Dispos permit sought

Diamond Environm vices, Inc. of Lake Charles is publishing elsewhere in this issue of the Cameron Pilot a notice of intent to file an application with the Commissioner of Conservation requesting approval to operate a commercial nonhazardous oilfield waste treatment and disposal facility in northern Cameron parish.

The proposed facility will be located about two miles from Sweetlake.

According to the notice the firm "intends to treat and dispose of nonhazardous oilfield waste generated from the drilling and production of oil and gas wells by means of deep well injection into the subsurface and land treatment, and with initial storage of aqueous waste in tanks."

Anyone wishing to comment on the proposed permit may contact the Commissioner of the Office of Conservation, P.O. Box 94275, Baton Rouge, La. 70804-9275.

Firms plans not definite in parish

The Cameron Parish Police Jury at its monthly meeting last week discussed rumors that three local petroleum and gas related firms were considering moving their offices from Cameron Parish, but a spokesman for one of the firms said his firm was in Cameron to stay and another company spokesman said his firm had made no decision in the matter.

The jury voted to write all three firms offering its assistance in any way to keep the firms in the parish.

The jury heard a report from its recently appointed representative on the Lake Charles Harbor and Terminal District, Terry Hebert told the juror that the port's tonnage is off 40 percent but the future remains bright for the facility.

The jury took under study a request from the Public Health Department to provide funds out of the parish health unit tax to pay the salary of one of the personnel at the health unit due to a cut in state funds.

Thirteen drilling and pipeline permits and three seismic permits were approved by the jury, indicating that the oil and gas industry drilling may be making some improvement.

Gene Fontenot was awarded a $38,190 contract to build a fire station at Grangerville near Hackett's Corner.

The jury voted to advertise two roads to be abandoned in Districts 2 and 3.

Mock election

Bush received 65% and Dukakis received 35% of the votes.

Scout helped get out vote

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Chris Hebert, who is working on his Eagle Scout project in Boy Scout Troop 210 spoke on his "Get out and vote campaign."

Chris put up a banner over Cameron's Main street reminding voters to vote, which was torn down by an 18-wheeler truck with a high load. He also put out signs around Cameron and handed out fliers at a football game and was at the polls on election day handing out stickers to be worn by those who had voted, reminding others to vote.

"It is not true that your vote does not make a difference", he said, "it is not true that you do not have a real choice, and there is just no excuse for not voting."

Dennis Arnold, with the Cameron Telephone Company, announced that the company is introducing a new digital microwave upgrade system for long distance.

Some of the new features are provisions for wake-up calls, call forwarding and call waiting.

It will be put into effect in Hackberry on Dec. 13; in Creole in February or March of next year; in Grand Chenier in April; and Johnson Bayou in May.

He also reviewed the history of the company which has been in Cameron for 60 years and how it has come along way from the early system that was in effect on Grand Chenier which had the very first telephones, a 15 phone system, all on one line.

He recalled that Cameron had telephones even before they had roads into the parish.

He said that the telephone system was completely destroyed in 1957 during Hurricane Audrey, but the company had three vital phones back in service in three days to the Cameron courthouse.

He reviewed the company's contingency plans in case of hurricanes and having contractors on stand-by during emergencies to get the system back in service as soon as possible after a disaster.

Dr. Ray Leidig, club president, reported the club would start selling Christmas trees after Thanksgiving.

The club also agreed to sponsor a Cub pack scout group at the South Cameron Elementary School for handicapped children.

Miss Willis crowned queen

She will represent the festival at the Mardi Gras Ball in Washington in February.

A reception honoring Rep. Randy Roach will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, at Parnell's Restaurant (formerly Louisianne's) next to the Econo Lodge on Prien Lake Road in Lake Charles.

Gov. Buddy Roemer will be a special guest.

Tickets are $25 per person and may be obtained by calling 542-4687, 478-8595 or 491-2102.

Dept. layoffs

Falling revenues and state budgets will force the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries to lay off some of its 800 workers, says Secretary Virginia VanSickle.

The department's major source of income, oil and gas, has dropped $12 million over the last five years, she said. Royalties on mineral production at two Gulf Coast wildlife refuges — Rockefeller and Marsh Island — make up about one-third of the department's income.

She said the department will decide during the next week how many employees it must fire.

Meeting set

There will be a meeting of the Coastal Concern Association Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7 p.m., in the Police Jury meeting room in Cameron.

Tarpons in playoff game here Friday

By ROBERT MANUEL

South Cameron's victory over Gueydan and Hanson's loss to Delcambre Friday night earned the Tarpons the No. 1 position in the playoffs and a co-district championship of District 8A with Vermilion Catholic.

Each team ended the regular district slate with 4-1 records. When two teams tie for district honors, the No. 1 playoff position goes to the winner of the two team encounter. South Cameron defeated Vermilion Catholic 16-13 in district competition and therefore was awarded the No. 1 playoff spot.

The Tarps will host 7A runner-up Merryville Friday in bi-district play. The 7 p.m. contest in Tarpon Stadium has all the earmarks of a scoring duel, as both teams have plenty of artillery, scoring as likely from the air as from the ground.

The Merryville Panthers, ranked sixth in the Class A polls with an 8-1 record, lost their only game to Elton in a district showdown 27-18.

The Tarpons, unranked, but now raising some eyebrows with their growing force and improvement, will be ready to play ball, according to South Cameron head Coach Parry LaLande.

Tarpon fans reserve seats are still in effect for the playoffs but season ticket owners must purchase a playoff game ticket to claim the seat.

Game time is 7 p.m. at Tarpon Stadium Friday, Nov. 11.

One tax passes, another fails

One property tax passed, another failed and the majority of voters were for Mike Dukakis in the election in Cameron parish Tuesday.

The two elections were called in two separate districts to operate public facilities that had been closed after the police jury withdrew its financial support due to its budget deficit.

In Fire Protection District No. 15, the Klondike area, the vote was 62 to 22 in favor of a 4-mill, 10-year property tax to operate the fire department. A fire station had previously been built and equipped with police jury funds, but no operating tax had been voted up to now.

However, in the Johnson Bayou Recreation District, a half mill tax to operate the multi-purpose recreation building was defeated 201 to 139.

Similarly, the multi-purpose building was built with jury funds but no operating funds had ever been voted.

A month ago, in three similar maintenance tax elections, taxes were approved to operate the Creole fire department and the Hackberry multi-purpose building, but a multi-purpose building tax for the Grand Lake-Sweetlake area was defeated.

Other presidential candidates were: David Duke, Independent Populist Party, 18; Ron Paul, Libertarian Party, 13; Lyndon LaRouche, National Economic Recovery Party, 3; and Lenora Fulani, New Alliance Party, 5.

Fun Day set at Cameron Rec. Center

Christians from various area churches have organized a Fun Day to be held Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Cameron Recreation Center. The objective is to promote fellowship, unity and fun between believers in Christ.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

We urge and encourage all persons of Cameron parish to participate. Bring a sack lunch and picnic on the grounds or purchase lunch from the snack bar.

For more information call: Roland Roos, 775-5971; Kenneth Frederick, 775-5782; Leroy Nunez, 775-5302; Tony Porche, 775-7022 or 775-5081; Teresa Authement, 775-5907; Beatrice Williams, 775-5383.

Anyone needing a ride in the Cameron, Creole or Grand Chenier areas, call 775-5081 or 775-5087 by 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17.

Bike event & shrimp boil set

The Cameron Recreation District 6 has announced plans to host a community shrimp boil at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, in conjunction with the Veteran's Day Bicycling Festival.

The menu includes Fettucini a la Jetties, as well as the traditional shrimp, corn, potatoes, and beverage. Tickets are $8 per person, and are available at the Cameron Recreation District 6 Center in Cameron and from the Calcasieu Marine National Bank Marketing Department in Lake Charles.

Organizers of the Bicycling Festival, the Sons of the American Revolution Avenue of Flags, are promoting a 124-mile bike ride around the Creole Nature Trail. Starting in Lake Charles, cyclists will pedal through Moss Bluff and Sulphur before hitting U. S. 27 southbound for Cameron.

The Recreation Center in Cameron will be open for camping by cyclists who wish to break the grueling ride into two days of enjoyable touring.

The 124-mile trip was titled the Gator 110 before Festival organizers were denied access to cross the I-10 bridge in Lake Charles. The organizers remain hopeful that festivals in future years will be given permission to use the bridge and have retained the Gator 110 name in that hope. The festival features other rides of 15, 30, 50, 64, 75 and 100 miles as well as the Gator 110.

The start and finish line for all rides will be adjacent to the stirring Avenue of Flags at the Orange Grove/Graceland Cemetery in Lake Charles. Sixteen rest stops along the course will provide needed liquids and carbohydrate replenishment for registered cyclists.

The dinner will start at 7:30 p.m. followed by the auction and the awarding of the door prizes, which will be given to the D.U. members and the Green Wingers.

Four die in copter crash

He was identified as Curtis Alan Helms, 40, a native of Lecompte who had lived in Cameron for 15 years. He was an independent welder employed by Cameron Construction Co.

