Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I enjoyed my first Marshland Festival tremendously. A first for the Festival, that went over extremely well, were the shuttle vans. I rode the shuttle for several hours, both Saturday and Sunday, talking with people who rode them. From the elderly to the children, and all ages in between, everyone was greatful for the ride, as well as a brief relief from the heat.

Many of the usual parking problems were alleviated. Parking areas and shuttle pick-up areas were clearly designated.

Good job!

Hackberry

KLONDIKE WATER

The Klondike pump started again this week, the water being fresh enough. There has been salt water yet around here, but seven or eight miles below, the water was brackish. There is considerable salt near Mermentau coming from the oil field.

MOSQUITOES AT GRAND CHENIER

Morse, La. -- Several parties from Grand Chenier arrived here today and state that the mosquito pest is playing havoc there with all animal life. They say the mosquitoes are so thick they form clouds in the air. (The mosquitoes were bad all over South Louisiana at least as far as Baton Rouge at this time.).

NEW MARKET FOR GRAND CHENIER CROPS

With the opening of the Intercoastal Canal to navigation, which is expected about September first, there will be an attempt by the Abbeville merchants to extend their trade operations to Pecan Island and Grand chenier, both of which produce fine crops and are within easy distance. There is quite a fleet of motor boats in the Bayou Vermilion and these will at first be utilized for the purpose.

(Cameron Pilot, July 17, 1959)
LIGHTNING IGNITES BIG OIL TANK

The Cameron volunteer fire department tackled one of the most dangerous fires that it has ever been up against Saturday afternoon and came out victorious in ten minutes time.

At about 3 p.m. Saturday, lightning struck and set on fire one of the two big oil storage tanks on the Superior Tank Farm located on the Front Ridge Road bout eight miles east of Cameron.

When the truck and the dozen or so firemen arrived at the scene, flames were shooting six to eight feet into the air from the tank. It was quickly seen that the blaze could not be extinguished from the ground, and chief Ray Burleigh and four other firemen climbed a ladder to the top of the tank to spray the fire with foam at considerable personal risk.

However, the flames were quickly put out with no harm coming to any of the firemen.

The same lightning bolt caused the electric dryer in Ernest Taber's house to give out a big puff of smoke although the dryer continued to operate normally afterwards.

About the same time, another bolt hit Vic LaBove's house between Cameron and Creole burning the paint off the wall behind his television set. No damage was done to the television, however.

SALVAGE OPERATIONS

A half dozen or so of daring Cameron men have extinguished the fires on the abandoned Belgian motorship Anvers and claimed it as a prize under maritime salvage laws, but developments this week could prove their efforts wasted.

The ship, which caught on fire and was bandoned by its crew two weeks ago just off Cameron, was boarded by the Cameron men late Thursday night of last week under cover of darkness. A tug hired by the owners to watch the ship did not discover the boarding until the next morning.

The men fought the fire for five straight days before bringing it under control Tuesday afternoon. The fires in the cargo holds were extinguished with water pumped by the salvagers, but the burning oil in the engine room could not be put out until foam equipment was secured. All the blazes were finally put out Tuesday night.

There was a question of whether the ship had been actually abandoned by the owners. A letter delivered to the boarders Tuesday from the ship's agent declared that the ship had been attended at all times by a tug and "directed" the salvagers to leave the ship at once.

The salvagers refused and maintained that the tug did not have a line on the ship when they boarded it and that it was a fair prize.

KLONDIKE'S FIREY WELL NEARING END

(By Mrs. Edwin Ellender)

The long-burning Texas company well on the A. M. Zwan lease may soon be extinguished.

When the well first blew out three months ago, so much damage was being done to the nearby farms by erupting distillate and gas that it was intentionally ignited on April 16th. Before the well was set afire, all the nearby residents were evacuated from their homes. In minutes the steel derrick was a mass of smoldering ruins.

Since that time it has been burning intensely. It has illuminated the country for miles around and can be seen at a radius of approximately 25 miles. The Kondikers need no outside lights and the roaring and rumbling sound can be heard as far as Lake Arthur.

JEFF DAVIS ELEC. TRIC MEMBERSHIP

The Jefferson Davis Electric Cooperative, which serves the parishes of Cameron and Jeff Davis, has more than regained the membership which it lost during Hurricane Audrey two years ago, members were told at the annual meeting of the coop held in Cameron Monday. Some 500 or 600 members completely filled the courtroom for the short meeting.

Charles M. Davis, secretary-treasurer, reported that the membership had dropped from 3,347 in 1956 to 2,893 in 1957 following the storm in which more than 400 Cameron persons lost their lives. But today, he said, the membership has surpassed the 1956 mark and now stands at 3,647.

HUGE MENHADEN RUN

The biggest and best news around Cameron this week was the huge pogy run, which started four weeks ago and which is still going strong with a record season rapidly becoming a possibility this year.

This weekend is expected to be a tremendous one. Gulf Menhaden Co. is expected to pay out nearly $100,000 to its fishermen for the past two weeks; Louisiana Menhaden will also have a whopping payroll.

During the reporting period of June 15, 1992 to July 14, 1992 the Cameron Parish Waterworks District #7 water supply violated the maximum contaminant level of coliform bacteria as set forth in the State and Federal Primary Drinking Water Regulations. Action is being taken to eliminate the contamination.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that the presence of total coliforms is a possible health concern. Total coliforms are common in the environment and are generally not harmful themselves. The presence of these bacteria in drinking water, however, generally is a result of a problem with water treatment of the pipes which distribute the water, and indicates that the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possible jaundice, and any associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease-causing organisms in drinking water, but also may be caused by a number of factors other than your drinking water. EPA has set an enforceable drinking water standard for total coliforms to reduce the risks of these adverse health effects. Drinking water which meets this standard is usually not associated with a health risk from disease-causing bacteria and should be considered safe.

July

36th Year—No. 8

THE ROCK BREAKWATERS completed last year in the Constance Beach area of Cameron parish can be seen in this aerial photo of the beach subdivision. More breakwaters are to be constructed this year in the Holly Beach area.

Breakwater project starting up again

Officials of the Dept. of Natural Resources and members of the press inspected the Holly Beach Breakwater Project last Thursday and found that the first phase of the project, completed last year, seems to be working.

The officials included John F. Ales, department secretary; N. J. Damico, deputy secretary; Dave Soileau, assistant secretary, coastal management division; and Dr. Bill Good, administrator of the Coastal Restoration Division.

Also on hand for the inspection were Rep. Randy Roach, Senator Cecil Picard and Rodney Guilbeaux, Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce president.

The breakwater project was designed to protect 50,000 acres of coastal wetlands north of La. Highway 82, and to stabilize and maintain the Holly Beach to Ocean View Beach shoreline.

When completed, the first phase will constitute the longest segmented breakwater project in the world.

Phase One begins at Ocean View Beach and continues eastward 4.6 miles towards Holly Beach. Phase Two will begin at the eastward limit of Phase One and continue to Holly Beach. Upon completion of Phase One and Two, this breakwater protection project will extend for a distance of approximately ten miles.

A third phase is being evaluated at the present time which will begin at Holly Beach and continue eastward towards the Calcasieu Ship Channel. The total length of shoreline to be protected by Phase Three has not yet been determined.

The stone breakwater structures are 150 feet long and are placed 300 feet apart from each other. The 300 foot gaps allow for inshore transport of sand and fisheries access.

Fifty-five breakwater structures will be constructed to complete this first phase. Thirty-four breakwaters were finished last year, and twenty-one are planned for construction this year, with four breakwater structures already completed this summer.

The structures are being placed approximately 300 to 600 feet outward from the shoreline, in water four to six feet deep.

The total cost of Phase One will be $5.3 million, with $3.5 million funded through the State General Fund and the remainder ($2.8 million) coming from the State Wetlands Restoration Fund. The approximate cost of each breakwater structure is $100,000.

Without a project of this type, the chenier underlying Hwy. 82 would quickly disappear causing rapid erosion of the marshes north of the highway.

DOTD provided the engineering design. Luhr Bros., Inc. was awarded the construction contract.

Bo o be closed on Sabine Refuge

Refuge Manager Will Nidecker announced that due to local drought conditions and increasing salinities in the Cameron-Creole marshes, the boat bay at Grand Bayou will be closed on weekdays and open on weekends.

Grand Bayou is the major water exchange point in the watershed. During drought periods, salt water is pushed through Grand Bayou deep into the marshes killing freshwater plants and fish. The Watershed Management Plan requires that salinities do not exceed certain levels in the marsh. If they are exceeded, all the structures must be closed. Management of Grand Bayou, open on weekends and closed on weekdays, is designed to keep this from happening.

Cajun Riviera Festival set

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Plans were made for the Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce's help at the Holly Beach Cajun Riviera Festival, set for Aug. 7-9, at the monthly meeting of the Chamber last week.

Chamber members will help set up the festival grounds and will man the Sea Grant booth, where they will conduct a survey and pass out information.

Police Juror George LeBouef reported that the police jurors had a meeting in Baton Rouge with Jude Patin, the new highway department director, regarding local highway problems.

The director promised the jury that he will be in Cameron Parish soon to make a survey of the local needs.

Dinah Nunez, director of the Cameron Council on Aging, reported that the council now has a Senior Team, where for a small donation of $10 a year a person can become a part of the team.

Bill Turnbull reported that the new Cameron Parish brochures are in.

A special meeting will be held in the Chamber office on July 23, with Seantor Picard and Rep. Roach to discuss parish transportation problems.

The next Chamber meeting will be held at noon on Aug. 20, at the Chamber office.

Hayes votes against unfair competition

The House of Representatives, with Congressman Jimmy Hayes' strong support, voted Tuesday to overturn communist China's Most-Favored-Nation (MFN) status and to place conditions that China must meet in order to regain its preferential trade treatment. These MFN benefits have allowed China to gain a competitive advantage over domestic producers in the crawfish and shrimping industries.

"Today, the House overturned what I consider to be one of the most outrageous policies ever enacted by our nation's government," Hayes said. "While the federal government imposed oppressive regulations on crawfish farmers and shrimpers, they welcomed these same products from our Chinese competitors at reduced rates. These Chinese goods have been harvested without any of the burdensome federal rules that have made it impossible for Louisianians to compete in the international market.

"This year, government bureaucrats have been regulating two vital businesses out of existence, while their colleagues at the State Department are increasing China's trade advantage over the United States by $7.3 billion in 1992 alone," Hayes continued.

Hayes cited regulations requiring increased Turtle Excluder Device (TED) use and overzealous wetland regulation, created without any mandate from either Congress or the people, as examples of the federal government working against small businesses in Louisiana during difficult economic times. Rules requiring TED use have been attacked by shrimpers for reducing their catch, and wetland regulations have prevented crawfish farms from being permitted in the marshy areas where they must be located.

Davis again umpire at DY World Series

Mike Davis, manager of the Cameron Insurance Agency, has been named for the second straight year as one of the umpires for the Dixie Youth Baseball World Series.

The series will be held in August in Birmingham, Ala. and will continue all week.

Davis umpired for the series last year in Texarkana, Tex. and is one of eight umpires from this region asked to work the 1992 series.

Davis, who has been umpiring for ten years, says it is an honor to be elected for the World Series. However, it not very profitable since umpires are only paid $25 a game and must pay all of their travel, food and hotel expenses. He said last year it cost him about $500 out of pocket expenses.

Davis has been the manager of the Cameron Insurance Agency office since 1990. He makes his home in Sulphur.

No clinic

The Cameron Parish Health Unit announces that the clinic originally scheduled for Thursday, July 23, will not be held.

Hosp. District created

(Abbeville Meridional, July 24, 1909.)
LAKESIDE LACONICS

Toyre Heaurteant has a swift boat. It is claimed she makes the trip from the Cheniere to Lake Arthur in 2 hours, and it certainly looks as if the assertion were true the way she gets up the lake.

Cattle are still dying in this vicinity. Alcee Broussard claims his loss so far, fully $500 in cattle; quite a number have died for Mr. Cesare Broussard and the end is not yet in sight. It is hard to decide what the trouble is; some claim it is charbon and others not. It would require an expert to decide and none has arrived here as yet.

(Cameron Pilot, July 24, 1959.)
HOSPITAL DISTRICT CREATED

The Lower Cameron Hospital Service District, comprising most of the parish south of the Intracoastal Canal between the Calcasieu River and the Vermilion line, has been created by the Cameron Parish Police Jury, which also appointed a board of commissioners.

The board is composed of Dr. S. E. Carter and Dr. G. W. Dix, both of Creole, who will serve for two years; Dr. Cecil Clark and James L. Derouen, both of Cameron, who will serve for four years; and Edison Mhire of Grand Chenier, who will serve for six years. Terms were decided by the drawing of lots.

At the first meeting of the board last Wednesday, Mr. Mhire was elected chairman of the board, and Mr. Derouen, vice chairman. J. B. Jones, Jr., assistant district attorney, was appointed secretary.

A special meeting well be held sometime next week at which time a bond election is expected to be called to raise funds for the construction of a hospital in the district. The old Creole school site was chosen as the location several months ago.

Efforts to secure a hospital for the lower part of the parish were begun two years ago shortly after Hurricane Audrey when the Louisiana American Legion carried out a nationwide fund campaign to raise money for a hospital here. Some $50,000 was raised for this purpose, but additional funds will have to be voted by the district.

Highway problem told

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

I have a special problem that has bothered me all weekend, and I don't know how to solve it.

My son, Leslie, and I have always liked to keep up our right of way along La. Hwy. 82 which runs in front of our homes on Oak Grove.

Not only do we not want the poison sprayed on the grass, which produces the unsightly yellow dead weeds and grass, but also it kills the beautiful native iris and cattail plants which grow wild in the ditches.

When the highway department first started spraying the poison I contacted them and asked them not to spray in front of my home because we maintained it ourselves.

This did not always work, as many times the workers failed to raise the arm on the herbicide machine when they reached our property.

The herbicide would not only spray the right of way, but also drifted further out killing everything in its wake, including one of my neighbor's tomato patch this year.

My son purchased some beautiful weeping willow trees and planted them along against the fence row on the marsh side, interspersed with pampas grass and some hackberry trees.

We were so proud of the beauty it brought to the area, with the barrow ditch behind the fence that contain the native irises and cattails which have come back since the poisoning has ceased.

The trees were 30 feet back from the middle of the road and in no way could be close enough to impair any of the road traffic, as they were down in the ditch.

Well, Friday morning the highway road crew came along with instructions to cut down all trees

My son had seen them doing it further down the road and stopped and asked them not to cut ours down.

Evidently the workers were deaf because they paid no attention to him and when he got home his beautiful willows were chopped down and the hackberry trees mutilated and everything left right where they were cut on the ground, now reduced to piles of brown trash along the road.

As we all know, our economy is in very bad shape because of our dependence on the oil industry.

The state has sent specialists here and the federal government has set up grants to create a tourist industry to try to attract tourist dollars to the area.

Evidently the DOTD has turned a deaf ear to this, as they have done everything they could to make the "Creole Nature Trail" an unsightly trail to visit.

I spent the weekend researching the records on the highway right of way on Oak Grove, and found that it was originally just a trail until Amedy Pujo Welch deeded the parish a right of way through his land for a public road on Dec. 8, 1919, then the Cameron Parish Police Jury deeded it to the Louisiana Highway Commission on Nov. 18, 1929.

The land had been in our family since the 1850's.

I had heard that it was very vague in the public records just how much right of way the Highway Department has. I do not fault them for maintaining the right of way, but do question the way they do it.

How could they cut down our trees that were up against a fence that was located 30 feet from the middle of the road, even if it was a few inches inside of their right of way, not even using any discretion at all?

Police Juror George LeBouef informed the Chamber of Commerce this week that Jude Patin, the new State Highway Director, is coming to Cameron some time in the next week or two to look over the needs of the parish.

I wonder what he would think if he passes in front of my house and sees all this old brown heap of dead wood just left along their right of way.

I have reported this to Bill Hayman, the District Director of the Highway Department in Lake Charles, who told me that some people had complained about some of the trees in the parish hanging over the road. This wasn't the case in our situation.

This is the way I feel about it, if those people don't like it they should stay away.

We are very proud of our natural beauty in Cameron and our uniqueness and do not want to look like we are on an interstate highway.

Do you think there is any way we could go back to the trails of the olden days, or possibly we could secede from the state and tend to our own things ourselves, without having to ask anybody to do it?

I was very proud of our Police Juror in our area, Ray Conner, when for the second year in a row he did not cut the wild flowers along the front ridge, or Trosclair, road until they quit blooming, and this year even erected "Wild Flower Area" signs dedicating the parish right of way to preserving some of our natural beauty.

It would be a blessing if the parish instead of the state could take over the maintenance of our Hug the Coast Highway along Oak Grove and Grand Chenier.

The parish workers know how to take care of the highways and how to preserve the natural beauty that is all around us.

Parish delegation goes to convention

By CHARLES COLE

A delegation from the Cameron NAACP Chapter attended the recent NAACP National Convention in Nashville, Tenn. They were Louise Cole, chapter president, and Natashia Turner and Belinda Jack, delegates.

Dr. Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, presented the Democratic presidential hopefuls, Gov. Bill Clinton and Senator Al Gore, to the delegation which gave them their support.

Clinton and Gore worked the delegates into a hand clapping, hymn singing frenzy.

The Cameron parish delegation is pictured above with William Hobley, chairman of the Human Rights Committee. From left: Jack, Hobley, Turner and Cole.

Things looked at patiently from one side after another generally end by showing a side that is beautiful.

Newspaper recycling reasons explained

- "Recycle your newspapers and save our forests."

"For every ton of paper recycled, we will save 17 trees."

These altruistic assumptions seem logical and well-intentioned enough. The sentiments are right, but the premise is wrong, according to Dr. Alden C. Main, Extension forester with the LSU Agricultural Center.

"While there are indeed good reasons to recycle paper products, saving trees isn't one of them," Main says. "Contrary to popular belief, collecting more paper to use again in paper rycling operations will not save our forests. In fact, some experts say the recycling may lead to fewer trees being planted."

The Extension forester adds that when most people think of the trees they'll save, they're usually thinking of the giant, picturesque trees in the great forests of the Pacific Northwest. Fact is that those trees are seldom, if ever, harvested to make paper.

That's because they're too valuable for that purpose. The large trees of the nation's Northwest mainly are harvested to make lumber and the panel products that we use in home building. The only way to harvest fewer of these big trees is to build fewer houses, Main contends.

Most trees used in making paper come from the thinning of tree stands or from waste products resulting from making lumber, plywood or veneer.

"Many such trees that are removed would have died, regardless of whether they were harvested," Main says. "And the growth of the crop trees thinned increases."

A basic reason why more paper recycling won't save trees has to do with the economics of tree farming, he explains. The trees used for paper are being planted and harvested like any other crop. The more we rely on recycled "waste" paper for paper making, the less we'll rely on tree farmers who plant and manage the virgin fiber. As the demand for their trees drops, so will the incentive they'll have to grow new trees.

American forests don't need to be saved, Main contends. That's because foresters are replanting or managing them to encourage natural regrowth.

"This means that we're growing more trees than we're harvesting or losing to insects and diseases," Main adds. "In fact, contrary to popular belief, the United States actually has more trees today than it had 70 years ago."

He encourages consumers to continue collecting old newspapers and magazines. The U.S. paper industry has set a goal to recycle the maximum amount that is technologically and economically feasible.

Outpatient Cardiology...

Quality care... with no overnight hospital stay.

A hospital's concern for cost to the patient is not always so apparent, but St. Patrick's Outpatient Cardiology Services addresses both cost reduction and convenience, while offering that patient state-of-the-art cardiology procedures of only the highest quality.

Procedures like heart catheterization and coronary angiography allow accurate diagnosis by taking detailed pictures of blood vessels and measurement of pressures within the various heart chambers. In many instances these tests can now be done without staying overnight.

This, of course, means less cost to our patients, and less intrusion upon their daily routines... with no compromise in the quality of care received.

These Feet Were Made For Walking

Nearly 60 million Americans are striding toward fitness. Sixty-four percent of all people who participate in regular workouts prefer walking to other forms of cardiovascular exercises. Many experts have concluded that walking is one of the safest and most efficient forms of exercise. Walking briskly for one mile in 15 minutes burns as many calories as running the same mile in 8½ minutes—but walking does not cause as much stress on bones and joints as running. Walking can be done almost anytime, anywhere, and at any age. Walking can help you:

• lose weight • tone muscles • improve concentration
• reduce blood pressure • relieve back pain and headaches
• prolong life by reducing the risks of heart disease

Oddities in society

Oddities have always abounded in society. They always will. Some take the form of eccentricities in people; others are peculiar results of nature. Some are sad; others, amusing; many are merely interesting.

I remember that back in the 1970's, Geneva Griffith, Cameron's star journalist, wrote of an unusual crop harvested by the Victor Thornton family on Monkey Island.

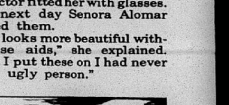
It seems that when the Thorntons started to dig their bumper crop of potatoes they found tiny tomatoes growing on top of the potato vines.

The phenomenon seemed unexplainable. They had no tomatoes in their garden. County Agent Clifford Myers offered a plausible explanation. Potatoes and tomatoes, Myers said, belong to the same family. He conjectured that high winds had blown pollen from a nearby garden and had cross-pollinated it with the potato blossoms.

He explained that Luther Burbank, the late plant wizard of the United States, had years ago produced a plant called a pomato, which grew potatoes under ground and tomatoes above. The result had been achieved by cross pollination.

Another oddity is that of a "fertilized" car that went berserk on a drive from Longview, Texas, to Shreveport, Louisiana. The couple in the car were perplexed when their automobile began to smoke and the dashboard blazed with warning lights.

It turned out that the owner had put liquid fertilizer instead of antifreeze into the car. He had fed the anti-freeze which he kept in one of the fertilizer bottles to his pear tree. We trust that it protected the tree from ole man winter.



Sheep, cows, and pigs in Britain enjoy their "coffee breaks." A cattle cake, developed by a British research firm, contains coffee. It is called Cherco, containing coffee grounds as an important ingredient.

Perhaps it was eccentricity on the part of 77-year-old Senora Paca Alomar of Spain, or perhaps it was a deep love of beauty that prompted her action.

It was her first examination by a doctor. Her health was perfect; only her vision was limited. The good doctor fitted her with glasses.

The next day Senora Alomar returned them.

"Life looks more beautiful without false aids," she explained. "Before I put these on I had never met an ugly person."

Scholars believe the first wallpaper was made in Europe during the 1500's.

Spring: The Right Time To Buy A Room Air Conditioner

The calendar says it's spring, and so do the balmy breezes drifting through the windows. "But," remind home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, "when spring comes, the hot, humid summer isn't usually far behind."

And spring is the best time to prepare for that summer weather by selecting the new air conditioner needed for the family room. According to Whirlpool home economists, the purchase process requires some planning and shopping time.

The most important purchase factor is to size the unit to the area to be cooled. An air conditioner not only cools the air, it dehumidifies it. An oversized unit can cool a room quickly, but shut off before it can dehumidify adequately—leaving the room with an uncomfortable feel. One that's too small can neither cool nor dehumidify a room properly.

Whirlpool home economists suggest taking this list of information and questions with you to the appliance store:

- Size of area to be cooled.
- Is room sunny, shaded, insulated?
- Window size and available electric outlets (120 volt or 240 volt?).
- EER (energy efficiency rating) available in size needed. High efficiency models may have a higher purchase price, but savings in operating costs can often return that difference quickly.

CHICAGO TRIP WON

Ernest Carol Trahan, Johnson Bayou High School student and 4-H Club member, won a trip to Chicago for being one of the top winners in the fur judging contest at the annual 4-H Club short course in Baton Rouge last week.

Two other Cameron Parish 4-H clubbers won blue ribbons for being among the top five contestants in their respective contests. They were Richard Broussard, Grand Lake High, in boy's health improvement; and Pat O'Donnell, South Cameron High, in girl's health improvement.

OLD JOHNSON BAYOU SCHOOL SOLD

The old Johnson Bayou High School building was sold last week by the school board to three separate bidders. Being replaced by a new building, the old building will be torn down or moved in sections.

Albert Cohen was successful bidder on the auditorium with a bid of $200. The Johnson Bayou Baptist Church got the lunchroom for $250 and will move it next to the church, and a Mr. Merritt got the school rooms for $325.

CAUSEWAY ACCIDENT

The Sabine Lake Causeway was badly damaged and its bridge tender was killed Monday night at 8:45 p.m. when a loaded shell barge ploughed into the structure which joins Cameron Parish and Jefferson County, Texas.

The bridge tinder, Otis Paul Billiot, 53, of Johnson Bayou, was thrown into 35 feet of water along with the 10-ton control room from which the causeway's center swingspan was operated.

The accident marked the fourth time in recent months that the causeway has been struck by barges and tugs. Damages done to the bridge by previous accidents still had not been repaired at the time of the new accident Monday.

JERRY FINALLY GETS A VACATION

If all goes well by the time you read this, Joy and I will be well on our way to a week's vacation in Colorado, our first since the establishment of the PILOT almost three years ago. Hurricane Audrey spoiled our vacation plans in 1957, and the pending arrival of our second daughter did the same for 1958. With neither of these eventualities in immediate sight, we are hoping to make it this time.

Southwest Builder Editor Ray Broussard in Sulphur and our able reporter, Mrs. Geneva Griffith, will be more or less watching the store in our absence.

Gulf Coast Bird Club

by Marianna Tanner
Gulf Coast Bird Club

With the first warm days of summer comes the urge to "go down to the seas again," as John Masefield wrote in his poem "Sea Fever." The sound of the wind and water and the crying of the sea gulls to us as it did to him.

We are fortunate in Southwest Louisiana to have beaches nearby to satisfy our yearning to "go down to the seas again." While there, we can indulge our senses with long strolls along the sand looking for shells and driftwood and other treasures that have washed up on the shore, storing up memories to bring back to our inland homes of the sounds of the birds' cries and waves crashing or lapping on the shore.

As we stroll, we more than likely will approach flocks of seabirds resting near the water's edge, and, if we are at all curious, we wonder at the different kinds of birds that mingle together on the sands. A good bird book and a pair of binoculars would help in identifying the various bird species, but for a general overview of what birds you might be seeing in those flocks, let me try to guide you.

You'll see gulls, of course, and terns. They differ from each other in several ways. Gulls are long-winged, longer legged than terns, with bills stouter and slightly hooked and tails squared or rounded.

They seldom dive. Terns, on the other hand, are graceful water birds, more streamlined than gulls, with sharp pointed bills usually pointed toward the water and forked tails. They are mostly white with black caps and often hover and plunge head-first into the water for fish. They do not swim as do gulls.

The more common gulls will be the black-headed Laughing Gulls. During the Spring and Fall Migration other gulls seen are the smaller black-headed Franklin's Gull and the daintier Bonapart's Gull. The larger Ring-billed Gull is identified by its white head and black ring around its yellow bill. The largest gull of all is the Herring Gull. Other species of gulls appear from time to time, but these are the most common.

The most dramatic of the terns are the Caspian Terns, with their large red bills, and the Royal Terns, with their large orange bills. The smaller Forster's Terns and Black Terns and the even smaller LeastTern may also be seen.

If you should suddenly find yourself being attacked by several small terns, you will know that you have come upon the least Tern's nesting area, and you should be very careful not to step on any eggs, as they will be lying directly in shallow depressions in the sand.

A large, black-and-white, tern-like bird flying low with its large, red, knife-like bill plowing the water is the Black Skimmer. It's lower bill is fully a third longer than the upper.

The small birds scurrying about are probably the little sandpipers collectively called the "peeps." The ones that seem to be constantly runnig along are Sanderlings. If you see one with a black patch across its belly, you've spotted a Dunlin. The larger bird with the black face and black belly is, of course, a Black-bellied Plover.

Several species of plovers run along the beaches. The Little ones with the black rings around their necks are Wilson's Snowy, Semipalmated, and Piping Plovers. The larger Kildeer with two black rings is well known, as he is called "kill-deeah" repeated many times as he flies away. A large bird that flies off showing a lot of white in its tail and wings, and calling loudly "pill-will-willet" over and over again is the Willet.

Flocks of Dowitchers probing the mud with their long bills in a sewing machine fashion are busily searching for food. The squat, robust, orange-legged shore-bird with the striking harlequin pattern about the face, busily turning over shells looking for food is aptly named Ruddy Turnstone.

Perched on the pilings out in the water are gulls and terns, but sometimes other birds are seen. Cormorants are large blackish water birds that often stand erect on rocks and posts with neck in an "S" curve and possibly with wings outstretched to dry.

And don't forget to look for the Browl Pelican. Our state bird is making a comeback with the help of wildlife conservationists, and is being seen more frequently along our coast.

I've seen all the herons feeding on the mud flats off the Jetties and along Broussard's Beach — Great Blue Herons, tall and stately, Little Blue Herons, smaller Green Herons, and Tricolored or Louisiana Herons.

The Great Egret or American Egret, also tall and stately, and the smaller Snowy Egret with its yellow "slippers" brighten the shore with their snowy white plumage.

And who can forget the Reddish Egret doing its "dance" to stir up prey for its dinner. Other birds join him for they know a good thing when they see it!

So much to see and wonder about on our visit to the sea. Our world is richer and more wondrous for the bird life that abounds there.

I hope that I've sparked your curiosity about our shore birds, and that your enjoyment of your trips to the sea will be enhanced in the years to come.

OPINION

Stifling "Sick Building Syndrome"

by Alexander Willman

How many mornings have you arrived at work, ready to change the world, only to find you can barely lift your head from the desk by 10 a.m.? And how often has your office looked like "flu central" — in the middle of the summer?

If you and your co-workers are sneezing, coughing and yawning your way through the day, chances are good that you and your building are suffering from the same ailment — "sick building syndrome."

Sick building syndrome (SBS) can be brought on by the circulation of recycled stale air, which oftentimes passes through hundreds of feet of heating and ventilation ducts contaminated by dust, fibers and fumes. Cleaning chemicals and solvents, bacteria and mold also can contribute to SBS.

The result? Poor indoor air quality causing symptoms that range from a runny nose to dizziness and nausea. In the short term, SBS can cause worker discomfort. In the long term, it can have a negative impact on worker attendance and general productivity.

The bad news is that by the end of this century, more than 50 million Americans could be exposed to SBS. Many office buildings constructed or altered in the 1970s, when energy conservation was at its peak, are prime candidates for SBS. In the "zeal to seal," buildings altered their operation to eliminate the controls that allowed fresh air in, or let recycled air out.

An ongoing study of buildings by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) points out exactly how important proper ventilation is to a comfortable work atmosphere. In its investigation of 529 buildings, NIOSH attributed 53 percent of SBS complaints to inadequate ventilation — the top contributor to poor indoor air quality.

Other significant contaminants came from both inside the building — for example, copying machines, improperly applied pesticides and cleaning agents — and outside the building. Interestingly, one substance often blamed for indoor air quality problems — tobacco smoke — was identified by the NIOSH study as being responsible for only 2 percent of indoor air quality complaints investigated.

The good news is that sick buildings can be made well, and SBS can be held in check. The following are a few steps that can be taken to help maintain good indoor air quality:

- Make sure there is sufficient outside air introduced into your air-conditioning system. The American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers guidelines recommend no less than 15 to 20 cubic feet per minute per person for offices, depending on the activities conducted. This standard is intended to accommodate a moderate amount of smoking.
- Filters for air handling systems should be inspected and, if necessary, upgraded.
- Maintain regular cleaning and maintenance schedules for ventilation systems, including an inspection and regular cleaning of surface areas like carpets, walls and furnishings.
- Check the distribution of air whenever you change the number or location of workers or make major changes in equipment occupying the office space. Also test air circulation and recirculation for pockets where the air does not properly circulate, known as "dead air zones."
- Humidity levels in occupied areas of your building should be below 70 percent to hold down mold and mildew.

If these simple guidelines were followed, our buildings would be a lot more comfortable — and so would we. ld

Tournament results

By Loston McEvers

LEMESCHE BASS CLUB RESULTS

The Lemesche Bass Club held their monthly club tournament last week and it was very tough fishing, besides being hot.

The anglers in the club did catch fish, but no size and this made stringers with light weights.

The three areas fished were the Big Burns, Amoco and Sabine Refuge and they all panned out about the same.

The ponds are grown up, many mud trails are plugged and water is a good foot down. The water is also muddy in many places.

I guess what made it tougher is you can't go in the places you want to go, and even if you get there, the pond may be muddy or full of water lillies.

I know one thing, with the exception of the club members, you sure don't see as many boats as normal in the Big Burns area.

Here are the results of the tournament:

Largest Stringer (5 Bass): Travis Broussard, 9-14; Fredman Theriot, 7-0; James Vincent, 6-9; Tom Hess, 6-8; A. B. Richard, 6-7; Manson Vincent, 6-5; Loston McEvers, 6-0; Ricky Canik, 5-14; Phillip Trosclair, 4-10; Pat Landry, 4-0; Darrell Boudoin (4 bass), 3-11; J. C. Boudreaux, 3-6; Ray Theriot, 2-14.

Largest Bass: Travis Broussard, 2-8; A. B. Richard, 2-5; Ricky Canik, 2-0; Tom Hess (length 15½ ), 1-14; Manson Vincent (length 15), 1-14; James Vincent (10 girth), 1-14; Loston McEvers, 1-13; Fredman Theriot, 1-12; Phillip Trosclair, 1-8; Darrell Boudoin, 1-4; Pat Landry, 1-3; J. C. Boudreaux, 1-2; Ray Theriot, 1-0.

Largest Team Stringers (10 bass):

James and Manson Vincent, 12-14; Tom Hess and Ricky Canik, 12-6; Loston McEvers and Phillip Trosclair, 10-10; A. B. Richard and Darrell Boudoin, 10-1; Fredman and Ray Theriot, 8-14; J. C. Boudreaux and Pat Landry, 7-6.

Ricky Canik had the largest choupique of 5-13 and Loston McEvers second with 4-14. Fredman Theriot and James Vincent each had one 3-5.

There were five other teams who fished but didn't weigh in.

The Lemesche Youth Bass Club also held their tournament last week and I think just maybe they out-fished the adult club. Here are the results:

Largest Stringer (5 bass): James Bonsall, 10-12; Scootie Trosclair, 10-2; Bryon Trahan, 10-2; Anthony Swire, 7-8; Chad Little, 7-0; Todd Conner, 4-4; Shawn Bonsall, 3-4.

Largest Bass: Anthony Swire, 3-0; James Bonsall (16¾ long) 2-8; Scootie Trosclair, 2-8; Bryon Trahan, 2-6; Chad Little, 1-10; Todd Conner, 1-6; Shawn Bonsall, 1-0.

Team Stringers: Scootie Trosclair and Bryon Trahan, 17-4; Todd Conner and James Bonsall, 15-0.

Todd Conner had the largest choupique of 3-1.

TALK AROUND

Many of us at this time of the year use the spoon, gold, silver or black, to get to the heavy cover for bass.

Many times you've heard, "Gosh, these spoons are high." I guess the classic of all spoons is the Johnson Silver Minnow Spoon. It has been taking bass for the past 40 years. They are thicker in the middle than most spoons, and give it a 35 degree wobble, creating a lot of flash. A pork chunk (colored) in a great combination. It's weedless and the most popular sizes are 1/4, 1/2 and 3/4 ounce.

The Johnson Spoons are actually plated with pure silver, which has a brighter flash than chrome. The gold Silver Minnow is gold plated. Now you can see why these spoons cost a few pennies more than other spoons.

You say you know a true hunter or fisherman when you see one, well many times this will really tell you what a true hunter or fisherman really is. When a person dies, he many times leaves a will or even a last wish.

There's a fellow in the state of Iowa, with a side line business of spreading ashes of deceased people, except there are new wishes from hunters and fishermen.

One hunter's last wish was to load shotgun shells with his ashes and shoot at clay targets or even wild game. Other requests are from fishermen wanting to put their ashes in fishing lures. How about ashes in your duck decoys?

The state of Mississippi raised their crappie (white perch) limit from 25 to 30 per day. However, Louisiana is still 50 per day.

Richards are forming new organization

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

An association is being organized to develop a computer data base of all descendants of Michel Richard who originated from the providence of Saintonge, France in 1630, settled in Port Royal, Nova Scotia, Canada in 1654, married Madeline Blanchard in 1656 and started his family.

The association is also sponsoring the second International Richard reunion, to be held in Lafayette in May, 1993.

Descendants of Michel Richard who would like to become members should contact Charles Richard, P.O. Box 929, Amelia, La. 70340, phone 504-631-3186.

In addition to area Richards, another branch of the family is those descended from Michel Peveto (Pivauteau) and his wife Appoloni Broussard.

Appoloni was the great-granddaughter of Catherine Richard and Jean Francoise Brousaard (Catherine was the daughter of Madeline Blanchard and Michel Richard.)

Michel Peveto was one of the earliest settlers of Johnson Bayou before the Civil War and he and his wife are buried in the Peveto family cemetery, north of the Johnson Bayou school.

Football camp

When flounders first hatch, they have one eye on each side of their heads as do most fish. After it grows a little, however, one eye migrates till both are on the upper side of its head.

Wilda Mae Benoit

Information sought on missing girl

Wilda Mae Benoit, a 14-year old teenager from Creole, has been missing from her home since last Thursday night. She is the daughter of Patricia Conner, also of Creole, and the granddaughter of Shirley Mhire.

Miss Benoit is a white female who weighs 100 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair. She was last seen at 9 p.m. Thursday, July 23, at her home in Creole.

According to her grandmother, the girl had told a family member that she was going to accompany her mother to South Cameron Memorial Hospital on Friday. When Mrs. Conner returned from work, Wilda Mae was not with her and Mrs. Conner was unaware that her daughter had planned to accompany her that day.

The family immediately began calling friends and relatives in an effort to determine the whereabouts of the teenager. Wilda Mae's clothes were missing from her room, along with some letters and her personal diary.

Anyone who knows the whereabouts of Wilda Mae or has additional information on her disappearance is asked to contact the Cameron Parish Sheriff's Office, which is investigating the case.

Wilda Mae's grandmother sends this message to the teenager: "We love you and would like to have you home. No matter how big you think your problem is, we will help you -just call!. MaMa Shirley and PaPa."

PORT STUDY

140-foot wide channel on the southern portion of the Cameron Loop between Cameron, and the Calcasieu Ship Channel. Plan 1 would provide a 16-foot project depth below Mean Low Gulf datum; Plan 2 would provide an 18-foot project depth, and Plan 3 would provide a 20-foot project depth.

The Corps considered three alternative areas for the disposal of material which would be hydraulically dredged for the construction and maintenance of each of the three alternative plans. One disposal area was the existing disposal area for the Calcasieu Ship Channel, which is located on the east bank of the ship channel on Monkey Island.

Another provided for pumping the material to the Gulf of Mexico shoreline east of the east jetty of the Calcasieu Ship Channel.

The third provided for disposing the material on the gulf shoreline on the west side of the west ship channel jetty.

The Monkey Island disposal area was the cheapest, while the other two provided for beneficial uses of the dredged material.

A summary of the economic analysis of the three plans based on using the cheapest disposal area at Monkey Island is presented below. The first costs include construction costs, costs to remove an abandoned telephone cable, and disposal easement costs. The annual costs include the repayment over a 50-year project life of the first cost and the average cost of maintaining the channel.

The benefits are derived from transporation cost savings to vessels serving offshore oil rigs operating in the Cameron market area. The cost savings result by providing adequate water depths in the Port of Cameron access channel and thus precluding vessel operators relocating their bases to more distant ports with deeper channels.

Plan 1 - First cost: $542,000; Average annual cost: $120,000; Average annual benefits: $79,000; Benefit-cost ratio: 0.7.

Plan 2 - First cost: $585,000; Average annual cost: $124,000; Average annual benefits: $105,000; Benefit-cost ratio: 0.8.

Plan 3 - First cost: $944,000; Average annual cost: $155,000; Average annual benefits: $105,000; Benefit-cost ratio: 0.7.

The project must have a benefit-cost ratio of at least 1.0 to 1 to be economically justified under federal criteria. None of the nine plans studied had a benefit-cost ratio greater than 0.8.

Area fishing great!

ALLIGATOR SEASON

Alligator trapping season will open Sat., Sept. 5, and end Sunday, Oct. 4.

As always, land owners are worried about fishermen getting hurt with hooks on poles or rifle fire. Due to this fact the Big Burns area and all of Miami Corporation lands including permit fishing, will close Sun., Aug. 23. This means Aug. 23, is the last day your permit is good.

We also need to check with other land owners about their property. This is very dangerous and besides, these people hunting alligators are making their living and should not be disturbed.

The Sabine and Lacassine Refuges usually don't close, but certain areas are restricted, but should anyone not follow the rules, fishing can be shut down any time.

I guess what I'm asking is for all sports and commercial fishermen to follow the rules. We had a tremendous freshwater season this year.

AREA FISHING GREAT

I don't believe there's any complaint in our area of Cameron parish on fishing, both saltwater and freshwater.

Speckle trout, redfish and flounder are biting at the Grand Chenier and Cameron jetties, the rocks off of Holly Beach, the inland waters from the jetties and all the way inland to Lake Charles' Prien Lake. Good catches and nice sizes are reported.

Freshwater fishing is a little tough, but good fish, especially bass are being taken. I saw two bass over 5 lbs. last week and there's a bunch of 3 pounders being caught.

White perch fishing and bream and goggle eye are pretty fair fishing in the deep canals.

Remember, the bass are in the thick stuff with all this heat.

CALCASIEU SHIP CHANNEL

There's a lot of talk about the dredging of the Calcasieu Ship Channel from the Cameron jetties to Lake Charles.

I think the GCCA had a little to do about trying to change the plans.

I really don't know when the dredging will take place, but I think maybe sometime in 1993.

From what I gather, the wash-out area was in question. I think what's going to be done is level, put rocks and leave a 500 foot gap in four places at the wash-out.

These gaps will allow fish as well as fishermen to go in and out the area.

There is also some talk about some of the fill going to West Cove and the Dugas Landing areas, as these places need to be built up.

The channels need dredging for ship travel and I sure hope everything turns out okay, as our commercial fishermen, oyster fishermen and sports fishermen depend on this channel for a living as well as our crab fishermen and shrimpers.

LATE REPORT

I just got a report on speckle trout along the beach. At Block 2 there was a casing leak last week and a company put up an oil boom around the platform to contain the oil and they had trouble because the specks were hitting the oil booms and tearing them up.

A couple of boats were catching two specks at a time on a speck rig.

Next week I'll start a two to three part series on anti-hunting and anti-fishing. I've got some new information that is quite interesting.

FEEDING PERIODS

Friday, July 31, best, 1:27 p.m.; good, 7:12 a.m. and 7:42 p.m.

Saturday, Aug. 1, best, 1:47 a.m. and 2:27 p.m.; good, 8:07 a.m. and 8:42 p.m.

Sunday, Aug. 2, best, 2:52 a.m. and 3:22 p.m.; good, 9:02 a.m. and 9:37 p.m.

Butterfly survey is made in the Parish

On Saturday, July 18, five butterfly enthusiasts--Dr. Gary N. Ross and Gayle Strickland, Baton Rouge; Bill Turnbull, Cameron, Donald Woodard, Sulphur, and Gay Craft, Austin, Texas--assembled at the Migratory Bird Sancturary located just east of Johnson Bayou to survey the butterflies in and around the sanctuary that is operated by the Baton Rouge Audubon Society.

The survey was part of a program called the "Fourth Of July Butterfly Count" sponsored by the Xerces Society, an international organization concerned with the conservation of invertebrates, 95 percent of all animal species on our planet.

Modified after the "Christmas Bird Count" conducted nationally each year by the National Audubon Society, the program is designed not only to determine which butterflies are present, but also to monitor the butterfly populations on a yearly basis.

Since butterflies are extremely sensitive to environmental factors, butterflies are excellent indicators of small changes in the environment. As such, scientists often use butterflies to gain some knowledge as to possible environmental problems in the making.

Guidelines for a "count" indicate that a circular area of approximately 15 miles in diameter be monitored for not more than a 24 hour period. Within the circle, all butterfly species and individuals are recorded.

The five member team spent approximately six hours Saturday (butterflies do not fly during night hours) walking and searching out butterflies in and about the Johnson Bayou preserve. By day's end, the group had catalogued 367 individual butterflies representing 21 different species. Although the count officially ended by Saturday evening, the two Baton Rouge based visitors, Ross and Strickland, remained behind in the parish in order to continue their investigations on the followng Sunday.

Sunday's efforts were centered around the jetties south of Cameron and along Rutherford Beach. An additinal 14 species were added, bringing the total for the unofficial list up to 35 species. The exciting news was that six of the additional species--Queen, Eastern Pygmy Blue (the smallest butterfly in the eastern U.S.), Funeral Duskywing, Salt Marsh Skipper, Obscure Skipper, and the Broad-winged Skipper--represent very uncommon species with very restricted habitats.

Although the total of 35 species over the two-day period is significant, Ross and Strickland expected higher (the total number of butterflies known for the entire state stands at 131). Probable explanations include increased incidences of microbial diseases and insect predators upon the butterflies brought about because of the extrordinarily mild and wet winter of 1991-92 followed by an equally extrordinarily cool spring--all of which could alter growth patterns.

The results of the Cameron Parish butterfly survey have been forwarded to the Xerces Society headquarters in Portland, Oregon. There, the data will be added to that from the 200-plus other counts conducted this year throughout the U.S. and Canada. All data will be published in the society's "1992 Report" in early 1993.

The group plans to conduct a similar count next year around July 4. Additional local participation would be greatly appreciated. To participate, one need not have any knowledge of butterflies--just "a good pair of eyes, a comfortable pair of walking shoes, and an honest interest" the group explains.

If interested, watch for the 1993 announcement next July.

There are 1,678,815 Smiths in the United States.

DUDLEY SWIRE of Grand Chenier always grows a large garden and also plants cantaloupes. Last week he gathered one of his cantaloupes which weighed 14 lbs. He is pictured above with the cantaloupe.

Blocked neck arteries are the major cause of strokes

By DAVID E. ALLIE, M.D.

When part of the brain is deprived of oxygen, it ceases to function, with potentially catastrophic effects. If the resulting impairment is permanent, we call the event a stroke. If it is temporary, it's called a transient ischemic attack (TIA). In either case, assessment and treatment by a cardiovascular specialist is imperative.

TIAs and strokes generally originate with a buildup of cholesterol plaque in the carotid arteries – the large blood vessels on either side of the neck which supply blood to the head and brain.

These buildups evolve over many years, and rarely produce any symptoms until crumbly portions of the plaque break away and are carried into smaller arteries, where they block the flow of blood. Whether the result is a stroke or a TIA depends upon how large an area of the brain is affected, and how complete the blockage is.

In either case, the symptoms can include loss of strength in an arm or leg or in the muscles of the face, temporary visual loss, slurred speech, dizziness, seizures or unconsciousness.

Carotid artery disease may occur at any age, but is more common in people over 45. Those at high risk include smokers, people with high blood pressure or high levels of blood cholesterol, diabetics and those with a family history of arterial disease.

Initial testing for carotid artery disease is a painless ultrasound procedure in which a microphone-like device is applied to the neck.

If a possible blockage is detected, the next step is an angiogram, in which x-ray-opaque dye is injected into the artery to determine the location and extent of the constriction.

Even with blockages which reduce blood flow by as much as 80 percent, the most likely form of treatment is medication and regular checkups. For more severe blockages, surgical removal of the plaque is required. The operation, called an endarterectomy, takes only about an hour. The patient usually goes home in two or three days and resumes normal activities within weeks.

If you experience the symptoms of a TIA, however slight, see your doctor at once. It is the best warning your body will give you that you are in danger of a stroke.

Louisiana Mosquitoes

Abbeville Meridional, July 30, 1910
LAKESIDE LACONICS

Treasarnon Jones of Little Chenier put in a few days visiting Lakeside.

We would like to hear the opinion of the Mermentau fishermen on the republished article about the grand conservation of fish by the pumping plants. All we have heretofore heard or seen has been exactly the opposite. There is no doubt about their safety when they get into the rice fields but where they conserve at is a mystery known only to the Gueydan News as we have seen millions of fish dead in the rice fields, when the water was turned off or evaporated. Between indiscriminate seining for the big and destruction of the little fish by the pumping plants, any fisherman will tell you that the fish supply is rapidly being depleted.

LOUISANA MOSQUITOES

The editor of the Beaumont Enterprise gravely announces that the life time of a mosquito is three days. That may be true in Texas, but as we are no bugologist, we are only permitted to remark that in Louisiana they live nine long days, during which period they can give the most vivid foretaste of the orthodox hell mortal man ever experienced.

Cameron Pilot, (July 31, 1959)
"HIGH ON THE HOG"

With incomes running at a high level in Cameron Parish, the questions being asked are: How much of this money are local residents spending?

Answers to the questions are provided in a comprehensive study made by the Standard Rate and Data Service of the buying habits of people locally and in other parts of the United States. It puts under the spotlight each community's outlays for food, cars, apparel, furniture and the like.

In Cameron Parish, it shows food gets top billing. Some $1,629,000, or approximately 39 cents of every dollar spent in local retail stores in 1958, were gathered in by grocery stores and other places selling food for home preparation and consumption. It compares with $1,491,000 in 1957.

This was exclusive of what was spent in restaurants, at refreshment stands and elsewhere for on-the premise use.

The food store purchases, if divided equally among the local population, would come to $1,037 per household. In the United States the average was $982 per household and in the West South Central States, $880.

PARISH POPULATION

The population of Cameron Parish has been estimated at 6,863 by the Louisiana State Health Department, which is very close to the 1950 census figures for the parish. Of this number, 6,404 are listed as white and 459 as non-white.

Tricia named to fashion board

Tricia Trahan, daughter of Jimmy and Iris Trahan of Creole, was recently selected at 4-H Short Course to serve as a member of the Fashion Board. She was one out of 26 selected from the 45 4-Hers to serve for the 1992-93 term.

To become a member of the board Tricia went through an interview and a fashion review. During the year, she must attend three meetings to plan next year's Fashion Review. She must also attend camp in August.

TEACHERS ON TWELVE MONTH PAYMENTS

Cameron Parish teachers may not get more pay but they will get more pay checks during this coming year.

The Cameron School Board recently voted to pay the teachers their salaries in 12 monthly payments instead of the 10 months as in the past. This is being done at the request of the teachers themselves.

PICTURE CAPTIONS

Cameron is enjoying one of the biggest shrimp runs this summer that it has seen in many a season. This photo shows workers busy assorting and de-heading shrimp at the Cameron Seafood Co. plant in Cameron.

A familiar sight along the Cameron waterfront these days is the many shrimp boats from all parts of the Gulf lined up at the wharf. Catches have been extremely good here in recent weeks.

W. J. Borrel of Sulphur displays the six pound spade fish which he caught recently off of Cameron.

T/Sgt. Albert Clement, stationed with the Air Force overseas, recently received an award for having suggested a bearing retainer for F-100 main wheels which will save the government an estimated $577 annually. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Clement of Little Chenier.

Meal policy is told

The Cameron Parish School Board has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals served under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs. All schools and the central office have a copy of the policy, which may be revised by any interested party.

The following family size and annual income criteria will be used for determining eligibility:

| Family Size | Free Meals | Reduced Price Meals |
|---|---|---|
| 1 | $ 8,853 | $12,599 |
| 2 | 11,947 | 17,002 |
| 3 | 15,041 | 21,405 |
| 4 | 18,135 | 25,808 |
| 5 | 21,229 | 30,211 |
| 6 | 24,323 | 34,614 |
| 7 | 27,417 | 39,017 |
| 8 | 30,511 | 43,420 |

For each additional family member add $3,094 for free meals and $4,403 for reduced price meals.

Children from families whose income level is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Application forms are being sent to all homes, along with a letter to households. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out an application for each child and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, households now receiving food stamps or aid to families with dependent children must provide their food stamp case number or AFDC number as well as the signature of an adult household member. All other households must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members; the social security number of either the parent/guardian who is the primary wage earner, or the adult household member who signs the application, or a statement that the household member does not possess one; the amount of income (before deductions for taxes, social security, etc.) each household member receives, how often the person receives it, and where it is from, such as wages, retirement, or welfare; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year, as well as decreases in household size.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Under the provisions of the free and reduced price policy, the principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to:

Thomas McCall, Superintendent, P.O. Drawer W, Cameron, La. 70631. Phone: 318-775-5784.

The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedures.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

In the operation of child feeding programs administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If members of a household believe they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

New college tuition waiver program told

High school students who graduated this year in the top 5 percent of their class will be the first to receive college tuition waivers under the Louisiana Honors Scholarship Program enacted during the recent legislative session.

The program will provide tuition exemption to Louisiana's top high school graduates as an incentive for them to attend college in this state.

Students do not have to apply for the program. Parish school boards and principals of private high schools will identify the students, and the Louisiana Office of Student Financial Assistance will notify recipients.

Eligible students can use the scholarship at any public or private college or university in the state. The amount of the award will vary but cannot exceed the highest tuition charged by a public university.

Currently, Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge has the highest public tuition. Students who choose to attend another school will receive an amount equal to the cost of tuition at LSU or the actual tuition charged at the school they attend, whichever is less.

The first recipients are expected to be announced in September. Registrars and financial aid officers will be notified to bill LOSFA for enrolled students who are eligible for the program.

Students must be in the top 5 percent of their graduating class in a public high school or state-approved private school to qualify. Students enrolled in a state-approved home-study program and who score in the upper 5 percent on the National Merit Examination also qualify.

Recipients must maintain full-time enrollment status and a cumulative grade-point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale to continue to receive funding.

If you need additional information about this new program, contact a client services representative at LSOFA by calling 1-800-259-5626, or call the Cameron office of State Rep. Randy Roach at 542-4443.

Dear Editor

Dear Mr. Wise:

Thank you for publishing my letter concerning ecotourism in Cameron Parish and the Baton Rouge Audubon Society's desire to thank its numerous supporters throughout the parish.

I am including here a write-up concerning a butterfly count I coordinated in Cameron Parish on Sat., July 18. The count, the first of its kind for the parish, was a great success and a lot of fun for all five participants.

I am convinced that Cameron Parish offers bird, butterfly, and wildflower enthusiasts unique opportunities. I am also convinced that Cameron Parish can benefit economically by advertising its nautral resource assets to the public.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Gary N. Ross

IN TIFTON, GA. TOURNAMENT

Tarpons boys team wins national championship

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpon boys 15 and 16 year old softball team is the National Champion of ASA Softball.

The Cameron Parish team won five straight games in the national tournament held July 30, 31 and Aug. 1, in Tifton, Ga.

The tournament had 17 teams from 13 states in the 16 and under division.

The Cameron Parish team won the right to play in the tournament by winning the state ASA tournament held in Cameron in early July.

The team beat Corbin Red from Kentucky on Thursday night by a score of 8-6. On Friday night the South Cameron Tarpons beat Beaver Creek Express of Ohio by a score of 16-5 and they also beat Woodbury Tennesse Softball 8-1.

On Saturday they beat Shoppers Guide of Georgia 7-3. In the championship game the Tarpons beat Maysville Sport Shop of Kentucky by a score of 16-12.

The team had a sweet element of revenge as Maysville beat South Cameron in the championship game of 1990.

Beaver Creek, one of the Tarpons victims, is the 1992 USSSA Softball World Champion, winning the title two weeks ago.

Coaches of the National Champions are Douaine Conner, Russell Savoie, Clyde Doxey Sr. and Jude Primeaux.

Monkey Island bill introduced

Congressman Jimmy Hayes has introduced a bill that will direct the Secretary of Interior to turn part of Monkey Island over to the West Cameron Port Commission for use as a public port facility.

"Cameron has been under an economic siege for years, caused by the decline of the oil and gas industry and intensified government regulation of the fishing industry. It's time that the federal government becomes part of the solution rather than part of the problem," Hayes said, "and that is why I am pushing to get this excess government property conveyed to Cameron, in order to spur economic growth."

The parcel, presently under the control of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), consists of 64 acres stretching across the southern end of Monkey Island and east of Highway 27/82. It has remained unused for over a decade. The Coast Guard will retain three acres on Monkey Island in which a radio beacon is located.

"First we were hit hard by the slump in the oil and gas industry - jobs like those at Chevron left, and federal over-regulation just added fuel to the fire. This was followed closely by restrictive rules, such as TEDs, which have crippled our shrimpers. Now, the BLM tells us that they won't turn over land that will be used to create a new business enterprise zone," Hayes continued. "This is the last major waterfront property available to the parish, and, clearly, we need to bring it to life."

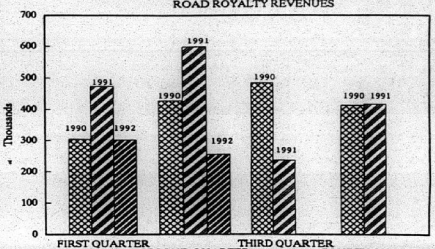
Jury's revenues down by nearly half a million

The Cameron Parish Police Jury will hold a special meeting within the next two weeks to consider possible budget cuts in light of a warning from the parish treasurer that the jury's receipts are down more than a half million dollars since last year.

In a letter to the jury Monday, Treasurer Bonnie Conner told the jury that its revenues "are seriously declining."

She noted that Road Royalty funds received from the state so far this year are a $554,349 as compared to $1,071,139 received by this time last year--a decline of $516,789.

Conner said that other revenues are also down. Interest rates are at a record low; payments in lieu of taxes are down $50,000; and permit fees are down.



"When mid-1991 total revenues are compared to mid-1992 total revenues, we are experiencing a shortfall of $612,036," Conner told the jurors.

"There is no question this is a very serious situation," her letter said. "It does not mean we are currently operating in the 'red'; however, it does mean we will have to dip into surplus funds we have struggling to rebuild since the oil decline of 1988."

Conner pointed out that the decline is "no fault of your own, nor through any fault of the management in the administrative office. It is a direct result of lower oil and gas prices, and the resulting lower oil and gas production."

The treasurer's letter concluded: "It is my recommendation that you limit and curtail expenditures whenever possible because we do not know how long this decline will continue."

The police jury isn't alone in its budget problems--the Cameron Parish School Board, which depends even more on oil and gas revenues, is faced with a possible deficit of as much as $900,000 this year.

THE ABOVE GRAPH shows how Cameron Parish's Road Royalty Funds have dropped during the first two quarters of 1992 as compared to 1991, a decrease of almost a half million dollars.

The Cameron Parish Police Jury Monday took initial action to implement the parish-wide Enhanced 911 emergency telephone system in the parish.

The new program was approved by parish voters on July 18 by a vote of 567-223 giving a new E-911 district the authority to collect a monthly fee from telephone customers to finance the new program.

HB register

The jury was advised that the cost to customers will be 5 percent of the basic telephone rate, which will be around 63 cents for residential customers and $1.71 for businesses.

Jerry Long of Alabama will do nightly drawings. His paintings have a hidden message that is only revealed through special lighting.

The public is invited to attend the services.

Trail designation sought

Work is underway to have the Creole Nature Trail in Calcasieu and Cameron parishes, the Acadiana Trail and the Louisiana Western Corridor designated as scenic byways, the Soutwhest Louisiana Convention and Visitors Bureau board was told last week.

Being accepted as a federally-approved scenic byway will make some funds available for development of the trails, but there is a lot of work to be done before becoming eligible, Shelley Johnson, bureau executive director, said.

To that end, the bureau staff will be host for a workshop in Lake Charles in the fall to help the Creole Nature Trail, Acadiana Trail (U.S. 190 through deQuincy) and Western Corridor (U.S. 171) qualify their projects, she said.

The Creole Nature Trail has been designated a scenic highway by the Louisiana Legislature, but that must be changed to specifically "scenic byway" by an act of the Legislature before the trail's application may be submitted for federal approval, she said.

Tarpon football team to begin practice

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons football team will start preparation in earnest for the 1992 football season Monday, Aug. 10, at 4:30 p.m.

Head Coach Parry LaLande expects between 60 and 70 players out for the first practice.

The Tarpons will scrimmage Vinton on Aug. 21, at Creole starting at 5 p.m.

The Tarpons, who compiled a 9-4 record in 1992 and made their seventh straight playoff appearance, have all their coaches black. They are Head Coach Parry LaLande, starting his 16th season at South Cameron, and his 11th season as head coach. Coach LaLande has an 86-32-1 record as head coach.

Assistant coaches are Eddie Benoit, A. J. Seymour, Tim McCall and Henry Griffin.

The Tarpons first action of 1992 will be in the Iowa Jamboree at Iowa on Aug. 28. Their opponent will be Iowa.

The Tarpons first two regular season games will be at home against DeQuincy and Opelousas Catholic. Their first district action will be against Notre Dame.

Last year the Tarpons tied for first in district with a 3-2 record. Five teams were involved in the tie and the Tarpons entered the playoffs as the number two team from district. The Tarpons won two playoff games beating Buckeye and DeQuincy before falling to State Champion Haynesville in the quarter-finals.

The 1992 Tarpons were a young team so the expectations are high for the 1992 team.

Other teams in the Tarpons district are Notre Dame, Iota, Welsh, South Cameron, Lake Arthur and St. Louis of Lake Charles.

Homemakers host husbands

Eddy Raven and band to perform Saturday

Eddy Raven and his band will perform at the Cajun Riviera Festival at 10 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8.

This is an artist who has had No. 1 songs such as, "Bayou Boys," "I Got Mexico," "Shine, Shine, Shine," "I'm Gonna Get You," "Joe Knows How To Live," "'Til You Cry" and "In A Letter To You."

Even his songs that did not hit the No. 1 spot, went on to become country classics. Take, for example, the top-10 cuts, "Who Do You Know In California," "Sooner Or Later," "She's Gonna Win Your Heart," "I Should've Called," "Right Hand Man," "Operator, Operator," and "I Could Use Another You," just to name a few.

His latest Capitol Nashville release, "Right For The Flight", showcases both the artist and the writer. The roots run deep and in varied directions. Eddy Raven has been writing and playing a mixture of rock, country, Cajun and blues since he ws a Louisiana teenager. In fact, his first single release, for the Georgia-based Cosmos label, was one of his own compositions, "Once A Fool".

He started working at Lafayette's La Louisiane, selling records and working in the facility's sound studios, gaining a huge amount of all-around knowledge. It was there that Raven first worked with great regional stars such as Professor Longhair, Dr. John, Dale and Grace ("I'm Leaving It All Up To You") and John Fred and the Playboy Band.

