total cost of $1,993,153.

The bids were opened by the La. Dept. of Transportation on May 31.

The Creole intersection has the distinction of having the only traffic light in Cameron

Because of the short turning area at the intersection there have been a number of heavy truck mishaps in the past.

THE U.S.A. WILL BE 230 YEARS OLD ON TUESDAY, JULY 4, 2006.

FUNDING FOR the rebuilding of the Cameron Parish Library seems to be assured through insurance money, a large FEMA grant and an expected grant from the Gates Foundation. The library and all of its books and contents were destroyed in Hurricane Rita. The Hackberry and Grand Lake branches survived.

Library rebuilding funds announced

The Cameron Parish Library Board received an abundance of welcome news at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon. Donations large and small have been arriving from all around the country. The latest to be anounced is a grant from the Louisiana Library Association in the amount of $10,000.

The Friends of the Blaisdell Memorial Library in Nottingham, N. H. held a soup and salad fund raiser for the Cameron Library, and even made and sold T-shirts for the event, raising $3000. The Friends of the Lynden (WA) Public Library sent $293, and the Woodstock (IL) Public Library sent $1255.25.

Friends organizations in Redmond, Sisters, Sun River, and Bend, Oregon raised $6474; and the Friends of Marshfield (WI) Public Library sent $2825 and a box of chocolates.

Many other libraries, schools, companies and individuals have sent books, computers, money, and even two bookmobiles to help restore library services to the lower Cameron Parish area. Cash donations received to date total $28,703.25. A grant request has been sent to the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and should be announced this week.

Meanwhile, insurance payments totaling $649,000 have been received against the loss of the three libraries in lower Cameron Parish and damage to the Hackberry branch. FEMA project managers have been working with the library staff for months to establish the total loss suffered by the system. They announced Tuesday that the final project worksheets are almost complete, having been revised on advice of the Library's architect, Gene Sellers. The total structural loss is expected to be in the range of $1.9 million.

The project worksheet for the contents of the main branch in Cameron has been accepted and obligated. From a loss of $1.8 million, FEMA has announced a $1.1 million grant, covering 90% of the loss, less insurance and other considerations. The Louisiana Recovery Authority is expected to make up the 10% not covered by FEMA.

The funds will be released as reimbursement as the library replaces contents. The same process will apply to rebuilding the three lost libraries.

Considering these positive indications, the Library Board decided not to ask the Police Jury to roll up its tax levy from 5.75 to 6 mills, keeping an eye on the budget for the next year.

Library Director Charlotte Trosclair announced that the bookmobile in Cameron is almost ready to open, rain having delayed some equipment installation on Monday. A site is being selected for the Johnson Bayou bookmobile.

The efforts of the Cameron Parish Library were recently recognized by Lt. Gov. Mitch Landrieu in a Proclamation for Shining the Light on Louisiana for "providing extraordinary library services during Hurricanes Katrina and Rita."

FEMA grant given Cameron Library

The Cameron Parish Library, whose central office was completely destroyed by Hurricane Rita, got some good news this past week.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has awarded the library $1.1 million to cover the storm damages.

The announcement was made Friday by Senator David Vitter and Rep. Charles Boustany, Jr.

The grant is for library equipment, supplies and other resources. The Library also expects to receive another FEMA grant to help rebuild the library building which was located next to the Cameron Elementary School, and which destroyed in the storm.

"The loss of the Cameron Parish Main Library during Hurricane Rita was a significant blow to the community," Rep. Boustany said.
The parish library building

The parish library building was built about a year after Hurricane Audrey and was partially funded by funds raised by the Lake Charles Louisiana Jaycees as a means of helping the parish recover from that storm.

The library may also get some more good news at a press conference this week in Metairie at which the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation is expected to announce a major grant for storm damaged libraries in Louisiana and Mississippi. The Cameron Library Board has applied for some of these funds although it is not known what the library might get.

The Gates grant announcement coincides with the start of the American Library Associations annual conference in New Orleans.

The property owners are advised that if the taxes remain unpaid the property will be sold for taxes at 11 a.m., Wednesday, July 26, 2006 at the front door of the courthouse.

Hurricane Audrey Day

Hurricane Audrey Memorial Day, a Cameron Parish holiday, will be observed Tuesday, June 27 on the 49th anniversary of the storm that devastated the parish in

The holiday only affects parish offices and state and federal offices, including the Post Office, will be open as usual.

