The signs were made possible by a monetary donation from the Hokkaido, Japan Scenic Byways Program.

Wetland Walkway reopens on Sabine Wildlife Refuge

Nearly 2-1/2 years after that infamous Sept. 24, both visitors and wildlife are coming back to the Creole Nature Trail All-American Road. The re-opening of the Wetland Walkway at Sabine National Wildlife Refuge is the latest triumph for the area, but more are in the pipeline.

"It's been a long haul," says Creole Nature Trail District Chairman Monte Hurley, "but this area, and way of life, is worth the fight." An unanticipated Enhancements Grant, received in early March, allowed the Creole Nature Trail to accept the bid to repair the two turn-outs south of the Sabine Refuge--completing the west side of the trail from Sulphur to just before Holly Beach. "The Creole Nature Trail is very fortunate to have supporters who believe in the trail as strongly as we do" continues Hurley.

Another grant from the Federal Highway Administrations competitive National Scenic Byways grants has provided funding to build a walkway and observation tower at Pintail Drive on Cameron Prairie National Wildlife Refuge. "The plans have been drawn but are going through some final tweaks before being sent to the Department of Transportation for bidding," reports Capt. Sammie Faulk, Vice Chairman of the Creole Nature Trail District. "The plans should be at DOTD for their review and approval by late spring, and we hope to have bids in by the end of this year so that construction of the walkway can begin in 2009."

In addition to re-building efforts and due to Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding obtained by the Southwest Louisiana Convention & Visitors Bureau, the Creole Nature Trail is also in the process of compiling a new promotional video to attract visitors, and visitor dollars, to the area. "Now, more than ever, it is critical that we educate visitors on the role our coastal wetlands play in the food-chain and economy of this nation," says Faulk.

The Creole Nature Trail National Scenic Byway District board is moving forward to secure land and obtain funding for a center in Cameron Parish which will be associated with the National Hurricane Museum and Science Center located in Calcasieu Parish. The Cameron Parish facility will memorialize the losses sustained due to Hurricane Audrey in 1957 and Hurricane Rita in 2005, and will be yet another reason for persons to visit the Creole Nature Trail. According to Faulk, "We feel that it is important that the first pearl in the string for the National Hurricane Museum and Science Center be based in Cameron Parish as the devastation of Hurricane Audrey was the reason for the initial project."

"The Creole Nature Trail is unique in its culture, heritage, and resources--and preservation of these is imperative," says Hurley. Faulk concurs, saying "It is our hope that the people of Cameron and Southwest Louisiana will become more involved in the mission of the Creole Nature Trail. Without active support, the trail could not have accomplished these projects, and we need new blood in the organization to sustain the forward momentum and preservation efforts for the enjoyment of future generations."

Japanese fund replacement of alligator crossing signs

Through the generosity of a group of Japanese engineers who toured the Creole Nature Trail All-American Road in 2004, the distinctive alligator crossing signs--lost in Hurricane Rita--have been replaced.

Representatives of the Hokkaido, Japan Scenic Byways program toured the Creole Nature Trail in 2004 in an effort to learn from the success of the America's Byways program. The Hokkaido team was most impressed by the warm welcome and hospitality with which they were greeted at every stop along the trail. "What we love the most in Lake Charles are the kind people there," said Chigako Yamamoto, member of the 2004 Scenic Byway team from Hokkaido.

When Hurricane Rita hit Southwest Louisiana, the Creole Nature Trail was devastated, including total loss of all trail signage. Team members of the Hokkaido group immediately inquired about the trail and what they could do to assist in recovery. Ultimately, the Hokkaido team sent $1,000 to the Creole Nature Trail to reprint the "Alligator Crossing" signs with which they had been fascinated on their trip. Thanks to the Hokkaido Scenic Byways donation, these distinctive signs were installed in late January 2008 and signal yet another step forward in the on-going recovery of the Creole Nature Trail All-American Road.