In 1969, La Louisiane added Eddy to its roster and released "That Cajun Counrty Sound", which prompted Opry star Jimmy C. Newman to invite Raven to Nashville. Acuff-Rose signed the young man as a staff writer, and he went back to Louisiana determined to write a hit song. That he did. He wrote "Country Green" and "Touch The Morning" for Don Gibson, and "Good Morning Country Rain" for Jeannie C. Riley.

In 1972, with the encouragement of Acuff-Rose's Don Gant, the writer made the move to Nashville to pursue his music career full time.

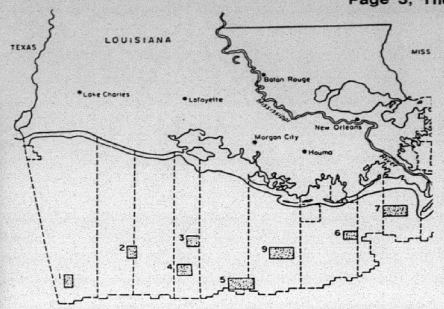
Eddy Raven

In 1974, Don Gant moved to ABC Records, and signed Raven as an artist. What followed was a string of charted songs, none of which brought him stardom, but all of which made him an interesting prospect to fans and labels alike. It would be five years before he signed with Elektra Records and cut the breakthrough song, "I Should've Called." Just to prove that was no fluke, Raven followed it with "Who Do You Know In California," which established him as a stylist of note and a lover of strong material. His "Thank God For Kids" became a monumental hit for the Oak Ridge Boys, giving him financial breathing room and the opportunity to stretch a little in his own work. The following year the artist had his first No. 1, "I Got Mexico."

Savoie attends conference on shrimp bycatch

Kevin Savoie, Fisheries Agent with Cameron Extension Service attended an International Conference on bycatch in the shrimp industry recently in Lake Buena Vista, Fla.

Speakers from around the world gave presentations on methods of shrimp harvest, gear modifications, and specific bycatch problems.



In an effort to avoid the controversy of the TEDs issue, the federal government has opted to request input from all concerned parties.

A cooperative steering committee made up of representatives from commercial fishing associations, recreational fishermen, conservation groups, Sea Grant, National Marine Fisheries Serivce, the Gulf and South Atlantic Fishery Managment Councils, the Atlantic and Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission and state fishery management agnecies has been formed.

Anyone having questions concerning bycatch can contact Savoie at the Cameron extension Office, 775-5516.

Wayne Toups band to perform here

Wayne Toups and his Zydecajun band will perform at 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9, during the Cajun Riviera Festival in Holly Beach.

For a group that started recording in 1985, Wayne Toups and Zydecajun have exploded onto the music scene by leaps and bounds.

Attracting the attention of Mercury/Polygram Records Wayne Toups and Zydecajun were the first Cajun/Zydeco act to sign a major recording contract. The success of their four Mercury releases proves that Zydecajun is "hot" and "commercial". In fact their "Blast From The Bayou" album hit the billboard pop album charts, making W.T.Z. the first Cajun artists to break into the billboard charts. Their latest release, "Fish Out of Water" promises to be the runaway hit of the year.

In 1989 Wayne was asked to co-host the "MTV Mardi Gras Live Special" Carole King heard "Blast From The Bayou" and became such a big fan that Zydecajun was the opening act for his "City Streets Tour" through 22 cities. Even Hollywood has heard the Zydecajun news, George Lucas called to invite the boys out to perform for his annual Christmas party at his Skywalker Ranch.

The Zydecajun train continued to roll on at full steam in 1990. Wayne Toups and Zydecajun co-starred on CBS "Super Bowl Saturday Night" along with the Nevill Brothers, Linda Rondstadt and George Strait. 1990 also saw the boys on a tour of Southeast Asia through six countries, spreading the Zydecajun news.

Soon Hollywood was on the line again when Mike Post cast Wayne to do the theme for his latest CBS series "Broken Badges."

Wayne Toups, who is from Crolwy, plays diatonic accordion.

Wayne Toups and Zydecajun have attracted such fans as Dennis Quaid, Bernie Taupin, and Thomas Dolby, who asked Wayne to record on his new release. They have shared the stage with such greats as Ray Charles, Stevie Ray Vughn, Emmy Lou Harris, and Carl Perkins, playing to the universal groove. At the New Orleans Jazz Festival they have played for the last five years.

BASS FISHING

Bass fishing in our area has slowed down some, however, if you're fishing the heavy stuff, you'll catch big bass. It's slow, but spoon and pork chunk is the word.

Speckle trout and redfish fishing is still hot. Catch the tides right and you'll have a blast. It doesn't seem as if all the rain hurt our speck fishing in our area lakes. There are also reports of flounder being taken in pretty good sizes.

BEACH TROUBLES

In 1991 the U. S. saw beaches close over 2,000 times, some permanently, due to sewerage contamination. Also, junk washed up from offshore or dumping hazardous items offshore, such as chemicals, hospital supplies and then washing up on our beaches. Many times the public doesn't know about these things. They may get sick or have ear and eye problems and really don't know why.

We've had beaches closed in the U. S. with California leading with 745 beaches closed temporarily and five permanently. New York had 314 temporarily and three permanently closed followed by Florida with 299. Our state of Louisiana had one permanent closing on the South Shore Beach of Lake Pontchartrain in New Orleans.

There's a couple of tournaments coming up and I think some of our area anglers will be interested in them.

The Big Bass Bonanza, to be held on the Calcasieu River Sat., Aug. 8 and Sun., Aug. 9, is one.

Regular entry fee is $30 per day per man, or if you fish both days, it's $50. If you register late after Fri., Aug. 7, 10 p.m., it'll cost you a late fee. Entry will be $35 per day.

This is the Big Bass of the hour plus the top 40 bass of the two days. Only one bass to be weighed at a time, but you can weigh-in as many times as you want.

All fish weighed in have to be alive and will be released. they also have to measure at least 12 inches in length. There will be absolutely no alcoholic beverages on boats, and no drinking at all, including drugs. A polygraph test will apply.

There is $20,000 in prizes to be awarded in these two days. First place is valued at $7,000. There is an adult division and a youth division. For more information, call Ron Castille at 318-477-5260 in Lake Charles.

LOCAL TOURNAMENT

The Cameron Lions Club will host a saltwater fishing tournament Sat., Sept. 26.

The headquarters and weigh-in will be at Bolo's Shrimp Shop in Cameron.

You may start fishing at 12:01 a.m. and weigh-in will start at 2 p.m. and deadline at 6 p.m.

There will be three divisions: adult, junior and guide. You may chose the division you come into and entry fees will be $20 per person for adults and guides and $5 for youth.

The junior division is 15 years old and younger. The guide division is professional guides are not eligible to enter, but their customers are encouraged to enter in that division.

All anglers have to catch his own fish and they may use a net and have assistance in landing and netting their fish.

A percentage of cash prizes will be awarded in each category or division separately in three places in each division.

Registration deadline is Fri., Sept. 25, 6 p.m. If the weigh master sees fit, he may cut or gut your fish to be checked.

Fishing area will be all inland waters, which includes fishing in and around jetty rocks at Sabine, Cameron-Calcasieu Rivers, and the Mermentau River. You may not fish more than 300 feet outside these jetty rocks. You may wade fish the surf along the Cameron Parish beaches.

These are two good tournaments, one fresh water and the other saltwater, that should be fun.

While we're on the subject of tournaments, the Lemesche Bass Club will hold their last three tournaments this month, Aug. 2, 16 and 23.

The Seven Acres Bass Club will have a tournament on Aug. 29, at the Sven Acres Pond.

Remember, read the rules of all tournaments you enter and follow all local, federal and state laws.

FEEDING PERIODS

Joe Stampley

Joe Stampley will perform Sat. night

Joe Stampley and his band will be featured from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, at the Cajun Riviera Festival at Holly Beach.

Joe developed his wide interest and love for music while growing up in Springhill. At the age of six, he learned to play the piano under the direction of his dad, who played piano and guitar. Both his mother and dad sang harmony as a pastime while his grandmother played harmonica. His grandfather was a gospel music song director.

A year later, when Joe's family moved to Baytown, Tex., Joe met the legendary Hank Williams at a local radio station. In a show of boyish admiration, Joe told Hank he knew all his songs and proceeded to demonstrate his ability on the spot.

In 1961, Joe joined a five-man pop and rock group called The Cutups, as a singer. They began performing for local functions in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. It was during that time that Joe met somgwriter Merle Kilgore and began collaborating on several writing projects. By 1963, the group changed their name to the Uniques and a year later they recorded a song that Joe and Merle penned, entitled "Not Too Long Ago," on the Paula label.

Although Joe enjoyed some of the fruits of his success with "Not Too Long Ago," he continued to perform in the Ark-La-Tex area and worked other jobs as a means of support. He sold encyclopedias, pumped gas, and worked for the soft water department. While working at a paper mill, he occasionally paid fellow employees to swap shifts with him so he could perform on Saturday nights.

In 1972 Joe signed with ABC-Dot and recorded seven albums that produced such hits as "Soul Song," "Too Far Gone," "If You Touch Me (You Gotta Love Me)," "I'm Still Lovin' You" and "All These Things."

In 1975 he went with Epic label where he linked up with producers Norro Wilson and Billy Sherrill, turning out 13 LPs with such hits as "Roll On Big Mama," "Red Wine and Blue Memories," "If You've Got Ten Minutes," "Do You Ever Fool Around," and "Put Your Clothes Back On."

Joe's musical success has led him to several major TV appearances including "Austin City Limits," "Nashville Alive," "Dinah!," "That Nashville Music," and "Nashville Now."

Success has also pinned he and Moe Bandy with several top awards. In 1980, from the Academy of Country Music they won Group of the Year Award, and from the Country Music Association in Nashville, they won Vocal Duo of the Year. In 1981, they again won from the Academy of Country Music, Vocal Duo of the Year.

THE COUNTRY MUSIC Revue Band will play from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 9 during the Cajun Riviera Festival at Holly Beach. Band members are: seated--Darryl Crochet, David Hinton and Tippy Crochet. Standing--Todd Willis, Gerald Guidry and Mike Solina. The Hackberry talent contest winners will be featured with the band.

Let's go fishing at Sabine National Refuge

By RONNY PAILLE
Sabine National Wildlife Refuge

Sabine Refuge fishing opportunities are many and highly variable. You can go out in a boat and fish in the canals and the freshwater management Units 1A, 1B, and 3. Large-mouth bass, bream, catfish, perch, and gar can be caught in these areas.

For those who prefer to stand on dry land, the fishing areas at Hog Island Gully and West Cove Recreation Area are open to the public. People can fish for salt water finfish, handline for crabs, or cast net for shrimp in season.

Last year almost 52,000 people came to Sabine and spent an estimated 285,000 hours fishing, crabbing, or cast netting. This year our figures indicate that more people than ever before are coming to the refuge for fishing.

Fishermen anticipating using the Sabine refuge are reminded to review the Sabine special fishing regulations. Leaflets are available from the dispensers at the refuge headquarters, Hog Island Gully, West Cove Recreation Area, Unit 1A parking lot, Unit 1A/1B parking lot, at Grand Bayou, or you can contact the refuge and have a leaflet sent to you.

The regulations include the following: size and creel limits for all sport fish are the same as the state, the refuge is open to fishing, crabbing and crayfishing from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset, castnetting for shrimp is permitted only during the Inland Water Shrimp Season and is open from one hour before sunrise to noon, the limit for shrimp is 5 gallons per vehicle or boat per day, and cast nets may not exceed 6 ft. in radius length. Est Cove fishermen are reminded that the 250 ft. area around Grand Bayou and Lambert Bayou is closed to all activities except for boat passage.

Migration of post-larval brown shrimp into Calcasieu Lake marshes was much better this spring than last spring. Low water temperatures during April and low salinities throughout most of the Calcasieu Lake marshes may have reduced brown shrimp growth. A major storm on April 29, dropped over 7 inches of rain in the marshes.

This may have caused a migration of small brown shrimp into Calcasieu Lake where the salinities were high enough for their survival. As a result, a poor to fair-sized crop of commercial-size brown shrimp was produced. Small numbers of large brown shrimp were still present in Cameron-Creole marshes on July 1.

Good numbers of post-larval white shrimp began migrating into marshes adjacent to Calcasieu Lake during mid-May. As a result of these early migrations, white shrimp are now fairly abundant within the marshes adjacent to Calcasieu Lake. By July 1, the largest individuals had already reached 100 to the pound. These findings indicate that the white shrimp season this fall may be a good bit better than last fall's white shrimp season.

This is the last article I will be writing for the Sabine Refuge. I have accepted another position in Lafayette working in the Fish and Wildlife Service Enhancement Office. I would like to extend my kindest regards to everyone for making my stay here a very enjoyable one.

New project announced

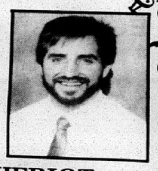
The Louisiana calf to carcass project is a new program offered to beef producers in Louisiana by the LSU Cooperative Extension Service, according to Gary Wicke, Cameron Extension Agent.



This is an educational project to help beef producers to better position themselves in the beef industry of today and the near future. This program enables a cow/calf producer to retain ownership of their cattle from calf to slaughter.

For more information contact the Cameron Extension Office at 775-5516. Deadline for nominations is Aug. 17.

RECREATION FISHING Map #1 of coastal Louisiana is now available. Dotted lines indicate the coverage of each of the six maps. Maps 2 through 6 will follow.

Dale Sittig

Recreational fishing maps available

The first in a series of quality recreational fishing maps will be available beginning in August from the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The department, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Interior's Minerals Management Service, is producing a set of six maps of coastal Louisiana which will provide excellent information for the recreational fisherman.

Map #1 covers the extreme end of the mouth of the Mississippi River and the surrounding Gulf waters out to 30 miles. Land mass featured begins at Venice and extends west to Fourchon.

Fishermen and other interested persons may order the map by picking up an order form at any LDWF district office -- there are eight locations throughout the state. Also, order forms are available in the Louisiana Conservationist Magazine, published bimonthly by the department.

Purchase can be made by filling out the form and sending it along with $11, plus $3 for handling, to Rigs to Reefs Maps/Louisiana Artificial Reef Program/LDWF, P.O. Box 98000, Baton Rouge, La. 70898. The first map only is available at this time.

Each beautiful 25" x 38" map is four-color and can be distributed folded or rolled inprotective mailers. One side features a detailed map of the area, complete with locations of oil and gas platforms, artificial reefs, wrecks and hazards. The state/federal line and the legal saltwater/freshwater line are both illustrated.

The reverse side is full of valuable information: angling tips, identification guides to popular species and basic information about each fish, details on the state's Artificial Reef Program, and informative facts about fishing marinas and oil and gas platforms.

Mosquitoes bad!

By DON MENARD,
DIRECTOR,
Cameron Mosquito
Abatement District

Daily heavy rains throughout Cameron Parish are continuing to produce mosquitoes at unusually high levels for this time of year. Normally, July and early August are dry months, which help prevent mosquito production, but that's not the case this year.

With virtually no break in the rains, new broods of salt-marsh and ricefield mosquitoes are occurring as fast as we can spray the old broods. The high humidity which accompanies the rain is also ideal for mosquito migration.

Some mosquitoes can fly up to 40 miles or more, so with all the marsh breeding grounds in close proximity to populated areas, mosquitoes are reinfesting just treated areas within 24 hours.

This gives a false impression that the spray isn't working. Unfortunately, until the rains slack off, we can expect to see higher than normal mosquito numbers throughout the parish.

Now is also a good time to empty all containers around your yard that are holding water. Rains have filled them, providing ideal conditions for production of mosquitoes.

The small dark mosquito produced in these artificial containers is easily recognized by a stripe down its back. This mosquito is not affected by sprays, since it is active only during the day, so the best method of control is to empty all water holding objects around your yard.

Also, since fall is always the worst time of year for encephalitis, make sure all horses have been vaccinated. Vaccines are available from your local veterinarian.

Carrier Alert program

The "Carrier Alert" program, sponsored by the Cameron Council On Aging along with local mail carriers, is being reactivated.

The program identified elderly persons who live alonge, who are extremely rural and vulnerable. The rural mail carriers will be given a list of those persons. The carrier will then be able to alert the Council on Aging if a client fails to retrieve his or her mail regularly and help the COA to be awared of possible problems tghat may arise.

The program will begin immediately. If you know of anyone in your community who should be ont he "Carrier Alert" list, contact the Council at 775-5668.

The Swamp Rats

By Keith Hambrick

(Cameron Pilot,
Aug. 7, 1959)
"SWAMP RATS"

The banner of Cameron Parish is being held aloft this summer by the "Swamp Rats" a group of parish men attending the summer school at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, and who are members of a team in the summer softball league.

The Rats, who have chalked up five straight victories so far, include Alton Magee, Sammy Moore and Donald Broussard, of the South Cameron High School faculty, and Lyle Crain and Jimmy Roberts. Other members are drawn from the swamps of Pecan Island and Forked Island.

RAINS FLOOD BASEMENT

Steps to prevent the flooding of the concrete house basement, such as was brought on by the tidal rains ranging out from Hurricane Debra, were taken Monday by the Cameron Police Jury.

Conway LeBleu, Ward 3 juror, said the basement filled up in 30 minutes with water which backed up through the septic tank. He said he also had to sandbag around basement doors and windows to prevent the water from pouring in.

SEISMOGRAPH SHOOTING

Oil companies seismographic operations in the Gulf are seriously hurting Cameron's menhaden fishing, the Cameron Police Jury was told Monday. The jury promptly passed resolutions urging that offshore seismograph shooting be done outside the fishing season.

NEW VISITING TEACHER

Mrs. Don Wagner, a teacher in the Cameron Parish school system for the past four years, has been named as the parish's new visiting teacher. She succeeds Mrs. Conway LeBleu who submitted her resignation to the school board Monday.

Mrs. LeBleu, who has been visiting teacher here for the past nine years, said she preferred to accept a classroom teaching position at this time.

In other action taken by the school board Monday, a portion of the old Klondike school building was sold to Philip Broussard of Klondike for $600.

PICTURE CAPTIONS

A victim of progress was this picturesque old semi-high level wooden bridge over Lacassine Bayou near Thornwell which was recently replaced with a modern new steel bridge. Built early in the 1920's, the bridge was built high enough to allow shrimpers and other small boats to go under it. The bridge is located on Highway 14 which goes through Holmwood, Bell City, Hayes, Lake Arthur and Gueydan.

Conway LeBleu, secretary of the Cameron Farm Bureau, received a plaque from L. S. Lovell, president of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, in recognition of Cameron having been the first parish to reach its membership quota in 1958. James R. Savoie also attended.

New program available to the low-income

"Project Independence", a program launched by the state of Louisiana only two years ago, is providing needed services to low-income families who qualify.

The goal of Project Independence is to break the welfare cycle by helping parents take charge of their lives through education, training or job development leading to employment.

The program is geared for recipients of Aid to Families With Dependent Children. Public assistance through AFDC is a temporary form of aid to families while parents of deprived children prepare to enter the work force.

Project Independence includes education, job-skills training, job-readiness activities, job development and placement, and on-the-job training. The program also provides support services such as child care, transportation and medical care. Participants may also receive uniforms, safety equipment and tools.

Most recipients of AFDC are required to take part in Project Independence. Exceptions include individuals who are under 16 or over 60; working 30 hours or more per week; disabled; caring for a disabled household member; at least four months pregnant; caring for a child under age 1 (unless the individual is under the age of 20 and without a high-school education); or age 16-18 attending elementary, secondary or vocational/technical school full-time.

For more information, contact the Cameron Parish Office of Family Support or the Cameron office of state Rep. Randy Roach at 542-4443.

Workshop set here

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council will conduct a second series of ten workshops on direct effort management or limited access, for the commercial red snapper fishery.

The first workshops were held June 3-12, from Port Isabel, Tex., through Madeira Beach, Fla. The goals of the first series of workshops were to discuss with the fishermen and others the problems in the fishery, different forms of effort management and to develop ideas for the second series of workshops.

In the second series of workshops, the participants will be asked to evaluate various effort management alternatives using a number of criteria.

The red snapper stock is considered to be in an overfished state, and the current Reef Fish Fishery Management Plan is designed to rebuild stocks to a level that can support continuing harvest at maximum sustainable yield by the year 2007.

Since 1990, the fishery has been operating under a quota. In 1991, the commercial fishery filled its allocation in August, and commercial harvest was closed until January 1, 1992. In 1992, the commercial sector filled its allocation of 2.04 million pounds in just 53 days.

These workshops have been primarily designed to address long-term solutions for the problems in the fishery. The date for the workshop in Cameron is Thursday, Aug. 6, 1992 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Cameron Elementary School Auditorium.

For more information please contact Kevin Savoie, Asst. Fisheries Agent, at the Cameron Parish Extension Office at 775-5516.

Trahan, Eldaw Trahan, L. J. Hebert and Rodney Guilbeaux. Also present were Philip Breaux and Scott Romero from Fina, Fred Dunham of L.D.W.F., Rick Hartman of N.M.F.S., Barry Obiol of U.S. Corps, Clay Midkiff and Ron Marcantel of S.C.S., Fina officials reviewed their Marsh Management Plan west of Mud Lake. Fina requested GDD #7 permission to modify the La. 27 5 gate structure operating permit to allow flap gates to operate freely. GDD #7 board agreed to this modification, which will be handled by Fina. Barry Obiol of U.S. Corps was pleased with GDD #7 permit application on Holly Beach Flood Canal modifications. He stated that we could expect permit approval any day now. The Corps official also stated that we would be pleased to know that both the Fina Marsh Management Plan (East Mud Lake) and the Holly Beach-Constance Beach, etc. Breakwater Structures were accepted at the Breaux Bill Hearing in Lake Charles on Thurs., June 25. Hopefully, they will be included in future funding by Breaux Bill.

Top officials from Fina welcomed the media and guests. U.S. Senator John Breaux, U.S. Congressman Jimmy Hayes both spoke on the tragic marsh and wetlands loss due to erosion, salt water intrusion, etc. They both comended Fina and others for their work in restoring and protecting the marsh. Bruce Austin, Ron Marcantel and Clay Midkiff of U. S. Soil Conservation Service spoke and gave demonstrations on the various types of soil and the general overview of Fina's Plan. Col. Diffley of the U.S. Corps and David Soileau and John Ales of La. DNR also made comments on behalf of the Corps and DNR's to coastal restoration. This was followed by a delicious meal and an alligator egg harvest and alligator tease.

Only You Can Prevent Skin Cancer. . .

HOW CAN YOU PREVENT SKIN CANCER?

Even though overexposure to the sun is the leading cause, it isn't necessary to give up the outdoors in order to reduce your chances of developing skin cancer. Just use good sense and simple measures whenever you work or play in the sun — repeated sunburns are particularly risky.

Cover Up with a wide-brimmed hat, and a bandanna for your neck; wear long-sleeved shirts and pants the sun can't penetrate.

Use Sunscreens to help prevent skin cancer as well as premature aging of your skin. You'll want a Sun Protective Factor (SPF) rating of 15 or higher. Women can get a little added protection by using tinted opaque cosmetic foundation along with a sunscreen. Apply sunscreen at least an hour before going into the sun and again after swimming or perspiring a lot. Don't use indoor sunlamps, tanning parlors or tanning pills.

Know The Ways Of The Rays for your best protection. You can get burned on a cloudy day. And the rays can reach down into three feet of water. Try to stay out of the direct sun at midday, as the sun's rays are strongest between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. And beware of high altitudes — there's less atmosphere to filter out the ultraviolet rays. Skiers should remember that snow reflects the sun's rays, too.

Whatever your skin type, do a monthly self-exam of your skin to note any moles, blemishes or birthmarks. Check them once a month and if you notice any changes in size, shape or color or if a sore does not heal, see your physician without delay.

Commitment

... to the Customer
... to the Community

Calcasieu Marine National Bank will soon be what the industry calls a "billion dollar bank," meaning assets will total $1,000,000,000. As unusual as that is in communities such as ours in America, and as unusual as it is to become such a bank in today's economy and banking environment so shaken by failure, it is particularly unusual for a locally- and independently-owned bank.

The record is unusual. Steady, impressive growth during bad times. Strength and stability cited over and over again by independent bank-rating companies. Systemwide (four-parish) expansion of branches, state-of-the-art ATM systems, operational hours, and many other services. Asset growth of over $200,000,000 in just the past few years, as other financial institutions stumbled, then fell.

Success. Not only when it could not have been predicted, but when it was virtually impossible. The record of accomplishment was such that we needed to know its source, just as we needed to know why and how our weaknesses remained.

As a dedicated, now over two-year-old, effort in research, employee study, review by specialists, etc., has progressed, the discovered source of our success has, instead, referred us to our past; to the most basic lessons of our upbringing.

Commitment. Plain, simple, and just exactly as we were taught. Fast becoming, we fear, the forgotten key: forgotten perhaps in all businesses, forgotten perhaps in all aspects of our lives, but forgotten certainly in the recent history of banking.

We have found that the source of our success is, in simple truth, the same as all good and special things in our lives. Things such as solid, healthy families, good marriages, children who make us proud, faith which is the real strength to be found in every success, and stability of our communities when we see all too well the instability of others.

Every part of our work brings back that simple message: our success comes from a total and irrevocable commitment to our customer and to our community, and their commitment to us. And, equally certainly, our failures have come from forgetting this simple truth. Relationships with our customers have grown - deepened - for nearly 60 years. To the women and men at Calcasieu Marine, each one is special, and we are investing in them in many, many ways.

In coming weeks, we will tell you more about the Calcasieu Marine commitment to our customers and to our community. And, though we will tell that story with pride, we tell it mainly in hope of rekindling a spark of re-commitment in each of us, to all things in our lives deserving of it.

J. A. Colligan

Mr. Colligan dies here at age of 87

Joseph Albert Colligan, 87, co-owner of one of the oldest businesses in Cameron Parish, Cameron Drug Store, died Friday, Aug. 7, 1992 in the Cameron Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were held Monday, Aug. 10 at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church with burial in the church mausoleum. Msgr. Curtis Vidrine and Rev. Robert Shreve officiated.

A native of Church Point, Mr. Colligan was a pharmacist for over 65 years. He opened his first drug store in the oilfield boom town of Ged south of Vinton in 1926. Thirteen years later after the oil played out and Ged became a ghost town, Mr. Colligan moved to Cameron and opened the Cameron Drug Store in 1939. The store has been in continuous operation by Mr. Colligan and his family for the past 53 years.

The Colligan family probably set a record as to the number of phamacists in one family--not only was Mr. Colligan a pharmacist but also three of his children. He also had a brother who is a phamacist and a brother who is a doctor.

Mr. Colligan was a member and trustee of Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church and a member of the Knights of Columbus Council 5461 of Cameron. He received the Distinguished Service Medal from both the Lake Charles and Lafayette dioceses.

He was a board member of the Cameron Water and Sewer Board and was on the Hurricane Audrey Victim's Memorial Committee. He was named the Elder Worker of the Year last year by the Cameron Council on Aging.

Mr. Colligan is survived by his wife, Mrs. Albert (Gertrude) Colligan; three daughters, Mrs. Joyce McCall, Deanne Colligan and Madeleine Colligan; one son, James A. Colligan, all of Cameron; two brothers, Leland Colligan and Dr. J. B. Colligan, both of Hackberry; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Mires of Orange, Texas, and Mrs. Emmy Lou LeRoux of Beaumont, Texas; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

DeRouen, director of facilities and planning at McNeese State University, was the first commissioner to be officially appointed to the reconstituted board in 1988.

Watts, an assistant professor of accounting at McNeese and a Certified Public Accountant, was appointed in December 1988. He is currently serving as secretary of the board.

AT AUGUST MEETING

Surface leases given by board

The Cameron Parish School Board had a relatively short monthly meeting Monday with few items being considered.

The board awarded surface leases on three school sections as follows: 16-14-14, Kirk Hudson, $2011.51; 16-15-5--Bryant Domingue, $2500; 16-14-8--Pat Pinch, $1500.

Identical bids of $2,050 were submitted by Donald Morris and Bryant Domingue on 16-14-6 and the section will be readvertised. No bids were received on two sections.

Accountant James Watts reported that he had completed the audits of all of the individual schools' accounts and found them all in good order.

The board approved the teacher list for the new school term. It was reported that there are still three vacancies--special ed teacher at Cameron Elementary, science teacher at Johnson Bayou and pre-kindergarten teacher at Grand Lake.

In a move to reduce the school board budget, the board agreed to eliminate the position of counselor for the Cameron, South Cameron and Grand Chenier elementary schools.

The board accepted the resignations of Donna Granger, South Cameron elementary teacher and Stella Cormier, guidance counselor.

Dolores Boudreaux was named acting lunchroom manager at South Cameron high and Janice Hebert was named a regular lunchroom worker at South Cameron Elementary.

Raymond Henagan, manager of the Cameron Telephone Co., reported that his company plans to start construction by next May on a fiber optic telephone connection between its Carlyss office and Cameron.

He said that the new technology will permit the school board to inaugurate two way video communication among the schools of the parish and open up all types of new instruction.

Tour de McNeese is coming

The Tour de McNeese will make a pit stop in Cameron this week, the event being part of a season football ticket sales promotion for the University. KPLC-TV sports director Tom Woodard (center) will be riding a 21-speed bicycle from Lake Charles to Cameron as part of the promotion. The tour will stop off at Cameron State Bank in Cameron at 7 p.m. on August 14, bringing along members of the MSU coaching staff, cheerleaders and Cowgirl kickers. Also pictured are Cameron State Bank president Baron Thomas (left) and Sulphur branch manager John Guilbeaux. McNeese giveaways will be available at Cameron State Bank on that day.

Funds earmarked for ship channel

Congressman Jimmy Hayes announced that an estimated $2.9 million is earmarked for improving and maintaining the Calcasieu River shipping channel in the Army Corps of Engineers reauthorization bill, approved last week by the House Public Works and Transportation Committee.

The legislation, which authorizes projects to be performed over the next year by the Corps, includes $1 million to create a containment levee in the Dugas Landing area, $800,000 toward enlarging the existing "northern loop" channel to the Port of Cameron, and $1.2 million for improving the southern portion of the Cameron loop channel.

Cliff Cabell, president of the West Cameron Port Harbor Terminal District, welcomed the funds as long-needed. "This will definitely facilitate the shipping and offshore oil industry in Cameron. Right now, some ships have to wait for high tide before they can enter the Cameron loop. This area badly needs to be dredged," Cabell said.

In addition to enlarging the channels, the funding in the Cameron loop area will be used for maintaining the channels at their new dimensions, and providing bank stabilization and marsh creation through the construction of a system of retaining dikes. The money dedicated to the Dugas Landing project, located near Hackberry, will be used to solve problems with erosion on the west bank of the channel, which has contributed to silting problems between miles 12 and 17 and damaged waterfront properties. The beneficial use of dredged materials at critical locations along the channel will also be a focus of both projects.

"This funding comes on the heels of a bill I introduced last week that would require the Bureau of Land Management to turn part of Monkey Island over to Cameron for use as a commercial port and enterprise zone," Hayes said.

Workshop set for parents

A workshop on "How to Take Charge and Still be a Loving Parent" will be held at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 18 at the Cameron Elementary Auditorium and is free to the public. It will be sponsored by the Cameron Parish School Board.

The workshop will be conducted by Vicki J. Sanderson of Dallas, Texas, a former classroom teacher who is now vice president of a consulting firm that has conducted over 400 workshops throughout the country.

Among the topics to be discussed are a child's need for attention, setting limits, strategies for avoiding power struggles, etc.

Funds asked for refuge

Senator Bennett Johnston has announced Senate approval of $2.9 million in funding for the Cameron Prairie National Wildlife Refuge.

This year's allocation will be used to construct a visitors center and related facilities at the refuge. Last year Johnston was successful in securing $300,000 for planning and design of the new center, and for construction of a maintenance facility at the prairie.

"As Cameron Prairie continues to grow into a mecca for wildlife observers and birdwatchers it is important that we provide a center for our visitors," Johnston said. "I am pleased we were able to include the funding necessary for this addition to the refuge."

Established in 1988, the 9,621 acre refuge was created to preserve and protect wintering waterfowl and their habitat. Cameron Prairie is the first refuge established under the auspices of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan.

AT CAJUN-FRENCH MUSIC FESTIVAL

Parish native up for award

Albert Miller, 39, a native of East Creole, may take home one of the ten "Le Cajun" awards to be given out at the Cajun-French Music Association's fourth annual Music Awards and Festival to be held Sunday, Aug. 16, at Blackham Coliseum in Lafayette. The Lake Charles musician has been nominated for the "Heritage Award" for his song entitled "The Hurricane of '57" which appears in the album "La Musique: L'Amusement, L'Amour et La Misere" recorded by Phil Menard and the Louisiana Travelers in 1991.

The story of 1957's Hurricane Audrey is one Miller shared with other residents of Cameron Parish. Only four years old, he vividly recounts the experience of the two days spent in the attic of the Arthur Baccigalopi home along with six families - his great uncle and bedridden Aunt Ozite, their daughter Bernice and Colute Conner, Arthemon and Alice Conner, grandparents Clopha and Louise Baccigalopi, aunt and uncle Matthew and Lilly Guillory, and his parents Stephen and Annie Mae Miller - weathering Hurricane Audrey.

All occupants survived the storm as the men broke windows in the wooden structure allowing it to come to rest hung up on an ash tree after its brief ride on the crest of the tidal wave. They ate canned vegetables and preserves which had to be retrieved from the pantry under water. The Cajun ballad tells of their rescue finally as the small boats came and lifted them to safety through a hole made in the roof by the men with their bare fists and feet.

Their story ended on a positive note, but the ballad reminds us that many were not so fortunate - among those were Miller's paternal grandparents and countless relatives. His composition is a memorial to the courage with which his people faced this tragedy.

Selected as a Top 20 Event for the nine state region this month by the Southeast Tourism Society, the "Le Cajun" Music Awards and Festival is a two day event that begins on Sat., Aug. 15. "Steve Riley and the Mamou Playboys" and "The Bruce Daigrepont Cajun Band" are festival headliners with a variety of Cajun bands entertaining from each chapter of the C.F.M.A. The awards program honoring "the best of the best" will be at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

"Le Cajun" award nominee Albert Miller is truly "passing his heritage on" to his son, Joshua, teaching him first how to play the drums and inadvertently planting the seed of desire to play the accordion. When family friend accordion-maker Randy Falcon recently showed him the specially crafted instrument he designed and built for Wayne Toups, there was no turning back. Miller had to buy one for Josh - not like this one - a second hand to learn on. (Falcon recently received a U. S. patent on this "two-in-one" accordion which he invented.)

Young transplant patient does well

In 1988 the people of Cameron parish held a benefit to raise funds to help pay for a liver transplant of a one-year-old Groves, Texas child.

Today, 5-year-old Seth Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Paul Smith of Groves, and the great-grandson of the late Margaret Trahan of Little Chenier, is a happy, healthy child.

In a letter to Debbie Theriot, Cameron Parish clerk of court, Seth's father reports on the wonderful progress of his son.

Seth Smith

Seth is now 5½ years old. As you may remember, he was born Jan. 17, 1987 with a rare liver disease, called Biliary Atresia. Seth was put on a national organ list by the time he was 9 months old.

Day by day, Seth was getting sicker and sicker to where he was so sick he had to be taken off the donor list.

On the night of Feb. 1, 1988 we got the call from Dallas about an organ for Seth. We drove all night to get to the Children's Medical Center in Dallas, where Dr. Walt Andrews performed a lengthy 12 hour surgery. Seth was in ICU for about 36 hours.

One week after surgery, he went through an episode of rejection, and was given massive doses of steroids to conquer the rejection. After this there were not any more complications, and we were in Dallas about 45 more days.

Since the release from the hospital he has not had to be hospitalized for any liver related problems. He did have to go in the hospital for the chicken pox and to have two sets of tubes installed in his ears. Seth is one of our healthiest boys. He enjoys life and lives his life to the fullest as a 5½ year old boy.

Seth's great-grandmother, Margaret Trahan, lived to see Seth's transplant ordeal and saw the people of Creole and Cameron raise the money for his transplant and she died seeing him a happy five year old.

Shrimp size outlined

The standard measure of size in the Louisiana shrimp fishery is the number of shrimp per pound, frequently referred to as "count". Fishermen and fisheries biologists typically determine count by collecting a random sample of shrimp weighing three pounds. They then count the number of shrimp in the sample and divide that number by three.

Act 619 of the 1992 Louisiana Legislature amended the statutes regarding the possession count of white shrimp. Lawmakers removed the count requirement from mid-October to late December. From Oct. 15 through the third Monday in December there is no white shrimp count requirement. Shrimpers may take and possess white shrimp of any size.

Other legal possession requirements on size of shrimp are as follows:

1. There is no limitation on the count of seabobs, bait shrimp, or shrimp that are documented as having been legally taken in other states or countries and improted into this state.

2. During the open spring brown shrimp season there is no limitation as to the count on any saltwater shrimp taken or in possession.

3. When more than 50% by weight of the saltwater shrimp taken or in possession is seabobs or brown shrimp, the maximum allowable amount of undesized white shrimp taken or possessed cannot exceed 10% by weight of the total.

4. Except as specified above and the time period from October 15 through the third Monday in December, the possession count on saltwater white shrimp shall average no more than 100 specimens to the pound.

Peripheral Vascular Disease...

It may not be as serious as it sounds; and surgery may not be necessary.

Peripheral Vascular Disease (blockage of blood vessels in the legs) is very common in Southwest Louisiana, but it may not be as serious as it sounds. Appropriate diagnosis may be as simple as obtaining a peripheral vascular study "echo" with vascular ultrasound. This diagnosis can be established as an outpatient through the Peripheral Vascular Lab, a branch of the "Outpatient Cardiology Services" at St. Patrick Hospital.

The best treatment:

★ Proper diet
★ Regular exercise program established by an exercise physiologist
★ Smoking cessation
★ Physician referral for medical management of elevated cholesterols if needed

For those few people who do need more involved care, the resources of the "Regional Heart Center" are available.

Remember, early diagnosis and treatment are important and can be done with convenience as an outpatient.

If it becomes necessary to leave school at any time, a student must have the principal's permission.

Students above the age requirement of the Compulsory School Attendance Law who are guilty of flagrant and continuing non-attendance may be considered for expulsion.

Extenuating Circumstances: The only exception to the attendance regulation shall be extenuating circumstances as follows:

1) Extended personal physical and/or emotional illness as verified by a physician (five consecutive days or more).

2) Extended hospital stay as verified by a physician (five consecutive days or more).

3) Extended recuperation from an accident as verified by a physician (five consecutive days or more).

4. Extended contagious disease within a family as verified by a physician (five consecutive days or more).

5. Prior school system approved travel for education, must be approved by the Principal.

6. Death in the family (not to exceed five school days).

7. Natural catastrophe and/or disaster.

8. For any other extenuating circumstances parents must make a formal appeal in accordance with the due process procedures established by the CPSB.

Students who are verified as meeting extenuating circumstances and therefore eligible to receive grades shall not receive those grades if they are unable to complete make-up work or pass the course.

Students participating in school approved activities which necessitate their being away from school shall be considered to be present and shall be given the opportunity for make-up work.

Type of Absences: The days absent for elementary and secondary school students shall include temporarily excused absences, unexcused absences and suspensions.

Temporarily Excused Absences: Students shall be considered temporarily excused from school for personal illness, serious illness in the family, death in the family (not to exceed five school days), or for recognized religious holidays of the student's own faith and shall be given the opportunity for make-up work.

A student shall receive an incomplete grade in all subjects involved if the grade is not made up. If he fails to do the make-up work as specified by school policy, the incomplete grade automatically becomes an F.

Unexcused Absences: Students shall not be excused for any absence other than those listed and shall be given failing grades in those subjects for those days missed with no make-up work allowed.

Extended absences of 5 or more consecutive days must be verified by a physician.

A maximum of five absences per semester can be verified by a parent.

Work assigned a grade during a student's unexcused absence in each subject missed shall be recorded as an F.

Students shall not be excused from school to work on any job including agriculture and domestic service, even in their own homes or for their own parents or tutors.

Absences Due to Suspensions: Students missing school as a result of any suspension shall be counted as absent and shall be given failing grades for those days suspended with no make-up work allowed.

Work assigned a grade during a student's unexcused absence due to suspension in each subject missed shall be recorded as an F.

Students who are absent from any class or from school for any cause will need a note from their parents or guardian or doctor must state the cause for the absence and the dates of the absence. The student must take the note to the appropriate school office or to a designated representative to secure an admit-to-class-slip.

Tardiness: Being punctual at the beginning of every class recording period is important. Excessive tardiness will not be tolerated and will be dealt with by the principal.

If a student is guilty of excessive tardiness, the principal can suspend him or her.

Police Jury gives okay for hospital district bonds

The Cameron Parish Police Jury Monday approved a resolution approving issuance of up to $22 million in revenue bonds by the West Calcasieu-Cameron Hospital District.

Lake Charles bond attorney Jay Delafield explained that while the West Calcasieu-Cameron hospital is located in Sulphur and not in Cameron parish, the Hackberry area of Cameron parish is in the hospital district. For this reason both the Cameron and Calcasieu police juries must approve the issuances of the bonds.

However, he said the Cameron Police Jury would in no way be responsible for the bonds should the hospital default.

Funds from the bonds will be used to remodel and expand the Sulphur hospital, which is about 40 years old.

Letter to the Editor

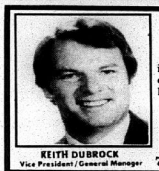
Dear Editor:



We are again writing to ask your cooperation in an important project, aimed at locating children who are in need of specialized educational services. Your local school system continues to provide services for children who may have difficulty with seeing, talking, walking, behaving, learning, or other health related problems. Services are also available for children who are advanced for their age and anxious to learn.

If your church, business, or organization publishes a newsletter or bulletin, we hope you can include a message urging adults to inform us of children in need of these specialized services. By printing such a message, you may help these children to achieve their fullest potential through their participation in one of our public school programs. A variety of services are available for children ages birth through 21 years.

Contact me at 775-7570 if additional information is necessary.

Sincerely,
/s/ Rhonda Lewis

Where does the wax go when a candle burns?

Once a candle starts burning ... presto! The wax seems to disappear into thin air. But the wax really doesn't go anywhere.

Once the candle starts burning, some of the wax melts. The liquid wax rises up the wick by a process called capillarity. (Think of the way blotting paper soaks up ink or water. It's the same process!)

When it burns, the liquid wax changes into a gas. You can't see the gas. But if you blew out the candle and held a lit match near the wick, the gas would catch fire. The candle would light again, without the match even touching the wick! (Don't try this without the help of an adult.)

Before funeral homes . . .

In Cameron Parish before the establishment of a funeral home (and it must be remembered that they came slowly to rural communities) there was no embalming of bodies of the deceased.

Immediately after a death a few relatives or close friends would volunteer to prepare the body for burial, thus relieving the immediate family of the sad responsibility. Ladies took the responsiblity if it were a woman or child; men if it were a man.

An inside room door was taken off its hinges and laid on a trestle or across the seats of sturdy straight chairs set to face each other. The door was padded with a folded quilt and draped with a sheet. The body which had been bathed and dressed in "Sunday clothes" was placed on this "cooling board". There it rested until the coffin had been made, after which it was laid within. The casket, in turn, was set upon the trestle or a low table to remain during the "wake."

If homegrown or wild flowers were available, they were gathered and placed in vases or jars near the casket. There might be daffodils or narcissi during early spring; jasmines and hydrangeas in May; zinnias, crepe myrtle or oleanders during summer months; occasionally a few roses scattered throughout the year.

Few ready-made caskets were brought in. Friends of the bereaved family, including possibly a carpenter, made both the coffin and a larger outer box in which to place it.

The coffin for an adult was covered with black percale or broadcloth on the outside; interlined with either cotton or wool batting or a soft blanket; and lined with white muslin or satin, satin being used rarely. For infants and younger people, a casket was done entirely in white. A small lace-edged white pillow was placed inside for the head.

A winding sheet, bordered in lace for women and children, untrimmed for men, was laid in the open casket, the body placed within and the sheet gently folded over it, leaving the upper part and hands exposed until time to screw the lid on the casket.

The coffin, in turn, was placed inside the large wooden box at the cemetery, the lid of which was nailed down.

A prevalent custom was to dig six-foot pits into which the big box was lowered. Then the excavated soil was shoveled back into the opening. The depth was partly for sanitary reasons and partly to keep the casket from being washed out in case of storm or flood.

Later brick and concrete vaults came into use. Early graves were mounded over and marked with crosses. Families who could afford the expense began to purchase headstones, usually of granite, with appropriate carvings and proper information.

Funeral services were held in the church of the deceased's faith if such a building were available. If the area was without a church, the service was held in the home and completed at the cemetery.

A whole community turned out to mourn for the deceased. Early families were strongly bonded by blood, marriage, or friendship. The bereavement of one became the grief of all.

PROCEEDINGS

The West Cameron Port Commission met in regular session on June 30, 1992 at 6:30 p.m. at the Grandlake-Sweetlake Fireman's Center.

Members Present: Cliff Cabell, Donald Criglow, Robert Manuel, Rodney Guilbeaux, Jeff Poe, Ed Kelley, C. J. Kiffe, J. P. Constance.

Absent: Jim Brown.

Guests: None.

Pledge of Allegiance was given by Jeff Poe.

A motion was made by Ed Kelley, seconded by C. J. Kiffe, and carried to approve the minutes of the previous meeting.

A discussion was held in reference to the "NO WAKE" signs. Donald Criglow informed the members that the signs were completed and are presently being stored in the Parish Barn next to the Mosquito Control. It was recommend that questions on the "PERMITS" should be directed to the proper authorities as to the placement of said signs along existing river banks.

A committee consisting of Donald Criglow, Ed Kelley, Jeff Poe and C. J. Kiffe was chosen to study and determine placement sites for the signs and to contact appropriate persons in each placement area for input and suggestions as to said placement of signs.

Ed Kelley stated that a meeting was being held in New Orleans on July 8, 1992 at 12:30 p.m. at the Corps of Engineers Building in reference to their Calcasieu River Long Term Disposal Plan.

A motion was made by Donald Criglow, second by Jeff Poe, and unanimously carried to adopt a "RESOLUTION" stating that said commission does not support recommendations made as of this date to the Department of the Army, New Orleans District, Corps of Engineers in regards to the modifications of the alignment of the Turner's Bay dike. Said recommendations have been made to the Corps of Engineers. "Calcasieu River Long Term Disposal Plan". The West Cameron Port Commission does unanimously recommend to the Corps of Engineers to retain the existing bank of the subject area located in Section 31, Township 11 South, Range 9 West, Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana, which area is commonly known as Turner's Bay. The West Cameron Port Commission does unanimously support the Corps of Engineers efforts to construct a shell core dike armored with rock along the said existing bank to prevent any further erosion. The West Cameron Port Commission unanimously feels these recommendations would maintain current tidal movements through this area, which tidal movements are conducive to the existing oyster beds and fishing habitat.

The next regularly scheduled meeting will be held July 28, 1992 at 6:30 p.m. at Holly Beach Fire Station.

There being no further buisness the meeting was adjourned.

AREA SALTWATER

Saltwater fishing is still holding on, slowed down some but still good catches of speckle trout and redfish being taken.

I don't know if you heard, but unofficially I believe the redfish record for Louisiana was broken. It was taken in the Gulf of Mexico along the surfs at Cocodrie. It was taken by a Mississippian, David Weber, on his yearly fishing vacation.

One redfish, 41-3/4 inches long, and a girth of 38 inches, and 61 pounds, has beaten the old record set in 1963 of 58-6.

It is estimated the redfish to be 60 years old, however, tests will be run to determine this fact. A live Cocahoe minnow was the bait that attracted this big one.

TOURNAMENTS

Last week we told you of the Big Bass Bonanza held on the Calcasieu River this past weekend. Keep in mind also the Lions Club Saltwater tournament coming up Sept. 26.

You may also be interested in the annual Gulf Coast Conservation Association annual largest speckled trout tournament coming up this Saturday, Aug. 15. This is on the Calcasieu River System. The closest registration for us is Gaspard's Grocery in Grand Lake on the Gulf Highway.

SECOND IN SERIES OF ANTI-HUNTING & FISHING

Last week we spoke of several states that had proposed coming up to vote this fall to stop some hunting and in some cases, all fishing.

I guess some of the fondest memories I've had is fishing with my children and now with my father. Also, my son, wife, daughter and father still like to hunt together. Now I'm looking forward to hunting and fishing with my grandchildren. Don't you think there are many thousands of people like me who have fond memories and good stories to tell of the good times we've enjoyed outdoors. Well, we have some groups who want to stop all this. These activities we enjoy as a family, plus friends enjoying the outdoors - are we going to lose all this?

The anti-hunter etc. groups usually show up at sportsmen shows and try to make a point. It seems clear these people really don't know or understand why we hunt and fish. This is a tradition handed down that millions of Americans enjoy. In fact, we learned this from the Indians.

Look at all the people employed because of hunting and fishing. Hunters alone spend over $10 billion each year on clothing, camping equipment, guns, ammo, and boats and automobiles to say a few.

What about the additional dollars on fishing equipment spent each year. These people need to realize sportsmen are Americas first conservationists and still are today.

These activists are launching attacks on sportsmen and we must take this fight seriously. We must work together and keep our rights and let people of America know about the work we have done.

I do respect Americans who chose not to hunt, fish or eat meat because the have the right to do so. Now, they should equally respect our choice to hunt and fish without harassing us. That's our right too.

Ridley turtle tracked to Fla.

In an effort to track the route of a Ridley turtle, which has been the subject of imposing the TED regulations on the local shrimpers, the National Marine Fisheries released a young turtle off Port Isabel, Tex., March 20.

It was fitted with a satellite transmitter and by April 30, was offshore of the Matagorda Peninsula, 184 miles up the Texas coast. By mid-June it was just west of the Mississippi delta. From there it took approximately three weeks to work its way around the delta.

The turtle reached St. Joseph's Bay, Fla., July 31, where it remained for two weeks before continuing down the Florida coast to approximately 35 miles NNE of Key West, Fla. From there it may have entered the Atlantic Ocean.

During the 8.5 month tracking period the turtle traveled over 1600 miles along the Gulf Coast.

Tentative hunting dates are set

Tentative dates for the 1992-93 hunting seasons on ducks, coots and geese were announced by the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Duck Seasons: Once again, hunting dates will be based on the state's two duck zones. There will be a split in each zone as follows:

West Zone: Ducks and Coots/ 30-day season - Nov. 21 - Dec. 5 and Dec. 26 - Jan. 9.

East Zone: Ducks and Coots/ 30-day season - Nov. 21 - Nov. 27 and Dec. 26 - Jan. 17.

Hunters are reminded that non-toxic steel shot is required statewide for duck, coot and goose hunting. The season on canvasback remains closed.

Daily bag limit/ducks - three and may include the following: no more than two mallards (only one of which may be a female); one black duck; two wood ducks; one pintail and one redhead.

Daily bag limit/coots is 15.

Daily bag limit/mergansers is five, only one of which may be a hooded merganser. Merganser limits are in addition to the daily bag limit for ducks.

Possession limits/ducks, coots, mergansers is twice the daily bag limits.

Goose Seasons: The goose season will be statewide and run as follows: Nov. 21 - Dec. 12. Dec. 19-Feb. 4; Feb. 5-Feb. 14.

Daily bag limit is seven in the aggregate of blue, snow and white-fronted geese; no more than two may be white-fronted (speckledbellies). During the last 10-day run from Feb. 5-Feb. 14, only blue and snow geese may be taken.

Experimental Canada goose season in a portion of Southwest Louisiana, as described in detail in the 1992-93 Louisiana Migratory Game Bird Hunting Regulations pamphlet is Jan. 20-Jan. 28.

Daily bag limit/Canada geese and white-fronted geese is two; no more than one may be a Canada goose.

Possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

A special $5 permit will be required of everyone, regardless of age, who participates in the experimental Canada goose season. Hunters can obtain this permit by mail or in person at LDWF offices in Lake Charles, Opelousas and Baton Rouge.

The final dates for duck and goose hunting season will be ratified by the commission at its regular September meeting.

---

Next we will conclude our three part series and what's our chances here in Louisiana.

REMEMBER? By Keith Hambrick

A Chenier boyhood

(Abbeville Meridional, August 12, 1916)
LAKESIDE LACONICS

We have had about a foot of rain in the last two weeks but the weather seems to be cleared now and the farmers can get busy in their fields again. Our gardens have sprouted out and everything looks good.

The Lake is getting quite filled up but no indications of high water so far. There has been too much pumping to let the water get high.

Alcee Broussard filled his silo this week with corn for feed to get his cattle through the winter in good shape. It took two days to fill it.

Some weeks ago considerable charbon was reported around the country but it seems now to have died out.

Lakeside is sure a favored location. We seem to miss those terrible coast storms and it is too far South for the inland terrors. So I guess we all had better stay at Lakeside if we can.

Mrs. Emile Smith of Mermentau came through in a buggy to visit her sister, Mrs. Ulphase at Lakeside. She said she met plenty of rain but no trouble to travel the roads which is quite a compliment considering the sort of weather we had.

Cotton looks fine and Mr. Guidry's rice is heading out nicely. This is the earliest rice in this section.

Figs made quite a good crop. Four trees of the large purple variety matured about 150 gallons. An acre of such trees would turn their owner about $400 at 10c a gallon. What crop would do as well considering the outlay of labor and money? These trees were simply branches stuck in the ground and left to their own sweet will. The only trouble was in seeing that they were not damaged and they did the rest. We usually put the ashes from the wood stoves to their roots through the winter and they did the rest.

(Cameron Pilot, August 14, 1959)
AN EARLIER DAY
By Archie Hollister

Recollections of a boyhood forty years ago on a Grand Chenier farm: Providing fuel on the farm in those days was something of an undertaking. From the circumstances it is not at all surprising to learn that some families were either occasionally or chronically short of wood.

Like other boys of that day, I assisted in all the farm activities so far as age and strength permitted. Old Uncle Josh January, who farmed on the place at the time, would allow me to ride the cotton sack as he moved down the rows, or his son, Frank, would place me on the horse he was plowing, and I would ride up and down the furrows for hours at a time. I could not have been more than three years old but I can remember it clearly. Later, I found myself dragging the cotton sack, or plowing the horse; that was only to be expected.

Farming activities were varied in those days; cotton, corn and cane were staple crops, and large orange groves were common. There were sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes, melons and cantaloupes, peaches, plums, pears and figs, and always a vegetable garden or two. Peanuts and Sudan grass were planted for hay, and wild dog grass was cut for the same purpose.

Walking barefoot over newmown stubble is one of the more lasting impressions of my early boyhood. I don't recommend it, although it is pleasant to recall the penetrating fragrance of the drying grass, the rhythmic swish of the scythes as the men bent their backs to the sweep of their awkward-looking implements, and the heavy-laden wagons moving to the barn with their golden harvest.

GRAND LAKE RECEIVES SHORTWAVE RADIO

A shortwave radio transmitter and receiver has been received by the Cameron Parish Civil Defense Agency and will be installed in the Grand Lake community for emergency use, according to Wilmer Smith, assistant parish CD director.

The radio will be located at Hebert's Service Station, but an extra antenna will also be installed at Grand Lake High School so that the radio can be moved there if necessary. In the case of any future hurricanes, schools at both Grand Lake and Hackberry will be opened as shelters.

The arrival of the new radio completed the parish's CD radio network, with shortwave radios now in operation in Hackberry, Holly Beach, Cameron, Creole and Grand Chenier. These radios were purchased with funds from the sheriff department. The Grand Lake unit, which cost around $600, will be paid for by the police jury and Civil Defense.

BURNED SHIP REFLOATED

The Anvers, the fire-ravaged Belgian ship which sunk in the Gulf seven weeks ago, was refloated last Friday and brought into Cameron by two tugs that night. The vessel is now anchored in a fork of the river just north of the Louisiana Menhaden Co. plant.

The leader of the group of local men who extinguished the fire on the ship and claimed it by right of salvage, said this week that it is now up to the federal court to determine ownership. It is expected that the ship will be put for auction, with the salvagers to get a share of what it brings.

The salvagers have already spent several thousand dollars in putting out the fire, refloating the ship and bringing it into Cameron. They are confident that the ship will bring a good price for salvage, and also say that much of the cargo of oil, cotton, etc. is undamaged and can be sold.

SHRIMPING

Shrimping has been booming during the last few weeks and Cameron's three shrimp plants are running full blast. Mrs. Tom Steed tells us that they had one of the biggest July's they had ever seen. Hundreds of shrimp boats can be seen along the shore, both commercial and small private boats, catching shrimp for the deep freeze.

FOOTBALL TO BEGIN

Coaches Alton Magee and Sonny McCall will start football practice Saturday with more than 50 boys expected out. With this big reservoir to work from, plus the return of a good number of experienced players, the Tarpons should have a mighty good team this year.

PIG CHAIN

The Cameron Parish 4-H Club will receive $150 from Sears and Roebuck in the near future to start a pig chain, according to Clifford Myers, assistant county agent.

These pigs, which will be of top quality and bloodline, will be purchased and given to 4-H Club boys and girls to start a pig chain. They will be placed in a different community each year. The Grand Lake-Sweetlake community will receive pigs this year.

Opposition to TEDs is told group

(Southwest Daily News)

Area shrimpers voiced their opposition to major revisions of the regulations concerning Turtle Excluder Devices at a public hearing held by the National Marine and Fisheries Service last Thursday evening.

Approximately 40 persons were in attendance.

Studies showing shrimp trawling to be the number one human cause of turtle mortality resulted in the new proposals which include requiring year-round use of TEDs in both inshore and offshore areas, extending the TED requirement to apply to all of the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean from the Virginia-North Carolina border and eliminating tow time restrictions as an alternative to TEDs except under conditions such as large amounts of sea grass in an area. Under the proposals, fishermen who violate the regulations can have their shrimp seized.

Many shrimpers said they rarely find turtles when fishing in freshwawter.

"There are no turtles where we fish," said Pierre Chauplain.

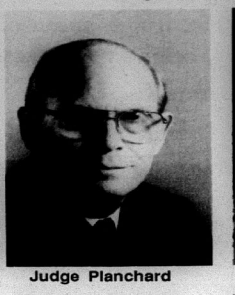
"There are no sea turtles to be caught," said Gerald Tennison. "What are we protecting?"

"I don't deny that there are less turtles. The fact is that we've killed them," said Phil Williams, national sea turtle coordinator for the fisheries service.

"These areas where turtles should be," he said. Williams explained that the Endangered Species Act, which now protects sea turtles, works to restore population to previous levels, not to maintain present population.

Locals also complained that they frequently snag crabpots, abandoned traps underneath the water, when they use TEDs.

Williams said that crabpots crush the catch even without TEDs and noted that Florida has created separate zones for crabbing and shrimping to avoid such problems.



C. J. Kiffe, chairman of the Louisiana Shrimp Task Force, questioned the fisheries service data. He said that autopsies are never performed on dead turtles found on shore. "How c they determine it's people pulli, nets that killed the turtles," he asked. "It's all assumption." He called the regulations "a conspiracy between fisheries service and environmentalists "to put the shrimping industry out of business."

"I can assure you that there is no conspiracy," said Andrew Kemmerer, regional director. He said that autopsies cannot always determine when a turtle has drowned.

Chauplain said that many shrimpers feel that the fisheries service does not consider what they say. "We're going to end up with the shaft and you're going to wind up with the gold mine," he said. "We don't want to work against you. Meet us half way."

Local politicians expressed their support of the shrimpers.

"In my experience the best law is not the most practical law. You have to look at what the people are going to accept," said Rep. Randy Roach.

MUSING

Stories of old timers

BY BERNICE DENNY

Southwest Louisiana has long been famous for it's amazing stories of real people who lived within it's boundaries.

The following is told about a man whom we shall call Dorestain. Dorestain was returning by train to Jennings from New Orleans. A porter went through the coach selling newspapers. Several people bought them, although Dorestain could not read, he decided that this must be the proper thing to do. Anyway, he certainly did not want the others to consider him illiterate.

"Mais, boy," he said importantly, "let me have one, too."

For a long time Dorestain sat staring at the newspaper turning the pages, never realizing that he was holding it upside down.

A passenger across the aisle watched him with growing curiosity. Finally, he leaned over and asked if he knew that the paper was upside down.

"Pas cone, I'm holding it upside down," fumed Dorestain. "Is that some of yo' business if I'm left-handed?"

On one occasion Lem Bonat of Grand Chenier was visiting Van Searle, who lived in Lake Arthur. After supper the two men were to walk across town to visit mutual friends. It had rained hard during the day. The night was now pitch black.

Van said, "Lem, there's a lot of low places in the sidewalk. Water stands in them. Suppose I walk ahead and show you where they are so that you won't get your feet wet."

"That'll be fine," responded Lem, who lived down the river, was accustomed to mud and water but still liked to keep his Sunday shoes looking decent.

Van led the way, calling out now and then, "There's a pretty big puddle, Lem, better 'jump' it."

They started home around midnight. The sky had cleared. The moon shone brightly. The same sidewalk was perfectly dry.

"Whatever happened here, Van? This sidewalk couldn't have dried so fast. Could it?"

Van burst out laughing. "I was only fooling you. It had no water on it when we started out."

Lem, who enjoyed a joke even if it were played on him, often repeated the tale later, saying, "That teg gannit Van Searle had me jumping all over Lake Arthur."

(All names above are fictitious.)

SUPERSTITIONS

Superstitious tales grew out of and along with the flourishing alligtor trade of a by-gone era. The following story shows that even then the marshland people realized the potential danger that existed when the balance of nature was upset.

VENGEANCE DENIED

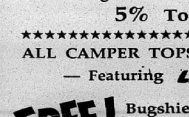
In a house beside a wide marsh there lived a man, his wife, and their son.

The young fellow, who killed alligators just for the sport of it, left before dark to engage in his destructive pleasure. At nine o'clock the father heard the outer door open and close and the sound of footsteps going to his son's room. At the time he wondered why the boy shuffled along as he did.

The next morning the son came in and stated that he had been out all night. The father wondered if he had been dreaming.