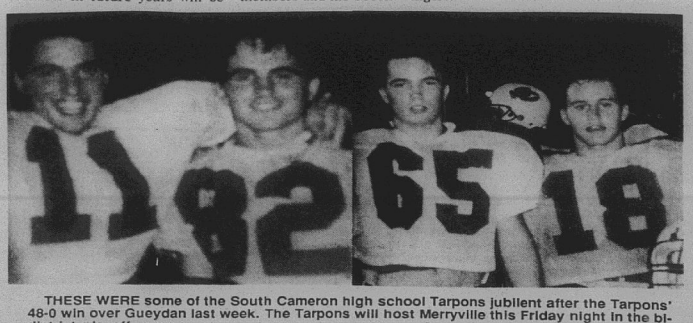
The helicopter went down in the Gulf during a takeoff from a Mobil Oil platform.

Others killed in the crash were R. F. Piglia, Jr., 27, a Mobile Oil employee from Baton Rouge; Eugene Scott, 40, Mobil employee from Abbeville; and James Roos, 44, ERA Helicopter pilot from Nacogdoches, Tex.

All of the bodies have been recovered.

Two other helicopter passengers, Mobile employees Randolph J. "Jim" Sonnier, 36, of Sulphur and K. P. "Keith" Lougon, 25, of Gueydan, remained in stable condition in St. Patrick's hospital in Lake Charles with injuries sustained in the crash.

The helicopter, recovered from the Gulf, was placed on a workboat Tuesday to be transported to Cameron.



In Cameron, the helicopter, under protection of the National Transportation Safety Board, will be inspected by the Federal Aviation Administration, ERA Helicopters officials and other aviation authorities to determine the cause of the crash.

Meanwhile, a lawsuit seeking $16 million has been filed by the ex-wife of the contract welder who died in the accident.

The suit was filed in 38th District Court in Cameron by Sheila Darlene McDaniel Helms, in her own name and in the names of her two minor children, against ERA Helicopters and four divisions of Mobil Oil Corp.

Mrs. Helms said in the suit that she was divorced from Helms but was living with him at the time of the accident.

Ken Badon is listed as attorney for Mrs. Helms.

THESE WERE some of the South Cameron high school Tarpons jubilent after the Tarpons' 48-0 win over Gueydan last week. The Tarpons will host Merryville this Friday night in the bi-district playoff game.

CAMERON OUTDOORS

New Laws & Rules

By Loston McEvers

NEW RULES, NEW LAW, LAY-OFFS

There have been many changes in our laws in the past year, local, state and federal, mostly governing fish, inshore and offshore waters. Some of the few things you might be interested in are as follows:

* The T.E.D. (Turtle Excluder Device) has been put off until May 1, 1989, in offshore waters and May 1, 1990 in inshore waters.

* Dumping waste at sea from ships down to our smaller boats is now illegal -- dumping of garbage, waste from bathrooms, paper products, rags, glass, metal, bottles, ropes and plastic. Many docks will have to provide waste facilities for the boats to use. For more information, you may contact the Coast Guard.

* Public hearings will be set for catch reductions for both commercial and recreational fishermen on the following fish: a minimum size of 20 inches for red, yellowfin, Nassau, black and gag groupers and 36 inches for Jewfish; 12 inches for red, yellowtail, mutton and Vermilion snappers; 8 inches for black sea bass; 28 inches fork length and a bag limit of three for amberjack. The sale of undersize fish would be prohibited.

A daily bag limit of 5 groupers and 10 snappers, with no more than 3 red snappers. This applies to fish taken by trawl.

Fish traps, nets for reef fish would not be allowed in federal waters. Also bottom longlines for reef fish would be prohibited within 50 fathoms.

Commercial catches will be regulated by annual quotas. To be able to fish for a commercial quota, the vessel will have to have a reef fish permit. Also to be able to qualify for a commercial permit, an individual will have to have at least 50% of his income from commercial fishing.

* Anyone who wants to make a claim on the Fisherman's Gear Compensation Fund (State Hang Net Fund) for lost or damaged trawls or vessels, will have to use his income tax return to prove that he made at least 50% of his income from commercial fishing.

* In some new bill fish regulations which should have taken place Oct. 10, prohibits the sale in the United States of blue marlin, sailfish, caught in certain areas of the Atlantic. Also limits and sizes were touched on.

LACASSINE REFUGE NEWS

Recently a tract of land near Lowery ws acquired by the Fish and Wildlife Service next to Lacassine Refuge. The tract contains one boat landing located at the end of Streeters Road. This landing is to be closed after the end of hunting season Jan. 8, 1989. This site will be used to relocate the refuge headquarters facility.

Also, a portion of Lacassine Refuge will be opened to waterfowl hunting during the regular state duck season, Nov. 19-Dec. 4 and Dec. 26-Jan. 8. Hunting will be permitted until noon each day, Wednesday through Sunday. Last year regulations were not changed and will be used for this year's seasons.

As most of you know the refuge is now closed, but will be open from Nov. 12-18, so hunters may visit the refuge to check things out and make plans.

Remember, steel shot only, shooting at sunrise and obey all state and federal regulations.

If you have any questions, contact Bobby Brown, Refuge Manager at 774-5923, Monday through Friday, or write at Rt. 1 Box 186, Lake Arthur, La. 70549.

LANDOWNERS BEING OFFERED ASSISTANCE

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has recently initiated a program to assist landowners who are interested in making their property more attractive to waterfowl. The program is part of a massive effort now underway, called The North American Waterfowl Management Plan, which is to benefit waterfowl by private citizens and the Governments of Canada and the United States.

The Program that local landowners can get involved in is called Partners for Waterfowl Tomorrow. The Fish and Wildlife Service will assist landowners by having one of its biologists look at the property and make recommendations on how to make improvements for waterfowl. At its expense the Service may even provide and install pipes or other structures on private property to control water for the benefit of waterfowl. Other assistance may be to provide wood duck nesting boxes at no expense to the landowner if the habitat appears to be suitable for the production of these ducks.

Persons interested in the Partners for Waterfowl Tomorrow program should contact their nearest Fish and Wildlife Service office, or any of the National Wildlife Refuges. Both Lacassine and Sabine will be providing assistance.

FISHING AND HUNTING IN OUR AREA

At this time of the year bass fishing is limited, but I did see some nice bass this week, caught in a farm pond. There were 12 bass with the smallest 2¼ pounds and the largest 4½ pounds. Really a nice dozen weighing in at 35-3/6 pounds which is right at a 3 pound average. This really makes you feel good to see this in our area.

Redfishing is still good with a few nice fish being kept. Lots of reds are being returned to the water for being undersized. One angler caught 47 redfish, but only kept six legal fish.

LAYOFFS, CUTS

I had recently read an article about our Secretary of Wildlife and Fisheries, Virginia VanSickle. She was in Washington defending Louisiana's bad record of poaching and kill over limits of ducks. She also said that she would see to it to put new agents out in the field and to take action on violators.

Today I get the message that Wildlife and Fisheries is planning on laying off or "firing" employees, both at the refuge level and game agents included.

It seems the major source of Wildlife and Fisheries income is oil and gas, and we all know what happened to oil and gas. It seems Rockefeller Refuge in Cameron Parish and Marsh Island Refuge in Vermilion Parish make up about a third of revenues for the entire state Wildlife and Fisheries.

Oil and gas revenues have dropped around $12 million over the last five years. With the debts and obligations it seems they're 9 million dollars short on a $39 million program.

I have talked with a few people and it seems her assistance is really doing the work to get these people layed off and cut programs.

The actual people working at Rockefeller need to be there, although there are others on their payrolls that are not even there to work at Rockefeller Refuge.

Losing personnel and game agents at Rockefeller would be real bad for our parishes, as well as our biologists and the program like the Alligator and Fisheries program that has put people now making money hunting alligators.

Let's hope this doesn't happen, as many dollars and hours of work will all go down the drain and will affect our area greatly.

By ROBERT MANUEL

Grand Lake High School will host their annual invitational basketball tournament Nov. 9-12. The game schedule is:

Wednesday, Nov. 9:
3:30 - Hackberry girls vs Chatagnier
5 - Grand Lake boys vs Chatagnier
6:30 - Grand Lake girls vs Starks
8 - Starks boys vs Bell City.
Thursday, Nov. 10:
3:30 - Bell City vs Johnson Bayou
5 - Fenton boys vs Johnson Bayou
8 - Lacassine boys vs Hackberry
Friday, Nov. 11:
3:30 - Losers and winners semi-finals
Saturday, Nov. 12:
12 - Girls consolation finals
1:30 - Boys consolation finals
3 - Girls third place finals
4:30 - Boys third place finals
6 - Girls championship
7:30 - Boys championship

Defending champs, the Grand Lake Lady Hornets and the Hackberry Mustangs have major obstacles to overcome to reach the finals. The Lady Hornets have to overcome Starks and if they win, they would face either Lacassine or Fenton in the semi-finals. The Lacassine Lady Cardinals bombed the Lady Hornets in the Bell City tournament recently.

The Hackberry Mustangs, in a rebuilding year, have to overcome Lacassine in the first round and if they win, they would play the Grand Lake-Chatagnier winner in the semi-finals.

The Lady Mustangs have been playing extremely well, defeating the Lacassine Lady Cardinals for the Bell City Bruin Classic championship. Their road trip to the finals would require victories over Chatagnier and the winner between Bell City and Johnson Bayou.

