, 1970 edition of the Baton Rouge State Times carried a report of one committee meeting. Senator Bennett Johnston was not invited to the meeting, but arrived as a "surprise guest." The paper carried the following indirect quote from Senator Johnston: "Johnston said that money was not mentioned, but said the group emphasized their support would come without strings. Other reports said the group is considering a contribution of up to $250,000 for the candidate it selects."

In the same story, members of the committee attending the meeting were said to include "... State Times and Morning Advocate publisher Douglas Manship . . . and Hugh Sherman, publisher of the Lake Charles American Press."

Last Saturday the Morning Advocate carried a story which began: "The Coldwater Committee, which has been toying between gubernatorial candidates J. Bennett Johnston and Gillis Long, swung decisively in favor of Johnston."

The story said the decision was made because of the results of a poll taken by the committee.

Sound weird? It gets even weirder. Because the media owners not only sit in as members of the "Coldwater Committee" to select a candidate for governor who is to receive $250,000 in campaign funds, but they also pay for a poll to determine who has the best chance of being elected.

The Baton Rouge Sunday Advocate of July 25 identified the research firm conducting the polls and said: "Publication rights reserved to the Morning Advocate, Lake Charles American Press and WDSU-TV in New Orleans."

And they go further. To coincide with the survey, Senator Johnston contracts for a special section in the Sunday newspapers to promote his candidacy. The timing is approximately the time when the survey is being taken.

To recap: Three owners of news media meet to decide to select a candidate. They hold out the prospect of a campaign contribution of $250,000. Senator Johnston is a "surprise guest" at the meeting. They decide to take a public opinion poll. They pay for it. Senator Johnston begins an advertising campaign on June 20. The poll is begun June 24, so that the full effect of the campaign can be felt. But, the strategy fails. The pollster reports that not Senator Johnston, but anyone of six or seven candidates can win the race.

The committee endorses Senator Johnston and the news media controlled by the committee ignores the advice of the pollster and enhances the campaign of Senator Johnston.

The whole brouhaha would be macabrely humorous if it were not for the serious moral, ethical and legal questions raised by the episode.

These are:

1. The Fairness Doctrine of the Federal Communications Commission requires an unbiased treatment of news by broadcasters. Did the television stations involved live up to this requirement by deliberately suppressing certain parts of the poll not favorable to some candidates?

2. Can television stations or newspaper corporations legally contribute to research of this type? Could this not be considered as an indirect campaign contribution?

3. Can publishers justify membership on a committee such as this and still claim objectivity when they allow their periodicals to carry directed reports in their news columns instead of on the editorial page?

4. Who will put up the $250,000 that will be given to Senator Johnston? It is hard to believe that this amount of money will be given "without strings."

There is an obligation on the part of the news media involved to answer these questions. We hope the answer will be given the same prominence as the publicity attached to the poll.

It goes without saying that Senator Johnston also has a little explaining to do of his own.

Only one man refused to attend the Coldwater meeting.....

Citizens named as advisors

Several Cameron parish people have received letters from Gov. John J. McKeithen informing them that they have been designated as advisors to the Council for the Development of French in Louisiana.

Mrs. Coral Crain, Cameron parish librarian and a vice-president of the organization for Cameron parish, said that these people were chosen for their interest in the preservation and expansion of the French language.

The organization is composed of representatives from six parishes in Southwest Louisiana. Truman Stacey of Lake Charles is president.

Mrs. Perry said it is her hope that the French language can be taught in the lower elementary grades so the children will be taught a secondary language and can learn to converse in it.

She asks that those who have an interest in the aims of the organization to attend the next meeting of the new society. The date will be announced later.

Is chicken red?

You needn't worry if the meat around the bones of some chickens looks reddish brown — even after cooking. It's safe to eat, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Broiler - fryers tend to show this effect because they're marketed young, at 6 to 8 weeks. Their bone marrow has not fully hardened and the red blood cells seep into the surrounding meat, causing a deep red or brown color. Broiler - fryers are a good summer barbecue idea. They are in plentiful supply this month, too, says the Consumer and Marketing Service.

Sept. 15 deadline for practice here

Francis Klein, Chairman of the Cameron ASCS County Committee, announced that Sept. 15 is the deadline to sign up for REAP practice D-1, Winter Cover Crops. Applications are now being taken for the practice in the parish office located in the Cameron courthouse, Klein said.

An acreage ceiling of 3,401 acres has been allocated to the parish to be used for the winter cover-practice, Klein said, and this ceiling cannot be exceeded. For that reason all applications will have to be considered by the local committee. A meeting of the committee will be held on Sept. 16 where all of the acreage will be given out.

The purpose of the practice is to establish vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion to farmland needing the protection.

A good stand and growth must be obtained early enough to protect the soil from winter rains. A cover must be maintained on the land to February of 1972. Volunteer stands or acreage from which hay, silage, or seed is harvested will not qualify.

Federal cost-sharing may be approved for small grains seeded in a mixture of legumes. Grazing consistant with good grazing management may be permitted by the county committee.

Proper innoculation of legumes is essential to their successful growth and any legume failure due to lack of proper innoculation will be considered as having been within the control of the farmer, Klein said.

Cost-shares are applicable on a clean seed basis on hairy vetch, crimson or other winter peas, crimson clover, ryegrass (excluding perennial types except in authorized mixtures) and small grain.

Where it is determined by the County Committee that fertilizer is needed for the successful establishment of the vegetative cover, it must be applied. Cost-shares may be approved for a quantity of plant food with the minimum and maximum application recommended by a soils test for establishment purposes for the area to be treated. Fertilizer must be applied prior to or at the time of seeding.

For this particular practice the total cost-share per acre, excluding liming materials, cannot exceed $5 per acre, Klein said.

Even though it is too early to plant now, Klein urges everyone to inventory his needs and make application for REAP cost-sharing in the local ASCS office.

Rice value factors are announced here

Charles S. Hackett, Cameron-Calcasieu ASCS office Manager announced that the preliminary value factors for the various classes of rice have been announced.

The preliminary value factors are based on a national average support price for 1971 crop rice of $4.93 per cut. Sixty-five percent of the Aug. 1971 parity price is $5.07. Therefore the support rate has been raised 14 cents per cut, to a total of $5.07. Final value factors have been computed accordingly.

CLASS	CENTS PER POUND-1971
Long grain	8.62
Medium grain	7.82
Short grain	7.77
Broken rice (all classes)	4.33

Hackett said that loans on 1971 crop rice may be processed accordingly. Further information may be obtained in the Calcasieu ASCS located in the Federal Building in Lake Charles, or the Cameron ASCS office located in the Cameron Courthouse.

The support rates are applicable to No. 2 rice and will be adjusted by the following premiums and discounts for various U.S. grades. Grade No. 1, 10 cent premium per cut; Grade No. 3, 15 cent discount per cut, Grade No. 4, 30 cent discount per cut; and Grade No. 5, 50 cent discount per cut.

Grass fires plague area

Ray Burleigh, chief of the Cameron Volunteer Fire Department, reported that around $5,000 in property and equipment were lost in fires in and around Cameron last week.

Burleigh said that a major portion of the loss was due to grass fires started by farmers and ranchers burning off their pastures. He asked that people starting grass fires to be more careful in controlling the fires. He said that fire lanes should be plowed around fences to help to contain the fire.

When a fire is reported to the local department which is outside the fire district the chief said a portable unit is used. A bill is then sent to help cover the cost of containing the fire.

The fires which took place this week were:

The Clinton Oil Company on Grand Chenier where 200 feet of board-run for oil field roads were burned;

Two grass fires in back of the Phillips 66 Oil Co. in Cameron, on two different nights;

A grass fire at the Cameron Elementary school burned approximately one third of the hurricane fence on the playing field;

A grass fire ignited a chemical fire in front of Millwhite Co. endangering approximately 15 cars. Burning drums filled with chemicals blew about 75 feet in the air when they were ignited. Chief Burleigh said that the local fire department was able to keep it under control and the cars were saved.

The South Cameron high school Tarpons and the Hackberry Mustangs will play in jamborees this week as the 1971 football season opens.

District 4-AA Jamborees are scheduled Friday and Saturday. Kinder and South Cameron will play at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Iowa, followed by an Iowa-Welsh game.

The other six teams in the district will play Saturday night at Sam Houston, with DeQuincy meeting Lake Arthur, Vinton playing Marion and St. Louis and Sam Houston clashing in the final game.

The 4-AA Jamboree games, while only 30 minutes long, will count as district games since the enlargement of the district does not leave enough playing dates for all of the teams to play each other.

7 reasons why Louisiana citizens will re-elect Bill Dodd

1 EDUCATIONAL QUALIFICATIONS
Superintendent Dodd has three degrees: a B.A. and an honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws from Northwestern State University and a Juris Doctorate Degree from Louisiana State University. Dodd believes that a superintendent, who must set educational standards for other people, should meet high standards himself.

2 EXPERIENCED AS AN EDUCATOR
Superintendent Dodd has a record of 40 years of constructive service to education - from a teacher, assistant principal, legislative author of pro-education statutes to a member and president of the State Board of Education and State Superintendent.

3 GOVERNMENTAL EXPERIENCE
Superintendent Dodd was a state representative, lieutenant governor and state comptroller before his service on the State Board of Education and as superintendent. He knows government.

4 LEGAL QUALIFICATIONS
As a lawyer, Superintendent Dodd has the legal know-how to secure from the federal government Louisiana's maximum share of federal education funds which has increased from $8 million in 1964 to $87 million in 1971.

5 PUBLIC PARTNERSHIP
Through task forces and study committees, Superintendent Dodd has initiated public participation in Louisiana education.

6 RACIAL TENSIONS MINIMIZED
Court-ordered integration has created less friction in our schools than in any other Southern state, thanks to the foresight of State Department of Education officials. The department has gone strictly by the law. Consequently, Superintendent Dodd has the confidence of both races because he has not stooped to demagogic appeals.

7 MODERNIZING SCHOOL SYSTEM
Superintendent Dodd has been hard at work converting the state's schools from an antiquated "3-R's" system to one meeting the needs of all our people in modern America.

"JIMMIE DAVIS does things"

TOLEDO BEND DAM—One of the largest, man-made recreational and hydroelectric power plants ever developed in the United States. It was undertaken by the State of Louisiana and the State of Texas and was not financed or subsidized by the Federal Government. Its hundreds of miles of shoreline have revolutionized the economy of Western Louisiana to great prosperity.

BATON ROUGE-PORT ALLEN BRIDGE—Strategic crossing of the Mississippi in the business districts of Baton Rouge and Port Allen that many said "couldn't be done."

SUNSHINE BRIDGE—The National "Chemical Week" magazine predicted that "The Sunshine Bridge could bring about a second Ruhr Valley." "Chemical Week" was right as industrial development about the bridge now totals three quarters of a billion dollars and employs thousands. Annual revenues from the bridge have increased from $865,000 to $700,000 or 93%.

SOUTH SHREVEPORT-BOSSIER BRIDGE — Immeasurable benefits to the fast-growing Caddo-Bossier area, connecting great population areas across the Red River.

INVESTMENT OF IDLE FUNDS — First legislation passed by the Davis administration.

SPORTSMEN'S PROGRAMS—During 1960-1964 the Davis Administration leased, purchased and opened to the public more acreage for sportsmen's programs than any other state in the south! This includes the Alexandria Area in Rapides Parish; Concordia Area; Fort Polk Game Management; Jackson-Bienville Area; Lutcher-Moore Area in Vernon Parish; Russell-Sage Area in Ouachita Parish; Saline Area in Catahoula and LaSalle Parishes and Lake D'Arbonne. The Rockefeller Refuge was opened for sports fishing for the first time. The Wildlife Conservation Education Program was begun. Marsh Island was improved. Twenty public boat launching ramps were constructed and more streams and lakes were cleaned of water hyacinth than by any previous administration or any administration that followed. It should also be noted that during the Davis administration every penny in the Conservation Department was used for wildlife purposes.

FORESTRY ACT—Governor Davis passed the Forestry Act and created the Forestry Commission. Prior to this, Louisiana was running out of timber to cut. Now, this industry encompasses some 16 million acres of forests in Louisiana, means a billion dollars to the state annually and employs more than 40,000 people full time.

FIRST MAJOR DRAINAGE PROGRAM—Hundreds of thousands of acres of land were reclaimed throughout the State.

THE DAVIS YEARS WERE TIMES OF GREAT ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR LOUISIANA —From 1960-64 some 6,316 miles of highways were completed. This includes the Expressway at Shreveport; Crowley to Jennings; Ruston to Grambling; the Expressway at Lake Charles and the Expressway at Baton Rouge. Passed a law providing that the blind would operate vending stands in state buildings. Increased old age assistance during both terms as Governor. Jimmie Davis started the program that gave free milk to school children. Created four major fresh water reservoirs including Toledo Bend, Lake Claiborne, Nantachie Lake, completed D'Arbonne Reservoir and built several other smaller lakes. Increased teacher salaries during both terms as Governor. From 1960-64 he increased the pay of classified state employees approximately $500 per year. He created the State Employees Retirement System. Established the Department of Veterans Affairs. 58 major buildings were constructed at existing institutions. 4 agricultural experiment stations were built. Created artificial insemination program which made possible beef cattle and dairy herds comparable to any in the nation. Nicholls College at Thibodaux was created. Created Trade and Vocational Schools at Shreveport, Plaquemine, St. Martinville, Opelousas, Marksville, Hammond, Alexandria, Baton Rouge, West Monroe and Lake Charles.

OTHER MEDICAL FACILITIES—State Spastic School at Alexandria, Clinic, Florida Parish Hospital, Villa Feliciana Hospital for the Aged.

MENTAL RETARDATION—Retarded Children's Schools created at Hammond, Leesville and Belle Chase. Nine day care centers for the retarded were created. Mental Health Centers created at New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Crowley and Shreveport.

"I look beyond this election. I look beyond all elections. I look to the time when they're going to take me, just like they're going to take you, to that silent city on the hill — and we're not coming back. That's the last ride. A place where there are no big men and no little men; no rich men and no poor men; no big shots and no little shots; where six feet of earth make 'em all the same size."

MRS. ODILA DEMAREST

Mrs. Demarest, 91, recalls her youth

By MRS. TOM TAYLOR

Mrs. Odila Demarest, one of the oldest citizens of the Grand Lake area, observed her 92nd birthday Aug. 1.

Since her husband's death in May, 1952, Mrs. Demarest has made her home with her son and daughter-in-law, the Dunphy Demarests.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Telesmar Guidry, were one of the pioneer families of Grand Lake. Her father was from Lake Arthur; her mother, the former Camelite Broussard, from Bayou Cheme Community. Dupree Guidry, deputy sheriff of Cameron Parish, is her half brother.

At an early age, Mrs. Demarest said she learned not only to help with housework but also with the farm work.

Their main crops were: potatoes, cotton, sugar cane, and enough rice, she said, was planted for their own use.

She didn't seem to mind the other work nearly as much as the work required in the rice field. In those days, she remarked, it was called "providence" rice because its fruition depended on rainfall. When ripe the rice was cut by hand with a sickle, then tied up in large bundles and stacked up to considerable height to-dey.

The phase of the harvesting, she pointed out was strenuous work. When dry the grain was separated from the stuff by flaying, removing the staff the grain was now ready for milling. The mill she said consisted of mortar and pestle, again hard work. The final process is bringing it into eatable form was fanning it in brisk wind to remove hulls.