Easter blessings

By CYNDI SELLERS

The past two weeks have seen strong winds, both from the north and the south. These wintry storms have a side benefit for beachcombers. At these times high waves and heavy surf bring large shells to the shore, and then the north winds push the tides far out and expose these treasures for those who would seek them.

I visited three area beaches over the past week, and what an Easter blessing it was. Large moon snail shells, like pastel Easter eggs dotted the tide line. Whelks, tellins, venuses and rock shells, swirled, streaked and patterned in shades of pink, blue, yellow, purple and orange, filled my basket. Iridescent pen shells and even a candy-striped Mitchell's wentletrap, rarest on our beaches, were offered up by the waves.

Beautiful white angel wings were everywhere, along with a crucifix fish, no doubt left to remind me of the Giver of all things bright and beautiful.

Amid the stress of hurricane recovery and everyday problems, great healing can be found in a walk along a windy beach, with beautiful shells to look at, soothing waves to listen to, and flights of shorebirds to inspire.

Building code penalties considered by P. Jurors

By CYNDI SELLERS

Penalties of up to $500 for building code and elevation violations are being discussed by the Cameron Parish Police Jury. The penalties were on the agenda of a special voting meeting held Monday, March 24, at 3 p.m.

Assistant District Attorney Tom Barrett presented a copy of the Calcasieu Parish ordinance, which provides for a lengthy procedure, but he recommended sending complaints directly to court.

Barrett said the Jury could decide to provide the judge with a penalty of "up to $500" for each offense or to set a range depending on the severity of the violation.

The main problem with the proposed ordinance, Barrett said, was that he needed more time to determine the Jury's legal authority to impose such fines. The measure was tabled for further review. It may be discussed further at the agenda meeting set for 3 p.m. March 31 at the OEP office.

COMPANY HIRED

Jurors voted to hire a company to manage the parish's entire FEMA project worksheet (PW) process. Royal Engineers and Consultants, of New Orleans, was chosen out of seven applicants interviewed by a committee. Parish Treasurer Bonnie Conner said Royal has extensive experience in post-Katrina FEMA PW work, and was recommended highly by several references.

The company will be responsible for reviewing and overseeing the over 300 FEMA PWs pending for the parish, with special focus on 60 or so priority projects. They will make sure the parish gets as much funding as it is entitled to, and will follow the process through to the final audits, which could be several years from now.

The hiring of a program management company is covered by the FEMA program, so the company's fees will not cost the parish anything.

Jurors have delayed a

Subdivision planned at Hackberry

URB Holdings of Lake Charles has applied for a Coastal Use Permit to construct the 6.79 acre North Riverside Residential Subdivision containing 30 home sites and five docks adjacent to the Ship Channel at Hackberry.

Approximately 1,418 cubic yards of native material will be impacted by dredging to construct a septic system, underground utilities, and ditches. An additional 11,784 cubic yards of fill material will be hauled onsite and placed on most of the site to elevate roads, lots, and driveways.

Approximately 3,175 cubic yards of concrete will be poured and 39 cubic yards of top soil added for improvements to the project site.

decision on a company to manage the Coastal Impact Assistance Program (CIAP) while they check on possible ethics conflicts with one applicant. It was felt that the CIAP programs were not as time critical as the FEMA ones, so a short delay was not a problem.

POLICE JURY

MURIA FIRE STATION

Parish Engineer Lonnie Harper presented plan changes for the Muria Fire Station which will add $82,000 to the cost of repairs. The changes were suggested by the FEMA hazard mitigation committee, which wants more water resistant wall coverings, insulation, and doors than initially designed.

Harper said the work on the building was stopped immediately when word of the possible changes came in. Approval of the plan change will allow work to resume. Another suggestion, installation of flood vents in the walls, was not acted upon.