That evening the same thing happened, but it seemed to the father that whatever was going to his son's room walked on four legs. Again he wondered if he had dozed and dreamed.

When the son returned the following morning he reported that although he had killed nothing he narrowly escaped being bitten by an alligator.



The son, determined to slaughter as many 'gators as possible, went out again when dark came. And again at nine o'clock the old man heard the outer door open and close, followed by the same shuffling sound going toward his son's room.

He arose quickly, lit an oil lamp and followed. At first he could see nothing. He stooped to look under the bed. Confronting him was a vicious looking alligator.

At that instant fiery darts issued from the creature's eyes and struck the old man's heart, so frightening him that he rushed out hurrying his wife along with him.

They located their son down by the marsh and left the place never to return.

It is said that this same alligator still dwells within the house; still shuffles along the hall; still waits to vent its wrath upon the long-gone, merciless killer.

Shrimp season opened Monday

The Fall White Shrimp Season in Zone III of Louisiana's Inside Waters opened Mon., Aug. 10. The opening date for shrimping in Zones I and II is 6 a.m. Mon., Aug. 17.

The dates were set by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission at its regular monthly meeting in Baton Rouge on Thurs., Aug. 6.

The commission acted on biological and historical data presented by the Marine Fisheries Division of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. That data indicates that white shrimp in Zone III, on the western side of the state, tend to migrate offshore earlier than shrimp in Zones I and II. Consequently, the season is being opened earlier in that zone to allow shrimpers the opportunity to harvest the earlier migrating crop.

Teal season to open in Sept.

Waterfowl hunters participating in the state's September Teal Season will be allowed to start their hunts thirty minutes earlier this year.

The September Teal Season has been reinstated following a four-year hiatus. In previous years, legal shooting hours began at official sunrise. This year, however, shooting hours begin thirty minutes before official sunrise and continue until official sunset. The change makes the shooting hours for teal identical to the legal hours for rails, gallinules and snipe.

Teal: Blue-winged, green-winged and cinnamon teal. Federal and state waterfowl stamps required. Daily bag limit is four. Possession limit is eight. Sept. 19-Sept. 27.

Dove: Statewide, split season, daily bag limit is 12, possession limit is 24. Sept. 5-Sept. 13; Oct. 10-Nov. 8; Dec. 12-Jan. 11. Note: Shooting hours are from thirty minutes before sunrise to sunset except on the opening weekend of each split when the shooting hours are from noon until sunset.

Rails: Split season. King and Clapper rails, daily bag is 15, possession limit is 30. Sora and Virginia Rails daily bag and possession limit are 25. Sept. 19-Sept. 27; Nov. 21-Jan. 20.

Gallinules: Split season. Daily bag limit is 15, possession limit is 30. Sept. 19-Sept. 27; Nov. 21-Jan. 20.

Snipe: Daily bag limit is 8, possession limit is 16. Nov. 7-Feb. 21.

Woodcock: Daily bag limit is 5, possession limit is 10. Nov. 28-Jan. 31. Additional hunting regulations are contained in the 1992-93 Hunting Regulation pamphlet, which will be available in late August at all hunting license outlets, sheriff's offices and all department of Wildlife and Fisheries offices.

Size of cast nets is larger

The 1992 Louisiana Legislature increased the maximum legal size of cast nets used by recreational fishermen to a radius of eight feet six inches. The previous legal maximum size had been six feet.

Recreational fishermen must purchase a basic recreational fishing license to use cast nets, and must purchase the saltwater fishing license in order to use them in the salt waters of the state.

A recreational fisherman, in open waters in open shrimping season, may use a cast net to take no more than 50 pounds of shrimp per day provided the shrimp taken are used for bait or for the fisherman's own consumption. Recreationally caught shrimp cannot be sold, traded, or otherwise permitted to enter into commerce. Fishermen on a boat are limited to a 50 pound total, regardless of the number of persons on the boat.

Several coastal refuges and management areas have individual regualtions permitting the use of a cast net by recreational fishermen to take shrimp. Fishermen should check the regulations of each refuge with their local LDWF Fur and Refuge Division Office.

There is no size restriction on cast nets used by commercial fishermen. Commercial fishermen must, however, have a commercial fisherman's license. He must also purchase a $25 commercial gear license to use a cast net greater than eight feet six inches in diameter. Commercial fishing with a cast net is allowed only during open season except for the taking of bait shrimp which will be sold only for use as bait.

The increase in legal size of the cast net to a radius of eight feet six inches is effective beginning Aug. 21, 1992.

Can heart disease really be prevented?

By JOSEPH A. PEDONE, M.D.

Medical science still can't stop the heart disease process from occurring. But we – and you – can do quite a lot to keep that process from becoming life-threatening or crippling – even if you have a strong family history of early heart disease.

The early deaths of well-known runner Jim Fixx and basketball star Pete Maravich made a lot of people fatalistic about prevention.

"If athletes like that die early, what chance do I have of preventing heart disease?" they reasoned.

If I remember correctly, Jim Fixx died of a genetic heart condition which killed his father at an even earlier age. If so, his own healthy lifestyle probably accounted for those added years. Pete Maravich had an unusual coronary artery configuration that made even a single blockage likely to be instantly fatal.

If anything, such cases strengthen the argument for preventive behavior.

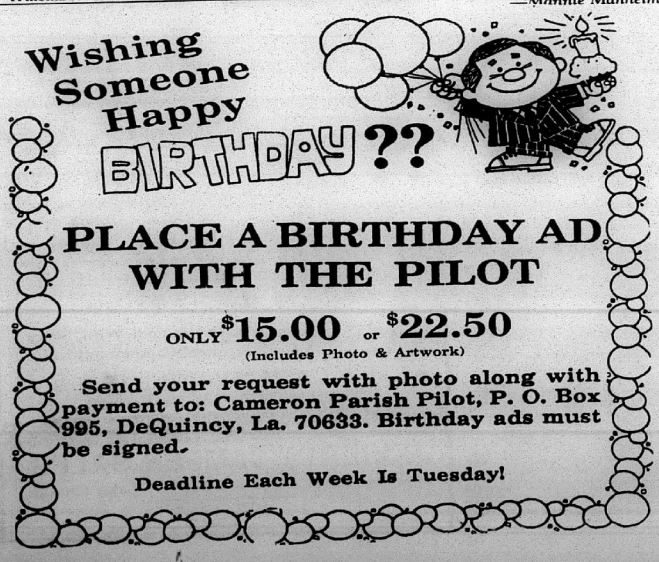
You probably already know the things you should do to reduce your risk of heart disease – stop smoking, control your weight, exercise regularly in a manner appropriate to your age and physical condition, eat a low fat/low cholesterol diet, minimize stress and, if you are a diabetic, keep your diabetes under control.

If you are over 40, schedule a baseline heart checkup. Do it even earlier if your family has a history of early heart disease.

Don't ignore early warnings of possible heart problems – like angina, the pressing type of chest pain associated with coronary artery disease, or the "quivering heart" sensation of tachycardia – a too-rapid heartbeat.

The adage that the best way to prevent heart disease is to choose your parents very carefully may have a certain truth. But a genetic propensity for heart problems is a warning, not a doom.



The fatalists are right on one count – we all will die of something, and its likely that heart disease will always be one of the major causes of death.

What's preventable is premature heart-related death. And a heart attack at age 65 may be as premature as one at 45.

Fiber optic system being installed

With the severe weather in Cameron Parish and ever increasing high-tech telecommunications needs, Cameron Telephone Company is continually upgrading telephone equipment in order to provide continuous communications and state-of-the-art phone service.

Cameron Telephone Company has recently started the engineering process to link all of their exchanges with a new fiber optic cable in Cameron Parish. This new cable will provide an alternate communications link for the area.

"Due to the vulnerability of the parish to heavy storms, this fiber cable will provide a redundant route to our existing digital microwave system", says Shelby Hoffpauir, president, Cameron Telephone Company.

"In addition to the redundancy, adding the fiber with our new digital switching facilities will position us to participate in the forthcoming new services of the Advanced Intelligent Network and provide us with facilities that can carry video Signals."

One of the video services available will be distant learning programs for rural school systems. The fiber cable will allow video communications and many other features over the faster more reliable nationwide telecommunications infrastructure.

With the addition of fiber optic facilities, ideally, Cameron Telephone will be able to make available to the Cameron Parish School system remote two-way interactive learning programs that were not accessible in the past.

Committees are named

The Cameron Parish Police Jury held an Economic Development meeting Aug. 4, and appointed three committees.

Committee 1, consisting of Toby Bourgeois, Francis Guilbeaux, Puddy Solina, Albert Sloan and Lee Harrison, will make an inventory of existing businesses.

Committee 2, consisting of John DeBarge, Marvin Trahan, Tom Peacock and Mike Davis, will inventory available resources in the parish.

Committee 3, consisting of Ed Smith, Pete Duhon, Langford Peavy, Mike Devall and Larry Meyers, will inventory existing building sites or industrial sites.

Speck opening asked for now

The Cameron Parish Police Jury has written Joe L. Herring, Secretary of the La. Wildlife & Fisheries Dept., asking that the speckled trout season in this area be open immediately instead of waiting until Sept. 1.

In the letter, signed by Douaine Conner, president, and Russell Badon, District 1 juror, it was pointed out that there is a report of an overabundance of speckled trout in this area now and they asked for the immediate opening to allow local fisherment to take advantage of the situation before the fish move out.

Jurors seek ways to make big budget cuts

By JERRY WISE

The Cameron Parish Police Jury, meeting in special session Tuesday afternoon, named two committees to try to come up with enough cuts to offset a $612,036 shortfall in revenues this year.

Jury President Douaine Conner named himself, Ray Conner and George LeBouef to one committee and George Hicks, Brent Nunez and Russell Badon to the second committee.

The two committees are to meet separately, review all of the jury's revenues and expenditures and try to come up with some suggestions on how to cut the budget at the Sept. 2 finance meeting.

The jurors also discussed the possibility of calling a special tax election in November on an additional millage to operate the the parish garbage collection.

Parish Treasurer Bonnie Conner presented the jurors with a comparison of revenues for the years ending June 30, 1991 and June 30, 1992, showing a decrease of $612,036 or over 30 percent during the past year.

About 85 percent of the decrease was in the Road Royalty funds which the parish receives from the state as its share of mineral income on state owned land in the parish. The parish has lost $516,790 in these funds in the past year.

There has also been a $60,228 drop in payments in lieu of taxes which are made by the federal wildlife refuges in the parish, a $16,736 drop in interest earned by the parish and a $7,925 drop in pipeline funds.

"This is a tremendous amount of income loss for a parish as small as ours," Ms. Conner told the jurors.

Jurors took turns in making suggestions on how to cut expenditures but most of them concentrated on reducing the cost of the parishwide waste collection system.

A 5.82 millage presently brings in $605,000 a year but the parish has paying $110,000 additionally a year out of the general fund to make up the difference in the cost of the collection.

Jurors were told Parish Administrator Pete Picou that B.F.I., who handles the parish's garbage, has annnounced a $34,719 annual increase that will become effective Oct. 1 further putting the program in the red.

Juror George LeBouef pointed out that the parish is presently operating two types of garbage service--house to house collection and also dump sites. He suggested that some of the 11 dump sites in the parish could be closed.

Juror Ray Conner suggested that before any of the garbage collection be curtailed that the citizens of the parish be given the opportunity to vote on an additional tax for the system.

Other suggestion made by various jurors for reducing expenditures included:

*Stop putting limestone on private driveways.

*Reduce the number of parish employees by not hiring replacements for those who retired.

*Cancel all shell and limestone dump site leases and just order shell as needed and have it spread by the supplier.

*Cut out loans to the special districts in the parish.

*Reduce the annual $25,000 contribution to the Cameron Council on Aging.

Jury Secretary Tina Horn told the jurors that if they wanted to get a garbage collection tax on the November ballot they would have take action by their September meeting.

Parish Administrator Pete Picou warned that November might not be an opportune time to be offering a new tax since there would be several other tax issues coming up at the same time.

And Juror Brent Nunez noted: "I have been on the jury a long time and we have never bit the bullet when we should," indicating that the time has now come to do so.

Monkey Island transfer asked

Last week, three Cameron Parish officials testified before the Senate Subcommittee on Public Lands, National Parks and Forests in favor of legislation, introduced by Congressman Jimmy Hayes and Senator J. Bennett Johnston, which would direct the Secretary of Interior to turn federal lands on Monkey Island over to Cameron for use as a public port facility.

Hayes Picou, Administrator of the Cameron Parish Police Jury, Police Juror Brent Nunez, and Don Criglow, Secretary of the West Cameron Port Commission, spoke in support of the bill, which would transfer the 64-acre parcel, presently under the control of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), to the West Cameron Port Commission. The land, which has remained unused for over a decade, stretches east of Highway 27/82 across the southern end of Monkey Island.

"You've heard time and time again that our past dependence on the oil and gas industry was a drastic mistake, Now, we are willing and have the capability to diversify. This is but one reason we... request that this legislation be given every possible consideration," Criglow said. "The impact of just one additional vessel on the local economy is significant."

The Public Lands panel in which the hearing was held is a subcommittee of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, which Senator Johnston chairs.

Kemp Conn, deputy assistant director for Land and Renewable Resources at the Bureau of Land Management, which retains control of the Monkey Island site, testified, "We support the concept of this type of land transfer, and we would be happy to work with the Committee." Senator Dale Bumpers from Arkansas, who chairs the subcommittee, also expressed his support during the hearing.

MARKET MAY BE WEAK

By Loston McEvers

For many of our local statewide alligator trappers of wild alligators, hunting is in question-whether to hunt gators this year or not.

There are many rumors floating around, but there will definitely be an alligator season. The season is set in regulation with state and federal laws and will go on with 23,000 tags being issued as usual. The only way the season could be stopped is for biological reasons or because of a disaster.

The story is sort of like this. Italy buys most of the hides, 50 percent, and France buys second most, 30 percent. France in turn resales Italy 50 percent of their 30 percent. Now, Italy got into some sort of trouble and their imports and exports are frozen, so you can see the problem - there's no market.

Rumors are, alligator hides will bring $8 to $10 per foot, some say maybe $20 per foot. One thing I was told to pass on to the land owners is, if you get a price, have it put in writing, witnessed and maybe even notarized, because word of mouth just won't work. You could be promised a price, have the deal fall through and your hides could rot in a barn.

The bottom line is, it's up to the land owners if they want alligator taken from their property and gamble the price, get a sure price or not have a hunt on their property at all. The season starts Sept. 5.

On Thursday, Aug. 27, at 7 p.m. at the Creole Multi Purpose Building and Fire Station, a meeting will be held to address the status of the international hide market and Louisiana's upcoming alligator season.

Ted Joanen, Biologist with Rockefeller Refuge will be the key speaker. Rep. Randy Roach will also be present. For more information contact Kevin Savoie, Assistant Fisheries Agent with the Louisiana Extension Service in Cameron at 775-5516.

Savoie said Wednesday that despite some rumors to the contrary, there definitely would be an alligator season this year.

Priest to get honor

Msgr. Murphy J. Bernard of Creole will be promoted from Knight to Knight Commander in the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem in Naples, Fla. on Saturday, Sept. 13.

Msgr. Bernard is among nearly 200 Catholic men and women from the Southeastern United States who will either be invested into the order or be promoted.

The Order is the only Order of Chivalry within the Catholic Church and traces its orgins back to the era of the First Crusade when it was organized to assist in protecting the Holy Land from Moslem invaders.

Perot to be on La. ballot and may run

Polly Ryan, a Ross Perot supporter in Lake Charles, advised the Pilot that Perot's name definitely would go on the Louisiana ballot this week despite his having dropped out of the race a month or so ago.

She said that she understands that Perot now says that if he gets on all 50 state ballots he will run and she wanted to get this word to supporters in Cameron Parish.

Nominations are sought

Rodney Guilbeaux, president of the Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce, is asking that all organizations in the parish, civic, fraternal, and religious, etc., contact the Chamber office for an application for the Citizen of the Year award.

In can be picked up or the office can be called at 775-5222 for it to be mailed.

The award will be presented at the annual Citizenship of the Year Award banquet in January.

Hunters ed classes set

A hunter education course will be offered to the public at no charge at the Hackberry Recreation Center from 6 to 10 p.m. on Sept. 17, 18 and 19.

The class will be conducted by the Louisiana Dept. of Wildlife and Fisheries. To register call Dwayne Sonnier at 762-3878 or 762-3535 and give the name and phone number of each person atttending.

Children must be at least ten years old to be certified. Youngsters must take such a class before they can secure a hunting license.

A similar hunter education course will be held at South Cameron high school Oct. 21 and 22, sponsored by the physical education department at 5 p.m. each evening.

To register call Eddie Benoit or A. J. Seymour at the coach's office, 542-4417.

DU banquet

Nov. 21, the first day of hunting season, has been set for the annual Ducks Unlimited banquet to be held at the Creole Knights of Columbus Hall.

The next committee meeting will be Sept. 17, at the fire station at 6:30 p.m.

Abe, Dottie & Joe Manuel making it in country music

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

There are quite a few miles separating the Little Chenier area of Creole and the Country Music Capitol of America, Branson, Mo., but a local family has managed to make the transition and is making "waves" on the country music scene.

Many years ago Abe and Dorothy Vincent Manuel got their start at Little Chenier, when they earned their living playing the fiddle and guitar in area bands, and notably with the Jimmy C. Newman band which originally played in Lake Charles and area establishments.

Both were self-made musicians, Dorothy having learned her music from her father, Jule "Chun" Vincent, and who was married to Zelian Benoit.

"In those days, Cameron parish was isolated from the rest of the world and we had to learn to make our own entertainment, so we learned to play musical instruments and held dances in the homes in the area", explains Dorothy's sister, Linda "Pischu" Dahlen, who still lives in the family home in Little Chenier.

The old-time Cajun bands usually consisted of fiddles, guitars, triangles, and accordions.

From Little Chenier the Manuels migrated to Slidell, where they brought their Cajun music to Bourbon Street in New Orleans, not unlike the famous Kershaw brothers, Rusty and Doug, other Cameron parish natives, who went on to world fame with the unusual style of Cajun music.

From New Orleans they moved on to Nashville, Tenn., where at that time was where all country musicians always ended up. The Grand Ole Opry was the goal of every musician and the Manuals eventually made it to the top there also.

In the meantime their family had grown considerably, and they had five children, but only the last two were musically inclined, Abe, Jr. and Joe.

However, these two were enough to carry on the musical tradition for they are now considered the top Cajun entertainers in the business. At one time they organized their own band and played at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville.

They also performed in the biggest named country music bands, and received standing ovations when they played with Conway Twitty, Loretta Lynn, and many others.

They are now featured musicians and singers in the Merle Haggard band in Branson, Mo.

"Abe is the clown and Joe is more serious," explains Pischu, their aunt.

Abe and Dorothy later moved with their family to Milton, Tenn., when they bought out a very old country store in the middle of the small town that contained a post office, a baseball diamond, and a Baptist church, right next door to the store.

In the daytime Manuel's Cajun Country Store and Cafe looks like any other old time country store. An inviting front porch spans the front of the clapboard bulding, advertisements are painted on the large plate glass windows, and the screen door bangs shut.

But for three nights a week, Manuel's is transformed from a sleepy country store into a bustling restaurant.

Located in the middle of Milton, just outside of Murfeesboro, on Highway 96 South, the Cajun cafe draws crowds that double and sometimes triple the small town's population every Wednesday, Friday and Saturday night when the Manuels throw an old fashioned "fais-do-do", a Cajun party complete with authentic Cajun music played by Southern Breeze, regulars at Opryland's "Pickin' Parlor."

Often members of the Manuel family lend their own musical talents to the entertainment. Customers can revel in the sounds of the French accordion played by Tim Manuel's daughter or niece

Shrimping report

The recent cool fronts have aided Sabine Refuge east netters to harvest 31-35 count white shrimp. The white shrimp harvest is moderate for this early in the season. Castnetting for shrimp is permitted only during the Inland Water Shrimp Season and is open from one hour before sunrise to noon.

The limit for shrimp is 5 gallons per vehicle or boat per day. Cast nets may not exceed 6 ft. in radius length. East Cove fishermen are reminded that the 250 ft. area around Grand Bayou and Lambert Bayou is closed to all activities except for boat passage.

The refuge will be open to alligator hunting during Sept. 4 through Oct. 4. The ten permitted hunters will take a total of 1000 alligtors from the refuge. The hunters will be taking their quota by hook and line sets. Refuge Manager Will Nidecker reminds all refuge visitors to please not tamper with the alligator sets.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON --A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great." she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Senior Team report

By DINAH NUNEZ
Cameron Council on Aging

It was an idea, born of necessity, the Cameron Parish Senior Team!. No, not an athletic team but a support team. A group of people and businesses united together for one common cause, caring for the elderly of Cameron Parish.

Some people may say, "The Council on Aging is a government program, they don't need donations." The reality is the Council on Aging receives federal and state funding to provide a certain number and types of programs. The reality is the funding received from the government has not increased along with the increasing numbers of persons turning the magical age of sixty and the increasing needs of these persons.

Through the efforts of businesses such as Toby's Custom Cabinets, Lowes, Rockhopper Systems Inc., J. and J. Auto, Cameron State Bank, Wendi's Flower Cart, J and W Vending Co., Dixie Dirt, Brown's Hearing, and R & G Enterprises these persons will have an opportunity to receive much needed hot lunch or a personal emergency alert system.

Look around town on Fridays as the bright yellow T-shirts display the rainbow of hope and join the movement! Join with Stanley Abrahamsen, Terrell Conner, Cecil Sanner, Debbie Dyson, Billie Woodard, Adam Thomas, Joe and Zoe Babyak, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Demarest, Pearl Matiska, Jeffery and Mary Jane Granger, Waymon and Dorothy Culp, Tessa Bell, Laura Doxey, Brenda Boudreaux, and E. J. Dronet and the many others before them.

The contribution was $15 for individuals and $25 for businesses, tax deductible and renewed annually.

Over 170 businesses and individuals joined the team over the past month and we look forward to many, many more supporting the effort.

For more information on the Senior Team, call 775-5668 or 775-5145 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday - Friday, or ask a Senior Team member.

CAMERON PARISH Police Juror Ray Conner stands by one of his signs he has had erected along the Creole Nature Trail in lower Cameron Parish designating a Wild Flower Area.

"Wild Flower Areas" are along Trail

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Ray Conner, Cameron Parish Police Juror, has posted signs along the Creole Nature Trail, designating some areas as "Wildflower areas" to preserve some of the natural beauty of the area for everyone to enjoy.

He wants to propagate the wild cattails and purple irises in the roadside ditches and the many species of wildflowers that grow along the Front Ridge.

He has instructed the parish mowers to not mow the flowers down until they finish blooming and reseeding themselves.

Each year the patches of flowers have gotten larger and larger as they have reseeded into larger clumps.

The tourist bureau has announced that plans are in the making to have the federal government designate the trail as a federal landmark, which will help in the preservation of the natural beauty along the Creole Nature Trail.

Services held for Mrs. Benoit

Funeral services for Mrs. Theresa LeBoeuf Benoit, 89, of Lake Charles, were held Wednesday, Aug. 19, at Johnson Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. Bill Miller officiated; burial was in Prien Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Benoit died Tuesday, Aug. 18, 1992, in a Lake Charles hospital.

She was a native and lifelong resident of Grand Chenier.

Survivors are two daughters, Betty Smith and Sybil Smith and one brother, Ralph LeBoeuf, all of Lake Charles; two sisters, Caroline Agen and Grace Domingue, both of Lafayette; six grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren and two great-great- grandchildren.

MANUELS

and the fiddle that Abe Sr. plays. Tim, one of the Manuel's sons, is the manager of the place.

The secret that draws so many people off the beaten path and into Milton for dinner is the cafe's relaxed atmosphere. The walls are lined with canned food, soft drinks and washing powder, all available for sale.

Tim, in explaining the history of the place explains, "Dad didn't like hamburgers because they're not Cajun, so Mom started cooking rice dishes for the family. Back then we started serving mostly plate lunches, but when the customers caught a whiff of the Cajun dishes she cooked for the family, they wanted a taste."

Word of the spicy dishes served by the Manuels spread and the number of curious customers interested in tasting the Cajun food prompted Manuels to become a restaurant.

The customers started asking for other things on the menu, such as crawfish, which they added and now have difficulty keeping enough in stock to satisfy the demand. Crawfish isn't the only unusual food served, as they have added frog legs and alligator.

Tim says, "Everyone wants the recipes, but those are kept secret, because there are no recipes. I'll start cooking and Mama will throw something in, then I'll taste it and throw something in, and when we run out, we just do it again."

Every Sunday is "Cajun Day" at the restaurant-country store and the front porch serves as the band stand, with Abe Sr. serving as the promoter of Cajun music. The feed room of the store also serves as his concert hall. At times they have to feed as many as 500 people when bus loads of people invade, coming from conventions, etc.

Three years ago the Manuels organized the town's first Mardi Gras parade during Mardi Gras season, and this year it was estimated that as many as 4,000 people packed this quiet Rutherford County village to join in the fun.

"All this fun, and without any liquor," the Manuels explain, because it is a dry county and the store is located next door to the Baptist church.

Abe Sr. explained that they are 100% Cajun, "I learned to speak Cajun before I learned English."

He likes to tell of his early start in the music business and of his association with the Jimmy C. Newman band, the "Ragin Cajuns". (Newman also lives in Rutherford County, in the Gum Community.)

Abe Sr. also likes to tell Louisiana political stories of the days when he played for Gov. Earl Long's political rallies and of his lifelong friendship with fellow Cajun Gov. Edwin Edwards.

Merle Haggard is now building his own place in Branson where all of the country musicians are now going.

You can also bet that everywhere the Manuels go they will be taking their Cajun culture, music and food with them.

Replacing the faucet handles can add a touch of elegance to any bathroom.

Quality care... with no overnight hospital stay.
A hospital's concern for cost to the patient is not always so apparent, but St. Patrick's Outpatient Cardiology Services addresses both cost reduction and convenience, while offering that patient state-of-the-art cardiology procedures of only the highest quality.

Procedures like heart catheterization and coronary angiography allow accurate diagnosis by taking detailed pictures of blood vessels and measurement of pressures within the various heart chambers. In many instances these tests can now be done without staying overnight.
This, of course, means less cost to our patients, and less intrusion upon their daily routines... with no compromise in the quality of care received.

Shrimping report

The recent cool fronts have aided Sabine Refuge cast netters to harvest 31-35 count white shrimp. The white shrimp harvest is moderate for this early in the season. Castnetting for shrimp is permitted only during the Inland Water Shrimp Season and is open from one hour before sunrise to noon.

The limit for shrimp is 5 gallons per vehicle or boat per day. Cast nets may not exceed 6 ft. in radius length. East Cove fishermen are reminded that the 250 ft. area around Grand Bayou and Lambert Bayou is closed to all activities except for boat passage.

The refuge will be open to alligator hunting during Sept. 4 through Oct. 4. The ten permitted hunters will take a total of 1000 alligtors from the refuge. The hunters will be taking their quota by hook and line sets. Refuge Manager Will Nidecker reminds all refuge visitors to please not tamper with the alligator sets.

Program ends at Library

By JANELLE GREENHOW
Cameron Parish Librarian

The Cameron Parish Library Summer Reading Program and Story Hour was a success. The Library wants to remind all the children who read 15 or more books to turn in your reading list.

You will be eligible for a certificate and a coupon for a hamburger. The children who read less than 15 books will be eligible for a reading certificate. You must turn in your reading lists to the Library or to the Bookmobile to receive the certificate and the coupon.

One more "We're Lost" poster was returned to the library by Casie McDaniel, Cameron, found at Cam-Mart Food Store. One poster was taken from the T & T Food Store at Holly Beach, but was not turned in to the Library or Bookmobile. If you have that poster, please return it to the Bookmobile or the Library for your reward.

The Library staff looks forward to serving the children of Cameron Parish, as well as the adults, in this new school year. If you wish to mail in your Summer Reading List, send to Cameron Parish Library, P.O. Box P, Cameron, La. 70631.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON --A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it." says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great." she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

CAMERON PARISH Police Juror Ray Conner stands by one of his signs he has had erected along the Creole Nature Trail in lower Cameron Parish designating a Wild Flower Area.

"Wild Flower Areas" are along Trail

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Ray Conner, Cameron Parish Police Juror, has posted signs along the Creole Nature Trail, designating some areas as "Wildflower areas" to preserve some of the natural beauty of the area for everyone to enjoy.

He wants to propagate the wild cattails and purple irises in the roadside ditches and the many species of wildflowers that grow along the Front Ridge.

He has instructed the parish mowers to not mow the flowers down until they finish blooming and reseeding themselves.

Each year the patches of flowers have gotten larger and larger as they have reseeded into larger clumps.

The tourist bureau has announced that plans are in the making to have the federal government designate the trail as a federal landmark, which will help in the preservation of the natural beauty along the Creole Nature Trail.

MANUELS

and the fiddle that Abe Sr. plays. Tim, one of the Manuel's sons, is the manager of the place.

The secret that draws so many people off the beaten path and into Milton for dinner is the cafe's relaxed atmosphere. The walls are lined with canned food, soft drinks and washing powder, all available for sale.

Tim, in explaining the history of the place explains, "Dad didn't like hamburgers because they're not Cajun, so Mom started cooking rice dishes for the family. Back then we started serving mostly plate lunches, but when the customers caught a whiff of the Cajun dishes she cooked for the family, they wanted a taste."

Word of the spicy dishes served by the Manuels spread and the number of curious customers interested in tasting the Cajun food prompted Manuels to become a restaurant.

The customers started asking for other things on the menu, such as crawfish, which they added and now have difficulty keeping enough in stock to satisfy the demand. Crawfish isn't the only unusual food served, as they have added frog legs and alligator.

Tim says, "Everyone wants the recipes, but those are kept secret, because there are no recipes. I'll start cooking and Mama will throw something in, then I'll taste it and throw something in, and when we run out, we just do it again."

Every Sunday is "Cajun Day" at the restaurant-country store and the front porch serves as the band stand, with Abe Sr. serving as the promoter of Cajun music. The feed room of the store also serves as his concert hall. At times they have to feed as many as 500 people when bus loads of people invade, coming from conventions, etc.

Three years ago the Manuels organized the town's first Mardi Gras parade during Mardi Gras season, and this year it was estimated that as many as 4,000 people packed this quiet Rutherford County village to join in the fun.

"All this fun, and without any liquor," the Manuels explain, because it is a dry county and the store is located next door to the Baptist church.

Abe Sr. explained that they are 100% Cajun, "I learned to speak Cajun before I learned English."

He likes to tell of his early start in the music business and of his association with the Jimmy C. Newman band, the "Ragin Cajuns". (Newman also lives in Rutherford County, in the Gum Community.)

Abe Sr. also likes to tell Louisiana political stories of the days when he played for Gov. Earl Long's political rallies and of his lifelong friendship with fellow Cajun Gov. Edwin Edwards.

Merle Haggard is now building his own place in Branson where all of the country musicians are now going.

You can also bet that everywhere the Manuels go they will be taking their Cajun culture, music and food with them.

Replacing the faucet handles can add a touch of elegance to any bathroom.

These Feet Were Made For Walking

Nearly 60 million Americans are striding toward fitness. Sixty-four percent of all people who participate in regular workouts prefer walking to other forms of cardiovascular exercises. Many experts have concluded that walking is one of the safest and most efficient forms of exercise. Walking briskly for one mile in 15 minutes burns as many calories as running the same mile in 8½ minutes—but walking does not cause as much stress on bones and joints as running. Walking can be done almost anytime, anywhere, and at any age. Walking can help you:

Tarpons open football season with scrimmage

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpon 1992 football team will move into Phase 2 of their preparation for the upcoming season as the Vinton Lions come to town for a scrimmage tomorrow night, Aug. 21, at 5:30 p.m.

The Tarpons have spent the last couple of weeks getting ready by scrimmaging amongst themselves and are looking forward to the competition of someone else.

Coach Parry LaLande reports that the team has been working hard and has shown lots of enthusiasm and desire. The players and the coaching staff have found the cooler weather of the last few days a good environment for practice. There have been no major injuries suffered so far this season.

The controlled scrimmage will find the first offense and defense each running 15 plays on two occasions. The J.V. team will run a dozen plays twice and the freshman team will run 10 plays.

The scrimmage will get underway at 5:30 p.m. and there will be a $2 admission.

The Vinton Lions, who finished third in District 5AA last year, entered the state playoffs as a wildcard team. In 1991 they were extremely strong on defense so it should be a good test for the Tarpon offense.

The Tarpons will play in the Iowa Jamboree on Aug. 28. They will play the second game, with Rosepine and Vinton meeting in the opening game.

The first game will start at 6 p.m. with the J.V. squads playing 15 minutes, then the varsity teams will play two 12 minute halves. The Tarpons and Yellow Jackets will follow the same format in the second game, which should get underway around 7:15 p.m.

The Tarpons 1992 schedule features four teams who made the playoffs in 1991 - fellow district members Iota and Notre Dame and the Vermilion Catholic team and the DeQuincy Tigers.

The other district teams for the Tarpons are St. Louis, and Lake Arthur.

The Tarpons non-district games, besides DeQuincy and Vermilion Catholic are Pickering, Kinder, and Opelousas Catholic.

The Tarpons first regular season game is Sept. 4, when DeQuincy comes to town for a 7 p.m. game. The Tarpons first district opponent will be Notre Dame.

The 1991 Tarpons posted a 9-4 overall record and finished tied for first in district. They advanced to the state quarter finals where they were defeated by eventual state champion, Haynesville.

The Tarpons can use your support so let's not forget the scrimmage tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. against Vinton.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

The Lemesche Bass Club held their drawing and the results were: winner of the gun cabinet, Roy Theriot, Creole; winner of the rod, reel & line was Barrett Hebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Hebert of Grand Chenier; and winner of the 58 quart ice chest was Van Sonnier of Sweetlake area.

The Big Bass Bonanza held on the Calcasieu River was a big success and to get to the top twenty, you had to have at least a 3-1/4 pound bass. Top honor went to Bernard Marcantel of Kinder with a 6.43 pounder. Second place went to Wayne Johnson of Westlake with a 6.16 pounder. There were three bass over 5 pounds, eight over 4 pounds and ten over 3.22 pounds. The top bass in the youth division was Josh Reeves of Reeves with a 4.92 pounder.

NEWS IN BRIEF

All Miami's permit fishing waters will be closed this weekend. Bass fishing has still been good.

Offshore fishing has been excellent with nice catches of king and Spanish mackeral, lynes and of course, speckle trout.

Inland waters are great on speckle trout and red fish. It's been a good year - many good reports are coming in.

Many area folks are getting ready for the early teal season and dove season.

There are new shooting hours for teal. You will be able to start shooting one-half hour before sunrise this year. The season will run from Sept. 19 - 27. Dove season will run from Sept. 5 - 13, the first of three splits. We have quite a few doves in the Grand Chenier area. If we can continue getting some more cool fronts, we should start seeing teal as well as doves coming down.

Recreational fishermen can now have an 8 ft. cast net, in fact, 8 ft. 6 in. wide radius. This is up from 6 ft. You must have a basic recreational fishing license to use cast nets and also buy a saltwater license to use cast nets in saltwater. No more than 50 pounds per boat, no matter how many people in the boat.

A very important note for persons born in Louisiana after Sept. 1, 1969. Persons born after this date must take a Hunter Education Course and have the card as proof before purchasing a hunting license. This means if you are going to be 23 years old on Sept. 1, 1992, you will be required to have a Hunters Education Course card. Remember, you will not be issued a license if you don't present this card.

It seems we have had another big fish kill around the New Iberia area. Again, pesticides washing off sugar cane farms is the blame. This could get very serious, as this is the third time it has happened this year. What is the cure?

FINAL IN SERIES OF ANTI-HUNTING & FISHING

Millions of hunters demand the right to hunt, fish and trap without being harassed. Know your friends as there are many organizations defending the rights of hunters, but be careful no one is spying to get information out of you. We do have enemies. Remember, if the activists get their way, we have seven states in a bind. Some say it only bans trapping, but hunting is in it, fishing is next and then still more to ban cattle, hogs and other animals. The animal rightests often use different tactics and fake claims to reach their goal.

In Arizona, sportsmen groups have formed and are fighting to defeat Proposition 200. These group members consist of hunters, fishermen, trappers, cattlemen, sheepmen, hog farmers and even the Farm Bureau. That tells you something about getting serious.

If it's not stopped, it will reach other states and our sportsmen and ranchers in the state of Louisiana are no exception.

Every time I hear someone talking about the rightests groups, the majority of sportsmen will shrug and say, "I'm not a trapper, so let the trappers fight for themselves." But when they get the trapper, next is the bowhunter, then the rifles and shotguns. Their intent is to altogether eliminate these activities, one by one. We all have got to stand together to defend our rights.

Let's look at why there is a petition to the U. S. Congress. (1) The right to keep and bear arms, and (2) The right of the people who are protected by the Second Amendment which is in The Bill of Rights.

The Second Amendment is under attack from a Congressman Owens with a resolution he introduced to repeal the whole Second Amendment. Resolution Number 438 introduced is one sentence long, "The Second Amendment is hereby repealed."

There is no waiting period for the bill. It is not a registration bill, it is not an assault weapons bill or even a Saturday night special ban, it is a gun rights ban.

This bill is a declaration of war on every gun owner in America. Remember, the Congress has the power to destroy the Second Amendment right now. You need to talk to your Congressman about this bill. We do have the right to "keep and bear arms", at least for now. We do have the right to trap, fish, hunt, raise cattle and hogs for food, and to raise sheep for food and wool. We have these rights for now - but for how much longer?

Remember, don't say, "It won't happen in our state", because if these activists ever pass a ban on one state, look out! There's gonna be hell in the other 49 states. Talk to the cattlemen and see what is already happening to them. They know it's serious and we had better believe it's serious also. If you don't think it's serious, then when it happens, don't come up to me or others and gripe, because you've been warned.

Mrs. Lillie Harrison

Mrs. Harrison is honored

Mrs. Lillie Harrison was feted with a surprise birthday party Sat., Aug. 15, in the Grand Chenier Park. Mrs. Annie Laura Kennerson and Roni, and Mrs. Laura Guillory sponsored the event. Over 250 releatives and friends from five states attended.

Mrs. Harrison's 82nd birthday was Aug. 19. When asked to what do you attribute your fourscore plus two years? The octogenarian responded, "Hard work, and my strength and health comes from God."

Mrs. Ethel Mae Dozier of Houston, Tex, and Mrs. Emma Frank, Mrs. Harrison's sisters, Ben January, her brother, both of Port Arthur, Tex., were present for the celebration.

Grandchildren and great-grandchildren included Joyce Avant and Wendy Davis of Los Angeles, Calif.; Douglas M. Dozier of Jacksonville, Fla.; Dexter and Terri Harrison of Sugarland, Tex.; and Marlon, Renza, Rion and Michael Harrison of Baton Rouge.

Nieces, nephews, and friends were Rafers January of Oakland, Calif.; James January of Eureka, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Graves and Mrs. Rose Dozier and Arlene of Houston, Tex.; Ben Gradney of Oberlin; Miss Annie Laurie Miller of Baton Rouge; C. J. Kinchen, Sr. and Charles Dozier of Oklahoma City, Okla. and Martin Rose and Peggy Davis of Port Arthur, Tex.

Scores of relatives and friends from Cameron Prish and the Lake Charles area also attended.

Numerous miniature envelopes containing gifts identified by the giver and tied with red ribbons adorned the money tree whose branches were covered with cotton. Mrs. Harrison was instructed by her guests when the tree was stripped of its gifts and presented to her, that she go on a shopping spree and get the things she has always wanted.

Parish spared by Hurricane Andrew

Hurricane Andrew, which may be the most costly storm in U. S. history, fortunately spared Cameron Parish citizens, who all too well remember what a destructive hurricane can do from Audrey in 1957--35 years ago.

Almost all of the citizens of lower Cameron parish evacuated starting Monday evening and Tuesday morning leaving only Civil Defense, Sheriff and other personnel on duty.

Schools were dismissed; stores and homes boarded up; cattle moved to higher ground and residents moved out to stay with friends and relatives or in shelters in Calcasieu parish or further north.

Patients from South Cameron Memorial Hospital and some homebound patients were evacuated to hospitals in Calcasieu.

Many cattlemen moved cattle to farms they owned in the Ragley-Singer-Dry Creek area while others took animals to Miller Livestock barns in Lake Charles and DeQuincy and to Burton Coliseum.

For the first time ever the large ferry at Cameron was moved north to Lake Charles. It was returned Wednesday.

Civil Defense Director Pete Picou reported Wednesday morning that he had not received any reports of damage or high water in this parish and that the evacuation order was being lifted.

The Cameron Sheriff's office reported that the only report of damage they had received was a power line being knocked down at Grand Chenier.

Two qualify for JP race at Cameron

Two persons qualified last week to seek the post of Ward 3 Justice of the Peace in Cameron Parish in a special election on Oct. 3.

They will be seeking the seat held for more than 20 years by Tommie "Bo" Alexander who died in December.

Qualifying for the election were Harold W. "Buddy" Hardie and Beatrice Lute "Mickey" Williams, both of Cameron.

Gator tags scheduled

Alligator hunter licenses and tags will be issued at Rockefeller Refuge, Rt. 1 Box 20-B, Grand Chenier, La., on Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2, and 3, 1992.

Hunters are urged to pick up their tags and license at the time scheduled for their particular location. No tags or licenses will be issued after Sept. 14.

Anyone needing additional information should call the Refuge at 538-2276.

The schedule is as follows:

MONDAY, AUG. 31

Miami Corporation hunters, 7 a.m. - 12 noon.

Little Chenier, Grand Chenier, Calcasieu Parish, 1 - 5:30 p.m.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 1

Johnson Bayou hunters, 7 - 10 a.m.

Hackberry Federal Refuges, 10 a.m. - 12 noon.

Lake Arthur and Big Lake, 1 - 5:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 2

Vermilion Corporation, 7 a.m. - 12 noon.

Vermilion Parish hunters, 1 - 5:30 p.m.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 3

Cameron, Creole, 7 a.m. - 12 noon.

Gator hunting set at refuge

Commercial trappers under permit from Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge will be trapping alligators on the refuge from Sept. 5 to Oct. 4.

Refuge Manager Vicki Grafe cautions boaters and anglers to be more careful than normal in traveling refuge boat trails and canals because baited hooks could be set on the edges. This harvest is necessary to regulate the alligator population and it is a violation of refuge policy to tamper with poles, lines or bait.

It may be necessary to close the refuge to boating and fishing for two to three weeks during the alligator season if conflicts occur with the alligator harvest.

Meeting set

The regular meeting of the Louisiana Fur and Alligator Advisory Council is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 27, at 10 a.m. The council on the management and marketing of furbearers and alligator will meet at the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries headquarters at 2000 Quail Drive in Baton Rouge.

Highway plans told Chamber

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

John Debarge, chairman of the transportation committee of the Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce, reported that Jude E. P. Patin, secretary of the Louisiana Department of Transportation, had sent answers to several requests for transportation goals of the Chamber in Cameron Parish.

He said the development of an evacuation route west and north from Cameron by placing a bridge across the Calcasieu Ship Channel has been discussed for a number of years and various schemes have developed, all of which are very expensive.

The latest contact between the department and leaders in Cameron Parish produced an alignment that would cost approximately $60 million to construct. However, there are no identified funds for such a project at this time, he said.

An additional viaduct across the western edge of Calcasieu Lake tying into La. 27, north of West Cove, was also discussed. This would cost an additional $40 million.

Construction of stopovers, pull-offs, and overviews along the Creole Nature Trail is being investigated at this time and locations of such sites and safety considerations will be studied.

A project to three-lane La. 27/14 from Lake Charles to Cameron would cost an estimated $22,800,000, including full-width shoulders.

It is doubtful that a wetlands permit could be obtained for such a project, and there is a question of how this would operate under normal conditions.

The normal three-lane configuration is for the center lane to be reserved for left-turning traffic. It is obvious that it is not the intent of the third lane in this case, he said.

Herbicides are used to control vegetation, because it is more economical and because some areas are inaccessible to equipment for a large percentage of the time.

With the right combination of spraying and mowing, it is possible to have the best of both worlds, and department personnel will be given guidance to accomplish that goal.

A project to four lane La. 27 from the Ellender Bridge to Hackberry is estimated to cost $16 million, and some of this cost is included in the evacuation route estimate.

Overlaying of La. 27 from Sulphur to Hackberry has been estimated to cost $3 million, including construction of full-width shoulders.

Construction of a bridge to Monkey Island, in lieu of the present ferry, has an estimated cost of $3-4 million, if built at the ferry crossing. This would require Coast Guard approval, and because the Corps of Engineers maintains the channel on both sides of the ferry crossing, they are reluctant to give approval, he said.

A bridge built to the southeast, beyond the Coast Guard channel maintenance area, would cost an estimated $2-3 million.

A project to improve the parking facilities, below the boat launch at the Cameron jetties, would cost an estimated $150,000.

Such a facility would need a potable water supply, sewer facilities, and a maintenance staff with equipment.

A traffic study and economic analysis will be needed to determine the course of action in regard to a bridge over the Calcasieu Ship Channel, and for three laning, four laning, or overlaying the routes, as requested by the local group.

There are projects in the Department's Proposed Construction Program for safey parking along the Creole Nature Trail, and for a bridge to Monkey Island, but letting dates have not been established, he commented.

Cooperative given award

Jeff Davis Electric Cooperative has received national safety accreditation from the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association for its safety and loss control practices.

The safety accreditation was presented to Jeff Davis Electric at the annual meeting of Louisiana's 13 electric cooperatives in Baton Rouge, July 28.

Buck Theriot, safety and training specialist for the Association of Louisiana Electric Cooperatives, said that Jeff Davis Electric had earned the distinction because of the high priority it places on reducing injuries, illness and property damage.

Theriot said that Jeff Davis Electric has worked over 171,000 hours since Sept., 1990 without a single lost time accident.

Chancelor should apologize to citizens of the parish

By JERRY WISE

NBC TV Commentator John Chancelor may have taken editorial comment too far Tuesday evening during the coverage on Hurricane Andrew when he stated that the people of Cameron parish were "stupid" for failing to evacuate for Hurricane Audrey in 1957.

What Chancelor did not know or has forgotten is that the state of hurricane warnings and evacuations was very primitive in 1957--35 years ago--and that the people of Cameron were given very inadequate and even misleading information concerning Audrey.

Audrey formed several hundred miles directly south of Cameron in the Gulf and then moved very rapidly inshore. Warnings were given on television, but most of them at the time were geared for the residents of the Lake Charles area.

Cameron parish residents were given the impression that they would have adequate time to evacuate on the morning of July 27 and a great many went to bed intending to do just that.

However, the storm surge came in that night covering the roads in lower Cameron and cutting off the evacuation routes.

The rest is history--lower Cameron parish was completely devastated and more than 500 persons lost their lives.

Much has been learned since Audrey and the Weather Bureau, Civil Defense and the television stations now issue evacuation warnings that are specifically designated for specific coastal areas. Residents of Cameron parish and other coastal areas now never have any doubt about when to evacuate and they have never failed to do so in the many hurricane threats since Audrey.

For Andrew, the evacuation of lower Cameron was almost total with only Civil Defense, Sheriff Dept. and other personnel remaining behind on duty.

We think John Chancelor owes the citizens of Cameron parish an apology. For him to refer to them as "stupid" for failing to evacuate before Audrey equates to calling the citizens of California "stupid" for continuing to live there despite the fact that strong earthquakes are sure to happen any time.

Broussards pictured

Oscar and Amy Broussard of Hackberry were featured a large colored photograph in the San Antonio daily newspaper recently.

The Broussards, he is 82 and she is 78, were shown dancing to a French tune at the Texas Folklife Festival. They have been married 58 years.

The couple's children are Faye Vincent, Hackberry's postmaster; Donald "Bubbie" Broussard and Linnie Broussard, all of Hackberry.

A photograph by a Cameron Parish photographer was chosen as cover picture for a booklet that is being distributed nationwide.

Entitled "The Fragile Fringe--Coastal Wetlands of the Continental United States," the booklet was published by the Coastal American Partnership, which includes the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, Louisiana Sea Grant College Program and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The full color booklet also contains photos by nationally known nature photographers Ronald Paille and C. C. Lockwood.

Domatti rites held

Mrs. Patti Pavell Domatti, 91, of Port Arthur, Tex., died Sunday, Aug. 16, 1992 at St. Mary Hospital in Port Arthur.

A Beaumont native, she lived in Port Arthur 65 years and was a member of the St. James Catholic Church Altar Society, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and a former board member of the Hughen School for Crippled Children and Adults.

Services were held Aug. 17, at St. James Catholic Church in Port Arthur, with burial at Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Mrs. Domatti was born Sept. 30, 1900 in Beaumont, Tex.; the only child of Ferdinand J. and Agnes Gulhen Pavell.

When Mrs. Domatti was nine months of age, her family moved to Johnson Bayou to operate a boat landing, grocery store, post office, cotton gin and a boarding house.

During the Aug. 15, 1915 hurricane, they lost all of this and were rescued and taken to Orange, Tex., where they made their home.

Mrs. Domatti graduated from Orange High School and Port Arthur Business College. She worked for a time in Orange before marrying R. J. (Jack) Domatti on Nov. 24, 1927 in St. Mary's Church in Orange, and then moved to Port Arthur.

She was instrumental in getting the Dick Dowling Monument and Park at Sabine Pass; and chairman of the committee to plant trees on Pleasure Island and Twin City Highway during the State Bicentennial Year.

Survivors include a daughter, Marguerite Domatti of Dallas; one son, John Domatti of Simonton; and two granddaughters.

The Knights of Columbus Council in Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach is named the F. J. Pavell Council in memory of Mrs. Domatti's parents.

LAKESIDE LACONICS

Rain almost every day; cotton and garden crops are wilting down quite a bit.

Barbees commenced picking cotton Wednesday, the 16th.

The lemon trees on Mrs. Diehl's place on the lake are loaded with blossoms and fruit in all stages of growth.

Mrs. Lovell, Sr. of Lake Arthur, died last week. She was well-known and a very lovable lady and will be sadly missed by a large circle of friends. She and her family have lived in Lake Arthur a number of years.

Peter Walter, another old and well-known resident of Lake Arthur died very suddenly on the 15th. He attended the picture show Monday eve and was found dead the following morning.

(Lake Charles American Press, August 26, 1927)
WARNING AGAINST TRAPPING MUSKRATS

Stanley C. Arthur, director of the wildlife division of the Department of Conservation, Tuesday issued a warning against the excessive trapping of muskrats in the western part of the state and made a plea for a complete and voluntary prohibition on trapping fur-bearing animals in certain sections of Cameron and Calcasieu parishes.

The head of the wildlife division said the slow recovery of the western coastal belt marsh lands necessitated such protection if the fur industry of that part of Louisiana is to be restored to its position of value of some three years ago.

Commissioner Irion and Director Arthur have decided there will be no fur-animal trapping this coming season on the state wildlife refuges at Marsh Island in Iberia Parish, the Rockefller Foundation sanctuary in Cameron and Vermilion parishes, and the state refuge in Vermilion Parish.

(Cameron Pilot, Aug. 28, 1959)
BIG POLITICAL CONFAB AT HOLLY BEACH
(By Mrs. Walter Stanley)

There was much excitement on Holly Beach Sunday when news got around that Jimmy Davis, candidate for governor, and other members of his ticket were due to arrive here.

Mr. Davis is not only a past governor and candidate in the gubernatorial campaign, but a composer and entertainer as well.

A crowd began to arrive early Sunday afternoon for a gathering at the Bourque-Lormand spacious summer camp and by nightfall it was estimated that well over one hundred persons were there for the supper Percy Lormand had prepared for his guests.

Mr. Lormand is a partner in the M & L Construction Co. of Kaplan and is also campaign manager for the Davis ticket in Vermilion parish.

One of the earlier arrivers for the beach get-together was Rufus D. Hayes, Insurance Commissioner, and candidate for re-election. Mr. Hayes and several friends, including Charles and Glenn Hebert of Sweetlake, spent some time in our store before all the party arrived. We enjoyed a friendly, cordial chat.

Mr. Hayes made good his promise to bring Mr. Davis to the store, and several patrons as well as us, were delighted to meet the celebrity. We were awed to meet a man who once occupied the governor's chair and won fame nationally for his singing.

Mr. Davis said his first trip here years ago was on a duck hunt. He said he at first thought himself lost but eventually found his club and the next day bagged a limit of good ducks.

Mr. Davis expressed a desire to have a women's organization in this area for his campaign. Our teenage girls may not be eligible to vote, however, he may take comfort that they have improvised "U R My Sunshine" buttons as earbobs and sunglass ornaments.

Other members of the Davis ticket visiting here were C. C. (Taddy) Aycock, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Mayor Roy Theriot of Abbeville, who is in the race for State Comptroller.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN

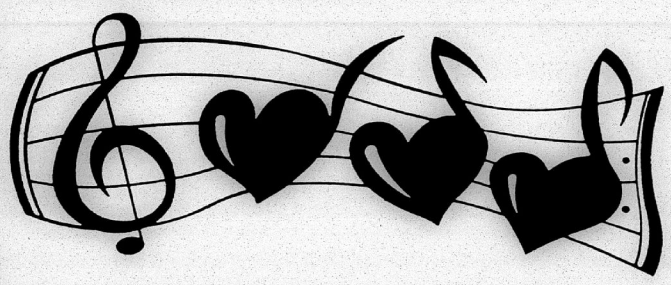
Cameron Parish's five high schools and two elementary schools will open for the 1959-60 school term Monday with an expected enrollment of about 1450 students. There will be only a half day of school Monday, with dismissal before noon.

There will be one less school in operation this year, Klondike Elementary having closed down at the end of the last school term. All Klondike and Lowery students will attend Lake Arthur High school this fall, with the exception of about 20 Klondike students who are attending Gueydan High School.

U. E. Hackett, parish superintendent, said that the overall parish enrollment would have been slightly larger this year than last had it not been for the transfer of some 50 Klondike students to schools outside the parish. The expected enrollment is still below the pre-Hurricane Audrey enrollment of 1950.

There has been only one change in principals this term - E. L. Harvell of Leesville will become the new principal of Johnson Bayou High School, replacing Dean Miller who is transferring to South Cameron High School as a teacher.

The other principals will remain the same: U. W. Dickerson at South Cameron, J. C. Reina at Cameron, W. R. Smith at Grand Chenier, George J. Carter at Grand Lake, M. G. Richardson at Hackberry, and R. S. Guice at Audrey Memorial.



Johnson Bayou students will be occupying a new school building this fall. Work is still in progress on the new building, but it is expected that part of it will be ready for occupancy by Monday. The old building is now being torn down.

Other new construction completed this summer was football bleachers for Hackberry and Grand Lake high schools.

Parish teachers will be getting a pay increase this year as a result of legislation passed recently by the state legislature. A teacher with a BA degree would begin at $3,650 and would receive a maximum of $5,500 after having taught the required number of years. The starting salary for a teacher with an MA degree is $3,825 and the maximum is $6,300.

Joe's Picks

By JOE MUELLER

High school football with all the jamborees is not the only football getting started.

The college games also get underway this week with two games, one Wednesday night, Aug. 26, when Texas A & M and Stanford collide and Friday, Aug. 28, when Iowa and North Carolina St. collide in the kickoff classic.

All these activities make me get out the old crystal ball and try to make some predictions.

In college football my prediction for national champion is the Alabama Crimson Tide. Last year my choice was Clemson and they finished 18th in the final A.P. poll. The crystal ball sees Texas A & M over Stanford and Iowa over N. C. State in the opening games.

Well, the crystal ball also looks at the pro game so I'll try and pick the Super Bowl champion.

It looks to me like the Philadelphia Eagles and the Houston Oilers will meet in the Super Bowl and the National Football League champions, the Eagles, will win by a score of 24-17.

Will the Tarpons play in Jamboree?

By JOE MUELLER

The question is will it happen -- that is will the Iowa Jamboree take place or will the force of Mother Nature through Hurricane Andrew's action postpone the action.

If the action does take place the Tarpons will be in Iowa to play the second game of the Jamboree against the host Yellow Jackets.

The Vinton Lions and Rosepine Eagles will play the first game at 6 p.m. Action will open with a J.V. game that will be one 15 minute quarter then the Rosepine and Vinton varsity teams will play two 15-minute halves.

The Tarpons and Yellow Jackets will then start with the J.V. teams playing one 15-minute session then the varsity teams playing two 15-minute halves. The tarpon action should start about 7:30 p.m.

The Tarpons and Vinton Lions scrimmaged last Friday and by what this writer has heard in the varsity action each team scored once.

The Tarpons will take a very experienced team to Iowa as they return ten offensive starters and eight defensive starters from the 1991 team that advanced to the state quarterfinals before losing to eventual state champion Haynesville.

The Tarpons have all district quarterback Chris McCall back in the backfield along with wingback Rusty Welsh and tailback James Bonsall. The starting fullback is Jay Seymour.

The Tarpons also return six of seven linemen from 1991. They are Leonard Harper, Jobe Johnson, Todd Connor, Andy Martarona, Patrick Hebert, Brad Saltzman, and Robbie Peshoff.

The Tarpons will run the same basic offense and defense as they did in 1991.

The Tarpons will open the regular season Friday, Sept. 4, when DeQuincy comes to Creole for a game scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

TARPON SCHEDULE

Festival to give Chamber donation

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

A report on the recent Cajun Riviera Festival was given at the monthly meeting of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce Thursday by Puddy Solina.

She thanked Chamber members for their help with the fesitval and said the festival is giving the Chamber a donation.

Solina also reported that the new parish directories are completed and contain the names of all parish officials, all clubs and organizations in the parish.

Rodney Guilbeaux, Chamber president, asked if anyone is willing to help in serving on parish committees, they shold contact Pete Picou in the Police Jury office. He also called for volunteers to man the Chamber office when the secretary is out.

Ed Kelley reported that the colored brochures on the parish, which were paid for from a federal grant, have been distributed to 67 points in the parish, totaling 3300, and that 20,000 more are due.

It was also reported that 17,000 visitors came to Sabine Refuge last month and seems to one of the best drawing cards for tourists in Cameron Parish.

Guilbeaux reported that Congressman Breaux and Johnston have sent word that $2.9 million have been appropriated for an information center to be located on Highway 27, at the Cameron Prairie Refuge, north of Creole.

The guest speaker was Ann Polak, with the Women's Shelter in Lake Charles, who said the shelter has been serving Cameron Parish for 12 years, along with four other parishes. A counselor also comes to South Cameron hospital once a week, she said.

Cindy Sellers a new worker with the VISTA Volunteer Program explained the services the shelter provides.

New beach plan tried

(From Plaquemines Watchman)

A unique construction of concrete cones and blocks could provide an affordable means of rebuilding eroding beaches in Louisiana and across the globe by trapping sand that naturally travels in waves and strong currents parallel to the beach.

The beach cones are placed in shallow water near eroding beaches and marsh lands and are stacked on top of each other pyramid style. They are designed to act as a barrier reef to collect sand and break the force of waves that normally wash sediment from unprotected beaches.

The beach cones are being installed in lower Plaquemines near Shell Island which has been disappearing drastically through erosion over the past two decades. Statistics from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers show Louisiana is losing about 25 square miles of shoreline to erosion every year.

The two-year project calls for placing 600 beach cones in marshes and along beaches near Shell Island, Bastian Bay and Bayou Cook.

The cost of installing beach cones is a fraction of the cost of other technologies, including dredging and dumping sand in the eroded areas.

Unexplained fatigue may signal a too-slow heartbeat

By VERNON A. VALENTINO., M.D.

If you take beta or calcium channel blockers or digitalis for heart problems, watch for periods of unexplained dizziness or fatigue.

Occasionally, these medications cause bradycardia – a heartbeat that is too slow.

Shortness of breath, lightheadedness, lack of energy and fainting are about the only symptoms of this condition. Unlike tachycardia, a too-fast heartbeat, there may be no feeling of heart palpitations with bradycardia – no heart symptoms at all, in fact. Patients frequently blame their lack of energy on their advancing years, sigh and do nothing about it.

A physician can easily spot bradycardia, if it happens to be present at the moment he checks the patient's pulse. However, it often comes and goes, and there are other things, like undetected infections, which can cause the same symptoms.

Medication-induced bradycardia can occur even in patients with no heart disease. Beta blockers are also used in the treatment of glaucoma.

Once medications are known to cause a too-slow heartbeat, treatment may amount to no more than adjusting or changing the medication.

But leave that to your doctor! Under no circumstances should you stop taking your heart medicine, or tamper with the dosage because you think it might be causing bradycardia. The symptoms are far too nonspecific for a layman – or a physician, for that matter – to diagnose without proper testing.

If your doctor suspects bradycardia, he may ask you to wear a Holter monitor – a sort of portable EKG machine, for 24 hours. If the heartbeat irregularity proves very elusive, you may be asked to wear a smaller monitor called a cardiobeeper that can be used to record the heartbeat or transmit it over phone lines when you feel the symptoms.

There are other forms of bradycardia, including those attributable to age-related decline in the bioelectrical system that makes the heart beat. A pacemaker may be needed to correct that form.

Character of Work: To refurbish approximately 9,800 feet existing perimeter levee that has deteriorated due to excessive use and age. Land within the levee unit is managed under a pump off system. If allowed to breach the levee it would destroy valuable grazing grounds. The water on the outside of the pump off system is brackish. Dredged material will be taken from existing borrow canal and used as fill to rebuild levee. Approximately 4,500 cubic yards of sand and clay will be required.

The decision on whether to issue a permit will be based on an evaluation of the probable impacts of the proposed activity in accordance with the state policies outlined in R.S. 49:213.2. The decision will reflect in the national concern for both protection and utilization of important resources. The decision must be consistent with the state program and approved local programs for affected parishes and must represent an appropriate balancing of social, environmental and economic factors. All factors which may be relevant to the proposal will be considered; among these are flood and storm hazards, water quality, water supply, feasible alternative sites, drainage patterns, historical sites, economics, public and private benefits, coastal water dependency, impacts on natural features, compatibility with the natural and cultural setting and the extent of long term benefits or adverse impacts.

Certification that the proposed activity will not violate applicable water and air quality laws, standards and regulations will be required before a permit is issued.