Mrs. Demarest still has her old iron washpot which served varied needs in those early days. On wash day it was a must, she said, after clothes had first been soaked and well soaped they were paddled with battle stick then soused into the pot to boil the dirt away. Soap used then was called lye soap and again the iron pot came in handy, she added, for boiling the ingredients in making the soap.

Other uses were: rendering hog lard and tuming out delicious crisp brown cracklings to be enjoyed with yummy sweet potatoes.

The old iron pot has not been discarded, it still comes in handy on butchering day, and in fig season, is quite frequently used for cooking figs.

In those early days I was quite sure window screening had not as yet been invented. How did you protect yourselves from mosquitoes, I queried, "It was warfare!" was her quick response. "We fought them off the best way we could. At night we would protect ourselves with mosquito bars." They were made out of cheap muslin, looked very much like cheese cloth, cotton cloth with a loose weave. Each corner of the bar was attached to the top of a bed post.

"In those early days did you have kerosene lamps for light?", I asked.

"Oh no," she replied emphatically. "We had candle light and we had to make our own candles. We had a six candle mold and we made our own wicks from cotton." Rubbing her hands together she proceeded to show me how the wicks were rounded out then placed in the mold, then tallow was poured in each of the candle molds then left to cool and harden ready for use.

"We did have a small brass lamp", said Mrs. Demarest, "but it smoked badly as it didn't have a chimney. When we carried it atound it would always leave a bit of smut on the tip of our nose."

Silence prevailed for a long while as she was reminiscing . . . then looking at me, she exclaimed with the wave of a hand, "This I would have you know, my bridal shower was of my own making and the hard way! I picked the cotton, removed the seed, then carded the cotton, spinning it into thread, then wove it into cloth for sheets, pillowcases and other necessities for my household."

So vividly did she describe the primitive way of life as she had lived it, I could visualize it all as she related it to me, even to the tiny speck of soot on the tip of her nose. Realizing the scientific advancement of this age, the great change which has come about in our world since those early days, I asked her how she felt about it all. Without hesitancy she remarked that going to the moon was venturing too far. God created the moon for a purpose and we had better leave it at that, she added. Who knows? . . . She may be right.

Mrs. Demarest is the mother of three sons, Cleveland Demarest of Alexandria, Edmond Demarest of Grand Lake and Dunphy with whom she lives. She has also mothered a granddaughter and three orphaned children.

Mrs. Demarest has nine grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Barbecue a success

Sunday a big crowd enjoyed a barbecue dinner served by the VFW Post and its Auxiliary 10019. Many remained to play bingo in the afternoon.

The lucky winner of the fishing boat, motor and trailer was Lazine Kershaw of Cameron. T. C. Willis of Cameron was the winner of the shrimp trawl.

This event kicked off the annual membership drive. Ladd Watwright heads the Veterans group and Dot Sells is president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

If one has served his country overseas, he is eligible for membership in this great organization.

Mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of the men are eligible to serve the post in its auxiliary.

This organization supports the Veterans and programs concerning their welfare both in the community and also by the ballot. Join up today.

Contest is open to students

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the V.F.W. Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program," said Commander Ladd Wainwright of Post 10019, in discussing the scriptwriting program conducted annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Some of the fringe benefits, according to Wainwright, are increased self-confidence, greater poise, the ability to communicate and valuable practice in expressing ideas clearly. For the state winners, there is also the broadening experience of a five-day tour of Washington, D.C., and the opportunity to make lasting friendship with the other state winners.

In the ten years that the Veterans of Foreign Wars has been sole sponsor of the Voice of Democracy Program, more than 4,000,000 high school students have participated. Entrants must write and then tape-record a three-to-five minute broadcast script expressing their personal views on their responsibility to freedom. From among the state winners, five national winners are chosen to receive a total of $22,500 in scholarships.

"One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program, is that by thinking, writing and speaking on freedom's responsibility they gain a better appreciation of democracy in action," Wainwright said.

The primary aim of both parents and teachers is, or should be, to provide a climate in which each child is able to develop wholesomely to the extent of his capabilities.

It would be an educational utopia if the common goal led to perfect understanding and harmony in the triangular relationship of home-child-school.

Too often we hear such expressions as: "The child has never been taught to obey" . . . "The parents are too hard on the child" . . . "The teacher is too strict" . . . "There's not enough discipline in the school" . . . "The parents want the child's name on the honor roll, but they don't really care how much he actually learns" . . . "The child has never been taught to respect the rights or the property of others" . . . "The teacher is an old fuddy-duddy. She demands the impossible."

Thus the word barrage goes discordantly on, usually without either teacher or parent hearing what the other says. The poor youngster, however, both absorbs and reflects the attitudes of each. In most cases the resentment that he senses of the one to the other results in an antagonism that he feels and shows to both.

He becomes a mixed-up little fellow, insecure and unhappy. His school work suffers. He fails. Failure leads to bigger problems. Some become so serious that neither home nor school can solve them. Again, it is the child who suffers most.

For the past decade or so, many parents have seemed afraid to use the word "no" with any depth of meaning lest it inhibit their little darlings. Children have coaxed till they got what they wanted, or else they flagrantly discharged in the beginning. Some parents have been grossly inconsistent, winking and ignoring an act one day, then punishing angrily for the same offense the next.

There is no wonder that parents are confused. The advice of child psychologists over the decades has run something like this:

--1910 - spank him
--1920 - deprive him
--1930 - ignore him
--1940 - reason with him
--1950 - love him
--1960 - spank him lovingly

We hope that the 1970's will find more parents putting into practice the advice of Eric Ericson: "Love them, limit them, and teach them to achieve."

A disciplined child is a happy child. Any youngster needs to have parents place wise restrictions upon him; otherwise, he will have a hard time ever learning to discipline himself. He feels secure who he knows that his parents love him enough not to cater to his every whim.

In his heart, he may be longing for the parents to set limits even when he insists: "Everybody else is going there" or "Everyone in my crowd is doing thus and so." He insists because he does not want his associates to call him "chicken." It is face-saving to be able to say that his parents absolutely refuse to grant him permission.

How many parents say plaintively, "I wish that my kid would read more or take up a sport or develop a hobby. All he wants to do is to sprawl out and watch television. He even neglects his homework, but I can't do anything about it"?

The patient is saying very clearly, and little What's-His-Name knows it: "It's easier for me to let him do what he wants. I guess it will all work out. Anyway, I want to watch TV, too."

Any child knows full well that his parent would set viewing hours if his concern went deep enough.

Parents should be basically honest with their children. The best action among them cannot convince their offspring that school is important if they take them out of school for a vacation that could have been scheduled during the summer. Or, if they take them out of classes to go shopping.

They cannot impress them with truthfulness if they admonish the children to tell the caller they are not home when they are. They cannot teach the young ones never to steal if Dad brings home small tools or supplies from his place of employment or if mother packs motel linens in her suitcase and smugly displays them back home.

They cannot teach their little ones not to cheat if they boast of falsifying their income returns, or even take a newspaper from a public rack without first depositing the proper coins.

They cannot teach their boys and girls to respect the law while the habitually violate driving regulations or dispose of litter on public highways or participate in riots.

The misunderstanding between home and school is not limited to the beginner nor even the elementary-grade youngster. It sometimes travels right along with the high-schooler.

Have you ever heard these statements? "I want Mary to drop algebra. It's too hard for her." . . . "You can't expect a high school boy to stay home at night and study!" . . . "I don't care if Mrs. X does want to help Betty after school. She can't keep her in. It's her hard luck if she can't teach the girl during class." . . . "If Coach puts too much pressure on my boy, he's going to lose the best athlete that ever hit the parish!"

Wise are the parents who teach their little ones from the cradle up, by example as well as by word, the values of honesty and helpfulness, loyalty and sincerity, fairness and courtesy. For these are the parents who believe in the dignity, the potentialities, the rights of their own children and of all other human beings as well.

There is no guarantee that such parents will have no problems with their children or that their progeny will have no misunderstandings with their teachers. It does mean that percentage wise their troubles will be infinitely fewer.

Where parents and teachers hold one another in sincere respect and sympathetic trust, there is no room for blame or the shifting of responsibility.

Then, both home and school are functioning to bring about Daniel Webster's idea of education.

"Knowledge does not comprise all which is contained in the large term of education. The feelings are to be disciplined; the passions are to be restrained; true and worthy motives are to be inspired; . . . and pure morality inculcated under all circumstances."

The Next Move Is To Rural Louisiana

OVER THE PAST few decades, millions of Americans have deserted the countryside to seek a better life in the cities. Some found it, but for others the city ghettos and slums offered even less hope than the life they left behind.

These city dwellers are now joining industry in a frantic search for a breath of fresh air — and there's plenty of fresh air and opportunity in the wide open spaces of rural Louisiana.

That's because in our rural areas there's an abundant supply of electric power, provided by tax-paying Rural Electric Cooperatives to turn the wheels of industry and to offer all rural citizens the comforts of life, once enjoyed only by city folks. And the visionary local people, who built, own and operate the Rural Electrics have remained in rural Louisiana, helping to provide the leadership and manpower to make small communities attractive and productive.

Rural development efforts of the 13 Electric Co-ops, which own nearly half of Louisiana's electric lines (in areas other utilities chose not to serve), boost the whole state by helping to solve the growing urban problems of overcrowded housing, transportation, schools and other ills which constantly plague our big cities.

There's no doubt about it. The next move has to be to rural Louisiana where Electric Co-ops have pioneered development and are ready, willing and able to join new and expanding industries to restore promise and economic opportunity to those who lost it or can't find it in the cities.

The Real Secret of SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE

Advice on how to be happily married was never so freely available as it is today.

Marriage problems are openly discussed in newspaper columns and on the radio. Marriage advice is available from the man next door, who speaks from experience . . . and from the psychologist, whose views come from study and research. There is no topic . . . from etiquette to fidelity . . . on which advice and counsel are not available.

Yet with all this marriage education, the modern divorce rate continues at an appalling high!

This condition obviously is not due to ignorance of the so-called "facts of life." It cannot be attributed to economic problems, for good times have been repeatedly marked by a high divorce rate. Nor can it be blamed on the excuse of personal "incompatibility," which so often appears in divorce petitions.

These and other practical problems undoubtedly contribute to marriage conflicts. But the basic, fundamental cause of marriage failure goes deeper. It is the failure of many people to realize the true meaning of marriage . . . to recognize that it is a life-long union of a man and a woman . . . to see that its main purpose is the begetting and rearing of children.

In Catholic eyes, marriage is, first of all, a contract which . . . as with all contracts . . . must be governed by justice. A purely sentimental and physical attraction between a man and a woman, which is not permeated by a sense of duty to each other and to God, is not the love upon which enduring homes are built.

But the Catholic Church teaches that marriage must be what God means it to be, not only a contract, but a Sacrament.

When the marriage of a man and a woman is a Sacrament, they receive title to all the divine helps necessary to overcome the disappointments and difficulties of domestic life. They are thus better able to overcome personality differences, to deal justly with each other and to understand the many practical problems of living together.

Whether you are already married . . . or just thinking about it . . . you will be helped by a pamphlet we will send you explaining the true nature of marriage and the blessings that come from a proper understanding of the married state. Write today for your free copy. It will be sent immediately and nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-19.

With the addition of the new truck, Burleigh said that the fire rating withing the fire district fell from a 10 to a 7 rating, which is equal to a 25% discount on the fire insurance rates for each policy holder in the district.

Oak Grove fig tree said to be oldest in the country

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Did you know that Cameron parish has the distinction of having the oldest fig tree in this country, and possibly in the world? It is located on the Welch farm on Oak Grove. It has been standing over a century and has withstood numerous storms, diseases, and ravages of time.

It has been blown over in different hurricanes and the branches have taken root in the ground and have formed the trees which are now in a clump measuring about 100 feet in diameter.

The late Amedy Pujo Welch, who was the grandfather of Benny Welch, who resides nearby, recalled that the tree was standing when he was a small child. He was born in 1862. It was possibly planted by his father, James Welch.

The late Dr. Julian C. Miller, internationally-known horticulturist and one of the world's foremost authorities on breeding of sweet potatoes, heard about the tree, and in 1957, took some cuttings from it to start a research program on it at Louisiana State University, where he was working.

It was his hope at that time to develope it and observe the fruit and to possibly use it for a cross breed in developing a new strain of fig for this area and to call it the Welch fig.

Dr. Miller said that any tree that has been sturdy enough to withstand the ravages of time for over a century must have some special quality. He said that the life span of a fig tree is only about 20 years.

A check with LSU this year was answered by Donald W. Newsom, who is head of the Department of Horticulture. He said that the original plants developed from the cuttings were lost in the 1960-61 freeze, but this material was used as parental stock in the department's fig breeding program.

He said that they currently have progency from crosses between this fig variety and various types in the testing program. He also stated that nothing in the way of a variety has been developed yet, but the depaptment is still working on it.

This famous old fig tree was instrumental in saving the lives of nine people in 1957, during Hurricane Audry. The Warren Jones family and others that were in the Jones home, started across the field to try to reach the safety of the stately old Welch home when they were trapped by the swirling flood waters just as they reached the tree. Grabbing branches of the tree and climbing up in the tops of the tree, the family members rode out the fury of the storm until the waters subsided at nightfall.

Jones said that the tree even provided food during the day. It was in the midst of the fig season and the tree was loaded with fruit. When they got hungry they ate the figs.

Little did they know at the time that they were indeed lucky. The Welch home has disintegrated during the hurricane and the family members had been washed out by the floodtides and had landed in the oak trees nearby. If they had reached the big house they might not all have been saved.

This tree has certainly outlived its life span and has furnished fruit for five generations of the Welch family. Who knows - what the new variety being developed will bring.

Drivers tests set at H'berry

Students of Hackberry High School will participate in a series of driving tests at 1:30 p.m. on Sept. 13, it was announced today. The tests, which will be given in two parts, will be given under the direction of William Crump, safety director of Louisiana Farm Bureau.

The first section will be a short talk and film on traffic safety, while the second will be a demonstration on a street near the school.

High point of the demonstration will come when driving tests are made with various students and faculty members in the specially equipped car. An electric detonator which is mounted on the front bumper of the car, will fire yellow paint bullets to indicate the distance required to stop the car in an emergency.

The driver being tested will be signalled to stop by the report of the first shell. The second will be fired automatically when the brake is applied, and the third when the car halts. Distance between the spots of paint will then be measured to determine the reaction, braking and total stopping distances.

The program is being brought to the parish under the sponsorship of the local Parish Farm Bureau. The public is invited to attend.

AMBULANCE NEED EXPLAINED

Property owners living in the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District, which includes all of the lower section of the parish with the exception of Holly Beach and Johnson Bayou, will vote Saturday, Sept. 18 on a two mill tax, which if passed, would provide ambulance service for the district.

The need for such a tax was outlined at a public meeting held last week at the Richard Bros. American Legion Home in Creole. Speakers included Jerry Jones, hospital board member, and Kenneth Hopper, hospital administrator.

They were introduced by Jules Dronet, Post Commander, who explained that the intent of the meeting was to discuss the special election, but that this did not mean that the Post was for or against the tax.

Jones explained that the O'Donnell Funeral Home had to get out of the ambulance business because it was no longer financially feasible to operate because of the Federal requirements passed in 1966 for highway safety and being enforced by the highway department. When the Cameron Police Jury was informed that the local ambulance service would get out of the business by July 1, it was left in the hands of the jury to try to get somebody to take it.

