Young man drowns in marsh here

A former Cameron resident was reported missing last Wednesday and later found dead. Clyde Doxey, 27, a South Cameron graduate who later moved to Lake Charles, had gone out to check his crab traps behind the Cameron Court House, planning to be gone only half and hour.

When he did not return, his wife called in friends who went out to look for him. Around 7:30 pm, the Sheriff's Office was called in. Deputies arranged for a helicopter from PHI to fly over the area, but they were unable to locate Doxey's boat.

A full search on Thursday turned up the boat around 9:30 am. Around 11:00 am Doxey's body was recovered from the Lambert's Bayou

The Sheriff's Office is conducting a full investigation of the incident, which is being considered an accidental drowning, pending a full autopsy report from the coroner's office.

Jurors debate hiring of E. D. director

By CYNDI SELLERS

The Cameron Parish Police Jury is working hard to encourage economic development for the parish. Many of the agenda items discussed at Tuesday night's agenda meeting related to industry, beginning with the need to hire a replacement for Sammy Faulk, who recently resigned as parish Economic parish Development Director.

Juror Darryl Farque presented a proposal to hire a juror as Parish Manager or Assistant Manager, with economic development duties. He offered himself as a candi-

Assistant District Attorney Jennifer Jones presented an opinion from the DA that a Louisiana statute allows this sort of arrangement as long as the salary of the juror is offset in the manager salary. Most of the rest of the jurors preferred to hire outside of the jury to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest. Industry representatives urged the jury not to wait in making an appointment, citing current activity and several upcoming events in which Cameron Parish could participate. James Ducote, represent-

Faulk resigns as Economic Developer

Capt. Sammy Faulk of Big Lake recently resigned as the Cameron Parish Economic Development Director, a position he has held for the past two years.

Faulk said he will continue to serve on the Cameron Parish Tourism Commission and to work on the Creole Natural Trail promotion.

He also will resume full time charter boat fishing out of Hebert's Landing at Big ing the state office of Economic Development, also recommended speed, saying, 'Y'all need a point person. You need someone who understands the parish and has the zeal to get out and sell the parish." He promised the aid of his office in training and assisting the new person.

The jury will vote at next Monday's regular meeting to either hire someone on a temporary basis or advertise for proposals.

Sonny McGee Juror brought up several issues relating to development. He asked the DA's office to research whether the parish could enact zoning for spoil disposal.

He said the Sabine-Neches River Authority recently dumped dredge spoil on the bank of the Sabine River, making it impossible to develop that property for industry.

Carjacking and high speed chases told

By CYNDI SELLERS

Memorial Day weekend was very active for Cameron Parish Sheriff's Deputies, with two high speed chases and a busy burglar.

A carjacking in Holly Beach early Sunday morning, followed by a high speed chase into Calcasieu Parish, resulted in the arrest of two Lake Charles men.

Paul Pellerin, 21, of 2141 Country Club Rd. #75, and Frederick F. Burt, 18, of 717 W. 18th St., allegedly attacked two Opelousas men who were camping in their pickup truck on Holly Beach, beating them with baseball bats, and then stealing the

Cameron Sheriff's Deputies responded and pursued the two into Calcasieu Parish, at times at speeds up to 115mph. The driver, Pellerin, reportedly slammed on his brakes at Highway 108 in Carlyss, making a sharp turn. Benjamin Deputy Primeaux, who was in close pursuit, was forced to swerve, hitting a mailbox and running into a ditch in order to avoid a collision.

The stolen truck was forced to stop, and the passenger, Burt, was apprehended. The driver escaped, pursued by State Police and Sulphur Police officers.

After being identified, Pellerin was located by the Calcasieu Sheriff's Office.

Cameron Parish deputies accompanied Calcasieu officers to make the arrest.

Pellerin was booked into the Calcasieu Parish Jail and then transferred to Cameron Parish to face charges.

Pellerin and Burt remain in the Cameron Parish jail on charges of carjacking, aggravated second degree battery, aggravated battery and criminal trespass (both), felony theft (Burt), flight from an officer and property damage

(Pellerin). No serious injuries were reported by the victims or deputies involved in the chase. The stolen truck was not damaged, but the patrol car was. The day before, May 29, Deputy Ron Schultz pursued a speeding motorcycle in Grand Lake. After reaching a top speed of 115 mph., the rider ditched the bike and fled

When apprehended, Jonathan M. Perkins, 19, of 6859 Tom Hebert Rd. #450, Lake Charles, was charged with flight from an officer and careless operation (115 in a 55 mph zone). Campers on Holly Beach were surprised on Sunday to see a man methodically entering one campsite after another, taking items from several. Jeremy J. Gary, 30, of 2346 62nd St., Port Arthur, Tex.,

Dredging of ship channel is planned

The U.S. Corps of Engineers announced last week that it will spend $4 million in emergency funds to dredge about 12 miles of the Calcasieu Ship Channel mostly in Cameron Parish.