Any person may request, in writing, within the comment period specified in this notice, that a public hearing be held to consider this application. Request for public hearings shall state, with particularity, the reasons for holding a public hearing.

Plans for the proposed work may be inspected at the Cameron Parish Police Jury Annex Building, Coastal Management Division, Courthouse Square, P.O. Box 366, Cameron, Louisiana, (318) 775-5718. Written comments should be mailed within 25 days from the date of this public notice to Cameron Parish Police Jury, Coastal Management Division, Post Office Box 366, Cameron, Louisiana 70631.

AREA FISHING

We've had a good year of bass fishing on Miami Corporation's Permit Lands. Many enjoyable hours were spent by youths as well as adults, both male and female. That's the good news. Now the bad news. It's closed until next year. Remember this, trespassers will be issued citations.

Saltwater fishing has really held on and still good catches are reported.

Fishing the surf along Holly Beach has produced some top of the line redfish. Gabe LaLande of Cameron had a nice redfish last week off Holly Beach. He didn't weigh it, could find no one at the moment with large enough scales. It was 44½ inches long and a girth of 24 inches. I talked to Perry Guthrie, fish biologist for Rockefeller Refuge, and he has a computer to give the weight on the length of fish. According to his calculations, this redfish was between 39 pounds and 42 pounds Gabe caught the big red on a live mullet, fishing 12 pound test line. Some cars stopped and watched as he fought the redfish and gave him a big hand clap after he landed it.

BOATERS, WARNING!

Many reports of waterfowl and fish strangled to death by plastic 6 pack rings, and fish lines becoming too common in our state waters.

Some species of fish have been found still alive with plastic or fishing lines wrapped around them. As the fish try to grow it, it stunts its growth or kills it.

The 1992 Louisiana Legislature passed Act 487, which strictly prohibits anyone throwing plastic and other litter, into all waters of the state. This law means glass, ropes, garbage or ice bags, anything thrown overboard.

The operator of any boat is responsible. A fine of $200 for each violation each day that waste or trash stays in the water. All marinas and other boat access sites are required to install proper collection receptacles for boaters to dispose of their trash.

HUNTING

Hunting fever is in the air, with the cool weather we've had for a couple of days.

Remember, dove season first split is Sept. 5-13; Teal, Sept. 19-27; rails, Sept. 19-27; gallinules, Sept. 19-27.

Remember for dove season, shooting hours are from 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset, except on the opening weekend of each split. where shooting hours are from noon to sunset. The daily bag limit on doves is 12 and possession limit is 24 after the first day.

The daily bag limit on teal is 4 per day and possession limit is 8 after first day. Rails bag limit is 15 per day, possession of 20, gallinules is the same as rails.

Hunters from out of state will pay more this year to hunt Louisiana's marshes. Basic season, small game, is $75.50; basic 6 day trip, small game, is $40.50; and migratory bird trip three days is $35.

The Big Game Licenses have been replaced by two new ones. All game season (big game and basic hunting) is $150. All game five day trip, $85. In addition to the above, if they're hunting with muzzleloaders or bows, there are two additional fees of $15 each.

Fishing license for freshwater year round is $20.50, seven day freshwater trip is $15.50, saltwater season, $25.50, seven day trip, $15.50. Out of staters can get a combination salt and basic two day trip license for $12.50.

Now, if out of staters want a lifetime hunting and fishing license to include all game and salt and freshwater fishing, they purchase a $3,000 license. Quite expensive you say, well that's what our neighbors charge us when we go to their grounds.

Remember, there's still some fine freshwater fishing left in Sabine and Lacassine Refuges and also Rockefeller Refuge.

This is still prime time for saltwater fishing, so get out there while it's hot.

FEEDING PERIODS

Friday, Aug. 28, best, 11:57 a.m.; good, 5:47 a.m. and 6:07 p.m.

Saturday, Aug. 29, best, 12:22 a.m. and 12:37 p.m.; good, 6:37 a.m. and 7:07 p.m.

Sunday, Aug. 30, best, 2:37 a.m. and 2:52 p.m.; good, 7:37 a.m. and 9:07 p.m.

A little levity will save many a good heavy thing from sinking.

Change told for shrimp

(From Plaquemines Watchman)

The standard measure of size in the Louisiana shrimp fishery is the number of shrimp per pound, frequently referred to as "count". Fishermen and fisheries biologists typically determine count by collecting a random sample of shrimp weighing three pounds. They then count the number of shrimp in the sample and divide that number by three.

Act 619 of the 1992 Louisiana Legislature amended the statutes regarding the possession count of white shrimp. Lawmakers removed the count requirement from mid-October to late December.

From October 15 through the third Monday in December there is no white shrimp count requirement. Shrimpers may take and possess white shrimp of any size.

Other legal possession requirements on size of shrimp are as follows:

•There is no limitation on the count of seabobs, bait shrimp, or shrimp that are documented as having been legally taken in other states or countries and imported into this state.

•During the open spring brown shrimp season there is no limitation as to the count of any saltwater shrimp taken or in possession.

•When more than 50% by weight of the saltwater shrimp taken or in possession is seabobs or brown shrimp, the maximum allowable amount of undersized white shrimp taken or possessed cannot exceed 10% by weight of the total.

•Except as specified above and the time period from October 15 through the third Monday in December, the possession count on saltwater white shrimp shall average no more than 100 specimens to the pound.

Plastic to be banned

Reports of waterfowl and fish strangled to death by plastic six-pack rings, or worse by discarded yards of fishing net, have become common. Any number of saltwater species have been discovered, bound by plastic, alive, but destined to outgrow the plastic noose. As the fish enlarge, of course, the plastic tightens, then becomes embedded in the fish's flesh, distorts its natural growth, and ever so slowly squeezes the life out of it.

No one wants this to continue. In the 1992 Louisiana Legislative Session, lawmakers passed Act 487 which strictly prohibits the disposal of plastics and other litter by anyone into all waters of the state.

The law stipulates that it is illegal for a boat operator, passenger, crew member or any person on board any vessel to discharge or discard any type of plastic product. This includes but is not limited to synthetic ropes, fishing nets and garbage bags. The law also prohibits the discarding of all paper products, glass, metal, dunnage, lining and packing materials.

All recreational and commercial boats, barges or other vehicles operating in the state waters are liable.

Any person found in violation of the new more stringent litter law can be fined up to $200 for each violation. Subsequent to notification of such a violation, each day that the condition remains uncorrected will constitute a separate violation.

Families to get benefits

A total of 47 Cameron Parish families were certified for benefits during July, 1992 by the Department of Social Services.

Certification for Aid to Families with Dependent Children totaled 8 while 37 households were found eligible for food stamp benefits.

AFDC grants totaling $10,476 were paid to 72 families for 127 children in the parish.

Food stamp coupons amounting to $63,325 were authorized for 331 households.

Miss La. to get a fur

The woman named "Miss Louisiana 1992" at the State Pageant on Aug. 29, in New Orleans will receive a finger-tip-length coat along with her crown.

The anorak, featuring the finest printed Belsetta microfiber, is fully lined and trimmed with sheared Louisiana nutria. The coat is being donated to the pageant and presented to the crowned queen by the Louisiana Fur and Alligator Advisory Council. Council Chairman Robert Watson will do the honors and, in addition, he will present a stylish peanut brittle alligator clutch to this year's queen.

"We are pleased to donate this attractive fur lined coat and the alligator clutch to the Pageant and to the outstanding young woman named "Miss Louisiana 1992," Watson said. "This fine garment features Genuine Louisiana Bayou Nutria, an internationally marketed label, and carries the pride of the Louisiana industry."

The coat was designed and manufactured by Irving Samuel of Montreal, Canada, and is carried by Neiman Marcus stores throughout the United States. The alligator clutch was manufactured by Gary's of California.

The Louisiana Fur and Alligator Advisory Council was established by the 1986 Louisiana Legislature with three primary objectives: to stabilize the market, to enhance Louisiana fur and alligator products and to educate the public concerning the role of fur and alligator harvest in wildlife conservation.

Louisiana is the number one producer of furbearers and alligators, both wild and ranched, in the United States. The value of the alligator industry is approximately $24 million and fur production has averaged at $4.5 million in recent years.

Watson explained that Miss Louisiana will wear her new coat to various functions in her capacity as an ambassador for the state and for Louisiana's fur and alligator industries.

Look for integrity

During the recent Democratic and Republican National Conventions many a statement penetrated the air waves and rolled off the presses. Disparaging remarks about the opposing party brought cheers and banner waving by those present. In sifting through the records of both parties one finds truths, half truths and fallacies.

With all the recent exposure of wrongdoing in high places it behooves each voter to search diligently for the candidate possessing the highest degree of integrity coupled with ability.

The first rung in the ladder to greatness is integrity. Few will deny the fact but many are slow to practice it. To maintain integrity in lofty positions demands constant awareness and self denial. The same is true but less apparent in all positions.

William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, was one of our finest examples of integrity. He was a man ahead of his times. He advised a union of the colonies and drew up a plan for a league of nations -- all in the seventeenth century.

Penn, at the age of twenty-four, was imprisoned in the Tower of London because he advocated freedom of speech and freedom of worship. Prior to this he had been expelled from Oxford because he had become a Quaker.

Upon his release from prison Penn traveled throughout the British Isles preaching the right of any man to obey his God-given conscience.

William Penn went to prison five times for his religious and political views. Each time he grew stronger and eventually became a symbol of integrity to freedom-loving men everywhere.

Straight forward and simple integrity baffles those who are filled with duplicity and trickery who believe that every person has a price and can be bought or bribed.

One's station in life has little to do with one's integrity or lack of it. He may be world-renowned or known only within his small community. Integrity is not an outer garment to be drawn close or cast off as the occasion arises. It is an inner vestment of heart and mind.

An individual who consistently preserves his or her integrity is far better able to face the toil and monotony of earning a living, the disappointments of life and the ingratitude of his or her fellowmen than otherwise possible.

As the presidential election approaches, it behooves voters to study the party platforms carefully and the integrity of the candidates along with their ability.

When making meringue, make sure the eggs are room temperature and add a pinch of baking powder before beating.

Roach proposes six amendments

Rep. Randy Roach has filed several proposed constitutional amendments, including measures to revise the state income tax, place a limit on the effective date of any tax or fee, require certain persons who receive public assistance to participate in job programs, allow persons in public housing to acquire ownership of their homes and limit the Legislature's ability to grant or suspend tax credits and exemptions.

Proposal number 64 would prohibit the state from taxing money borrowed by corporations to start or expand business operations in Louisiana.

"Louisiana is the only state that imposes a tax on money borrowed by a corporation," Roach said. "This penalizes a business before it has a chance to even get started. Any taxes on Louisiana businesses should be based on value or income -- not debt."

Proposal number 65 redefines the limit on the growth of state spending that was approved by the Legislature in 1990. The regulation restricts growth in state spending to the average rate of growth in personal per-capital income.

Proposal number 66 would limit the state's ability to spend any revenue it collects from video poker or casino gambling until the budget year that follows the year the money is collected. The same rule applies to the state's share of the lottery money.

Proposal number 67 would prohibit the state from imposing a property tax. The state is currently authorized to collect a property tax of 5-3/4 mills. It has never imposed this tax. Roach said local government should control how property-tax revenue is spent.

"Property taxes should never be imposed without a majority vote and should always be collected at the local level so taxpayers can monitor how it is spent. The state should not get into the property tax business," Roach said.

Proposal number 68 would require that the Legislature meet in a special session at least once every 20 years to review the taxing and budgetary authority provided by the constitution. The state is currently using a tax code and a budget process with provisions that are more than 40 years old. Roach said the tax code should be reviewed on a regular basis to be sure taxpayers are being treated fairly.

Under Roach's plan, voters would have to approve any changes resulting from tax code review sessions.

Proposal number 69 would limit the state's ability to collect any fee until the service or permit for which it has been imposed is performed or issued.

"The state collects a fee to cover the cost of a serivce or a permit, and all too often there is a significant delay between payment and performance. Requiring the state to perform the service or issue the permit before the consumer pays should create the necessary economic incentive to minimize these delays", Roach said.

Proposal number 70 limits the state's ability to create or expand existing programs for the next four years.

"Every year the state comes up with new ways to spend money," Roach said. "The problem is that we have just about exceeded our ability to pay for these program. The state is having difficulty providing the basics -- education, medical care, roads and assistance for the truly needy. This proposal would force us as a state to stabilize our finances and improve the quality of existing services before we go broke." At the end of four years Roach's proposal would allow the stae to create or expand programs every other year.

Parish folks will aid storm victims

Hurricane Andrew last week spared Cameron Parish from serious damage and in gratitude parish residents have been busy helping the citizens of the Morgan City-Franklin area who suffered extensive damage to their homes and property.

An emergency drive for food and supplies for the victims was conducted Monday through Thursday in all of the communities of the parish with Rep. Randy Roach and his assistant Myrna Conner coordinating the effort. (See list of drop off points elsewhere.) Crews from the police jury will pick up the items and take them to a collection center in Lake Charles.

Some parish residents planned to give direct assistance to some of the victims. Cleanup crews from Cameron, Creole and Grand Chenier are scheduled to meet at 5 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 5 at Our Lady Star of the Sea in Cameron, 7-X Square at Oak Grove or Crain Brothers in Grand Chenier.

The local people plan to drive to the little town of Centerville near Franklin in St. Mary parish where they will help the storm victims there in cleaning up their property.

Everyone is invited to join in this effort and to bring rakes, brooms, chain saws, gloves, etc. For more information call Julie Burleigh at 775-2870.

And numerous citizens continue to express their ire over the comments made by Commentator John Chancellor on the NBC TV network to the effect that Cameron parish citizens were "stupid" for failing to evacuate for Hurricane Audrey 36 years ago.

Chancellor and the network have been bombarded by letters and telegrams from parish citizens asking for an apology. All point out that Cameron citizens were not "stupid"--they were misinformed about the location of Audrey and the projected time of its landfall.

Audrey dead are honored

A memorial mass was held at 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 27, at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Cameron to mark the 15th anniversary of Hurricane Audrey.

The mass honored the memory of the 525 Cameron Parish victims of the June, 1957 storm which swept gigantic tides inland.

The Rev. Alcide Sonnier, pastor of the church, officiated at the mass. The solemn mass was said to a packed house of worshipers, most of whom lost loved ones in the disaster.

The church, which is constructed to resemble the bow of a ship, a reference to the sea and shipping industries so vital to the area, sits behind a shrine which has become a landmark in Cameron parish.

The shrine was erected in 1963 and depicts the Mother of God shielding a child as a perpetual entreaty to Christ to protect the parish from future calamities.

The seven-foot marble statue bears the inscription "Do not harm my children."

48 alligators to head north

Clark M. Hoffpauer, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, Friday, at the commission meeting in Alexandria, announced that the board approved a request from the Arkansas Fish and Game Commission to transfer 48 alligators from Louisiana for restocking purposes in Arkansas.

In a unanimous decision the board authorized the transfer on the basis of good management for wildlife maintenance.

"Louisiana's alligator population is near the quarter million mark," Hoffpauer said. "And the state's transfer of 48 gators to Arkansas is a phase of good management. Since alligators are precious and must be managed effectively, the transfer is part of this new management while at the same time assisting a neighboring state to expand its wildlife population."

Hoffpauer added that the transfer would be made by Wild Life and Fisheries personnel sometime next week.

AUDREY IS REMEMBERED

By NELL COLLIGAN

This week, June 27, marks the 15th anniversary of the day Hurricane Audrey swept through Cameron Parish killing about 500 residents and leaving scores homeless.

Looking back, I have to marvel at what I saw when I married and came to Cameron two months after the storm.

I saw people working 12 and 14 hours a day to clean and rebuild a broken, muddy town with almost no available water and few building supplies. I saw some of them get up as tired as they went to bed, because they knew a sleeplessness that pills could not cure, a nervousness that tranquilizers could not calm.

They were broken-hearted and discouraged, but they were trying. Their courage was unbelievable, and at that time, there was little they would not do for their neighbor. They were so kind, their compassion for one another was exposed like raw nerve endings.

Time has helped to heal those broken hearts, time and their answered prayers. Families and homes have been rebuilt; the town looks better now that it ever did before, except for some of the old oak trees that couldn't be replaced.

That's as it should be. But I believe that these people who survived the storm are not the same as the rest of us. Surely inside of them somewhere, ready when needed, is that great courage and super-sensitive compassion that Audrey stirred up. I think when they read about another disaster somewhere else, they care in a different way, because they've been there.

Two retired at post office here

By NELL COLLIGAN

Effective June 30 Mrs. Monroe LeBoeuf and Mrs. Rodney Guilbeaux will have retired from the U. S. Postal Service in Cameron.

Better known as Frances and Tavia, these two ladies began working in the post office in the 30's under Postmaster F. B. Kennedy. At that time, the post office was in a little building next to the Kennedy home where the Cameron Police Jury Building now stands.

As the town grew, the post office grew, and in 1949 it moved to a larger office in the Cameron Drug Store Building. In 1967, still larger facilities were needed, so the post office was moved to the Henry Building where it is today.

Frances and Tavia recall many happy memories while working together through the years, as well as a few bad ones as is the case in every business.

Fifteen years ago when Hurricane Audrey struck, they were faced with the task of repairs on their homes as well as starting from scratch to restock the post office in preparation for the return of customers when it remained until repairs were completed on the post office on October 10, following the storm.

Asked what's the secret of working together and remaining such good friends after so many years, Frances replied that the thing to keep in mind is that everyone has the right of a difference of opinion.

Since Tavia does not live in our neighborhood, we do not know her habits as well as those of Frances. It has been said that Frances has been the clock of the neighborhood. She was so punctual that she went to work and came home within two or three minutes of the same time daily, never being late for work.

They both wish to extend to all their thanks for so many good memories saying, "We will miss you."

And I'd like to add that we'll miss them too. Good luck in the future, Frances and Tavia.

Devil's Elbow will be dredged to a depth of 32 feet below mean log gulf, with two feet of overdepth allowed.

The work locations are in Calcasieu and Cameron parishes.

A $806,556 contract has been awarded to Williams-McWilliams Company of New Orleans for maintenance dredging in Calcasieu River and Pass Channel and in the Cameron Loop, between Hackberry and Cameron.

Under terms of the contract, about 3.6 million cubic yards of material will be removed from the Cameron Parish channel. The channel will be dredged to a depth of 41 feet below mean low gulf, which includes one foot of advance maintenance. One foot of overdepth will be allowed.

Fishing rodeo starts Saturday

A fun-filled weekend of competitive deep sea fishing awaits the serious sportfisherman who plans to attend the July 1-3, 1972 Southwest Louisiana Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at Cameron.

Rodeo President Harry Barsh, of the sponsoring Southwest Louisiana Fishing Club, said all plans have been finalized and "It's now a game of watch the weather and get ready."

Offshore from Cameron, weather conditions had been poor through the time Hurricane Agnes moved inland on the north Florida coast. "But conditions have improved," Barsh said, "and we look for good rodeo weather."

Registrations have been going at a brisk pace, he said, and he reminded all interested to register before they leave for Cameron. Registrations will be available in Cameron, but only through noon on the first day of the rodeo, July 1.

Rodeo official competition starts at sunrise on July 1 and continues through 7 p.m. on the final day, July 3. The scales will come down at 7 p.m. on July 3, he reminded, and fish brought in after that will not be weighed.

Rodeo headquarters will again be located at Pete Henry's pier where veteran judge J. Marshall Smith will serve as chief weighmaster. "Decision of the judges will be final in all cases," Barsh said.

During the rodeo, sportsmen will be competing for a handsome array of special trophies to be awarded for first, second and third place fish in species covering practically all gulf fish. Complete details will be found in the club's official rodeo program, Barsh said.

Fishing continues to be good offshore as weather conditions [illegible], and many boats have been bringing in excellent catches.

Big cobia and large king mackerel are starting to be brought in with regularity and other catches have included red snapper, spanish mackerel, bonito, dolphin and amberjack.

"The tarpon that were seen in East Cameron Block 17 several weeks ago have been seen on at least two more occasions but we still have not heard of anyone landing one," the rodeo president said.

"With such frequent sightings of these large gamefish," Barsh said, "we look for a real hot spot with the tarpon clan in Block 17 during the rodeo."

Onshore, Cameron will offer something for everyone with dances, food and ball games planned for rodeo weekend. There will also be a midway for the children and annual blessing of the fleet ceremonies to open rodeo festivities.

She has won a total of 116 awards since she has been running track.

The trap shoot will be held Sunday, July 2 in the lot on main street adjacent to the Masonic Hall. It will start at 8 a.m. and will continue until 6 p.m.

Trophies will be given from first through third places in men, junior men and women categories, Schwark said.

Twenty-three club members attended the meeting and enjoyed a fish fry which was cooked by Ray Burleigh.

Tarpons beat Iowa in Jamboree game

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons had a very successful tune-up for the opening game of the 1992 season.

The Tarpons traveled to Iowa and steam rolled over the Yellow Jackets 25-2.

The South Cameron offense and defense both did a commendable job in the jamboree encounter.

The Tarpons all district quarterback Chris McCall seems to have improved his throwing arm over last year as he hit 3 of 4 passes for 50 yards including a touchdown toss to Todd Conner from the 19 yard line.

The Tarpons had a great team effort as James Bonsall, Travis Pradia, and Darnell Frank along with McCall all looked good carrying the football. They were running behind some very good blocking from the offensive line.

The Tarpons scored on their first possession as Chris McCall ran in from 29 yards out, then after forcing the Yellow Jackets to punt the Tarpons moved 62 yards with Darnell Frank scoring on a one yard run. The Tarpons other touchdown came on a 20 yard touchdown run.

The Tarpon defense was impressive in the jamboree also as they limited the Iowa team to less than 50 yards and forced two fumbles recovering one.

The Tarpon defense played very aggressively and spent quite a bit of time in the Yellow Jacket backfield.

The victory was a team effort as noted by the number of running backs used effectively and the aggressiveness of the defense.

The Tarpons open the 1992 regular season this Friday, Sept. 4, at 7 p.m. as the DeQuincy Tigers come to Creole.

Kyle heads H.S. rodeo

The Lousiana High School Rodeo Association board of directors have elected the following officers for the 1992-93 season:

Ernest Kyle, Hackberry, president; Kenneth Fontenot, Lake Charles, first vice president; Ronnie Ferguson, Lake Charles, second vice president; Nickey Rodrigue, Creole, secretary; Billy Corbello, Iowa, treasurer; Carol Henry, Lake Charles, recording secretary; Russell Baker, Broussard, parliamentarian.

Kyle has a long association with the high school rodeo, beginning with his years as a competitor in 1953 and 1954. He rode in the national finals in 1954 and was deeply involved with the program from 1976-88 while his children competed.

Tarps are ranked 4th

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons, with lots of lettermen back, have impressed the Louisiana sports writers as the Tarpons will take a number 4 ranking in the first football poll into their game Friday night against the DeQuincy Tigers.

Other teams from District 6AA that have rankings are the Iota Bulldogs, who are in 8th place in the rankings and the Welsh Greyhounds who received 9 votes.

Pickering, who is on the Tarpon schedule later in the year, is ranked sixth.

Haynesville, the defending state champion, held down first place in the initial poll by the sports writers.

Tarpons are expected to make playoffs

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons are once again a favorite to make the state playoffs. Last Friday saw the American Press publish their football edition which has the coaches poll of district included and also on Sunday prep sports writer Carl Dubois made his predictions of district races in Southwest Louisiana.

Both the coaches and Dubois picked the Welsh Greyhounds followed by the South Cameron Tarpons, Iota Bulldogs, Notre Dame Pioneers, St. Louis Saints and the Lake Arthur Tigers.

The Tigers and Tarpons played twice last year with South Cameron winning both games. They beat the Tigers 27-10 in the opening game of the year and eliminated DeQuincy from the playoffs 17-13 in the second playoff round.

Coaches poll: Welsh, 28; South Cameron, 24; Iota, 17; Notre Dame, 12; St. Louis, 8; Lake Arthur, 7.

Dubois' picks: Welsh, South Cameron, Iota, Notre Dame, Lake Arthur, St. Louis.

Alligator season delayed five days

The opening date for alligator hunting season has been delayed five days. Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Secretary Joe Herring has moved the opening day for this year's alligator season to Thursday, Sept. 10. Herring explained that the closing date for alligator hunting season will remain Oct. 4, 1992.

LDWF Fur and Refuge Division administrators also set new schedules for the sale of alligator tags to hunters at Rockefeller Refuge, LDWF Bourg Office, LDWF New Iberia Office, and the LDWF New Orleans Office. In order for the sale of tags to proceed efficiently and so that the alligator huntes are accommodated as well as possible LDWF has had a policy of pre-registering the hunters during the summer and, at that time, providing a season check-in or tag-issue schedule to the huntes.

Due to Hurricane Andrew, the tag-issue schedules at the department's southerly offices have had to be changed. Hunters in the coatal areas are advised to take notice of the new dates so that they will be inconvenienced as little as possible.

World's largest marsh buggy was built here

(Abbeville Meridional, Sept. 2, 1916)
LAKESIDE LACONICS

Placide Savoie is on the sicklist and also several member sof his family principally fever and chills.

Wild plums are in season and are certainly a fine fruit for jellies and preserves. They seem to be likely known or appreciated.

In the Hackberry section the loss of cattle by disease has been very light this year. Only a few have died - in fact there have been few exposed to disease because nearly all of the cattle are over the line in Calcasieu.

Forseeing a plague of mosquitoes and shortage of forage following last summer's tidal wave, the Hackberry farmers sent 2,000 head into Calcasieu parish three months ago and they are still there.

(Cameron Parish, Sept. 4, 1959)
CAMERON SCHOOLS OPEN

All of Cameron Parish's schools, with the exception of Johnson Bayou, opened Monday.

The opening of Johnson Bayou High School was postponed a week while finishing touches were being put on the new school building and school furniture was arriving.

Superintendent U. E. Hackett announced a last minute change in the principalship of Johnson Bayou. E. L. Harvell of Leesville, who had been scheduled to become principal, became ill last week and decided not to take the position.

Named as the new principal was Chester W Krumm, seventh grade teacher at Hackberry High School for the past nine years. Mr. Krumm has been a teacher for 30 years. He was a principal in Ouachita Parish for 18 years, and has taught at several other schools around the state.

School officials have expressed concern over the condition of the road between Holly Beach and Johnson Bayou. The road is now under construction and in rainy weather it may be impossible for the school bur to get over the road.

Enrollment figures reported at the various schools in the parish are: South Cameron, 380; Cameron Elementary, 263; Audrey Memorial, 105; Grand Chenier, 54; Hackberry, 297; and Grand Lake, 284.

WORLD'S LARGEST MARSH BUGGY

The world's largest marsh bugy has just been completed by Grand Chenier's Crain Brothers, who have been manufacturing these amphibious vehicles for the past 25 years.

The granddaddy of all marsh buggies is 32 feet long, and has 11-foot high, 6-foot wide wheels. It weighs approximately 12,600 pounds. The body of the machine sits so high off the ground that a car an almost drive under it.

John Paul Crain, who with brother, A. H. (Sono) Crain, are co-owners of the parish conern, says that the biggest buggy built up to this time has been a 10-foot tall machine built at Golden Meadow. The Crains say they will lease their new giant contractors for use in laying heavy pipelines and building powerlines in the marsh. Powered by a 147 h.p. G. M. diesel engine, andwith four-wheel drive, the monster can go practically anywhere--marsh, dry land or water.

To the uninformed, the machine looks like it would sink like a rock, but it takes to water like a duck. It can cross a river or a lake with ease.

It is equipped to drive pilings. It has three winches, and can lift as much as 15,000 to 20,000 pounds.

The big buggy got an unusual workout shortly after it was completed recently. The 340 h.p. diesel crew boat ran aground on a sandbar near the mouth of the Mermentau River. When the crew was unable to budge it in any other way, the Crains were called. They hitched the buggy on to the boat and easily pulled it off.

John Paul said that a marsh buggy, surprisingly enough, has as much or more pull than a tug boat of like horse power. He says that some of his boys once staged a tug of war between a marsh buggy and a crewboat. The buggy won easily.

The Crains, who actually built all of the big marsh buggy except the automotive parts, say that it cost them around $4,000 but the machine probably would sell for around $25,000, if they ever took a notion to sell it, which they rarely ever do. It will lease for about $110 a day.

CAMERON COURIER
(By Jerry Wise)

Dorothy Doxey, parish treasurer, was cleaning out some old police jury files last week, when she ran across some correspondence from the old Cameron Courier, which was published years ago in the Lakeside Community south of Lake Arthur. Miss Doxey was very gracious to give us these old letters from our early predecessor.

According to the letterheads, the Courier was published by the Lakeside Printing Co. and L. J. Nunemaker was the editor. The paper was put out every Saturday and was $1.50 a year. The letterhead proclaimed that the Courier was "a local newspaper devoted to the best interests of Cameron Parish."

The letters, which were written in application for the jury's official printing, were dated 1921, and stated that the Courier had been established 12 years earlier (or 1909). Dr. C. J. Edwards was the founder, and Mr. Nunemaker acquired the paper following his death.

Surely there must be some of our readers who still have copies of the old Courier.

Coffeeweeds poisonous to cattle

Two weeds in this region are known to damage heart and skeletal muscle of cattle in late summer and fall, according to Dr. Steve Nicholson, Extension Service veterinary toxicologist with the LSU Agricultural Center.

Loses are experienced by some cattle owners each year, he says. The weeds are called by common names as sicklepod and coffeesenna, also called coffeeweed. They belong to the genus cassia in the plant world. It probably came to the U.S. from countries to the south.

These noxious weeds are found in corn and soybean fields, corrals and pastures. Coffeesenna prefers sandy soil and is the most toxic. It grows up to 6 feet tall and has 4 to 6 pairs of pointed leaflets. Seed pods are straight, the diameter of a pencil and 4 to 6 inches long. The plant attracts ants during the seed pod stage.

Sicklepod is more common. It grows as tall but has leaflets that are light green and are broader at the end that at their attachment. Seed pods are sickle shaped.

"Cattle graze around these weeds, and most never take more than an occasional bite," Nicholson notes. "Coffeesenna seems to attract cattle if it has been damaged by mowing, trampling or frost. Either plant is a potential hazard when mixed with silage."

Yearling-age cattle often are involved in plant poisonings, but all ages are susceptible. A toxic dose can be eaten in one day or in smaller amounts over several days. The first indication of trouble may be when the animal is reluctant to stand or is down and cannot rise. Pigments from damaged muscles cause the urine to be coffee colored. Rapid, shallow breathing and a loose stool are other signs of poisoning.

Diagnosis of this poisoning depends on the history of exposure and evidence that the plant was eaten. A post-mortem examination by a veterinarian usually reveals plant material in the stomach and muscle damage.

Nicholson adds that because there is no effective treatment and most poisoned animals die, prevention is necessary. He urges cattle owners to learn to recognize poisonous plants growing on their farms and ranches. Parish Cooperative Extension Service agents can be of assistance.

ALLIGATOR SEASON PUT UP 5 DAY

Last week I mentioned about the alligator harvest season. I said the only way the alligator season could be closed was by biological reason or a disaster such as a hurricane, such as Hurricane Andrew. Well, we were spared the destruction, high tide and even rain. Our neighbors to the east weren't so lucky. From Morgan City area to the Lafayette area, destruction was bad. High tides of saltwater have left their marshes a mess. There are dead fish, dead nutrias and other dead animals all over.

What's going to happen? Well, it's a hard decision, but I think the one made was a fair one.

The alligator season will be put up five days, so the season will start Sept. 10. Check in at Rockefeller Refuge will begin Sunday, Sept. 6, for Miami Corporation hunters and so on. This way the season won't have to be closed entirely.

It will also give the hunters up east more time to see about their personal possessions, and let the water recede and all these dead animals and fish to decompose. You can hardly get an alligtor to take a baited line if you have all the food of the dead animals on hand.

It will cause a few hardships such as people who schedule vacations missing a few days or having to reschedule. Also the trophy hunters who come down to get their trophy alligator, will have to cancel airline tickets, etc., and reschedule their hunt.

This may seem unfair, but what if our area would have been hit by this bad hurricane and we were in our neighbor's shoes. I'm sure we would have liked to have a few extra days also. This is why I believe it's a fair deal.

FISHING REPORT

I really don't have much of a fishing report, but I did see something that was kind of funny. As we were leaving and going out for the hurricane late Tuesday evening, I just happen to look in the Big Burns out a few hundred feet from the weir and behold, there was an angler fishing, yes, in his boat.

You say fishing at that time when a hurricane is coming - well, what came to my mind was here it is Aug. 25, on Tuesday and the Big Burns and all Miami Corporation permit fishing closed on Sunday evening, Aug. 23. Maybe the barometer pressure was working on this angler.

Food Festival to be held by Heart Assoc.

How's your "Fat-O-Stat?" If it registers 30 percent or more of your total daily intake of calories, statistics may not be working in your favor when it comes to a healthy heart, according to the American Heart Association.

"There are many hidden sources of fat and cholesterol in our diets," according to Cynthia Richard of the Cameron Parish Cooperative Extension Service. "During the AHA's eighth annual Food Festival, Sept. 19-25, we can help people check their own fat consumption statistics and modify their diets to turn down their 'Fat-O-Stats,' using a self-evaluating quiz."

American Heart Association guidelines for heart-healthy eating recommend that total fat intake be less than 30 percent of calories eaten each day, and that saturated fat be less than 10 percent of this number.

By lowering your intake of saturated fats and cholesterol you may reduce your blood cholesterol. High blood cholesterol can cause a fatty buildup in the lining of blood vessels and eventually, blockage. This buildup and blockage can lead to a heart attack.

American Heart Association's Food Festival volunteers will be at participating supermarkets to help people learn to trim the fat and cut the cholesterol in their diets. By reading food labels and knowing some basic facts about what foods are high in fat, you will be able to select foods low in saturated fat and cholesterol.

FEEDING PERIODS

Friday, Sept. 4 - best, 6:12 a.m. and 6:37 p.m.; good, 12:52 a.m. and 12:22 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 6 - best, 7:47 a.m. and 8:12 p.m.; good, 2:42 p.m.

Food festival is co-sponsored by the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service. Your local representative will be coordinating Activity Centers at the Cameron Food Mart in Cameron.

When you visit an Activity Center, fill out a self evaluation quiz and drop it off. In return we will mail you a Healthy Heart Food Chart and your name will be included in a drawing for a cholesterol counter booklet.

Lovebugs are still around

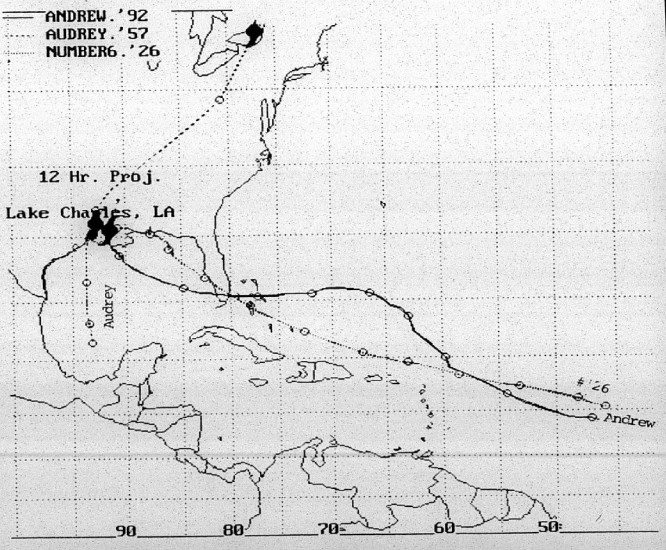
While Hurricane Andrew may alter their flight paths a bit, those pesky love bugs will still be around to aggravate motorists and others after the storm has given Louisiana its best lick.

Although love bugs may seem to target windshields, bumpers and other front surfaces of vehicles traveling the state's roads, it's really a matter of vehicles invading the bugs favorite nesting palces alongside highways and byways, says Dr. Dale Pollet, Extension Service entomologists with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

Love bugs, which are known in the bug world by the less romantic name of Plecia neartica, are building up their populations in certain areas of the state.

The are black with an orange thorax. They are seen adjoined in flight because they are mating. It is the adult stage of the insect that is seen in very large numbers, usually in the spring and fall in Louisiana.



Recurring afternoon showers in many areas have caused these small insects to complete their life cycle, Pollet notes. Explaining the creature's lifecycle, he says that the adults will lay their eggs in the thatch and dry, decaying grass in yards, fields and along roadways. The developing larvae will feed on the organic matter as they develop through their life cycle. They will overwinter as larvae and emerge as adults in the first of two generations next year.

Love bugs are nuisance insects, Pollet admits, and there's not much we can do about it. They are attracted to heat, the reason many are found along roads. Their only useful function is in the larval stage when they help break down grassy organic matter.

They are a serious problem for motorists and their cars. When dense populations are encountered, the passage of air through radiators can be plugged, causing overheating. Smeared on windshields, love bugs can impair visibility.

Next to those problems, their worst damage results from their acidic body fluids. If left on the finish of a vehicle, they can produce a spotting of the paint, Pollet says. It is important to wash all traces of them off the front of the vehicle with soap and water to prevent permanent paint damage. At the same time use the sprayer to clean them off and out of the radiator core.

Love bugs are pests from Florida to east Texas. The first generation usually emerges in May and June, followed by a second wave in September and October. Population densities vary from very light to very heavy.

THIS COMPUTERIZED map, which was furnished to the Pilot by Clarence Lafargue of Lake Charles, shows the almost identical paths that were taken by Hurricane Andrew and an unnamed hurricane in 1926, both of which came ashore in Florida and Louisiana in almost the same locations. Hurricane Audrey, which tore up Cameron parish in 1957, is also shown.

Dear John Chancelor & NBC

Letter from Chamber Pres.

Micheal Gardiner, President
NBC News
30 Rockefeller Center
New York, New York 10112

RE: John Chancelor NBC Nightly News Hurricane Memories asserting that residents of Cameron, Louisiana were "too dumb, too stubborn or too proud to leave" prior to Hurricane Audrey's landfall on June 27, 1957.

I am writing this letter because my telephone calls to you, John Chancelor and Bob Wright (President of NBS) on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday (Aug. 26, 27 and 28) have never been answered. Evidently, none of you at NBC News are concerned that citizens of Cameron Parish and Southwest Louisiana are very emotionally upset about being called "too dumb" etc.

I find it hard to believe that a so called "world class journalist" would make such remarks if he had compassion and empathy and had actually tried to find out the true story of Hurricane Audrey's death toll. Had he viewed the endless rows of bodies in the make shift morgue at the Lake Charles City Docks, searched for survivors and bodies by marsh buggies, air boats or helicopters, talked to the survivors who all watched Karl von Louewn give the 10 o'clock news on AREA-TV on Wed. night and were told that there is "no immediate danger tonight - besure to tape or board up your windows, secure or bring inside all outside items such as trash cans, furniture, etc., stock up on water, nonperishables, flash lights, candles, fill up all vehicles with fueld, listen to all weather reports, etc."

As all survivors know, shortly after 3 a.m. waters from the Gulf of Mexico silently moved inland (at first there was no wind or rain or waves) and within minutes flood waters were over the seats and engines of their vehicles as far as 2 or 3 miles from the coast.

These residents had their bags packed Wednesday night and had planned to leave for a safer location at daybreak Thursday, but they never had the opportunity. Anyone knowing the Cameron coastal area knows that there are only two roads or escape routes out of lower Cameron Parish, one north of Creole through the Gibbstown pontoon bridge and the other north of Holly Beach through the Ellender pontoon bridge. Very few made it before the tidal waves made escape impossible. By daylight Thursday, the rapidly rising waters were already 20 to 30 feet high, homes were lost, over 500 lives were lost through drowning, and a few fortunate survivors were able to tell horrifying stories to those who could take the time to listen.

Your John Chancelor could have found out the real story if he had tried hard enough -- if he really was a "world class journalist", he would have found that the real reasons the Cameron citizens did not leave Wednesday night was they did not have enough detailed or adequate warnings of the immediate dangers of rising water and winds. They honestly believed that they had enough time to evacuate Thursday at daybreak. They were never told that there was immediate danger only five hours away.

The local media, weather bureau, civil defense and law enforcement officials today are very sophisticated in their charting of tropical storms, but in 1957 things were different. First of all, the hurricane hunter planes were being repaired, a local radar facility was inoperative, and Hurricane Audrey took an unexpected surge forward, undercover of darkness. Yes, Audrey caught everyone by surprise, 550 plus lives were lost. That is history.

Not one life was lost during any storm since Audrey, and everyone heeded the suggestions that we evacuate for Hurricane Andrew. Did we all of a sudden get "undumb", unstubborn or unproud"? Or are we now getting adequate warning on these tropical systems?

Since no one at NBC News has taken the trouble to return our calls or letters, since no one has extended an apology to the citizens of Cameron parish, the good people of Cameron Parish are going to do what they do best. They are going to work hard, and play harder! They are going to go about their business... trying to earn a living in a severly depressed economy... to produce food, oil and gas and other products for the rest of Louisiana and the good old USA.

We are sending money, food and clothing to victims of Hurricane Andrew (nine collection points are doing so right now).

Instead of an apology, why don't you send a sizeable contribution to help the victims of Hurricane Andrew in Louisiana and Florida? And if you really feel benevolent, send a contribution to the Cameron Parish Police Jury or Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce to be used for the betterment of the citizens of Cameron Parish in the name of NBC News.

/s/ Rodney J. Guilbeaux,
President

Geneva says her piece

Dear Editor:

I have sent the following letter to the president of NBC News in New York concerning the remark made by John Chancelor on NBC Nightly News wherein he called the people of Cameron Parish "stupid" for not evacuating the parish before Hurricane Audrey in 1957.

Anyone incensed by the remark should write a letter to NBC and let them know that we are intelligent and not stupid people.

/s/ Geneva Griffith

President NBC News
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, New York 10020
Dear Sir:

I want to register a complaint against John Chancelor, in an editorial comment he made in his Tuesday evening news coverage on Hurricane Andrew, when he stated that the people of Cameron parish were "stupid" for failing to evacuate for Hurricane Audrey.

I was shocked, as were all citizens of our tiny parish, that a man of his "supposed" intelligence would make a statement like this.

First of all, as a journalist the first rule of reporting is to get your facts straight, which Chancelor evidently has not learned over the years.

He did not take into consideration the primitive methods of news reporting in 1957. In fact, it was because of the massive loss of life and property in that dreadful storm that the weather bureau changed many of its ways of reporting on hurricanes, and the tracking methods.

It was at that time local people organized a Civil Defense that continues to this day, so they can be responsible for themselves.

I am enclosing a story of my personal experiences in Hurricane Audrey that ran as a series in the Lake Charles American Pres. It took me 30 years to be able to write it because it was such a heart-wrenching experience.

I have always had the greatest respect for Chancelor, but only an apology from him to the Cameron Parish people will make me ever respect him again.

/s/ Geneva E. Griffith

Jep Turner gives opinions

Mr. John Chancelor
NBC Network
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Dear Mr. Chancelor:

In your commentary on the Evening News, Aug. 25, 1992, regarding Hurricane Audrey, which devastated Cameron, Louisiana, June 27, 1957, I would like to commend you on your description of what can only be called a tragedy of epic proportions.

Your closing comment citing the reasons for the failure of many residents to evacuate disturbs me deeply. There were many factors that contributed to this tragedy and many reasons why the people of Cameron refused to leave their homes.

One reason was that in the living memory of a majority of the Cameron Parish residents, no storm had ever devastated their community as did Audrey. Another reason was the reluctance of a people to leave their homes, belongings, pets and livestock to an uncertain fate. There was one other factor, the most important one, that you failed to take into consideration.

If you had bothered to check the records of that tragic event, which resulted in a lawsuit and a subsequent change in the rules of network weather reporting, you would not have been so eager to trash the memory of those who died by calling them "dumb". Since I was one of those so called "dumb" people, I would like to set the record straight and in the loving memory of the more than 500 victims, put the blame were it belongs.

On the night of June 26, 1957, the National Weather Bureau was recommending, not ordering, that the residents of lower Cameron Parish, seek higher ground. Hundreds of families packed their vehicles in preparation to evacuate, waiting only for the NBC affiliate, Channel 7, 10 p.m. News, to give them the latest news on Hurricane Audrey.

At precisely 10 p.m., the NBC affiliate weather man came on the air, and using his own analysis of the situation, told these "dumb" people, quote, "There is no need to leave your homes tonight," unquote.

Two hours later their options were gone and they were trapped. I have to agree with you, Mr. Chancelor, that these people were indeed "dumb", but not for the reasons cited by you. They were dumb for listening to the NBC affiliate, Channel 7, and placing theirs and their families fate in the hands of your own network.

If you, Mr. Chancelor, were really interested in the truth, all you had to do was check the records, which are available to any interested party, and discover that because of the subsequent furor over the erroneous weather report issued by the NBC affiliate, far-reaching laws were enacted to prevent the fourth estate from contributing to the loss of life from future storms by requiring that affiliate weather people adhere to the text of future National Weather Bureau forecats.

Mr. John, as the people of Cameron would address you, a simple apology would go a long way toward healing the wound caused by your "dumb" remark.

Judge takes issue also

NBC News John Chancelor
30 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020

You were wrong to characterize as "dumb" the Cameron residents who, 35 years ago, perished in Hurricane Audrey because they did not evacuate in time. They died because they relied on a mistaken prediction of the National Weather Service.

They were not dumb. Had you stayed around after you waded ashore long enough to get the facts, you would have known this. The people of Cameron have always been a unique blend of the best that our species has to offer, including intelligence. Your comment Tuesday was disrespectful to the memory of their dead. You own their survivors an apology.

/s/ Judge Henry Yelverson

AT SEPTEMBER MEETING

Jurors act to reduce parish expenditures

By JERRY WISE

The Cameron Parish Police Jurors bit the bullet Tuesday and took the first concrete steps toward reducing expenditures in the light of nearly a half million dollars in reduced revenues.

It wasn't easy--the jurors have been arguing over possible cuts for the past month, including a nearly six-hour budget meeting last week.

At Tuesday's regular monthly meeting after several hours of discussion, the jurors finally agreed on the following cuts:

LIMESTONE--Limestone purchases will be reduced 50 percent. With the exception of leases on either side of the Calcasieu River and at Klondike, storage site contracts were cancelled. The road superintendent, not the jurors, will decide where limestone will be spread on parish roads.

GARBAGE DUMPS--Parish garbage dumps will be open only 16 hours a week so as to cut attendants' hours.

HIRING FREEZE--Upon the retirement of any parish employee, no new employee will be hired. Any parish district will have to get jury approval for hiring of new employees.

STREET LIGHTS--Street lights throughout the parish will be reduced 50 percent.

PORTABLE TOILETS--Portable toilets on beaches and other public locations will be reduced 50 percent.

OVERTIME--Overtime for employees will be permitted only in emergency situations.

Prior to the jurors taking the above actions, Juror Brent Nunez had made a motion to table action on the cuts until the October meeting, but he was voted down.

OTHER BUSINESS taken up by the jurors included the following:

*A resolution was adopted honoring the memory of Albert Colligan who died on Aug. 7. Mr. Colligan had served on the Waterworks and Sewer District #1 board.

*Two Cameron parish youth softball teams which recently won national championships were honored by the jury and presented certificates of achievement.

Friday, Sept. 11 was declared South Cameron Tarpon Day in honor of the 16 and under team which won the national championship in Tifton, Ga.

Monday, Sept. 14 was declared Cameron Tigers Day in honor of the 12 and under team which won the national championship in Fort Paine, Ala.

*It was announced that the first meeting of the E-911 emergency telephone system will be held at 4 p.m., Sept. 16. All interested persons are invited to attend.

*A meeting to plan the new ambulance district in the Johnson Bayou, Holly Beach, Hackberry and Grand Lake areas will be held soon with South Cameron hospital officials.

*The 1991 audit of the jury was approved and Vernon R. Coon, CPA was designated to do the 1992 audit.

Chancellor asked for an apology

NBC Commentator John Chancellor was given an invitation by the Cameron Parish Police jurors to attend their October meeting to give him an opportunity to offer the citizens of Cameron parish his personal apology for calling them "stupid" on television on Aug. 25.

Chancellor, in connection with Hurricane Andrew hitting Louisiana, had said that people in Cameron parish had been too "proud or stupid" to evacuate for Hurricane Audrey in 1957 when over 500 people died here.

Both Jurors Ray Conner and George LeBouef noted that Cameron residents had not evacuated in time due to misinformation given them by the weather bureau and the television media.

Conner also praised South Cameron hospital officials for their efforts in evacuating patients during the hurricane threat and praised the Moss Regional Hospital for providing beds for them.

He also praised the efforts of the Cameron Parish Civil Defense Agency.

Pete Picou, Civil Defense director, praised the citizens of Cameron Parish for heeding the warnings and evacuating the parish.

CAMERON PARISH'S two new 4-H agents were introduced to the Cameron Parish Police Jury Tuesday. They are Mike Lavergne and Shannon Suire.

Proposals told

State Rep. Randy Roach has submitted proposals to the Louisiana Constitutional Convention that would set up a tax-free health-care savings program, encourage public-housing tenants to acquire ownership interest in their homes, require able-bodied persons receiving public assistance to do community work, review the fairness of state taxes and fees every 10 years and exempt mobile homes used as residences from sales taxes.

Proposal number 114 would establish a tax-free personal health-care savings program similar to an Individual Retirement Account. Money deposited in the account, as well as any ineterest earned, would not be subject to the state income tax. Savings could be withdrawn to pay personal medical expenses. Individuals could reduce their annual health-insurance costs by using money from the savings account to pay a higher deductible rate under their medical-insurance policy.

Proposal number 115 would launch a state program to encourage tenants who live in public housing to acquire ownership interest in their homes.

Proposal number 116 requires able-bodied persons who receive financial assistance to take partin a work program. The state adopted a "workfare" program in 1989. Workfare began in Calcasieu Parish in April 1990. The program includes job training, child care and job placement.

Proposal number 117 establishes a 10-year life on revenues and fees collected by the state. "Every ten years the Legislature and the Governor should review these sources of revenue to make sure that individual taxpayers and businesses are not paying more than their fair share of the tax burden," Roach said.

Proposal number 160 exempts mobile homes used as personal residences from sales taxes. According to Roach, no other homes are subject to state sales taxes.

Snapper quota to be set soon

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council at its September 14-17, meeting in the New Orleans area will set the commercial quota and recreational bag limit for red snapper for 1993. The Council will also consider for final approval proposed rules in an amendment to the plan regulating shrimping in federal waters.

Included in this amendment are proposed rules that would require a vessel permit, may require an on-board scientific observer, define overfishing for white shrimp, and modify procedures for the Texas and Tortugas shrimp closures. Public testimony is scheduled before the Council on these issues beginning at 8:30 a.m. Wed., Sept. 16. Persons who will testify must turn in their registration cards before the start of public testimony.

The meeting will be held at the New Orleans Airport Hilton and Conference Center, 901 Airline Highway, Kenner.

Jaycees set tournament

The Cameron Jaycees will hold a volleyball tournament Sat., Sept. 26, on Rutherford Beach in Cameron Parish. The first match will begin at 9 a.m. and they will continue throughout the day.

This is a double elimination tournament for coed teams only (at least two women per team are required). Registration is $30 per team until Sept. 21, and $40 per team after Sept. 11. Prizes will be awarded.

Prizes have been donated by the Cameron Telephone Company and all proceeds will go to St. Jude Children's Hospital.

Concessions will be available. Spectators are asked to bring lawn chairs. In the event of rain, the tournament will be moved to the Cameron Recreation Complex.

For more information, contact Debet Guillory at 775-7484.

New 4-H agents are named for Cameron

Mike Lavergne was introduced as a new 4-H agent for Cameron parish at the Tuesday meeting of the Cameron Parish Police Jury.

Lavergne was raised in Regley and he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Taylor of Sweetlake.

County Agent Gary Wicke said that the Cameron parish LSU Extension Service staff is now completed. Shannon Suire was recently hired as the other 4-H agent.

It was announced that there are 459 students now enrolled in the parish 4-H program.

Jodie Burgin, Cameron Elementary 4-Her, gave the jurors a report on summer 4-H camp.

You may contact Donna LaBove, 775-7211 or Dinah Nunez, 775-5668 if you wish to help or contribute toward the bingo.

Beachsweep is 19th

Now is the time to volunteer for this year's Great Louisiana Beachsweep and Inland Waterway Cleanup to be held Sept. 19.

Individuals, groups or companies in this area who want to volunteer should contact Ed Kelly, Cameron Zone coordinator, 775-5493.

Kelly is one of seven zone coordinators in south Louisiana who will tell volunteers where to check in to be counted and pick up provided trash bags and data cards.

Volunteers will be asked to record certain information to establish data for a national study. Previous data card information has shown about 70 percent of trash on Louisiana beaches is plastic. For that reason, recyclable plastic and aluminum will be separated from other beach debris.

All volunteers are advised to come prepared with gloves, sturdy shoes, sun lotion and a hat; to watch for snakes hidden under debris; to get help to lift heavy objects; and to stay out of dune areas, which are ecologically fragile and can be damaged even by walking traffic.

Appointments

Several appointments were made by the Cameron Parish Police Jury at the September meeting Tuesday.

The resignations of David Hinton and Jennings Clark were accepted and Madeline Solena and Bob Hessin were named in their places.

Cliff Cabell was reappointed to the Hackberry Recreation District board.

Russell Badon and George Hicks were named to the parish communications district.

Abandonments

At the request of Rosa T. Mhire a road at Grand Chenier was abandoned by the Cameron Parish Police Jury Tuesday after it received no objections to the abandonment.

The jurors also gave notice of right of way abandoments for Christine Bertrand and Francis Richard in East Creole, Carroll Domingue at Johnson Bayou and Parish Road 129 at Lowery. The roads will be abandoned next month if there are no objections.

Holiday asked

A proposed Martin Luther King Day was on the Cameron Parish Police Jury's agenda but discussion was postponed until a later date as Louise Cole, who had asked for the agenda item, was unable to attend.

Juror Brent Nunez said he did not object to a parish holiday on King's birthday but suggested that some other parish holiday be eliminated to make room for it.

Gator festival

The 7th annual Alligator Harvest Festival will be held at the Grand Chenier state park on Sunday, Sept. 27 beginning at 10 a.m.

Sponsored by the Catholic Community Association of Grand Chenier, the festival will include Cajun food, barbecue, alligator dishes, childrens games, cake walk, alligator display, boat races, raffle, auction, volleyball tournament, etc.

Bids opened

Action was taken on several bids by the Cameron Parish Police Jury Tuesday.

Casco was the successful bidder with a bid of $11,549 on fire equipment for the Grand Lake area.

Fountain Auto Sales was the only bidder on three used pickup trucks, for $500, $660 and $785, and was awarded the bids.

No bids were received on a motor grader and will be sold at an auction.

Dyson Lumber Co. was low bidder, $7,795 on repairs to the Grand Chenier recreation building but the matter was tabled due to a lack of funds.

Hunter course set at H'berry

A hunter education course will be offered to the public free of charge Sept. 17, 18 and 19 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Hackberry recreation center.

The course will be taught by the La. Dept. of Wildlife & Fisheries.

To pre-register call Dwayne Sonnier at 762-3878 oir 7621-3535 and give the name and phone number of each person attending. Children must be 20 years old to be certified and will need to complete such a course before they can secure a hunting license.

SEVEN ACRE RESULTS

Largest Bass: Teddy Gordon, 4-9; Mike Lejune, 2-7; Larry Guilbeaux, 2-6.

Largest Stringer: Teddy Gordon (5), 13-0; Mike Lejune (5), 10-11; Larry Guilbeaux (3), 4-5; James Trahan, (2), 3-15.

I fished with my son, Rudy, and I had five bass and he had four, but not the 12 inches needed to make the weigh-in. Weldon Authement had the same luck as we did.

STORM DAMAGE

Some say we shouldn't see any effect on our fishing for saltwater or freshwater because of Hurricane Andrew - I think differently.

What has happened is with all the debris, it has caused a low oxygen level in the water. I talked with a couple of friends around the basin area and they say it's a smelly stench. There are millions of dead fish all around. One report of 20 miles long and five miles wide where there are nothing but dead fish. Some of the species on the saltwater areas are: redfish, speckle trout, black drum, croaker, mullet, catfish, menhaden and even marlin.

Freshwater areas, some of these that I have fished are the Atchafalaya Basin, Lake Verret, Bayou Lefourche and quite a few more lakes in that area.

Branches, leaves, storm debris has caused this oxygen loss and then the decaying of all these dead fish will again cut off more oxygen. This is my reason why I think the effects will be felt. There were thousands of bass, bream, perch, catfish and other species of freshwater fish killed.

HUNTING TALK

*Dove season opened this weekend and down here there was some fair hunting, but our second split in October is always better. Hay is being cut now and nobody has started planting rye grass. Up to the north of us, in the Sweetlake, Bell City and Thornwell areas, there are thousands of doves and those hunters had a heck of a day.

*Teal season will begin Sept. 19. Lacassine Refuge will open for teal hunting south of the Intracoastal Waterway. Hunting will be permitted until noon each day, Wednesday through Sunday only. No hunting on Monday and Tuesday. All hunters will need a refuge permit. You may contact the refuge at 774-5923 for the rules and regulations.

I really haven't seen but a few teal down. Maybe some cold weather will happen up north and they'll come down.

TALK AROUND

*Waterfowl hunters in the Atlantic Flyway states that prohibit Sunday waterfowl hunting may get two or three additional hunting days in the future. This is due to the days lost from not hunting on Sundays.

*It is said that deer hunters pay from $1 to $25 per acre for deer leases.

*Our neighbors in Texas had a great deer harvest last year. We have many of our local hunters who hunt the Texas state. In the 1991-92 white-tailed season, their harvest was 474,047 deer. There is an estimated figure of 586,384 people who hunted white-tail in Texas last year. (253,630 bucks and 220,417 does).

*This fall hunters in three states, Missouri, California and South Dakota, will be required to purchase a $2 migratory bird harvest card. This is part of a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service program to provide information on the harvest of waterfowl, woodcock, rail, snipe, and coots. By the year 1998, the program is expected to be in place nationwide. I guess we'll just have to cough up a few more dollars if we want to hunt.

*Canadian Geese, ring necks to us, have a population explosion in many parts of the U.S. It's really serious in the state of Pennsylvania. It's gotten so bad the geese are on golf course grasses, farm crops are being destroyed and ponds and reservoirs are being polluted.

Landowners who once would not have dreamed of letting a stranger hunt their property, are now opening their land to hunts of waterfowl. The state has put on additional hunting days that could extend the hunting season in Feb., 1993.

FEEDING PERIODS

Dear John:

(Copy of letter to NBC News, New York).

Dear Sirs:

I want to register a complaint to the NBC News against John Chancelor, who made a terrible remark on Aug. 25, Evening News, about Cameron people being stupid for not leaving during Hurricane Audrey. Does he not remember the people were misled? How could a man of his intelligence make such a remark?

He should apologize for the hurt he has dealt the Cameron Parish people and the ones who lost their loved ones and grief for ones left behind.

I live in Hackerry, 30 miles northwest of Cameron. We had high winds and rain and if the wind had not shifted we too could have felt a loss.

Open up your heart, Mr. Chancelor, undo the wrong you have done. I used to listen to you but not anymore.

Parish's worst storm recalled

Hurricane Andrew has dominated local and national news for the past several weeks. Although this monster of the deep barely brushed Cameron Parish, parish residents were reminded only too well the devastation wrought by Audrey 35 years ago. And their hearts go out to their stricken neighbors.

It is a blessing that Andrew did not claim the number of lives that Audrey did. Several factors contributed to the difference. Andrew was not accompanied by the wall of water ushered in by Audrey. Weather science has improved dramatically in the past quarter of a century. The media -- television and radio -- provided adequate warnings of impeding danger. And each passing hurricane has made people more aware of potential danger.

Here in Milton, some eight miles south of Lafayette, the winds were said to have reached 100 m.p.h. In our yard two trees were uprooted and several smaller ones snapped off. A few shingles were torn from the house roof. The windows had been boarded up or taped over. We were without electricty for 48 hours. But my daughter, son-in-law, and I and the four dogs and 13 cats came through unharmed.

We were prepared with edibles that did not require cooking, with every available utensil filled with water, with packaged snacks. We had no right to complain over items we lacked: cool air, plenty of light, ice, coffee, refreshing baths, television.

Records show that the worst storms that have struck Cameron Parish were the one of 1825 that drowned the Philips, only white family living on Grand Chenier and perhaps the only one in all of the southern part of the present parish; the one of 1886 that destroyed Johnson Bayou and damaged the coastal area; those of 1915 and 1918; and killer Audrey.

Yes, there were others sandwiched between and since but they could not compare with those listed above.

The tornadoes that spawn from hurricanes are often more destructive than the original.

We are told that every force in nature serves a definite purpose.

Yet, it is hard to understand why good results are dependent upon ravaging forces.

Peripheral Vascular Disease...

It may not be as serious as it sounds; and surgery may not be necessary.

Peripheral Vascular Disease (blockage of blood vessels in the legs) is very common in Southwest Louisiana, but it may not be as serious as it sounds. Appropriate diagnosis may be as simple as obtaining a peripheral vascular study "echo" with vascular ultrasound. This diagnosis can be established as an outpatient through the Peripheral Vascular Lab, a branch of the "Outpatient Cardiology Services" at St. Patrick Hospital.

The best treatment:

- ★ Proper diet
- ★ Regular exercise program established by an exercise physiologist
- ★ Smoking cessation
- ★ Physician referral for medical management of elevated cholesterols if needed

For those few people who do need more involved care, the resources of the "Regional Heart Center" are available.

Remember, early diagnosis and treatment are important and can be done with convenience as an outpatient.

1915 hurricane recalled

LAKESIDE LACONICS

The sorghum planted at Lakeside this season was a fine success as a crop but lack of milling facilities compels it to be used as forage. It would undoubtedly yield a quantity of fine syrup. The canes are heavy and juicy and it is sure an improvement on the regular cane which is a failure here on account of the borers. Sweet potatoes will probably be all right.

Reports from Grand Chenier are to the effect that among the wreckage were found plush cushions and doors with brass knobs; considerable wreckage was found along the beach west of Calcasieu pass, including parts of a couple of lifeboats and oak and mahogany fittings from the interior of a ship's cabin. (A hurricane roared through the Cameron area in August, 1915).