The holiday was approved by the Legislature years ago in memory of the nearly 500 persons who died during the storm.

storm.
Fortunately, during Hurricane Rita last September only one person was known to have died.

No public observance is planned for Audrey Day as most parish residents are too occupied with the recovery from Rita.

THE CAMERON PARISH coastal resort community of Holly Beach has the distinction of being completely destroyed by two hurricanes in the past nearly half-century -- Hurricane Audrey in 1957 and Hurricane Rita in 2005. In both instances, all that was left standing in the community were utility poles and piling for homes and camps. The above photo was taken after Rita.

THIS TEAM OF VOLUNTEERS from Bible Baptist Church in Klamath Fall, Ore., arrived in Cameron on Monday to find the rain had cancelled their assignment. They found the First Baptist Church and offered to clean up the leftover demolition debris outside in the rain. The church gave the team members Cameron Recovery 2006 t-shirts in gratitude. ### Comparison of Audrey and Rita concluded

(EDITOR'S NOTE--This is the third and final installment of an article comparing Hurricane 1957 Audrey in with Hurricane Rita in 2005. Donald Menard of Rayne is well qualified to address this subject as he has published two editions of a book on Hurricane Audrey and has been studying the storm for the past 49 years. His book "The Untold Story of Hurricane Audrey may be ordered by calling him at 337-334-9049 or writing to P. O. Box 275, Rayne, La. 70578. The cost is $17.45 which includes postage.)

By DONALD MENARD

Vinton, Sulphur, and Westlake were also on Rita's right front quadrant and took a very heavy pounding from Hurricane Rita. The storm surge in Lake Charles took about 12 hours to peak because of the angle at which Rita made landfall and her subsequent turns northwest along the Texas-Louisiana line and then northward. Rita made landfall at astronomical high tide, and after landfall, it continued to pull water inland in Hackberry and in the Lake Charles area.

In my second column dated June 15, 2006, I mentioned that the Intracoastal Canal provided a better buffer for Hurricane Rita than for Hurricane Audrey. Please pardon this error because just the opposite is true. The correct statement is that the Intracoastal Canal provided a better buffer for Hurricane Audrey than for Hurricane Rita.

Intracoastal The Waterway, an economic lifeline for southwest Louisiana turned into a massive force of destruction after Hurricane Rita hit. The storm's 20-foot storm surge hit Cameron Parish and raced through the Intracoastal Waterway east of Vermilion Parish, flooding homes hours after the storm swept through the area.

Joe Suhayda, a retired LSU professor, coastal engineer, and former consultant to the Army Corps of Engineers, said that the levees at Houma and Morgan City spared those cities from flooding. However, "there's no levees left west of Morgan City to Sabine Pass," Suhayda said.

Built in the 1940s as a navigational system for barges and boat traffic, the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway runs about 1300 miles from Brownsville, Texas. Across Louisiana, the waterway alternates between a manmade canal and coastal lakes, such as Grand Lake and Calcasieu Lake.

The Intracoastal Waterway has been widened and expanded over the years by the Army Corps of Engineers in projects that have cost hundreds of millions of dollars. Its canals also have been broadened by erosion caused by the barge traffic. "It's just gotten wider and wider and wider," Suhayda

"That allowed more water and more flooding." Also, the tremendous coastal erosion that has taken place since Hurricane Audrey in 1957 had an enormous impact on water intrusion and how far inland it penetrates in Vermilion and Cameron Parish.

Robert LeBlanc, head of Vermilion Parish's Office of Emergency Preparedness, said Rita caused more havoc than Hurricane Audrey, which stormed through the area in 1957, because an earthen wall that ran along the Intracoastal then has been eroded by barge traffic. The wall of dirt, which acted like a levee and rose up to 20 feet high, was the result of digging out the waterway.

Even the Old Intracoastal at Little Prairie had levees ten to fifteen feet high before Audrey. When Rita came through, the levees there were completely non-existent. The result was that about 6,000 homes were flooded or destroyed by Rita's storm surge in Vermilion Parish.

I will now share with you an extraordinary event that occurred when Hurricane Audrey made landfall. In 1938, a hurricane named the "Long Island Express" made landfall at Long Island, New York, with sustained winds of 120 miles per hour and an unbelievable 50-mile-perhour forward movement. Because of its tremendous forward speed, it registered on the seismograph from the west coast of California all the way to Alaska.