The Muria Water Board also asked for a plan change to allow a control panel to be moved into the building. The panel, which cost over $100,000, was placed outside on a pole after the storm. It controls the functioning of two water wells. The board would like to move it indoors, while the repairs are being made. The $15,000 to $18,000 cost may be covered by FEMA, since the building had not been repaired when the panel was installed. But if not, the Water Board will pay for the move itself, said Juror Thomas McDaniel. Jurors agreed to the proposal.

JETTY PIER REPAIRS

In other matters, Harper reported that parts of the Jetty Pier repair project are close to being ready to bid. The Cameron Multi-purpose building is ready to bid as soon as the Jury votes to advertise.

He is working on plans for the parish barn on Trosclair Road, which served both the Cameron and Creole road crews before the storm. Jurors reviewed a proposal from the parish livestock committee to postpone the barn remodel while an improved project combining the barn and livestock arena is reviewed.

The proposed facility would include an indoor rodeo arena, and could be used for many parish functions, proponents said. Not all of the facility would be covered by FEMA, however, and some jurors wondered about the cost of maintaining such a facility over time. It was decided to let the new program management company look over the proposal once their contract is signed.

HOUSING NEEDS

Two Cameron residents asked for assistance with housing needs. Giz Guilbeau asked for help with a mobile home permit for a "new" trailer park on family land. His is one of the properties certified after the storm, based on affidavits that there were once mobile homes on the site.

There are 211 such mobile home parks in the parish, and while they are under investigation no permits can be given for mobile homes for those sites. There are 78 mobile homes already located in these parks, and their fate is unclear.

FEMA is now requiring that proof be given, but while several jurors remember the trailers being there in the 1970s, records are no longer available and the former renters and landlords are now deceased. ADA Barrett said that unfortunately those are the new rules, and while they may not be reasonable, there is nothing the parish can do about them.

Kathy Rowland asked for the parish's help in getting elevation money from the Road Home. Her home was not eligible for ICC (Increased Cost of Compliance) funds from her flood insurance because it was already elevated. The Road Home would not provide elevation money for the same reason, but her insurance did not pay enough to rebuild at elevation.

Again, Barrett said, there is not much the parish can do to change the rules set by FEMA and the state. Next week's agenda meeting was moved to the parish OEP office due to a conflict with district court. The meeting was changed to 3 p.m. due to conflicts with two jurors' work schedules.

SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES PLANS

By GENEVA GRIFFITH
A public hearing on the proposed reapportionment of the Cameron Parish School Board was held Friday night at the Cameron School Board office.

Kenneth Selle, president of the Louisiana Management Corporation of Ruston, met with the school board and interested citizens to explain the services of his company which has helped with reapportionment plans all over the state and in adjacent states.

He also stressed the importance of keeping the deviation low on the plan, preferably a one man, one vote plan, so that normal shifts of population will not necessitate a new plan before the next official census is taken in 1980.

George Wilkerson submitted a plan which is identical to the one recently adopted by the police jury.

Percy David, a former school board member, submitted a plan which was explained by U. W. Dickerson, school superintendent.

Mervyn Taylor, a school board member, presented a plan with districts drawn to include the correct distribution.

Diel LaLande presented a plan to include 3 districts: Wards 2 and 3 together with 5 board members; Wards 1 and 4 together with 2 members.

SPRING'S HERE

Spring came last week and it was nice to have a different kind of weather.

There's still lots of ducks down, and yes they're paired off ready to fly north, but mother nature has told them to wait a little while longer. There are quite a few Blue-winged teals that has left Mexico and places south and are waiting for the trip north.

There is lots of fishing activity, both in saltwater and freshwater. Lacassine Refuge was hard hit on the first two weekends, but lots of largemouth were caught. I talked to a few anglers that had eight to over nine pound bass, but released them to spawn. This past weekend the impoundment was good, but no large bass for the boat, as you could see the beds for spawning, but no fish on the beds.