A motor launch named "Good Friday" also was cast up on the beach the other day. It is apparently in good condition, and is supposed to have been torn loose during the storm, and driven over from the vicinity of Morgan City.

Well, this part of Cameron Parish had no serious trouble from the storm.

On the coast the experience was terrible. Houses blown to pieces, stock drowned and crops destroyed. No rice is down here. Some was shattered but as the rainfall was not heavy it probably saved the rice.

It is reported that John Rupert will be the new manager for Lowry and that Miss Maud will be the postmistress.

Theo Vincent is afflicted with the money hunting craze and some of the natives are completely daffy on the buried treasure schemes.

CANDIDATES QUALIFY FOR ELECTION

The Cameron Clerk of Court's office was buzzing with activity this week as candidates flocked in to qualify for the half dozen or so offices which will be filled in the Dec. 5 primary election.

The state representative's election turned into a race Wednesday when Conway LeBleu, Ward 3 police juror for the past four years, filed in opposition to the incumbent, Alvin Dyson, who had filed earlier.

In the other big race of parish-wide interest, two already announced candidates filed this week: Incumbent O. B. Carter, now serving his third term, and Claude Eagleson, Sweetlake rice farmer and the son of a former Cameron parish sheriff.

Leslie Richard, assessor and J. Berton Daigle, Clerk of Court, filed for re-election in the other two parish elections, and so far have no opposition.

The police juror races are also beginning to get hot and furious. In Ward 3, two men have filed for the jury spot which is being vacated by Conway LeBleu. They are Arceneaux LaBove of Creole, a former jury member, and Roland J. (Bolo) Trosclair, Cameron shrimp canner.

For the Ward 1 jury seat, Horace Mhire of Grand Chenier, the incumbent, is opposed by Daniel Broussard, Klondike rice farmer.

And in Ward 6, three men are vying for the juror's post which is being vacated by Bernard Duhon, who is retiring. They are Ovia J. Duhon, carpenter; Charles A. Riggs, a merchant, and John A. Lowery, all of Hackberry.

The other incumbent members of the police jury have filed for re-election and so far have no opposition. They are Eraste Hebert, Ward 4; Vian Theriot, Ward 2 and Archie Berwick, Ward 5.

In the Justice of the Peace races, Asa Roux, incumbent, and Clayton Nunez, have filed in Ward 3 and Ralph R. Adams has filed in Ward 6.

Two present constables are up for re-election: Elias Thibodeaux in Ward 6 and J. B. Constance in Ward 5.

John H. Meaux has filed for state central Democratic committeeman, a post presently held by Peter Henry.

THE LOWER CAMERON HOSPITAL
(By Jerry Wise)

What would the proposed lower Cameron hospital cost the average family in the district?

That is the question which every taxpayer is probably asking as he ponders whether to support the hospital bond issue or not. The answer may surprise some people, who may have been thinking it would cost them $50 or $100 a year.

The truth is: the hospital will not cost the average taxpayer over $12 a year. And for many folks, it will be even smaller. Here's how to figure it:

Property owners in the district are being asked to approve a $350,000 bond issue to provide funds for the hospital construction (which will also be aided by a $50,000 fund raised by the American Legion.) With the present assessment in the district, three mills or less will pay off these bonds.

In addition, the taxpayers are asked to also vote a 3-mill maintenance tax to keep up the hospital.

This makes a total of 6 mills a year. The average taxpayer is assessed for $2,000 or less in the parish. At this rate, the annual cost to any one family would be $12 or less.

Any way you look at it, $12 a year is a mighty cheap rate to pay for a hospital. A family will pay far more than that in gasoline, and other expenses if just one member is hospitalized during the year in Lake Charles. And $12 a year is cheap insurance, when you consider that a hospital here might save the life of a loved one.

Lower Cameron needs a hospital. Will you support it?

JOHNSON BAYOU SCHOOL

Johnson Bayou school opened Monday after having been delayed a week because of work on the new school building. The gymnasium and cafeteria are still not completed, and the students carried lunches this week.

Chester Krumm, new principal, reported an enrollment of approximately 111 students---86 in the elementary grades and 25 in high school.

NIGHT CLASSES TO RESUME

The night classes for adults which were being held at South Cameron High School prior to Hurricane Audrey, will be resumed this fall if enough persons in this area are interested. So reports Delmus Hebert, business teacher at the school.

AROUND THE PARISH

A big water spout was sighted over Big Lake Wednesday morning of last week. There was much excitement and a number of residents jumped in their cars and left.

At Sweetlake--The week finds Carradine Cox, Clyde LaDeoux, Eraste Hebert and Charlies LeBleu busy combining rice. The Heberts and Prechts have finished cutting their early rice, but are busy walking and repairing levees in their younger rice.

From Johnson Bayou--Sixty-one persons attended a skating party Monday night at the Pleasure Pier rink in Port Arthur. It was sponsored by the Baptist Church.

White gators protected

The state was rocked several years ago by the discovery of the only white alligators in the world. While collecting eggs in the marsh during the peak of alligator egg laying season, an alligator farmer happened upon what had only been a rumor prior to that day. He found a nest of alligtor hatchlings that were all white, every one of them.

Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries refuge biologists indicated that, contrary to popular opinion, the alligators were not true albinos. They were white alligators, never before documented in Louisiana.

At the most recent session of the Louisiana Legislature, a bill was introduced to prohibit anyone from taking white alligators from the wild. The bill passed. It is officially the policy of the state to protect this extremely rare alligator by strictly prohibiting its harvest.

The new law applies to both white and albino alligators. Licensed alligator ranch operators and others may, in certain instances, be issued permits by the department which authorizes them to keep white or albino alligator hatchlings.

The disposition of such alligators which have been reported to the department will be set according to established rules and regualtions. If the state deems it necessary to take such alligators from the rancher, the state will reimburse the individual financially.

Any person who unintentionally takes a white or albino alligator from the wild by hook and line or any other means is required to report it to the department immediately whether the reptile is alive or dead.

Alligator hunting season will open Sept. 10. The department is providing alligator hunters notice of the new regulation at the time that they purchase their hunting license.

Violators of the new white alligator law are subject to a fine of not less than $10,000 and imprisonment of not less than six months, or more than twelve months. Subsequent violations carry a fine of not less than $10,000 and a prison sentence of not less than two years.

Teal hunting set on refuge

The portion of Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge south of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway will be open to teal hunting during the Sept. 19-27 season. Hunting will be permitted until noon each day, Wednesday through Sunday only. No hunting on Monday and Tuesday.

All refuge hunters are required to possess a refuge hunting permit. The 1992-93 refuge hunting and fishing brochure serves as the required permit when it has been signed and dated. The permit must be in the hunter's possession while hunting on the refuge.

Hunters may not enter the hunting area earlier than 4 a.m. and may not hunt or possess firearms later than noon. Legal shooting hours are from 1/2 hour before sunrise until noon on the refuge.

Prior to and during the hunting season, hunters may scout the area from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset. However, no firearms are permitted in the area except during the refuge hunting hours. Firearms carried in boats must be unloaded and encased or dismantled.

Only portable blinds are allowed and cutting vegetation is prohibited on the refuge. A blind left overnight may be used by any hunter on a first-come, first-served basis each day. Decoys may not be left set to attract waterfowl during non-hunting hours. All boats, blinds and decoys must be removed from the refuge by the last day of the teal season. Hunters are reminded that steel shot shells must be used and only blue-winged, green-winged and cinnamon teal may be taken during this season.

The refuge brochure details the additional hunting regulations for the refuge. The brochure also includes a waterfowl hunting survey card to be cut out of the brochure and returned to the refuge to provide information on hunter use and harvest.

The permit and brochure are free and can be obtained at the refuge headquarters located off Highway 3056, 11 miles southwest of Lake Arthur. Individuals may also obtain copies through the mail by writing to: Refuge Manager, Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge, HCR 763, Box 186, Lake Arthir, La. 70549 or telephoning 318/774-5923.

1890's very different

Life in the 1990's is a far cry from that in the 1890's in almost every way. We have data on 1890 that we would like to present to you.

Francis T. Nichols was governor of Louisiana. The State Senate passed a bill to close gambling and making it a misdemeanor to lease, give, or sell to a minor any instrument that might be used as a concealed weapon.

Opelousas was protesting the proposal to create the parish of Evangeline; and, Vermilion was in the process of building a new courthouse.

Benjamin Harrison was president of the United States. Gas lights and a mechanical system of wires and pulleys to summon the servants were still in use in the White House.

It was the time when women laced in their waists to achieve the "hour glass" figure. And the tight-fitting, deeply pointed bodices, the bustles, trains and draperies were about to give way to the freer styles inspired by Charles Dana Gibson's newly created "Gibson Girl".

It was the year that ushered in the "Gay Nineties" or as Mark Twain termed it, the "Gilded Age" because of the showy display of wealth in many parts of the United States.

For all of that, the average worker earned little more than $12 a week for 50 or 60 hours of hard work. Milk cost 6 cents a quart, round steak cost 12 cents a pound. Top buggies could be bought for as low as $55; road carts or a farmer's forge, $10; harnesses, $7.50 and up.

Dickens' complete works of twelve volumes were available for a dollar; Scott's Waverly novels in 20 volumes, $1.50. "The Lake Arthur Herald", a weekly paper, was just born.

The first rice irrigation pumping plant in Louisiana had been installed that year on Bayou Lacassine. Named the Virteba Pumping Plant, it was the work of Leon and Jacques Virteba. They were from Constantinople, try's population dwelt in cities. The other 65 percent lived on farms or in rural communities.

It was the year that Congress established the Territory of Oklahoma and added the Panhandle region. Idaho came in as a state on July 3 and Wyoming on July 10. Congress also established the Sherman Anti-trust Act that restricted interstate trade.

It was the year that James B. Duke founded the American Tobacco Company and that Sorosis, a New York Club, was instrumental in starting the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Tarpons beat DeQuincy in season opener here

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons scored on their first possession and went on to defeat DeQuincy 29-10 in the opening game of the season for both teams.

The Tarpons used a strong offensive line to amass 375 yards of offense.

This was the third time that the Tarpons have beat the Tigers in a year's time.

The DeQuincy Tigers took the opening kickoff and couldn't move the ball and were forced to punt.

The Tarpons took the punt at their own 45 and moved the 55 yards in six plays with Jobe Johnson scoring on a 10-yard run with 8:56 left in the opening quarter.

Following the kickoff the Tigers again were forced to punt and the Tarpons on this possession saw Chris McCall intercepted by the Tigers at their 40. DeQuincy couldn't move the ball and Julio Mejia again punted.

The Tarpons were then held and forced to punt themselves, South Cameron's punt only went out to the 40 yard line.

From the 40 DeQuincy moved down to the South Cameron 12 where they couldn't move the ball much closer and settled for a 27-yard field goal by Julio Mejia. The big play of the drive down to the 12 was a 37-yard run by Marcus LeBlanc.

Midway through the second quarter the Tarpons took over following a DeQuincy punt at the Tiger 47. The Tarpons moved 53 yards in 12 plays with the touchdown coming on a 15-yard run by James Bonsall. Travis Pradia, the kicker, took a high snap and ran into the end zone for two points to put the Tarpons up 15-3 and that's the way it stayed until half time.

The second half opened with South Cameron taking the kickoff and moving down to the Tiger 31 where DeQuincy held on downs.

The Tigers were then forced to punt and Mejia boomed a 52 yarder to pin the Tarpons on their own 12 yard line.

From the 12 the Tarpons moved to the end zone in only five plays with two 15-yard penalties on the Tigers giving them lots of help. Chris McCall scored on a 15-yard run.

The Tarpons fourth touchdown of the night came when they blocked a Tiger punt and took over at the Tiger 25. They moved into the end zone in four plays with the touchdown coming on a 8-yard run by James Bonsall.

The Tigers closed out the scoring as they drove 76 yards in eight plays. The biggest play of the drive was a fumbled punt by South Cameron, which was recovered by DeQuincy at the Tarpon 40 yard line. The Tigers moved into the end zone in four plays from the 25 with Michael Guillory scoring from the 5, Mejia then converted the extra point to make the score 29-10.

The Tarpons Chris McCall hit 7 of 12 passes for 113 yards and their top ground gainers were James Bonsall with 72 yards and Darrell Frank with 39 yards.

The Tigers only completed 4 of 13 passes for 33 yards. The top rusher for the Tigers were Marcus LeBlanc with 109 yards and Anthony Scott with 39.

The DeQuincy Tigers travel to Crowley to face Notre Dame in a Thursday night game, while the South Cameron Tarpons will entertain Opelousas Catholic on Friday. Both games kick off at 7 p.m.

Dept. to set trapping season

The Fur and Refuge Division of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries recommended dates for the furbearer trapping season for 1992-93 at the department's regular monthly meeting on Sept. 3, 1992.

Resource managers have determined that, based on biological data, the populations of furbearing animals in the state are at or above carrying capacity. They recommended the following season structure which was ratified by the Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

Trapping in Louisiana is divided into two zones, the North Zone and the South Zone. The boundary line between the two zones is Interstate Highway 10 from the Texas state line to Baton Rouge, Interstate Highway 12 from Baton Rouge to Slidell, and Interstate Highway 10 from Slidell to the Mississippi state line.

The following seasons pertain to all furbearers:

North Zone, Nov. 20, 1992 -- Feb. 15, 1993.

South Zone, Dec. 1, 1992 -- Feb. 28, 1993.

Statewide/experimental season: Soft catch/padded trap and non-locking snare only. Feb. 16, 1993 --March 15, 1993.

Note: According to federal regulations imposed by the CITES Scientific Authority, each bobcat and otter must have an export tag affixed prior to out-of-state shipment.

Tarpons to play Opelousas Catholic

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons, fresh off a season opening 29-10 victory over the DeQuncy Tigers, will once again play at home as they host Opelousas Catholic in a game scheduled to kick off at 7 p.m.

The Tarpons, who showed a very balanced offensive attack in their opener, passed for 113 yards and ran for over 250 yards in their opening game victory.

Opelousas Catholic lost their opening game to Menard by a score of 24-6. Menard has a very strong team as they are ranked Number 6 in Class AA by the Louisiana Sports Writers.

The Opelousas team doesn't have much depth with 7 or 8 players playing both ways but their coach, Johnny Buck, who coached at Kinder for three decades, won a state championship with a very limited team depth-wise.

The Tarpons hope to continue their passing and running games this week.

Quarterback Chris McCall showed last week that he can throw the ball well as he completed 7 of 12 passes even though his first pass was intercepted. The Tarpons had five different players catch the ball. Jobie Johnson and Leonard Harper each had two receptions while James Bonsall, Todd Conner and Darnell Frank each had one reception.

Running the ball was similar as the Tarpons used six ball carriers with James Bonsall leading the way with 72 yards and two touchdowns.

The Tarpons only weakness last week was in the punting game where they punted four times for an average of around 30 yards.

The Tarpons also were whistled for seven penalties which could be costly in a close game.

Defensively, the Tarpons limited the Tigers to only 184 yards and a lot of that came after the game was decided. They had a pass interception and a fumble recovery.

The game this Friday should be close unless the Tarpon depth wears the Opelousas team down.

The crystal ball says the Tarpons will win 27-13.

Game time is 7 p.m., South Cameron vs Opelousas Catholic, Tarpon Stadium. Let's get a good crowd out to watch the exciting fourth ranked Tarpons play.

HEARTBEAT

"Cardiac rehab" can't really rehabilitate hearts

By WILLIAM R. LADD, M.D.

Coronary artery disease – even if it causes a heart attack – doesn't leave patients impaired the way it once did, thanks in no small part to advances in cardiac rehabilitation. However, "cardiac rehab" is a somewhat misleading name, and there's a lesson in that for all of us.

A heart attack occurs when a blockage in one or more coronary arteries cuts off the blood supply to part of the heart. If an area of heart muscle is starved for oxygen too long, it turns into nonfunctioning scar tissue. There is nothing medical science can do to reverse that damage. Cardiac rehabilitation can only make the most of what remains.

A patient who is recovering from a heart attack, or who has undergone bypass surgery or angioplasty is placed on a carefully monitored exercise program to build up cardiovascular efficiency. In the initial stages of the rehab process, the patient is hooked to a heart monitor to assure that the heart isn't overstressed.

After about a month, the monitor is no longer required, but the exercise program advances slowly and carefully. It is accompanied by training in heart-healthy nutrition, stress reduction, smoking cessation and other behavior modification, enabling the patient to take over much of the management of his or her illness.

Many patients leave cardiac rehab feeling far better and in better health than they were before their heart attack or operation.

But even if their cardiovascular system is working at a high percentage of its potential, a part of that potential has been permanently lost, and anyone who has coronary artery disease has it for life.

Careful attention to what has been learned in cardiac rehab can greatly slow the formation of new blockages, but we can't yet stop the process entirely.

What frustrates those of us who watch patients gamely working their way back to health following a heart attack is knowing that the same effort would have produced even better results before it occurred, and might have delayed it for many years. An ounce of cardiac prevention is worth a pound of rehab!

NOTICE

The Cameron Parish Waterworks District #11 is currently in violation of the maximum contamination level of coliform bacteria as set forth in the State and Federal Primary Drinking Water Regulations. Action is being taken to eliminate the contamination.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that the presence of Fecal Coliform or E. Coli is a serious health concern. Fecal Coliform and E. Coli, ARE GENERALLY NOT HARMFUL THEMSELVES, but their presence in drinking water is serious because they usually are associated with sewage or animal wastes. The presence of these bacteria in drinking water is generally a result of a problem with water treatment of the pipes which distributes the water, and indicates that the water may be contamined with organisms that can cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possible jaundice, and associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with diseases caused by organisms in drinking water. EPA has set an enforceable drinking water standard for Fecal Coliforms and E. Coli to reduce the risk of the adverse health effects. Under this standard all drinking water samples must be free of these bacteria. Drinking water which meets this standard is associated with little or none of this risk and should be considered safe.

The Cameron Parish Waterworks District #11 was notified on August 27, 1992 that we were in non-compliance of sample taken on August 25, 1992 on the SWEET LAKE SYSTEM ONLY. Again the system was resampled on August 27, 1992 with the system being in compliance on September 2, 1992. We routinely take bacteria samples monthly as required by the Department of Health on dates set by the Department of Health and submit them for analysis.

In order to assure that our water is in compliance we will be sampling water weekly for the next six (6) weeks.

If there is any question please do not hesitate to contact the waterworks office at 598-3439 during business hours.

Commitment

... to the Customer
... to the Community

Calcasieu Marine National Bank will soon be what the industry calls a "billion dollar bank," meaning assets will total $1,000,000,000. As unusual as that is in communities such as ours in America, and as unusual as it is to become such a bank in today's economy and banking environment so shaken by failure, it is particularly unusual for a locally- and independently-owned bank.

The record is unusual. Steady, impressive growth during bad times. Strength and stability cited over and over again by independent bank-rating companies. Systemwide (four-parish) expansion of branches, state-of-the-art ATM systems, operational hours, and many other services. Asset growth of over $200,000,000 in just the past few years, as other financial institutions stumbled, then fell.

Success. Not only when it could not have been predicted, but when it was virtually impossible. The record of accomplishment was such that we needed to know its source, just as we needed to know why and how our weaknesses remained.

As a dedicated, now over two-year-old, effort in research, employee study, review by specialists, etc., has progressed, the discovered source of our success has, instead, referred us to our past; to the most basic lessons of our upbringing.

Commitment. Plain, simple, and just exactly as we were taught. Fast becoming, we fear, the forgotten key: forgotten perhaps in all businesses, forgotten perhaps in all aspects of our lives, but forgotten certainly in the recent history of banking.

We have found that the source of our success is, in simple truth, the same as all good and special things in our lives. Things such as solid, healthy families, good marriages, children who make us proud, faith which is the real strength to be found in every success, and stability of our communities when we see all too well the instability of others.

Every part of our work brings back that simple message: our success comes from a total and irrevocable commitment to our customer and to our community, and their commitment to us. And, equally certainly, our failures have come from forgetting this simple truth. Relationships with our customers have grown - deepened - for nearly 60 years. To the women and men at Calcasieu Marine, each one is special, and we are investing in them in many, many ways.

In coming weeks, we will tell you more about the Calcasieu Marine commitment to our customers and to our community. And, though we will tell that story with pride, we tell it mainly in hope of rekindling a spark of re-commitment in each of us, to all things in our lives deserving of it.

35¢ CAMERON LA. 70631

Sept. 17, 1992 — 36th Year--No. 15

Constitution Week observed by DAR

Dr. Carolyn Delatte, professor of history at McNeese State University, was the guest speaker at the Constitution Week luncheon held Saturday at the City Club by the Calcasieu Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Margaret Findley, chapter regent, was the mistress of ceremonies and Mrs. Annette Norman of Sweetlake, introduced the speaker.

Dr. Delatte reviewed the life of James Madison and the part he played in history of the United States and on our lives today.

He was born in Virginia, was a neighbor of George Washington, and as involved in politics since 1765, usually working behind the scenes.

He and Thomas Jefferson shaped the Virginia Constitution, which was later followed by the national constitution that was almost a carbon copy of the Virginia document.

Even though he opposed the U. S. Constitution, he was a delegate to the Federal convention in Philadelphia.

A large land and slave owner, he warned against the repercussions of slavery unless it was strangled but got nowhere with his warnings, which we have seen manifested later.

He recommended that there should be three presidents of the United States, one from each section of the country and each with a veto.

Three amendments to the Constitution were penned by Madison also.

Mr. Frazier writes song to Chancelor

By JERRY WISE

If NBC commentator John Chancelor doesn't deign to apologize to the citizens of Cameron Parish for calling them "stupid" for not evacuating for Hurricane Audrey, he shouldn't mind a new song that makes him seem a little foolish himself.

Entitled "Common-Tater John," the song which is set to a bluegrass melody, was written by Hershel Frazier who spares no mercy on Chancelor for his ignorance of the 1957 storm which took more than 500 lives in Cameron Parish. Frazier's lyrics proclaim:

"June Twenty Seven, Nineteen Fifty Seven.
Hurricane Audrey came ashore.
The Weather Bureau was a little slow
In predicting Audrey's course.
The tide rose before they could leave,
Thus hundreds of folks were trapped.
It was a horrible disaster
That wiped Cameron off the map."

Frazier's song points out what Chancelor apparently did not know--both the Weather Bureau and the TV media were predicting that the storm would not hit land until late in the afternoon on June 27 giving Cameron parish residents plenty of time to evacuate that morning. Instead the storm speeded up and came in that night flooding the roads and cutting off evacuation.

Frazier's lyrics continue:

"Now John we want you to know
We all heard what you said and
We don't appreciate you
Slandering our dead.
Your comments were uncalled for--
The cold facts are not fun . . .
If the word dumb applies,
John, you're the one that's dumb."

Frazier completes his song as follows:

"We think you all know
What we think of John
And we hope that N.B.C.
Puts John on the run.
From now on let him comment
On the moon, the stars and sun
But don't make the stupid mistake
Of calling Cajun people dumb."

Frazier who recorded his song, backed up by his bluegrass band which consists of Ellis Windham, Jay Bailey and himself, has already gotten some play on one Lake Charles radio station.

Allen Tumey of NBC affiliate KPLC-TV in Lake Charles also was scheduled to make a video of Frazier and his band playing the new song. Perhaps they will even send John Chancelor a copy of the video.

Beachsweep to be held Sept. 19 in Parish

Louisiana beaches will be swarming with thousands of volunteers who will be removing debris, cataloging data, and picnicking in the sun on Sat., Sept. 19.

The Great Louisiana Beachsweep is part of the "Take Pride Gulfwide" network of states bordering the Gulf of Mexico who will be conducting cleanups of their respective beaches on the same day.

Louisiana's program expanded two years ago into inland waterways with cleaning operations taking place on bayous, lakes and rivers.

Approximately 7,000 participants worked in the program in 1991 cleaning 132 miles of beaches and 366 miles of waterways.

Cleanup activities are heavily underwritten and manned by business and industry.

Mobil Oil Co. will supply plastic bags and sponsor headquarters activities, as well as Chevron, on various beaches.

Data will be collected and forwarded to the U.S. Center for Marine Conservation for compilation.

"Every year we find that this popular program grows in interest and participation", said Barbara Coltharp, State Beachsweep Coordinator.

The 1992 Beachsweep chairmen are Lt. Gov. Melinda Schwegmann and Hank Kelly, with Mobil Oil in New Orleans. To get involved he can be reached at 318-775-5493.

Mystery parachute sited here

Abbeville Meridional, September 18, 1915
LAKESIDE LACONICS

A bunch of buried treasure hunters left Lakeside a few days ago on a treasure hunting expedition. A combination of plow handles and mule as suggested in a previous article would have a tendency toward the acquisition of wealth more sure and rapid.

A little daughter of Numa Broussard of Lowery died last week from brain trouble. It is just a month since he buried a grown son.

Cameron Pilot, September 18, 1959
MYSTERY PARACHUTE

The mystery of a parachute which was seen to fall into the Gulf off Cameron Saturday morning remained unexplained here this week, as Air Force and civilian officials reported no planes or pilots missing.

Herman Reed, chief pilot for Gulf Menhaden Co. of Cameron, said he was flying over Broussard's Beach at about 7:30 a.m. Saturday, when he suddenly spotted out of the corner of his eye an orange parachute falling near the Cameron jetties.

By the time he had turned his twin engine Apache spotter plane around, the 'chute ws in the water being pulled along by a 25-mile wind. Reed said he could tell there was something attached to it, but could not make out whether it was a man or some inanimate object. When he last saw the'chute, it was drifting off to the southwest.

Reed called Chennault Air Force Base about the incident, and a helicopter was dispatched to make a search. The Cameron Coast Guard Station also sent out a search boat, but neither the 'copter or the boat found anything.

GRAND LAKE HIGH NEWS

The Grand Lake High School seniors have elected the following officers: Billy Wynn, president; Harold Granger, vice-president; and Gail Devall, reporter.

Three new class members were welcomed: Pat Fisher, Jolene Sandifer and Billy Johnson.

LIGHTNING STRIKE

Austin Abshire, Sr., pumper for Superior Oil Co., was stepping into a boat at the boatshed near Superior's landing at Lowery Wednesday afternoon of last week, when his metal lunchbox was struck by lightning.

Mr. Abshire was knocked down by the jolt, but his only injury was a torn ligament of his right knee.

PHOTO CAPTIONS

"MY TURN NEXT" cry these Cameron school children as they take turns peeking through Richard Kahlenberg's camera set up in front of the Cameron Parish Library. Kahlenberg is a member of the staff of Miss Caroline Ramsey, who has been in Cameron for several weeks making a movie on the state library demonstration here.

This looks like an ordinary tourist-type photograph of some kids posing at the state border, but this particular sign is causing considerable comment in Cameron Parish nowadays. It is located on the East end of the Sabine Causeway between Cameron and Texas, and apparently the Texas Highway Department considers all of the causeway, as well as Sabine Pass on the Texas side of the line. Actually, the boundary line between Louisiana and Texas has never been legally established.

Teal season to open on Sabine Refuge Sept. 19-27

The Sabine National Wildlife Refuge will open Sept 19-27, 1992 for the nine day teal season, Refuge Manager Nidecker announced The designated hunt area contains 24,000 acres and is the same area that has been hunted in past years. Hunting will be permitted until noon each day of the teal season.

Hunters may enter the West Cove parking area to line up their boats for launching at 4:30 a.m. All hunters will be permitted to enter the refuge two hours before legal shooting hours. Legal shooting time is one half hour before sunrise. Hunters should plan their hunt so they are finished hunting and be out of the refuge by noon, Nidecker continued.

Steel shot shells are required for hunting and steel shot reloads may be used. There is no minimum age for youth hunters but they must have completed their hunter safety course and have proof with them in order to enter the refuge hunt area. Each hunter under the age of 16 must be under the close supervision of an adult (21 years or older). For safety reasons, each adult may have only one juvenile under his supervision. All adults entering the hunt area must be legally licensed to hunt waterfowl.

The use of motors to run in the marsh is prohibited, Nidecker noted. Motorized boats can be used only in canals and bayous; access into the open marsh and ponds is limited to walking or push-poling a boat. All hunters are required to check in at the check station before hunting and check out upon completion of their hunt.

The boat bay at Grand Bayou on the East Cove Unit of the refuge will be closed during the teal season, and no access will be allowed during that time.

Additional information, copies of regulations or maps of the hunt area may be obtained by writing to: Sabine National Wildlife Refuge, Hwy 27 South 3000 Main Street, Hackberry, Louisiana 70645 or by calling telephone number (318)762-3816.

TARPONS ON THE ROAD

Tarpons to play Vermilion Catholic Friday night

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons hit the road for the first time this year as they travel to play Vermilion Catholic in a game scheduled to kick off at 7 p.m.

Both teams bring perfect worksheets into the game as the visiting Tarpons have beaten DeQuincy 29-10 and Opelousas Catholic 52-8.

Vermilion Catholic opened the year with a 21-0 win over Notre Dame and last week they were 20-6 victors over Erath.

Both teams have state rankings on the line as Vermilion Catholic is Number 5 in Class A and South Cameron is Number 4 in Class AA.

Vermilion Catholic returns eight offensive players from last year and they are big and strong and primarily run the football playing a ball control type of offense.

The Tarpons also play ball control but they score on long runs and Chris McCall also has proved he can hurt you with the pass.

The Tarpons run a stable of backs with four different runners scoring touchdowns on the ground last week, James Bonsall, Travis Pradia, Chris McCall and Aaron LaSalle. McCall also threw two touchdown passes to Todd Conner last week.

The Tarpons only weakness, if they have any, is in the punting game but they haven't had to use it much so far this year.

The Tarpon defense also has done an excellent job this year as the line has been penetrating well and putting lots of pressure on the quarterbacks so far this year.

The teams have an indirect common opponent in DeQuincy, who was beaten 29-10 by the Tarpons and the Tigers lost to Notre Dame, who Vermilion Catholic beat in their opening game, 21-0.

In last year's game which was played at Creole, the Tarpons scored a 41-6 victory but that was last year.

The crystal ball sees an exciting game with the Tarpons winning by the score of 28-13.

Tarpons win 52-8 over Opelousas Catholic

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons scored early and often as they routed the Opelousas Catholic eleven 52-8 in a game played in Tarpon stadium last Friday night.

The Tarpons took the opening kickoff and moved into the end zone with nine minutes left in the opening quarter. The touchdown came on a 10-yard run by quarterback Chris McCall. The Tarpons scored their second touchdown on their next possession on a 40-yard pass from McCall to Todd Conner with 6:38 left in the first quarter. The Tarpons closed out the first quarter scoring when Travis Pradia hit a 22-yard field goal.

The Tarpons raised the margin to 38-0 at half time as McCall hit Conner for a 43-yard touchdown, Travis Pradia scored on a 6 yard run and Aaron LaSalle tallied on a 1-yard run.

The Tarpons scoring in the second half came on an 8 yard run by James Bonsall and a 47-yard run by Aaron LaSalle.

The Tarpons completely dominated the game offensively as they never did punt and they ground out 287 yards on the ground with the top ball carriers being James Bonsall with 78 yards and Aaron LaSalle with 67 yards.

The Tarpons also picked up 90 yards through the air as Chris McCall hit 3 of 6 passes, all to Todd Conner, two were good for touchdowns.

The Opelousas Catholic touchdown came late in the final quarter on a 45-yard run by Monty Ortego.

Ortego was the top ground gainer for Opelousas Catholic with 52 yards.

The Tarpon defense also turned a stellar performance limiting the visitors to only 173 net yards and the vast majority of them came after the game was already decided.

The defense also had a fumble recovery and forced the Opelousas Catholic team to punt six times.

The Tarpons will be on the road for the next two weeks, going to Vermilion Catholic this Friday and traveling to Pickering on Friday, Sept. 25.

CAMERON LIONS CLUB

Fishing tournament to be held

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

The Cameron Lions Club is holding its annual Saltwater Fishing Tournament on Saturday, Sept. 26, with headquarters at Bolo's Shrimp Shop in Cameron.

The categories are redfish and Speckled trout and there are three divisions: adult, junior and guide.

The junior division includes those participants 15 years of age and younger.

Professional guides are not eligible to enter. However, their customers are encouraged to participate in this division and will compete for cash prizes.

All participants must catch their own fish by rod and reel only.

They are allowed to receive assistance in landing and netting the fish.

All participants must adhere to Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries regulations and all regulations applying to fishing licenses (salt-water), life preservers and water craft must be obeyed.

The entry fee in the adult division is $20; junior, $5 and guide $20 per person, and the deadline for registering is Friday, Sept. 25 at 6 p.m.

The starting time is 12:01 a.m. Sept. 26, and the weigh in of fish is from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.; decisions of the weighmaster are final.

Fishing restrictions and locations are all inland waters, which includes fishing in and around jetty rocks at Sabine, Mermentau or Cameron (Calcasieu).

Tournament fishing is not allowed more than 300 feet outside these Jetty Rock locations.

Tournament fishing while wading in the surf on the beaches of Cameron Parish is allowed.

All profits of this event will go toward the many charities the local club supports, such as Louisiana Lions League for Crippled Children, Louisiana Eye Foundation, examinations and glasses for approved applicants, Leader Dog School, and World Services for the Blind.

120,000 ACRES OFFERED

Wetlands Reserve Program

Almost 120,000 acres have been offered by landowners to be considered for enrollment in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Wetland Reserve Program (WRP) in Louisiana.

According to Paul Coreil, wetlands education coordinator with the Extension Service of the LSU Agricultural Center, landowners who offered land and signed Intention Forms during the late June 1992 sign-up should have received a Wetland Reserve Plan of Operation (WRPO) for each specific site offered in late August 1992. Sealed bids must now be calculated for each site and submitted to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conversation Service (ASCS) no later than Thursday, Sept. 24, 1992.

In an effort to assist landowners in the calculation of WRP bids, the economics division of the Louisiana Extension organization has developed a user-friendly computer program that includes simple written instructions.

According to Dr. Gerald Giesler, Extension economist who developed the software program, agents at parish Extension offices will have copies of the computer program which enable them to calculate WRP bids. Landowners can also obtain from agents in each parish; individual copies of the computer program and instructions for personal use.

In evaluating the WRP, a landowner must first decide what rights he will give up and what obligations are being incurred by giving a permanent easement, Coreil adds. The WRPO is the document that defines the practices that are permitted and prohibited, and the obligations and costs that are assumed by the landowner under the easement.

Land ownership entitles the owner to the right to manage and receive income from, and use property in any way that is permitted by law, he says. It entitles the owner to control entry and egress from the property. It also obligates the owner to pay taxes and other liabilities incurred by ownership of land.

The most common way to change ownership of a parcel of land is an outright sale, with the deed to the land transferred to another individual or entity and all rights and obligation of ownership transferred to the buyer. In the case of a permanent easement, use of a certain type or part of the property is granted to another individual or entity. Common types of permanent easements are rights-of-way easements for roads, power lines, underground mining, etc.

In the case of the WRP, the landowner sells an easement to the government whereby he gives up the following rights and assumes the following obligations:

1. The landowner gives up the right to farm row crops in perpetuity.

2. The landowner incurs 25 % of the cost of improvements to restore the land to a hydrological and vegetative condition that is agreed upon in the wetlands plan of operation.

3. The ASCS pays up to a maximum of $350 of legal fees per easement filing. The landowner will pay any cost above that amount.

4. The landowner agrees to pay 100 % of annual maintenance costs in perpetuity.

5. The WRPO can specify other conditions that may obligate the landowner to additional costs. This will depend on the individual WRPO negotiated between USDA and the landowner.

In some cases the landowners retain certain use rights of the property such as grazing, hunting, fishing, and trapping (excluding commercial catfish and crawfish) timber sales, haying and mineral rights. There may be other rights that have economic value. All of these compatible uses must be clearly specified in the WRPO.

The landowner also retains certain economic obligations such as paying a 25 % cost share for required restoration practices, property taxes, liability insurance, the costs associated with hunting leases, mineral leases, WRPO maintenance costs, etc.

To determine what would be a fair bid price per acre for a landowner to participate in the program, the above income and costs must be accounted for.

The technique for evaluating the present worth of future incomes is called discounting, Giesler explains. The principle is based on the idea that an income received in the future is discounted by the interest rate to its present value, i.e., $100 to be paid one year from today will be worth $92.59 today if the interest rate used for discounting is 8 %. Using the same principle, a cost incurred in the future is discounted to its present value if payment is to be made today. A cost of $100 to be paid one year from today will have apresent value of $92.59.

Giesler says that the following example demonstrates the use of discounting to calculate a WRP bid estimate.

1. The first step is to select an interest rate to be used in capitalizing the value of foregone income to compute the value of the cost incurred by granting the easement. This rate should be comparable with the rate of return on investments with similar risk, such as industrial bonds.

2. Next, determine the value of the crops that the landowner will not be able to plant on the land. Example: If a landowner received annual rent from a soybean acreage of $24 an acre and discounted $24 an acre and discounted $24 at 8%, the present value of that right is $300.

3. If a landowner agreed to a cost-share plan that obligated him/her to pay $25 annually for three years, the present value of the $25 will be $25 + $23.15 + $21.43 j= $65.58 assuming that the first-year cost share is incurred at the time the easement is granted and an 8% discount rate is used.

4. If the legal fees exceed $350 per easement , the landowner pays the balance. Example: If the landowner pays $1 per acre legal fees, then $1 is calculated in the bid. Legal fees are paid at the time the easement is granted, therefore no discount is involved.

5. The annual maintenance cost is incurred in perpetuity, therefore it is discounted in perpetuity. For example, an annual maintenance cost of $5 per acre has a value of $62.50 using 8% interest.

(6) If the residual present value of the property is negative after granting the easement, which would occur in cases where property taxes exceeded the income -producing potential of the property, then this negative value must be brought forward and calculated in the bid price.

Example: If the property had no income-producing value and a $2 per acre property tax, then the discounted value of the property tax in perpetuity would be $25 per acre using the 8% interest.

In the above example, the present value of the easement is (1) $300; (2) $69.58; (3) $1; (4) $62.50; (5) $25 = $458.08 per acre.

The above figures assumes the landowner is paid infull at the time the easement is granted.

Landowners, however, have the option of receiving a lump sum payment or receiving 10 equal payments over a 10-year period. Lump sum payments cannot be received until all required restoration practices have been implemented. The computer program allows landowners to calculate foregone interest lost because of delay in bid payments caused by payment option selected or delay in final completion of required restoration practices (lump sum option). Landowners must have all required restoration practices in place within three years of granting the easement.

To get assistance with WRP bid calculations or to obtain a copy of the WRP Bid Calculation computer program, Giesler says to contact an agent at your Parish Cooperative Extension Service Office.

YOUTH TRENDS

Young people, frequently viewed as self-centered and uncaring, are acting more selflessly than ever before. As part of a growing national youth service movement, they are volunteering their time in record numbers.

In fact, according to the most recent Gallup Poll on volunteerism, a greater percentage of young people volunteer than do adults. Fifty-eight percent of American teenagers volunteer, compared to 54 percent of adults. About thirteen million teenagers volunteer an average of 3.9 hours per week, according to a report released from Independent Sector.

Roger Landrum, executive director of Youth Service America, attributes the growth of the movement to an increase in the number of service programs available to young people, and a growing number of youth service supporters.

"More schools are getting involved in service projects. Political figures at all levels are pledging their support. And there is more public awareness of the positive contributions young people are making in our communities," says Landrum. Youth Service America is the major sponsor of National Youth Service Day, a day designated to honor young people who are involved in community service. Celebrated each April during National Volunteer Week, the project is also sponsored by the Points of Light Foundation, Jefferson Awards, The U.S. Conference of Mayors and Lutheran Brotherhood.

National Youth Service Day gives young people like Erica Mosley, a 15-year-old from St. Louis, the chance to show others that young people really do care.

"People call today's generation the 'gimme' generation – that we say 'gimme this, gimme that.' When people see teens volunteer I think it changes their minds, because they see that we are giving something back." Mosley has volunteered more than 500 hours over the past year and a half through the St. Louis Youth Corps Experience, participating in a variety of activities – candy-striping at St. Louis Children's Hospital, working at an Earth Day booth, and wrapping Christmas toys at the Salvation Army.

Mosley says volunteering has made her more aware of what's happening in her community. "Volunteering has made me want to understand what's going on around me in my community, and how I can be a part of making it a better place," she says.

FUTURE OF LOUISIANA FISHERMEN

Driving down I-10 looks like a graveyard with so many dead animals and fish. Franklin, Morgan City up to Houma are in really a sad state.

Millions of freshwater fish are dead due to the Hurricane Andrew South Louisiana path. The Atchafalaya Basin is really where there's more destruction.

Biologists are trying to find out the percentage of kill of largemouth bass, bluegill, white perch and catfish, to name a few.

There will be a great impact on both sports and commercial fishermen. It not only will have an impact on the fun and enjoyment but on the livelihood of many fishermen.

The cause was lack of oxygen due to the churning of water, especially deep, by the 100 MPH plus winds of the hurricane. With all the decomposing matter of debris, plus the decomposing of all the dead fish and animals, oxygen levels at one time reached as low as two parts per million, and for over a period of time, fish die.

Fish normally do well on 5 to 6 parts per million. Below 5 parts per million, fish stop feeding and also stop reproducing actively. Two parts per million and fish die quickly. The two species that have the best chance to survive are garfish and choupique. Why? They have the ability to gulp air.

We could in the future see some changes in fishing regulations in these hard hit areas. Biologists don't believe at this time that the loss will cause any changes, but I have to disagree and listen to some of my friends that lived there all their lives. they have got to feel the impact of this loss, even business will suffer as well as the fishermen.

Personal lives will also be affected and everyday activities. Right now fuel, ice, impassible roads and debris and trees and limbs blocking waterways for the fishermen.

A survey by planes shows damage to fishing and hunting camps, fish houses, shrimp docks and to many fishing boats.

We also know damage to the habitat will affect many animals. Reports of dead white-tail deer, also herds of 30 to 40 live deer, we know need food and good clean water, not the rotten, salty water that's there. Beliefs are that most of the deer survived the hurricane, but can they survive the food-water and disease that's facing them and all the other animals.

There are reports of many fallen squirrel nests and little squirrels are on the ground from the broken trees and limbs and also from the strong winds. This was the peak of the fall nesting season for squirrels. I'm sure the loss will be great, but I think the squirrel population can recuperate.

Rabbit losses were heavy, especially where the storm tidal surge hit. This gain could take some time before recovery.

There's still not too much information on the bird damage. We know there's a lot of beach erosion and that could hurt the habitat of the Brown Pelican, which was beginning to show a good population. As many of you know, the Brown Pelican is our Louisiana State Bird.

It seems the Bald Eagle may be the only unhurt bird. At this time of the year the Bald Eagle is out of state and has not yet migrated south again. There's no doubt they wil have to rebuail their nests, but that's not serious.

The furbearing animals, nutria, muskrat, otter, mink and others will also have suffered, either by death or from habitat and disease that's yet to come.

The alligator population has got to be hurting. They claim that half of the alligator population had hatched before the hurricane, but in the high water areas, the eggs that didn't hatch are gone or will rot. Also, many young alligators were killed from the storm debris.

Oysters also took a blow, with mud covering them.

Value of dollar shrinking

The value of a dollar is relative. It depends upon the individual, the place and the time. Nearly all of us will agree in our inflationary present that the value of our "good old American dollar" shrinks with every washing of exchange.

Since we have little control over the place and the time, our only resource in handling the money situation lies within ourselves. And then, no matter how carefully we budget, it is very difficult to balance dollars that go out with dollars that come in.

I recall quite clearly my first month's budget that I, as a bride, worked out during the latter days of the Great Depression. Rent, groceries and insurance allotments were maintained as were church contributions and automobile maintenance. Little had been designated for clothing. With a brand new trousseau, who needed new clothes! A small amount had been allotted to entertainment and savings.

But the demon in the budget bore the name of Incidentals. Heretofore, I had naively believed that incidentals included only such items as an occasional postage stamp of the three-cent variety.

Instead of remaining a meek, slim $2.50, Mr. Incidentals puffed himself up and out ot a $25 figure and wrecked the budget. He gleefully drove the bride to tears and into the young husband's consoling arms.

As you have probably guessed, Incidentals swallowed up the amount assigned to entertainment, savings, and clothing that month.

Mr. Incidental also taught the bride a never-to-be-forgotten lesson in small finance. And that lesson is: no matter how carefully one plans, the unexpected is likely to happen at any moment and is sure to occur in the long run. Accident or illness springs forward without warning. Although one can never be fully prepared for emergencies, one should consistently add to a savings account. Buy wisely, carry insurance proportionate to his needs and salary, and refrain from excessive credit buying.

Since money is the universal means of exchange in the 20th century, it is necessary that we use it. It is essential, too, to remind ourselves that money has a moral as well as a legal stamp.

A workable budget requires judgment and restraint as well as practice and time. Its greatest secret is in spending less than is earned and in investing wisely that margin of savings. The budget maker's strongest ally is the practice of industry, frugality and economy.

S. Cam. High 4-H Club News

By KRISTI JO DUPUIE Reporter

The South Cameron High School 4-H Club met Wed., Sept. 9, its first meeting of the new school year.

Some of the upcoming events discussed were: officers training, Sept. 16; beach clean-up, Sept. 19; and Jr. Leadership Training, Sept. 26.

The club held on election to select two representatives to the Junior Leadership Executive Board - elected were Tricia Trahan and Patrick Hebert.

Mike Lavergne, new Cameron Parish County Agent, was introduced to the group by Shannan Swire. Mr. Lavergne conducted an activity in which 4-H'ers tried to guess what was in his "Surprise bag". Bobby Mhire guessed "rice" and won a 4-H t-shirt.

The club members filled out registration forms and received the Cameron Clover. Each member filled out a "helpful clover", a clover shaped questionaire with questions on how to help 4-H and what could be changed to make 4-H more interesting.

Dues were set at $3.00 and must be paid to Patrick Hebert, club treasurer, by next meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Cody Fenetz. Shelly Fontenot led the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H Pledge was led by Lori Sanders. Maranda Daigle read the minutes of the last meeting and Jamie Brown read the treasurer's report.

Special reports were presented by: Lindy Hinton - pizza party; Kristy Guillory, 4-H camp; Heather Spicer, state records; Jansye Poole, Marshland Festival; Mary Devall, workshops; Cody Fenetz, pig shows; Ashley Granger, parish winners trip; and Trisha Silva, upcoming events.

Important upcoming events are the Cal-Cam Fair, parents night and beach cleanup.

The meeting was turned over to Miss Shannan who introduced Mr. Mike Lavergne, new Cameron Parish County Agent. The Parish Clover and enrollment cards were distributed to club members. Miss Shannan presented certificates to state winners: Heather Spicer, record book for junior achievement grade 7; and Trisha Silva, record book for junior achievement (traditional grade 6).

The agents introduced AG the Bag Game to the members. Winner of the game was Barrett Richard; his prize was a 4-H t-shirt. Members also had fun playing the Wheel of 4-H Game.

Outpatient Cardiology...
Quality care... with no overnight hospital stay.

A hospital's concern for cost to the patient is not always so apparent, but St. Patrick's Outpatient Cardiology Services addresses both cost reduction and convenience, while offering that patient state-of-the-art cardiology procedures of only the highest quality.

Procedures like heart catheterization and coronary angiography allow accurate diagnosis by taking detailed pictures of blood vessels and measurement of pressures within the various heart chambers. In many instances these tests can now be done without staying overnight.

This, of course, means less cost to our patients, and less intrusion upon their daily routines... with no compromise in the quality of care received.

Construction is now underway in Cameron and Vermilion parishes on part of two Texas Gas Transmission Corporation major pipeline construction projects estimated to cost nearly $60 million.

Thirty-two miles of 12-inch pipeline is being laid in this area, starting six miles southwest of Jennings and continuing across to a point about one mile west of Grand Chenier.

Houston Contracting Co. of Houston is contractor for this section and has some 300 men on the job. M.A. LaJaunie is project engineer and A.H. Parker is chief inspector for Texas Gas. C.H. Paulsen is the company's supervising engineer on the entire line.

From Grand Chenier, Brown & Root, Inc. of Houston, is constructing two branches of the pipeline out into the Gulf o serve offshore wells. The entire project is expected to be completed by December.

The new facilities, when completed, will increase the daily natural gas delivery capacity of the Texas Gas system by 213 million cubic feet. Part of the expansion program is being undertaken under a Federal Power Commission authorization calling for an expenditure of $20 million to enable Texas Gas to meet existing customers' increased demands for gas during the coming winter.

The remaining $40 million expansion was authorized to permit delivery, commencing this winter, of large supplies of gas for a new customer, Hope Natural Gas Co. LORETTA THERIOT is shown with a copy of Jennifer Blake's new novel. "Wildest Dreams", which Blake dedicated to her.

Book is dedicated to local lady

A South Cameron High School French teacher and perfume consultant, Loretta Theriot, has just received the honor of having a novel "Wildest Dreams" dedicated to her.

Best Selling novelist Jennifer Blake, the pen name of Patricia Maxwell of Quitman, La. dedicated her newest novel to Ms. Theriot with the notation in the book "For Loretta Theriot-who dreams of perfumes and creates them."

"Wildest Dreams" will be the theme of the Mardi Gras ball of the Lake Charles Krewe "Deja Vu de Monda" to be held at the Lake Charles Civic Center in January.

Blake will also be a special guest at the ball

Ms. Theriot is a perfume consultant for the Bourbon French Perfume Co. of New Orleans, (located in the French Quarter), where she learned the trade of creating perfumes and worked for awhile when she took a sabatical leave from her teaching profession at South Cameron.

It was here that the two women first met several years ago and collaborated on another book.

Ms. Theriot called Ms. Blake after having found an antique perfume from Europe in an antique shop that still carried the smell from the original perfume, and suggested that she write a novel based around this unique bottle.

Ms. Blake did use the suggestion, and her book provided the inspiration for a new perfume which will be sold in the French Quarter perfume shop.

Ms. Blake has earned best selling acclaim for her previous novels for her rich, rhythemic portrayals of the South and her unforgettable characters.

Now her gifted pen sweeps to the colorful streets of present day New Orleans and to Europe, past and present, where we follow the parallel lives of two women.

One modern, one ancestral, these extraordinary heroines embark, one hundred and fifty years apart, upon a European odyssey to their destiny.

When Joletta Caressa's beloved grandmother dies, she takes with her the secret formula to a legendary perfume believed to have been worn by Cleopatra and Empress Josephine, and which is now the most desperately sought perfume on the market.

Joletta's only clue to the formula is the journals written by her ancestress, Violet Fossier, who in 1854 made a grand tour of Europe.

Joletta realizes she must follow Violet's itinerary across the European continent, using the events that took place and the scenes she visited to decipher the code to the formula.

Sweeping from modern London to Napoleon's France, from the Swiss Alps to the canals and palazzi of Italy, and finally to a secret garden outside of Venice where the answers to so many questions lie, here is a spellbinding novel of two passionate women who dare to live their wildest dreams.

The formula seems to be hidden in the names of two perfumes "Romanov" (Romanov Prince) and "LeJardin de Cour" (Courtyard in French).

Those interested in intrigue and history, especially of the area, will love this novel.

Beach Sweep was a big success

Ed Kelley, Zone Chairman for the Cameron Beach Sweep program, announced the following statistics for the Saturday event:

943 people participated in the cleanup of 29 miles of Cameron Parish beaches, picking up 2,748 bags of trash.

Each group of participants kept records of the trash picked up for statistical purposes and found that the amount of light sticks in past years were so prevalent on local beaches were practically nonexistent this year.

The sticks are used by snapper fishermen.

The most unusual item found was on Gulf View beach at Johnson Bayou, a Japanese Distress Flare.

The largest amount of trash were plastic milk and water jugs, rope and beverage flares.

Other items were cigarette butts, mostly at Holly Beach, food bags and wrappers.

Cameron Parish has the most miles of beaches on the Gulf Coast and has been participating in the beach cleanups each year since the national program started.

More about "Dorestain"

A recent column of ours was of humorous stories of actual people who once lived in the parish of Cameron. Many of our readers have asked us to produce more of the same. Since Dorestain (not his real name, of course) found favor with the readers, we are indulging you with more Dorestain episodes.

Dorestain and his friend, Java did a good deal of alligator hunting when they were young. On one occasion they were trying to hook a 'gator that was in an extremely deep hole. The pole they were using was not quite long enough to reach the bottom.

Dorestain solved the problem by adding an extension to the pole. It worked perfectly and they nabbed the 'gator.

The extension in this case was Java, who held the pole with both hands while Dorestain grabbed his ankles and shoved him down the alligator hole.

Dorestain, as a middle-aged man, bought a wagonload of barbed wire with which to fence in a new pasture. He loaded his wagon at the wharf one afternoon, drove home, and unhitched his team. Since it was nearly dark, he left the wire in the wagon beside the public road. In those days no one would have considered stealing it.

The next morning, however, both wagon and wire were gone. Dorestain was puzzled, disappointed, and deeply hurt. Such robbery was unheard of in his community. And the wire and wagon had cost money.

He resolved to find the thief and recover his loss. He searched for tracks that might lead him to the culprit. There were none save those made by his own team the previous evening.

He closely examined the underbrush on either side of the road. Then he stumbled over his wire, neatly stacked and not a spool missing.

He backed onto the road, pushed his hat back from his perspiring forehead, and looked up and around. There, swaying in the wind, was his wagon, hanging by its tongue from the limb of a huge oak.

Several neighbors with block and tackle, helped him lower his wagon safely to the ground.

A few weeks later he learned that a dozen or more boys, including his own three teen-aged sons, had worked over half the night to hide the wire and hoist the wagon into the air.

As Dorestain approached his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary he explained to his friends, "Me, I'm getting old about t'ree o'clock in the evening."

Then he added, "Mes amis, you know Jacques Durand, eh? He's such a good man, me I want to die when he die. Then when St. Peter open the door in heaven for Jacques, maybe I slip in, too."

A FOND RECOLLECTION OF CHINABERRY TREES

(By Archie S. Hollister)

I do not suppose that there is a person in Cameron who is not familiar with the Chinaberry tree. The tree, expecially the variety known as the Umbrella, has long been a favorite in Cameron. Its extremely thick foliage, rapid growth, and ability to thrive on almost any kind of soil made it the first choice of people who wanted to provide quick shade around their homes. And the great abundance of the chinaberries themselves furnished an inexhaustible source of ammunition for popguns in the days when kids were expected to provide their own amusement. Current thinking and enlightment have changed all that of course, and we now give BB guns and air rifles.

Not only did the China tree provide shade, but it was also an important source of fuel back in the days before petroleum-derived products were available for heating and cooking. You could chop a China tree down and it would put out sprouts from the roots which would soon grown into new trees. A man who possessed a good China thicket was assured of a steady source of fuel.

Tarpons, Pickering to play Friday

By JOE MUELLER

It's No. 4 and No. 5 this Friday at Pickering as the South Cameron Tarpons hit the road for the second consecutive week.

The game features the #4 and #5 high school teams in the state in Class AA, according to the Louisiana Sportwriters.

The two teams bring perfect 1992 worksheets into the contest. South Cameron has beaten DeQuincy, Opelousas Catholic and Vermilion Catholic. The Red Devils of Pickering have scored victories over Welsh, Many and St. Louis.

Both teams have balanced offensive attacks as both teams can pass and run the ball. The Tarpons quarterback, Chris McCall, has hit over 50% of his passes while Pickering quarterback, Kyle Ashley, has hit a high percentage of his passes.

The Pickering running attack is paced by Eric Pickens and Willie Law, who accounted for 218 yards on the ground between them last week against St. Louis.

The Tarpons have used a fleet of running backs all year with Darnell Frank, Travis Pradia, Jobe Johnson, James Bonsall, Rusty Welch and quarterback Chris McCall, all showing that they can run the ball real well.

The Red Devils, who are the favorite in District 5AA, edged Welsh on a last second pass to win their opening game. Welsh since then has gone on to impressive victories.

In last year's game the Red Devils scored late in the last quarter to edge the Tarpons 19-14. The Tarpons were driving for the winning score last year but were turned away by two penalties.

In the Tarpons and Red Devils first game at Pickering, the Tarpons won.

The Pickering team will definitely be one of the best on the Tarpon schedule and should be a good yardstick for the Tarpons to use to measure their success in the future against Kinder and the foes in District 6AA.

The Tarpons defense seems to have an edge as they have allowed only 18 points on the year while Pickering has given up 34 points.

The Tarpons defense has dominated every game with a very aggressive line and linebackers. They can't afford to let up this week.

The Tarpons also can't afford any mistakes as the winner of the game will probably be the team with the fewest turnovers or mental misakes like penalties.

The game should be hard fought and exciting so let's get a good crowd on the road to support the Tarpons. Don't forget, 7 p.m. starting time, so get an early start as it is about a 2½ hour drive to Pickering.

The crystal ball sees the Tarpons winning 28-20.

Alligator hide sale is to be held Oct. 2

The Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor the annual Cameron Parish Alligator Hide sale beginning at 8 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 2, 1992. The orginal sale date of Sept. 18 has been moved back due to the delay in the season opening.

The sale will be conducted at the Cameron Parish Mosquito Control Barn located approximately 7 miles east of Cameron off La. Hwy. 82.

Buyers will be asked to submit sealed bids on each hunter's lot of hides. Each hunter's hides will be presented for bid on a first come first served basis.

If there are questions pertaining to the sale, call Kevin Savoie at the Cameron Extension Office at 318/775-5516.

Advance notice not required to attend sale.

Joe's Picks

By JOE MUELLER

Well, let's get the crystal ball cleaned. I only hit 13 of 22 games last week. My overall record is not much better as it is 41-22.

After cleaning the ball so I can maybe see in it better, I see:

Kinder over Lake Arthur; Welsh over Vinton; Oakdale over Rosepine; South Beauregard over Iowa; DeQuincy over Oberlin; Iota over Rayne; Kaplan over St. Louis; Notre Dame over Teurlings Catholic; South Cameron over Pickering.

Alabama over Louisiana Tech; U.S.L. over Western Kentucky; Nevada over Tulane; Delaware State over Grambling; S. W. Texas over Northeast La.; Northwestern La. over East Texas; L.S.U. over Colorado State.

San Francisco over New Orleans; and Houston over San Diego.

S.C.H.S. PTA to sponsor gumbo dinner Fri. Oct. 2

The South Cameron High School PTA will sponsor a gumbo dinner Fri., Oct. 2, in the school cafeteria.

Cost is $4 per person and will be served from 5:30-6:45 p.m. just prior to the South Cameron-Kinder football game.

Tarpon fans are urged to bring their families and participate the pre-fame festivities.

Tarpons win over Vermilion Catholic

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons went on the road for the first time in 1992 and came away with a 20-0 victory over the State Ranked Vermilion Catholic team.

The Tarpons, who now sport a 3-0 worksheet, held the Eagles to only 149 yards of offense. They really shut the run down as Vermilion Catholic could only muster 56 rushing yards.

The Vermilon Catholic team did hit five of 11 passes for 93 yards.

The Tarpon defense gained four turnovers as they picked off an Eagle pass and recovered three Vermilion Catholic fumbles.

The Tarpons scored in the opening quarter on a ten yard run by Darnell Frank and the Eagles blocked the extra point so the Tarpons led 6-0. The score stayed the same in the second quarter, and the Tarpons led 6-0 at halftime.

In the third quarter the Tarpons put their second touchdown of the night on the board on a four yard run by Travis Pradia. Chris McCall ran in the extra point and the Tarpons led 14-0 after three quarters.

The Tarpons raised the margin to 20-0 with a fourth quarter touchdown on an 11 yard run by Darnell Frank.

The Tarpons, who used eight running backs, were led in rushing by James Bonsall with 66 yards on 18 carries. The Tarpons Chris McCall hit five of ten passes with Todd Conner leading the receivers with three catches for 28 yards.

Once again, the Tarpons never had to punt the football. The Tarpons were whistled for seven penalties for 55 yards in the contest.

South Cameron will be on the road again this week as they travel to Pickering to face the Red Devils in a game scheduled for 7 p.m.

Tarpons still ranked fourth

The South Cameron Tarpons with a 20-0 victory over the fifth ranked Class A team Vermilion Catholic, couldn't gain any ground in the state rankings by the Louisiana Sportswriters.

The Tarpons, who sport a 3-0 record, maintained fourth place in the poll with 92 points.

Pickering, the South Cameron opponent this Friday, held on to fifth place.

Iota of District 6AA, like South Cameron, is seventh and Welsh, also of District 6AA is eleventh.

The rankings are as follows:

Haynesville (9), 3-0, 108; Ouachita Christian, 3-0, 97; Newman, 3-0, 89; South Cameron, 3-0, 92; Pickering, 3-0, 70; Menard, 3-0, 61; Iota, 3-0, 55; Buras, 3-0, 41; University, 3-0, 32; Kentwood, 2-1, 22.

Others receiving votes: Welsh, 20; Loyola, 15; Homer, 9; Port Barre, 3; Patterson, 3; St. Martins, 2.

Louisiana Swamp Festival to be held in October

Louisiana's Cajun heritage will be celebrated swamp style at the Audubon Zoo's seventh annual Louisiana Swamp Festival Oct. 3, 4, 10 and 11, spotlighting the food, music and crafts of bayou country.

The two toe-tapping weekends will give visitors a taste of Cajun and Zydeco music with headliners such as Terrance Simien, Rockin' Dopsie, Evangeline and Beausoleil. If you love to two-step, or wish you knew how, the Louisiana Swamp Festival features music on three stages throughout the Zoo and Cajun dance lessons in the award-winning Louisiana Swamp Exhibit and at Monkey Hill.

"This is an event that attracts both visitors and vendors from all across the state," said Audubon Institute Promotions Manager Karyn Noles. "At Audubon Zoo, you'll find cuisine ranging from crawfish pies to boudin. You can purchase a variety of Louisiana-made crafts. And you'll dance to the Zydeco and Cajun music that made Louisiana famous. This all happens in the unique setting of the world's only urban swamp at the Audubon Zoo."

Special hands-on activities and animal feedings are featured during Swamp Fest weekends amid snakes, bears, nutria and the world's only white alligators.

Louisiana Swamp Festival activities are free with admission to the Audubon Zoo, which is $7 for adults and $3.25 for children under 12 and seniors over 65.