The hospital was asked to take over the service.

The Police Jury was able to purchase two ambulances from O'Donnell at a reasonable price and the hospital is operating them until it is seen whether the tax will pass. He said that in the event the tax does not pass, the service will be discontinued after Nov. 1.

Jones said that the local Police Jury explored all possible ways of raising the money. He said there was no Federal or State money available for such a project. It was only after all avenues had been explored that the jury decided to call for a tax vote. He further explained that if the vote is passed, most of the burden will be carried by non-resident tax payers. The tax will not be homestead exempt, but on a $2,000 evaluation will only amount to $4 annually.

Jones asked for suggestions from the group, because he said the Hospital District does not have all the answers, and welcomes suggestions. He also said that if the tax bill passes, it will not be on the tax polls until next year. This means that the District will not get any of the tax money until Nov. 1972, however, they would be able to borrow money to maintain the ambulance service.

RATES

The rates which have been set up for the service which is in operation is as follows:

1. Calls within the district are $25
2. Calls outside of the district are the base $25 plus $1 per mile.
3. Trip to any Lake Charles hospital from within the district - $55.

Editorial

What price a life?

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

I am going to vote in favor of the Lower South Cameron ambulance 2 mill tax for many reasons:

1. It is one of the cheapest forms of insurance that I know of. Where in the world can you get coverage like it? For an average of $4 per year (figured on an average $2,000 property evaluation) I am assured that an ambulance will be on call with two qualified attendants if I need them.

2. Also, my older friends and neighbors who need ambulatory service can be assured that the cost will be paid for by Medicare because it will be certified.

3. I am assured that since I live within the boundaries of the Lower Cameron Hospital District, an ambulance will be on stand-by at all times to help me, even though another one has been called out.

4. Even if I never have any use for this service in my lifetime, if it saves the life of just one of my friends my extra tax money will have been well spent.

School flag given to South Cameron

Mrs. Lorraine Baccigalopi of Grand Chenier presented the Tarpon School flag to Re Rita Reina and Mary Kelley of the South Cameron High School student council at an assembly Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The Student Council conducted a contest last year in which about 75 contestants participated. Many students submitted several designs for a school flag. A committee of students and teachers made the final selection which was designed by Mark Marceaux of Grand Chenier.

In the assembly Mark explained his design as blue background representing the predominant South Cameron color with white and red trimmings. The tarpons flanking the shield are symbolic of the school mascot and imposed upon the shield are emblems symbolic of the various fields of endeavor on the campus, academic or scholastic achievement, athletics, organizations, and the completion of high school.

Vice president Ro Rita Reina called the meeting to order, the national and state colors were advanced and posted by Scouts Patsy LaLande and Eddie Benoit. Jimmy Pearce led the assembly in the recitation of the pledge of allegiance.

The band under the direction of Miss Hoffpauir entertained with several musical numbers and then the student body sang God Bless American and America the Beautiful accompanied by Mrs. Ricks at the piano and directed by Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Goodboy McCall presented Mrs. Baccigalopi with a gift from the student body.

Montie killed while skydiving

Phillip O'Neil Montie, 22, a grandson of Mrs. Josphine Montie of Grand Chenier was killed in a paracute mishap in California recently. Formerly of Fort Arthur, Texas, he was living in Berkley, Calif.

Montie was one of two skydivers, loaded with heavy camera gear, who drowned when their parachutes were caught in a crosswind that carried them into the Anti och reservoir.

Sheriff's officers said they were part of a four-man team attempting to film a television commercial.

Both victims were members of the Parchutist' Association of America and had each logged more than 150 jumps.

Mr. Montie, who attended Thomas Edison Junior high school, obtained a high school degree equivalent in the service while a member of the 101st Airborne. His service included three years, on in Vietnam. He was awarded several medals, including the Bronze Star.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilliam Montie of Fort Arthur; two sisters, Mrs. Bob West and Mrs. John Brown III, both of Fort Arthur; three brothers, Michael, Donald and Gerard Montie, all of Fort Arthur; and a grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Montie of Grand Chenier.

Practice approved for parish

The construction of permanent fences to protect vegetative cover on pastureland and to prevent or reduce the pollution of water, air, or land, is one of the conservation practices being offered under the REAP program, according to Charles S. Hackett, County Executive Director of ASCS.

The practice is being carried out at this time on the farm of Conway LeBleu in Cameron parish.

The practice is applicable only to fences which will contribute to better grazing management on open permanent pastures. There must be pasture on both sides of the fence.

Cost-sharing will be approved only for permanent fences constructed of new wire and is not applicable to boundary fences, lane fences, fences between pasture and other land, replacement or repair fences, or to temporary or portable fences.

A fence along a public road (one built or maintained by any public entity and recognized locally as a part of the public road system) is not eligible. A fence along a private road or trail is eligible if:

1. Such a location is purely coincidental and the only practicable place to construct the fence.

2. The purpose is not to keep livestock off the road or to fence out the road, and

3. Constructing the fence will not result in fencing on both sides of the road.

Line posts must be of treated timber, or other durable material, at least 6 feet in length, with a minimum 2 inch tip, and shall not be spaced more than 15 feet apart.

Corner posts shall be of the same materials or the equivalent and have not less than 3 strands of 4 point barbed wire, or thirty-two inch net wire with 2 strands of 4 point barbed wire on top, or thirty-nine inch net wire with 1 strand of 4 point barbed wire on top.

Gates must be constructed of material of durability equal to that of posts and braces.

Government cost-sharing under the REAP program is 66 cents per rod on a completed wire fence, or $1.30 per rod on a combination of barbed wire and net wire.

A representative of the county committee must visit the farm to determine that the practice is needed, approve the general location of the fence, and verify performance.

LeBleu plans to establish a winter cover within the fenced area planting rye-grass to protect the soil from erosion during the winter months.

Hackett advises anyone desiring to carry out a conservation practice under the REAP program to make application in the local ASCS office in the Cameron courthouse.

Cover crops deadline near

Francis Klein, chairman of the Cameron ASCS County Committee, reminds Cameron parish farmers and ranchers that Wednesday, Sept. 15 is the final date to sign up for Practice D-1, planting winter cover crops.

Klein explained that there is an acreage being received in the local office. These applications will be reviewed at the county committee meeting Sept. 16.

Tapes on loan at library

Patrons of the Cameron parish library may now enjoy the selection of 8 track tapes the library has to offer. The collection of library tapes was first started by the donation of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Henry, Jr. of Cameron.

The Henrys have just donated some more tapes to the library. Included in the tapes are country, wester, regular band and piano music.

American consumers spend only 16.5 per cent of every dollar for food, the lowest rate ever in this country and lowest in the world. Milk is an excellent buy because it provides about 30 per cent of our nutritional needs.

Honor court held for two Boy Scout troops

An Honor Court for advancement recognition of Troops 202, Creole, and 210, Cameron, was held Monday night, Aug. 30, in the courtroom of the Cameron Parish Courthouse.

Master of Ceremonies for the event was Kelley Dean, Lakeside District advancement committeeman. Dean commended Scoutmasters Harold Savoie and O'Neal Roberts for their outstanding efforts in the Cameron Parish scouting program.

The Honor Court opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Scout Oath led by Scout Ronnie LaFosse.

Post members go to meeting

Cameron's VFW Doxey-Vincent Post was represented at the National VFW convention held last week in Dallas, Tex., by several members of the Post and the Ladies Auxiliary. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Ellis McWhirter, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Miller, and Mrs. Azalia Mhire.

McQuirter is the District Quartermaster of VFW, Mrs. McQuirter is 5th District President of the Ladies Auxiliary; Miller is Youth Chairman; and Mrs. Miller is a 3 year 5th District Trustee.

Tenderfoot Rank was awarded to six Cameron scouts and one Creole youth, enrolling them into the Boy Scout Program. Troop 202 welcomed Patrick Primeaux as Troop 210 did Ruben Doxey, Oscar Reyes, Allan McCall, Kevin Culligan, Weldon Authement and Eric Dingler.

The boys and their parents were featured in a candlelight ceremony in which they were reminded of the Scout oath, represented by three candles and the twelve points of the scout law, represented by twelve candles, all attached to a log-hewn ornament.

Lakeside Council Committeeman Lawrence Arceneaux awarded Second Class Rank to Troop 202 scouts Phillip Nunez and Luke Conner and Troop 210 scouts Stephen Cheramie, Ronnie LaFosse, Peter Posada, Richard Kiffe, Dirk Desonnier, Allen McCall, Wendell Wilson, James Wilkerson, Kenny and Kirk Guidry, Tim Alexander, Kevin Culligan and Wayne Hebert.

Arceneaux challenged these scouts to continue advancement to Eagle rank, the ultimate goal of every true Boy Scout.

First Class Scout Ranks were awarded by Elbert Heard, Camping Activities Chairman. Troop 202 scouts Sidney Theriot and Stanley Primeaux and Troop 210 scouts Wayne Hebert, Wendell and James Wilkerson, Kenny and Kirk Guidry and Tim Alexander received First Class Rank.

Scoutmaster O'Neal Roberts, presented Merit Badges earned by Troop 21 - scouts since the last Honor Court. Troop 21 leading merit badger was Glen Kelley.

Scouts Wayne Hebert, Tim Alexander, Kirk and Kenny Guidry, James and Wendell Wilkerson, Greg Boudreaux, Glenn Kelley, Kent Benoit, R. J. Vinson, John Rice, Terry Kelley, Bobby Joe Doxey, Terry Dronet, Eddie Benoit and Robin Roberts were recognized by their Scoutmaster.

Dronet and Benoit have received the twenty-one required merit badges and have made applications for Eagle Rank.

Troop 202 Scoutmaster Savoie commended his scouts on their advancements and presented merit badges to Cecil Myers, Todd Landry, David Dimas, Donnie Nunez, Stanley Primeaux, Tony Johnson, Glenn Baccigalopi, Russell Savoie, Dan Nunez, Toby Landry and Vernon Primeaux.

Savoie also awarded a plaque to the Troop 202 Outstanding Camping Scout, Donnie Nunez. Nunez also served as Assistant Senior Patrol Leader over seventy-three scouts at Camp Edgewood this summer.

John Tankersly, Lakeside District Executive, introduced Troop 202 Scout Dan Nunez. He attended the World Scout Jamboree in Japan this summer.

Tankersly awarded Star Scout Rank to Kent Benoit, Glenn Kelley, R. J. Vinson, Greg Boudreaux of Troop 210 and Todd Landry and David Dimas of Troop 202, mentioning this was the first big step to the Eagle Rank for these scouts since they were now progressing on their own whereas they were previously assisted and urged on by leaders and parents.

Four scouts achieved Life Scout Rank, awarded by Kelley Dean, who explained that the boys must earn ten merit badges, five of these acquired. Troop 202 scouts Donnie Nunez and Tony Johnson along with John Rice and Terry Kelley of Troop 210 received the Life Scout Rank.

Jack Willhouser presented Gold Palms to Robin Roberts in recognition of his work beyond the rank of Eagle. Roberts also holds the Bronze Palms. He is now eligible to advance farther to the Silver Palms Award.

County Agent Report

By CLIFFORD MYERS

SOYBEAN INSECT CONTROL

Soybeans must be watched closely for insects and insect damage during the period when the pods are forming and filling out. Although there is no general insect problem on soybeans that I know of at this time, there have been isolated reports of leaf-feeding worms. Growers should keep a close check on insect infestations in order to prevent severe damage of soybeans.

Insects that can damage soybeans from now on include corn earworms (budworm), green or brown stink bugs and bean leaf beetles feeding on the pods. Foliage loss may be caused by loopers, velvetbean caterpillars, bean leaf beetles, green cloverworms, salt-mamh caterpillars and blister beetles.

PEACH CARE

Although peach production in the parish, in most cases, was very poor this year, there are many things that orchards require at this time of the season if production is to be maintained during the coming year.

Control of the peach tree borer is a must if peach trees are to remain free of this insect. The larvae attacks the bark and cornblum layer of the trunk and main branches also and if left uncontrolled will kill the tree. These insects may be detected by the presence of a jelly-like substance on the trunk, main limbs and at the soil line.

The adults of the peach tree borer have their main emergency during August and September. It is recommended to control this pest during this time with 50% Thiodan at the rate of 3/4 lbs. per 50 gallons of water. Normally, three applications are needed at four week intervals. The first application should be made in August if possible.

Sanitation will always pay off in control of disease such as brown rot and rhizopur rot. Mummies and buttons that are left in the orchard serve as a source of inoculum and should be removed and destroyed.

If new plantings are to be made, or if replanting is necessary, now is the time to decide on the varieties that will be needed. The earlier an order for trees can be made, the better are the chances that the nurseryman will be able to fill the order.

Peach trees should be kept in a vigorous state of growth well into the fall since this growth provides next year's fruiting wood. However, trees should not be taken into fall in an over-vigorous state, since succulent growth is more susceptible to cold damage than those which have made good strong growth.

Bill Dodd

Bill Dodd is seeking reelection

Citing his record of "40 years of constructive service to Louisiana education," State Superintendent of Public Education William J. "Bill" Dodd, Monday announced his candidacy for re-election.

In his rise to the superintendent's job, Dodd has been a teacher, legislator, veteran, lawyer, Lieutenant Governor, State Auditor, State Board of Education member and its president.

Dodd received his B. A. degree from Northwestern State University, Natchitoches, a juris Doctorate degree from Louisiana State University and an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Northwestern.

Superintendent Dodd taught in the public schools of Allen Parish and was president of the State Classroom Teachers Association and the Louisiana Teachers Association. He served Allen Parish for eight years as State Representative in the Louisiana Legislature where he was chairman of the Education Committee and the Veterans' Committee. In 1946-'47, Dodd served as Legislative Chairman of the State P. T. A.

Dodd is a veteran of World War II and served as Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana from 1948 to 1952. From 1950 to 1952, he served at State Civil Defense Director and he was Louisiana's representative on the Tideland's case, doing this work without pay. Dodd served two terms on the Democratic State Central Committee, from 1952 to 1960.

Superintendent Dodd was elected to the position of State Comptroller (State Auditor) and served in that capacity from 1956 to 1960. He was elected to the State Board of Education in 1960 and served two years as its president.

Dodd was elected State Superintendent of Public Education in the first Democratic Primary of the 1963 elections and was re-elected to this office in 1967.

Superintendent Dodd is a partner in the law firm of Dodd, Hinch, Barnes, Avant and Wall of Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

He is a Thirty-Second Degree Mason, a member of El Karubah Shrine Temple in Shreveport, La., and a member of the Southside Baptist Church of Baton Rouge.

Artichoke isn't

Have you ever tried a "Jerusalem artichoke?" A remnant of American Indian agriculture, the small potato-looking tuber is full of food value says the U.S. Department of Agriculture's consumer and Marketing Service. Though it is not from Jerusalem and it is not an artichoke, the flavor is reminiscent of what we commonly know as the globe artichoke. Its name is actually a corruption of the Italian word "girasol," meaning "turning to the sun," which is characteristic of the sunflower family to which it belongs.

Around the Town.

Miss Tasie Dubon, of Hackbery, spent a few days in Cameron last week at the home of her brother, Odilville.

Miss Flora Newton left Sunday evening for St. John's, island to take charge of the public school in that section. Miss Newton was a graduate of the summer normal and got her teachers' certificate at the examination which followed its ending.

J. G. Medlenka of Crowley, has issued "A Compendium of Useful Legal Information Taken From the Laws of Louisana." It is worth more than fifty cents; the price is fifty cents.

