Lions Club chartered in Grand Lake/Sweetlake

State and national dignitaries of Lions International participated in the chartering of the new Grand Lake-Sweetlake Lions Club Thursday, June 12, at the Grand Lake Multi-Purpose Building.

Dr. Larry Hahn, past international director, came from Moline, Colorado, to preside over the signing of the charter. Ethel Robin of Duson, Governor of District 8-0, installed the officers of the new club, assisted by district governors and members of the Cameron Lions Club, sponsors of the new club.

Dr. Hahn, a veterinarian, likened the chartering of a new club to the delivery of a new set of lion cubs, in which the physician only assists. He congratulated the local leadership for "bringing new life" into the community through affiliation with the "biggest and best service organization in the world."

School Board clarifies school uniform policy

Cameron Parish School Board met Mon., June 9 for the regularly scheduled meeting. Clifton Morris, Board President, requested that a provision allowing a special meeting to be called upon with the written request of three board members be submitted to the President and Superintendent. He stated that this change, "would give more power to individual board members and take some power from the president and superintendent," who are now the only ones who can call a special meeting.

After much discussion the matter was tabled pending a legal opinion on whether four written requests constitute a "walking quorum."

STUDENT RELATED MATTERS

School board members learned of an increased emphasis on computer literacy in grades K-8. A state-mandated computer literacy test will be administered next year to all 8th graders. Members were assured that the subject is being integrated into all classes, not just the business curriculum, so the test should not pose a problem for the students. In addition, Peggy Benoit reported the purchase, through Title V funds, of new Easy Tech software for use in grades K-8.

In other matters affecting students, the recommendations of the Student Dress Code Uniform Committee and the Athletic committee were adopted as policy by the Board.

The addition of uniform capri pants and the option of a school plaid were the major changes to the dress code. Other items merely clarify existing rules.

Athletic code items dealt with handling infractions over holidays and extending suspensions to all in-season sports in which the athlete may be involved at the time of an infraction.

A request from the Hackberry boys basketball team for permission to attend a Team Camp in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla. was granted.

EMPLOYEE MATTERS

Citing difficulty in finding teachers willing to teach during summer school, Supt. Doug Chance asked for and received permission to raise the pay for summer school teachers from $25 per hour plus mileage to a flat $30 per hour. Board Member Dwayne Sanner objected saying he couldn't understand why anyone would be unwilling to work five hours a day for $125.

The Board approved the distribution of Minimum Foundation funds as requested by BESE. The $39,867 will be distributed to 188 qualified people at $212.05 each. This will be a one-time payout which will then become part of next year's salary schedule.

In response to a board request from March 17, Dr. Chance presented a preliminary schedule of comprehensive changes to the pay structure for support personnel and central staff. The proposed changes would simplify and equalize pay schedules for employees doing the same jobs. The final draft will be voted on at the July 14 meeting.

Also at the July meeting, the board will vote on recommendations regarding supplementary assignments to teaching positions. This covers coaches and sponsors of extra-curricular activities including dance line and pep squad. Salary adjustments for substitutes will also be considered.

Other employee matters were decided upon concerning acceptance of resignations, leaves, and terminations of employment.

Appointments were made as follows: Asst. Principal for Johnson Bayou High appointed to Stephanie Rogers for 2003-4 session.

Secretary/Bookkeeper for Johnson Bayou High appointed to Julie Billiot.

Exotic animals carry monkeypox disease

Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom is asking Louisiana veterinarians to be on the look out for cases of the viral disease monkeypox in the state's exotic animal population.

"There are no cases of monkeypox in Louisiana but we want to stay on top of this situation as we do with any new disease threat," Odom said.

Monkeypox is known to infect prairie dogs, monkeys, rats, mice and rabbits and recently has been diagnosed for the first time in humans in the United States in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Odom said the recent news of monkeypox in humans in several states in the upper Midwest has also spawned another possible problem - people dumping their exotic pets in the wild because they are afraid of diseases the animals may carry.

"In the last several years people have become more and more aware of diseases that animals carry and can transmit to humans. Many animal owners now are frightened because they didn't think of the risks of owning an exotic animal before they made their purchase," Odom explained.

"It's important for them to act responsibly and not to simply dump an unwanted animal on the roadside. Then you risk exposing wild and domestic animals and the human population to diseases and illnesses sometimes carried by these exotic animals."

Odom said the only real solutions for unwanted exotic animals are to take them to rescue agencies that accept exotic pets or to have the animal euthanized by a veterinarian.

For more information about monkeypox, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Web site at www.cdc.gov or the American Veterinarian Medical Association Web site at www.avma.org.

Tariff reviewed by Int'l. Trade Commission

Four Louisiana crawfish tailmeat processors and Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom testified before the International Trade Commission (ITC) last week in an effort to keep in place the antidumping tariff on imported Chinese crawfish tailmeat.

The four processors who testified were Gabe LeBlanc, Crawfish Processors Alliance in Henderson; Frank Randol, Randol's Seafood & Restaurant in Lafayette; Adam Johnson, Bayou Land Seafood in Breaux Bridge; and Terry Guidry, Catahoula Crawfish Inc. in Catahoula.