Tarps take big win over Bears

By ROBERT MANUEL

South Cameron piled up a 42-0 lead in the first half then let reserves finish off the scoring for a 48-0 win over the Gueydan Bears last week. The victory gave the Tarpons a 7-2 regular season record and a 4-1 district slate, clinching a playoff spot in the state playoffs.

The amazing Tarpons, struggling through a rebuilding year relied strongly on troopers from the underclassmen ranks to fill in w..h only a handful of seniors, had the injury bug strike again, as freshman standout Albert Doucet, (subing for Reggie Godette sophomore, who was nursing a sprained ankle from last week's Delcambre game) was seriously injured while sprinting to the goal line with an intercepted pass. The injury in the knee-cap area required surgery. Doucet will be out for the rest of the season.

The Tarpons had a field day with scores coming from Joseph Duhon, Walter Jones, Chad Mudd, Chris Daniels and Charles Duhon.

Mudd threw two touchdown passes and intercepted for another score. Joseph Duhon was on the receiving end of two scoring passes from Mudd, while Walter Jones accounted for two touchdowns, runs of two and 15 yards. Chris Daniels and Charles Duhon each scored on runs of 4 and 2 yards respectively.

Throughout the week students participated in activities stressing the theme "Get High On Life". The activities climaxed on Friday with a demonstration by the Lake Area Sky Divers. Three divers--Charlie Bordelon, Randy Carnahan, and Greg Watts--floated to the ground bearing a banner "Get High On Life."

Students and faculty were also encouraged to sign a scroll committing themselves to remain chemically free during the week.

Last weekend's cold front and clear weather brought in many sportsmen to camps and duck leases on the Chenier. They were busy over the weekend, running their mud boats, building their duck blinds to prepare for the duck season which is only 9 days off.

Some of the sportsmen said they saw several flocks of mallards, pintails, widgons, and gadwells. If the ducks don't leave before the season opens they won't have any problem getting their limits as the limit this year is only three ducks per hunt.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Cotton was quarantine

By Keith Hambrick

(Lake Charles American Press, Nov. 11, 1921)

CAMERON

Trapping season is opened, and trappers are very much encouraged as they are looking forward to a very prosperous season.

Dellino Lebeouf, assessor of Cameron Parish, has moved into his home which he purchased from Louis Dupuy, who is moving to Sweetlake the coming week, on a place which he bought there from his father.

Mrs. Levy Trahan of Grand Lake is with her parents to spend part of the winter, while her husband is camping out trapping.

The marriage of Everette Vincent of Hackberry and Miss Eugenie Young of Creole, will take place at the Catholic Church of Creole, Thursday, Nov. 10. They will give a reception at the girl's home after the ceremony.

J. E. Broussard and family of Memphis, Tenn., were at Grand Lake the past week, visiting his father, and close relatives.

Cameron farmers are overjoyed to know they are allowed to plant cotton, their money crop, next year as they are very badly in need. Many families are suffering from a shortage of clothing and food.

QUARANTINE ZONE

The non-cotton quarantine zone of Cameron parish has been lifted for the year of 1922 and the whole of that parish has been placed in a regulated zone, according to a statement issued today by T. Slack, chief inspector of the pink boll worm commission of the state board of agriculture. This means that the farmers of Cameron parish will be allowed to plant cotton next year under regulations which will be stipulated at a later date.

The regulations as will apply to Cameron will practically be the same as those employed in the regulated zones of Calcasieu and Jeff Davis parishes during 1921. Briefly they are as follows:

(1) The safeguarding of all cotton seed for planting or for other purposes, entering Cameron parish. For this purpose it may be probable that the commission will require each and every farmer in that parish to make application to plant cotton.

(2) The inspection of cotton fields throughout the parish by both federal and state agents of the department of agriculture.

(3) Ginning and marketing both lint and cotton seed during harvest time.

(4) Cleaning cotton fields of old cotton stalks and cotton and seed which have dropped on the ground.

The pink boll worm commission wishes to impress on the farmers of Cameron and elsewhere the importance of safeguarding the planting seed, for the seed are by far the greatest carrier of the pink boll worm. There still remains enough time for the farmers of Cameron to prepare their land for planting cotton next spring. Also there is sufficient time for them to get planting seed from the right sources, but the commission does not desire any farmer residing in Cameron parish to purchase cotton seed from anyone until he has first communicated with the commission. It is suggested by the commission that to make doubly sure that before any farmer contemplates buying seed he write to the Lake Charles office.

Charges to be filed

Dear Editor:

I recently received a letter from a "Concerned Citizen" about illegal dumping of trash on Rutherford Beach. This "Concerned Citizen" letter was accompanied with photographs of the violator(s) and violator vehicle. The "Concerned Citizen" requested that enforcement action be taken against the violator(s).

On receiving the letter and photographs I ordered that this matter be investigated. Our investigation has produced the identity of the violators. A Criminal Offense report has been prepared and turned over to the District Attorney's office for acceptance of charges.

I would like to point out that any citizen who may see a person illegally dumping trash on our beaches or anywhere in Cameron Parish should obtain a description of the person and vehicle, with license plate number. I will insure the anonymity of the person reporting the offense to the Sheriff's office. This information will be investigated fully and turned over to the District Attorney for acceptance of charges.

Hebert works on Eagle rank

Chris Hebert, a member of Boy Scout Troop 210 worked all day election day calling up local businesses, 25 in all, reminding them to remind their workers to go vote.

He put out gold stars at each polling place which read, "I voted - did you?" and asked each person to wear it all day.

By the stars he placed a sign that read "Congratulations you deserve a gold star for voting - please take one to remind others. Troop 210 Boy Scouts of America."

He had already put out 11 posters around town and put out flyers at the ball games reminding people to vote.

MUSING. . . . . .By Bernice Denny

Remember old syrup mills?

November nostalgia calls to mind the old syrup mills on Grand Chenier and the fields of sugar cane for which they waited.

When chilly autumn days arrived, the stalks of blue-ribbon cane were sampled for sweetness and maturity. Always on hand to assist with the sampling were we children, who chewed almost as fast as the adults could peel and cut the cane for us. During the grinding season we were just as willing to sample the juice from the crushed stalks.

The Chenier people never went in for making sugar. They always made syrup from the cane juice. However, they always referred to the place as the "sugar mill".

Earlier syrup makers on the Chenier produced molasses, too. It was made by boiling some of the thickest syrup until it became a stiff mass of syrup and crystals called massecuite. The massecuite was then placed in wooden barrels that had tiny holes in the bottom. The molasses seeped through the holes into containers set below. The sugar crystals remained inside the barrels. During the Civil War and the Reconstruction Period the main source of sweetening in what is now Cameron parish was home-produced syrup and molasses.

Syrup mills on the Chenier were quite primitive. Rollers for crushing the cane stalks and extracting the juice were turned by horses or oxen. During my childhood my grandfather bought a diesel engine to supplant the animal power upon which he had depended, but he often complained that it "lacked the horse sense" to which he was accustomed.

The juice was boiled in a series of open vats, or kettles. The boiling liquid in each vat was skimmed with a huge ladle, stirred by means of a long wooden paddle, and tested before it was allowed to flow into the next one for another stage of cooking.

The vats were built over a combination brick and earthern furnace. Wood, because of its proximity and abundance, was used for fuel. Grandfather, I remember, had pine wood shipped down the Mermentau River to him, for it made the hottest furnace fire.

The finished syrup was drawn off into sterilized gallon cans and sealed. Some was retained for home consumption; the surplus sold on the Chenier or shipped up the river to be sold in Lake Arthur or thereabout.

The crushed cane stalks, known as bagasse, were piled not far from the mill.

The women were just as busy cooking, serving meals and coffee at the kitchen as were the men at the mill or the cane cutters in the field.

My remembrance of those days are almost as sweet as was the fresh cane juice or the syrup itself.

The Challenge of Genealogy

by MARIE WISE

Volume 7 of Our French-Canadian Ancestors is now in print, continuing this series of biographies of the oldest of these families — many of whom are counted among the ancestors of South Louisiana's Acadians.

This remarkable set, to be twelve volumes in all, is translated by Thomas J. Laforest, a retired Navy Captain and former University professor. The original version was researched and written as Nos Ancestres by Father Gerard Lebel, historian, teacher and genealogist and M. Jean-Jacques Saintonge, publications director and former journalist. These co-authors of the French version are from Quebec.

FRENCH-CANADIAN ANCESTORS

Volume Seven devotes a chapter to each of twenty pioneer ancestors and their families: Rene Baudouin, Vincent Boissonneau dit Saintonge, Christophe Crevier, Pierre Deshayes, Francois Desaureaux dit Le Bourguinon et Leplante, Jean Doyon, Charles Dutard, Bertrand and Francois Fafard, Pierre Guillot dit Lajeunesse, Louis and Francois Hamelin.

Also Louis Houde, Jean Joubin dit Boisvert, Gabriel-Nicolas Lefebvre dit Lataille, Jean Lepele dit Desmarets, Hilaire Limousin dit Beaufort, Nicolas Millet dit Marandais, Antoine Pepin dit Lachance, Alexandre Raoul, Pierre Tousingnant dit Lapointe, and Giles Trottier.

Many other dit — "also known as" — names are given in the family histories and many, many name variations along with numerous related lines.