[illegible]—Forty or fifty pounds of geese or ducks feathers. [illegible]r. C. Bohler, Lake [illegible]. [illegible]

[illegible] Friday's mail boat for Jen[illegible]

Lou Newton holds the record for ducks brought to camp this season; having came in last Friday night with forty mallards, and was only a few hours getting them. Any competing for the champion's belt in this matter, it is well to remember that jawbone don't go; only game brought to camp counts.

E. Andrews, of the mail boat, expects to take up a big crowd to Lake Charles on circus day, Nov. 6. As the boat returns next day, no time need be lost by the excursionists.

Cameron is now nursering a lusty water famine that must be weaned soon. Most of the cisterns in town are dry and notice has been served that the court house cistern is a reserve that must not be poached on. This precaution is necessary. The court meets on the 5th of December, and occasionally some of Lake Charles' legal fry forget themselves and call for three-fingers of plain cistern water, and it's up to come. Aside from this reason it is possable that the little mail schooner, with its cargo of freight-quick, may be disabled about that time by the burkeeker, or a spirit of bravado, attempting to drink some of his own whiskey and going mad with jim-jams.

BORN.—In Cameron, on November 7th, to the wife of Cleveland Wheelus, a son.

It is more than passing chance, more than a co-incidence, that immediately after Cameron received the news that Sharkey was licked, that the gods sent a manchild, of prize-fighting weight, (10½ lbs.) to Wheelus, the photoman. It is easy to see that this youngster has been born under a lucky star; the horoscope of him is not hard to cast. He will wear the belt. Three decades from today those natives of this village who may be permitted to remain alive after the exodus from Lake Charles to this place occurs, will point with pride to the fact that Jeffries C. Wheelus was born in Leesburg. Will, when the news of his prowess comes out in the CAMERON DAILY PILOT, nudge each other and say, "Know him, when he was a baby; he was born where the Union depot now stands."

From Blue Buck.

[Correspondence of The Pilot.]

The ridge folks met [illegible] plums and had [illegible] house [illegible] quite a fine time.

Rufus Galier is up and around again. Mr. Galier has been having some trouble with a swollen limb, but has now a pretty good show of getting all right.

It an even thing between Dr. Tom and Little George. Sometimes one is going south and sometimes the other. It's only a question of time when some intelligent stranger drops into the locality and starts them both toward the equator.

Stanley Eaves thinks that every boy ought to have a girl of his own. Stanley says that seven or eight hours [illegible] the same hitching post at the same time eats it up too quickly. In this case, however, the wish is father to the thought. The lady in the chic is unusually pretty and the young gentleman is not having things all his own way.

The Bland school will open on Tuesday, Nov. 7, with Miss Sims as teacher. As this school is a consolidation of two others, and will draw largely from the Smith ridge district, it is expected that the attendance will be good and that the school will be the equal of any in the parish.

The mail rider had a quite an experience as he came over with the school teacher's trunk. His horse became frightened and kicked a hole in the trunk and tore up things generally. Lucky that the lady was not along.

Mr. Abbie Pevoto has gone to Huffman, Texas, to bring home his daughter, who has been attending school at that place. It seems that much sickness has prevailed in Huffman, and the schools have been closed for several weeks. It is possible that all the bayou girls will come back. Mr. Dennis [illegible] has been ill for some time and will probably give up his position.

There seems to be in our section an example for Leesburg. Away over here, isolated, alone, cut off from the outside world, we furnish a model which your town might be proud to copy; we hew out a trail that your people should be glad to follow. Gleaming like a star; flashing like some new-born, molten world throwing off its vesture of fire; shining with grace we beckon you Leesburgers to follow our example; it being now three weeks since any one here has been drunk.

We are the people. Sure! It is pleasing to see such peace. Our young folks get together, have a nice social time, and go home and not a cross word said and none of the boys licked. What a good thing to see such unity. What sweet peace. What magnificent quiet.

Those that have cane are now preparing to grind. There will not be much syrup made in this section this season owing to the severe cold of last winter. Many lost not only a part of their stubble, but also almost all their seed cane which was imperfectly protected. The people in this section were caught napping by the blizzard last winter. Not only did our cane suffer but few of us had wood piles calculated to stand such a long siege of it. On those of us who had marriageable daughters the blow was the most severe. It is almost cruelty to makes young man hit the road at three o'clock in the morning simply because there isn't enough fuel on the place to keep him from freezing to death before sun up. It was pretty tough, but I had it to do three or four times last winter. I never hated anything so bad in my life, but I had to do it. These young fellows around here have grown up right square under my nose and are like sons to me, and I bear them no ill will, though they are under that impression and are shy of me because of it. I do not intend ever referring to, this matter again, but now that the case is opened I wish to go on record as having acted this way simply because of the scarcity of firewood; from motives purely, en-

Along the River Front.

The last cool snap caught the gaff-topp'l catfish in the shallow water of the lake; the weather reason not having wired them information that the temperature or anything else was going to drop. The result was that the fish passed out with the tide helpless and benumbed. Local fisherman say that on the bar many of these fish were seen floating helpless on top of the water. When fish are caught in shallow water by a norther, it has the same cooling and benumbing effect as the refusal of a V when we hit our friends for a loan.

The oyster tongmen of this section are pushed with orders. The late cool weather has put the Calcasieu oyster in such fine condition that eating them is positive luxury.

Lake Charles takes them all. As the price of oysters still remains at sixty cents a barrel, it would be interesting to know what the Lake Charles consumer pays for a dozen raw. As there are about four hundred oysters in a barrel, the people of that city can easily figure out whether it costs more to open oysters than it does to tong, cull, sack, and ship them sixty miles. The oyster houses pay in addition to the price given, fifteen cents a barrel freight. A few years ago the price on the wharf at this point was one dollar a barrel. It would be pleasing to know if the Lake Charles consumer has had the benefit of the reduction.

The famous Calcasieu jetty oyster is commercially a matter of the past. Last winter's blizzard caught them in unusually low water and frose them stiff. This season, and for several to come, there will be no rock oysters shipped from this place. These oysters, on account of their superior flavor, sold readily in Lake Charles at two dollars a barrel. It is more than probable that when the jetties are again imbibing, that an embankment will be placed on tongring, as has been done at Sabine pass. Those having charge of the jetty work on the gulf coast, claim that the formation of oyster beds on jetties act as a binder; that the effect of such is consecration; which result is a desirable quantity in rock moles.

Very low tides have prevailed for the week past, which has given the "Coon" oyster a sunbath on those days that were not cloudy. Precisely how this dwarf by necessity manages to be amphibian is an enigma. Dwarfed by the proximity of his fellows he becomes but a two-inch minature of his kin in deeper water, which is an ill wind that blows him good, as he is thereby spared the disgrace of being shipped to Lake Charles and sold for sixty cents a barrel. He has the vitality of a turtle, a dromedary's capacity for going without water, and there is nothing that would kill him off, save an order for him from the place mentioned at the usual rate.

The Lake Charles people have a keen tooth for the Cameron duck. Each departing mail day the boat is festooned with game until it appears really, as if the gourmets of Lake Charles wouldn't have any money left to pay for it after going up against a deck load of oysters on the same craft at the treemendous rate of sixty cents a barrel. As this measure of oysters, numbering about four hundred, and a pair of fat mallards weighing eight pounds, together and in combination bring the appalling amount of eighty-five cents, it is difficult to see precisely how the impecunious Lakers can afford to have both for dinner on the same day.

[illegible]tirely and wholly humanitarian. When, handling these youngsters croup and neck, I fired them lightly out the back door and chased them a mile down the road at three o'clock in the morning, it was without any anger; I merely did not wish them to die in the house. By taking them down the road a mile on the lope and giving them three jumps start of me, I was enabled to beat them up and thereby save their lives. The matter being fully explained now, the incident may be considered as being closed.

THOMS.

Johnson Bayou.

[illegible] pleased to notice that my friend, Mrs. A. B. Smith, who has been ill during last week, is now all right again. Us folks on the ridge [illegible] couldn't get along without this estimable lady and her sweet-voiced daughter, Mamie.

Ducks are plentiful. A. Pavell is buying now at Berry. While the season opened later than usual, yet such was imperative, as buyers who enter the field too early in the season, usually drop their wad.

The New Orleans appetite for game is like a persimmon, it must have a frost or two on it before it is in good condition. There is a season for every thing. People do not wish jack snipe served with green corn, nor will they buy ducks during dewberry season.

After a couple good frosts have hit New Orleans those French over there will eat anything from a jackdaw up, or down, to the tail of an alligator.

The farmers around here are digging their sweet potatoes and the yield is good. Stack Trahan offers to bet a yearling against the sloop Let-Me-Go that he can dig, sack up and haul to the house more sweet potatoes than Ben Eaves can merely dig in a day, and that after he has won the bet he can take the Eliza Jane and beat the Let-Me-Go seven miles over a twenty-mile course for twenty dollars.

I do not dwell in this matter in my letter to your paper because I wish to praise up Mr. Trahan, but because I've got it in for Mr. Ben Eaves; that gentleman rock by our house the other day and never called.

Speaking of sweet potatoes, from which subject I wandered, I would say that Johnson's bayou is the home of them. They grow here big and there is always a market for them. Port Arthur, the Pass, Beaumont and Orange buy enough sweet potatoes [illegible] section to keep everybody [illegible] the necessaries of life, which includes whiskey and tobacco. The other farm produce, which includes mallard, mink and alligators, enables the people of this section to salt down a goodly wad each year.

Father says that if it wasn't for the sweet potatoes and the alligators that we raise, that he don't know how in the world he would feed us all and Jimmy, that's my little brother, says as how he's going to make a thousand dollars on mink this winter. I never saw a thousand dollars but I know it's a whole lot of money and I hope he gets it, for I want to buy a better quality of shoes than usual this winter; something that will cost two dollars and a half.

Father says that a girl is not big enough to have a beau until her shoes cost $1.25, which is the reason, I suppose, that he has always bought me shoes costing no more than $1.17½. I do hope that mink will be thick on the bayou this winter and far away up, and that Jimmy makes the expected killing. If this combination works out all right then I can have a pair of shoes at $2.50, which according to the rule governing proportion, would allow me to have two lovers at the same time; like some of the other girls on this ridge have.

But in regard to those sweet potatoes, from which subject I continually wander; guess I'll get it straightened out by and by; what I wish to make clear, is that regarding this product, and if the yield were even less than it is and the price was not always good as it is now, and various conditions now favorable can hardly prove to be inimical during the next decade, which is why father says that God created the Johnson's bayou sweet potato a little lower than the angels, and that if the pumpkin yam went hand in hand with a lifting of the Texas quarantine against our dressed beef, when not accompanied by the hide, that Johnson's bayou would be ollrite.

There now. I never had so much trouble saying anything in my life before. Jeanine can't write without inspiration, and I always have too much of it. Now that I've got it straightened out and off my mind, I will never write about sweet po-

About Oyster Culture.

In last week's [illegible]rence was made relative to artificial formation of oyster beds in localities where such [illegible]re unnatural. Although the [illegible]ed fact remains lying above reference to the Calcasieu, yet in the case of such seedings, where proper conditions prevail, is brought into prominence by the known existence of two outside reefs, that were formed by conditions other than usual. In the construction of the jetties several parcels of rock were condemned as being of inferior quality. These were dumped nearby, in the gulf proper. Today they are oyster reefs, and the product of them is equal in flavor to the famous jetty oyster, now a matter of antiquity. Rock is not needed as a base for seeding grounds, the [illegible]ferred to carry a distinctive trademark, that of attached seaweed.

Much cotton is still coming in; it seems that the growers did not all unload at $14.50. The difference of price at the beginning of the season and at the present time would add a very snug profit to the grower had he been in position to have held on to his cotton.

Mrs. Olizeani Pevoto and Miss Amanda Lambert, both of Blue Buck ridge, have been visiting friends in Cameron, and were the guests of Mrs. W. W. Newton.

The C. H. Moore went out during the early part of the week with seed cotton for the Velasco Oil company.

[illegible]tatoes again as long as I live. I just couldn't let go when I wanted to and Jimmy making such a racket, riveting new pedals on his [illegible] with a [illegible]d.

There must be something in the wind, as Ben is burning the road on a lope, in his Sunday clothes, and Captain Stack came in with the Eliza Jane loaded down with a class of lumber that looked very much like as if it was intended for a two-room house to be built on Blue Buck. What's up, anyway?

Lezia Pevoto, who will have no cane to grind this year, has been talking of taking his outfit over to the Pine and Three Bayous and boil the crop on shares.

"Goldenhair," the "Belle of Blue Buck," went over to Leesburg last week to visit friends. I hope the boys gave her a dance. If they did not they should never be forgiven. Us girls are all in love with this dainty maid, the fair-eyed Amanda Lambert; gentle in her ways as she is good, and good as her hair is golden.

My old school-mate, Miss Flavia Pevoto, the "Pearl of the Bayou," dropped in for a few minute's call on her way home from Blue Buck the other day. Since blue-eyed Minnie has gone off to school there are fewer hands left in their home, and us girls don't see Flavie half as often as we used to nor one-tenth as often as we would like to.

Sunday seems to be the best day for Buck Berwick to kill ducks. It seems that Buck's gun shoots harder on Sunday than on other days; at least that what claims.

As court is now less than four weeks off, Henry Griffith is out rustling for a $6 horse to take over to Leesburg and raffle of for $75. Mr Buck Berwick will be in on the deal, like he was last year, and will divide the plunder, which means $37½ apiece for them. Not a bad week's dividend on six dollars capital. Father says that Hen and Buck are a slick team and that they can pull out the devil's eye-teeth without wakeing him up.

Ellie Morris is still the champion horse racer. Ellie says he has a three-minute horse. By this he does not mean that his horse can cover a mile in three minutes, nor any specified distance in three minutes, but that his horse will go as far as he can in three minutes. That's what Ellie means; and people here who know the horse are willing to bet money that he can do it.

MUSING . . . .

By BERNICE STEWART

In looking through a 1920-edition of "Louisiana, Land of Progress," issued by the Department of Agriculture and Immigration when Harry D. Wilson was Commissioner, I unearth some Cameron Parish facts that should be of interest to old-timers. Interesting to those not so old, too, we hope.

There was not a single high school in the parish. Neither was there a bank nor an oil well nor a telephone nor a railroad nor even a road connecting lower Cameron with the outside world.

Road bonds in the amount of $330,000 had been issued in 1919 to construct highways throughout the parish. Well-drained roads shelled with clam and oyster were the dream of the day. The parish in 1920 boasted 80 automobiles and trucks but no tractors.

There was no county agent to conduct agricultural cooperative extension work.

The parish was considered as having practically completed its project of tick eradication for which cattle had been dipped. Its gilt-edged condition was due to the splendid cooperation of the police jury and cattle owners with the court orders.

Cameron reported an average yield of nine bags per acre on its 6,011 acres of rice cultivated the year before. One sweet potato curing plant was listed in the parish. Totals are not given on cotton produced that year. Excessive rains during the growing and picking season coupled with the boll weevil and army worm had done immense damage throughout the state. There were five operating cotton gins within the parish.

The State Department of Agriculture reported that it had inspected 535 tons of mixed feed and 125 tons of fertilizer in Cameron during 1919.

The parish had 4,966 acres of class "A" agricultural lands, valued at $30 per acre; 4,651 acres of Class "B," at $25; and 16,274 of Class "C," at $11.92. Its 1,784 acres of pasture land were valued at $15 each.