The area between miles 5 and 17 on the 68-mile ship channel will be dredged.

The section is on the lower end of the channel below the Intracoastal Waterway, which $_{

Lagniappe Two Retirement Home Living Notes

By Geneva Griffith

My left thumb has been hurting since our Tuesday night outing to a restaurant to eat crawfish. The crawfish are getting big and tough and hard to peel, so I guess it's about over.

We went to the senior day at Ree's Department Store for our weekly coffee, orange juice and Krispy Kreme doughnuts. We played bingo and stayed for the door prizes.

I have joined the "Red Hatter" society, and we had 18 in our group who went to eat at Mike Anderson's this week. This is all they seem to do--just eat. But I said when I moved here that I no longer expected to do any civic work and plan to stick to it.

We are supposed to wear purple dresses or pantsuits and red hats. Of course I had to get a new red hat and a purple pant suit which meant an all-wool hat all day, which was not to my liking, since I have gone years without wearing a hat. I found out that I have lost five dress sizes and had to get rid of all my clothes and get a whole new wardrobe. Don't know if it is my daily walk around the village with my dog or old age--probably both.

I found a picture of me as a baby that looks exactly like my great-grandchild McCall, in my mother's picture album. So now we can stop looking and wondering who she looks like, ha ha.

We have a new political event going on here at the village. We have to elect the new board members to serve for a year. On our row, we are all voting for my next door neighbor, Ed, who is the only man on our row.

The Delmus Joneses accompanied Peppers to the Cunningham and Pitre shipyard in Delcambre to pick up the boat Saturday. Harold Jones accompanied Haywood back to Cameron on the boat. Haywood said he named it the "Little Joe" because he got it the hard way. We hope the Peppers have better luck this time with this one.

know what I would have done without the moral support of Leslie, my 12-year-old son, and my Aunt, Dora Welch.

We all decided the best thing was to run from it as it approached Oak Grove. We could hear it roaring and see it whirling before we left. We piled in the car and headed for the Bluff where the men were building branding pens. It broke up into a torential rain by the time we got to the Jimmie Meaux's.

Elie Conner said he shot it six times with a gun and cut it with a knife. Afterward we learned that practically all of Oak Grove had evacuated in their cars when they saw it coming. We don't know whether shooting or cutting it had anything to do with its not coming down but here's one thankful person that it didn't.

Story Time

The Cameron Parish Library starts its Summer Reading Program Monday with Pastiche. Pastiche is four musician storytellers that will entertain the children of the parish with their unique musical style of storytelling.

Cameron's Main Branch will start the summer programs on Monday June 7 at 10 a.m. followed by Grand Lake's Branch performance at 2 p.m. on the same day. Tuesday June 8, Hackberry will start the summer programs at 10 a.m. followed by Johnson Bayou's performance at 2 p.m.

This year the library will have story time at every branch each Wednesday at 10 a.m. until June 30th.

At each story time, a library employee will read stories to the children and do a small craft with them. The library is starting this program to help promote the love of reading in children. Colorful fliers with dates and times are available at each branch. T-Shirts and book bags are also available for purchase at each library.

The T-Shirts feature a colorful bee holding a book featuring this years's theme "Buggy about Books" for a cost of $3.00 for shirts and XXL T-Shirts are bags. slightly higher.

her college plans while she seeks a softball scholarship.

"I've got some offers to play at junior colleges, but I don't want to go to a junior college," she said.

In track, Conner reached the state meet in all four of her events as a senior. She won the Class 1A hurdles title, finished third in the long jump and pole vault and placed sixth in the 100-meter

"This year, I just wanted to concentrate on being strong in one event," Conner said. "I was top-ranked in the hurdles last year, but I lost my shoe at the state meet. This year I stayed focused on that one event, but I was still able to place in three. So I guess I was pretty lucky."

In three years of rodeo, Conner competed in barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying and breakaway. She also lettered for four seasons in basketball and spent four

Fish & Wildlife accepting applications for grants

The Fish and Wildlife Service is currently accepting applications for the 2005 National Coastal Wetlands Conservation Grant program. Approximately $14 million of funds will be available for this grant program in the coming year.

"This grant program provides an excellent opportunity for our partners to conserve coastal wetlands around the country" said
Service Director Steve Williams. "The National
Coastal Wetlands Conservation program has helped conserve nearly 170,000 acres of wetland resources along the nation's coasts. These wetlands provide habitat for a great many fish and wildlife species and offer hunting and fishing opportunities for sportsmen and women.

National Coastal Wetlands Conservation grants are awarded to the states through a competitive process. The program is funded by the 1990 Coastal Wetlands Planning, Protection and

He would like the parish to be able to control where this spoil is placed in the future, along any of the rivers. The spoil was placed on lands leased from the state.