More then forty pages are used for the continued Family Name Variations appendix in which French, Canadian and American versions of surnames beginning with D are listed in this Volume Seven. Previous letters are in previous volumes.

Each family history reads like a story with its adventures, experiences, many children and related lines. There are personal sketches, maps, other illustrations, added notes and documentation.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. I've heard that sometimes if a child runs fever, it is the body's normal way of saying something is wrong. But, how high should the fever get before consulting a physician?

A. Dr. Spring Cloud, head of the pediatrics department at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge says that more calls are received from parents asking about fever than anything else. She adds that an infant under four months with a rectal temperature of 101 degrees needs to be examined by a doctor.

With older children, the main thing isn't how high the temperature is but how ill the child looks. If symptoms such as earache, abdominal pain, listlessness, or the like occur, you should consult a physician. If not--if the child is eating normally and playing happily--you can wait. However, if the fever persists more than three days, Cloud advises parents to contact the Doctor.

Fever, she explains, is not a disease but a normal body defense mechanism, usually in response to a viral infection. Even the mildest viral infection in young children can give rise to high fevers, Cloud continues. So in most instances, fever is not a cause for undue alarm.

The usual treatment is an acetaminophen like Tylenol; one grain (60 mg) per year of age may be given every four hours. Tepid sponge baths encourage the blood vessels of the skin to dilate, thus allowing the body to lose excess heat rapidly. Do not use cold baths or alcohol rubs, Cloud warns, as they are uncomfortable for the child and may even raise the temperature.

Dr. Cloud strongly discourages the use of aspirin to treat fever in children. Aspirin has been linked with Reye's Syndrome in children and adolescents. Although its cause is unknown, it usually follows a viral infection, such as the fluor chicken pox, and can be fatal. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration publishes a brochure advising parents about the dangers of Reye's Syndrome and explains several studies that suggest a possible link between aspirin and Reye's.

Since fever also causes a loss of body fluids through evaporation, be sure to give the child plenty of clear liquids to drink, she concludes.

Sabine hunting is set

The Sabine National Wildlife Refuge will open on Nov. 19, to public waterfowl hunting, Refuge Manager Walther announced. The designated hunt area contains 24,000 acres and is the same area that has been hunted in past years. Hunting is permitted three days each week - Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. The western zone state season is applicable to the refuge and hunting will be permitted through Jan. 8, 1989.

Hunters may enter the West Cove parking area to line up their boats for launching three hours before legal shooting hours. All hunters will be permitted to enter the refuge two hours before legal shooting hours. Sunrise is legal shooting time and hunters should plan their hunt so they are finished hunting and out of the refuge by noon, Walther continued.

Steel shot shells are required for hunting and steel shot reloads may be used. Again this year, all gadwalls taken by refuge hunters will be examined and a small square of abdomen skin and fat will be taken from each bird for use in a McNeese State University research project. Also no Canvasback ducks may be taken by hunters this season, Walther noted.

This year there is no minimum age for youth hunters but they must have completed their hunter safety course and have proof with them in order to enter the refuge hunt area. Also each hunter under the age of 16 must be under the close supervision of an adult (21 years or older). For safety reasons, each adult may have only one juvenile under his supervision.

The use of motors to run in the marsh is prohibited, Walther continued. Motorized boats can be used only in canals and bayous; access into the open marsh and ponds is limited to walking or push-poling a boat. Hunters are required to check in before hunting at the check station and check out upon completion of their hunt.

There are other special regulations which apply to hunting and boat operations on the refuge, Walther advised. No entry is allowed in the hunt area until opening day of the waterfowl season. Additional information, copies of regulations, or maps of the hunt area may be obtained by writing to: Sabine National Wildlife Refuge, Hwy. 27 South, Hackberry, La. 70645 or calling telephone number 762-3816.

Opinio ven on not s

(CAPITAL NEWS)

Cameron Parish justices of the peace who are not notaries can only notarize documents if they are vehicle transfers, according to the state attorney general.

The subject of who is allowed to notarize papers was one of three problems posed by Clerk of Court Debbie Theriot in an August letter to Attorney General William Guste. She also questioned whether employees in her office are required to reside in the parish and who pays employees' salaries when the clerk's office cannot do so.

In an opinion released last week, Assistant Attorney General Barbara Rutledge said election as a justice of the peace does not fulfill requirements for being appointed a notary public.

According to Rutledge, the governor appoints all notaries, and each applicant must produce a statutorily specified certificate; his oath of office; a properly executed, approved and registered bond and his official signature.

"There is no authority to act as a notary without having met these requirements," Rutledge advised. So the two Cameron Parish justices of the peace who are not notaries cannot do notary work, with the exception of vehicle transfer papers.

That exception is set forth in a 1981 communication from Guste. In that letter, the attorney general said allowing justices of the peace to handle vehicle transfer papers "is an important and muchly needed service throughout the state."

He explained that since state law authorized the Department of Revenue and of Public Safety to permit justices of the peace to handle those documents, he had urged those department heads to allow the practice to continue and they had agreed.

The clerk of court issues were even more clearcut.

Rutledge said there is no requirement in the constitution or in state law that any deputies or assistants appointed by clerks of court be parish residents. Such a requirement did exist in the 1921 state constitution, she said, but it was not carried forward when the 1974 constitution was adopted.

The clerk of court's salary fund is comprised of all fees and charges collected by the clerk and usually is used to pay all salaries and expenses of the office, the assitant attorney general said.

But if the fund is not sufficent, state law provides that "the police jury of the parish may advance to the clerk's salary fund such funds as may be necessary to pay thes expenses." So the clerk can seek help from the jury on paying salaries for deputy and assistant clerks.

Ruling given on beacons

A recently announced Coast Guard ruling mandates the use of EPIRBs (Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacons) on all uninspected fishing vessels running or working in federal waters, beyond the 3 mile limit.

If a vessel is currently carrying a Class A EPIRB that was purchased before Oct. 3, 1988, that unit will be grandfathered in for a 6 year period.

If a vessel does not have a EPIRB at all, then by Aug. 17, 1989, the vessel will be required to carry the new Category I EPIRB which is a satellite compatible.

Currently, these devices are not manufactured in the U.S. but it is expeced to be produced in the near future.

The European version of the Category I EPIRB costs from $1,500 to $2,000.

Tarpons out of playoffs

By ROBERT MANUEL

The Merryville Panthers won a 43-37 overtime bi-district victory over the South Cameron Tarpons last week.

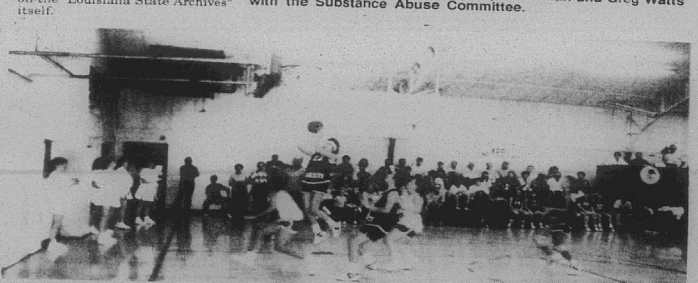
The Tarpons, somehow with sheer determination, were able to come from behind in the second half to tie the game at 37-37 at the end of regulation play.

The Panthers, loaded with talent, had their problems with the die-hard Tarpons, as the Tarpons missed scoring on two other good opportunities that could have made the difference in an otherwise superb performance.

Coach Jim McKeiver, besides having a squad loaded with speed and talent, must have had a rabbit foot along for luck as he won both coin tosses, the opening toss as well as the overtime toss.

In a game between closely matched teams a little luck is often times the difference. What ever advantages or disadvantages either team may have had, it all blended in with both teams doing their thing to the best of their ability and the result was a spectacular high school playoff game. The only disappointment was the fact that somebody had to lose.

The Tarps took the opening kickoff and rambled downfield with certainty to the Panthers four yard line. At that critical point, the momentum changed. An incomplete pass, a quarterback sneak to the two and two-power thrust only netted one yard, the Panther defense held and its offense took over from the one. A wide out pass completion from the one to the 17 promptly took the Panthers out of the hole. The tarpons held however and on their next possession drove down to the two. Walter Jones' two yard run and Kelly Vincent's kick made it 7-0 for the Tarps early in the second quarter.



The second quarter saw a total of 40 points scored between the two teams. South Cameron took a brief 15-7 lead on Mudd's pass to Dexter Fountain and Jones two yard PAT. The Panthers came right back and scored on the kickoff return. The PAT failed and the Tarps still led 14-13. The kickoff return triggered two more quick scores by the Panthers and the halfended with the Panthers leading 25-15, seemingly a comfortable lead for its high powered offense.

The Panthers padded the total again early in the third quarter on a 67-yard pass to Marcus Bowie. South Cameron's Charles Duhon matched that with a 78-yard kickoff return, bringing the third quarter totals to Merryville 31, South Cameron 21.

Fourth quarter action saw the score knot at 37. The Tarps rallied behind Mudd for 26 and 4 yard runs, while Merryville's Lance Beard's passing arm was good for 6 points to Stan Smith. The PAT failed while Mudd's two yard PAT knotted the score.