Fully aware of this, on June 26, 1957, two scientists from Houston, Texas, called a scientist on the west coast of California and asked him to keep his eyes on the seismograph. At the same time that Hurricane Audrey made landfall with its tremendous forward speed of 30 miles per hour, the seismograph registered on the west coast of California, but not into Alaska.

In other words, Audrey's fast-moving tremendous storm surge impacted the Louisiana coast so greatly that it actually jarred the tectonic plate that we live on. Very few people fully realize that water has so much more destructive power than wind. The names of these scientists will be revealed when my third edition is complete.

One must also remember Audrey's powerful storm surge arrived before its catastrophic winds. That is why there were not as many visual signs of wind damage after Hurricane Audrey as there were after Hurricane Rita. Houses floated away from their foundation long before catastrophic the winds arrived.

Hurricane Rita had a higher storm surge, but Hurricane Audrey had a more powerful thrust because of its 30-mileper-hour forward movement at landfall. Yes, it is true that Rita came through a bunch of ghost towns with no people, but one could say that Audrey's right front quadrant came through many small ghost communities with no houses because most of them had already floated away.

Stephen and Florence Broussard, who lost four children during Hurricane Audrey, had their home picked up by a 12-foot storm surge (at low tide) and pushed across the marsh into White Lake and then floated across the nine-mile-wide lake. After the hurricane the Broussards took the dimensions from their insurance policy and rebuilt their home in exactly the same location and size. When Hurricane Rita came through, the house remained on the blocks, was not damaged, and had only two inches of water inside.

Harvey and Dean Stelly, former owners of Stelly's Grocery in Forked Island, told me about the Hildrie Stelly family from Pecan Island who escaped during Hurricane Audrey and headed due north in a heavy flatbed rice truck. They had a few close calls and were almost blown off the road. Luckily, the wind was blowing from the south to due

When they arrived at the old Intercoastal Canal at Little Prairie where the levees were between ten and fifteen feet high, the family crossed the bridge which opened to boat traffic. They managed to climb up the check point building, which was made of concrete. The bridge operator knew the family and gave them each a cup of coffee and some snacks.

While the Stelly family was in the building, the bridge operator pointed out a house that was heading toward the bridge. When the family turned to look, they saw their home, which had floated all the way from Pecan Island as it slammed against the levee at the old Intercoastal Canal check point building

FINAL ANSWERS

So, here is my answer to all of the Audrey and Rita survivors who called me on the phone and wrote me letters asking which was worse—Audrey or Rita. My answer is that although Rita was worse than Audrey in some regions because of the angle and location it made landfall, Audrey was worse than Rita in other regions because of the angle and location that it made landfall. When you make the following adjustments, the answer to the question becomes easier to assess:

*The nearly 600 lives lost during Hurricane Audrey

*The loss of housing, when the numbers are considered in proportion to the number of homes that existed in 1957

*The loss of trees

*Downed telephone poles *The destruction of the big oil storage tanks and offshore oil platforms

*Landfall at low tide

*The destruction of 19,500 homes for several miles, tons and tons of debris which was piled as high as 25 feet could be seen along the banks of the Intracoastal Canal.

*The more than 6.500 people who lay injured and sick hospitals all Louisiana and eastern Texas after the storm

*The tremendous heat inflicted upon survivors who were living in tents (1957 was one of the hottest on record)

*The number of sick and elderly who died in tents during the winter due to their exposure to the freezing rains and snow for the first time in many years because they were too proud to ask for help

*The loss of everything they owned (for some of them homes, families, and pictures were lost for a second time during Hurricane Rita)

Therefore, I am compelled to say that Hurricane Audrey will always be THE hurricane in Southwest Louisiana.

God bless the people in Cameron, Calcasieu, and Vermilion Parishes. prayers go out to those who have lost family members, homes, and businesses to hur-

By JEREMY HARPER American Press

The West Cameron Port has scored two legal victories this month in related cases against the Port of Lake Charles.

On Thursday, the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeal upheld a Cameron judge's ruling that the West Cameron Port's lawsuit against the Port of Lake Charles should be heard in a Cameron Parish

And earlier this month, a judge with the Federal Maritime Commission dismissed the Port of Lake Charles' complaint against the West Cameron Port over shipping fees the Cameron port plans to charge a natural gas company.