The Louisiana Swamp Festival at Audubon Zoo has been selected as one of the Southeast Tourism Society's Top 20 Events for the month of October, 1992.

Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 4-10

Oct. 4 through 10 has been proclaimed by Gov. Edwin W. Edwards as Fire Prevention Week in Louisiana with this year's theme centering around the testing of smoke detectors.

State Fire Marshal Charles E. Fredieu explained that the theme is designed to remind everyone to test smoke detector batteries at least once a month and replace batteries at least once a year.

He also strongly encourages everyone to have a pre-planned escape route with two exits out of each room and building. Also, it is important to have a single designated meeting place outside the home or building so they will know if everyone got out.

In the case of an office or school setting, the fire marshal also suggests the appointing of a 'fire marshal' whose job it is to ensure that everyone has safely exited the building. Part of this job may be to check all rooms in the building before leaving to ensure everyone has left and to take a roll call outside the building at the designated

Archery hunt is scheduled

The Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge has scheduled an either sex archery hunting season for deer on the refuge located in Cameron Parish west of Lake Arthur.

The entire refuge, except for the headquarters area, will open on Oct. 1. The hunt is scheduled to run until Oct. 31. However, the season may end before that date should factors arise that could threaten the welfare of the deer herd. All prospective refuge hunters should stay abreast of this situation by calling the refuge.

State regulations will apply for archery hunting on the refuge except that baiting, firearms, and hunting from a tree in which a metal object has been driven to support a hunter are not allowed on the refuge.

All hunters on Lacassine Refuge are required to possess a refuge hunting permit. The 1992-93 refuge hunting and fishing brochure serves as the required permit when it has been signed and dated. The permit must be in the hunter's possession while hunting deer on the refuge.

The brochure details the specific hunting regulations for the refuge and also includes a deer hunting survey card to be cut out of the brochure and returned to the refuge to provide information on the hunter use and harvest.

The permit and brochure are free and can be obtained at the refuge headquarters located off highway 3056, 11 miles southwest of Lake Arthur. Individuals may also obtain copies through the mail by writing to: Refuge Manager, Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge, HCR 63, Box 186, Lake Arthur, La. 70549 or telephoning 318-774-5923.

U.S. Fish & Wildlife to acquire acreage

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced plans to acquire about 16,000 acres of agricultural wetlands and freshwater marshes for the expansion of Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge in Southern Louisiana. The proposed expansion area is located adjacent to the refuge's northern boundary in Cameron and Jefferson Davis parishes.

The proposed expansion would provide additional wetland habitat for wintering waterfowl and other migratory birds and would increase the total size of the refuge to approximately 48,625 acres. Much of the land consists of low-lying, marginal farmlands that are subject to frequent flooding.

The Service has released a final environmental assessment that considers the biological, environmental and socioeconomic effects of expanding the refuge. The assessment also evaluates four alternatives for protecting and managing the land in the proposed area and their potential environmental impacts.

Copies of the final environmental assessment are available from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 75 Spring Street, S.W., Room 1240, Atlanta, Ga. 30303.

National 4-H Week to be observed

In Cameron Parish some 460 4-H members are planning special activities and events in observance of National 4-H Week, Oct. 4-10, according to Shannon Suire, Assistant Home Economist and Michael LaVergne, Assistant County Agent, LSU Agricultural Center. The Cameron Parish 4-Hes are among nearly 6.1 million young people across the country who will participate in the week-long celebration.

"What we do for our youth today, we do for American tomorrow," said Suire. "Through 4-H, young people can acquire knowledge and develop life skills that enable them to become self-directing, productive and contributing members of our society. Specifically, they learn good health habits, develop respect for themselves and others, explore career and leisure time opportunities, share responsibility for preserving the environment, learn how to use technology, and develop leadership and citizenship skills through participation in 4-H. And, that's something to celebrate."

"But 4-H is not only for youth," LaVergne added. "It's for adults who, as volunteer leaders, can share their skills and expertise with young people. It's for families who can participate in the fun and learning together. It's for the community, which benefits from the community service carried out by the youth."

It is through this network of volunteer leaders, state landgrant universities, state and local governments, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, that 4-H has been able to stimulate youth to develop life skills. In Cameron Parish some 56 adult volunteer leaders work with 460 boys and girls from 9 to 19 years of age in 10 4-H clubs through the LSU AGricultural Center. Programs are conducted in all 64 parishes in Louisiana.

The Sweetlake Homemakers Club met for their September meeting in the home of Sherry LaVergne with Billie Smith serving as co-hostess.

Billie Fruge, president, presided over the business meeting and presented certificates of appreciation to members who helped in the Cameron Parish Cancer Drive. Four homemakers were presented certificates indicating five years of service to the Cancer Drive. Those receiving certificates were Cleo Duhon, Billie Fruge, Lena Guidry, and Darlene Taylor. Three Grand Lake 4-Hers, Nancy Norman, Ronald Norman and Heather Taylor, were also presented with certificates for their participation in the recent Cancer Drive.

A demonstration called "Rock and Roll With Rice" was presented to the group by Heather Taylor, a member of the Grand Lake Jr. 4-H Club. At the conclusion of the meeting, Heather shared with those present her delicious rice casserole.

Cynthia Richard, Home Economist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service, presented a program on preparing a basic family budget entitled, "Putting Your Money Where Your Mouth Is." The informative program consisted of a basic plan to calculate the known income, and prepare a monthly budget considering all expenses that one might encounter whether they be fixed monthly expenses or other expenses incurred. Once this has been evaluated, a spending plan can be determined which can help you have more money at the end of the month than if no budget was considered.

Several homemakers volunteered to help distribute heart-healthy information in Cameron to promote Heart Month activities. Some of our local 4-H members also volunteered to prepare heart-healthy recipes to be published in area newspapers in conjunctin with Heart Month.

Mrs. Nona Helmes and Mrs. cindy Peterson were welcomed as guests to this meeting. The club recognized Mrs. Peggy Eagleson and Mrs. Bobbie Thomas as new members.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served.

HEARTBEAT

Do vitamins have a place in heart disease treatment?

By PETER M. ABEL, M.D.

Yes, certain vitamins do appear to have significant potential in the treatment of atherosclerosis – the buildup of cholesterol plaque in the heart's own arteries which triggers most heart attacks. However, the dosages at which these vitamins would be beneficial are enormously greater than the trace levels at which they serve as nutrients. At those levels, their use must be supervised by a physician.

Niacin (Vitamin $B_3$) and Vitamins C, A and E are currently being used or investigated as medications in the treatment of atherosclerosis. Niacin, in particular, is widely used for its ability to lower the levels of triglycerides and plaque-producing low density lipoprotein in the blood, while raising the level of high-density lipoprotein (HDL) – the so-called "good" cholesterol.

The interest in Vitamins C, A and E stem from their antioxidant properties. Antioxidants interfere with the complex process through which LDL cholesterol starts plaque formation. Certain oils – among them olive and canola (rapeseed) oils – are also known to possess antioxidant properties, which may explain why people who use them as the predominant oils in their diets have a lower rate of coronary artery disease. Some animal studies and at least one human study suggest that Vitamin C also improves the level of protective HDL cholesterol.

These substances are needed by the body for nutritional purposes in very small amounts, and are readily available over the counter as supplements. This, I fear, might lead to unsupervised self-medication by those who think that they are harmless nutrients.

At the megadose levels at which they are prescribed to certain (but by no means all) heart patients, they are definitely not without potential side side effects, some of which are severe.

All but Vitamin C are fat soluble, which means they will accumulate in body fat – potentially to toxic levels. Their toxic effects include liver abnormalities, bleeding nausea, gastrointestinal irritation, skin flushing, skin abnormalities and fatigue.

Vitamin C, which is water soluble, and thus not as readily retained by the body, still can be poisonous at sufficiently high levels.

Leave any decision about the medical use of vitamins to your doctor!

Dear Editor:

Thanks told for Mr. Richard's help

Dear Editor:

I am from DeRidder and I like to fish in Big Lake out of Hackberry. This last weekend, I was going fishing, and had trouble with my boat trailer in Hackberry. It was 5:30 A.M. Sunday morning. Everyone that came up to me tried to help me, but I needed a welder. I had been stopped for about 10 minutes, when this truck pulled up. He had a welding machine on the back.

This man had his boat hooked to his truck and was going fishing too. He saw that I was in trouble, stopped what he was doing and fixed my boat trailer. When I thanked him and asked if I could pay him something, he said that he didn't want any money, and that he hoped we had a nice day. I can't remember his first name, but his last is Richard. He is one of the nicest people you could meet.

Everyone in Hackberry, everytime I am there are just as nice as they can be. GREAT LITTLE TOWN.

Once again Mr. Richard, I know I told you thank-you, but this is to let you know I appreciate you.

Thanks again,
Frank Irvine
DeRidder, La.

Council on Aging receives grant

The Louisiana Children's Trust Funds Board of Directors recently announced the awarding of a grant to the Cameron Community Action Agency for its parenting program.

This program is designated to inform new and young mothers of parenting skills in hope of one day ending child abuse.

The Louisiana Children's Trust Fund is a statewide organization which helps support public and private non-profit organizations in their efforts to prevent child abuse. The trust fund provides financial and technical assistance to a variety of programs throughout the state. Programs supported by the trust fund include workshops, parenting classes, seminars, educational materials, television programming, community awareness and enrichment programs for children.

In announcing the awarding of the grant, Judge Richard Ware, chairman of the Children's Trust Fund Board of Directors, stated, "With programs like the parenting classes the people of the state of Louisiana are one step closer to helping prevent child abuse and neglect. Child abuse and neglect can be prevented. It doesn't have to happen. The goal of the Children's Trust Fund is a simple one: to help each and every child in Louisiana live a happy, productive life, free of abuse and neglect."

Carter festival queen

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Mrs. Tavia Carter of Cameron was crowned Senior Queen of the Seventh Annual Alligator Festival held Sunday at the Grand Chenier State Park. She was crowned by Billie Woodard, TV personality.

Suzanne Buras was named Miss Enthusiasm and Phalia Saltzman was named Miss Personality.

Lyda Miller and Vick Miller were recognized as former festival queens. Rep. Randy Roach was the master of ceremonies.

Tara LeBlanc and Lanette Baccigalopi were introduced as the co-winners of the name-the-alligator contest for the festival mascot. It was "Gross-Tete Francois" (Big Head Francis, in English), and were presented bonds as prizes.

Childrens and adult games were played and music was furnished by French bands with dancing in the afternoon.

An alligator display was set up by Rockefeller Refuge and the Fur and Alligator Council with live baby alligators.

Alligator balls, shrimp patties, chicken and other meats were sold in the various food booths for sale throughout the day.

Funds approved for trail at Rockefeller Refuge

The highly popular 83,000-acre coastal refuge has always drawn busloads of visitors from across the south. As many as 80,000 birders, fishermen and sightseers flock to Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge and Game Preserve in Cameron Parish every year.

The Rockefeller Foundation established the wildlife refuge in the 1920's and bestowed the stewardship responsibility on the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The acreage borders the Gulf of Mexico for 26 miles.

This year, a bill, authored by Representative Randy Roach and enacted into law by the legislature, earmarks the funding to design and construct an Interpretative Marsh Trail at the refuge. The purpose of the development is to further enhance the experience of Louisiana's famous marshlands.

The proposed site for the trail rests on that section of the refuge which is most carefully protected from the natural erosion caused by saltwater intrusion. Visitors will be introduced to a wet grassland, intermediate and brackish marshes, an estuarine system, and a chenier plain marsh.

Designers have drafted a preliminary plan. One concept would allow visitors to explore the coastal habitats on raised, well-constructed boardwalks. Several observation towers would also be installed over the wetlands to allow visitors panoramic views as far north as the cheniers, or live oak ridges. According to these plans, the marsh trail would be composed of two connecting loops and accessed by a new parking lot near the highway.

In ancient times, the Mississippi River formed a delta close to this area. As the river shifted its course, natural forces formed ridges of sand and crustacean shells. These now obsolete beaches, Grand Chenier Ridge and Hackberry Ridge, are immediately north of the refuge. The high ground supports colonies of live oaks and palmettos, or live oak cheniers.

These high grounds provide the first cover, resting place and watering hole for neotropical migratory birds flying northward for incredible distances from Central and South America.

Marsh birds, fishing birds, birds of prey, shore birds and wading birds all seek out the refuge for nesting and breeding. It is a nationally renowned bird haven. It is also one of the most important wintering habitats for waterfowl in the country.

The LDWF Fur and Refuge Division manages these wetlands specifically for optimum duck and goose habitat. A recent survey documented that birds and waterfowl comprise 85% of the animal inhabitants at the refuge; 10% are mammals (nutria and muskrat) and 5% are reptiles and amphibians.

Rockefeller Refuge is documented as supporting the highest nesting density of the American Alligator in North America. LDWF refuge biologists have conducted extensive research on the native reptile, work which has resulted in the extraordinary come back of this fascinating creature after its decline in the 50's.

Preliminary plans include a series of interpretive signs to draw a visitor's attention to these natural resources, as well as to points of interest concerning the history and culture of the area. One sign, for example, might explain that the ditches through the marsh are referred to locally as trenasses and were used by trappers and traders in pirogues much like today's highways, to transport their wares. Another suggested sign would point out that the rosea cane has been used by hunters for generations to build duck blinds in the parish.

The area is open all year to sports fishermen. Locals travel an average distance of 80 miles to fish for speckled trout and red fish. They bank fish or launch boats at the free public boat ramp on the property. From the launch, fishermen can make their way across the refuge accessing the nearly 100 miles of canals.

The project is in the planning stages now. In the long run, Rep. Roach would also like to see an Interpretive Visitor's Center built and staffed. The parish and the agency are staging a warm welcome to everyone interested in experiencing Louisiana's dynamic coastal marsh.

Projects listed

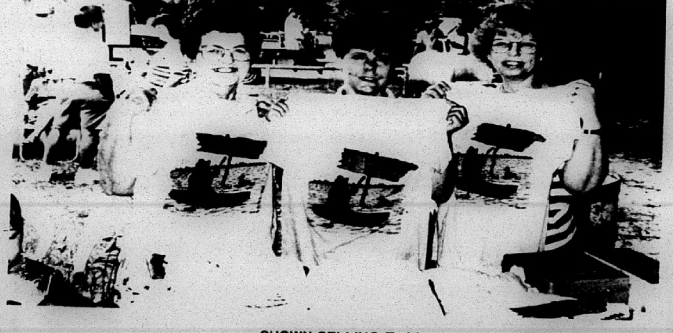
Randy Roach announced that the Wetland Preservation Authority has recommended that the following projects in the Calcasieu/Cameron watershed area be included in the federal coastal restoration construction program for 1993-94:



1. Completion of the breakwater structures from Peveto Beach to Holly Beach, estimated cost $7.2 million.

2. East Mud Lake Marsh Restoration, estimated cost $2 million.

3. Highway 384 Marsh Management Structure, estimated cost $500 thousand.

4. Clear Marais Intracoastal Bank Stabilization, estimated cost, $1.7 million.

The Authority has completed its initial review of coastal restoration projects for 1993-94 and submitted its priority list of recommendations to the House and Senate Natural Resources Committees. Each project was ranked according to a cost benefit formula which is designed to rate the effectiveness of a project in terms of cost per acre of marsh included in the scope of the project.

Tarpons take 4th win of the year

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons used a strong defensive performance and 311 yards of offense as they won their fourth game of the year 24-21 over previously unbeaten Pickering.

The two teams have met unbeaten three previous times and each team has won the game as the visitor.

The game opened with the Tarpons taking the ball down to the Pickering 5 yard line, where quarterback Chris McCall was sacked and the Red Devils recovered at their own 22.

It only took the Red Devils four plays to move the 88 yards to paydirt. The big play on the drive was a 59 yard run by Willie Law and the touchdown came on a 13-yard pass from quarterback Kyle Ashley to Johnny Evans.

The Tarpons came right back to knot the score as they engineered a 72-yard drive in 12 plays with the touchdown coming on a 1-yard run by James Bonsall. With 1:35 left in the opening quarter, the score was tied at 7.

Pickering took a 14-7 lead as after an exchange of punts, the Tarpons were on their own 48 when quarterback Chris McCall was intercepted by the Red Devils, who took the interception down to the Tarpon 32. It took the Red Devils 7 plays to move the ball into the end zone on a 7-yard run by Eric Perkins.

Following the Red Devil touchdown, South Cameron took the kickoff and moved down to the 17 where Pradia kicked a field goal to cut the half time margin to 14-10.

The Tarpons were the only team to score in the third quarter as they took the second half opening kickoff and moved 72 yards in 14 plays, scoring on a Chris McCall run from the three and after Travis Pradia's kick, the Tarpons were up 17-14.

The score stayed at 17-14 until, with 4:44 to go in the game, South Cameron partially blocked a Pickering punt and took over at the Red Devil 35. They scored 6 plays later on a one yard quarterback sneak by Chris McCall. Travis Pradia again converted the extra point and with 2:23 left in the game, South Cameron was up 24-14.

Pickering scored their final touchdown on a 58-yard pass play as Kyle Ashley hit Eric Pickens with 1:34 left to play in the game.

The Red Devils tried an onside kick following their touchdown, but the Tarpons covered the kick and ran the clock out.

The Tarpon defense held the Red Devils to only 145 rushing yards and forcing the Red Devils to punt five times, while Pickering only forced one South Cameron punt.

The Tarpons on offense ground out 245 yards and the top two rushers were James Bonsall with 69 yards and Rusty Welch with 38.

Tarps to host Kinder Friday

By JOE MUELLER

The third ranked South Cameron Tarpons, after two road victories, return home this Friday to host unbeaten Kinder.

The game, which gets underway with a 7 p.m. kickoff, will find the winner at 5-0 and the loser at 4-1.

Last week the Tarpons beat Pickering, who are district opponents of the Kinder Yellow Jackets, 24-21, while Kinder beat Lake Arthur, a district opponent of South Cameron, 23-20.

The game will feature two strong running attacks as Kinder is averaging 275 yards per game on the ground while the Tarpons are averaging 256 yards per game on the ground.

Through the air the Tarpons have gained 321 yards to the Yellow Jackets 304.

South Cameron has split their rushing yards among a lot of backs - James Bonsall, Rusty Welsh, Travis Pradia, Darnell Frank, Chris McCall and others.

The Yellow Jackets have had two principal rushers - Robet Wood, who gained 204 yards last week, and Charles Harris.

On paper the two teams seem to be fairly evenly matched offensively.

Defense is another story as the Tarpons have given up only 39 points while the Yellow Jackets have given up 76 points in four games.

Kinder is very exciting to watch as in two of their victories they came from behind in the final two minutes to win.

The game should be a good tune-up for district for both teams as they start district play Oct. 9.

The kicking game should be in the Tarpons favor as Travis Pradia is capable of kicking field goals from as far out as 40 yards but don't forget Kinder won last week's game with a field goal with one second remaining on the clock.

The Yellow Jackets have received seven votes in the state sportswriters poll, so they should be a good opponent for the third ranked Tarpons.

Last year's game was won by South Cameron 21-14 at Kinder.

Last year both teams went on to the playoffs. Let's get a good crowd out for the 7 p.m. game.

The crystal ball says South Cameron 24, Kinder 14.

Tarpons are 3rd ranked

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpon football team, with a 24-21 victory over Number 5 ranked Pickering, has moved up one notch in the Louisiana Sportswriters poll of Class AA football teams.

The Tarpons have moved from fourth to third in the rankings as they collected 88 points.

Iota, also of District 6AA, moved from seventh to fifth this week as they have 63 votes.

Pickering, with the loss to the Tarpons, dropped to eighth place in the balloting.

Welsh of District 6AA received ten votes. Kinder of District 5AA received seven votes and they will play the third place Tarpons this week.

Class 2AA Louisiana Sportswriters Poll:

Haynesville (9), 4-0-0, 108
Ouachita Christian, 3-0-0, 99
South Cameron, 4-0-0, 88
Menard, 4-0-0, 69
Iota, 4-0-0, 63
University, 4-0-0, 54
Newman, 3-1-0, 51
Pickering, 3-1-0, 41
Buras, 4-0-0, 38
Kentwood, 3-1-0, 24

Others receiving votes: Fisher 21; Loyola 12; Welsh 10; Kinder 7; Patterson 5; Couchatta 5; Northeast 4; Port Barre 2.

Joe's Picks

By JOE MUELLER

The cleaning of the crystal ball must have helped as last week I was 13-5. This raised my overall record to 54-27.

This week I see:

Elton over Rosepine, South Cameron over Kinder, Delcambre over South Beauregard, Iota over Pickering, Vinton over Iowa, Notre Dame over Parkview Baptist, Welsh over Oakdale, Lake Arthur over Teurlings Catholic.

Grambling over Prairieview, Louisiana Tech over Fresno Stae, Mississippi Valley State over Southern, Houston over U.S.L. S.W. Texas over Nicholls.

Section 9.

(B) Bond Security and Redemption Fund. Subject to contractual obligations, existing on the effective date of this constitution, all state money deposited in the state treasury shall be credited to a special fund designated as the Bond Security and Redemption Fund, except money received as the result of grants or donations or other forms of assistance when the terms and conditions thereof or of agreements pertaining thereto require otherwise. In each fiscal year an amount is allocated from this bond security and redemption fund sufficient to pay all obligations which are secured by the full faith and credit of the state and which become due and payable within the current fiscal year, including principal, interest, premiums, sinking or reserve fund, and other requirements. Thereafter, except as otherwise provided by law enacted by a favorable vote of two-thirds of the elected members of each house, money remaining in the fund shall be credited to the state general fund.

(B) Official Forecast. The conference shall prepare and publish initial and revised estimates of money to be received by the state general fund and dedicated funds for the current and next fiscal years which are available for appropriation. In each estimate, the conference shall designate that amount which is noncurring. All conference decisions to adopt these estimates shall be by unanimous vote of its members. Changes to the unanimous vote requirement shall be made by law enacted by a favorable vote of two-thirds of the elected members of each house, unless the law provides that estimate of money available for appropriation shall be the official forecast.

(C) Expenditure Limit.

(1) The legislature shall provide for the determination of an expenditure limit for each fiscal year to be established during the first quarter of the calendar year for the next fiscal year. However, the expenditure limit for the 1991-1992 fiscal year shall be the actual appropriations from the state general fund and dedicated funds for that year except funds allocated by Article VII, Section 4, Paragraphs (D) and (E), for the subsequent fiscal years, the limit shall not exceed the expenditure limit for the current fiscal year plus an amount equal to that limit times a positive growth factor. The growth factor is the average annual percentage rate of change of personal income for Louisiana as defined and reported by the United States Department of Commerce for the three calendar years prior to the fiscal year the limit is calculated.

(2) The legislature shall provide for a mechanism to adjust the expenditure limit to account for (a) any program which is transferred between the state and a political subdivision, the federal government, and any other public or private entity, (b) any federal or judicial requirement imposed after January 1, 1993, (c) a natural disaster or emergency, and (d) any other extraordinary, nonrecurring expenditure.

(3) The expenditure limit may be changed in any fiscal year by a favorable vote of three-fourths of the elected members of each house. Any such change in the expenditure limit shall be approved by passage of a specific legislative instrument which expressly states the intent to change the limit.

(4) A redetermination of the expenditure limit, using the definition from Paragraph (J) of this Section, for the 1991-1992 fiscal year and the 1992-1993 fiscal year shall be made but shall be used only in computing the expenditure limit for the 1993-1994 fiscal year and shall not affect the expenditure limit already computed in accordance with this Paragraph for such fiscal years.

(D) Appropriations.

(1) Except as otherwise provided by this constitution, money shall be drawn from the state treasury only pursuant to an appropriation made in accordance with law. Appropriations from the state general fund and dedicated funds, except funds allocated by Article VII, Section 4, Paragraphs (D) and (E), shall not exceed the expenditure limit for the fiscal year.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by this constitution, appropriation of any money designated in the offical forecast as nonrecurring shall be made only for capital outlay or for extraordinary nonrecurring expenses. The legislature shall provide for the determination of those expenses which are extraordinary and nonrecurring in nature.

(J) For the purposes of this Article, the state general fund and dedicated funds shall be all money required to be deposited in the state treasury, except that money the origin of which is:

(1) The federal government.

(2) Self-generated collections by any entity subject to the budgetary and management authority established by Article VIII, Sections 5 through 7.

(3) A transfer from another state agency, board, or commission.

§11. Budgets

Section 11. (A) Budget Estimate. The governor shall submit to the legislature, at the time and in the form fixed by law, a budget estimate for the next fiscal year setting forth all proposed state expenditures. This budget shall include a recommendation for appropriations from the state general fund and from dedicated funds allocated by Article VII, Section 4, Paragraphs (D) and (E), which shall not exceed the official forecast of the Revenue Estimating Conference and the expenditure limit for the fiscal year. The recommendation shall also comply with the provisions of Article VII, Section 10(C)(2).

(C) Capital Budget. The governor shall submit to the legislature, at each regular session, a proposed five-year capital outlay program and budget implementation of the first year of the program. For those projects which are not eligible for funding from the general obligation bonds retired during that fiscal year. For Fiscal Year 1994-1995, the amount of general obligation bonds issued shall not exceed ninety-five percent of the general obligation bonds retired during that fiscal year. For Fiscal Year 1995-1996, the amount of general obligation bonds issued shall not exceed eighty-five percent of the general obligation bonds retired during that fiscal year. The percentage of the amount of general obligation bonds retired which may be issued shall be reduced by five each fiscal year thereafter until a maximum of seventy percent of the amount of general obligation bonds retired may be issued in Fiscal Year 1997-1998.

(2) This limitation on the issuance of general obligation bonds may be exceeded upon a favorable vote of two-thirds of the elected members of each house in order to deal with the consequences of a natural disaster or other extraordinary emergency.

(3) The legislature shall adopt a comprehensive debt management plan which shall take effect not later than December 31, 1992.

In each fiscal year an amount is allocated from this bond security and redemption fund sufficient to pay all obligations which are secured by the full faith and credit of the state and which become due and payable within the current fiscal year, including principal, interest, premiums, sinking or reserve fund, and other requirements. Thereafter, except as otherwise provided by law enacted by a favorable vote of two-thirds of the elected members of each house, money remaining in the fund shall be credited to the state general fund.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Minutes of the Regular Meeting of the Cameron Parish Gravity Drainage District No. 3 held Tuesday, August 18, 1992, at 2:30 p.m. at the Cameron Parish Police Jury Annex.

Members Present: E. J. Dronet, Edwin Quinn, Earl Guthrie.

Members Absent: W. F. Henry, Jr., and George Kelley.

Others Attending: Miles Hebert, C. J. Kiffe, Loland Broussard, Ralph Libersat, Will Nidecker, Ron Marcantel, Amos Vincent, David Gary, Bill Daigle, Lonnie Harper, J. B. Watts, and James LeBoeuf.

A motion was made by Earl Guthrie, seconded by E. J. Dronet, and unanimously carried to approve the minutes of the July 21, 1992, regular meeting.

A motion was made by Earl Guthrie, seconded by Edwin Quinn, and unanimously carried to approve the Financial Report for the month of July, 1992.

A motion was made by Earl Guthrie, seconded by Edwin Quinn, and unanimously carried to approve the following bills for payment:

1. Industrial Helicopters, $3,119.12
2. Cameron Pilot, $53.00
3. Capital City Guard, $94.24.

Mr. Ralph Libersat, Department of Natural Resources, reported that their Baton Rouge office has given permission to install staff gauges for monitoring water levels in the Cameron-Creole Watershed in conjunction with their proposed project for Freshwater Introduction. He stated that his department has been working with Ron Marcantel of the Soil Conservation SErvice and Miami Corporation to choose some selected sites for placement of the staff gauges. Mr. Libersat said that they feel that at least one staff gauge is needed in each location with one of their projects within two weeks. He stated that they would then need to have someone to monitor or "read" the gauges at least every two weeks and mail the information in to Crowley. His department will than send Will Nidecker of U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, Ed Quinn of the Gravity Drainage District No. 3, and Billy Delany of Miami Corp. a monthly composite report of the collected data. Locations were chosen and approved by all parties involved. It was agreed that DNR will get with Engineer Lonnie Harper to be sure the pivotal monument is the same as what has already been set up in the Cameron-Creole Watershed by Miami Corporation. Responsible parties were chosed for each location, and it was agreed that these persons will read the gauges and will mail in readings with no more than 2 weeks between the readings.

A motion was made by E. J. Dronet, seconded by Earl Guthrie, and unanimously carried to approve a total of 6 locations for staff gauges sites within the Cameron-Creole Watershed, with two sites to be monitored by Sabine Wildlife Refuge, three sites by the Gravity Drainage District No. 3, and one by the Cameron Parish Police Jury.

It was noted by Billy Delany that they will have to survey Data from MLG (Mean Low Gulf) to MSL (Mean Sea Level) on Catfish Locks and Calcasieu Locks in order to make the interpretation of data concide with these new gauges.

Mr. David Richard of Stream Property Management was recognized, and he spoke to the Board about State Project Funding which could become available if a push is made for a given locality. He reported that a total of 212 projects have been proposed in the Calcasieu-Sabine Basin. One of these is CS/16 to allow for excess water flow out of Calcasieu Locks. SCS is a very fine organization and does provide many services, but what his organization can do is personalized services for this particular area. Mr. Ron Marcantel conferred with Mr. Richard's statement, and said that things go much smoother if a locality has local representation when requiring funds. Mr. Richard said that $50 million is available for the next 5 years, and this Drainage Board is inline for these funds if we make a good presentation with a united front. He was asked to draft a proposal and present it to the Board at the next meeting.

Mr. Ron Marcantel reported relative to the Operations and Maintenance Inspection Report for the Cameron-Creole Watershed signed on July 8th which cleaning out bridges over W-1 West was mentioned. He asked if this work has been done, and it was acknowledged that it has not. It was agreed that this work will be performed as soon as possible.

Miles Hebert reported that in approximately 6 months he should have the permit for which we have applied for maintenance of levees. There have been no comments as a result of public notice.

Mr. Will Nidecker reported that there was a lot of rain at the beginning of the month, but they have levels down to the recommended levels. He stated that they will be watching salinities. The marsh is currently very fresh, and there hasn't been a lot of strong movement of shrimp into the lake yet. He presented the gate opening schedule for the month of July. He reported that National Marine Fisheries has obligated to open Catfish Locks. Historical data shows that over 75% of the year water stays higher outside the marsh than inside, and therefore gates should only be opened when water levels are lower outside.

A motion was made by E. J. Dronet, seconded by Earl Guthrie, and unanimously carried to write a letter to the Corps of Engineers objecting to their proposal for operational change of the control structure at Catfish Point.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Present Quinn reported that a letter has been received from the National Marine Fisheries, stating that they do not agree with implementation of a complete drawdown during 1993 as called for in the Cameron-Creole Watershed Management Plan.

It was noted that we invite David Richard of Stream Property Management, Inc. to attend our next meeting in response to his letter offering some services of his company. He will be invited to tell us what he feels he can do for us on a consulting basis that we don't already have provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Ron Marcantel discussed Marsh Management Projects for 1990-91 and 1991-92 as provided by the Crowley office of SCS.

Mr. Marcantel also reported that Department of Natural Resources representatives Lolan Broussard and Ralph Libersat will be in attendance at next month's meeting, and discussion of placement of staff gauges in the Cameron-Creole Watershed. It was agreed that Lonnie Harper and a representative of Gravity Drainage District No. 4 will be requested to attend next month's meeting also to discuss this matter.

A motion was made by W. F. Henry, Jr. seconded by E. J. Dronet, and unanimously carried to authorize President Quinn to sign such a letter as drafted by Mr. Marcantel.

President Quinn announced his intention to resign from the Presidency of the Cameron Parish Gravity Drainage District No. 3, effective after next month's meeting.

Henry, Jr., and unanimously carried that a price quote be sought from Industrial Helicopters for aerial spraying of W-1 West for vegetation control, and that members be polled once the price quote is received to approve such spraying to be done as soon as possible.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

LAKESIDE LACONICS

We received the sad news today of the death of Mr. Pete Unkel, former manager of Lowry. He was visiting at his brother's at Welsh and while there, he and his wife were stricken with typhoid fever. His developed into typhoid pneumonia and resulted fatally the morning of the 3rd. His wife is also in a very serious condition.

The fishermen are complaining of the unusual number of gar fish in the river and lake. It is almost impossible to catch any fish on account of their depradations.

Figs have done well. We have four trees of the large purple variety that must have yield 150 gallons. We made the last picking on Aug. 4th and the season commensed about the first week of July.

SHRIMPING IN CALCASIEU LAKE

Shrimping in Calcasieu Lake got off to a good start last week when the inland waters were opened. Hundreds of boats crowded the lake and big catches of the shrimp were being made. Ray Burleigh said he made five hauls and brought back a couple of washtubs of shrimp. He has a commercial license.

HOSPITAL BOND ELECTION CALLED

The Lower Cameron Hospital Service District board of commissioners has called a special election in the district on Saturday, Sept. 26, on a $350,000 bond issue to provide funds for building a hospital in lower Cameron.

If the bond issue is approved, the district will receive an additional grant of approximately $55,000 from the Louisiana American Legion for the hospital. The Legion raised these funds in a nation-wide drive following Hurricane Audrey two years ago.

The old Creole school site between Cameron and Creole has been chosen as the location for the proposed hospital and architectural plans have been completed.

The hospital commission, which was recently appointed by the police jury, is composed of Edison R. Mhire, chairman; Dr. Cecil W. Clark, secretary; James L. Dennis; Dr. S. E. Carter; and Dr. G. W. Dix.

The three doctors in the district have announced their full support of the hospital and are urging all property owners to vote in favor of the proposal.

The hospital district is composed of most of the lower part of Cameron Parish, with the exception of the Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach areas.

OFFSHORE OIL TRACT SALE

The Cameron offshore oil picture continued to brighten this week.

The State Mineral Board announced that it will receive bids on 12 Cameron Parish tracts, 5 inland and 7 in the West Cameron offshore block, at its Sept. 17 sale of mineral rights on state-owned lands.

PICTURE CAPTIONS

Ray Burleigh, Cameron fire chief, proudly shows off the new siren recently installed atop the courthouse to be used to call out volunteer firemen and for Civil Defense warnings. The federal government will pay half the cost of the siren, and the local Civil Defense and fire department will each pay a fourth.

Impossible as it may seem, this two-room house was transported across the ship channel at Cameron on the ferry, Wednesday morning. The house, which belongs to Dorlese Royer, was moved from Lake Arthur to Holly Beach to be used as a camp.

Lake Charles American Press, Feb. 1, 1918
CAMERON TO FIGHT TICK

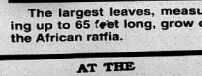
The police jury of Cameron parish has appropriated $6,500 toward wiping out the tick evil of that parish and will add more to this sum later in the season, according to Dr. Gray, federal veterinarian who has charge of the work there. The doctor asked the police jury for $10,000 but they stated that in their opinion this sum was exhorbitant, but if they found later that it was needed they would appropriate it.



Material is being gathered for the construction of extra vats in that parish and active preparations are under way to wipe out the tick there. Dr. B. L. Dawson, federal veterinarian in charge of the work in Calcasieu, is also making all necessary preparations for getting the work under way in this parish early in March.

According to government reports, fever ticks are costing the south $40 million a year in dead cattle, wasted milk and meat, and lower prices for ticky beef and tick-marked hides. The tick is the worst cattle pest in the south. Cattle get tick fever from being bitten by a fever tick and in no other way. They cannot catch it from the air, nor the feed they eat, nor the water they drink. They do not get it by being near another animal which has the fever. No other kind of tick except the cattle tick carries this fever.

Cattle brought in to the south from places where there are no fever ticks get tick fever very easily and are almost sure to die from it. This is why good tick-free breeding animals cannot be brought to a ticky farm to improve the breed of cattle. The fever ticks are almost sure to kill good milch cows, bulls or good beef cattle brought in from tick-free places. This is why so many scrawny cattle are seen in tick sections. In ticky countries there is an absence of fine, fat, grade or pure-bred stock.

"You can see," Said Dr. Dawson, "that it is a very good thing for cattle owners to get rid of ticks. Without ticks they have more milk and meat to sell. They can raise more and better kinds of cattle. They get full returns for their feed. They make more money.

"We expect to have the whole state of Louisiana free from quarantine this fall, as the government is more anxious than ever to conserve all the food supply possible."

Mrs. Mark Nunemaker has invested in a pen of pure blood Aucona poultry and they celebrated their arrival in Lakeside by immediately laying two eggs. They certainly want to live up to their name of everlasting layers.

Cattle are in good shape and the disease seems to have run its course. Quite a number died on Monroe, Klondike and Shell Beach. Supposed to be charbon.

School Superintendent, Mr. McCall, made a business trip to Lakeside last Tuesday and told that school was to commence on the second of October and that Miss Nunez of Grand Chenier would be the teacher.

Dr. Miller sold his entire bunch of cattle to Cleophus Marceaux.

The Cameron Parish School Board will offer for lease to the last and highest bidder at the courthouse at Cameron on Wednesday, October 4, between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m., the 16th School Section. To be leased for 1 year with the privilege of renewal at the same rate for 4 consecutive years. First payment cash on date of lease.

HOG ELECTION

All registered voters living in Ward Five (Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach) will be eligible to vote in the special hog election to be held there Saturday.

The proposition to be voted on is as follows: "Shall swine be prohibited from roaming at large within the boundaries of Ward Five of Cameron Parish, Louisiana."

Election officials are Ira Jinks, G. H. Trahan and Frances Erbelding, commissioners and J. W. Erbelding, clerk.

Ward Five citizens who are in favor of a hog law say that the hogs roaming at large now are a nuisance, as well as a health menace. Those opposed to the law, say the hogs help keep the beaches clean by eating the scraps left there by picknickers and fishermen.

HOSPITAL CARRIES BY BIG MAJORITY

Citizens of lower Cameron Parish proved they want and will support a hospital by turning out last Saturday and voting better than 3 to 1 in favor of a proposed 25-bed hospital here.

Official returns from the voting on a $350,000 bond issue and a 3-mill maintenance tax gave the following results: For: 284 popular votes and $440,872.99 in assessment. Against: 87 popular votes and $185,122 in assessment.

Some $50,000 of the construction cost will be covered by a fund raised for the hospital by the Louisiana American Legion following Hurricane Audrey. When the Legion was unable to raise money to build the hospital by itself, it offered to turn the $50,000 raised so far over to the parish with no strings attached if the property owners would vote the additional funds.

The hospital will be built on the four-acre old Creole school site between Creole and Cameron.

The hospital board is making plans to set up a gift and memorial program, under which to receive many such donations and that these will enable the districts to build an even better and more fully equipped hospital.

Donations totaling $2,450 have been received to furnish rooms in the hospital, Rep. Alvin Dyson announced this week. The donations were received more than a year ago when the hospital was first proposed and have been held in trust until the hospital bonds were approved.

WORLD GOOSE CALLING CHAMPION

Raleigh Newman of Lake Charles won the world's goose calling championship last week at Missouri Valley, Iowa.

Dudley Faulk, Newman's cousin, took third in the contest, and Clarence (Patin) Faulk of Big Pasture was eighth. Ernie Jensen, Jr. of Cotesfield, Neb., and Carolyn Strain, Logan, Iowa took first place in the junior division.

Newman, Jensen and Strain all won their championships on Faulk's goose callers, which are made daily at Clarence Faulk's home in Big Pasture and at Dud Faulk's home in Lake Charles.

The Cameron Optimists have loaned the South Cameron Band Parents Club their Chuck Wagon to be used in selling refreshments and hot dogs at the Tarpon home games. Funds raised will be used to support the band.

Tom Steed announced at the Lions Club meeting Wednesday that a representative and boat of the U. S. Corps of Engineers will be in Cameron Monday to go out and chart the sunken boats which have been tearing up so many shrimp nets here. The Lions instigated efforts recently to get these wrecks marked.

Bolo Trosclair announced that he will give a shrimp boil next Wednesday night at his place for the "heroic efforts" put out in their recent softball battle. No politics involved, says Bolo.

Work started this week on the new press box at the South Cameron High School football field. Nunez and Dyson Lumber companies are donating the materials and the industrial arts boys are building the 6 x 16 box.

Another "Dear John:"

Dear Mr. Wise:

I am a graduate student in Geography at the University of Texas at Austin and am currently conducting field research for my dissertation on the cultural and historical geography of the Chenier region.

I conduct my research from a base at the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge on Grand Chenier. I have always looked forward to Thursdays because of the appearance of the Cameron Pilot.

During Hurricane Andrew, I was with my family at home in New Orleans and I too was incensed upon hearing of John Chancelor's remark about Cameron residents' failure to evacuate during Hurricane Audrey in 1957. I enclose a copy of the letter I sent to NBC News in response.

Lastly, I would very much enjoy learning about the history of the Cameron Pilot and any other local newspapers of which you are aware. Would it be possible to examine some back issues? I'll be back on Grand Chenier in November and will contact you to find out if a meeting is convenient.

Yours Sincerely,
/s/ Gay M. Gomez

Dear Mr. Chancelor:

In a recent article examining coverage of Hurricane Andrew in the local and national media, the New Orleans Times-Picayune (31 Aug. 1992, C-1,5) included a quote from your report. Recalling the devastation of Hurricane Audrey, which caused more than 500 deaths in Cameron Parish, Louisiana in 1957, you stated that "500 people were either too dumb, or too stubborn, or too proud to leave." Your emphasis on the importance of early warning and evacuation for those in the path of hurricanes is commendable, but I am compelled to correct a misconception in the example you cite.

During the course of research for my Ph.D. dissertation on the geography of Cameron Parish, I have interviewed more than fifty residents from six communities, many of whom have shared stories of their experiences in Hurricane Audrey. I am convinced that residents' failure to leave low-lying areas was a result not of stupidity, stubbornness, or pride, but of misinformation about the storm's strength and expected time of landfall. Assured by hurricane forecasters that danger was not imminent, people went to bed on the night of June 26, only to awake a few hours later with the Gulf of Mexico rising inside their homes. Many of these homes soon broke apart or were transported northward by the force of the tidal surge.

I can think of no better testimony to the need for accurate hurricane forecasting and emergency preparedness than the example of Hurricane Audrey in Cameron Parish. It would be a worthy subject for a brief news documentary, provided that information is based on the words of people who actually endured the tragedy and not solely on the conjectures of reporters who arrived after the event took place. I urge you and your network to publicly set the record straight regarding Cameron Parish residents and their failure to evacuate in 1957.

Sincerely,
/s/ Gay M. Gomez

Rex sunk in '18

(Lake Charles American Press, August 16, 1918)

Captain Tom McCain left Saturday night for Galveston to secure the services of a diver to examine the wreck of the Borealis Rex and learn if it cannot be brought to the surface and put in repair for service. The popular steamboat was sunk in Prien Lake during the hurricane which struck this section August 6. If the boat cannot be repaired, a new one will be purchased for the run from here to Cameron.

The riverboat was tied up long enough for the 40 passengers on it to get ashore. The mail and all valuable packages were also gotten off, together with the books and papers, then the storm broke the ropes and within 15 minutes the boat settled back in the stream and lies about half a mile downstream from where it was wrecked, in front of the King residence at Prien Lake.

The passengers took refuge in the King home, but became alarmed when the house began to tremble, and many of them ran into the yard. S. W. Sweeney was one of the passengers and he took refuge behind an oak stump, the top of the tree having already blown down, and he thought that the stump was a safe thing to anchor to, and it was. All the pasengers escaped injury.

Teal season report

TEAL SEASON

The fall teal season was a success. There were not that many teal as we normally have but shooting in most marshes was fair to good.

Where I hunt, we have early flights of teal and before or by 7 a.m. the hunt was over. I did manage to kill one greenwing teal, which is a winter teal and had one bluewinged teal with a band on its leg.

Remember, teal season is closed, also rails and gallinules. These will not reopen until Nov. 21, along with ducks, coots and geese in our area of the state.

The next hunting we can look forward to is the second split of dove season, which opens Oct. 10 thru Nov. 8. Remember on opening weekend, 12 noon is legal shooting hours for Saturday and Sunday.

If you're interested in squirrel or rabbit, the season opens this Saturday, Oct. 3. Archery season on deer opens Oct. 1. The regular gun season on deer opens Oct. 31, in our area, Area 3.

FISHING NEWS

Fishing for saltwater specs and redfish hs slowed some, but still some nice fish being taken. Many of our locals have been hunting and throwing the cast net, picking up 25 pounds of good shrimp per outing.

I have a fishing tip that worked well for me. When we fry fish on open fires or butane burner, we really get a lot of black soot, which is hard to remove. You can help yourself by covering the outside surface of the pot with liquid soap. when you get ready to wash the pot, most of the soot comes off without scrubbing.

HUNTING AND POACHING

Our game agents get many excuses when checking hunters. One Louisiana game warden came upon a hunter who left his duck blind with twice the daily limit. The agent advised the hunter he had broken the law and the hunter looked shocked.

The hunter then claimed he only shot one limit, and the other limit belonged to his hunting partner. The hunter even produced a second shotgun to prove his point.

He then went on to explain to the game agent that his buddy's pager went off right at the end of the hunt and that his buddy had to go to the office on urgent business, and so he asked him to take his ducks and gun home for him.

The only thing, it didn't work. He really couldn't remember the name of his friend. Is this a poacher or just a law breaker?

A poacher is anyone who trespasses or steals or who kills or takes game or fish illegally. Poachers and violators are the same thing; they are someone who knowingly and willfully violates fish and game laws. A commercial poacher is one who takes fish or game for a personal profit.

Here are some of the things going on in our country and overseas as commercial poachers make big money.

Killing an elk and taking just the rack of horns, 6 x 6 and selling it to a wildlife collector for $3000.

Bear paws for $20 each, claws $2, hides $100. Some bears are just gutted for the gallbladder which brings between $2,000 to $8,000 each. Gallbladders of black bears are dried and ground up for medicine for the Oriental countries.

Many deer are sold to local families for $40 to $60 for their meat. Wild ducks are sold for $5 a pair, rabbit for $4 each.

Let's take a full curly desert big horn and a price tag goes to $50,000.

Black market trade with overseas countries amounts to one and half billion dollars on wildlife killed illegally by poachers. Here in the U. S., a good $200 million is sold illegally.

We even have drug dealers trading drugs such as cocaine for walrus tusks which sell for about $50 an ounce. This is big bucks just like drugs. Many guides take clients out to kill out of season for the money. An illegal Colorado mule deer hunt will cost you $3,000. A brown bear hunt in Alaska's Katmai National Park nets the guide a minimum of $10,000. This is big bucks and all of this is tax free.

We as Americans pay dearly for jewelry, furniture and decorations made from wild animals and birds, and lots of them are illegal kills. In Europe, they'll pay $20,000 to $50,000 for an authentic Indian headdress made from bald or golden eagle feathers. Look right here in Louisiana. Our paddlefish, or spoonbill catfish. The season had to close. Why? Roe which is sold as caviar in restaurants sells for $600 a pound in Europe.

Listen to this - in Japan, one bluefin tuna, prized as sushi cost thousands of dollars. Asian countries have a great demand for all these illegal animal and fish parts. Right in our own area ducks and geese have been sold as well as deer meat and rabbits. Bass and especially white perch and right now redfish are being sold.

This all amounts to costing the taxpayers money, not only from agents to trying to catch these poachers, but to replace these species into our wild. Many times the hunters and fishermen get the blame for things that these poachers are doing.

I was asked to start putting the tide predictions in my article, so today I'll start. This is for Calcasieu pass-Cameron.

Why has visitation declined over years?

The custom of friendly visitation seems to have disappeared over the years. What has caused it?

It can't be due to lack of locomotion. Today nearly every family owns two vehicles. Back in the days before automobiles people thought nothing of walking a mile or two to spend a day or an afternoon with a friend. Often an elderly lady would walk just after sunrise in summer while it was cool to a relative's home, visit the whole day, and return before dusk. Today people walk for their health but not to make calls.

Or a family might harness a horse to the buggy and away they would go for a day of family togetherness.

It is true that in earlier times it was the ladies who visited more frequently. Today the majority of women follow careers or work in positions outside the home. They cite work as a barrier to friendly calls. However, those early ladies when at home usually worked from dawn till bedtime. She had no electric servants operating at the touch of a switch -- no washing machines, clothes dryers, dishwashers, microwaves, vacuum cleaners. There was no running water within the house.

Was it because the stay-at-homes grew lonely for the sound of a human voice while today they turn on the radio or television? But then almost all families were large and intergenerational with no lcak of human companionship?

Was it because there were no telephones, and today visiting is done over the phone without the trouble of dressing to go out or the hassle of getting there?

Was it because only church and school furnished an opportunity to socialize whereas today countless clubs and organizations beckon?

Was it because a community was more or less isolated and in it nearly every family was connected to the others by ties of blood or marriage while today the residents are likely to have moved in from various parts of the world? Did the earlier ones feel a kinship that is non-existent today?

Was it because the life of that day moved more slowly and without the encumbrances of modern living? Was it because poeple took time to share their interests in their need for fellowship, and the joy they derived from being with one another?

Perhaps each factor cited above has contributed to the change in visiting customs. Such is understandable. And, yet, we must remember that mankind's greatest happiness lies in beautiful human relations.

Shots fired at boats in bay

An Abbeville man has been charged with attempted second degree murder after shrimp boats were fired upon Friday, Sept. 25, in Vermilion Bay on the Louisiana Gulf Coast, according to the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Fur and Refuge Division employees at the department's Marsh Island Wildlife Refuge received radio calls for assistance Friday morning. Shrimpers reported that a gunman was firing on their vessels. They were also able to provide a description of the alleged gunman's boat, and the Motorboat Registration Number.

Wildlife officers were immediately dispatched from both the Marsh Island facility and the nearby State Wildlife Refuge. At 9:30 a.m. (just 15 minutes following the call), they located the vessel described by the shrimpers, boarded the vessel, and confiscated a 9 mm semi-automatic handgun.

The motorboat operator, identified as 30 year old Pinh D. Tran, of 1606 River Oaks, Abbeville, was arrested and charged with attempted second degree murder by Odilon Marceaux, Supervisor of State Wildlife Refuge. Marceaux was assisted by wildlife specialists from Marsh Island and the State Wildlife Refuge. Tran was booked into the Vermilion Parish jail.

Six named to drain. comm.

A new parishwide drainage committee was appointed by the Cameron Parish Police Jury at the monthly meeting Monday.

Members, who were chosen from each of the parish's six wards, are Earl Guthrie, Benny Welch, Lynn McCall, Sonny McGee, Charles Precht, Jr., Russell Vincent and Ted Joanen.

The committee will work with the district drainage boards throughout the parish to coordinate drainage work throughout the parish.

Hides sold

The fourth annual public sale of alligator hides in Cameron last Friday drew only nine hunters and only 194 hides were sold for a total of $31,046.

This was a big drop from the sale of 1,015 hides for $195,000 by 40 hunters last year.

The sale was delayed this year due to Hurricane Andrew.

Wildlife and Fisheries Agent Kevin Savoie said the hides averaged 7 1/2 feet and brought an average price of about $21.

Savoie said the sale was down since many hunters are now selling the entire animal, meat, hide and all, and also due to a week international market.

Romero named

Howard Romero, of Johnson Bayou, president of Romero Brothers Oil Exchange, Inc. was recently named as one of the 11 new members of the board of directors of the Southwest Louisiana Area Health Care Center.

Boat launch is planned

A new public boat launch will be installed on the West Cove of Calcasieu Lake in the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge as the result of an agreement reached at the Cameron Parish Police Jury meeting Monday.

Refuge Manager Will Neidecker said that the refuge will supply the site and launching pad if the state or the jury would supply the labor and equipment to install the facility.

Neidecker said the launch would be open year round and at no cost to the public and would make access to the lake easier in the area.

The jury agreed to enter into an agreement with the refuge to furnish the labor and equipment for the installation.

No foul play in area death

There was no indication of foul play in the death of a Sweetlake woman who was found dead in her residence Friday, according to Sheriff James (Sono) Savoie.

The sheriff said that friends of Patricia Hartman Hackett, 59, had become worried when they could not reach her by telephone and deputies were sent to investigate.

The house was found locked and the officers had to force their way in. They found the body of Mrs. Hackett, who apparently had been dead for several days.

The sheriff said there was no indication of any foul play in the death.

Local Marine aids victims

Cameron's Cpl. Don Rolland (USMC), a water purification technician stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., poses for the camera at a tent city for Hurricane Andrew victims in Dade County, Fla. Rolland is one of about 1,000 Marines helping Florida's Dade County residents put their lives back together after being forced from their homes by the hurricane.

Rolland, son of Donald and Gloria Rolland, Oil City, enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1989. He is a 1988 graduate of South Cameron High School.

The Marines arrived at Homestead and Florida City Aug. 28, and immediately began connecting power and telephone lines to service the 108 tents that now house nearly 1,000 displaced families at Homestead alone.

Nearly 200 more are being sheltered at Florida City. The two Marine relief centers serve three free hot meals daily, provide hot showers, a place to sleep, and free routine medical and emergency dental care to the residents.

Jury authorizes King's birthday

The Cameron Parish Police Jury Monday voted to make Rev. Martin Luther King's birthday a parish holiday every other year beginning in 1993.

Louise Cole, president of the Cameron Parish NAACP Chapter, had been seeking the parish holiday for several years and recently was successful in getting the Cameron Parish School Board to make King's birthday a school holiday.

She appeared before the jury again Monday to ask that Jan. 18, 1993 be proclaimed Martin Luther King, Jr. Day and to close all parish government buildings on that day.

Jurors indicated they were in favor of the King holiday but did not want to add an extra holiday to the 13 already given to parish employees.

Juror George LeBouef noted that most parish employees get two weeks of vacation plus the 13 holidays, in effect given them an entire month off during the year.

Juror Brent Nunez pointed out that the jury already is trying to make up a shortfall of $800,000 in revenues this year and could not afford an extra holiday.

Someone pointed out that the Calcasieu Police Jury had solved a similar dilemma by alternating the King's Birthday holiday with Presidents Day, with one being observed one year and the other the following year.

Mrs. Cole said she was agreeable to this arrangement and the jury unanimously adopted Dr. King's Day to be observed every other year beginning Monday, Jan. 18, 1993.

King day meet set

A meeting to plan the first parishwide observance of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day in Cameron parish will be held at 7 p.m., Friday, Oct. 17 in the community room of the Calcasieu Marine Bank, according to Louise Cole and Sandra DeShields, co-chairmen of the observance.

The Cameron Parish Police Jury Monday authorized the observance by parish employees every other year beginning next January. The holiday will alternate with Presidents Day every other year.

The chairmen said each church, civic organization, school and business in the parish are invited to send a representative to the meeting.

One of the activities planned for the first observance will be a parade to be held at 1 p.m., on Jan. 18. All marching bands in the area are invited to participate.

Refuge closed

The Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge, located in Cameron Parish, will close all its waters to fishing and other general use after Oct. 15, according to Vicki C. Grafe, Refuge Manager.

The road leading to Lacassine Pool will remain open, however, so people may visit the area all year. Only archery deer hunters may travel on refuge waters between Oct. 16 and Oct. 30.

The purpose of the refuge is to serve as a winter haven for migratory waterfowl.

The refuge will open again to fishing March 1.

Motel tax asked

A proposal to assess a tax on motel and hotel users in Cameron parish so as to provide tourist promotion funds for the parish was tabled by the Cameron Parish Police Jury Monday until its November meeting.

Langford Peavy of Holly Beach, chairman of the Cameron Parish Tourist Commission, told the jury that the commission, created about two years ago, needed the funds to promote tourism here.

Following the creation of the commission, the jury decided at the time not to seek the motel/hotel tax.

Peavy presented the jury with a list about 25 motel, cabin and business owners in the Holly Beach-Hackberry area who attended a meeting in Holly Beach in 1990 and who favored the hotel/motel tax.

Several jurors expressed concern about whether the tax would also include hunters staying at hunting lodges in the parish. District Attorney Glenn Alexander was asked to give the jury an opinion on this at the next meeting.

Jurors appointed

The six members of the Cameron Parish Police Jury have been appointed to steering committees of the National Association of Counties (NACo).

The appointments are: Juror George LeBoeuf, Employment Steering Committee; Juror Russell Badon, Public Lands Steering Committee; Juror Ray Conner, Health Steering Committee; Juror A. Brent Nunez, Intergovernmental Relations Steering Committee; Juror George Hicks, Labor and Employee Benefits Steering Committee; and Juror Douaine Conner, Agriculture and Rural Affairs Steering Committee.

NACo's 12 steering committees form the policy-making arm of the county government.

Chamber meet

The October meeting of the Cameron Parish Chamber of Commerce will be held Thurs., Oct. 15, at 11:30 a.m. in the Chamber office.

Little Pecan center donation announced

Amoco has donated $80,000 to The Nature Conservancy of Louisiana, announced Nancy Jo Craig, Executive Director. The funding will be used for the construction of a establishment of an Environmental Education Center at Little Pecan Island, The conservancy's 1880 acre preserve in Cameron Parish.

"Little Pecan Island is in the heart of the chenier plain and has been identified as one of the nation's most significant wetland/chenier tracts," said Craig. She added that it has received a top rating by the North American Waterfowl Management Plan due to its high quality freshwater marsh and endangered species habitat, which make the area globally important.

"It is also critical habitat for neotropical migratory songbirds in their annual migration from South and Central America," notes David Pashle, The Conservancy's Director of Science.

Glenn DaGian of Amoco, said "This gift will enable the Louisiana field office to create a top-notch facility in the heart of one of the most important ecosystems in the world. Amoco is pleased to join with the Conservancy in what promises to have a positive impact on chenier and marsh restoration as well as significant research on migratory birds."

The facility will house a laboratory, conference area, and sleeping accommodations for scientists and graduate students.

Glaucoma unit to be at Johnson Bayou

A leading cause of blindness in Louisiana will be dealt a blow Monday, Oct. 19, when the Lions Mobile Glaucoma Screening Unit comes to Johnson Bayou.

Glaucoma is a symptomless disease in its early stages, but one whose progress towards blindness can be halted through early detection and treatment. Glaucoma is prevalent among adults.

The test will be given free of charge from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the unit which will be parked at Johnson Bayou High School.

Staffing the unit will be local Lions volunteers headed by Rodney Guilbeaux and Dr. George Isaac of the Louisiana State Association of Optometrists.

No appointments are necessary for the test which takes only a few minutes and is painless.

The Lake Charles High Noon Lions Club announced that screening tests for visual acuity will be given if time permits.

"Considering how serious glaucoma can be if it is not detected in its early stages, this is a rare opportunity to safeguard your eyesight", said David Duplichan, club president.

Project chairman Rodney Guilbeaux also announced that free screening for diabetes would be conducted by a qualified technician during the same hours as the free glaucoma screening.

Tarpons win #5 over Kinder, 39-14

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons once again have used a strong defense and a balanced offensive attack to register win number five of the 1992 season, as they beat previously unbeaten Kinder by the score of 39-14.

The Tarpons first score of the night came when Robert Peshoff tackled the Kinder quarterback in the end zone, scoring a safety for a 2-0 lead. The Tarpons next score came as they drove down to the Kinder 5-yard line and Travis Pradia kicked a 22-yard kickoff. Then on the kickoff the Tarpons Rusty Welch recovered a Kinder fumble on the Kinder 20. Darnell Frank ran the ball into the end zone from the 15 and the Tarpons had a 12-0 lead with the first quarter ending.

Kinder then marched 80 yards in the second quarter scoring on a 20-yard pass from Howard Stagg to Ken Roberts to cut the lead to 12-6.

South Cameron also scored in the second quarter on a 19-yard run by Darnell Frank to lead 18-6 at half time.

The third quarter saw the Tarpons put 7 points on the board on a 3-yard run by fullback Rusty Welch.

In the final quarter the Tarpons scored on a 1-yard run by Rusty Welch and a 5-yard run by Kevin Miller. Travis Pradia kicked both extra points.

Kinder's second touchdown of the night in the third quarter came on a pass from Howard Stagg to Michael Duplichin from 72 yards out.

The Tarpons had 225 yards rushing with Travis Pradia getting 64 yards, Darnell Frank 51, Byron Richard 37 and Jobe Johnson and Rusty Welch, 24 yards each.

Kinder's top rusher was Charles Harris with 25 yards.

The Tarpons had 126 yards passing as Chris McCall hit 6 of 11 passes. Todd Conner had 2 receptions for 79 yards to lead the Tarpon receivers.

The Kinder passing attack accounted for 225 yards as Howard Stagg hit 9 of 21 and had one pass intercepted. Michael Duplichin had 7 catches including one touchdown for 110 yards for the Yellow Jackets.

The Tarpons defense had 3 turnovers, 2 fumble recoveries and one pass interception and forced Kinder to punt 3 times limiting them to only 9 first downs.

The Tarpons were whistled for 10 penalties for 110 yards in the contest.

The Tarpon offense, with a total of 351 yards, never had to punt the ball.

The Tarpons will open district play this Friday, Oct. 9, against Notre Dame at home with the kickoff scheduled for 7 p.m.

Nutria, muskrat symposium set

The Nutria and Muskrat Management Symposium will be held Oct. 8-9 in Baton Rouge.

According to Paul Coreil, wetland and coastal resources program coordinator for the LSU Ag Center's Extension Service, the program site is the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries state headquarters building at 200 Quail Dr.

He says that the purpose of the symposium is to focus attention on the impact of nutria and muskrat on Louisiana's wetlands and adjacent areas. Coreil says that vegetative damage caused by nutria and muskrat overpopulation in wetland areas has been extensive.

"Also, forest landowners and sugarcane farmers have experienced serious nutria-caused depredation problems. The symposium is aimed at identifying problems, exploring possible solutions and at reviewing assistance programs," he adds.

Joining the Ag Center and Extension in co-sponsoring the event are the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, Louisiana Wildlife Biologists Association, Louisiana Land and Exploration Co., and the Louisiana Chapter of The Wildlife Society.

Lions fish tourney report is given

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

A report on the first annual saltwater fishing tournament sponsored by the Cameron Parish Lions Club was given to the club last week by Ed Kelley.

He said it was a great success and figured it will be even better next year.

He also said that the community should really be thankful that Congress had given the Monkey Island Coast Guard property to the parish.