South Cameron had another chance for the go-ahead in the fading seconds of the game when Mudd's pass to Dexter Fountain slipped out of his hands. Fountain had made a spectacular one hand catch earlier in the second quarter; why not this easy one. Too easy for a live wire say all receivers from the high school level to the pro-ranks.

In overtime play, an exhausted Tarpon team tried four times from the ten but only netted three yards. The Panthers scored on their first play on another crosstrap to end the contest at 43-37.

Dept. layoffs

Falling revenues and state budgets will force the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries to lay off some of its 800 workers, says Secretary Virginia VanSickle.

The department's major source of income, oil and gas, has dropped $12 million over the last five years, she said. Royalties on mineral production at two Gulf Coast wildlife refuges — Rockefeller and Marsh Island — make up about one-third of the department's income.

She said the department will decide during the next week how many employees it must fire.

Police jury was busy in 1921

By Keith Hambrick

(Lake Charles American Press, Nov. 18, 1921)
CAMERON POLICE JURY SESSION

Jennings Jones appeared before the police jury at its last meeting to request an extension of one year on his contract as operator of the Grand Chenier free ferry. His present contract expires within the next 60 days. The jury, after a careful consideration, decided it advisable to allow the extension in preference to letting it at sealed bids.

Mr. Midkiff, federal tick inspector for Cameron, Calcasieu and Jefferson Davis, was present and commented on the splendid headway made this season with reference to the eradication of ticks in this section. More than half of the general funds of this parish are spent on this tick eradication work, which makes it very difficult for the parish to carry on other business properly.

Cameron took the stand at the beginning that, if the law required infested cattle to be dipped and dipped according to experts along that line, the only and best thing to do was to get busy and do it and do it properly. This has been done and, had our adjoining parishes done likewise, we would have completed the task a year ago.

The boundary lines of Cameron are, for the most, imaginary, and there is no known method of preventing infested cattle from other parishes invading the clean territory and re-infesting it. This one phase of the law is very unjust and should have been remedied. All probabilities are that, if we are compelled to dip for the above reason another year, strong opposition will be made.

L. L. Figueron, member on the Vermilion Parish Police Jury, was present and asked for Cameron's co-operation in completing a two-mile stretch of road connecting a certain 45-mile highway now being constructed in his ward out of the proceeds of a $350,000 bond issue recently voted in same ward. This particular highway will pass over two miles of Cameron road, which was constructed by Cameron, but no surface land, in order to complete a 22-mile surfaced road out of the 45-mile road, Vermilion asks Cameron's assistance in surfacing the two miles. His request was not granted at the present for the lack of funds.

Mr. Figueron is a firm believer in good roads and was instrumental in getting this issue carried in his ward. He said if farm and financial conditions improved, that three wards in Vermilion were going to vote a million dollar road issue in the near future. It was also stated that the present cost of his surfaced roads were costing completed, $8,000 per mile.

The police jury will convene in special session on Nov. 27, at the time the regular term of criminal court is held, in order that they might attend to business which will likely come up and because the district attorney will be down and ask to go over some important matters with them.

(Lake Charles American Press, Nov. 25, 1921)
CAMERON

Nov. 16--The long continued drouth was broken Saturday night by heavy rainfall; the marshes are filled with water, which will greatly improve stock grazing and add millions of ducks and geese to the shooting grounds.

The state fire marshal has a representative here investigating the recent burning of two school houses in this parish. The superintedent, Thomas W. McCall, of the public schools, met with the marshal yesterday. The marshal will hold a hearing this morning at 9 o'clock, at which will be heard several parties.

Two school houses were burned last month, within a period of two days. A thorough investigation led the authorities to believe that the crime was done by some party holding a prejudice against someone in close connection with the interest of the schools. Work is now being done on the schools and as soon as completed, school will reopen.

The teachers of Cameron Parish will meet in Cameron courthouse next Friday, where an institute will be held. This is the first meeting of its kind to be held for several years.

Hunting is on in full force, and game is plentiful. Hunting parties arrive and depart every day, all getting their bag limit. The white-fronted goose, one of the finest of geese, for an unknown reason, has shown up more abundantly this season than ever before. Grand Chenier is a splendid place to make a hunt.

Anyone interested in making a trip down for a good duck hunt might write to Mr. Roy of Lake Arthur, who owns a speed launch that will make the trip down the river in less than one and one-half hours. Accommodations can be had on Grand Chenier and professional guides secured at reasonable rates, and at any time. Better still, write Jennings Jones, game warden, who would be pleased to furnish any information.

The market for fur has opened and a very good price is being paid. Trappers are not doing much at this time due to the warm weather. Fur-bearing animals are plentiful and as soon as the weather conditions change trappers will be kept busy.

G.C. 4-H club holds ceremony

The Grand Chenier 4-H Club members held a 4-H ceremony at their November meeting, conducted by the following 7th grade 4-Hers: Patience Cogar, Kimberly Sturlese, Marcus Theriot, Sandy Booth and Jonathan Marceaux.

Heather Sturlese gave a report on the State Fair in Shreveport. Kimberly Sturlese was third in showmanship and first in the regular show. Heather Sturlese was first in showmanship and first in the regular show. Nicole Sturlese was fifth in showmanship and fifth in the regular show.

Kimberly Sturlese, Marcus Theriot, Ashley Coreil, Michelle Trosclair, Nicole Sturlese, Brandon Hess and Patience Cogar attended an officers workshop.

Brandi Mhire reported that canned goods were being collected for Thanksgiving baskets. Each club member is asked to bring three canned items.

The agents, Mrs. Cronan and Mr. Wicke, talked about the foods and nutrition workshop, The Cajun Christmas Classics and Contest Day.

Nicole Sturlese, reporter.

Cameron Elem. 4-Hers see slide show

A slide presentation on plant science was given by Gary Wicke, 4-H leader, at the November club meeting of the Cameron Elementary Junior 4-H club sixth and seventh grades. Mr. Wicke asked members to identify the field crops shown during the presentation.

The group also participated in a word scramble dealing with events and people of the month of November. Winners were: 1st, tie, Nikki Didelot and Chris Hebert; 2nd, Ryan Nash; 3rd, Brandi Styron. McDonald's gift certificates were given as prizes.

Christi Wolfe gave a report on the club's fund-raising activity and Nikki Didelot reported on the Officers Training Meeting.

Couple bids friends goodbye

To the people of Johnson Bayou and Holly Beach area:

After living in this area for 12 years, this week we will be leaving Johnson Bayou to go where the job will be. It saddens us, but, you people have taught us to look forward to meeting the people in the next place.

We did not get a chance to talk to everyone we wanted to be ... we left, and we apologize for that. We will be back from time to time as we are just moving to Lake Charles. If you are ever in the Lake Charles area give us a call or come on over, we would be happy to see you. The telephone is listed under Bruce Fox and the number is 474-1136. We live on Drum Drive, and our mailing address is Rt. 8, Box 1148, Lake Charles, La. 70605.

It has been a pleasure living here.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
A Public Hearing will be held at the City Council Chambers, 1st floor, City Hall, 326 Pujo Street, Lake Charles, Louisiana; on Monday, November 21, 1988, at 4:30 p.m.
This Public Hearing will be held in accordance with Act 334 of the 1974 Regular session of the Louisiana Legislature and conducted by the Joint Legislative Committee on Transportation, Highways and Public Works.
The purpose of this Public Hearing is to review highway construction priorities for the fiscal years 1989-1990 for the Parishes of Allen, Beauregard, Calcasieu, Cameron, and Jefferson Davis which comprise Highway District 07. This review is based upon the project priorities established by the highway needs and analysis. The Highway Needs and Priority Study was to determine the estimated cost of improving state maintained roads in Louisiana which do not meet a specified minimum tolerable condition for a particular functional class. Act 334 provides for a firm priority listing of the first ensuing year (1989) and tentative priorities for each subsequent year through 1994. This provides advice on the status of highway project contemplated or under preparation.
Copies of the "Louisiana Proposed Construction Program, Fiscal Year 1989-1990", and Highway Needs Summary, District 07 are available for review by interested persons at the Department of Transportation and Development District 07 Administrator's office on Highway 90 East; Lake Charles, Louisiana and also at the Louisiana Department of Transportation and Development Headquarters Building; 1202 Capitol Access Road; Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Room 236.
All interested persons are invited to be present at the above time and place for the purpose of becoming fully acquainted with the proposed program and will be afforded an opportunity to express their views.
Oral testimony will be received. However, in order that all persons desiring to make a statement have an equal opportunity to do so, it is requested that every effort be made to complete individual testimony in as short a period of time as possible. Oral testimony may be supplemented by presenting important facts and documentation in writing. We urge those interested to participate by oral statement and/or submitted written testimony. Your cooperation and assistance will be appreciated.