In 1920, Cameron was listed as having 1,570 hogs, 586 horses, 156 mules, 540 sheep, 15 goats, and 21,895 head of cattle.

In 1919, both state and local taxes were levied on a basis of 100% actual value. Total actual value for Cameron was $4,370,260; total state taxes, at 4 mills, $17,481.04; total local taxes, $7,300.23.

In 1920, the population of Cameron Parish was 3,952 as compared with 4,288 in 1910, and, strangely enough, 3,952 in 1900.

New York State's conservation department says more than 40,000 archers use bows and arrows each year in hunting game.

4. Trip to any Lake Charles hospital from outside the district - $25 plus $1 per mile.

When Jones was asked why those within the district would be charged even though they were paying taxes, he answered that if this were done everyone would be given free ambulance service and this would not be fair to those within the district who were paying the taxes. Because the taxes alone will not support the ambulance service, it only subsidizes it. The fees must be collected also in order to raise enough funds to maintain it.

Jones also explained that those living within the district will have first call on the ambulances. One ambulance will always be left in the district for calls. For instance, if one ambulance is called out and a call comes from outside of the district, it will have to wait until the other ambulance is available, because one ambulance will be on standby for a call within the district.

Hopper then explained some of the regulations in the Highway Safety Act - Repot No. 1700 enacted July 13, 1966. He said the idea was to project the emergency room from the hospital to the scene of the accident.

It is required that two qualified people be on the ambulance at all times, a qualified driver and another trained to administer advanced first aid.

Necessary equipment must include oxygen, suction and resuscitation equipment, a large first-aid box, splints, and back and neck boards.

At the scene the attendant makes sure the patient is breathing, clears the wind pipe and performs necessary first-aid. He stops the bleeding, and supervises the correct moving procedure, such as putting patient on the stretcher.

Hopper said that training for attendents can be secured from Troop D personnel and from Sowela Tech in Lake Charles.

He explained that if the ambulance service qualified under the prescribed standards that medicare will pay for the service.

At the close of the meeting a question and answer session was held. Jones closed the session with a thought provoking question - "If the tax doesn't pass, what will we do if we don't have ambulance service?"

Recreation dis. created for 5

A recreation district for Ward 5 of Cameron parish was created by the police jury at its meeting Tuesday. It includes the entire Ward 5 area with the communities of Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach.

A recreation board was appointed composed of the following persons: Francis Erbelding, Mason Istre, Howard Romero, Danny Trahan and Don Billiot.

Ward 5 Police Juror Archie Berwick asked tht the district be created after a petition asking for such a district was received by the jury last month.

Board members, who will have the power to call recreation tax elections if they see fit, will have staggered terms of from one to five years.

Agent pays visit here

Dr. Betty Jane Hodgkins, assistant state agent for Home Economics for the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service in Baton Rouge, was in Cameron last week visiting Miss Patsy Granger regarding extension home economics work in Cameron parish.

For the past two years Dr. Hodgkins has been resident instructor in clothing and human relations for the Louisiana State University Home Economics department.

Jury favors oil leases offshore

A hearing was to be held Wednesday and Thursday in New Orleans on leasing matter with testimony to be taken from an environmental standpoint. The hearing affects federal tracts in the Vermilion offshore area.

Cameron offshore leases were approved some months ago.

Ward 2 Juror Horace Mhire was given authority to make a trip to Baton Rouge with a Vermilion parish police juror to try to get a road jointly owned by the two parishes blacktopped.

Reappointed to parish boards were Gene Constance, parish planning board, and Whitney Baccigalopi, housing board.

Cagle Chevrolet was low bidder with a bid of $2311.05 plus trade-in for a pickup for Ward 6.

President W. F. Henry reported that the jury's request for a year's extension on putting brakes on boat trailers has been turned down by the state.

Emblems urged for vehicles

A concerted effort on the part of all Home Demonstration club safety leaders will be made this month to get farmers to put slow moving vehicle emblems on their large equipment that is sometime on the highway. This will help reduce the hazards caused by such vehicles on the highways.

Club leaders are: Mrs. John Hensley, Johnson Bayou; Mrs. Harold Cartes, Creole; Mrs. Guthrie Perry, Grand Chenier; Mrs. Diel LaLande, Cameron; Mrs. Lloyd Guidry, Klondike-Lowery; Mrs. J. D. Fruge, Sweetlake; and Mrs. F. J. Boug, Hackberry.

Iodize salt is good insurance

Although they cost the same, there is a "big difference" between plain and iodized salt, the Louisiana State Nutrition Council warns.

The "big difference" is that regular use of plain salt can lead to goiter - an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck.

A 1970 parish nutrition survey last year revealed an alarming number of goiter cases which may be traced to use of plain salt according to Miss Rose Ann Langham, Council Chairman and Chief of the State Health Department's nutrition section.

This plus the fact that 40 percent of table salt sold in the state is of the plain variety poses a health problem that can be prevented.

"Regular use of iodized salt is a necessary part of the minimum daily requirement for people of all ages," she said, "expectant mothers need the iodine in iodized salt as part of their prenatal diet to protect both themselves and their child from the threat of goiter."

The difference between the two products is that iodized salt contains one part in one thousand of potassium iodide (an iodine salt) equivalent to the amount removed in the refining of raw salt.

School board asks cuts be restored

A resolution asking Gov. John McKeithen to restore the $3 per day average daily attendance allowance for public school students was adopted by the Cameron parish school board Monday.

Noting that the Governor had previously restored cuts made in the colleges and universities budget, Supt. W. R. Smith said that if the cut were restored it would mean $6500 to Cameron parish schools.

The board awarded for mineral bids on Section 16-15-15 at Johnson Bayou, the first school section to be put up for lease in a long time.

Little damage done by storm

Most of the residents of Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach evacuated their homes last Thursday due to the threat from Hurricane Fern, but little damage was done to the area as the storm moved into Texas.

The Cameron Parish Civil Defense agency advised residents of the Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach area to evacuate because of the danger of them being cut off by water going over the road.

The road was flooded for awhile, but the road was not washed out as in past storms. High tides came up as far as the first row of camps at Holly Beach but no damage was reported.

Some residents in other sections of lower Cameron, remembering Hurricane Audrey which caused 500 deaths in 1957, also evacuated but little effects of the storm were felt in these areas.

Immunization clinics slated

Mrs. Pat Ortego, Cameron Parish Public Health Nurse, announces that immunization clinics will be held at the following locations:

Hackberry Recreational Center, Sept. 17, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Johnson Bayou Community Hall, Sept. 21, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

These clinics will be held throughout the year in Hackberry, on the third Friday of the month and in Johnson Bayou on the third Tuesday of the month. Plans for a Grand Lake-Sweetlake clinic will be announced later.

Jamboree to be held Saturday

The first annual Little League Football Jamboree will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 18, in the South Cameron High School football stadium, according to Benny Welch, coordinator.

The jamboree will kick-off the season of Little League ball games to be held among local schools this season. Welch stated that it is hoped there will be a good participation of the parents and adults in the project.

The teams involved are little league (composed of the 6 and 7 grades) and Pee Wee (composed of 4 and 5 grades) from the Hackberry, Cameron, Grand Chenier and South Cameron Elementary schools.

AMBULANCE VOTE IS SAT.

All qualified voters living in the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District will be eligible to vote on the two-mill ambulance tax Saturday, Sept. 18. Voting hours are 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Property valuation will not be voted in the election and voting machines will be used.

In the past, voting in such tax elections was limited to resident property owners, but a supreme court ruling about a year ago open voting in tax elections to all registered voters regardless if they owned property or not.

The votes will be voting on a two-mill addition to the hospital taxes, with the funds to be used to operate two ambulances for the area.

The hospital has acquired the ambulances formerly operated by O'Donnell Funeral Home and is presently operating them. If the tax should fail, the hospital would discontinue operation of the ambulances as it would have no funds to do so.

Homestead exemption will not apply in the election, but on a $2000 evaluation, the average for most property owners, the tax would only be $4 a year.

Ward 1, Precinct 1 -- American Legion Hall, Grand Chenier.

Ward 3, Precinct 1 -- Voting Machine building, Cameron

Ward 3, Precinct 2 -- KC hall, Creole

Lions hears about society

Mrs. Griffith told the idea for the organization was an outgrowth from the parish tours which have been carried out in different communities of the parish by the Cameron Home Demonstration Council.

Mrs. Perry read the statement of purpose of the organization and passed around examples of journals the society plans to publish. At the conclusion of the program the local club voted to join the society.

The club voted to go on record favoring the opening of sales of offshore oil leases in portions of the Gulf of Mexico - offshore the Louisiana coast.

A meal prepared by Rev. Alcide Sonnier was served.

Pipe drop

Pipe drops are very important practice

One of the high priority REAP conservation practices approved by the Cameron ASCS County Committee and being carried out on some Cameron parish farms in the Klondike-Lowery area of Cameron parish is the constructing of pipe drops or similar structures for the protection of outlets and water channels that dispose of excess water, according to Francis Klein, ASCS County Committee Chairman.

Four such structures have been constructed on the Ronald David farm and several are being constructed at this time on the Percy David farm.

The local County Committee felt that this was such an important conservation practice it should be given a high priority in the planning of the 1971 REAP program for Cameron parish. For that reason, the government, through the cost-sharing plan, bears 80 percent of the cost of carrying out the practice.

The purpose of this conservation practice is to prevent the development or growth of gullies by relatively small amounts of rainfall runoff and to prevent or reduce pollution of water or land.

It is applicable to structures generally needed in the lower ends of farm waterways, the outlet ends of terraces and drainage ditches, and at water concentration points on drainage ditches, and at water concentration points on irrigated and other land where overfalls are involved.

Cost-sharing is not authorized for: (1) Irrigation structures which are part of a distribution system for irrigated water, and (2) the replacement of pipe drops installed under this practice after June 30, 1971.

The structure must be constructed to meet the requirements of Soil Conservation Service Engineering standards and specifications.

It must also be recommended by, constructed under the supervision of, and approved by, a Soil Conservation Service representative.

In addition to the 80% cost-sharing of materials used in carrying out the practice, 16¢ per cubic yard is paid for moving earthfill (embankment) in carrying out the practice.

Details on this and other REAP conservation practice may be obtained in the local ASCS office in the Cameron courthouse, Klein said.

Rarely really used

In this twentieth century, porringers are favorite silver gifts at christenings and weddings. But the first porringers were made in the 17th century for eating porridge, which was not oatmeal but a kind of stew with meat and vegetables. In England, the porringer had two handles, in America, it had only one handle and was used for all sorts of food items, including sugar before the advent of sugar bowls. Now you will find the porringer used for everything from an ash tray to a nut dish — rarely for "porridge."

Grand Lake Sweetlake News

By EDDIE MAE FAULK

The second annual Ox Yoke Rodeo for the benefit of Louisiana Boys Village has been set for Oct. 16 and 17. The rodeo will be held at the Ox Yoke Arena in Sweetlake.

Wayne Foster, owner of the large, modern, all steel arena and promoter of the rodeo, says that the 1st annual rodeo was a huge success and hopes that this one will be even bigger and better.

The Orange County Mounted Sheriff Posse, one of the greatest drill teams in the nation, will be featured at both performances. In addition to the five major events, a wild cow milking will be included. This proves to be quite a crowd pleaser.

Following the performance Saturday night, a barn dance will be held at the Ox Yoke Ranch. Music will be furnished by Roy Baker and the Frontiersmen for the dance as well as both rodeo performances.

HD CLUB

KINDERGARTEN

Area girls are MSU pledgees

Peggy Wilson, president of the McNeese Panhellenic Council, says the pledges who were given ribbons in their sororities' chosen colors were received in formal ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

Alpha Delta Pi has pledged 22 prospective members and this includes Stephanie Vincent of Hackberry.

HOSPITAL SERVICE DISTRICT

The Emergency Service Standard of "The Highway Safety Act of 1971" is one out of 16 standards set up in an effort to combat causes where people die needlessly or are permanently disabled because they do not receive prompt and proper emergency medical care.

Recognizing the important role that local government must play in this endeavor, the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District being the only public body that could legally call a tax election for the purpose of ambulance service, has set forth a proposal for a (2) mill tax on all property subject to Louisiana taxation in the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District commencing with the year 1972. This tax is for ambulance service only and is in no way for hospital use or support.

The South Cameron Memorial Hospital, meeting all Medicare requirements, was choice for the operating agency because of the availability of facilities for communications, housing equipment and crews and because of the training facilities and personnel available.

Being a rural area, the need for ambulance service in our community is great. The South Cameron Ambulance Service will strive to continiously upgrade emergency medical service so that its quality of response equals or surpasses the seriousness of the need.

We, the Board of Commissioners for the Lower Cameron Hospital Service District earnestly request the citizens of wards and districts to consider your desperate need for emergency ambulance service and to give a favorable response on Saturday, the 18th day of September.

Views on war given by Phillip Montie

The following views on war were written by Phillip O. Montie, 22, about two months before he was killed in a parachute jump in California.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilliam Montie of Port Arthur and the grandson of Mrs. Josephine Montie of Grand Chenier.

When I think of war, it brings me down and everytime the thought comes to my mind I instictively put it out of my head; because of the things I have seen and done in war. There has never been a good war. Wars are fought because men think of material gain. They want something and they don't care what it cost other people.

There are many kinds of war. We usually think of war as being one nation against another, but this only comes as a result of many small wars such as politicians thinking of improving the economy in order to get votes or business men wanting to do business with certain people whether it hurts their country or not such as the black market. Jesus tells us in Matthew 24:6 "And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars; see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet." There will be wars as long as the world lasts but we shouldn't worry about them. It is the war inside of us that we can do something about. It was this war all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet." There will be wars as long as the world lasts but we shouldn't worry about them. It is the war inside of us that we can do something about. It was this war all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet." There will be wars as long as the world lasts but we shouldn't worry about them. It is the war inside of us that we can do something about. It was this war that made me that was worse than all the death and hell of the war in Nam.

When I came home I tried drugs to bring me peace but instead they brought me further down. I also tried oriental religions. I found they only added to my confusion. I traveled all over the country but everywhere I went people were fighting the same battle that was within me. I could find no answer. Then, finally, I saw I was headed down a dead end road. That's when I decided to give Jesus a try. I had been to Church but I had not really known a real living Jesus. I asked Jesus to give me the peace He promised in John 14:27 "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, giveth I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled." I just came to Jesus and gave Him all the battles and He forgave me and filled me with the Holy Ghost and gave me all the joy and peace that I had been longing for.

To the People of Cameron Parish. . .

As you know I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff for a third term. I hope you see fit to give me your vote and support as you have done in the past. It is my intention to visit each and every one of you in your homes as is my custom. If for some reason I do not have the opportunity to visit with you, it will not be intentional.

Sheriff Claude Eagleson

My platform will be as follows:

1. To continue to give service to the community in any way possible.
2. To continue to give good law enforcement in all fields.
3. To increase my force as money allows.
4. To increase enforcement of narcotic laws and to make the people aware of the dangers in illicit drug traffic. My record will show that this department has a very good average for arrest and convictions on narcotics and thefts, equal to any office this size in the state. My department will continue to bring violators to court as long as I am your Sheriff.
5. Will try to have more patrolling throughout the Parish. At present we try to maintain a 24 hour patrol where we have enough men.
6. Have a Junior Deputy program for the youth along with the Little League to acquaint the children with law enforcement and good citizenship as well as sportsmanship and fair play. This I feel is a great step for the youth of our Parish.