But it hasn't been all bad news lately for the Lake Charles port, which struck a deal with Cheniere Energy over the use of dredge disposal areas along the ship chan-nel, ending a lengthy dispute.

RULING UPHELD

Judge Ward Fontenot of 38th Judicial District Court in Cameron denied the Port of Lake Charles' request to move the trial to 14th Judicial District Court in Calcasieu Parish.

The Port of Lake Charles appealed that ruling to the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeal, but a three-judge panel issued a one-sentence statement: "We find no error in the trial court's ruling.

The lawsuit is over San Diego-based Sempra Energy's liquefied natural gas terminal being built in Cameron Parish on Port of Lake Charles property.

The $700 million plant is under construction near Hackberry along River Calcasieu Channel.

The West Cameron Port Board contends that the Port of Lake Charles cannot legally own land in Cameron Parish and sued the port last year for damages and to take over the property.

The Port of Lake Charles has the option of appealing the court's decision to the Louisiana Supreme Court. A port official declined to comment on the case.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED

Partly in response to the Cameron port's suit, the Port of Lake Charles later filed a complaint with the Federal Maritime Commission over Cheniere Energy's two LNG terminals planned for Cameron Parish.

The complaint focuses on Cheniere's Creole Trail LNG along the Calcasieu River Ship Channel and Sabine Pass LNG in southwestern Cameron Parish.

Cheniere has agreed to pay the West Cameron Port Board $1,000 for each LNG ship it navigates through the port's district - a charge the port calls a "wharfage" fee.

In its complaint, the Port of Lake Charles said the fees Cheniere has agreed to pay aren't for any actual service or the use of any facilities. It also alleges that the fees violate state and federal laws.

The complaint alleges that the Cameron port has signaled that it wants to impose similar vessel fees on Sempra, which the Port of Lake Charles said could threaten the project and future economic development.

The complaint asked for unspecified monetary damages and requests that the Cameron port's agreements with Cheniere be filed with Maritime Federal the Commission.

But an administration judge for the FMC ruled that the commission did not have jurisdiction in the matter because the Cameron Port does not qualify as a "marine

Urge governor to sign bill

Dear Editor:

After a great deal of effort from many people, including many concerned Cameron Parish citizens who made the trip to Baton Rouge to appear before the House Insurance Committee, the Legislature has passed Senate Bill 620. This bill states that insurance companies who act in bad faith will be exposed to penalties and attorney's fees in suits by policy holder.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH of Cameron is holding Vacation Bible school this week in its air conditioned tent with the help of a mission team from Portland (Ore.) State University Baptist Collegiate Ministry and volunteers from Vancouver, Wash., and Baton Rouge. The class is shown learning the Spacequest theme song. The church will

The bill has a great impact on Cameron Parish residents. There are no penalties or attorneys' fees imposed on the insurance companies unless there is a showing of bad

However, there is one more step before the bill becomes effective on Aug. 15 the Governor has to sign the bill. Messages can be sent to the Governor in care of Erin Mosely, 225-342-1331 or erin.mosely@la.gov.

Please take five minutes from your busy schedule today and call or e-mail the Governor. Ask her to please sign Senate Bill 620. The insurance companies are confident that she will veto this bill. Your opinion really does make a difference in a situation like this.

The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) has offered the Creole Nature Trail All-American Road (CNTAAR) the opportunity to reallocate over $333,000 in previously awarded grant funds to help with recovery of the trail. The CNTAAR District Board unanimously approved the measure, and attractions along the trail, including national wildlife refuges, will benefit from the board's decision.

The funds will be utilized primarily on the west side of the trail, LA Hwy. 27, in Cameron Parish, to repair the popular 1.5 mile walking trail on the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge known as the Wetland Walkway.

"The walkway, especially the board portion over the marsh, suffered extensive damage and washout," said Don Voros, director of the Southwest Louisiana Refuge Complex. "With the huge amount of debris that must be removed from the refuges and the total destruction of the Sabine refuge headquarters, the walkway would have been pretty low on our list. ### Information available on Guidelines tax returns and storms

As taxpayers impacted by Hurricane Katrina, Rita or Wilma complete their 2005 tax returns, they may want to consult Publication 4492, Information for Taxpayers Affected by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma, IRS.gov or the IRS Disaster Hotline for updated details on Hurricane-related tax relief.