CAMERON OUTDOORS

Hunting to start

By Loston McEvers

REMEMBER -- SUNRISE.
Hunters in our area have been brushing up blinds, building new ones, getting boats and decoys ready. Saturday morning at sunrise is D-Day, the start of our first 14 day split duck and goose season.
Remember, no shooting until sunrise, which should be 6:28 a.m. Saturday. Steel shots only, three duck limit, no more than two mallards (no more than 1 of which may be a female), 1 black duck, 2 wood ducks, 1 pintail and 1 redhead. Coots 15 daily bag limit. Have a correct dated license and a federal duck stamp signed in ink across the stamp.
We do have many ducks down, which should make some good hunting. It may be a quite hunt with only three ducks for a limit, but there seems to be plenty pintails and other ducks down.
I had a talk with a friend that made a hunt up north for pheasants and quail on the last day of Canadian (ring neck) geese. The way he talks the reason we probably have so many ducks down in Southwest Louisiana is because it's so dry up north. The ducks flew until they found the water and food they needed. When there's plenty of water up north and good corn, oats and wheat crops, the ducks usually stay there longer or until a rough winter spell moves in and then they are coming down.
The food supply was another factor, as most farmers up north lost 70 percent of their crop.
Hope everyone has a fine weekend of duck hunting.

by MARIE WISE

A 1777 census of the Iberville District in the then Spanish Province of Louisiana shows that most of the residents were Acadians who had re-settled at St. Gabriel some ten years earlier, just up-river from others of their countrymen in the Cabanocey District.

Coming also from Maryland in 1769 had been several German families, plus other Germans and some Anglo Saxons in 1774 and two Breaux families who relocated from Natchez.

In large part these families lived along the Mississippi River, the Iberville District in 1777 including the area on the east bank from Bayou Manchac to the present-day Ascension Parish line and east to the Amite River. On the west bank it ranged from Bayou Plaquemine down-river to the Ascension line and west to the Atchafalaya.

ST. GABRIEL SETTLERS

St. Gabriel Settlers: The 1777 Census of Iberville District in the Province of Louisiana by Winston De Ville has a historical and geographical background Introduction by James J. Pastorek and an index by Ramona A. Smith.

It lists more than 120 households at St. Gabriel which was then a Spanish outpost, giving name and age of the household head, usually a wife and her age, sex and age of children and others in the household, statistics on slaves, livestock and land.

Softcover, 5¼ x 8¼ in., 23 pages, $5.00 incl. postage, surname indexed, available from: Ramona Smith, P.O. Box 894, Ville Platte, LA 70586.

PRATER-PRATHER FAMILY

Praters in Wiltshire, 1480-1670, Volume 1 by John W. Prather, Jr., is an extraordinary genealogy that researches this family name only in its mother country of England within the 15th-17th century period.

These Praters in Wiltshire, England, writes the author, are probably ancestors of the Praters-Prathers in America today.

Beginning with John Prater born c1492 and buried at Inglesham, Wiltshire in 1547, lines are traced into early 1700 dates and the 8th generation, the progeny of Major Richard Prater, Esq., born c1646 at Nunney in Somerset. Praters were recorded in Oxfordshire before 1400.

There is a chapter on Nunney Castle in the County of Somerset, a sketch of the Prater coat of arms, many abstracts of wills, deeds and other records; baptisms, marriages and burials from parish registers and record offices and 26 pages of lineage charts for allied families including Kingston, Stratton, Stephens, Wells, Yate and others.

Hardcover, 6x9 in., 215 pages, full name indexed, $30.00 incl. mailing, available from the author: John W. Prather, Jr., Box 196, 600 Carolina Village Road, Hendersonville, NC 28739.

HAYMAN FAMILY

A HAYMAN family of the south has been traced to its American emigrant, Henry Hayman, born c1632 in South Devon, England; came to Virgina c1650; married before 1663; moved his family to Mass. where he was a tobacco planter; had several other children.

A son, William, married Mary Toadvine; had eight children. Two of William's brothers moved on to N. Car.

Henry, a son of William, b. c1730, married and had at least three sons, all of whom were Revolutionary War soldiers from Georgia to where the family had moved in 1765.

One of these sons, another Henry, married Mary Goodall c1783 and they had a large family in Ga.

James (1795-1873), one of their sons, married Delila Martin and they had twelve children, the younger six of whom were born in Florida where James had moved his family in 1837.

This was eight years before Florida statehood, qualifying him and other family members as Florida Pioneers. Both James and his first son served in the Seminole Indian Wars.

William Cicero b. 1841, 8th child and 4th son of this family, served four years with the Confederate Army, married Sarah Carlton, had 13 children; married Annie Eliza Armstrong, had 2 more; was a farmer, county sheriff, was active in community affairs, began the Hayman Reunion tradition for Thanksgiving Day.

James Alderman b. 1866, first of the next generation, married Artie Hancock and they had twin children. Their first born, Leffie Theodore, married Annie Nabors and they had ten daughters, one being Evelyn Roacell who married Thomas Gilbert Gordon.

The combined interest of these two in family history has produced an excellent Hayman genealogy.

The James Alderman Hayman Family and Their Ancestral Florida Pioneers by Evelyn Hayman Gordon and Gilbert Gordon, Sr., M.D. is the result of combined document and record research plus the collection of family information from many sources.

Well organized and presented, reproduced on heavyweight paper, this genealogy is unusual in the number of "mini biographies" it presents rich in individual information on descendants of James Alderman Hayman and their spouses. Family members are now spread across the southern and other states.

Written in narrative style it makes interesting reading, has a number of photographs, a list of birthdates for family members, and a special maiden name-married name index.

Hardcover with book jacket (c1925 Hayman Family Reunion double page spread), 102 pages, 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 in., $26.00 incl. mailing, available from: Thomas Gilbert Gordon, Sr., M.D., 14105 Cypress Run, Tampa, FL 33624.

Dumping of waste to be restricted

There is good news for the local people who are concerned with keeping the local beaches clean, and those who participate each year in the Beechsweep and Beach Cleaning Program.

Beginning Dec. 31, MPPRCA (Marine Plastic Pollution Research and Control Act) will prohibit the dumping of plastics at sea and will severely restrict the legality of dumping other types of ship-generated garbage both at sea and in the navigable waters of the United States.

The new provision applies to all watercraft, including small recreational vessels.

The purpose of the law is to prevent pollution by the dumping of garbage, which includes domestic and operational waste generated by the normal operation of all types of ships.

One of the most important provisions of the law is the ban of dumping into the sea of all plastics, such as synthetic ropes, synthetic fishing nets, and plastic garbage bags.

Other forms of garbage may be dumped only under strictly controlled conditions.

Food wastes and all other garbage, including paper products, rags, glass, metal, bottles, and crockery, cannot be dumped within 12 miles of land, unless it has first been passed through a grinder.

Even then, the minimum distance from land when dumping is set at three miles.

In addition to restricting or prohibiting the dumping of waste at sea, the new law requires that ports and terminals provide waste reception facilities.

Marinas, fish houses, and other vessel terminals provided will be covered by the new law.

The Coast Guard will inspect the adequacy of these facilities and has the authority to close a noncomplying port or terminal.

Ports may provide the new facilities themselves, or they may contract with private companies.

In the recent Beachsweep 88 the cleanup of the Cameron Parish beaches revealed that plastics were the main thing that had washed up on the beaches, which are the longest on the Gulf Coast.

In an effort to do their part in keeping the local waterfront clean, the Cameron Parish Coastal Concern Organization has three large trash bins installed at the local Exxon fuel docks, Bolo's fish house, and at the Steed Fish House and Ice Company.

Instructions are written in bold letters on the side of just how the trash must be packaged.

Danny Shay, local president of the Coastal Concern Organization points out that the trash must be in plastic bags and not put into the bins as loose garbage.

Older workers to be honored by Council

Each year the Cameron Council on Aging takes great pride in honoring all persons over the age of 60 who are still active members of the work force, according to Dinah B. Vaughn, director.

Older Work Week will be celebrated March 12-18. The Council on Aging is now accepting applications from businesses who would like to nominate their sixty plus older employee.

Application forms are available at the Cameron Senior Center. Deadline for applications is Jan. 16.

$22 million shellfish study told by Hayes

A five-year $22 million shellfish study should improve the seafood industry in Louisiana and the rest of the country by increasing confidence in the safety of the food products, U.S. Rep. Jimmy Hayes, D-Lafayette said last week.

Hayes, in Lake Charles to announce funding for the preliminary study, set to begin in February, said the economic potential for the seafood is unknown but could be dramatic.

The Louisiana shellfish industry produces a dockside revenue of $30 million each year and a retail value of $150 million in sales each year, Hayes said.

Of the 15 million acres of national estuarine waters classified for shellfishing by the National Shellfish Sanitation Program, the most productive areas are often classified "conditionally approved." Many state regulatory agencies and industry members estimate that 50 percent of the oyster reefs are closed because of high fecal coliform counts, indicators that are used to measure the sewage pollution in growing areas, project coordinator Marilyn Kilgen said.

The beds that are being harvested are closed about half of the time following heavy rains that increase rainwater runoff and high river stages, and other conditions that temporarily increase the fecal coliform count but may not pose a health threat, Kilgen said.

The $500,000 study is only the first step in redefining the methods of determining whether the shellfish are safe, Hayes said.

Kilgen said the preliminary study will seek to isolate the disease-causing pollutants found in human sewage and to separate human waste from animal waste.

Sewage-associated human illnesses from shellfish consumption are mainly viruses which are very species specific, Kilgen said, explaining that hepatitis and non-specific viral gastroenteritis virus can be transmitted through contaminated shellfish.

She said the viral gastroenteritis virus of the "24-hour bug" that most people contract several times each year creates no lasting health problems but will probably prevent that person from eating shellfish again.