McGee also asked the jury's help with a "kink" which has developed in the Cheniere LNG project. He said one landowner, W.T. Offshore, is opposing the facility and may hold up the FERC permit.

The company, which owns 7/9 of 27 acres originally located within the proposed site, had been holding out for a large compensation, reportedly 1% of the total profits.

Cheniere then replanned the site leaving them out, and now they oppose the project based on adverse effects on hunting on their land.

McGee has asked for help from the legislature, and wants the jury to be willing to support any measure, up to and including expropriation, to make sure the project goes forward.

He noted that any delay in Cheniere's plant could give FERC a reason to permit another facility proposed for Port Arthur instead. A meeting has been set with Sen. Hines in the near future.

The District Attorney's Office was asked to look into several issues. McGee asked for further inquiry into the question of whether paid fire department personnel can serve on fire district boards. A preliminary opinion said it would be a conflict. Since several boards have this situation, and since volunteers for boards are hard to find, further study was requested.

Juror Scott Trahan asked whether it would be possible to restrict certain areas of the Mermentau River for recreational use only, limiting the use of crab pots, trot lines, etc. in those areas.

Jurors hope to have full clarification by Monday on whether road crew personnel can be released from duties to serve as volunteer firemen, in Restoration Act.

Funding for the program is generated from excise taxes on fishing equipment and motorboat and small engine fuels. These taxes are deposited into the Sport Fish Restoration Account of the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund (commonly called Wallop-Breaux after its Congressional sponsors).

This year, the program is the first Service grant fund to accept proposals electronically through grants.gov. The grants.gov website is a crossagency E-Government initiative, spanning 900 federal financial assistance programs and $350 billion in annual

JUNE IS HERE

Fishermen remember your fishing license expires on June 30, so don't wait until the last minute to buy your new freshwater and saltwater licenses. If you fish south of Hwy. 82, you'll need to purchase a saltwater license along with the freshwater license.

This month we'll see blackberries ripen, but we'll also see male cottonmouths battle for females, while eastern coral snakes lay eggs.

Hybrid striped bass are schooling, and alligator nesting peaks this month.

There will be a statewide breeding bird survey conducted in June, while wild turkey pullet begin to fly and start roosting in trees.

I'm sure with all the water from rains that are just starting to level off, bass fishing will be tough in our local marshes.

Fishing the Big Burns last week, there was a lot of brown or black water, neither one good for fishing. The marsh is beginning to smell, and hopefully we won't get a fish kill from lack of oxygen. I don't think all this water will be good for our shrimping season, especially the brown

AREA FISHING

I made a couple trips, one in the Big Burns last week fishing from the road (Hwy. 82) all the way to the Mermentau River and caught 2 nice bass, both are 2 pounds, but not much activity.

Anglers report a few speckle trout on Big Lake. There were lots of freshwater to come through the lake. there's lots of muddy water, but fishing on the south or southeast side of the lake has produced some nice trout. One of the fishing guides caught a 9.2 pound speckle trout last week. A good fish, but just a few days too early for the S.T.A.R. tournament, which began

The high tides and strong southeast winds pushed the saltwater up the ship channel to the south end of Big Lake, and that's the best place to fish right now. West Cove is also not bad, as it's not as muddy as the rest of the lake. There's clear spots, and anglers are taking two pound trout, fishing on bottom. Glows and chartreuse plastics, but don't hesitate to throw top water baits. GIBBSTOWN DOGFIGHT

The Monday night, May 24 dogfight had 15 boats enter. A report from George Melancon had the top two teams with 3 bass each. First place went to Ernest Taber and Jason Guillotte, 5.75 pounds, and the second place large bass at 2.77 pounds. Terry Whatley and Jeff Garrett had a close second place with 5.74 pounds, but had the largest bass weighing in at 3.18 pounds. Terry caught the large bass on a jerk bait.

NEWS BRIEFS

J. Wesley Jennings of Raleigh, N.C. caught a pend-ing IGFA Florida state 20 pound line class record largemouth bass. The lunker weighed 17.1 pounds, and was 28 inches long, with a gut of 22 inches. The current Florida state record for this line class is 14.7 pounds. He was fishing with an old T.V. host, John

The Lemesche Bass Club will fish their fourth club tournament of 2004 this Sunday, June 6, fishing the Amoco marsh. This is a pickyour-partner club tourna-ment. It will start at sunrise and end at 3 p.m.

Remember June 5-6 are free fishing days. No licenses required to fish anywhere in the state of Louisiana. Also, don't forget the Boat Safety class at the Rockefeller Refuge Headquarters on June 9 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The

LEAD BAN

We all know California has strict laws on lead weights. Well, buying lead jigs and sinkers could soon become illegal in Canada. there is a proposal to start regulations that would eventually prohibit the import, manufacture and sale of fishing sinkers and jigs containing lead. Blaming the death of water birds on lead, including "loons" that consume lead tackle while fishing. The regulations should be ready within a year.