A lot of work was done on the project by many local people, leaders, and the congressmen representing the parish in order to bring it about, he said.

Bub Thuennison, assistant to Congressman Jimmy Hayes, was on hand to outline some of the local projects with which the Congressman has helped.

The Monkey Island parcel, which has been under the control of the Bureau of Land Management, consists of 64 acres stretching across the southern end of Monkey Island and east of La. Highway 27/82. It contains the old Coast Guard Station and has been unused for over a decade.

The Coast Guard will retain three acres on the Island in which a radio beacon is located.

Other projects Hayes has worked on are Corps of Engineers projects including dredging projects, erosion control, the wetlands bill, fighting the TED regulations and the Cameron Prairie Wildlife Refuge Visitors Center.

Dennis R. Sumpter, candidate for Judge of the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals, was a guest.

Carol Watson and Lloyd Jones, representing the Democratic Committee of the state were also guests.

Tarpons to open district play Fri.

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons, with a perfect pre-district worksheet at 5-0, start the second and most important part of their 1992 football schedule this Friday, Oct. 9, at 7 p.m. when the Notre Dame Pioneers come to Erole for the opening district game.

The Pioneers will bring a 2-3 worksheet to town. They have scored victories over DeQuincy and St. Ed's while losing to Parkview Baptist last week.

last year the Pioneers and the Tarpons finished district tied for first with Iota and Lake Arthur. All four teams had 3-2 district worksheets.

The Pioneers were awarded first seeding into the playoffs primarily because of their 28-0 win over South Cameron.

This year things look different as the Pioneers and Tarpons have one common opponent - DeQuincy.

South Cameron beat the Tigers 29-10 while Notre Dame edged DeQuincy 14-6.

The Pioneers are sixth in the district on defense giving up over 300 yards per game. The Tarpons on defense are third in district giving up only 202 yards per game.

On offense the Pioneers have gained 239 yards per game in four games averaging 20.5 points per game. The Tarpons are leading the district on offense with 339 yards per game and nearly 33 points per game.

The Tarpons have been using a stable of running backs to build up their offensive show and quarterback Chris McCall has completed over 50% of his passes.

The Pioneers have had good running and passing from quarterback Cy Link.

The kicking game is also strongly in favor of the Tarpons as they have one of the best place kickers in the area in Travis Pradia.

The Tarpons will take a Number 3 state ranking into the game so they know they can't get overconfident and lackadaisical if they want to maintain the high ranking voted them by the state's sportswriters.

In other district openers, Welsh is at St. Louis and Iota goes to Lake Arthur.

The crystal ball sees the Tarpons scoring a 39-12 victory over the Pioneers.

Grains eligible for price support

Grains stored by farmers in the Sweetlake Land & Oil Company Inc. at Iowa are eligible for price support loans since the facility has been merged with the Hayes Facility and added to the list of warehouses approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Calcasieu-Cameron Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office announced.

The Iowa Facility is now fully complying with the provisions of the uniform grain storage agreement controlling the storage of Government-Owned Grains.

Grain put in the warehouse for storage is now eligible for Price-Support Loans.

Hunter safety course is set

South Cameron High School Physical Education Department will sponsor a Hunter Safety Course at the school Wednesday, Oct. 21, and Thursday, Oct. 22, 5 p.m.

To pre-register call Eddie Benoit or A. J. Seymour, at the Coach's office, 542-4417, giving the name and phone number of each person attending.

Joe's Picks

Florida over L.S.U.; Grambling over Mississippi Valley State; La. Tech over U.S.L.; Northeast over McNeese; Sam Houston State over Nicholls; Alabama over Tulane; North Texas over Northwestern Louisiana; Winston-Salem over Southern.

Deer & Dove seasons

OFFSHORE FISHING

Offshore fishing this past week was almost a no-no. The north winds made the seas a rough place to be, besides the disturbances that were out there. In our inland waters there are still a few Redfish and Black Drum being caught, but it has slowed down quite a bit. In our freshwater marshes, some fish are coming out of Lacassine Refuge but fishing is tough. In our area, most people are fishing ponds for bass and perch.

TEAL SEASON OVER

This is the time of year that hunting starts to get in full swing. Our teal duck season which just finished, was fair. In some marshes it was good, but most of our marshes were fair to poor. There just weren't that many birds down.

DEER AND DOVE

Bow hunting for deer has opened without much luck for the first couple of days. This weekend will start the second split of dove season, Oct 10 through Nov. 8. This should be the best of the three split seasons. Many are cutting hay, which leaves seeds on the ground. Also many are starting to plant their winter rye grass and that usually puts the doves in the field. We also have a good deal of goat weeds and doves like to eat the goat weed seeds.

Our regular gun shooting for deer season will open on October 31 and many are getting their deer stands ready.

A reminder to our bow hunters, the Cameron Prairie National Wildlife Refuge did open October 1 for bow hunting for deer. A news release was in last week's paper on the rules and regulations for the Refuge.

BOATING ACCIDENTS

The national boating sagety people have revealed a seven percent increase in the number or nationwide boating deaths during 1991. However, our state of Louisiana showed a decline in the last four years. A forty nine percent decrease in boating deaths since 1988 for our state and that's good news.

There are 11 million boats registered in the U. S. and Louisiana has 290,812 registered boats.

We here in Louisiana have a BWI law which means Boating While Intoxicated. Many other states do not have this law. It is claimed that alcohol is a major factor in boating accidents and deaths.

BOATING FATALITIES

| United States | Louisiana |
|---|---|
| 1988 (946) | (60) |

Workshop scheduled

The Cameron Community Action Agency in cooperation with the Louisiana Children's Trust Fund, the Louisiana Office of Public Health and the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor a workshop "Every Touch Counts" at the Cameron Parish Health Unit Friday, Oct. 9.

Cindy Richard, Home Economist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service, will present the workshop.

The workshops are free. Lunch is provided and if needed transportation will be provided. Each person attending the workshops will be given a program folder containing numerous educational material, recipes, craft ideas, and much more.

"Our program stresses the idea that every touch, every word, even every look we give our children makes a difference in their lives," a spokesman said.

Register as soon as possible so that they will know how many to prepare lunch for. If you have any questions, call the Cameron Community Action Agency at 775-5145 or the Cameron Cooperative Extension Office at 775-5516.

Last week's workshop was cancelled due to illness.

Trip to Corpus Christi

Last weekend I accompanied my son-in-law and daughter, Charles and Sue, to Corpus Christi. On Saturday Charles played in the annual Conoco Golf tournament, held at the Pharaoh Club golf links.

It was my first visit to Corpus, a most interesting city. I had whiled away the eight-hour drive there by studying the scenery along the way. Of special interest to me were the cotton fields as we drove through the Texas Cotton Belt. Nearly all had been picked over. One held big bolls of fluffy cotton as far as eye could see. They brought back memories of my grandfather's cotton field on Grand Chenier. It was on his farm that I grew up.

That Friday we stopped in Victoria for dinner. We reached our hotel in Corpus about eleven o'clock. Our suite was comfortable and attractive.

Corpus Christi, as most of you know, lies on Corpus Christi Bay from whence its name. The bay is an inlet of the Gulf of Mexico. The name means "body of Christ," and is derived from Latin. In the Roman Catholic Church Corpus Christi is a festival honoring the Eucharist on the first Thursday after Trinity Sunday.

Before the arrival of white men in what is now the Corpus Christi area, Karanhawa Indians lived there. About 1839, Henry L. Kinney, a merchant from Pennsylvania, opened a trading post at the site for the benefit of nearby ranchers. Around 1848, the settlement was named Corpus Christi. It was incorporated as a city in 1852.

On Saturday afternoon two Conoco ladies joined Sue and me, and we drove for miles on Padre Island, a sand bar some 100 miles long. A picture of blue sky and wheat-colored sand dunes are etched in my memory. Padre Island and other sand bars help to protect the Texas coast from damage by Gulf waves.

Padre Island is separated from the mainland by Laguna Madra, a long shallow lagoon. Causeways connect it to Corpus Christi and to Brownsville.

Saturday evening we all attended the Conoco supper held in the Pharaoh Club-house. Trophies and door prizes were presented. Conoco employees from its various divisions enjoyed renewing acquaintances and making new ones.

We returned home Sunday. The ride was long and rather tiresome, broken only by our stop in Houston for lunch. But our thoughts kept returning to the pleasant time we had experienced during the weekend. We promised ourselves that we would return there next year.

Moore says that Louisiana success stories will be featured, including information about the Handmade, Homegrown Festival; the Sabine River Authority's role in developing tourism, cycling and canoeing; a small museum's success, a marketing and promotion partnership, and fishing adventures. There will be a reception and supper at Holly Beach in Cameron Parish.

Bypass surgery or angioplasty: What determines the choice?

By TOMMY L. FUDGE, M.D.

If you need treatment for serious coronary artery disease – blockages in the arteries serving the heart muscle itself – you will generally face one of two prospects.

Either a surgeon will graft a section of artery or vein in place to carry blood around the blockage, or an interventional cardiologist will reopen the blockage from inside the artery, usually by inflating a tiny balloon to flatten the obstructing plaque.

The central question the physician seeks to answer in deciding whether to recommend bypass surgery or angioplasty is this: What is the least invasive approach that will assure that the heart continues to receive an adequate supply of oxygen while the procedure is in progress?

In bypass surgery, the heart is stopped and chilled, so that its oxygen demands are very small. However, it is clearly the more invasive procedure.

Angioplasty, which is carried out through a tiny catheter inside the artery, is far less invasive. But it blocks the artery briefly when the balloon is inflated, which can trigger a heart attack if the blood supply to the heart muscle is already too severely restricted.

In general, bypass surgery is recommended if the blockages are severe and widespread – if three arteries are blocked or the blockages are at critical branching points. However, angioplasty might be recommended for a patient with such blockages if age or infirmity ruled out major surgery.

New angioplasty technologies, like smaller and more flexible catheters, atherectomy tools which cut away and remove plaque, and adjunct devices like stents, which hold blood vessels open following angioplasty, continue to evolve. As they do, the gray area between what is clearly a surgical or nonsurgical patient continues to grow.

In my view, that overlap makes it all the more important that patients obtain an initial treatment recommendation or second opinion from a cardiovascular specialty group whose staff includes both cardiovascular surgeons and interventional cardiologists – a situation which, unfortunately, remains the exception rather than the rule.

Getting Back to Baby Basics

The birth of a baby is a time of overwhelming joy, wonder and loving family closeness, not a time for rules and restrictions that interfere with natural family bonding. That is why Lake Charles Memorial Hospital has implemented a unique new program of family-centered maternity care.

"Babies should experience the loving closeness of family from the moment of birth," said Marilyn McSwain, RNC, Nursing Director of Memorial's Maternal/Child Division. "Unfortunately, many hospitals have so many rules that the birth experience can become cold and institutional," she continued. "At Memorial Hospital, we think it's important for women to have choices and to be in control. After all, it is their birth experience and their baby."

During delivery at Memorial, the comfort and well-being of the mother and baby are the first priorities. Every effort is also made to ensure that dads are an important part of the birthing experience.

Close attention is paid to the mother's personal preferences while at the same time, her physician and the labor and delivery nurses keep a close watch on her medical needs. "If a mother has a special request, such as having grandparents or other children present at the baby's birth, we make every effort to see that it is fulfilled," said McSwain.

After delivery, the mother and baby can be together as much or as little as the mother wishes. A baby care unit, which is a mobile bassinet equipped with oxygen and warming lights, is located in each delivery room so that except in an emergency, the mother and baby recover from the birth experience together. Under normal circumstances, the baby never has to leave the mother, which strengthens the immediate bonding between mother and baby. After the recovery period, the baby can be directly admitted to the mother's postpartum room, where a type of care that is totally new to this area is now provided. One nurse cares for both mother and baby, instead of a separate nurse for each.

"New mothers especially appreciate this more personal type of nursing care," said McSwain. "Having one nurse care for both mother and baby allows a special relationship to develop between the nurse and the new mother. The nurse gets to know the needs of both and can better aid the mother in learning to care for her new baby."

While in the postpartum room, a new mom can keep her baby in the room as much as she likes. The baby can be returned to the nursery at any time during the day or at night so that the new mother can get the rest she needs. Although Memorial treats birth as a healthy, natural process, the staff is also capable of providing the highest level of care that medical science has to offer should complications arise. Full-time physicians who specialize in high-risk pregnancies and premature babies are on staff, and Memorial's facilities are equipped for high-risk and cesarean births.

In addition to the well-baby nursery, Memorial also has an Intermediate Care Nursery and a Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Nursery that provides the highest level of specialized care for infants. This unit has been designated as the Regional Neonatal Referral Center and is staffed with nurses who possess the necessary skills to care for babies who may have special needs. So regardless of the level of care a mother or baby may require, it is readily available at Memorial Hospital.

Memorial's program of family-centered maternity care went into effect in July. Since then the positive response has been overwhelming.

"This was my second baby, and this delivery was drastically different from my first," said one new mother. "It was so nice to be given choices throughout my entire stay," she continued. "And I really liked having one nurse care for both me and my daughter. I felt like she really cared about us and she was available to answer my questions when I needed her."

"The most important aspect of our new program is that at all levels, a conscious effort is made to involve the mother in the decisions regarding her own care as well as those concerning the birth and care of her child," explained McSwain. "Simply put, our goal is to make the birth experience one that, in coordination with the physician, is planned by the family, not by the hospital. Our commitment is to be 100 percent supportive of whatever decisions the parents make."

Alan and Kay Carter, shown here with son Dylan, were one of the first couples to experience Memorial's new program of family-centered maternity care.

New parents Craig and Jill Bebee appreciated the personalized attention and assistance they received from their nurse after the birth of their twins Jonathan and Alex

Education and Support For Diabetics

New Diabetes Education Center

Knowing what causes diabetes and how it is treated is often the first step in dealing with this condition. Now, diabetics in Southwest Louisiana can get the educational guidance they need to get and stay healthy thanks to the new Diabetes Education Center of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital. The Diabetes Education Center, which opened in June, is located at 1517 Oak Park Boulevard in Lake Charles.

The staff of the Diabetes Education Center works closely with a patient's physician to assist the diabetic in understanding and adhering to the prescribed treatment regimen. Many educational programs and services are available at the Diabetes Education Center. They include:

- Educational programs offering basic and advanced self-management skills
- Computerized tracking of blood glucose levels
- Meal planning guidance
- Cooking classes
- Family support counseling
- Support groups
- Patient counseling
- Community lecture series
- Library and Information Center
- Video programs

Some of these programs are free of charge as a community service.

The staff of the Diabetes Education Center includes registered nurses and a registered dietitian. "There is definitely a need for this type of facility in Southwest Louisiana. That's because there seems to be a high rate of diabetes in this area," said Carol Thornton, RN, MSN, Educator/Coordinator of the Diabetes Education Center. Thornton adds that it is very important for diabetics to learn how to manage their diabetes at home with a proper balance of diet, medication, exercise and stress reduction.

The nutritional services provided by the Diabetes Education Center are an important aspect of the total program. "Eating properly is one of the most difficult things for a diabetic to do because of all the good south Louisiana food, which is often high in fat," said Thornton. She adds that one of the things the Diabetes Education Center will provide is educational programs to teach diabetics how to cook their favorite foods so that they're healthier.

People may visit the Diabetes Education Center through either physician, health care agency, or self-referral. For more information, call the Diabetes Education Center at 478-8492.

Atherectomy

A New Approach for Opening Blocked Arteries

Blockage of coronary arteries is the leading cause of death for adults in the United States, and blockage of leg arteries is a major cause of disability. The traditional treatment for a blocked artery is to surgically bypass the area. Balloon angioplasty, an excellent non-surgical procedure to expand arteries, has been used for years as an alternative to surgery, but unfortunately, it is not always successful in preventing re-blockage from occurring.

Now, cardiologists at Lake Charles Memorial Hospital have a procedure available for clearing blocked arteries that offers advantages over previous methods for some patients.

This illustration shows how an atherectomy device is used to remove blockages from arteries.

The procedure is called atherectomy, and according to William R. Condos, Jr., M.D., Associate Medical Director of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital's Cardiology Unit, the basic concept behind atherectomy is to remove the blockage rather than expand it.

"Unlike balloon angioplasty which crushes the blockage against the artery wall, coronary atherectomy uses a device that actually cuts the blockage and removes the fragments from the blocked area," said Dr. Condos. "The major advantage of an atherectomy is that it's been shown to decrease the likelihood of re-blockage in certain cases."

Both atherectomy and balloon angioplasty are done under local anesthesia in Memorial's Cardiac Catheterization Lab. During a balloon angioplasty, a balloon-like device is inserted in the artery, inflated to press the blockage against the walls of the artery, and then removed.

During an atherectomy procedure, the atherectomy device is inserted into an artery in the leg and travels along a soft wire to the blockage with the help of x-ray guidance. The same type of balloon used in the angioplasty procedure is sometimes used to pre-dialate the artery before atherectomy.

Memorial currently uses an atherectomy device called the Simpson Atherocath. This device combines a spinning, cylindrical cutter that shaves off portions of blockages, and a collection chamber to remove the cut pieces.

"As with any medical procedure, atherectomy is not the right treatment for everyone," said Dr. Condos. "But in the right circumstances, it can be a very successful, nonsurgical alternative for the treatment of blocked arteries in the heart or the legs."

For more information about the atherectomy procedure, call Memorial's Cardiology Department at 494-3245.

NEW OSTEOPOROSIS CENTER ADDRESSES SPECIAL NEEDS

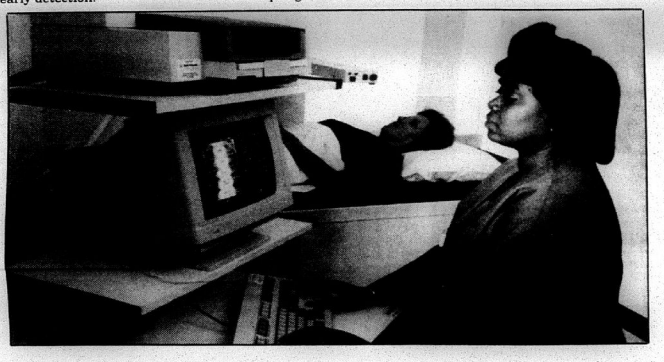
The term "osteoporosis" often brings to mind an image of a hunched-over, elderly woman. However, osteoporosis isn't just a problem of older people. In fact, you can begin developing risk factors for osteoporosis in your 30's or even 20's.

Osteoporosis causes 1.5 million fractures per year in the United States. Many of these fractures occur in the spine, wrist or hip. Hip fractures can be serious. Anywhere from 12% to 25% of those who fracture their hip die from complications. Others will need long-term care or some type of assistance just to get around.

There are things that can be done to prevent or reduce the risk of osteoporosis. For that reason, Lake Charles Memorial Hospital has opened the Osteoporosis Center which is designed to educate the community about osteoporosis and stress the importance of early detection.

The Osteoporosis Center of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital is dedicated to screening and educating high-risk patients and teaching them how to increase or maintain their bone mass in an effort to prevent osteoporosis from developing in the future.

The Osteoporosis Center uses the Hologic-1000 Bone Densitometer to measure bone density. This technologically-advanced machine is painless and exposes the patient to a minimal amount of radiation. The Bone Densitometer detects bone mass loss much sooner than a traditional X-ray. With the information obtained from bone mass measurements, physicians can assess an individual's likelihood of future fractures. Bone mass measurements are just one of the tools to determine a person's chances of getting osteoporosis and should be used in conjunction with a total program of medical treatment supervised by a knowledgeable physician.



Each person having a bone density test will also complete a questionnaire about their health history and lifestyle habits. Sharon Carter, RN, BSN, Coordinator of the Osteoporosis Center works with the patients to educate them about osteoporosis. Based on the bone density test and the questionnaire, Carter and the Osteoporosis Center staff work with each patient's physician to make specific recommendations on how the patient might reduce the risk of developing osteoporosis.

For more information about the Osteoporosis Center of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital, call your personal physician or call the Osteoporosis Center at 494-2655 between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Providing that Special, Personal Touch

A trip to the hospital once meant spending time in a cold institutional type facility and eating food with absolutely no hope of flavor. Today, Lake Charles Memorial Hospital is changing the face of this sour image with its new Guest Relations and Hostess programs. The two new departments were designed to add a human touch to Memorial's cutting edge technology and to address all of the needs of its guests.

From delicious food to down-home friendliness, the new departments consist of smiling faces whose sole purpose is to meet all of the needs of the customer. The new image can be seen beginning right at the doors where guest relations representatives are located to answer questions about patient room numbers, city travel accommodations, or to offer a hospitality room to out-of-town visitors. The department serves as a concierge service between staff and guests in order to remove some of the common anxieties people have when visiting a hospital. For example, instead of giving verbal directions that may be confusing, the representatives are trained to take the visitor where they need to go.

Lezlie Chapman, Guest Relations Supervisor, says, "Medical technology has gotten so advanced that sometimes the human touch is put aside. We are proud to provide part of that special touch that sets Memorial apart." Chapman adds that the department has gotten some wonderful feedback from guests. "When patients are in the hospital for an extended period of time we get to know their families. Some even stop by after they're well just to see how we are doing - that's the personal touch I'm talking about."

Another program that has received rave reviews at Memorial from both patients and their families is the new Hostess Program. The hostesses can be found on all patient floors and provide a more personal level of communication with the patients. The primary purpose of the hostesses is to ensure that the patient receives more services and attention than they expect.

All of the hostesses are required to have at least two years of college and many of them have their degrees. "The job of being a hostess is a professional position where all of the employees are trained to anticipate the needs of the patient and to make the meals as pleasant as possible," explained Terrye Stidham, Program Director.

Patients have been known to get very excited when they see Memorial's new dessert cart. The tray is served every evening to both patients and guests and it is loaded with delicious pastries and gourmet desserts. Stidham says, "I guess patients expect to see a thin slice of cake or a few cubes of Jello, but when they see our idea of dessert they get really excited - we like to see that."

The Hostess Department not only helps with the dining experience but also eases some of the burdens of the nurses by taking care of problems with room accommodations such as a broken television or a light bulb that needs to be replaced. Each patient is given their own personal hostess to ensure that they receive the services and attention they deserve.

The primary purpose of both the Hostess and Guest Relations Departments is to make the dining experience and stay at Memorial Hospital as enjoyable as possible. Although Memorial provides cutting edge technology, the hospital also realizes the power of the human touch can never be underestimated.

OSTEOPOROSIS ARE YOU AT RISK?

More than 25-million Americans, primarily women, suffer from a bone weakening disease called osteoporosis. Osteoporosis literally means "porous bones." Bones that were once strong become fragile. Osteoporosis often progresses, gradually without pain, until a fracture occurs. In many cases, a fracture is the first sign of the disease.

The cause of osteoporosis is not known. However, risk factors have been identified which, when present, increase your likelihood of developing osteoporosis. If you have several of these risk factors, that doesn't mean you will definitely develop osteoporosis or have a fracture, but rather that your chances of this happening are increased. On the other hand, some individuals who do not appear to be at risk may develop fractures caused by osteoporosis. The risk factors are:

- Gender - Women are about four times more likely to develop osteoporosis than men.
- Thin, small-framed body - Thinner, small boned people are at greater risk of developing osteoporosis because they have less bone to lose than larger, big-boned people.
- Decreased sex hormones - Estrogen seems to protect against bone loss. Early menopause, natural or caused by the surgical removal of the ovaries, can increase a woman's chance of developing osteoporosis because the protective effect of estrogen is lost at an earlier age. For men, decreases in the male hormone testosterone can cause bone loss.
- Lack of calcium - Calcium is needed throughout life to build and maintain strong, healthy bones.
- Race - Caucasians and Asians are at higher risk for developing osteoporosis.
- Heredity - Susceptibility to fracture may be due, in part, to heredity. Try to remember if a grandmother or great-grandmother ever had a hip fracture, possibly due to osteoporosis.
- Cigarette smoking - No one is sure exactly why smoking hastens bone loss. One theory is that the chemicals in cigarettes are toxic to bone cells.
- Alcohol - Regular alcohol consumption may be damaging to bones, even in relatively young to middle-aged people.
- Certain medications - High doses of glucocorticoids, antiseizure drugs or thyroid hormone can lead to a loss of bone tissue.

Camp Bluebird a Huge Success

Lake Charles Memorial Hospital sponsored the first area Camp Bluebird in May. Camp Bluebird is a camp specifically for adult cancer patients. The name comes from the bluebird which is the sign of hope.

Camp Bluebird is designed to give cancer patients time away from their families to establish their own independence and share a few days with others who are going through the same experience. Ten campers attended the first camp session which was held at Bundick Lake Retreat. A number of Memorial Hospital employees, including nurses, auxiliary members and others, volunteered as camp workers.

A second Camp Bluebird is being held on October 22-24. Anyone interested in attending should contact the Nursing Education Department of Memorial Hospital at 494-3218.

What is VHA?

Autumn House

What do you do when your spouse, parent, or another loved one needs special attention and care during the day - care you are unable to provide? For many people, Autumn House of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital is the answer. Autumn House provides adult day care on a regular basis.

Norman Boudreaux says Autumn House has been good for both him and his wife Dottie, who goes to Autumn House several days a week. Dottie was diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease in 1989. Boudreaux says Autumn House offers Dottie social interaction, while it gives him an opportunity to have some time to himself and to run errands. "I think Dottie would be worse off if she didn't come here. I think it's allowed me to keep her at home longer, instead of putting her into a nursing home," said Boudreaux. In addition to the assistance Boudreaux says he receives from the Autumn House staff, he also gets help from Memorial's AdvantAge 50 Alzheimer's Support Group.

Autumn House offers a "homey" atmosphere with a qualified staff who do everything possible to offer security, care and companionship to members of the Autumn House "family." Activities are designed to suit the needs of each individual.

One goal of Autumn House is to extend the time an older adult can enjoy the advantages of staying home. Annie Lou Cox says this was certainly the case with her husband Ernest. Ernest was diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease in 1989, and came to Autumn House twice a week until a few months ago when he went into a nursing home. Although Cox thinks highly of the nursing home in which Ernest currently resides, she's grateful for the extra time she had Ernest at home thanks to the services of Autumn House.

Cox says as her husband's physical and mental condition grew progressively worse, Autumn House allowed her to have some time to herself. She says this was very important due to the extra stress of being a caretaker for her husband. Cox is so fond of the Autumn House staff that she still drops by regularly to visit. Cox says one of the nicest things about Autumn House was the peace of mind it gave her. "When I left him there I didn't have to worry about anything," said Cox. She adds, "The Autumn House staff serves balanced meals and is very attentive as far as making sure everyone gets their proper medication. It's family here."

Affordable care is available at Autumn House Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Programs and activities offered at Autumn House include continuous supervision, individual plans of care, a family environment, security, companionship and social interaction, a hot lunch and two snacks, hobbies, crafts and other activities.

Autumn House is fully licensed by the state of Louisiana and all of its services are under direct professional supervision. Autumn House is also part of the United Way family, with subsidized fees available for qualified low-income clients. One of the newer Autumn House services is free transportation from a client's home to and from Autumn House.

Autumn House is located at 2120 Oak Park Boulevard in Lake Charles. For more information about Autumn House call 474-8732 during normal business hours, Monday through Friday.

What are Advance Directives?

As medical care improves and technology advances, more people are becoming concerned about what medical care they would like to receive if they become terminally ill or unable to communicate. An increasing number of people are taking these decisions into their own hands before the possibility of the illness arises. Advance directives offer a legal process that allows a person to state, in detail, the care they would desire should they become seriously ill.

What are advance directives? As explained in the American Hospital Association's "Put It in Writing," advance directives are "formal documents written in advance of serious illness that state your choice for health care, or names someone to make those choices, if you become unable to make decisions."

There are two types of advance directives: living wills and durable, or medical, powers of attorney for health care. Living Wills are personal declarations. They relate to life-prolonging features. Living Wills allow the patient to make life determinations concerning life support or intravenous nutrition. It should be discussed and shared with family and physician, as well as made a part of the person's permanent medical record.

Durable powers of attorney for health care relate to medical care. Durable powers of attorney name another person to make medical decisions for the individual if he/she is unable to make them for themselves. This process is different from living wills because durable powers of attorney do not allow the individual to make life determinations if the situation should arise. A lawyer is not necessary when carrying out either advance directive, but a lawyer could explain to the individual about possible legalities or terms expressed in the forms.

Charles Viccellio, a local attorney, explains, "Advance directives give you the opportunity to make your own decisions." He recommends that decisions are put in writing and expressed verbally to family, friends and physician to prevent possible altercations in the future.

Policies vary in different states, but in Louisiana, advance directives are legal and are taken into consideration when necessary. Edith Stine, Director of Lake Charles Memorial Hospital's Business Office, says that all patients at Memorial are asked if they have advance directives. If so, the decisions of the patient are followed. "There is no problem if a patient has an advance directive," said Stine.

For more information about advance directives write to: Choice and Dying 200 Varick Street New York, N.Y. 10014 (212) 366-5540.

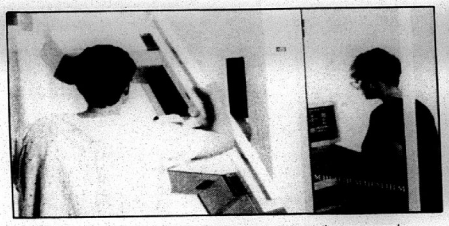
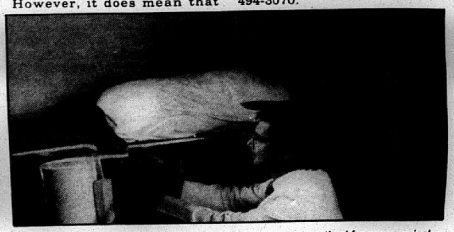
New Equipment Provides Advanced Breast Cancer Detection Capabilities



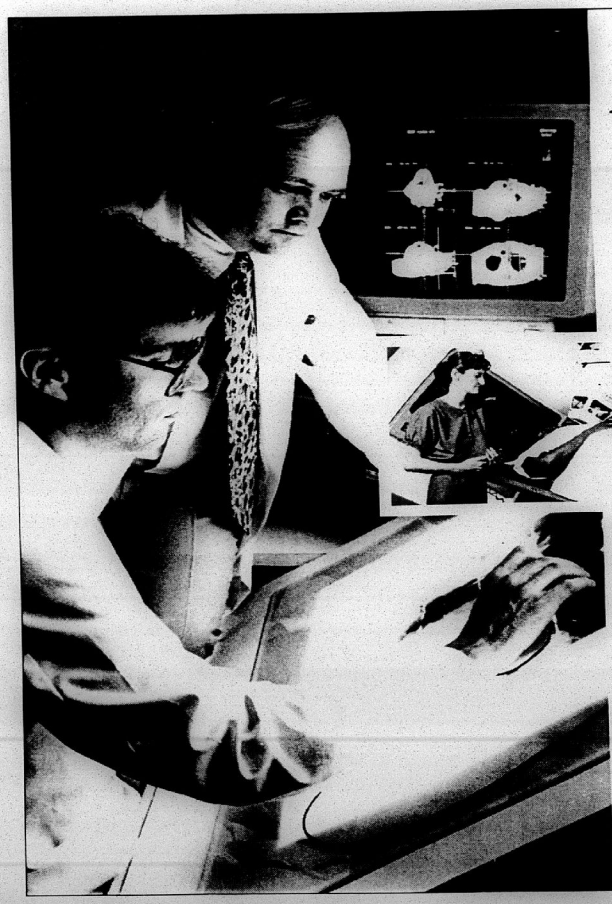
A new piece of equipment at Lake Charles Memorial Hospital offers an alternative to surgical breast biopsies. The Stereotactic Breast Biopsy Table combines mammography with computer-assisted biopsy. The equipment is currently only being used in several hundred medical centers nationwide, mostly in large cities.

The instrument is an alternative to surgical biopsy. With stereotactic biopsy, a woman lies facedown with her breast protruding through an opening on the table. Mammographic equipment locates the lump in the breast. With the patient under local anesthesia, a computer-directed needle is inserted into the breast by the radiologist and a core of tissue is removed for biopsy. Because a needle is used, the procedure does not leave a scar.



Stereotactic Breast Biopsy is not for everyone and will not make surgical biopsy obsolete. However, it does mean that fewer women will have to undergo major surgery for what may turn out to be a benign lump.

Lake Charles Memorial Hospital also has a new mammography machine. It's called the Lorad III and is one of the most technologically advanced mammography machines available. It provides a lower dose of radiation than some of the older mammography machines and also allows radiologic technologists to know exactly how much radiation a patient is being exposed to. "We're able to put the exposure parameters on the X-ray film. That gives us an accurate record of the radiation exposure rate for each patient," said Gale Lofties, RT(R), Administrative Director of Radiology at Lake Charles Memorial Hospital.



For more information about either procedure, call Memorial's Radiology Department at 494-3070.

Japanese Executives Visit Memorial
Imaging Management System Draws International Attention

The news is usually filled with stories about the United States following Japan's lead in the field of technology. But recently, two representatives of IBM/Japan came to Lake Charles Memorial Hospital to observe the hospital's new imaging management system which they may want to develop and promote in Japan.

The system was created by genesys, but this company was aided in the development of some of the system software by the staff of Memorial Hospital. According to Gale Lofties, Administrative Director of Radiology, the imaging system may be the only one of its kind in the United States.

The new imaging system allows radiologists and other physicians to pull up patient images on the computer monitor. It provides for simultaneous viewing of x-rays from various points in the hospital. The imaging system also allows physicians to manipulate the x-ray image by zooming in, zooming out or changing the image contrast.

The new imaging system will reduce lost x-ray film and increase efficiency by getting the x-ray image to the radiologist and the referring physician in a timely manner.

Memorial Opens New Units

Recently there have been many changes and additions to Lake Charles Memorial Hospital. Two of these are the expansion of 7 Tower and the relocation of Oncology to 4 Tower. With the move came more room for both units and a chance to specialize and offer better services to all patients and their specific needs.

7 Tower will now be mainly used as a medical unit. Kathy Sterba, RN, Director of Nursing for Ancillary Services, says 7 Tower will now be a 31-bed medical unit. There will be no telemetry patients. The unit is available to cancer patients, but only those who are receiving neither chemotherapy nor radiation therapy. Sterba says she is excited about the new medical unit. "This unit geared specifically for medical patients means we can concentrate on the unique needs of those patients."

4 Tower/Oncology will now be able to devote more attention to the special needs of Oncology patients themselves. Outpatient services include blood transfusions, chemotherapy, antibiotic therapy, and bone marrow aspirations.

Emily Brewster, RN, CNS, educates patients and families on chemotherapy and access devices so patients can learn to take care of themselves at home. 4 Tower/Oncology offers special education on radiation implants. There is one room specifically designed for implant patients.

"The nurses are on this unit because they enjoy this specialty," said Michelle Gibson, RN, Oncology Head Nurse. She adds, "Everyone who chose to move to 4 Tower is excited. We are looking forward to concentrating on providing special services to the patients and their families."

Poison Control Center Offers Fast, Accurate Help

You walk into the bathroom and find your two-year-old son with an opened bottle of medication in his hand. You're not sure exactly what or how much he may have taken. What do you do? Well, calling the Lake Charles Memorial Hospital Poison Control Center will offer quick answers over the phone and solid medical advice on how to handle the situation.

The Poison Control Center, located in the hospital's Emergency and Trauma Center, uses a computer to pull up information about all types of potential poisons, from medications to plants to snake bites. Even if you can't identify what type of medication was taken, the computer can find out based on a code number on the pill.

Paul Fusilier, RN, Nurse Manager of the Emergency and Trauma Center, says the Poison Control Center can provide information on how to treat someone who has ingested a poison. The staff of the Poison Control Center can also tell you whether the poison victim should seek treatment in an emergency room.

Fusilier says the center averages about 300 calls per month from throughout Louisiana. Many of those calls are from scared parents whose children have gotten into something they shouldn't have. "We get a lot of calls from parents whose kids have gotten their hands on vitamins or chewable medications for example. We also get quite a few questions about children who've taken a bite or two out of a house plant," said Fusilier.

The computer at the Poison Control Center can also call up information which will help to identify poisonous varieties of snakes in cases of snake bites.

The Poison Control Center can offer valuable information when you need it fast. You can call the Poison Control Center 24-hours-a-day at 494-3034.

Chinese ag delegation visits here

Members of a Chinese delegation seeking agricultural knowledge visited the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge to tour and learn about alligator farming.

Deputy Minister of Agriculture Chen Yaochun and other representatives of China were welcomed by La. Wildlife and Fisheries Biologists Ted Joanen, Tom Hess and Larry McNease and given a two-day presentation which included taking the delegation to view the total production activity involved in raising alligators. The group was also eager to know more about chicken and the poultry industry.

The Chinese ministers are interested in entering into business ventures with neighboring countries, notably Taiwan, for alligator/crocodile markets as a source of economic opportunity for China. Joanen said that they inquired about both concepts and productivity as well as food chains and economics and he believed they were pleased with the information they obtained.

The delegation was scheduled to visit other U. S. locations including Florida, Kentucky and Texas.

Fiber optic work slated

The Cameron Telephone Company has applied for a coastal use permit to install approximately 44 miles of fiber optic cable along public road rights of way and under waterways in Cameron and Calcasieu parishes.

The cable will be laid from the company's office in Carlyss southward along Hwy. 27 into Cameron parish, through Hackberry and Holly Beach, and then eastward along Hwy. 27/82 through Cameron to the Cameron Telephone Co. office just east of Cameron.

The new fiber optic cable will permit better telephone service for Cameron Parish and also will enable the Cameron parish school board to implement new types of telecommunication classes in parish schools.

F... trip policy amended by board

The Cameron Parish School Board had a relatively short monthly meeting Monday with just a few items on the agenda.

Although seven of the school board's 16th sections were up for surface lease bids, bids were received on only two of them.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service bid $4,000 a year for five years on Section 16-12-5, which is in the Lacassine Wildlife Refuge. Bryan Domingue bid $3500 on Section 16-14-5.

Lois Gordon was hired as the special education bus aide for the Cameron area from 13 applicants.

The board voted to amend its field trip policy for parish schools to permit classes to take short nearby field trips at the principal's discretion in addition to one longer trip during the year.

The board also urged principals to discourage long field trips for young children. It was noted that some classes have been taken the five-hour ride to see the New Orleans aquarium. Although the board did not forbid such trips, they indicated they were not too much in favor of them.

It was also pointed out by Supt. Sonny McCall that any funds raised in the community for such trip would have to be handled through the principal's office.

Two teachers were named assistant principals at their elementary schools although they will receive no additional pay. They are Carol Wainwright at Grand Chenier elementary and Josie Boudreaux as South Cameron elementary.

Doug Welch was named to a similar post at Johnson Bayou school last month.

The December school board meeting was changed from Dec. 14 to Dec. 7.

The board voted to oppose a constitution amendment which empower the governor to cut all constitutionally guaranteed state funds by 10 percent as this could include the school equalization fund.

Diane Taylor, Grand Lake high lunchroom worker, was given a leave without pay until Jan. 11 due to health reasons.

First Masonic Lodge formed 114 years ago

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

On April 27, 1878 fourteen men came together to organize a Masonic Lodge in Johnson Bayou which was chartered on Feb. 15, 1879 by the Grand Lodge of Louisiana.

The local men named their lodge Blue Buck Lodge No. 227 and set their meeting dates for "the Saturday before the full moon."

John Paul Crain a member of the Cameron lodge, explained that this was in the days that the men all rode horseback to the meetings, and they were better able to see where they were going in the full of the moon.

The lodge was located in the small hamlet of Berry which is no longer in existence. It is believed that it lasted only until around 1909 because that is when the Berry post office was discontinued, after having been established in 1898, employing only two postmasters, August Pavell and John A. Peveto.

Berry was described as a small hamlet located four miles from Sabine Lake and six miles from the Gulf of Mexico. Located there were a school, church, store, cotton gin, post office and a grave yard.

It was named after an early family who lived there and had three daughters named after states - Mississippi, Virginia and Missouri.

Mrs. Berry and two of the daughters, Virginia and MIssouri, are said to have been victims of the 1886 hurricane, when most of the survivors left Johnson Bayou to move elsewhere, many to Orange, Tex.

Mr. Berry died a nautral death and Mississippi married August Pavell.

Berry was located where the Crain Brothers have their trapping camp and hunting lodge.

Remember Cameron's earthquake in 1958?

(Cameron Pilot, (Oct, 16, 1959)

A small earthquake apparently hit Cameron Parish at about 10 a.m. Wednesday, although it lasted for only a moment or two and caused no damage.

The tremor, which was felt in Cameron, Creole, Sweetlake and other parts of the parish, was first thought to have been an explosion. But shortly afterwards the New Orleans Times-Picayune called Sheriff O. B. Carter and reported that Loyola University had recorded an earth tremor on their seismograph at about that time 25 miles south of Lake Charles.

At Creole, Harold Carter, Chevrolet dealer, reported that the quake felt similar to the Texas City explosion which occurred a number of years ago and was felt in the parish.

He said there was a rumbling noise and the windows and doors of the building shook and rattled. He said it felt like a "load of dynamite" going off.

His wife described the quake as "three big waves that shook the entire building."

Mrs. Norma Jean Blake, deputy tax collector in the sheriff's office, said that people in the courthouse did not feel the quake but that it was felt by many around town.

A check with McNeese State College by the Pilot revealed this information: earth tremors are not at all uncommon in this area, but most are so small they are rarely felt by the average person.

Richard J. Sullivan, assistant professor of the physical science department, said that the unconsolidated formations in the earth here ordinarily prevent earthquakes from being felt very far. He said that there had never been any big earthquakes recorded here.

REMEMBER? By Keith Hambrick

3,952 population in 1920

(Abbeville Meridional, Oct. 16, 1909)
LAKESIDE LACONICS

Joe Benoit of Grand Chenier, who was working here for a time, was called home on account of the illness of his children who were taken with whooping cough.

A man working at Lowery killed his wife Sunday. Some domestic trouble arose and he shot her three times killing her and tried to shoot himself but remained alive to be caught and made to answer for his crime.

(Lake Charles American Press, Oct. 15, 1920)
CAMERON CENSUS DATA

In 1920, Cameron Parish had 3,952; in 1910, 4,288; in 1900, 3,952. (same as 1920).

TAX NOTICES

More than 4,500 Cameron Parish property tax notices were mailed out by the sheriff's office this past week, an increase of several hundred over the number for last year.

Mrs. Norma Jean Blake, deputy tax collector, estimated that some 60 to 75 percent of these notices went to persons living outside the parish who own property here.

HACKBERRY FIRE STATION

A $9,860.26 contract for the construction of the new Hackberry fire station was let to the Dyson Lumber Co. of Cameron by the police jury last week.

TB TESTS FOR CATTLE

The tests are being made by Dr. W. L. Trahan, area federal veterinarian, who with Fontenot, met with some 30 cattlemen at the Grand Lake school to plan the testing program. Eight cattlemen agreed to have their herds tested at that time and more expected to do so soon.

Some 367 head of diseased cattle have been found in the Johnson Bayou area during the past several years, thereby requiring a large number of head to be tested in the parish. However, recent tests in Johnson Bayou have found the herds now free of TB.

NEW HOSPITAL RECEIVES NAME

Cameron Parish's new hospital will be officially known as the South Cameron Memorial Hospital, if has been announced by the hospital's board of supervisors.

The board, which met Tuesday night at James L. Derouen's home, made tentative plans to dedicate the hospital as a memorial to the area sevicemen who lost their lives in World Wars I & II and the Korean War.

Dr. Cecil Clark, board member, pointed out that there is no memorial to these servicemen anywhere in the parish now. He said that this gesture would also serve as a tribute to the Louisiana American Legion, which raised more than $50,000 of the funds with which to build the hospital.

Cameron Outdoors

By Loston McEvers

REMINDERS

I'll start today's news with some reminders. First, many of our young poeple love to hunt and many will be wanting to hunt this duck season. Remember, anyone born on Sept. 1, 1969 or after has to show when they took a hunter's education course and give the number of the permit whenever or before you can purchase a basic hunting license.

South Cameron High School Physical Education Department will sponsor a free La. Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Hunters Course at the High School at 5 p.m. Oct. 21 and 22. Call Eddie Benoit or A. J. Seymour at the coach's office, 542-4417 to pre-register. You must be at least 10 years old for this class.

Second, as you read this, remember Lacassine and Sabine Refuges are now closed to fishing until next March. Archery deer hunters can still travel on refuge waters until Oct. 30.

Third, to our local commercial shrimpers, be sure when shrimping, you watch the count on your shrimp. There have been quite a few citations issued for undersize shrimp, especially on the Mermentau River in Grand Chenier.

Our area fishing for freshwater is now almost limited to private marshes or ponds. I did get a chance to fish a private pond last week and caught a 3 1/2 pound bass, along with a 1 1/2 pound and a nice white perch.

FISHING & HUNTING

Saltwater fishing is still in full swing. Good reports on Redfish and a few Speckle Trout were taken this past week. Flounder fishing is slow, but I think it will pick up.

Dove season was open last weekend and we'll bring you the results in our next issue.

I would like to let you know a few of the facts I found out about the Atchafalaya Basin. Many of us make a couple of trips down there each year and this is the time of year one of the trips takes place.

An emergency declaration issued from the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries took effect on Oct. 1. Any largemouth bass taken in the area has to be at least 14 inches in length. There are certain areas from the Thibodaux area, Port Allen area, Henderson and Morgan City-Franklin areas which are affected. You need to check these boundaries before fishing.

These are estimates from wildlife and fish lost from Hurricane Andrew, thirty five million sports fish, five million largemouth bass, plus bream, white perch, catfish, drum and many other freshwater species.

This 14 inch limit on bass is in for 120 days but a hearing will be conducted and it could become permanent for three years.

Eighty five million commercial species were also killed along the coast.

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries will begin releasing fingerlings in the area. The agency wants to release 4 million bass, 1 million white perch and 2 million catfish.

Freshwater fish killed in the Atchafalaya Basin is estimated at a value of 175 million dollars. The largemouth bass alone is estimated at a value of 2.2 million dollars.

Saltwater species lost is at an estimated value of around 8 million dollars and the public oyster beds at $3.5 million.

Fur bearing animals and alligator death losses are estimated at five million dollars and timber loss at $1.5 million. The hunting industry has a $500,000 loss. If you take the loss to the state, including natural resources, impact on industry and impacts on the department, you will come up with a 300 million dollar loss and that could rise.

Something else, if you are traveling in that area by boat, be careful of downed timber and structures in the water.

I plan to wait until November to make a trip down there and I'll let you know more.

Rabbit and squirrel season has opened in our area. I see a great decline in our rabbit population in most of Cameron Parish. Most people say it is due to the fire ants, wild dogs and coyotes.

We do have a few squirrels in our area, especially Grand Chenier, but don't plan on going out and getting a limit , three or four maybe, a limit, no.

La. boundaries are redefined

Recent legislation has changed and redefined inside/outside boundary lines for shrimpers in Louisiana waters. Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries officials say that the changes in the boundaries were enacted primarily to give those shrimping along the coast a more definable area with specific visual landmarks.

According to LDWF Marine Fisheries biologist Brandt Savoie, past law defined the shrimping areas in very broad terms, basically describing latitude/longitude points. The law which became effective in August makes it easier for shrimpers and commercial fishermen to determine just where the inside/outside boundary is located along the coastline, Savoie said.

Only a portion of the boundary line was redefined. The change was necessary too, because of natural changes occurring in the Louisiana shoreline. As a result of the new law, outside waters are expanded so that more area can be covered by shrimpers. The line of demarcation between the inside waters and the outside waters for shrimping begins at the coastal boundary between Texas and Louisiana and ends at the coastal boundary between Mississippi and Louisiana.

That portion where the boundary is redefined commences at Lake Pelto and extends to the Terrebonne Bay waters. Fixed lights, tank batteries, and rock jetties are now being used as landmarks which make locating boundaries easier than before.

Tarpons take big win over Pioneers

By JOE MUELLER

The third ranked South Cameron Tarpons opened district play last Friday night at home with a 27-6 victory over the Notre Dame Pioneers.

The Tarpons, who are 6-0 in all games, share first place in district with Iota, this Thursday's opponent, and Welsh.

The Tarpons scored 13 fourth quarter points to break open a 14-6 game.

The Tarpons scored first in the contest as Byron Richard scored on a 1-yard run with 4:55 left in the opening quarter. The 1-yard plunge by Richard culminated a 53-yard drive on the Tarpons first possession of the game.

The Tarpons second touchdown came as Rusty Welch recovered a Pioneer fumble at the Notre Dame 3-yard line. Two plays later Chris McCall scored on a 2-yard run, Todd Conner ran in the extra point and the Tarpons were up 14-0 with 6:30 left to go before halftime.

The Pioneers scored with only 33 seconds left in the first half on a 4-yard pass from Ryan Link to Craig Cormier. The Pioneers good field position came when the Tarpons center snapped the ball over the punter's head and the Pioneers recovered at the 24.

The teams played a scoreless third quarter, then early in the fourth quarter the Tarpons increased the margin to 20-6 on a 2-yard run by Byron Richard.

The Tarpons final touchdown of the night came on a 2-yard run by Jody Lavergne.

The Tarpon defense had an excellent game as the Pioneers were held to a minus 16 yards on the ground. The Tarpons forced the Crowley team to punt nine times and recovered a pair of fumbles. Notre Dame could only collect five first downs on the night.

Meanwhile, on offense the Tarpons had 189 yards rushing and 62 passing as Chris McCall hit 7 of 12 aerials. The Tarpons top rusher was Jobe Johnson with 39 yards while Chris McCall, Rusty Welch, Byron Richard and Todd Conner all rushed for over 20 yards. Todd Conner had three interceptions to pace the Tarpons.

South Cameron will be on the road this Thursday, Oct. 15, at Iota to face the Bulldogs in a showdown for first place in District 6AA. The Bulldogs are also 6-0 on the year and are ranked #4 in the state by the Louisiana Sportswriters Association.

Joe's Picks

By JOE MUELLER

Well, the crystal ball was pretty clear last week as I hit on 14 of 17, missing only DeQuincy vs Vinton in the high school ranks. My overall selection record now is 72-33.

This week the crystal ball says:

Lake Arthur over St. Louis; Welsh over Notre Dame; Vinton over Rosepine; Pickering over Kinder; DeQuincy over South Beauregard; South Cameron over Iota.

McNeese over N.W. Louisiana; Northeast over Sam Houston; La. Tech over E. Tennessee State; Southern over Jackson State; U.S.L. over Cal St. Fullerton; L.S.U. over Kentucky.

Houston over Denver; New Orleans over Phoenix; Dallas over Kansas City.

Tarps, Bulldogs to clash Thurs. night

By JOE MUELLER

Well fans, get your traveling clothes and head for Iota tonight as one of the feature football matches of recent years will take place as the South Cameron Tarpons and the Iota Bulldogs square off in a game scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Both of the teams sport 6-0 records overall and both are 1-0 in district. That's not all. They bring state rankings with them. South Cameron, with 87 points, is ranked third by the Louisiana Sportswriters, while the Bulldogs have 79 points in the poll, good for fourth place.

The Bulldogs have beaten Jonesboro Hodge who are ranked tenth in the 3A poll; Church Point, Loureauville, Rayne, Pickering and Lake Arthur, while the Tarpons victims have been DeQuincy, Opelousas Catholic, Vermilion Catholic, Pickering, Kinder and district opponent Notre Dame.

The teams statistically are fairly evenly matched on offense with Iota averaging 336 yards per game and the visiting Tarpons averaging 324 yards per game.

Both teams have shown strong running games with the Bulldogs getting 1493 yards on the ground to the Tarpons 1439. Passing-wise it is Iota 526 yards and South Cameron 509.

The Bulldogs have seen Anthony Poullard score 12 touchdowns in the six games and rush for 907 yards in the same six games.

The Tarpons, on the other hand, rather than the one big back, they feature a stable of backs - Rusty Welch, James Bonsall, Byron Richard, Jobe Johnson and others.

The passing leader in the district is Chris McCall of South Cameron, who has hit on 32 of 58 passes for 553 yards and has only thrown three interceptions all year. His primary receiver has been Todd Conner who has caught 14 passes on the year.

On defense, the Bulldogs have yet to yield 100 yards on the ground to anyone and they have given up only 32 points on the year.

The Tarpons have been no slouches on defense themselves as they are giving up 177 yards per game and they have yielded 59 points in their six games. The majority of the yards given up by the Tarpons have come after the game was out of reach by the opponent.

The two teams kicking games are hard to evaluate as neither team has been forced to punt very often. The Tarpons Travis Pradia has proved in the past that he is very capable of connecting field goals up to 40 yards.

The game could come down to the team who makes the fewest errors. So, each series will be important.

The winner will have a good start on who will win the district as it looks now only Welsh is capable of playing with either of them.

Neither team has faced an opponent of the caliber of each other.

The Tarpons have a little more depth than the Bulldogs, so they should be a little fresher at the end.

Both teams went to the playoffs last year as they tied for first in district along with Notre Dame, Welsh and Lake Arthur.

In last year's game the Tarpons were winners by a score of 14-0.

The crystal ball sees the Tarpons winning by a score of 17-14.

Let's get an early start and a good crowd to the game. Don't forget, Thursday, not Friday, as the players need all the support they can muster.

TARPONS ARE 3RD IN LA.

The South Cameron Tarpons held onto third place in the Louisiana Sportwriters Poll. South Cameron, with a 28-7 victory over Notre Dame, received 87 points to trail Haynesville and Ouachita Christian in the poll.

Fellow district opponent Iota, who the Tarpons play Thursday, Oct. 15, are in fourth place with 79 points. Welsh, also of District 6AA, is ranked eighth by the Sportwriters.

CLASS 2A

Haynesville (9), 6-0, 108; Ouachita Christian, 4-0, 99; South Cameron, 6-0, 87; Iota, 6-0, 79; University, 5-0, 69; Newman, 5-1, 62; Menard, 5-1, 44; Welsh, 5-1, 36; Kentwood, 5-1, 29; Fisher, 5-1, 25.

Others receiving votes: Loyola 21; St. Martins 17; Buras 10; Coushatta 9; Patterson 9; Pickering 6.

Thanksgiving dinners told

The Cameron Council on Aging will join with the National Association of Meals Programs and Reynolds Metals Company in a special partnership to provide 75,000 thanksgiving dinners nationwide to senior citizens served by Meals on Wheels organizations.

Beginning Nov. 15 through Thanksgiving, Reynolds will donate five cents per product purchased, up to 75,000 meals, to Meals on Wheels when consumers purchase any of eight brand name products from Reynolds Wrap Aluminum Foil to Reynold Plastic Wwrap and Reynolds Oven Booking Bags.

Oystering opens Thurs.

The Calcasieu and Sabine Lake oyster season will open one-half hour before sunrise Thurs., Oct. 15. The season is to remain open until one-half hour after sunset on March 1, 1993, with the secreary having the authority to extend to compensate for the health closure days.

Harvesting of oysters will be with tongs only. Ten sacks per boat per day will be allowed, except after prolonged closures. When harvesting has been closed for seven or more days, fishermen will be allowed to take 15 sacks per boat per day for three consecutive days upon reopening.

A new requirement for the West Cove Area of Calcasieu Lake calls for the river stage at Kinder to be 7 feet or less for harvesting of oysters. The remainder of Calcasieu Lake requires a 12 foot river stage at Kinder.

Act 638 of the 1992 Legislative Session removes the requirement that helpers on any oyster harvesting vessel have a $100 oyster harvester's license regardless of age. Previously, law required anyone on board an oyster harvesting vessel to have the $100 license, except spouses or individuals 16 yrs. old or younger.

Sack tags may be purchased from one of the eight La. Wildlife and Fisheries district offices. The tags range from 20 cents each for less than 100 to 4 cents each for 1000 or more.

A new law recently approved by the La. Legislature changed the limit on oysters for recreational fishermen to one sack per person per day. Previously, recreational oystermen were allowed two sacks per person per day.

Did Ca... smoke ... Housto...

Cameron Paris... President Hayes (P... he received a call th... Houston, Texas new... ing about smoke t... coming from marsh i... ron parish.

Picou said the rep... er claimed that smoke from Cameron marsh fires was being ofserved in the Houston area--at least 110 direct miles from Cameron parish.

Picou said he did not have any information on the matter but did refer the caller to the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge which at certain times of the year burns some of its marsh so as to improve the grass for the migrant waterfowl.

Cattlemen in past years have also burned off the marsh to improve the grazing for cattle.

Sabine Refuge Manager Will Nidecker said that none of the wildlife refuges in Cameron parish had been doing any marsh burning lately--they do their burning from November through to February.

However, he said a big cloud of smoke did cross the refuge south of Hackberry Tuesday morning and could have been the smoke observed in Houston. He said he had no idea where the smoke originated.

Nidecker said there is no state invironmental restrictions on the burning of marshes and it is a common practice on the refuges and among cattlemen.

As to the orgin of the smoke seen in Houston, it was still a mystery as the Pilot went to press.

The monthly rate established by the Police Jury is 63 cents for residential customers and $1.71 for business customers.

The 911 Emergency Service will not be in place for about two more years but this charge will help pay for start-up costs.

Offshore platforms now artificial reefs

The state's artificial reef program has recently toppled two oil and gas platforms in the Gulf of Mexico south of Lake Charles with Chevron USA, Inc. contributing $194,000 into a trust fund dedicated solely to the management of Louisiana's artificial reefs.

The reef program, housed by the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, allows oil and gas companies to remove their platforms and submerge their rigs at locations on the gulf waterbottom which have been carefully selected to enhance marine fisheries habitat.

Chevron USA, Inc.'s removal of two rigs began Oct. 10. The first jacket was submerged at block map designation West Cameron 608. The second was located at East Cameron Block 272.

The Rigs to Reefs Program gives companies the opportunity to save on the expenses associated with scrapping their platforms as well as participating in conservation efforts. The submerged oil and gas platforms will provide a hard substructure which supports some of the most basic sources of nutrition to many sports fish.

Other artificial reefs have already been situated at locations south of Lake Charles in the summer months of this year.

August Sales Tax off 50% in parish

(Capitol Press)

The August report of state sales tax collections carried the fifth straight month of bad news for Cameron Parish despite showing some promise for the state overall.

The latest figures from the Department of Revenue and Taxation indicate that businesses in the parish recorded $53,315 in state sales taxes for August. The total is more than $10,000 higher than that listed for the parish in the previous month's report, but it is much farther below the $80,328 which parish businesses collected during August 1991.

The monthly figures have consistently trailed last year's since the April report, and only the March total this year has exceeded 1991 figures for the same period.

The parish showed an unusually low $5,587 in March 1991.

For the second consecutive month, overall state collections topped last year's figures despite dipping from $129.6 million in July to $129.3 million in the current report. State sales taxes totaled $126 million during the eighth month of last year.

St. Helena and Grant parishes continued to anchor the sales tax rankings with businesses in those parishes reporting $13,018 and $21,821 in receipts, respectively. Red River and Cameron, however, rose out of the bottom five during August while Caldwell slid down one spot with $38,450. West Carroll rounded out the list with $44,420 and Tensas listed $44,626 to fall into the month's bottom five.

New pickup slated

Residential garbage pickup will begin Monday, Nov. 2 for residents of the Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach area, according to a Cameron Parish Police Jury notice.

All of the rest of the parish has had residential pickup for a number of years, but the Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach residents had opted to having collection sites (dumps) open for longer hours than sites in other parts of the parish. Due to bedgetary reasons, all dump site hours are being reduced including those at Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach.

For the new Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach collection, garbage must be out by 7 a.m. on Mondays. Garbage must be in bags or trash cans and no 55 gallon containers will be dumped.

New hours for the J.B./H.B. collection sites (dumps) are: Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. This schedule will remain the year around.

Location of Special Olympics dance changed

The location of the Special Olympics benefit dance has been changed to the Creole Multipurpose Building.

The dance will be held Friday, Oct. 23, following the South Cameron High School Homecoming game and will benefit Special Olympics. Music will be by Southern Express.

Gumbo and hamburgers will be served. Admission is $5. No minors will be admitted.

Comm. course to be held

Debbie B. Theriot, Cameron Parish clerk of court, is now receiving applications for the Commissioner-in-Charge course of instruction for persons to be eligible to serve during 1993.

Qualifications for the position are to be found in the legal notice elsewhere in this issue of the Pilot.

Any person who is interested should contact the clerk's office at 775-5316 or write P.O. Box 549, Cameron, La. 70631.

The course of instruction will be held at 5 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 5 in the courtroom in Cameron and also on Wednesday, Nov. 18 on the Jeff Davis Fair Grounds in Jennings.

The commissioners in charge will be selected on Dec. 4 in the clerk's office from all persons who have successfully competed this course.

THE SOUTH CAMERON defense provided the edge for the 14-13 win over Iota in last week's district game. The Tarpons will play Lake Arthur this Friday night in the homecoming game.

Tarpons to host Tigers in homecoming game Fri.

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons with a 2-0 district record return home to Creole and Tarpon Stadium for a 7 p.m. game this Friday, Oct. 23, against the Lake Arthur Tigers.

The Lake Arthur Tigers broke into the win column in district as they beat St. Louis last week 24-6. The Tigers have an overall record of 3-4 on the season.

The two teams have faced one common opponent this year, that being district rival Iota. The Tigers were demolished by the Bulldogs by a score of 39-0 while, as you know by now, the Tarpons beat the Bulldogs by a score of 14-13.

But, don't forget last year when Lake Arthur was one of the five teams tied for first in District 6AA with a 3-2 district workaheet.

The Tigers are ranked fourth in the district in both offensive and defensive stats right behing South Cameron, Iota and Welsh.

The Tigers are young this year and have shown a steady improvement from week to week.

The Tigers top running back has been Craig Guidry, who is averaging over 75 yards rushing per game.

The Tarpons, meanwhile, run a stable of backs at you as they had eight different ball carriers carry the ball last week against Iota.

The Tarpons are heavily favored and justifiably so, but they must tend to business or they could be upset if they take Lake Arthur too lightly.

The Tarpons are in the driver's seat for the district title as they have the important road victory over Iota behind them.

They can't afford to let that all go to waste with a lack-luster performance against Lake Arthur.