Included in Publication 4492 is detailed information highlighting legislation -both the Katrina Emergency Tax Relief Act of 2005 and the Gulf Opportunity Zone Act of 2005 -- passed last year offering tax relief for people impacted by the 2005 Hurricanes as well as relief workers. Publication 4492 includes information on:

- Net Operating Losses Distributions from IRAs and other retirement plans · Claiming the Earned Income Tax Credit

WASHINGTON - The IRS issued guidance recently to assist Hurricane Katrina, Rita and Wilma victims claiming casualty and theft losses on their individual income tax returns.

The guidance, outlined in Revenue Procedure 2006-32, provides information on several safe harbor methods that individual taxpayers may use in determining their casualty and theft loss deductions under section 165 of the Internal Revenue Code. The safe harbor methods apply to personal-use residential real property and certain personal belongings damaged or destroyed as a result of Hurricanes Katrina, Rita or Wilma.

The revenue procedure provides three safe harbor methods that individuals may use to determine the decrease in fair market value of personal-use residential real property. The revenue procedure also provides a fourth safe harbor method that individuals may use to determine the fair market value of certain personal belongings immediately before Hurricanes Katrina, Rita or

These safe harbor methods provide individuals, who may have lost their records or otherwise are unable to determine proper values, with optional ways to determine the decrease in fair market value of personal use residential real property and the prehurricane value of certain personal belongings.

However, individuals may use the methods of determining these values described in Publication 547, Casualties, Disasters, and Thefts, rather than a safe harbor method.

Should I move my car if am involved in a wreck?

By JIM DONELON La. Commissioner of

Insurance
Q: Should I move my car after an accident or leave it where it stopped until the police get there? I seem to remember that the law has changed in recent years.

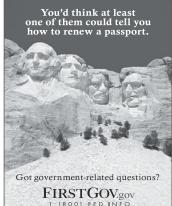

A: You are right about the change in the law. When many of us began driving, we knew exactly what was to be done at the scene of the accident. You were to leave your vehicle right where it stopped after the wreck. You didn't move it until law enforcement arrived, filled out an accident report and told you to move it.

However, in the midnineties the law was changed in an attempt to reduce the number of secondary accidents and traffic jams. Current law calls for the moving of vehicles from four-lane thoroughfares or interstate highways after a minor accident.

The drivers are to move the vehicle "to the nearest safe shoulder," if the driver and passengers are not seriously injured and the car is

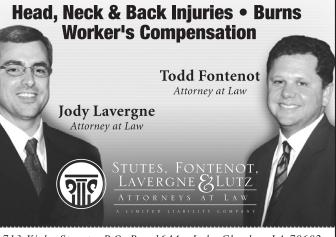

All indications are that the law has helped to cut down on the frequency of huge traffic jams and secondary accidents, which sometimes involve fatalities.

If you have a wreck on a roadway, here is what to do. First of all, make sure that no one has been injured and that motor vehicle damage is light before you attempt to move the vehicle. Also make mental note of just how the vehicles were positioned after the Biologists from Ducks Unlimited explained how the Gulf Coast is one of their major waterfowl wintering grounds and how our Gulf Coast and marshes are being lost at a rate of a football field every thirty minutes.

The biologists stated that with the ship channels, North and South, the Intracoastal waterways, East and West have allowed saltwater to intrude into our freshwater marshes. It was said that there is need for more water control structures to help control the saltwater intrusion into our marshes, but these structures would help build up our marshes. An example is the levees and weirs built along Big Lake on the east side, which has stopped land

Dove Moreland, Administrator Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, talked about the effects of hurricanes, the amount of land loss, the long drought we've had. Deer and rabbit should rebound, loss of trees could be tough on turkey, but deer and squirrel should be down.

FISHING

In the Cameron Jetty and the Holly Beach areas, they're catching Spanish mackerel that has been schooling.

Off-shore fishing is at its best. Anglers say they're having good catches of red snapper fishing the oil platform. There are also reports of a few lings taken and king macker-

Commercial fishing for deepwater groupers ends

The commercial fishery for groupers Louisiana waters will close at 12:01 a.m. on June 27, 2006, and will remain closed until the opening of the spring commercial deepwater grouper season on Jan. 2007. The deepwater grouper assemblage includes misty, snowy, yellowedge, Warsaw grouper, and speckled hind.