Canadian anglers are wondering if their gear will be allowed as well as American anglers who may have to leave their lead tackles at home while traveling to Canada to fish. There will be public hearings, however, this thing could rub off right here in our own back yard.

Fishing Week in Louisiana includes 'free fishing days'

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission has declared the week of May 31 through June 6 "Fishing Week in Louisiana." This is a weeklong celebration of the great tradition of fishing in our state. With over 900,000 sportfishermen in Louisiana, sportfishing brings in significant revenue to the state, and is a very important way of life for many. This celebration will culminate on the weekend of June 5 and 6 with "Free Fishing Days." Act 301 of the 1987 Louisiana Legislature allows the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission to declare two such days each year. During these two days, anyone may recreationally fish in Louisiana waters without purchasing a license. This applies to fresh and saltwater metro Portland is the scenic and historic Oregon coast. The Sunset Highway threads its way through the Coast Range, past Saddle Mountain, suddenly opening onto a view of the Pacific Ocean.

Our day dawned uncharacteristically bright and sunny, and we set out aiming to make Cannon Beach at low tide. Stopping at a scenic overlook to take pictures of Mt. St. Helens only slowed us a little. The abrupt appearance of a patch of stunningly blue water after miles of green took our breath away. Blue-green waves crashed into white foam on the beach below us.

We chose to visit Cannon Beach because it is one of the most photographed sites in the U.S., the famous Haystack Rock. Featured in books, calendars, and movies, the Haystack is a federally protected marine garden.

It is a nesting ground for the commically colorful puffins, and at low tide green or pink anemones and orange, red, and purple starfish can be seen in the tide pools. Broken sand dollars dot the beach, leftovers from hungry

The town of Cannon Beach is a picturesque artist colony and seaside retreat with many galleries and shops. We stepped into one at random and found a glass blower working on a piece. It was fascinating to watch a small blob of molten glass grow into a beautiful vase in the skilled hands of the artist.

One stop we had to make was at the big spruce tree which my family had visited 30 years ago. The largest Sitka Spruce in the U.S. and the largest tree in Oregon, this forest giant is only a few hundred yards from the highway. Pictures cannot adequately convey its size. The other big trees in the grove are like children next to it.

Walking through the grove we noticed the green moss dripping from the trees amid the thick ferns. The mountains of Oregon are clothed with temperate rain forests. Lush hardly describes it.

We headed north along the Coast Highway, snacking on Tillamook cheese (made in Tillamook, Ore.), and apricots. Bypassing the resort town of Seaside, we were

Two hundred years ago, in 1804, Lewis and Clark's Corps of Discovery left St. Louis, Mo. to map the extent of the Louisiana Purchase. A year and a half later, in November of 1805, they reached the Pacific ocean at the mouth of the Columbia River. The corps built a small wooden stockade to house its 33 members for the winter, before turning back to report their findings.

The structure, named Fort Clatsop after the local native tribe, has been rebuilt from original drawings and is visited by thousands every year. We toured the bunk rooms, walked down to the canoe landing, sat in a dugout, and watched a rifle demonstration by a costumed interpreter.

Next on the circuit was the town of Astoria. Long known for its salmon canneries, Astoria has featured in many movies, including Kindergarten Cop, Short Circuit, Free Willy, and The

We also climbed the Astoria Column. The 125 ft. monument celebrating early pioneers is built on a high point and yields a stunning 360 degree view of the Columbia, Pacific, and Coast Range. Far below, the Astoria Bridge connects Oregon and Washington.

The only hitch is actually climbing the 164 steps to the Thankfully there are several landings, but I did wonder how a paramedic would get up there if needed. After crossing the (really long) Astoria Bridge, we headed back to Portland along the Columbia, passing scenic towns and a nuclear power plant along the way. We were thankful for the beautiful day and the wonderful sights we had seen. Tomorrow was to be rainy, and we were headed for the snow line.

AMBULANCE STUDY

The Cameron Police Jury Monday agreed to study various plans for providing ambulance service for Cameron Parish after O'Donnell Funeral Home discontinues its ambulance service on July 1.

Joe O'Donnell, funeral home owner, said he was having to get out of the ambulance business because of new federal regulations that will make the cost prohibitive.

Other business: The jury reappointed Edison Mhire to the board of the Lower Cameron Hospital service district and Earl Domingue was renamed to the Hackberry recreation commission.

Ray Stevens, commander of the American Legion, and Diel LaLande, parish service officer, reported that they had trouble in securing a color guard from Fort Polk for a military funeral.

A certificate of appreciation from the Civil Defense agency was presented to Sonny McCall for his services as Cameron Parish CD Director from Nov., 1967.