I know that my opponent will offer you things that he cannot do without the money. I know, as I came into this office with funds very short and in the eight years I have been in office, I have put all available funds in new equipment, patrol cars, a new radio set for better hurricane protection, and trying to bring the deputies salaries to a decent living standard.

I want to say this about my opponent: He was released from his duties through his own doings. I was elected Sheriff by you and run this office the way I think you would want it. I will not let any one deputy try to tell me how to run this office, and will continue to do so as long as you want me to.

I know he is telling you things that are not true and I hope as I visit with each of you to clean up these untruths. I will give you the real reason why he was released of his duties.

He has made a statement that he was acting Chief deputy; this is an untruth. As long as I have been sheriff he has in no way ever been acting Chief deputy. His only duties have been of a dispatcher at night, and he has done only the duties that all other dispatchers have to do.

Again I will ask you for your support and vote in the coming election. Thanking you sincerely and hoping to see all of you before November 6th, 1971, I am . . .

Claude Eagleson

Plantation included in painting series

The Seven Oaks Plantation, a crumbling mansion which once was one of the New Orleans area's finest ante bellum showplaces, has been included in the series of Louisiana heritage paintings by Chicago artist Robert William Addison.

The recently completed painting reflects the silent majesty of this dying house. An artist who became nationally famous for his nostalgic paintings of old Midwest scenes, Addison's painting of Seven Oaks is typical of his former works in that while it is an honest portrayal of a crumbling relic, it evokes poignant memories of a great past.

Addison began his Louisiana series last year with a painting of Asphodel Plantation in Jackson, La., a Feliciana ante bellum house which the late writer, Lyle Saxon, referred to as "Louisiana's little Jewel."

His second subject was Land's End, the ante bellum plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Mears in DeSoto Parish. Land's End was recently cited as a Louisiana landmark. The artist is currently at work on scenes in the Vieux Carre in New Orleans.

The Seven Oaks Mansion, once a splendid example of Greek Revival architecture, was built in 1830 for the widow of Michel Zeringue on land that was called Little Desert Plantation.

The designer is believed to have been Valentine von t as an almost complete square, surrounded by upper and lower galleries and twenty six plain brick-and-masonry Doric columns. The designer broke the severe lines of the hipped roof with eight dormers and four brick chimneys near the roof's apex and covered the outside walls with stucco. A Belvedere was added a few years later to afford a good view of boat movements on the Mississippi.

Seven Oaks has not only provided a stately home for a series of families, but it was once used as a night club known as Columbia Gardens. Patrons were brought across the river from New Orleans to the site by steamboat.

Historians of Louisiana have deplored the steady decline of Seven Oaks, and many have sought ways and means of restoring the showplace. Harnett Kane, New Orleans writer and historian, once dedicated time to the project, pledging the assistance of the Louisiana Landmarks Society to anyone with the capital to acquire the property for restoration. His efforts, like those of others before him, were not successful.

An old photograph of Seven Oaks in 1963 shows the mansion in good enough condition to warrant restoration. Two years later, in 1965, Hurricane Betsy dealt the house a staggering blow. In spite of the severe damage to the mansion, and trees around it, there still was hope that the house would be rescued from ruin.

Today, most of Seven Oaks' roof is caved in, and the Belvedere which provided the grand view of the river and the countryside, is completely gone. So are the grand doors and mantels, which were looted by vandals. Two of the four chimneys have fallen in and seven of the eight dormers. Most of the upper gallery has collapsed. The lower gallery, now floodless, has grown over with elderberries, poison ivy, honey suckle, wild flowers and weeds. The old house, even though near death, stands in silent dignity in the shadow of oil storage tanks and industrial plants. Occupants of automobiles speeding toward the river seem unaware of the old house swiftly crumbling in ruin.

The Robert Addison painting of Seven Oaks is on display at Riverside Galleries in Shreveport. For information on the artist and the heritage series, write C. M. Seales, Riverside, 3315 Line Avenue, Shreveport, La. 71104.

By BERNICE STEWART

Like a diorama, memory keeps shifting autumn scenes of my childhood on Grand Chenier.

I see small children seated on the high seat of a wagon. Extra sideboards have been attached to the vehicle. My grandfather and the hired men pull corn and toss it in. The golden sunlight of early morning slowly dissipates the haze that enshrouds the fields. The well-trained horses pull and stop in methodic rhythm down rows entangled with blossoms of crimson cypress and purple morning glories.

I hear the thud-thud of the ears of grain as they fall into the wagon. I shut my eyes and tell myself that they are the drum beats of an invisible band.

Distance and size are relevant, you know, and that wagon seat seems only a mile or so below the dome of heaven. I pretend that I am a princess sitting high on my throne. (Why should a princess be concerned about a faded little calico dress and scuffed shoes?)

The wagon is returned to the crib where the plump ears are to be stored. Grandfather lifts me down to earth. A small girl once more, I trot to the house for tea cakes and milk.

Another day, afternoon instead of morning, we mount our perch on the wagon seat. The men are bound for the hay field. We drive the horses; or, at least, we think we do. We cluck and "giddap!" we "gee" and "haw" as the faithful creatures perform the proper procedure in spite of our ill-timed commands.

Gathering hay is not quite as much fun as breaking corn, for we little ones grow weary as the day draws on. We remind ourselves of the fun we shall have later in playing hide-and-go-seek in the barn loft. We anticipate the delight of sliding down the haystack once it is built.

One day Grandfather announces that persimmons are ripening and that if we don't hurry "every little coon and his buddy" will be there ahead of us. We skip all the way down the lane that runs between the fields to the woods. We can hardly wait to taste the rich, pulpy fruit. In our eagerness we forget that persimmons not fully ripe will pucker one's lips. Distorted little mouths spew out the bitter and seek appeasement by devouring twice as many good ones as any adult might deem possible.

Now I come to my favorite scene of the old Chenier farm -- the two-hundred-tree orange grove. Men are gathering the green-gold fruit and storing it in slatted wooden crates with double compartments. These will be hauled by wagon to the boat landing five miles away for later shipping up the Mermentau River to Lake Arthur.

I see Great-Grandmother Catherine Stine Root (Aunt Dollie" as she is known in three parishes) holding up the hem of an ample apron tied about her waist as she fills it with choicest oranges. I know that she plans to add them to her store in the attic to be shared with the family after the trees have been stripped and the last crate shipped.

The scene shifts. Through the big field gate comes old "Uncle Josh" January, the Negro tenant on the place. He carries stalks of ripe Blue Ribbon cane. He peels one and cuts it into small peices for us children. Some of the sugary liquid dribbles down our chins.

We run about under the trees because we like to hear the rustle of fallen leaves or the crunch of acorns underfoot. We scoop up handfuls of red and brown leaves and fling them upon one another. We climb to the top of a pew fence and stretch to grasp an elusive garland of Spanish moss. We succeed. We chase one another with our moss lariats.

We are happy. The whole farm is our playground. The products of nature plus the keen imagination of children result in fascinating toys and games. We know that life abounds in sweetness and goodness, for the evidence is all about us.

I have come to the end of this panel of memory. In retrospect I know that we were blessed to have been Chenier children.

Natchitoches tour to be held Oct. 9 & 10

Secrets of the past will come to fore as the Ladies in Calico conduct the 17th annual Natchitoches Historical Tour Oct. 9 and 10.

Here is the oldest town in the entire Louisiana Purchase, autumn's brisk, crackling mornings are harbinger of bountiful harvests and good times. During the nationally famed pilgrimage presented the second weekend of each October, the Calico ladies will share Natchitoches' architectural heritage with visitors from throughout the country.

Headquarters, keeping tradition, will be Lemee House, on Jefferson Street, where smiling hostesses wearing long gowns will serve cups of that steaming aromatic coffee for which Louisiana is world renowned. Two tours are scheduled for both days of the 1971 pilgrimage. The "town" tour will be conducted 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Cane River "country" tour will be from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Tours will be $3 each, or both tours for $5. Students may take both tours for the single price of $2. Visitors will provide their own transportation and may move from site to site at will during the respective tours.

In town, hostesses will guide guests through the DeBlieux-Prudhomme Home, a pre-Civil War townhouse; the Laureate House on Poet Street, circa 1845, featuring handmade rugs and bedspreads crafted by the present owner; Roque House Museum, said to be the area's first schoolhouse; and the authentically restored Wells Home, Natchitoches' oldest home, built about 1776.

Two churches of historic interest, Trinity Episcopal Church and St. Francis of Assisi, are included on the tour. Leonidas Polk, known as the Fighting Bishop of the Civil War, laid the cornerstone for the Episcopal Church in 1857. The other was originally the Church of the Immaculate Conception, built in 1856.

A highlight of the Tour for many visitors each year is the annual fair of St. Augustine Church at Isle Brevelle. Lunch and supper are served, featuring homemade gumbo, hot tamales and the famous Natchitoches meat pie. Similar fare will also be available at St. Mary's Church in Cloutierville.

On the country tour of Cane River's plantation region, four homes will be open. Melrose, one of the most storied of Louisiana's antebellum homes, will once more be on tour. Questions about its inclusion this year had arisen because of its sale last year by the Henry family to Southdown, Inc. Tour visitors will be able to see, among other exceptional Melrose sites, African House, the only genuine African architecture in North America. On the walls of this upper story of this 18th century building remains the mural painted there by Melrose's modern day primitive painter, Miss Clementine Hunter.

Along the joyous Coast, between Natchitoches and Melrose, are other old plantations open to the public: Beau Fort, 1830, displaying its rare collection of old French Creole furniture and family heirlooms; and Oakland, begun in 1818, on land occupied since the 1750s by the Prudhomme family.

At Cloutierville, the former home of Kate Chopin is now the home of Bayou Folk Museum exhibiting mementoes of the region's early life, and its owner-hostess will greet visitors during the tour. The museum is also open Saturday and Sunday afternoons throughout the year.

For a tour brochure, write to Natchitoches Historic Tour, P. O. Box 2105, Natchitoches 71457; or the Louisiana Tourist Development Commission, P. O. Box 44291, Baton Rouge 70804.

Storm damage is light

By ELORA MONTIE

When the evacuation order was given last Wednesday afternoon for Hurricane Edith, Grand Chenier folks, remembering Hurricane Audrey 14 years ago, began packing belongings and leaving for higher grounds.

By 11 o'clock Wednesday night most all Grand Chenier was evacuated with the exception of a few who chose to ride out the storm.

Hurricane Edith hit Grand Chenier early Thursday morning. Electric clocks went off at ten minutes to five. Some men made their way back in the early afternoon after the hurricane had blown over. They reported highway passable but had to dodge fallen trees, power lines and poles.

Some folks started returning Thursday afternoon after the hurricane was over, while three-quarters of the folks returned Friday -- bringing drinking water along as there was no electricity to pump water.

They found their homes intact but many uprooted trees. Some houses will have to be reroofed. A few houses were shook up. Some window screens pulled off and a few screen doors pulled off. There were a few broken windows. The largest damage concerning homes was the trailer home of the LeRoy Henrys which was smashed.

The large crop of pecans which were almost matured, along with the oranges, grapefruit, and pears were lost as they were shaken to the ground.

Highway and electrical crews were called in from out of the parish to clear highways and restore electricity.

Children as well as grown-ups were kept very busy on returning. The humming of power saws were heard at most every home in the Grand Chenier area. Raking of fallen moss, leaves and smaller branches and shingles kept people busy.

The 10 inches of rain which fell left most all of the marshes and cattle ranges covered with water besides the tide water. The damage of the cattle range from both rain and tidewater has yet not been estimated. At many places the water has not yet receded.

All in all, the Chenier folks are so thankful to find their homes still standing.

We all hope and pray we have had our share of storms for this season.

Hunts featured by newspaper

(EDITOR'S NOTE--The Murphy Hunt family of Port Arthur, who have many relatives and friends in Cameron parish, were featured in the Father's Day issue of the Port Arthur News earlier this year. We thought that friends here would be interested in the story.)

On a quiet, tree-shaded street in Groves, the patriarchal tradition persists. The Murphy Hunt family numbers 14 children, from six years of age on up.

The Hunts are teaching their children good citizenship and are proud of them. "There is no animosity and they love each other", says Mr. Hunt. The Hunts have been in scouting for years; Mr. Hunt has been a Boy Scout worker for 31 years and was awarded the Silver Beaver. Mrs. Hunt has been a den mother for 16 1/2 years. There are three Eagle Scouts in the family. The older children look after the younger and the nine grandchildren are being taught to do the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were born and raised in the Port Arthur area. Mrs. Hunt was one of 10 children and is serene in the face of noise and childish quarrels.

The children are: Mrs. Harvey (Kathie) Patrick, 28, mother of two children, employed in the U. S. Coast Guard Marine Inspection office; Mrs. Tom (Sandra) Deahom, 27, mother of three children, employed in the draft board office; Emery, 24, veteran of the U. S. Coast Guard, father of two children; Mrs. Roland (Margaret) Kennedy, 22, mother of two children, employed in the U. S. Customs office in Port Arthur; Murphy, 21, in the U. S. Coast Guard, stationed in Houston; Jim, 19, employed by Daisy Queen in Groves. Jim was awarded the Medal of Merit by the Boy Scouts of America and the American Legion Medal of Valor for helping save the life of the victim of a motorcycle crash in Groves, in 1971.

Also, Bonnie, 17, student at Port Neches-Groves high school and a member of the band; Richard, 15, student at PN-G high school, a member of the Sea Explorers, Ship 86; Ruth, 14, student at Groves junior high school; Allen, 13, student at Groves junior high school, and a First Class scout, Troop 86; Micky, 11, student at Groves junior high school and a Second Class scout, Troop 86.

And, Benny, 10, student at Groves elementary school, a Webelos scout; Gene, 8, student at Groves elementary school, and a Cub scout. Joe, 6, is a student at Groves elementary, also.

Feed grain acreage preserved

Charles S. Hackett, Calcasieu-Cameron ASCS County Executive Director, reminds farmers in the biparish area who are enrolled in the Feed Grain program that their cropland, feed grain base, and allotment acreage may be preserved, even though it was not planted to a feed grain if it meets certain provisions.

It may be established in a conservation practice. Vegetative cover practices (excluding trees) established and maintained under REAP, or comparable practices carried out without Federal cost-sharing. Qualifying standards apply equally to farms with or without allotments or feed grain bases so far as preservation of cropland, Hackett said.

The practice may be an annual cover crop or one of a more enduring type. It must have been established after Nov. 3, 1965, and must be carried out in accordance with good farming practices.

The producer must request preservation in the year in which the cover is established. The county committee may accept a request in a later year if the producer can establish to the satisfaction of the committee that the cover was established after Nov. 3, 1965.

Hackett said this could be a very important consideration to feed grains wishing to maintain their acreage history.

Around the Capitol

By JACK GOULD

BATON ROUGE -- Prisons:

Anyone remember "Old Wooden Ear," one William E. Sadler? Years ago he spent half of his time working for Louisiana newspapers -- and the other half in Angola.

We just got a timely letter from him, marked "Inspected by Rio Cosumnes Correctional Center, Elk Grove, California." (Still at it!):

"Dear Jack:

"Once in a blue moon a letter such as this gets written because, for one thing, a pen just isn't my forte, and for another, there's the time it takes to say what I want to say. So you'll understand the letter -- at least -- is obviated since I'm winding up a 6-months hitch in this man's sneezer for first-degree birls, and the subject matter herein is definitely allied to these quarters -- wall-to-wall carpeting of which is Portland Axminster.