The decision was made by Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Secretary Dwight Landreneau, following notification by the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) that the Federal waters of the Gulf of Mexico will close for the commercial harvest of deepwater groupers from 12:01 a.m. June 27 until 12:01 a.m. Jan. 1, 2007, and per a request from NMFS.

Regulations for the deepwater grouper fishery in the Gulf of Mexico include a commercial quota. Based on reported landings, National Marine Fisheries Service will close the deepwater grouper commercial fishery in Federal waters off Louisiana at 12:01 a.m. on June 27, 2006, and requested that the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries enact compatible rules. NMFS requested conregulations sistent Louisiana waters to enhance effectiveness and enforceability of regulations.

Secretary Landreneau was authorized by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission at their January, 2006 meeting to take these actions to provide consistent regulations between state and adjacent Federal waters, and noted that the season closure is necessary to prevent overfishing of the species assemblage.

The commission also authorized Landreneau to change or modify opening and closing dates for commercial deep-water grouper seasons in Louisiana waters to comply

Places of historical interest, or for interest for tourism will be included. Nine sites in Cameron Parish have been submitted for inclusion. Each is of historical or tourism interest. They include:

Sabine Pass Lighthouse, considered to be the "Father of Gulf Coast Lighthouses." It figured in the Civil War. Located at the mouth of the Sabine River, on the extreme southwestern end of Cameron Parish and Louisiana, it has weathered a civil war, hurricanes, and time. The light flashed its first powerful signal in 1857 and continued until the outbreak of the Civil War. The Confederate government extinguished its powerful signal light, along with 163 others, to prevent Union ships from entering southern ports.

Sabine Migratory Wildlife Refuge, located on the road between Hackberry and Holly Beach. Headquarters is located on highway. All sorts of wildlife can be seen along highway. Alligators can usually be seen swimming in roadside ditches.

North America. The Doxey home, located on Grand Chenier, is an antebellum home now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Crain. It was constructed in 1840 by William Doxey, one of the first settlers in the area. It once house a cigar factory. It is the oldest standing home in Grand Chenier. The Little Chenier area is the site of the giant Indian mound in the parish. It was built and used by the Attakapas and is thought by historians to have been a ceremonial mound used in religious ceremonies. Few white men came to the area during the time of the Indian, with the exception of a handful of Lafitte's pirates. Legend has it that the Indians were completely wiped out by a smallpox epidemic carried into the area by the men from one of Jean Lafitte's ships.

The Jean Velor Theriot home was built in 1847 by the first white settler in the area, Jean Velor Theriot. Located in the Chenier Perdue area, the home is still occupied by family descendants, the Adam Conner family. Theriot became a cattle baron and established a vast ranch in the marsh and shipped his cattle to market via the Mermentau River.

Monkey Island, just across the Calcasieu river from the town of Cameron, was the site of the Battle of Calcasieu Pass, one of the most important battles of the Civil War and was said by historians to have put an end to "Jayhawker depredations upon Cameron Parish citizenry." Union soldiers are buried on the island.

Chevron today announced the launch of Energy for Learning, an $18 million program to support public school education in 23 Louisiana and Mississippi school districts affected by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

Cameron Parish schools are scheduled to get $2 million of these grants.

'Public school education is crucial to the social and economic vitality of communities and it is our hope that the Energy for Learning program will help communities in Louisiana and Mississippi grow stronger than ever," said Dave O'Reilly, chairman and CEO of Chevron Corporation. "Energy for Learning is an investment in the future of students in Louisiana and Mississippi affected by the hurricanes and our 4,700 employees there who manage our diverse operations.

Following consultation with the respective district and state superintendents of education in Louisiana and Mississippi, Energy for Learning has been developed to address the education priorities of 23 school districts by equipping public schools with academic materials and technology such as science labs and I.T. equipment, as well as reinstating student programs that help develop physical and personal skills. Energy for Learning also will provide support for the restoration of child-care facilities replicating Mississippi, Chevron's successful Daycare Restoration Project in the Chevron state, where restored 40 child-care centers damaged by Hurricane Katrina. Hank Bounds, Dr. Mississippi states superintendent of education, commented, "The program is a demonstration of the value of partnerships with companies such as Chevron, which has proactively engaged us in addressing the education needs in the region and was a leader in restoring child-care centers immediately after Katrina struck. Energy for Learning will help us meet the physical, emotional and developmental needs of Mississippi's youngest children, and at the same time, enhance K-12 academic achievement. It's great for Mississippi to have a business partner that under-

Travel trailer residents should be prepared

Although Louisiana has had more than its share of devastation from Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, there is no guarantee the storms predicted for this year will bypass the state. Officials with the Emergency Federal Management Agency (FEMA) and the State of Louisiana remind travel trailer residents that if a tropical storm is predicted they must be ready to evacuate.