March or the last part of February is sort of cranky, when bass fishing. Bass are in a pre-spawn or idle state, then they head to the beds for spawning. This is when you catch the big females who are loaded with eggs. When you catch a large one, be quick, weigh, take a quick picture and release, so she can lay her eggs. Then there's the post-spawn, sometimes easy, sometimes not so easy to catch bass that were spawning.

Fishing the big pond, Toledo Bend, has been good, but a cold front will keep you back some. Some nice bass were taken by a couple of anglers from Creole, not the picture taking bass, but a 6 pounder and they had 16 keepers on a one day trip. (14 inch minimum length).

The neighbors to the west, Sam Rayburn have found giant salvinia in the lake. This is not common salvinia that's already visible in the lake but giant salvinia is the bad stuff, floating and getting in an area, this stuff can double in size in a week or two. They think it could have been transported from Toledo Bend, stuck on a boat trailer, which has had it on the lake since 1998.

It's important to check your boat and trailer and remove any plants you might see. It is now a Class C Misdemeanor to pass or transport aquatic vegetation from one reservoir to another.

BIG LAKE

Calcasieu/Big Lake, when waters are not too rough is still producing lots of redfish, but you can sure catch some nice speckle trout. It seems redfish are all over the lake, but I still prefer fishing around the southeast weirs and yes using spinner baits. There were some flounders hitting along the rocks of the old jetties, using a small beetle jig, yellow with black stripes.

NEW BRIEFS

Our younger generations are not fishing as much and licence sales are down. They say couch potatoes, games and the internet are the reason why. Well! I got some bad news, if the economy doesn't pick up and prices don't stop going up, there will be less anglers hitting the waters.

Stop and think, a good rod, $50 to $250 each, reels $200 to $500 apiece, plastic worms $5 to $7 a bag, crank bait $5 to $19 each, good fishing line 1000 yards $50 to $80 and gas over $3 per gallon, plus oil for the boat and truck. OK, a small boat rig $12,000 and upper class boats $30,000 to $60,000.

I'll stop there as I'm not going to count lodging when away. Food, well you get the idea. Catch you next week.

Fishermen plead guilty

Dane Tilley, Michael Andrus, and Grant Derouen, all of Lake Charles, each pled guilty on Tuesday, March 25, in the 38th Judicial District Court in Cameron, to Illegally Taking Fish by Electrocutation. Judge H. Ward Fontenot accepted the guilty pleas from the three defendants and ordered each to pay fines and court cost, gave each 45 days in the parish jail, suspended, placed them on 1-year unsupervised misdemeanor probation and revoked their fishing privileges for one year.

Judge Fontenot ordered Tilley and Andrus to each pay $700 in fines plus court cost and Derouen to pay a $400 fine plus court cost.

The guilty pleas stem from the three men Illegally Taking Fish by Electrocutation on Aug. 17, 2007. Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Enforcement Senior Agents Aaron Herpin, Beau Robertson, and Chris Hoag were on boat patrol near Lacassine Bayou in the northeast corner of Cameron Parish when they observed two boats and went to conduct a boat safety inspection.

While conducting the safety inspection the agents observed several feet of electrical wiring connected to the boat. Upon questioning the agents determined the men were obtaining the fish by electrocution.

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries agents found the three men with several dozen catfish weighing about 350 lbs. total. The catfish were seized and later donated to charity. Also seized were the two 16-foot boats, 2 40 h.p. motors, and 2 trolling motors. As part of the plea agreement, the Judge ordered the forfeiture of the boats and equipment to the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Cameron Parish Assistant District Attorney Thomas Barrett prosecuted the case. Refuge Agent Cleve Pugh assisted the agents in the case. Attorney Barry Roach represented all three defendants in the case.

Dear Local Merchant,

Number 2 Reason why you should increase your advertising. . .

2. Maybe you figure other retailers in your line are going to cut back their advertising, so it's safe for you, too. Right? Wrong! You're in competition for the consumer's dollar with every other retailer in town, no matter what he sells. People have only so many dollars to spend and if they don't spend them for what you sell, they'll spend them for something else.