Joe Gaspard and Tommy Precht of the Cameron Sheriff's Office were among the graduates of the Calcasieu Parish Regional Law Enforcement Training Academy held Thursday, Nov. 17, at 1 p.m. They received instruction in all phases of basic law enforcement.

Calcasieu Academy is a state accredited regional training facility serving law enforcement agencies in the parishes of Allen, Beauregard, Calcasieu, Cameron and Jefferson Davis. TARPONS PLENTIFUL

If you're hunting for tarpons out in the Gulf, they're hard to find and if you do find one it's rough and tough to handle.

Well, when you talk about the South Cameron Trapons football team, they're rough and tough and many, many Tarpons fans are out there.

Congratulations are in roder to the Tarpon team, the coaches, teaches, students and to the fans. Tarpons, you did a fine job again this year, and you should be proud, as your fans are.

REDFISH

The redfish have been hitting in the Grand Chenier area. Real nice reds, 10 to 14 lbs. have been taken last week. These are the best redfish I've seen this year.

WASHINGTON NEWS

I'm sure many of you got a newsletter from United States Senator John Breaux. Something of interest to me was the wetland bills and the Wallop-Breaux Fund.

Dealing more directly with South Louisiana was legislation on the serious problem of coastal westland erosion. As part of Water Resources legislation, Congress authorized $59 million for a freshwater diversion project near Bonnet Carre Spillway to divert freshwater from the Mississippi River into lakes Maurepas, Pontchartrain and Lake Bozene and the Mississippi Sounds.

Our wetlands are being lost at an alarming rate, 60 square miles a year. The U. S. Corps of Engineers estimates that this project will revitalize plant growth that would eventually save 10,800 acres of marsh and swamp. Oyster harvests will increase by 5.7 million pounds in Louisiana and by 1.9 million pounds in Mississippi. The productivity of white shrimp, blue crabs, croaker and menhanden will also improve.

The Bartaria-Terrebonne Bay is also focused as a problem and could be considered a priority by the federal government.

I would hope that Cameron Parish could ge some of this kind of consideration, especially along our coast, as we see our coast line washing away at a rather fast pace. Holly Beach and Constance Beach need help to try and keep this from being all in the Gulf of Mexico.

You may want to talk to Senator John Breaux about this. His Washington office phone number if (202) 224-4623.

Congress also reauthorized $60 million for boating safety programs and nearly $195 million for sports fishing restoration programs. Known as the Wallop-Breaux Fund, this program will provide more than $3 million for sports fishing programs in Louisiana in 1989.

THINGS YOU MIGHT WANT TO KNOW

At the turn of the century, President Theodore Roosevelt made a well publicized trip to Louisiana, the Tensas River area of Northeast Louisiana. Roosevelt made this trip when the black bears wer plentiful in Louisiana.

This event was well published and cartoonists at that time named the stuffed toy bears "Teddy Bears" and they are still named that.

Teddy Roosevelt is remembered not only as the father of the National Wildlife Refuge System, but for having lent his name to the Teddy Bear.

Nov. 16, marked the anniversary of a cartoon of President Roosevelt that resulted in Louisiana's black bear being labeled the Teddy Bear.

POACHING MEANT MONEY

I read an article last week on how a Delta sharecropper's son sold over 400 illegal deer to help pay his way through college and out of a life as a dirt farmer.

This took place back in the 1960's, and he sold deer at $25 to $50, hunting illegally at night and made $10,000, enough to get a college education and get away from having to farm as a sharcropper for a living.

Just think how many deer are lost to poachers each year along with other wildlife.

WILDLIFE PEOPLE LAYOFFS

Layoffs have started in the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Department.

Here locally ther have been three to be laid off at Rockefeller Refuge. This I can't understand. If a third of all the wildlife monies come from Rockefeller and Marsh Island, why cut their personnel, unless you cut off people or refuges that are using Rockefeller Refuge's monies to stay afloat.

I wish the Secretary could show where Rockefeller money is going and then show if it was kept, would Rockefeller personnel have to be laid off.

I think people in Cameron Parish should call up the State Representative Randy Roach and State Senator Jack Doland and let them know how we feel.

You don't cut the icing off the cake that's selling just to put it on another cake to keep it on the shelf. Maybe I'm wrong, but Rockefeller Refuge and Marsh Island Refuges should be the last ones cut. The land and resources which bring revenue were meant to be used on those two refuges and I say it should stay on these two refuges.

If there's only $30 million for a $39 million budget, and a third comes from Rockefeller and Marsh Island, then how many other refuges are working off these two refuges money.

I think things need to be explained to the people Maybe it's not tax payers money, but it does reflect our parish and state having a resting and feeding place for our wintering ducks. What about the alligator program that has helped the entire state, what about the fish research.

From what I gather, 119 people are going to be terminated for Wildlife and Fisheries.

I'm sure if someone checked the number of people working at Rockefeller 25 years ago and now it hasn't increased. As best as I remember, there have been five biologists for 25 years or so and around 25 other personnel.

Another thing, all the programs that have brought millions of dollars to our state in the last 20 years, research on Rockefeller Refuge, are they going to go down the drain too. Are the people who are making these decisions really fur and wildlife people. Do they know which end the boards go on a troll, have they ever visited Rockefeller Refuge and seen the good it's doing. If not, then why are they making decisions.

I'm not trying to put the finger on any one person, but I think more information needs to be brought out to the public.

Have a good Thanksgiving!

Oyster season open until Mar. 29, 1989

The 1988-89 oyster season in Calcasieu Lake is now open and will run through March 29, 1989.

The Health Department approved areas include all of West Cove and an area marked off with PVC pipe in East Cove.

These two areas opened Nov. 1, however, all other areas will be closed.

The open season will be based on the Calcasieu River stage at Kinder, in Allen parish.

The oyster season will remain open when the river stage is below 12 feet.

When the river stage exceeds 12 feet in Kinder, the oyster season will close immediately and remain closed until the river stage drops below 12 feet and remains that way for at least 48 hours.

Oyster harvesting will then resume after the 48 hour wait.

Commercial fishermen will be responsible for checking the Calcasieu River stage at Kinder listed each day in the Lake Charles American Press newspaper weather section.

Additionally, all oyster buyers will be responsible for informing their fishermen when the closure is expected.

The Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service office in Cameron will also monitor the river stage and will inform buyers and docks in the event of a river rise.

Past data indicates the 12 feet Kinder river stage readings will occur about 70 percent of the time.

During a dry winter, few closures will be experienced. During wet winters, many periods of closure will be expected.

Oysters taken for commercial and recreational use can only be taken from the Health Department approved areas.

Commercial fishermen are limited to ten sacks per boat per day.

Recreational fishermen are limited to two sacks per boat per day. All undersized oysters and dead shells must be returned to the reef. Oysters can be legally taken only with hand tongs or by hand. Dredges are strictly prohibited.

MUSING

Let us give thanks

By Bernice Denny

This Thursday is the official 1988 Day of Thanksgiving. May we pause and seriously consider our spiritual blessings as well as our temperol ones. The first are of far greater importance than the latter. When our heart is right with God and with our fellowman, we can offer thanks to the One and ask for blessings upon the other even if all is not well in our physical world.

Several years ago there appeared in a magazine an article in which the writer imagined himself giving a Thanksgiving message to a gathering of more than a hundred persons. His impressive treatment of the theme went something like this:

"I thanked God for abundance, and forty persons lowered their eyes for they were hungry and in need. I thanked God for health, and two score persons were excluded from sharing my praise for their health had failed. I thanked God for home and family and a dozen rose to leave knowing that their homes were faltering. I thanked God for sparing my loved one in an accident, and tears fell from the cheeks of some who had lost loved ones."

The list went on. The author was seeking to convey the truth that the expression of gratitude to God should never be hinged upon good fortune or ill fate.

Every individual can bow in thanksgiving to the very fact that God loves him and will be faithful to him. God's love and faithfulness are not based upon our deserving them. We may have wrought good or evil. We may have wronged others or been wronged by them. We may have succeeded in a special way or may have failed utterly. Still, God loves us and provides for us in ways so mysterious that the human mind can fathom neither the why nor the how.

The second fact that we need to give thanks for is that other people are concerned about us — our family, our friends, even those whom we know casually. We may not always agree with them. They may object to some of our actions. But we are all in this world together. Have you ever thought how devastating it would be to become a Robinson Crusoe without even a Friday?

Let us thank God for his omnipotent love. Then let us strive to become more aware and more sensitive to people about us. Not for Thanksgiving Day alone, not for a week but for all the days that lie ahead, let us be thankful to God and thankful for one another.

Children's Home thanks area

With the approach of the Thanksgiving season, John R. Williams, executive director of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe, expressed appreciation to churches in Calcasieu, Cameron and Beauregard parishes for their response to the 1988 fall food roundup.

In a letter to the churches, Williams wrote, "Without your wonderful and generous help we simply would not be able to meet the needs of all the youngsters entrusted to the Home's care."

A truck from the Baptist Home visited this area recently to pick up canned goods, staple items and other useful things donated by the churches.

Drastic reduction is proposed for reef fish

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council has proposed a drastic reduction in overall catch of reef fish.

The Council is proposing across-the-board catch reductions for both commercial and recreational user groups which include:

-A minimum size limit of 20 inches for red, yellowfin, Nassau, black and gag groupers and 36 inches for Jewfish.