"A tropical storm warning indicates winds are sustained between 39 and 73 mph. If a warning is issued you should be prepared to vacate your travel trailer," said Jim Stark, acting director of FEMA's Transitional Recovery Office in Louisiana. "The high winds generated by a tropical storm or hurricane can cause damage to travel trailers. If a Category 1 hurricane develops this means winds will reach 74 miles per hour. At this level extensive damage can be caused."

Obviously, hurricanes above Category 1 mean even greater destruction. Travel trailers are anchored to the ground at the front and in the rear, but it is considered unsafe to try to remain in them during high winds. If a storm is forecast, listen to your local officials for guid-

Volunteers needed for marine debris survey

By KEVIN A. SAVOIE

Hurricane Rita scattered residential, industrial and vegetative debris throughout the Calcasieu Lake estuary system, creating a hazard for recreational and commercial boaters, as well as their vessels and gear. In an attempt to make the waters safer, and to guide future cleanup operations, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Office of Coast Survey, Louisiana Sea College Program (Louisiana Sea Grant), Coastal Association Conservation (CCA), Lake Charles Power Squadron, LSU AgCenter, Louisiana Depart-ment of Wildlife and Fisheries, and Lake Charles Pilots have teamed up to mark and map as much of this marine debris as possible.

Volunteers are needed in Calcasieu and Cameron parishes for the Marine Debris Marking and Mapping Project on Calcasieu Lake, Moss Lake and West Cove from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday, June 24. Volunteers will be provided with maps and markers and will travel in their own boats to assigned areas of the lake to look for debris. They will mark floating debris with foam floats, and submerged debris will be marked with PVC pipe. Volunteers will remove any small debris they can safely bring to shore and will be asked to write down the location of all debris they mark. Additionally, boaters and residents are asked to report the location of any marine hazards they have encountered in these areas at: http://www.laseagrant.org/debri

Volunteers should meet at 8 a.m., Saturday, June 24, 2006, at Calcasieu Point Landing, 3955 Henry Pugh Blvd., in Lake Charles to register and pick up supplies. Registered volunteers will be treated to lunch and drinks.

Calcasieu Lake is roughly 18 miles long and 10 miles across at its widest point and is part of a much larger estuary system fed by the Calcasieu River. These waters are used by charter boat operators and recreational fishermen alike. The area supports oyster, crab, and shrimp harvesting, contains a deep-draft shipping channel, and offers Gulf of Mexico access at the town of Cameron.

The immediate goal of this project is to assist in Louisiana's hurricane recovery by reducing storm-driven navigation hazand environmental threats. The long-term objective is to facilitate a cleanup of the Calcasieu estuary and to educate people about marine debris.

Chartlette graphics of the three survey sites (Calcasieu Lake, Moss Lake to the north, and West Cove to the southsouthwest) were assembled by NOAA, and these locations were divided into transects approximately every 100 meters. Each transect has been assigned an exclusive number to eliminate duplicate effort. GPS coordinates for both the beginning and end of each transect will be provided, and volunteers are asked to follow one complete transect line the day of the survey. Any large marine debris encountered will be described, logged using GPS (LAT/LON), and uniformly marked.

Debris that has the potential to shift, move or sink with the tidal current will be marked with an orange foam bullet float. These floats were carefully selected so as to not interfere with U.S. Coast Guard markers and other navigational aids. Stationary or submerged debris will be flagged with 1.5-inch diameter PVC pipe pushed into the soft lake bottom. Note that none of these markers are officially sanctioned aids to naviga-

The location of marine debris hazards reported by volunteers will be combined and mapped by NOAA. This information will be available online as they are completed.

The second phase of this project will use side-scan sonar to assess and map submerged debris that is not visible above the waterline.