The big game of District 6AA this week finds #7 ranked Welsh at #5 ranked Iota. The Bulldogs definitely need to win if they can expect to win the district. Welsh, on the other hand, with a victory would put them at 3-0 when the South Cameron Tarpons travel to Welsh on Oct. 30.

The crystal ball sees the Tarpons winning by a score of 28-6.

MUSING . . . By Bernice Denny

Remember the blimps?

For half an hour last Sunday morning we stood in our yard and watched a spectacular sight in the air above. Dozens of huge brightly-colored and patterned balloons gracefully drifted by. They were a feature of the Optimist Superfest being held at the Cajun Field in Lafayette. They had arrived from all parts of the United States.

The history of balloons is interesting. Back in 1783, while King Louis XVI of France looked on, two Montgolfier brothers sent up a balloon carrying live animals -- a duck, a rooster, and a sheep. The flight lasted eight minutes. The animals were safely returned.

The same year a French physicist, J. A. C. Charles, with the help of two Roberts brothers, sent up the first hydrogen balloon. It climbed 3,000 feet and remained in view for an hour. Then it drifted away and fell in a field 15 miles from Paris. Frightened people believed it was an evil spirit or the falling moon about to crush the earth. They beat it to pieces.

Ballooning soon became famous as the subject of scientific findings or as a fad. Women's fashions were influenced by it. In the early 1900's, it became a popular part of fairs. Later balloons were used as a part of warfare.

The balloons Sunday reminded me of another lighter than air craft -- the blimp. During World War I the British called these airships "limps". Later, because the B-limp was the most popular, they were called blimps.

We were living in Houma during World War II. A large blimp base was located two miles south of town. The hangars were so immense in size that messenger boys rode bicycles to carry material from one office to another.

At night a least one blimp patrolled the skies above Houma. Ablaze with lights, it looked like a busy floating city. These blimps were used over the Gulf of Mexico to spot German submarines and drop torpedoes over them.

Be they balloons or blimps soaring overhead, they fascinate me -- earthbound creature that I am.

Hunting to open on Sabine Refuge 21st

The Sabine National Wildlife Refuge will open Nov. 21, to public waterfowl hunting, Refuge Manager Will Nidecker announced.

The designated hunt area contains 24,000 acres and is the same area that has been hunted in past years. Hunting is permitted three days each week - Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

The western zone state season is applicable to the refuge and the dates for this year's season are Nov. 21-Dec. 6, and Dec. 26-Jan. 9.

Hunters may enter the West Cove parking area to line up their boats for launching three hours before legal shooting hours. All hunters will be permitted to enter the refuge two hours before legal shooting hours.

One half hour before sunrise is legal shooting time and hunters should plan their hunt so they are finished hunting and out of the refuge by noon, Nidecker continued.

Steel shot shells are required for hunting and steel shot reloads may be used. Waterfowl identification is especially important because of the restrictions on taking various species. Hunters are reminded that no canvasback ducks may be taken again this year. Hunters are urged to positively identify each bird as it is killed in order to avoid overlimit problems.

There is no minimum age for youth hunters but they must have completed their hunter safety course and have proof with them in order to enter the refuge hunt area. Each hunter under the age of 16 must be under the close supervision of an adult (21 years or older). For safety reasons, each adult may have only one juvenile under his supervision.

The use of motors to run in the marsh is prohibited, Nidecker noted. Motorized boats can be used only in canals and bayous; access into the open marsh and ponds is limited to walking or push-poling a boat. All hunters are required to check in at the check station before hunting and check out upon completion of their hunt.

No entry is allowed in the hunt area until opening day of the waterfowl season. Additional information, copies of regulations or maps of the hunt area may be obtained by writing to: Sabine National Wildlife Refuge, Hwy. 27 South 3000 Main St., Hackberry, La. 70645 or by calling telephone number 318-762-3816.

Cast nets legal size increased

The 1992 La. Legislature increased the maximum legal size of cast nets from a radius of six feet to eight feet six inches. Recreational fishermen must purchase a basic recreational fishing license to use cast nets, and must purchase a saltwater fishing license in order to use them in saltwaters of the state.

A recreational fisherman, in open waters in open shrimping season, may use a cast net to take no more than 50 pounds of shrimp per day provided the shrimp are used for bait or for the fisherman's own consumption. Recreationally caught shrimp cannot be sold, traded, or otherwise permitted to enter commerce.

Several coastal refuges and management areas have individual regualtions pertaining to cast net use. Fishermen should check the regulations of each refuge before cast netting. One such area is Sabine NWR, which has a six foot radius maximum regulation and a 25 pound limit.

Dove hunting opens

DOVE SEASON

The opening weekend of the second split of dove season was really a disappointment to most of us. We had birds down and above us in the rice fields, and I just don't know where they went. I still believe they went on South to Mexico.

I talked to a few hunters in the Holmwood, Bell City area and most of their doves left the day before it re-opened.

There was fair shooting in the Cameron area on Saturday, as well as on Oak Grove, and West Creole area. Again, Sunday was a different tune.

Maybe this weekend will be better. We did see a few white-winged doves, but not many.

This split of the dove season will close Nov. 8. The third split will begin Dec. 12.

DEER SEASON

Our deer season is right around the corner. In our area, Area 3, we have 65 days total season with three splits.

The first 30 days will begin Oct. 31 and run through Nov. 29, still hunting only. In this period we'll have two doe days, Nov. 7 and Nov. 27. There's a muzzleloader period for five days, Nov. 30-Dec. 4. Really for still hunting, we don't stop, we go right on through the 65 days.

ARIZONA PROP. 200

The Arizona Proposition 200 will be voted on Nov. 3, and we'll get a chance to see if there will be a ban on hunting, trapping and fishing in that state. If this Proposition does pass, we are in deep trouble, especially in our state and other southern states. I will monitor this and we'll have the results later.

FISHING

Area fishing is still good and shrimping, especially the cast netters, are doing great. Many people are catching their 25 pounds of nice shrimp throwing the cast net. The beaches, Creole Canal and Rockefeller are good for castnetting.

It seems the Turtle Excluder Device is here to stay. TED requirements will now be year around. A 75 minute tow time limit will be in effect Nov. 1, for those vessels not required to use TEDs. This is for inshore vessels and offshore vessels less than 25 feet in length.

OYSTER SEASON

The Calcasieu and Sabine Lake oyster season has opened on Oct. 15. Tongs only and ten sacks per day will be allowed. If harvesting should close for 7 or more days, 15 sacks will be allowed for three days in a row upon reopening. At West Cove area of Calcasieu Lake, the new river stage at Kinder is to be 7 feet or less for oyster harvesting in that area. The remainder of Calcasieu Lake requires a 12 foot river stage at Kinder.

Something else that's new this year is that a helper on the oyster boat does not have to have the $100 oyster harvest license. No age limit changes these rules. This applies to all commercial oyster fishermen. All sacks need to be tagged.

Also new is the recreational fisherman is entitled to only one sack of oysters per day.

REDFISH

Redfish are still being caught in our area. Most of the speckle trout we're catching are in the jetty areas of Pecan Island, Rockefeller Refuge, Mermentau River and the Calcasieu River. Now, there are some specks being taken in the Calcasieu Lake and Big Lake area.

There were a gang of auto parts salesmen who won a fishing trip with Terry Shaughnessy, one of our parishes' gret guides and guide services.

They really had a good time and caught lots of speckle trout. I was one of those winners, but couldn't go because of commitments I had with a weekend of dove hunting. I will go with Terry at a later date. I'm sure if we should have a bad trip because of bad weather or whatever, and then me missing a good trip before, he'll tell me, "You should have been here yesterday!"

H'berry youth on committee

A SALUTE TO SOUTH CAMERON HIGH SCHOOL

I wish to extend my best wishes to the students, faculty and graduates of South Cameron High School on the occasion of the annual Homecoming Friday.

South Cameron High School is truly a credit to Cameron Parish. The school has one of the finest school plants to be found anywhere. It also has a fine faculty and outstanding programs.

All of the returning alumni of South Cameron as well as graduates of the school's predecessors, Creole and Grand Chenier High Schools, remind us of the fine citizens who have graduated at South Cameron over the years. We know that they continue to be proud of their old Alma Mater.

One one last note, I hope that all of the students and graduates enjoy the Homecoming festivities and the ballgame. I sincerely urge all of you to be careful when driving home to enable the parish to continue its safety record and make the Homecoming have a happy ending.

Tarpons take important victory over Iota Fri.

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons football team took a giant step towards the district championship as they traveled to Iota and came home with a 14-13 victory.

The Tarpons took their #3 ranking while the Bulldogs took their #4 ranking into the game and that's the way it was played.

The teams both looked like they deserved the rankings they held at game time.

The Bulldogs scored first in the contest on the first play of the second quarter as Chris Fontenot stole the ball from the Tarpon runner and ran into the end zone from 30 yards out. After the extra point the score was 7-0, Bulldogs.

The Tarpons came right back after the Bulldog score and marched 60 yards to score on a 5-yard run by quarterback Chris McCall. Travis Pradia converted the extra point and the score stayed 7-7 until half time. In fact, the score was 7-7 throughout the third quarter.

Early in the fourth quarter Iota stopped the Tarpons on 4th and 1 at the Iota 42. Eight plays later the Bulldogs scored on a 13-yard pass from quarterback Greg LeJune to Chris Fontenot. The Bulldogs extra point try to make the score 14-7 was blocked. So the dogs were up 13-7.

The Tarpons came back and moved 69 yards in 7 plays with the touchdown coming on a 4-yard run by Chris McCall. Travis Pradia split the uprights with a perfect kick and the Tarpons were up 14-13.

The Iota team took the ball down the field on the arm of Greg LeJune who completed 4 of 6 passes in the drive, hit Kyle Doucet with a screen pass that carried down to the Tarpon 18 yard line. He was tackled and fumbled the ball and the Tarpons Brian Richard recovered. The Tarpons then ran off the clock to win the big game, 14-13.

The Tarpons win could probably be credited to their depth as they used at least 8 different ball carriers, while Iota's principal carrier was Anthony Poullard who had 25 carries for 125 yards and the Tarpon defense held him out of the end zone for the first time this year.

The Tarpon defense also forced the Bulldogs to punt the ball six times.

The Tarpons also showed a lot of tenacity and character as they came from behind on two separate occasions and proved that they never quit.

The Tarpons 268 yards rushing is the only time all year that the Bulldogs have given up over 100 yards rushing in a game.

Brian Richard was the top rusher for the Tarpons with 97 yards while Chris McCall, who had a bad night throwing the ball, scored two rushing touchdowns as he netted 59 yards rushing.

The Tarpons will be at home this week as Lake Arthur comes to town for a 7 p.m. kickoff.

Iota will also be at home with another tough foe coming to Bulldog Stadium in the uniforms of the Welsh Greyhounds.

A bid of a royalty less than the aforesaid statutory minimum will be increased to said statutory minimums by the Board. All bidders are notified that the Board does not obligate itself to accept a bid which offers the aforesaid statutory minimums, but reserves the right to accept a bid which offers in excess of the statutory minimums and is considered most advantageous to the State of Louisiana.

The provisions of the aforesaid advertisement and the relevant statutes relative to the mineral considerations necessary for the formulation of proper bids, and this notice or advertisement shall not be deemed to be amended, enlarged or diminished by resolutions or policy statements of the Board not incorporated herein expressly or by reference.

Particular attention is directed to the fact that, in addition to the aforesaid stipulation against warranty, the State Mineral Board also includes a special provision in the mineral leases it executes with respect to royalties provided in the lease to be paid on production of oil sold by one-half (½), but not below the lessee's posted field price for such (with), in the event of and pending determination of any litigation or other settlement of a bona fide dispute between lessee and royalty ownership or title, all upon the terms and conditions hereinafter stated. All leases awarded shall be executed upon terms and conditions provided in the current lease form with all applicable riders appended thereto, including but not limited to provisions as follows: Should lessee fail to begin the actual drilling (spudding in) of a well on the lease premises within one year from the date of the lease, the lease shall terminate as to both parties to the lease, unless on or before such anniversary date, lessee shall pay a delay rental (which shall in no event be less than one-half (½) of the aforesaid cash payment offered for the lease, which shall cover the privilege of deferred drilling operations for a period of one year. SPECIAL NOTE

By rule promulgated by the Department of Natural Resources under authority of Act 1 of the 1984 First Extraordinary Legislative Session, a fee equal to 10% of the cash payment is required to be submitted by lessee in addition to that for all leases awarded on and after the September 14, 1988 Lease Sale. The successful bidder on each new lease is required to submit a state rate check equal to 10% of the cash payment in addition to any check for regular check. The fee may be submitted either in the form of cash (inside the sealed bid envelope) or within five (5) days after the lease is awarded. In the event that the fee is not submitted as specified, and the bid is unsuccessful, the Office of Mineral Resources will notify the unsuccessful bid and check for cash payment will be returned. The lease will not receive the lease executed by the State Mineral Board until the fee is received.

The successful bidder to whom the lease is awarded on the date of the sale shall execute the mineral lease within TWENTY (20) DAYS after date of receipt of same under penalty of forfeiture of his bid to the State and the aforesaid cash payment previously submitted as consideration for the lease, in the event of failure to do so.

Assignments or agreement entered into after the State Mineral Board has awarded such lease must be approved by the Lessor Agency or Agency.

Bids may be for the whole or any particularly described portion of the tract advertised, but consistent with the policy of the Board to refrain from fragmentation dated August 12, 1964, all bidders are notified that the Board will act on portions of tracts should be described by metes and bounds or by a tract accompanied by a transparent plat on which the bid is based and so noted upon. The plat shall be 11inch × 14inch in size and shall identify the Point of Beginning, the Section, Township and Range, the Parish, the X and Y Lambert Plane Coordinates, the boundaries of the State Mineral Leases, and should clearly show the existing tract boundaries in relationship to the bid tract. S.U.A. Quadrangle maps. The State Mineral Board reserves the right to withdraw any and all bids or to grant a lease on any portion of the tract advertised and to withdraw the remainder of the tract.

LAKESIDE LACONICS

Our school opened Monday, the 11th, with 14 children present. We have every indication of a good term.

Deluke Hebert finished his rice this week and will put in a crop next year at the same place.

Oranges are very small on account of the dry weather all season; many ripening prematurely and falling off.

GAS SEPARATION PLANT

The CATC offshore drilling group this week began work on a big new gas separation plant at Grand Chenier. An official of the organization said there would be a project within about a week.

CATC is an offshore drilling association composed of the following oil companies: Continental, Atlantic, Tidewater and Cities Service.

HD CLUBBER OF YEAR

Mrs. Charles H. Hebert of Sweetlake was named Cameron Parish's Outstanding Home Demonstration Club Woman of the Year at the annual HD Achievement Day held Saturday at the Cameron elementary school. Some 225 persons were in attendance.

Mrs. Hebert received the honor for having won the most points (270) on her exhibits during the day. Mrs. Mack Broussard, also of Sweetlake, was second with 210 points.

The HD council presented Mrs. Hebert with a flower arrangement bowl, and Rufus Hayes, state insurance commissioner and guest speaker for the occasion, presented her with a make up kit. (As Mr. Hayes is a distant relative of Mrs. Hebert, she felt she could not accept the gift and gave it to Mrs. Broussard.)

Named as outstanding members of each club were the following: Mrs. Edwin Ellender, Klondike; Mrs. Shirley Crain, Grand Chenier; Mrs. Edgar Poole, Grand Lake; Mrs. W. E. Reasoner, Sr., Hackberry; Mrs. Wayne Montie, Creole; Mrs. Roy Hebert, Cameron; and Mrs. Charles Hebert, Sweetlake.

Receiving recognition for the number of years they have been HD Club members were the following: 25 years -- Mrs. Tom Taylor and Mrs. Eraste Hebert, Sweetlake; 20 years -- Mrs. W. E. Reasoner and Mrs. Bernard Duhon, Hackberry; and Mrs. Carl McCall, Grand Chenier; 15 years -- Mrs. Audrey Daigle, Mrs. John Landry, and Mrs. Roberta Rogers, Cameron; Mrs. Rose Montie and Mrs. Estelle Theriot, Creole; Mrs. Ethel Watts, Mrs. Mamie Gray, Mrs. Chester Krumm, Mrs. Hardy Fountain, and Mrs. Arthur Little, Hackberry; Mrs. Charles W. Hebert, Mrs. Charles Frecht, Mrs. Absie Duhon and Mrs. Nolton Richard, Sweetlake.

LION OF THE YEAR

State Representative Alvin Dyson was named "Lion of the Year" by the Cameron Lions Club at its annual ladies night banquet Monday evening at Fred's Restaurant.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Joel L. Fletcher, president of Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette.

Dr. H. B. Hewitt, international counselor, recalled how he aided in forming the Cameron Lions Club 15 years ago. Three charter members were then presented 15-year pins Monday night. They were Joe Doxey, Alvin Dyson and Charles Hebert. Hadley Fontenot, who was a charter member of the Ville Platte Club in the same year, also received a pin.

Among the accomplishments of the Cameron Lions during the past year were these, as given by Ray Champaigne: co-sponsored Fourth of July celebration, March of Dimes ball, and Santa Claus visit to Cameron; sponsored boy to Pelican Boys State and a handicapped child to camp; raised $340 for the handicapped children's camp; got sidewalks repaired in town; sponsored decoration of the courthouse at Christmas time.

In presenting the "Lion of the Year" award to Rep. Dyson, Mr. Derouen gave this brief biography of the honoree:

He was raised on a farm on Pecan Island; was schooled in a one-room school; ran a mail boat for 10 years; did oil field work; was a mechanic; used to be a wrestler and even took a barbering course.

Mr. Dyson was married in 1927 and moved to Cameron in 1936, where he has been in the fur business and operated a building materials firm for the past 19 years. He has been state representative since 1952.

He is a past president of the Lions Club, and during his term of office the club won national honors for having brought in the most new members of any club that year.

GRAND LAKE HOMECOMING

Friday is the date of the annual homecoming at Grand Lake High School, it is announced by Principal George Carter.

The homecoming queen will be announced at the football game and will be crowned by Anita Boudreaux, last queen's queen.

Members of the homecoming court, from whom the queen will be selected, are Wanda Breaux, Peggy Theriot, Carol Johnson, Shirley Young, Ora Lee Broussard and Veronica Gilmore.

Little Pamela Ann LeBleu will be the flower girl and Ernest Hebert the crownbearer. Lora Lynn Hebert will be the cheerleaders mascot. The Grand Lake band, under the direction of I. P. Renfro, will perform at halftime.

DUCKS DIE ON ROCKEFELLER

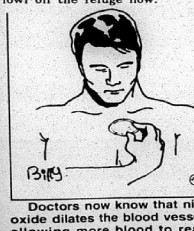
Several hundred wild ducks died recently on the Rockefeller wildlife refuge at Grand Chenier and refuge officials still are not sure of the reason.

The ducks which died were black mallards and spoonbills. It was reported that old timers in this area remember similar die-offs of the birds years ago.

When the dead birds were found, immediate steps were taken to prevent further deaths. A levee was cut allowing the affected pond to be flooded. The flood gates were opened and the entire pond flushed out. An airplane, airboats and marsh buggies were used to chase live birds out of the pond.



There are nearly 50,000 wild fowl on the refuge now.

CARDS OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS

After the death of my husband, Ray-Boy Stevens, in 1984, through the generosity of the people of Cameron and the surrounding areas, a trust fund was established for the college education of our children.

The Cameron Lions Club are the holders of this trust.

In September my oldest child, Stephanie, began her freshman year at Tyler Junior College in Tyler, Texas, with funds from this trust.

My family and I would like to again express our thanks to the many people who cared so much for Ray-Boy.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON—Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity—— by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

How Pacemakers work— and why they're needed

By RICHARD P. ABBEN, M.D.

Your heartbeat is controlled by the heart's own bioelectrical triggering system. When that system ceases to work properly, the solution may be a pacemaker.

The pacemaker has two parts — a battery-powered generator and the wires that connect it to the heart. The silver-dollar-size generator, which has an effective life of seven to 12 years, is implanted just beneath the skin below the collarbone. The leads are threaded into position through veins leading back to the heart. The entire implantation procedure requires only a local anesthetic, and takes about an hour.

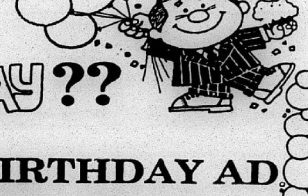
Most patients with pacemakers suffer from a condition in which the heart beats too slowly — bradyarrhythmia is the medical term. This is most commonly a result of deterioration in the heart's own pacing system in elderly patients, though high blood pressure, coronary artery disease or scarring from a heart attack can also cause bradyarrhythmias.

The most commonly installed, pacing device is a demand pacemaker. It monitors the heart's activity and takes control only when the heart rate falls below a programmed minimum — usually 60 beats per minute.

Other conditions which require pacemakers include heart block— in which the heart stops beating altogether for several seconds — and tachyarrhythmia— an overly rapid heartbeat.

A more sophisticated type of pacemaker actually monitors a number of physical changes in the body which signal an increase or decrease in activity. If the heart's own pacing system fails to respond properly, these rate-responsive pacemakers slowly raise or lower the heartbeat to the appropriate level — from 60 to perhaps 150 beats per minute.

If the patient's condition dictates reprogramming the implanted generator, the cardiologist signals the changes to its tiny on-board computer with an electromagnetic signaling device placed on the surface of the skin above the pacemaker.



Probably the most commonly encountered public references to pacemakers are the warning signs posted in convenience stores and snack bars advising pacemaker patients that a microwave oven is installed. That warning is no longer necessary, if the microwave is functioning properly. Modern pacemakers are shielded from stray electromagnetic forces and have a backup mode that takes over if a really strong electromagnetic field does disrupt the main circuit's programming.

ELECTION★92

Board me...s may have ...un in same d...t

Three members of the Cameron Parish School Board may end up in the same district and have to run against each other in the next elections, the board recently learned.

Under federal law, election districts must be reapportioned every ten years following the U. S. Census so as to make them as nearly even in voting strength as possible.

Earlier this year the Cameron Parish Police Jury completed its reapportionment plan and it has been approved by the Justice Department.

However, if the School Board accepts the same reapportionment boundaries as it has done in the past, three incumbent board members will be in same voting district and would have to run against each other if each sought reelection. It would also mean that two new school board members would be elected.

The three incumbent jurors are Bill Morris, Preston Richard and Dan Dupont, of Districts 4, 5 and 6 respectively.

Supt. Thomas McCall wrote the Attorney General's office on Sept. 9 stating tha. the the police jury had not consulted the school board about the reapportionment plan and that the board had only learned of the plan recently.

McCall's letter pointed out that the three school districts in question contain over half of the voters in the entire parish and "the Cameron Parish School Board questions the legality and constitutionality of the reapportionment plan submitted by the Police Jury."

McCall asked the Attorney General whether the School Board had any recourse to alleviate the situation and noted that the board must submit its reapportionment plan by Jan. 1."

In response to McCall's letter, Assistant Attorney General Angie R. LaPlace noted that the school board could challenge the police jury plan in court, however, it was her opinion that "the police jury election districts should not have any affect on the school board election districts."

"The law requires that the school board election districts be compact and contiguous, but specifically states that they need not 'be coterminous with the wards that may be created by any governing authority,'" she wrote.

However, Supt. McCall said that due to the fact there was only one precinct in each of the three districts there was no way that precinct lines could be moved so as to separate the three board members.

The school board held a special meeting last Thursday to discuss the problem but reached no conclusion and the matter will be on the board's November meeting agenda.

In the meantime, Supt. McCall and District Attorney Glenn Alexander are scheduled to meet with the Attorney General to try to find some solution to the problem.

Picou admin., not president

Everyone knows that Hayes (Pete) Picou is the Cameron Parish Administrator for the Cameron Parish Police Jury and not the police jury president as incorrectly reported in last week's Pilot.

The only excuse for the obvious error was that the editor's brain was on idle while he was writing the story about the large cloud of smoke in the Houston area.

It was never determined exactly where all the smoke was coming from, but it apparently was not from the burning of rice fields or the marsh in Cameron Parish. One theory was that the smoke was coming from rice fields being burned in the Winnie, Texas area.

163 absentee votes cast here

A total of 163 of Cameron parish's 6,145 registered voters had voted absentee by the time absentee voting ended Monday, according to Ruby Kelley, registrar of voters.

Of this number 132 persons voted absentee in person and 31 by mail. They were voting in the presidential election set for next Tuesday.

Needle turns up in very unusual spot

Mrs. Phalia Saltzman got a surprise this week when she got the results of a mammogram she had taken. There was the picture of a 3.2 centimeter cross-stitch needle embedded in her breast.

She does not know how the needle penetrated her body to land just under the skin, however, during her long stays in the hospital for five months while she sat at the bedside of her late husband, she did needlework to pass the time.

Last year she cross-stitched nine table scarves and three baby blankets for friends.

The embedded needle has never hurt her in any way which is why she never suspected that it was in her body.

She is to have an operation in the near future for another problem and the doctor will remove the needle at that time.

Vote Tuesday

Presidential vote set for Tuesday

Although there are just a few races on the ballot, plus seven constitutional amendments, the election next Tuesday, Nov. 3 may be a little confusing to local voters and throughout the state.

For one thing, the election is on Tuesday, since it is a national election, instead of Saturday a day on which most all other elections are held.

For another thing, while most persons will be concerned with only three of the national presidential tickets--Democrats Clinton and Gore, Republicans Bush and Quayle and Independents Perot and Stockdale--there are candidates for eight other parties on the ballot including American First; Equal Justice and Opportunity; Independent; Justice, Industry, Agriculture; Libertarian Party; Louisiana Taxpayer Party; More Perfect Democracy; Natural Law; and Prudence, Action, Results.

Voters will pull one lever to vote for the party of their choice and actually will be voting for the electors of that party instead of directly for the candidates.

Two races are on the ballot also. One is the runoff race for Member of the Public Service Commission, in which incumbent Thomas E. Powell, Jr. is opposed by Dale Sittig.

Another race is for members of the Republican State Central Committee and only registered Republicans may vote in this election.

For the 36th Representative District, which is the district served by Rep. Randy Roach, candidates for the Republican State Central Committee are Kathleen Boellert, Marcia Owens Farber, William B. Hart and Frank O. Pruitt, all from the Lake Charles area.

AMENDMENTS

The seven proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot also are more confusing than usual. The "unnumbered one" at the top was adopted at the Constitutional Convention while Amendments 1 thru 6 were adopted at the regular session of the Legislature.

The "unnumbered" amendment has caused the most controversy. It would permit the governor, in order to balance the state budget, to make a ten percent cut in dedicated funds, including the Minimum Foundation Program, which would affect all of the schools in the state.

Public school supporters have mounted an all out fight to defeat this amendment. However, supporters of college and universities, who have already taken some severe cuts, are backing the amendment in an effort to get state cuts spread out equally through all state budgets.

In a summary elsewhere in this issue, Rep. Roach states that while he thought it was a mistake to put all of the constitutional convention proposals in one amendment. he did intend to vote for the amendment.

The Cameron Parish School Board and Supt. Thomas McCall, who are afraid that state funding for local schools may be cut if the amendment passes, have come out strongly against this amendment.

Supt. McCall said that if the state funds for Cameron parish schools were cut by 10 percent, as allowed under the amendment, this could mean the loss of $492,000 for Cameron parish schools.

A summary of Amendments 1 thru 6 is as follows:

No. 1 Investment of 8 (g) Fund in Stocks

A vote FOR would allow the state treasurer to invest a portion of the permanent Education Quality Trust Fund in stocks. A vote AGAINST would continue the ban on stock purchases.

No. 2 Use of Public Funds

A vote FOR would specifically authorize the state and local governments to invest, grant or loan public funds for economic development under programs enacted by a two-thirds vote. A vote AGAINST would continue questions regarding the constitutionality of existing financial assistance programs for business development.

No. 3 Limited Constitutional Convention

A vote FOR would give the Legislature explicit authority to call a constitutional convention limited to a specified constitutional provision, article or articles. A vote AGAINST would leave unsure the Legislature's authority to call a limited convention.

No. 4 Lottery Dedication for Health Insurance

A vote FOR would constitutionally dedicate $5 million in lottery funds each year to a health insurance program for uninsurable persons. A vote AGAINST would require the program to depend on annual state appropriations.

No. 5 BESE Membership

A vote FOR would decrease BESE's membership from 11 to nine by having members elected from seven congressional districts rather than eight single-member districts and eliminating one gubernatorial appintment to the board. A vote AGAINST would retain BESE's present membership structure.

No. 6 Family Court Jurisdiction

A vote FOR would authorize the Legislature to give family courts jurisdiction in property settlements resulting from divorce or annulment of a marriage. A vote AGAINST would continue the present situation in which a family court cannot decide such property settlements.

J. B. Jones, Jr.

Jones named pres.-elect trial lawyers

John W. deGravelles of Baton Rouge was elected president of Louisiana Trial Lawyers Association at the organization's annual convention in New Orleans. J. B. Jones, Jr., of Cameron was named president-elect.

Jones, of Jones Law Firm in Cameron, received his law degree from Louisiana State University in 1949. He has been involved with a number of civic organizations and served as an assistant district attorney in Cameron Parish from 1952-1978.

LTLA, Louisiana's largest voluntary bar association, is concerned with the rights of individuals in the areas of consumer protection, criminal litigation, injuries to one's person or property, and other basic rights.

Weirs opened to push shrimp out into lake

An effort to move some of the white shrimp present throughout the Cameron-Creole marsh into Calcasieu Lake began Tuesday, Oct. 29, according to Steve Klett, Sabine Wildlife Refuge biologist.

Klett said that because of high salinity already in the marsh, the opening of the weir gates began with with small crest gates at some structures Tuesday.

If the front predicted for Friday provides northwinds and high pressure, further gate openings will be done, Klett said. The boat bay at Grand Bayou will be open, he emphasized, both Saturday, Oct. 31 and Sunday, Nov. 1 from sunrise to one hour after sunset to allow fishermen into the marsh to harvest the shrimp and fish.

Fishermen can get late information on gate openings by calling the Sabine Wildlife East Cove unit hotline--598-4235.

Jobless rate up a little

The unemployment rate in Cameron parish, while the fifth lowest in the state, edged up slightly in September, rising from 6.7 percent in August to 6.8 percent.

However, according to the La. Dept. of Labor, the number of persons out of work in the parish remained at 300 for both months. The slight increase was due to the labor force dropping from 4,425 in August to 4,325 in September, presumably because workers left the parish or else stopped looking for work.

The Louisiana jobless rate rose from 7.9 percent in August to 8.6 percent in September while the national rate for September was 7.5 perecent, a decrease from the August rate of 7.6 percent.

Veterans Day ceremony set

The Cameron Parish Veterans Honor Wall committee invites everyone to a special ceremony to be held Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 1 p.m on the courthouse grounds in celebration of Veterans Day.

The drawing of the proposed Veterans Wall will be unveiled. All veterans are urged to wear their uniforms. A list of all veterans will be on hand for viewing.

This ceremony will officially kick off the fund raising events for the construction of the wall. "Bring your American flag and join us on Nov. 10," a spokesman said. "Honor those who have fought for you."

Fundraiser set

The Cameron Chamber of Commerce will hold a spaghetti lunch fund raiser Thursday, Nov. 5. The meal will cost $4. Deliveries will be made. Call the Chamber office, 775-5222 to place orders. All proceeds will benefit the Chamber of Commerce activities.

Flu shots set

The Cameron Parish Health Unit will give flu shots at the Hackberry Recreation Center Friday, Nov. 6, from 9 a.m.to 12 noon; the Grand Lake Recreation Center on Nov. 10, from 9 a.m. to noon; and at the Cameron Parish Health Unit Thursday, Nov. 5, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and any Thursday after that between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Motel tax is opposed

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

A meeting of the Cameron Parish Tourist Commission was held Monday night in the Police Jury meeting room to which the public and all motel owners in the parish were especially invited.

The purpose was to explain the proposed 2 percent hotel-motel tax the police jury is considering as a means of generating funds for the use of the commission, according to Langford Peavy, commission president.

Glenn Alexander, District Attorney, explained the law pertaining to the collection of the tax which would be collected by the hotel or motel owners along with the room rent.

Alexander explained that the tax would not exceed two percent of the rent charged at any establishment, both public and private, engaged in the business of furnishing or providing rooms and overnight camping facilities intended or designed for dwelling, lodging, or sleeping purposes to transient guests where the establishment consists of two or more rooms.

It would not apply to the rent for the rooms to the same occupant for a period of thirty or more calendar days, or rooms rented on an annual contract basis for consecutive or nonconsecutive days.

The proceeds would be used by the commission for the purpose of attracting conventions and tourists to the parish. The commission would have the authority to spend money for advertising, promotion, and publication of information.

It was pointed out that the local commission, which was organized two years ago had only received a total of $1,500 fromthe police jury.

Ed Kelley, commission secretary, read a list of the accomplishments the tourist bureau has made since its inception:

*A master plan for tourism was completed and an application for a grant was made in cooperation with IMCAL (Imperial Calcasieu), which was denied due to a lack of matching funds.

*Assisted the Ornithological Society in bringing 170 visitors to Cameron Parish twice a year to observe and count different species of birds.

*Set up a tourist information site at Rockefeller Refuge's "Trapper's Shack", but had no funds for a staff.

*The hotel-motel tax was researched for over a year and presented ot the police jury for passage the 2% tax.

*Assisted the Cameron Chamber of Commerce with erecting parisl signs at the parish entrances.

*The Commissioners are active participants in local festivals including the La. Fur and Wildlife Festival, Marshland Festival, Fishing Rodeo, Alligator Festival, Blessing of the Fleet, and the Cajun Riviera.

*They worked successfully with the legislators in securing pull-offs along La. Hwy. 27.

*Work annuall with the Beach Sweep on all Cameron Parish beaches.

*Are working with the Lt. Governor and other officials in the fight for litter control.

*Continue the fight against the use of herbicides to kill roadside vegetation by the state highway department, especially on the Creole Nature Trail.

Rep. Roach explains constitutional amends.

By REP. RANDY ROACH

On Nov. 3, you will have the opportunity to vote on a series of constitutional amendments. The most significant amendment is the "unnumbered proposition" adopted by the recent constitutional convention. This amendment deals with the way the state develops and executes its budget. Here is a summary of the amendment's provisions:

Occupational license tax -- The constitution currently allows local governments to impose an occupational license tax that cannot exceed the tax rate authorized by the state. The amendment specifies that parishes and municipalities cannot exceed the state tax rate unless members of the House and Senate approve by a two-thirds vote.

Local sales tax exemptions and exclusions -- The constitution gives the Legislature authority to exempt or exclude any goods or property from sales or use taxes levied by local governments. The amendment would require a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to modify or adopt an exemption or exclusion from sales taxes levied at the local level.

Use of public funds -- Under the constitution, public funds cannot be loaned or donated to any person. The amendment would allow local governments to use public funds for programs that provide financial aid, grants or loans for students attending vocational-technical schools or public and private colleges in Louisiana. Such programs would require approval by a two-thirds vote of the governing body of the political subdivision.

Industrial tax exemption -- The Board of Commerce and Industry, with the approval of the governor, may enter into contracts with private industry to exempt manufacturing companies from property taxes. This exemption is for an initial term of five years and may be renewed for an additional five years. Under the proposed amendment, any contracts negotiated on or after January 1, 1993, will be based on a percentage of jobs actually created by the company.

Capital-outlay budget -- The amendment requires that all capital-outlay projects be evaluated and listed according to priority. This provision does not affect highway projects funded under the Transportation Trust Fund.

Debt limit -- The amendment would limit the amount of debt the state could incur for the next four years. The limit would be based on a percentage of the debt retired the preceding year. The Legislature could exceed the limit by a two-thirds vote to handle natural disasters or extraordinary emergencies.

The amendment also requires the Legislature to develop a comprehensive debt-management plan to take effect no later than January 1, 1994.

Dedicated funds - The amendment would require that the dedication of money to a special fund be approved by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

"One-time" revenue -- This proposed change provides that "one-time" money received by the state can be spent only on capital-outlay projects or for "one-time" expenses. The Revenue Estimating Conference is required to identify all "one-time" monies when it prepares the official revenue

Amendment would have adverse affect here

Dear Editor:

You are being asked to vote on a number of Constitutional Amendments on Nov. 3. Of grave concern to elementary and secondary education is "the unnumbered amendment" which will appear as the first of the constitutional amendments on your ballot entitled "Revision submitted by the Constitutional Convention of 1992."

Thirteen far-reaching Constitutional changes (rather than a single one) will be contained in this single proposition, and will be voted on by one pull of the ballot lever. The present Constitution requires that only one subject be contained in a Constitutional Amendment. This amendment would change that so in the future many different things could be included in a single amendment.

The unnumbered Constitutional Amendment will allow the governor and the legislature to "raid" Educational Funds which are presently provided in the Constitution to guarantee a minimum education to every child in Louisiana and which are presently protected by the Constitution from use by the legislature for any other purpose.

This could be done any time there is a revenue shortage. This state has experienced revenue shortages on many occasions during the past six years. This amendment would allow a 10% reduction in school funds, up to 180 million dollars any time this situation occurs.

This amendment would allow drastic cuts in state funding to schools. These cuts could occur immediately.

I cannot attempt to tell you how you should vote on any issue, but neither can I neglect my duty to inform you of the adverse effects that this amendment will have on your schools and your children, if adopted.

Yours truly,
/s/ Thomas McCall,
Superintendent,
Cameron Parish School Board

Gore opposed by writer

Dear Editor:

I am a lifelong resident of Louisiana. I enjoy hunting and fishing.

I am very afraid that the Democrat vice president will destroy a large part of the culture and customs of Louisiana.

Senator Al Gore is one of the co-sponsors of S.1259 the "Steel Jaw Trap Prohibition Act." It would eliminate trapping by prohibiting the shipping of leg hold traps and articles of fur from animals trapped in these devices.

For over 200 years people in Louisiana have hunted and trapped to earn a living and raise their families. If Mr. Gore has his way, such a life style would not only be illegal, but our families stand to be ridiculed for our Louisiana culture.

McNeese gets 4-H grant

The McNeese State University Collegiate 4-H Club, Lake Charles, received a $900 grant from Metropolitan Life Foundation for a program to encourage young people to get involved with community service.

The grant program is designed to encourage 4-H groups to educate other young people about their responsibilities to their communities and encourage their involvement in community service.

The McNeese State club will design a project concentrating on developing self-esteem, community awareness and leadership. Two workshops will focus on these objectives. The first workshop, Junior Division, will deal mainly with youth ages 11-13 and entail developing communication skills, highlighting peer pressure and building self-esteem qualities. # Memories of programs at one-room school

I spent my first, second and third grades in the little one-room Lindstrom School, which was located on the site of the present Grand Chenier Elementary School. My next years were in the Grand Chenier Consolidated School and the Grand Chenier High School (same building as the second and same site as the first.)

There were no PTA's nor PTO's in those days, but there was a strong community spirit for school support. When the schools staged their frequent programs, the buildings were crowded with relatives and family friends of the student participants.

Teachers tried to include every child in the program. There were songs, tableaux, recitations, skits.' To omit any child from participating was an unheard of form of discrimination. If one could not sing or memorize lines easily, the "tableau vivant" was the solution.

The tableau is a static scene, commemorating a historical, legendary, or allegorical event. A tableau vivant, a French expession, is made up of living persons or animals. It is popular today in the creche, the manger scene, that is frequently presented at churches during the Christmas holidays.

Our school tableaux depicted little angels in white flowing robes and gauzy wings at the Christmas programs along with red-suited, white bearded Santa and his funny little elves.

The Thanksgiving program was full of Indians in feathered head dress and of solemn little brown-robed Pilgrims. The Easter program featured a tableau of little folks holding baskets of dyed eggs while a floppy-eared, long-legged fascimile of a bunny knelt beside a nest depositing more eggs.

In earlier days some chemical was laid at the front of the stage. When it was lighted and exploded, a gray-white vapor rose like a curtain in front of the tableau. Later it was barred from use.

Another aspect of many programs was the acrostic, which also allowed several little fellows to participate. I can still see them holding their cards in front of them spelling out the word "Christmas," "Thanksgiving" or whatever. Each child recited a line stating what his letter represented.

A great deal of time and effort on the part of the teachers went into putting on these programs. The mothers usually made the costumes. And no great stage performance ever garnered greater applause.

Survivor Benefit Plan explanation is given

When retiring soldiers and their spouses look at signing up for the Survivor Benefit Plan, (SBP) they should consider it as an election for the future of the family. Soldiers need to remember that if they should die, their retirement payment stops.

Those who may not have signed up for the plan when they retired, and those facing retirement have a chance to sign up now and until March 1993. This is only the second open season since the plan was instituted by Congress in 1972. The seasons are offered only about every 10 years.

Under the SBP the spouse receives 55% of base amount selected by the military member when joining the plan. At age 62, the benefit is reduced to 35% plus Social Security--to equal no less than 55% of the base amount selected.

Cost of living increases are added to the base amount, the cost and the annuity. Even after the death of the retiree, cost of living increases continue.

If a retiree who has signed up for SBP dies before even paying into the plan, their spouse is still covered for life. The fact that SBP provides an immediate monthly annuity for life is the major benefit of the plan.

Social Security payments don't start until age 60 or 62.

When looking at a big reduction in their monthly pay, retirees are often reluctant to add one more expense, such as SBP payments. SBP costs only 6.5% of the base amount selected per month which can be as low as $382 to the full amount of the reitree's monthly pay.

If the base amount selected is $1,000, for example, the monthly SBP payment is $65. The spouse would receive a monthly annuity of $550, plus annual cost of living increases, until age 62. After that the payment would be $350, with annual cost of living increases, plus Social Security.

The 6.5% is increased slightly for retirees joining SBP during the open season, based on a fixed income.

For more information call your nearest Retired Affairs Office for your branch of the service, Army 1-800-428-2290; Air Force 1-800-642-6916; Marines 1-800-336-4649. Most retired Affairs Offices are prepared to help any military retiree, regardless of his or her branch of service.

LAKESIDE LACONICS

We are having fine harvesting weather but it is dreadfully dry for everything else.

Pomeroys have the finest rice crop they have had for years. Many of the heads of rice are running over a foot in length.

The rice corp of Caesar Broussard, managed by Deluke Hebert, turned out remarkably well.

We have had quite a turn with the mosquitoes and a cool spell would be welcome on that account.

ANOTHER TEST AT HACKBERRY FIELD

O. C. Bevins, pioneer oil well driller in the Edgerly field and field manager of the Hackberry Oil Co., was in the city Monday afternoon and announced another test well would be sunk in the near future on the island by the Cameron Oil Co., a new concern in process of organization and composed principally of Hackberry and Sulphur people, with J. H. Duhon of Hackberry field manager.

Hackberry and Sulphur people interested in the new proposition to make another test at Hackberry, and who still believe oil is there somewhere, are: John H. Duhon, Porter Ellender, Simeon Duhon, Arthur Vincent, O. C. Bevins, Lake Charles, M. C. McElveen, Sulphur, and a number of stockholders in the Hackberry Oil Co.

The test hole will be put down on lands belonging to Nathaniel Little.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGN QUICKENS IN CAMERON

With the Democratic primary less than five weeks off, politics were picking up in Cameron Parish this week. The parish has the biggest field of candidates ever--38 running for 22 offices. However, 16 are unopposed.

In the two big races of parish-wide interest, the sheriff's and state representative's campaign, all four candidates have been on the road for the last week or so contacting individual voters.

All of the politics haven't been devoted to local election. The state elections are coming in for a great deal of interest locally, and at least one gubernatorial candidate has named a local campaign chairman, Mrs. Annie Doxey for Chep Morrison.

To date, three prospective governors have visited Cameron Parish. First, Earl Long in July when he was running for re-election as governor; Jimmy Davis in August; Chep Morrison two weeks ago; and finally Jimmy Noe, along with Earl Long, now running for Lt. Governor.

All voters who have not re-registered since Hurricane Audrey should do so to vote in this election as the previous registration records were destroyed in the storm.

INTERESTING POLITICIAL SIDELINE
(By Jerry Wise)

One interesting sideline of the political campaign is what you might call "battle of the light poles." In most sections of the state, the candidates are content to tack their posters up on the trees along the highway. Here in Cameron, where there aren't too many trees, they've taken to the Jeff Davis Co-op power line poles.

But the co-op doesn't want the signs on their poles, not particularly because of their unsightliness, but because the co-op's insurance company won't stand for it. The signs are put up with tacks or nails which remain in the pole long after the signs have been worn away. When a co-op lineman goes to climb the pole, if he isn't careful, these nails are apt to make him miss his footing and fall. For that reason, the insurance company doesn't like the signs.

So, while candidates are busy tacking them up, co-op employees are just as busy taking them down. And you needn't single out any particular candidate for blame--you can see practically all of them up on the poles, particularly the ones running for governor.

LIONS NAME OYSTER COMMITTEE

The Cameron Lions Club this week announced that it was going to seek action on the long discussed and cussed oyster problem here. A standing oyster committee was appointed to find out what is being done about the matter.

Roland J. Trosclair was named chairman of the committee, and members are Jimmy Colligan, Harold Cooling, Ashburn Roux and Harold Carter.

Mr. Trosclair said that the state department of health had taken samples of oysters in Calcasieu Lake during the summer to determine if they were still polluted but had never announced their findings.

He declared that the Cameron oysters were the finest to be found anywhere and that the parish was losing out on a multi-million dollar industry because the health department refused to allow the sale of the oysters.

WHOOPING CRANES THOUGHT SIGHTED
(By Bernice Stewart)

"Is it a whooping crane or not a whooping crane?" That is the question being asked by Jack Perkins, manager of the Lacassine Wildlife Refuge.

A man from Gueydan phoned Mr. Perkins that late on the afternoon of Oct. 7, he saw five whooping cranes flying towards the Refuge.

The next morning Mr. Perkins thought that he saw one flying in the direction of Grand Chenier.

That day he had a federal agent from Lafayette fly the whole area searching for the whoopers. None were found.

Again, Friday past, Mrs. Perkins felt sure that she saw all five flying over their home.

Mr. Perkins flew Saturday looking for them. He especially searched the Stanolind area just east of the Lake Arthur Club, for it was here in 1939 or 1940 that the last known capture of whooping cranes in Louisiana was made.

Mr. Perkins states that the birds are easy to recognize. They are a large heron-like bird, generally white with white wings and black wing tips.

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders of South Cameron High School were Bernice LaBove, Eula Dyson, Theresa Rome, Mary Lynn LaBove, Avila LaBove, Mary Lee Theriot and Polly Reon.

Cameron Pilot, Oct. 9, 1959
GIBBSTOWN BRIDGE DAMAGED

The Gibbstown pontoon bridge north of Creole was badly damaged early Sunday morning when it was rammed by a burning oil barge. Bridge Attendant Enos Theriot ran to safety, and crewmen of a tug pushing the barge jumped overboard. No one was injured.

The accident occured when the barge hit a pontoon supporting the discharge line of a boat which was dredging the Intracoastal Canal. The barge, which contained 14,000 gallons of gasoline, was punctured, and a kerosene lantern, a navigation light, fell from the pontoon to the barge setting off the fire.

The tug tried to push the flaming barge on through the open bridge, but failed to do so. The paint was burned off the bridge, the fender system and some sections of the apron damaged.

The electric and hydraulic systems were put out of commission, and the bridge is being opened and closed by a tug until it can be repaired. Only light traffic is being permitted to go across, trucks having to go around by Hackberry and Holly Beach.

Fire trucks from Lake Charles and Chennault Air Force Base fought the blaze on the north side of the bridge, and the Cameron fire department fought it on the south. C. C. Robinson's home and cafe were threatened for a while, but suffered no damage.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Daigle, well-known Cameron area couple, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at their home between Cameron and Creole. Their five children, twelve grandchildren and one great-grandchild are expected to be on hand for a reunion and family dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Dagle were married on October 11, 1909. Their children are Edna Daigle Bertrand and Mrs. Beulah Baggett, both of Lake Charles; J. Berton Daigle, Cameron Parish clerk of court; Woodrow Daigle, Sulphur; and Murl Daigle, Texas City.

Mr. Daigle, who is now 79, was born in Cameron and lived here all his life. He was a cotton farmer and trapper until his retirement several years ago, and one of his early jobs was on the old Cameron Pilot, the parish's first newspaper, published around 1896. He turned the old handpowered press.

Mr. Daigle's father, Joseph Daigle, was one of the three persons drowned in the tidal wave which hit Holly Beach in July, 1909.

Mrs. Daigle is 68 years old, and both she and Mr. Daigle are in good health and active. They were among the very first to return to Cameron following Hurricane Audrey.

Tarpons to play at Welsh Friday night

By JOE MUELLER

It's on the road again for an important district game against a state ranked team for the 8-0 South Cameron Tarpons.

The Tarpons take their first place standing in District 6AA to Welsh to face the eighth ranked Greyhounds.

The game on paper looks to be nearly as close as the one that the Tarpons won 14-13 two weeks ago in Iota.

They once again take a No. 3 state ranking by the Louisiana Sportswriters with them. In Iota they played No. 4. This week they play No. 8 Welsh at Greyhound Stadium with kickoff scheduled for 7 p.m.

The two teams will be fighting for the district crown. The Tarpons are 3-0 in district while Welsh is 2-1. The winner of the game will be in a good position to claim first place in the district with one game to play.

The two teams have common opponents in Pickering and Notre Dame and Iota.

Welsh lost 13-12 in their opening game of the year to Pickering. The Tarpons beat Pickering 24-21 in their fourth game of the year.

The Greyhounds beat Notre Dame 20-3 while South Cameron won over the Pioneers by a score of 27-6. Iota, the other common opponent, beat Welsh last week 21-14 and two weeks ago the Bulldogs were the Tarpons victim 14-13.

Both teams have strong running games. The Greyhounds have rushed for 2050 yards in eight games while the Tarpons have 2059 yards. Through the air the Greyhounds have 257 yards while the South Cameron team has 559 yards. Points scored sees Welsh with 237 points to 232 for South Cameron.

The Tarpons ground game features at least six strong runners and the Greyhound running game is also very balanced with three backs averaging 60 yards per game.

The teams on defense both are near the top in their district. South Cameron has given up 68 points and less than 200 yards per game while Welsh has given up 88 points and they also have held their opponents to less than 200 yards per game.

You could write forever on the similarities of the teams, but it comes down to the winner will be the one with the least mistakes.

The Greyhounds are extremely tough at home as they have not lost at home this year.

The Tarpons, on the other side of the coin, have proved to be good road warriors with their win over Iota.

The Tarpons need good fan support so let's all get an early start to Welsh and it's guaranteed you will be treated to an excellent football game.

Last year the two teams were involved in a five-way tie for first place in District 6AA. The Tarpons scored a 5-0 win last year at Creole.

The crystal ball sees the Tarpons winning by a score of 24-13.

GREGG WICKE and Mike Hebert, two members of the Cameron Parish Ducks Unlimited Committee, are shown with two of the raffle items to be used to raise money for the annual banquet. The tickets can be purchased at the Cameron State Bank and the winner can have the pick of the hand-crafted barbeque pit by Larry Myers, or the Ducks Unlimited gun, with the other prize going to second place. The banquet will be held Nov. 21, at the Creole K. C. Hall.

Tarpons still in 3rd place in poll

The South Cameron Tarpons once again hold down third place in the Louisiana Sportwriters Poll.

The Tarpons tallied 90 points, 9 behind second place Ouachita Christian and 28 points behind first place, Haynesville.

The Iota Bulldogs moved back to fourth place this week as they beat Welsh 21-14.

Welsh dropped down to eighth in this week's poll.

National "Turn Off TV Day" set

Johnson Bayou-Holly Beach citizens will participate in a national "Turn Off TV Day" Friday, Nov. 13.

Sponsored by Morality in Media, based in New York City, "Turn Off TV Day" gives Americans an opportunity to register their protests against the increasing sex, violence, and mockery of traditional values on television. "We will keep our TV sets off for 24 hours on Friday the 13th in hopes of sending a message to TV producers and advertisers: "Enough!" said Gerald Touchet, Grand Knight of F. J. Pavell Knights of Columbus 8323.

A 1992 study by the American Family Association found that the three networks displayed more than 10,000 sexual incidents during prime time alone.

The earliest known zoo belonged to Queen Hatshepsut of Egypt about 1500 BC.

DEXTER GRANT Harrison, Houston, formerly of Grand Chenier, is shown with a copy of his new book, "The Blassiah".

Harrison has book published

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Dexter Grant Harrison grew up in Grand Chenier, where he had a strong background in Cameron Parish in religion, work and family.

It was from this background that Harrison drew the inspiration to write a novel, "The Blassiah", which has just been published by the Regina Press, Inc Hunyington, W.Va.

The book is a saga depicting the struggles, strife and hardships of a young southern black family trying to overcome racism.

God had a special calling for a courageous young heroin user known as Celeste Domineque to bring forth an offspring whose personality and attitude displayed extraordinary moral qualities and compassion for the needs of others.

This special child, symbolic of "The Christ Child", was given the name Jeremiah, who was later referred to as "The Blassiah" by his old friend and mentor, Uncle Charlie.

Uncle Charlie was a man of many wonders, who possessed a gift of prophecy, distinctive values, morals, beliefs and premonitions.

It was the teachings of this wise old advisor that groomed Jeremiah for a journey filled with obstacles which made him a role model for his people.

Harrison, the author, who is African-American, said that his character Uncle Charlie was a composite of the older men who had served him as role models as he was growing up, mainly Bryant Bartie, Simon Harrison, Frank January, Letchet Dozier, Dominic Bishop, John LeBlanc, and Joe Harrison, all of whom are now deceased.

Others to whom he dedicated his book are Lovenia Avant, Francis January, Wanita and Lee Harrison (his parents), Elizabeth Das, Clem January, Doloras and Robert Breaux, Rian and Michael Harrison, Michael Craig Williams, his grandmothers Lillie Harrison, Lovenia Bartie and Mary Bishop, and his wife, Terri.

Harrison is a self-employed Certified Public Accountant in Houston, Tex. He is married to the former Teresita Breaux of Abbeville, and is a member of the Windsor Village United Methodist Church where he participates in the male chorus.

Now that his novel is complete he says that he plans to devote more of his time to helping the young people of his church in their activities.

He said that the purpose of writing this novel is to help the young African-American individuals to realize their worth, and to encourage older ones to act as role models to these young men.

He is very concerned about the inner-city African-Americans who have no role models of their race to pattern their lives from.

The commission is composed of eight commissioners appointed by the Cameron Parish Police Jury. the two newest members, Bob Hession and Madeline "Puddy" Solina, were introduced to the audience.

Ray Conner, police juror from Creole, praised the commission for accomplishing so much with so little money to spend.

Several of the hotel-motel owners from the Holly Beach and Constance Beach areas of the parish strongly objected to the tax plan.

However, one urged the police jury to adopt the plan, pointing out that through the advertisement and promotion of the parish the tourist commission can draw tourists to the area to view the wildlife, the beaches, and some of the untouched areas left in the state and nation.

One hotel owner in Cameron objected to the concept of the tax, saying that he thought the 2% tax should be placed on all businesses which would benefit from the tourist trade.

George LeBoeuf, police juror from Cameron, said "I have a concern here - the owners I see here tonight are mostly from Holly and Constance beach areas on the western end of the parish, and from Cameron.

"I need to know what the other hotel-motel owners think about this tax. Did they not come tonight just because they were in favor of it?"

Conner called for unity among the businessmen in whatever they do, pointing out that tourism is badly needed in the parish.

At the close of the meeting Russell Badon, police juror from Johnson Bayou, called for a show of hands on how many were in favor of the tax, with only two being in favor, one undecided and all of the other motel-hotel owners against it.

The matter is to come up before the police jury at their next meeting.

DOVE HUNTING

Dove hunting was better this past week, with good reports of limits being taken. It seems we've had some new birds brought down with the cold front to the north of us. The doves I had didn't have much feed in them and they were really looking for the fields to get grain.

Speaking of hunting, our deer season in Cameron Parish will open this Saturday, Oct. 31. I think we should have a good opening weekend, as I've seen some deer moving on the marsh levees and woods.

Dove season has another week to go before it closes on Nov. 8, for the second split.

Our area fishing, especially saltwater, has really been good this past week. Some good redfish are being taken out at the jetties in grand Chenier and Cameron and Joseph Harbor on Rockefeller Refuge. The inland waters of the refuge are also good and a few good speckle trout are being caught. I made a trip Staurday and did well on specks, reds and even caught 7 nice bass fishing out of Rockefeller Refuge.

This weekend I'm fishing in the Calcasieu Lake area with professional guide Terry Shaugnassey out of Hackberry. I'll have a report next week on Terry's operation in that area.

I've noticed quite a few coots and some grayducks and pintail ducks have come into our area. That's a good sign, however, these birds may go on further south before we get a chance to hunt them as our duck and coot season desn't open until Nov. 21.

I heard on the news that there were 16 species of birds, doves, teals, etc., arriving in Mexico on their migration south and many are dropping out of the sky and of course, killing themselves when they hit the ground. The cause, as of this writing, is unknown as well as the count. You know, some times a few birds will die from exhaustion or old age or maybe even lead poisoning and the Mexican authorites will make a big issue out of it.

REWARD

Plano Tackle Box Company, a very popular tackle box manufacturer of different type of boxes, and an old company in the business, was offering a $1000 reward for the best original Plano tackle box through newspaper ads.

The winner, Leroy White from Farmington, Ill., collected his $100 by producing a 1952 Plastax Model Plano tackle box, which he bought when he was 26 years old. The 40 year old tackle box was bought by Plano from the 66-year-old angler and they gave him a new Plano box and also made a $1,000 donation to the Sport Fishing Institute.

POACHERS

A few weeks ago we talked about poachers. Right here in our state near Morgan City, four men were charged with hunting deer in closed season, hunting deer during illegal hours, hunting deer from a moving motorboat, killing does illegally, killing a spotted fawn and killing deer by illegal methods. They had stolen household items, televisions, battery chargers and cooking pots from a camp.

This is poaching!!

1920 election in Cameron Parish

Along with millions throughout the world I have been listening to the political debates among the presidential candidates, President Bush, Governor Clinton and Mr. Perot, and the vice-presidential candidates, Vice-President Quayle, Senator Gore, and Mr. Stockdale. It is always gratifying when those involved stick to issues instead of trying to demean the other. The latter reminds me of selfish children scrapping over a toy that each is determined to possess or two forces going to battle over a boundary line.

I am not aware of the number of registered voters in Cameron Parish this year. Seventy-two years ago Cameron had only 574.

The following is a quote from the "American Press", dated January 17, 1920:

"Cameron Parish, second in area in Louisiana but with the smallest population, will cast 574 votes in the primary of next Tuesday if all registered voters take advantage of their privileges. At the election four years ago 464 votes were cast.

Parish politics will be settled also on Tuesday when a sheriff, clerk of court, assessor and state representative will be elected.

The polling places will be at Grand Chenier, Leesburg, Creole, Cow Island, Grand Lake, Hackberry and Johnson Bayou.

The man who takes the time to cast a vote in a general election in Cameron is indeed a patriot as the population of 4,268 is distributed over an area of 900,000 square miles with no railroads or good roads on which to travel to the polls.

A person cannot even vote by proxy if such a thing were permissable in as much as there are no telephone or telegraph communications in the parish.

There is a three-cornered sheriff's race. D. R. Crain, the present incumbent, who has held the credentials of sheriff for eight years, is a candidate for re-election and finds himself opposed by J. D. Demarest and Raymond Richard. E. D. Sweeney, present clerk of court, will enter a new term without opposition."

Cameron, you have come a long way in this century. It was due to enterprising, upstanding citizens during all the years of your existence. We predict that this same spirit in the present and the future will carry you far.

Tarpons win over Lake Arthur 27-16

By JOE MUELLER

The South Cameron Tarpons ground out 359 yards on the ground as they won their eighth game of the year 27-16 over the Lake Arthur Tigers last Friday at Tarpon Stadium.

The Tarpons, with the win, now hold an edge over both Welsh and Iota in district with a 3-0 record to their 2-1 records. The Tarpons can cinch the district title with a victory at Welsh on Friday, Oct. 30.

The Tarpons first score of the night came on a 23 yard pass from quarterback Chris McCall to Jobe Johnson with 9:21 left in the opening quarter. The South Cameron defense, with a pass interception on the Tiger 46, set up the touchdown pass.

The Tarpons second touchdown came on their second possession as they forced Lake Arthur to punt and moved 60 yards in 11 plays with the touchdown coming on a 15-yard pass from Chris McCall to Byron Richard.

Lake Arthur came back following the Tarpon touchdown and cut the margin to 13-8 as Cyrus Duncan scored on a 35-yard run. They ran in the extra point and cut the margin to 13-8.

Lake Arthur's second touchdown came as they recovered a bobbled ball by South Cameron on the Tarpon 19. It only took one play from the 19 for Cyrus Duncan to score and after Farius Davis ran in the extra point, the Tigers were up 16-13.

This 16-13 lead by Lake Arthur stood up until the third quarter.

The Tarpons moved 64 yards in ten plays to reclaim the lead at 19-16. The touchdown came on an 8-yard run by Chris McCall.

The final touchdown came on a 3-yard run by Chris McCall from the 3-yard line with 3:34 left in the game. The Tarpons James Bonsall ran in the final extra point to make the final margin 27-16.

The Tarpon defense did a good job in the contest intercepting one pass and forcing the Tigers to punt five times. They also had good pressure on the Tiger passers during passing plays.

South Cameron had two players with over 100 yards rushing: Chris McCall with 109 on 19 carries; and Rusty Welch with 119 yards on a dozen carries.

Chris McCall hit only two passes but both were for touchdowns.

South Cameron goes on the road to Welsh this Friday with their No. 3 state ranking and the district crown on the line. Welsh also has a state ranking to uphold No. 8.

Servicers provided by Council

The Cameron Council on Aging provides services to all persons over the age of 60 who reside in Cameron Parish. Services are free of charge to the elderly, however, senior citizens who wish to purchase services may do so.

Contributions and donations are welcomed and needed to increase services and to continue to service those persons who are already on the various programs.

Senior citizens and families of the elderly may contribute towards the service received.

"With the ever increasing needs of the senior citizens and the decreasing of the funding from the federal and state governments donations are a vital part of the programs," Director Dinah Nunez stated. For more information contact the Cameron Council on Aging at 775-5668.