"I've been reading you laud and clear for many months via my friend Jim Robinson's St. Francisville 'Democrat,' and I'm often amused and always entertained by your reflections of what's going on at the Capitol. You deserve a much wider readership -- I assure you!

"Jack, how far back can you stretch your memory? To May-June, 1943, and a month-long expose of the old, brutal conditions at Angola? I wrote it, and, backed by the corroborative findings of Gov. Sam Jones' blue-ribbon investigative committee (Archbishop Joseph Rummel of New Orleans, Dr. Dodd of the Baptist Seminary in Shreveport, and Charley Dunbar, head of the newly-formed Civil Service Commission in Baton Rouge) penal reform in Louisiana was off to a flying start.

"My employer and mentor, Ralph Nicholson, then publisher of the old New Orleans Item, pushed this penal reform over the years (A. N. C. Heywood Broun Award, 1945) until the culmination in 1952 with the election of Bob Kennon as Governor and the completion, in 1955, of a new $9 1/2 million, confinement complex at Angola -- plus the hiring of Reed Cozart, M. H. Sigler, and N. H. Maynard from the U. S. Bureau of Prisons.

"So, with this rather extensive introduction, you'll know this writer as 'Old Wooden Ear," feature writer on the Item, associate editor of John Thistlethwaite's Daily World, Editor-founder of the Angolite, who was, himself beaten deaf by an Angola official in 1938. Few officials, and no inmates, know the penitentiary as I know it, and certainly no persons -- even Margaret Dixon -- has its interest and welfare at heart as I have, and therefore this letter.

"I'm appalled, Jack, about what I've read and heard of current conditions at Angola! Jim Robinson tells me the place has reverted, morale-wise, to the old brutal days of which I wrote, and every issue of Jim's paper seems to reflect additional unrest; work stoppages; killings, by inmate guards -- What's happening? Who's to blame?

"Would you believe that at one time Angola morale was so high that all the gates could have been unlocked and all the guards discharged, yet not a single solitary convict would have escaped! Why? What could be done to bring this penal - Utopia back into being again? Listen, please.

"Angola has 28,000 acres. It is a farm - not a prison -- and one of the main reasons it has retrogressed, is because officialdom has tried to make it solely a prison. The new plant -- completed in 1955 -- was designed to centralize all activities: industries, feeding and housing, behind one high fence. Room for a maximum population of 2,400 with solitary cells for the 5 percent "mess-ups" who always are present to this extent in any prison.

"Agriculture, the normal occupation of Angola, was down-graded. The prison planners who envisioned this centralization couldn't have been more wrong! Wouldn't it have been infinitely better and wiser to have -- even in these days -- 24 units, or camps, all based on farming instead of make-work industry?

"Split up that 5 percent of rotten apples -- 120 men -- five to a camp -- could they then be better controlled than by putting them all in the same barrel -- in solitary segregation -- as was done then and as is being done now?

"My opponents to this idea always advance logistics, citing these as the basis for unfeasibility to the establishment of 24 units; which would you prefer -- logistics or a humane environment?

"It goes without saying that the continuance of the convict guard system is an everlasting shame to Louisiana. It should have been abolished long ago. But if the state refuses to pay more than $300 per month for free guards, it deserves just what it gets -- a passel of semi-literate swamp-billies whose idea of rehabilitation is limited to a club and brutality. The state cannot hire humane, enlightened personnel by paying a below-subsistence salary.

"A new deal is needed at Angola, Jack," and I hope you'll find both time and space to pick up the cudgel!"

LESLIE AND Michael Prescott, Johnson Bayou 4-H club members, here receive ribbons from Miss Patsy Granger, extension agent, for the posters they entered in the state dairy poster contest.

Wildlife refuges have extensive damages

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, today announced that Hurricane Edith caused serious and extensive damage to wildlife refuges and marshaland habitat in the south central, coastal region of the state.

Hoffpauer stated that heavy damage to levees, water control structures and roads on the Rockefeller, Marsh Island and State Wildlife Refuges was caused by high tides, wave wash and currents.

He further stated that Edith destroyed a sizeable portion of this year's waterfowl food supply, in the lower marshes of Southwest Louisiana and dispersed the transient blue-wing teal population, in the south-central portion of the state, causing poor hunting when the season opened Saturday.

Edith also caused some fish kills in the southwest Louisiana marshes; resulted in deer and nutria being drowned by storm tides and completely submerged the Marsh Island Wildlife Refuge. Some 200 oaks and hackberry trees were uprooted from the sea rim at Marsh Island.

Hoffpauer added that this damage was reduced by Commission agents, who worked before, during and after the storm to minimize losses, and also stated that up to this time, surveys have not revealed damage to oyster and shrimp crops.

Berton Boudreaux Knight of the Month

Berton Boudreaux was named Knight of the Month of Knights of Columbus, Our Lady Star of the Sea Council No. 5461. Boudreaux was cited for work performed on the church property recently and continuous assistance in council projects.

Boudreaux is presently serving the Cameron KC Council as advocate. He is a field foreman for Continental Oil Company at Grand Chenier.

James LeBoeuf reported that the council had sponsored six boys and girls to Camp Mary Hill Youth Camp near Alexandria. District Deputy Pat Doland, attending the meeting, praised the Cameron KC Council for having the best percentage of their quota of boys and girls attending the camp from this district.

Members approved to have the Knight of the Year award banquet Sunday evening, Nov. 28, at the Cameron Recreation Center. Grand Knight Claude Hebert appointed a committee to obtain a speaker and meal preparations for the banquet.

Grand Knight Hebert asked for volunteers to do work on the parish center building every Saturday. Anyone wishing to donate their time on Saturdays are asked to contact either him or Deputy Grand Knight James R. LeBoeuf.

Members were reminded that the District meeting would be in Cameron on Thursday evening, Oct. 21. A monthly newsletter will continue to be mailed out to all KC members of Our Lady Star of Sea, Grand Knight Hebert reported.

A meal was prepared and served to the 27 members present by Rev. Alcide Sonnier and Tony Cheramie.

Acerage approved for winter cover crops

The Cameron ASCS County Committee met in the Cameron courthouse this week and considered the applications of 138 Cameron parish farms for acreage under conservation practice D-1-Winter Cover Crop, to establish a vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion.

Francis Klein, chairman of the local committee said that the acreage ceiling for Cameron parish was 3, 401 acres. Each farm making application was considered and the acreage issued accordingly.

Klein said that the local office is now working on issuing the approvals and purchase orders and expects to have them out to the farmers by the end of the month. He also asked that the farmers not become impatient because they have not as yet received their approvals since the workload due to the heavy demand for seed and fertilizer is very great this year.

COFFEEWEED SPRAYING

The annual coffeeweed spraying has been set for Saturday, July 17. Anyone interested should contact the A.S.C.S. office for cost-share benefits.

Power was restored by Sunday evening

Jeffemon Davis Electric Cooperative, Inc. reports all rural services were restored by Sunday night following Hurricane Edith, including those in Cameron parish.

Manager J. S. Robbins credited advance preparation, consumer cooperation and dedication of employees who worked around-the-clock for the quick restoration of service.

In anticipation of the worst, after the experiences of Hurricane Audrey which killed over 500 people and demolished the Co-op's facilities in Cameron parish, Manager Robbins said help had been recruited in advance of Edith through the State Association's Emergency Aid program and from construction companies familiar with marsh conditions.

Assisting in the emergency work were crews from Beauregard Electric Cooperative, DeRidder; Valley Electric Cooperative, Natchitoches; Bossier Rural Electric, Bossier City; and Claiborne Electric Co-op, Homer. Special appreciation was also expressed by Robbins to R. D. Cooper Construction Co., Glaser Construction and Gulf Coast Construction Co.

Prior to the storm, all employees had been evacuated from the Cameron area, plus important files from the Cameron office. Radio contact was quickly re-established following the passage of the eye over Cameron.

Due to the advance preparation and assistance, most services had been restored in Jeff Davis Parish and areas north of the Inter-Coastal Canal by Thursday night with completion Friday evening. Final completion followed in Cameron parish Sunday night.

Robbins stated that damage in Cameron parish was much less than anticipated with few poles washed or blown down.

"The spirit of the people down there, and their cooperation is a credit to this State and nation," he added.

County Agent Report

MANGROVE SPRAYING

The recent mangrove spraying conducted on the Edrus Nunez farm at Creole was very successful. The herbicide used, namely 2, 4, 5-T, like most herbicide is a contact kill only. It will only control the present growth as it has no residual effect.

There will no doubt be future growth of mangrove on the sprayed areas just like coffeeweed comes back in future years after sprayed.

The results of Bermuda grass growth is amazing in this mangrove sprayed area as compared to the adjacent area not sprayed. The bermuda that was once struggling to grow directly under the brush is now nearly half the height of the dead mangrove brush while the grass under the mangroves in the unsprayed area remains stunted.

We now feel like we have enough control data to recommend the spraying of mangrove bushes with the formula used.

T. B. MEETING

There will be an important meeting of all cattlemen in lower Cameron Parish on Thursday, July 15, at the Cameron Elementary School. Doctors Hester, Henderson and Wheeler will explain the past, present and future status of T. B. in Cameron Parish.

Progress is being made in some herds while others are remaining somewhat on the same level with little or no progress, creating much concern to the cattle industry.

FROM BLIGHT TO BORER

The Southern Corn Leaf Blight posed a tremendous problem on corn production last year, but appears to be a very minor problem at this time. However, the European Corn Borer is making its appearance at the present time and is causing much concern in the corn belt. There is no control for the borer once they get

Why do we have wedding cakes and why must they be white? The tradition has its roots in antiquity when wheat — the symbol of fecundity — was used in marriage ceremonies as part of fertility rites.

Bread eventually replaced wheat in tradition and the Romans used to break a loaf of their finest white bread, called a "cake," over the bride's head. The custom was carried to England where it eventually took the form of every guest bringing a sweet bun to break over the bride's head. Any crumbs that fell were eaten for luck.

When brides objected to this "old-fashioned" practice, there evolved the tradition of heaping all the bread in one big pile over which the bride and groom stretched to kiss. Then a progressive London baker sweetened the service even further by icing the pile of sweet buns. One step more found the buns conveniently baked as a single "cake." Thus our modern, tiered wedding cake.

COUNTY AGENT

Numerous people have asked me what they could use to control mosquitoes around their place. Frankly, the answer is nothing.

There are a few chemcials that will give a very temporary relief. They are Malathion 57% emulsifiable concentrate at the rate of 5 oz. per gallon of water or diesel oil applied as a residual spray or Baytex 45% at the rate of 2-4 fluid oz. per gallon of water or diesel oil.

Anyone of the following may be mixed with one gallon of diesel oil (mix diesel oil - 4 parts to 1 part aromatic hydrocarbon) and applied as a fog: 5 oz. of Malathion 57% ec., 1.3 oz. of Dibrom 14 85% c, 1.3 oz. Baytex 45% sc or 1 oz. of Dursban-M 40% ec.

Again, the above will offer a very short relief period. Also, they will become immune to the above chemicals if the same one is used continuously. Since a single mosquito can lay from 300 to 400 eggs every three or four days for a period of up to seven weeks in some species, this could make a tremendous number of chemical resistant mosquitoes.

The California mosquito situation and the Tobacco Bud Worm in Mexico that has completely put cotton farmers out of business are ideal examples of insects building up resistance to chemicals. At the present time, California has no way of controlling mosquitoes as the mosquitoes there have become immune to insecticides. This came about as a result of improper control methods. However, through a scientific program mosquitoes become less numerous from year to year.

It is impossible to ever get a 100 percent control because if such a goal was set, the mosquitoes would become immune to insecticides. The present method of applying Malathion 97% c at the rate of 3 oz. per acre with Ultra-Low-Volume (ULV) equipment at a speed in excess of 150 miles per hour to get the proper size particle has been proven very effective. It must however be applied at the proper life stage of the mosquito and also applied in the proper area or else they will build up immunity in addition to getting poor results from the application.

As for livestock, the same can be expected - very little benefit from spraying. Temporary relief, possibly 15 minutes, is achieved, depending upon how heavy the infestation is. Sprays containing Pyrethrins would be the one to use. However, the mosquitoes will become completely immune to it much quicker than what the horn flies will when using the same insecticide continuously.

Once an internal or external parasite or insect becomes immune to a certain insecticide, it becomes very difficult to control it with another insecticide even though it would have been just as easy to control it with that one at the onset. This alarms me with our present pesticide banding.

Damages to parish are $1 1 2 million

Damages to Cameron parish roads, channels and personal property from Hurricane Edith probably exceeded $1 1/2 million, it was estimated this week by the parish police jury.

The jury held a special meeting Wednesday to receive reports on the damage and also to look into question of seeking federal assistances in repairing roads and channels.

A federal disaster team was in the parish this week surveying the damage done by the storm and also inspected the area by air.

Three jury officials, W. F. Henry, Jr., president; Jerry Jones, secretary; and Jennings Jones, legal advisor, met with Gov. John McKeithen Monday to discuss federal assistance for the parish and also to see if the flood insurance program can be modified so that it will not cost coastal residents so much.

Most of the damage in the parish from the storm was to roofs, trees and utility lines, although there were several trailer homes and businesses damaged.

Boat fire

The Cameron volunteer fire department answered a call to a fire on a shrimp boat owned by James "Pep" LeBlanc of Cameron which was anchored at the Trosclair canning company dock.

Through the prompt action of the fire department, the damage was contained to the cabin section of the boat. The fire was caused by the exhaust system.

Teal season was poor here

By ELORA MONTIE

Teal season ended Sunday, September 26 and for many sportsmen it was one of the poorest in the past few years.

With all the water in the marshes left by Hurricane Edith sportsmen found that the ducks had left for higher ground. Most the hunters were local folks, with very few out of parish hunters.

The water is receding very slowly and some leases in the front marshes have water approximately three to four feet deep. They hope by the time of the second hunting season, Nov. 11, that the water will have gone down some.

One reason for so much water in the front marsh was not only from rain but also from the Gulf's high tides. This did damage not only to the hunting grounds but to fur bearing land also.

Hunters with leases in the north marshes state that there is a large crop of wildlife feed such as duck moss and wildrice. This is due to the marshes drying up during the summer.

Gilbert Mudd is top shooter

In the women's division Shirley Trahan was first; Linda Dahlen, 2nd; and Janie Trahan, 3rd.

A meeting of the club will be held in the Civic room of the Calcasieu Marine National Bank in Cameron, Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m. Schwark urged all members to be present to plan events the local club will be in charge of at the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival in January.

Mason honored

On Saturday, Sept. 25, the members of Thelma Hackett Chapter #225 OES honored Master Masons of Cameron Lodge #439 F&AM with a supper at the Cameron Masonic Lodge.

All Master Masons and their wives, visiting Masons and members of Thelma Hackett Chapter and their husbands were invited.

Edwards urges flood insurance

Congressman Edwin W. Edwards has suggested that parishes in the 7th District give closer attention to the provisions of the federal flood insurance program.

In a letter to presidents of seven police juries in his District, Edwards, in the aftermath of Hurricane Edith, last week encouraged the police juries to study the program which was established to make limited amounts of flood insurance available to property owners by means of a federal subsidy.

"The flood insurance program is not a cure-all," said Edwards, "but it can be an important step in protecting homeowners who are unable to obtain private protection at a reasonable cost."