Every five years the tariff faces the Sunset Review process in which the ITC determines if damage to Louisiana's crawfish tailmeat industry will continue or increase if the tariff is lifted. The ITC will take a vote on the issue July 14.

If the ITC finds that the tariff should remain on Chinese crawfish imports, then the U.S. Department of Commerce will set the tariff rate on future imports of Chinese crawfish tailmeat. The current tariff is 7.59 percent to 223.1 percent, with the majority of companies paying the 223.1 percent tariff.

The current tariff remains effective until Sept. 15. Odom said he doesn't expect a lapse between expiration of the old tariff and implementation of a new tariff.

In 2002, Louisiana had 1,135 crawfish farmers on 106,653 acres and another 1,068 wild crawfish fishermen.

THE RAIN CAME

Last Thursday, I went in the Big Burns early to scout for bass for the Lemesche Bass Club's Saturday tournament. I did cut across one mud trail, shallow, but hit a big canal and decided I needed to look at the deep canals. Clouds were heavy, but I figured a little shower wouldn't hurt. I got to the cut and pond I wanted and threw five times with a spinner bait. I caught four fish, all choupique and changed to a small topwater lure, entered the pond, and caught three in a row, all choupique. I decided I would go deeper into the Lily Pond and throw a worm and float it. Yes, I caught another three choupique until I caught two bass and then the bottom fell out. Not paying attention to the weather, I noticed it was all coming my way; bad lighting, strong winds, and heavy rains. I decided I was going to try and make it in. I did, but rain drops were stinging my face.

On my way from the launch, I hit more strong rain and winds, but in the safety of my truck. I was home one hour and the sun came out and was beautiful the rest of the day. Now I know what the old scouts from the wild west days went through, life without a boat.

CAJUN SAUCE FISH

If you want to make a sauce piquante or courtbouillon, a flat head catfish is always the Cajun way with that fish. It all depends where in Louisiana you are to know what name to call the flat head. It's sometimes called an Opelousas Cat.

It's a native species in Louisiana. It's large in size and an excellent meat for eating. These yellow cats as it's also sometimes called, will tip the scales at 40 pounds plus. One thing for sure, if you're making a courtbouillon, don't throw away the head; clean it good. That's what makes the sauce thick.

It seems the folks in and around North Carolina don't have much use for these species of catfish. First found in their lakes in 1993, the started stocking because of the lower population of sunfish and largemouth bass.

The stocked and 225 flat-head catfish weighing 3,410 pounds were caught and removed from one lake. They range in size from 9 inches or 3 ounces up to 45 inches length and 38.5 pounds. Checking the stomach, 92.3% of their diet was fish, and sunfish was mostly the meals.

Largemouth bass were found only in flathead catfish over 24 inches in length, but makes up 52.6% by weight of all the found items. It was not uncommon to remove 12 to 19 inch largemouth bass from the stomachs of 29 to 40 inch flathead catfish. There were as many as 18 sunfish in one stomach. Little evidence of them feeding in stocked channel catfish. Each month that they're shocked, the caught more flathead catfish. By the way, we also call it shocking, but the new name is "electrofishing."

GIBBSTOWN DOGFIGHT RESULTS

Week eight of the afternoon bass Gibbstown Dogfight seems to have had better catches of bass. These were the results:

1st place team with 3 bass went to Greg Jeffers and Ryan Evans with 6.34 pounds, over 2 pounds average, and a first place largest bass weighing in at 3.34 pounds.

2nd place went to J. M. Boudreaux and Chad Mudd, 3 bass weighing 4.89 pounds. 3rd place was Todd Conner and Bret Baccigalopi with 3 bass weighing 4.39 pounds and the second place largest bass weighing 2.94 pounds.

I was told one boat made it in about 10 minutes late with real nice bass, but that doesn't count. Ryan Evans had the largest bass that hit a plastic frog.

LEMESCHE BASS CLUB

The Lemesche Bass Club held their fourth club tournament of the year last Sat., June 14, and things started out with a flash.

The club launched out of the north boat ramp at Gibbstown because of low water in the Big Burns. It seems we just settled down to fishing when Mother Nature sent us a high power thunderstorm. Bad lightning and wind about 40 miles per hour plus hard rain for about one hour and then the sun came out once in a while, most of the day overcast, and a great day for fishing.

If you were in the right spots, there was lots of bass to catch, although small, but a couple of boats did hit the right spot and caught large fish. This is what bass anglers call a "Honey Hole," and I believe there are not many honey holes left around our area.

There were eight boats fishing and the top three team stringers were: Tom Hess and Darren Richard, 11.4, largest bass, 3.4; J. M. Boudreaux and Richard Duhon, 9.1, largest bass 2.4; Ricky Canik and Tony Conner, 7.1, largest bass, 2.2. Following in order was Scottie Troclair and Todd Morales with largest choupique, 7.4; Carl Broussard and Loston McEvers, George Melancon and Johnny LeDoux; Shane Suratt and Joe Linscombe and Chance Doxy.