"If the police jury desires to pursue this matter and adopts the initial resolution, I shall certainly be glad to do what I can to have your application processed as speedily as possible," continued Edwards.

A community may qualify for eligibility by submitting to the Federal Insurance Administrator in the Department of Housing and Urban Development a complete application which meets all of the requirements governing the flood insurance program.

The Act requires that state and local governments adopt and enforce land use and control measures that will guide future development of land in flood prone areas in order to avoid or reduce future flood drainage.

Cameron Parish and the City of Crowley in Acadia Parish have already qualified for the program.

Emergency funds asked for farms

A decision to recommend that Cameron Parish be declared a disaster area and a request that emergency funds be made available through the REAP program for emergency reconstruction of cattle walkways was made by the Cameron Parish Disaster committee which met last week in the Cameron courthouse.

Francis Klein, chairman, reported that the crop damage in the Klondike area was limited due to the fact that all of the rice in the community was harvested prior to Hurricane Edith. He stated that soy beans and grain sorghum will be damaged, but to what extent it is still unknown.

Charles Hackett, ASCS County Executive Director, reported that there are several fields of rice in the Sweetlake community that have not been harvested and are down on the ground. He also stated that with the continuous rainy weather that has followed Hurricane Edith, the farmers are experiencing difficulties in harvesting the remaining rice. It can be expected that the grade will be reduced by the weather damage. Also, some soybean and sorghum damage has been done in the Sweetlake area.

Clifford Myers, County Agent, and Terry Clement, Soil Conservation Service Representative both reported that severe damage had been done to the cattle walkways in lower Cameron Parish. The damage was done by the excessive rain, measuring around 12 inches, driven by winds of 90 miles per hour and possibly higher.

Also, wave action washed many of the foundations away in some areas. The water and waves actually went over the top of the walkways in many areas. Some of the walkways are so severely damaged that they will be unserviceable. Much of the damage is just now becoming apparent since the water is now receding.

The recommendation to ask for the emergency funds has been forwarded on to the state disaster committee by the local group. They also recommended that emergency loans be made available through Farmers Home Administration.

Farmer of year to be selected

Roland J. Trosclair Jr., president of the Cameron Lions Club, announced that the local club is taking on a new project, the selection of the "Farmer of the Year".

The farmer selected will be honored by the local club and will be given a plaque during "Farm-City Week". Trosclair said it will be a rotating award with the farmer being selected having to wait 10 years before being considered again for the award.

Letters were sent this week to Cameron parish farmers from the local county agent Clifford Myers asking them to submit names of a Cameron Parish crop farmer and/or a cattleman to be honored.

In making the selection, farmers are asked to consider the following guideline: Kind of operation, success of operation, use of recommended practices in operation, civic and church activities, and size of operation. These are only some of the things to be considered in making the final decisions.

The 10 farmers receiving the most votes will be asked to fill out a form describing their operation. The "Farmer of the Year" will be selected from the 10 top farmers nominated.

Any farmer or rancher not receiving a letter and wishing to make a nomination can contact Clifford Myers in the County Agent office.

ASCS communities combined

A decision was made last week at a meeting of the Cameron ASCS County Committee to reduce the number of communities in the ASCS operation from five to three.

Francis Klein, chairman of the local agricultural agency, said this was done after the committee discussed the situation with T. H. McClelland, ASCS District Director, who met with the committee.

The new communities will be:

No. 1 composed of Sweetlake and the Klondike-Lowery areas, composed of 150 farms. This includes the area north of the intercoastal canal and bordered on the west by the Calcasieu river.

Community No. 2 composed of the Cameron, Creole, Oak Grove and Grand Chenier areas, composed of 322 farms. The community includes all of the area south of the Intercoastal canal and bordered on the west by the Calcasieu river.

Community No. 3 is composed of the Johnson Bayou and Hackberry areas with 100 farms, which is the whole western end of the parish west of the Calcasieu river.

Three community committeemen will be selected from each of these communities in the committee election. There will now be 9 committeemen instead of the 15 as in the past.

These communities will be used in the upcoming ASCS committee elections which will take place in November and December of this year. The local committee reviewed the election calendar of events and set the date of Dec. 7, 1971, as the date the ballots will be counted in the local ASCS office in Cameron.

Attending the meeting in addition to Klein were county committee members Joe G. Boudoin from Creole, Herman Precht from Sweet Lake, McClelland from Crowley, and Charles S. Hackett, Cameron-Calcasieu county executive director.

Klein said the decision to make the change was due to economic and other reasons.

Community 1 - 150 farms
Community 2 - 322 farms
Community 3 - 100 farms
Total 572 farms

Letter to Ed

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my gratitude to the Jeff Davis Electric Company employees in our Parish who worked such long and hard hours to restore electricity to our homes. Every hour without electricity is difficult, and there are those of us who are far from being patient or mute. To counter-act the complaints, may I say to the Line Superintendent, to the Ladies in the office and the men in the field, "Thank you, very much."

Sincerely,
Martha Fontenot

Collection features Jayhawker bottles

The "Jayhawkers" in Southwest Louisiana during and immediately after the Civil War well deserved the scorn and contempt in which they were held by the Confederate soldiers, veterans and the citizens of the area.

They terrorized the women, children and the old folks, who remained at home while the men were engaged in military combat with the Federals.

They were usually deserters from the Confederate Army. They would hide out in the marshes and pillage the countryside for food and provisions when they knew the calvary was not around.

It is from the remains of one of these "Jayhawker" hideouts that the Terry J. Clement family found their very first antique bottle to start their vast bottle collection that is now on display in the Cameron library.

Also featured in the collection are other old whiskey bottles, ink and bitters bottles found near the Evangeline oil field.

The field was discovered and was the first oil well brought in in Louisiana, Sept. 21, 1901, on land belonging to Clement's grandfather, Jules Clement Sr., by W. Scott Howard, a one-time Alaska gold prospector.

One very interesting bottle in the collection is the "thief bottle", so called because embossed on it is the words, "We pay for evidence convicting thieves for refilling our bottles". It is of iridescent hue and is from the A. M. & B Co. of Waco, Tex., and St. Louis, Mo.

There are 3 cornered poison bottles in amber and cobalt. Mrs. Clement explained that the reason the bottles were shaped with the 3 corners was so a person could tell by the shape without having to read the label that the bottle contained poison.

There is a rare milk glass canning jar which was a commercial bottle used for pickles that was so packaged for use on the table.

There are several bottles in the rare blue glass. Cobalt was used to color glass in the 1800's, but as newer uses became evident for cobalt, and as it began to be used in cancer research, it became more valuable and was not used again to color glass. Substitutes were used to color it blue.

The Clements have over 1000 rare bottles in their collection, all with applied tops, no screws. All are dated before the 1900's. They say that their interesting hobby is one that the whole family enjoys doing together.

Mrs. Coral Perry, Cameron parish librarian, invites everyone to come by the local library and view the interesting display which is in glass cases in the foyer.

Mr. LaBove is buried

Funeral services for Vick LaBove, 65, were held at 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 2, from Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

The Rev. F. J. Webert, pastor, officiated. Burial was in the church cemetery under direction of O'Donnell Funeral Home of Creole.

Mr. LaBove died at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday of apparent heart failure.

A lifelong resident of Cameron Parish, he was a retired carpenter and a member of Knights of Columbus Council 3014 of Creole. He was a member of the Cattleman's Association, Farm Bureau and the Woodmen of the World.

Cleanup is in progress

By ELORA MONTIE

With the good weather last week Grand Chenier folks remained very busy cleaning up after Hurricane Edith. Many completed cleaning up the fallen branches and uprooted trees, while others began reroofing homes.

Insurance adjusters were also around this past week, making settlements on insurance claims.

While cleaning their yards, many folks were not only bothered with mosquitoes but also by fire ants. Some were bitten and infection set in.

With the rain received before the storm, grass grew rapidly and folks here also stayed busy with mowing machines.

Float is planned

The Richard Brothers American Legion Post No. 176 met last week at the post home in Creole. Jules Dronet, Post Commander was in charge.

Dronet announced that W. R. Smith, Cameron parish superintendent of schools, would be invited to address the next meeting of the Post, Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. Smith will be asked to review the school situation in Cameron parish. The public will be invited to attend.

Prior to the meeting a supper, prepared by Mrs. Ena Dronet and Mrs. Nelva Theriot, was served to the Post and members of the ladies auxiliary of the Post.

IT TAKES TEAMWORK, FELLOWS!

AGILITY, ALERTNESS, strength and a keen spirit of cooperation—these are the essential ingredients that serve up delightful dishes of teamwork in exciting football competition and which draw grand "Hoorays" from fans for their favorite teams!

Yes, the name of the game is teamwork, a sparkplug well-known to the people who founded, own and operate the Rural Electric Co-ops in Louisiana. Like football, the challenge to electrify the rural areas of our state demanded courage and dedicated spirit. And these virtues prevailed in abundance among farmers and rural citizens who took on the job of organizing their own non-profit service institutions when commercial power companies declined service outside lucrative urban areas.

Just as we're proud of long winning streaks piled up by our favorite football teams, we're enthusiastic over Louisiana's 13 Rural Electric Co-ops' outstanding record of supplying good electric service at the lowest possible costs and offering rural people the comforts of life formerly enjoyed only by city folks.

The Rural Electric record speaks for itself. The Co-ops have "blitzed" through the once-darkened countryside with such remarkable courage that total area coverage today is better than 99 per cent, compared to less than a dim 2 per cent just 30 years ago.

You can see the results of the locally-owned and managed, tax-paying Electric Co-ops everywhere—in growing new subdivisions with modern housing, the latest in mechanized farming and in bustling new industry—all contributing to better life in both town and country.

By BERNICE STEWART

Hurricane Edith, it seems, exercised a feminene perogative to change her cyclonic mind and, consequently, take an unexpected and rather aimless course as she fussed and fumed along areas of the Caribbean Sea and Gulf of Mexico.

Like other storms of her kind since the beginning of time, she was unwelcomed and feared. Her brief sojourn in our area created enough destruction to make her remembered for a long time and to keep the residents busy for days clearing away the wreckage of trees and repairing the damage to telephone and electric lines and mobile homes. She left in her wake the lifeless bodies of thousands of native birds. But she will not be ranked among the notorious killer storms of history.

Her greated damage was caused through her tornado offspring, such as the one that struck the welding shop at the intersection of Louisiana 27 and Ridge Road near Cameron.

Hurricanes occur from June to November. Generally they are most frequent in September, with August a close runner-up. However, one of our worst storms was Audrey that struck on June 27, 1957, taking a toll of more than 500 lives in Cameron Parish.

And on Oct. 12, 1886, a terrible hurricane swept Johnson's Bayou, taking at least 85 liver and drowning 6,000 head of cattle. Sabine Pass in Texas suffeted about the same fate as did the Bayou. Both hurricanes -- the one of 1886 and that of 1957-- were so similar in structure, timing, velocity, and destruction that the description of the one could very aptly be used for that of the other except for location and scope.

The Great Galveston disaster occured on Sept. 8, 1900, killing 6,000 persons. A few old seamen and weathermen tried to warn the populace the day before that the clouds and massive swell of water indicated trouble ahead. They were ignored. People continued to run and bathe, work and attend parties as usual.

Just after midnight the wind and swells hit the island. Then the hurricane struck in all its fury. There was no way of escape. The people of Galveston Island were trapped and doomed. The Complete Story of the Galveston Horror, written by the survivors and edited by John Coulter was for yeas a popular volume in homes of South Louisiana and Texas.

Lafcadio Hearn in his book Chita gives an accurate and vivid account of the great hurricane which literally cut Isle Demiere in two in 1856. The tragedy of Cheniere Caminada occurred in 1893.

In August of 1915, a hurricane destroyed 99 homes out of 100 in one of our Louisiana coastal towns. Cameron Parish suffered extensive wind and water damage then. The hurricane of 1918 unleashed scores of tornadoes upon both Cameron and Calcasieu, resulting in enormous destruction.

As late as November, 1932, a storm tide, following a hurricane, drowned 2,500 persons at Santa Cruz del Sur in Cuba.

Hurricane Hazel in October, 1954, was the last of a two-month series of unusually severe hurricanes.

In 1963, from September 30 to Oct. 8, Flora threshed Cuba, killing more than 1,000 people. Then on Sept. 8, 1964, Dora lashed a hundred miles of the Florida coast. Exactly a year later Hurricane Betsy killed 75 in Louisiana.

From Sept. 7-12 in 1967, Beulah played havoc along the coasts of Texas and Mexico, taking the lives of 17 people.

Camille, which began in Louisiana, Mississipi, and Alabama on Aug. 17, 1969, and swept out to sea a week later, belongs in the line-up of major disasters of all time. Thousands were left homeless. The death toll was set at 170. Small river towns were completely obliterated. Three ocean-going ships were plucked from their moorings and then dropped like discarded toys on the beach.

Robert H. Simpson, Chief of the National Hurricane Center, said of Camille: "By any yardstick, Hurricane Camille was the greatest storm of any kind that has ever affected this nation.

Last year it was Corpus Christi, Tex., that bore the brunt of 161 m.p.h. Celia that killed nine and caused property damage of over $500 million.

They come and they go, these merciless, vindictive old gale of the sea. They are rpawned in fury and nurtured in violence. They scourge and destroy whatever lies in their path. Yet, in the end they are spent by their own intensity and fade away into oblivion.

McDonald reported that the new equipment purchased by the association was installed on the playground for the opening of school and is being enjoyed by all the students.

The annual Harvest Festival was discussed by the group and the date of Nov. 12 was set for the event.

Change made in food program

Leonard Sonnier, Cameron Parish Welfare visitor, announced that due to recent changes in the federal food stamp program, certain changes will be in effect for the Cameron Parish Welfare office.

There has been a changeover to the computer system, Sonnier said, and as a consequence, the old food stamp identification cards are now obsolete.

For the convenience of those holding these cards, Sonnier will be making the rounds in the parish with Mrs. Wanda Ratcliff, parish food stamp coordinator. He will distribute new identification cards. Sonnier stressed the fact that the cards have to be signed by the recipients in his presence and that they cannot be mailed in.

Monday, Oct. 11, the local office will be closed all day and the visitor will be in the Hackberry community.

Tuesday, Oct. 12, the local office will be closed in the morning while visitor will be in the Grand Chenier area.

Wednesday, Oct. 13, the office will be closed in the morning while visitor is the Sweetlake area at Young's grocery store at Hackett's corner.

Ferry featured

The 50-car Cameron ferry, "Cameron II", on the ship channel at Cameron is featured in the October issue of the Louisiana Highway News. It points out that the ferry is considered to be the number one tourist attraction in Cameron Parish.

It is operated and maintained by the La. Department of Highways and is the largest ferry in the state maintained by the department.

SCS responsible police jury says

The Cameron police jury Monday voted to write the Soil Conservation Service advising the agency that it would be responsible for any flooding that might be caused by water control structures built for the Cameron-Creole Small Watershed project.

W. F. Henry, Jr., police jury president and also a member of the Cameron drainage board, said that he believed that the flood gates recommended for the project by the SCS engineers were inadequate to drain off the water during excessive rains such as during Hurricane Edith recently.

The jury's letter asked the SCS to reject its engineering and make sure that the gates were large enough.

Henry said he asked for the jury's action as he pointed out that the jury was a co-sponsor of the project.

"We don't want the people to blame us for flooding," he sated. "We are going to put the monkey on their (SCS) back."