-A daily recreational bag limit of 5 grouper and 10 snappers with no more than 3 red snappers. These bag limits would apply to fish taken by trawl.

-Fish traps and entangling nets for reef fish would be prohibited in federal waters and bottom longlines for reef fish would be prohibited within 50 fathoms.

-Commercial catch will be regulated by annual quotas. To fish under the commercial quota, a vessel will be required to have a reef fish permit.

-To qualify for a commercial permit, an individual must have had at least 50% of his income derived from commercial fishing.

Public hearings will be set in the near future concerning these proposed regulations.

Oil at Johnson Bayou

By KEITH HAMBRICK

(Lake Charles American Press, Nov. 25, 1921)
JOHNSON BAYOU OIL SAND

Orange, Tex., Nov. 22--The Gulf Refining Company, operating on Johnson's Bayou, La., announced that surface casing had been set at 500 feet on the W. H. Stark tract and three oil sands were encountered in 800 feet. The tenth drilling rig was added to the Gulf Production Company's equipment in the Orange field when two more rigs arrived and were hauled out to the field.

Grand Chenier, Nov. 20--John Wasey of Lake Charles, accompanied by a party of friends, arrived here last night via Lake Arthur, in the Red Wing. The trip was made to Lake Arthur by car and from Lake Arthur to the Chenier in a launch, which makes the trip in less than an hour and a half. The party enjoyed a fine duck hunt this morning and returned to Lake Charles this afternoon.

D. Y. Doland, a prominent young man of this section, and Miss Esther Miller, daughter of Eugene Miller, will leave here tomorrow afternoon for Lake Charles, where they are to be married. Only a few members of the family will be present. The bridal couple have the kindest wishes of their friends.

Adam Nunez has recently sold his launch, Ocean Waves, to Mr. Mellhenny of Avery's Island, the father of the wonderful state game preserve. Delivery was made last week. Captain Nunez will continue in the packet line business with the launch Tuelbor.

Jennings Jones, our hustling little game warden, is kept busy getting around looking after the trappers and hunters. No trouble has yet arisen from excessive bag limits and other phases of the game law. Most of the sport hunters seem to make a point to stay within the bounds of the law.

The police jury delayed action in electing a registrar of voters at its last meeting, awaiting the outcome of the injunction suit being instituted by Claude House, clerk of court for Calcasieu Parish. Up to this date but two applicants have been received, that of A. P. Welch and Judge Adolph Bruckert.

(Abbeville Meridional, Nov. 26, 1910)
CAPITALISTS VISIT CAMERON AREA

Port Arthur, Tex., Nov. 9--Among the passengers on the mail boat Mercedes today were a party of Wisconsin gentlemen who have bought heavily of marsh land in Vermilion Parish, there being eight thousand acres in the tract, and who have also made a heavy investment in Cameron Parish, across the lake from Port Arthur. The land will be drained and farmed and protected by levess where such are needed. Those in the party were J. F. Ritsch, A. J. Berndstadt, Will Parker and Mell Loomis. They hail from Eau Clare in the state named. They came to this area from Vermilion Parish via Lake Charles and some of them will return later to improve their investments.

LAKESIDE LACONICS

One of Joe Benoit's little girls had the misfortune to be bitten by a very poisonous snake and is very sick from the effects of it.

Dormiel Garrie threshed out a crop of 214 sacks of good rice from a little over 20 acres raised as providence rice.

Fine weather for rice but no rain for our gardens.

The school is still in session with Miss Inez Smith in charge.

Eloi Broussard's home has been made happy by a new arrival in the family circle.

Ducks are plentiful but they fly so high that they give our local gunners small chance for duck roast.

Arthur Miller expects to start threshing Tuesday.

CAMERON ORANGE CROP

Early shipments of Louisiana sweet oranges, one of the most luscious of the Pelican State's fruits, are being made to northern, southern, eastern, and western points by the water route to Lake Charles, Port Arthur and Galveston.

The 1910 crop is the banner crop of recent years and will probably total as much as 100,000 boxes of the luscious fruit, which at the prevailing market prices from $3 to $4 per box, will net a revenue of something like $100,000 to the orange growers of Cameron Parish.

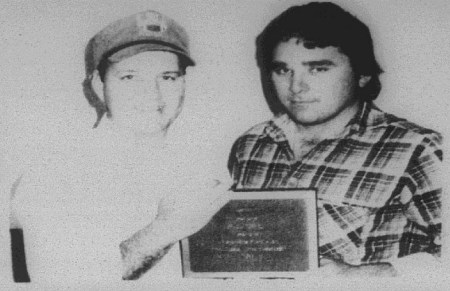
Tips on fire wood use

Although green firewood will burn, seasoned and dry wood has more heat value and will not deposit as much creosote in chimneys and stovepipes, says Dr. Robert Mills, forestry specialist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

He says that moisture in wood reduces its recoverable heat. This is because some heat is lost in the process of changing water to steam, a drying process that occurs much faster in cut, stacked firewood in Louisiana's warmer months. Normally, it takes three to six months for covered firewood cut in the spring, summer or early fall to dry adequately for efficient burning. Late fall and winter are the least desirable times to cut firewood, because it dries more slowly.



The time it takes to season wood varies by species of wood and atmospherec conditions, says Mills, who notes that green wood has a fuel value of 63 percent. When aged three months and protected from moisutre, its fuel value jumps to 85 percent. By six months, it increases to 90 percent of its potential fuel value when properly stored and covered.

Mills recommends splitting the wood in short lengths, because split wood dries faster and has fewer insects than wood enclosed in its bark. Seasoning can be accelerated by stacking the wood off the ground in a sunny location and covering it with clear plastic, leaving the stack ends open to air circulation. On sunny days, temperatures under the plastic covering will rise much higher than normal outside temperatures, warming the wood and speeding evaporation of the moisture.

Because some water vapor will condense on the plastic, adequate ventilation is necessary. The plastic should be kept off the ends of the firewood to allow air flow and keep condensation from wetting the wood.

If trees are cut for firewood in the fall, do not remove the tops and limbs for at least a week. The leaves will draw moisture from the wood and dry it more quickly than if removed immediatley.

Before using the fireplace in the fall, Mills recommends having it inspected for buildup of creosote and cleaned if necessary.

PAUL COREIL, local area agent of Fisheries and Wildlife for Cameron and Calcasieu parishes was honored by the Cameron Coastal Concern Organization at their monthly meeting recently. He is shown above being presented with the annual "Friend of the Fishermen" award by Danny Shay, President of the coastal Concern. Coreil was commended for the work he has done for the organization and for all fishermen. He was one of the organizers of the Coastal Concern Organization many years ago.

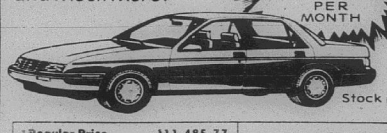
Hospital has new elderly care plan

South Cameron Memorial Hospital, in continuing with its "We Care" philosophy, introduces a new concept for the care of the elderly.

Many local families care for home bound relatives, and heretofore, have had no alternative for short term care. The hospital, under its Elder Care program, can admit the patient for a day, weekend, or a week depending on the requirements of the family involved. The patient in essence is cared for as a regular inpatient, but at a drastically reduced cost.



Any and all inquiries for more information can be directed to Mr. Soileau at the hospital.

Eagle Scouts invited Dec. 3

The Boy Scouts of America Troop 21 of Cameron is inviting all Eagle Scouts in the parish to attend the Court of Honor to be held Saturday, Dec. 3, at 1 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Cameron.

Presentation of Eagle Scout awards will be made to Dennis Guilbeaux, Patrick Hebert, Grady Richard, Bryan Richard, Brad Saltzman and Michael Styron.

Conservation plan being developed

The halfway mark has been passed in developing conservation plans requird under the Food Security Act of 1985, according to Wilson Scaling, Chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. Conservation plans have been completed for 75.3 million acres, 53 percent of the estimated 143 million acres of highly erodible cropland needing plans.

"Our goal is to have 65 percent of the plans completed by the end of 1988, and tie remaining 35 percent completed by the end of 1989." "We are right on target, but I urge farmers to act now if they have highly erodible land that needs a conservation plan," says Scaling.

To stay eligible for USDA programs, farmers and ranchers who farm erodible cropland must have a conservation plan approved by Dec. 31, 1989. They have until Dec. 31, 1994, to implement the plan. To date, conservation plans have been implemented on 21.7 million acres, 15 percent of the affected land.

To find out if you are affected and need a conservation plan, call the Soil Conservation Service or Soil and Water Conservation District office at 436-1483 in Lake Charles.

Discount offered on phones

Telephone companies in Louisiana will have the opportunity to offer a discount on charges to install phone service for eligible, low-income residents as part of the state's Linkup Louisiana program, beginning immediately. The Louisiana Public Service Commission developed this plan so that more Louisiana residents could afford to have phone service in their homes.

"People who qualify for Linkup Louisiana will receive a 50 percent discount up to $30 on charges to connect phone service," said Commissioner Tommy Powell.

To qualify for the discount under the plan, applicants must meet these requirements:

1. They must have lived at their current address without phone service for at least three months.

2. They receive one or more of these public assistance programs: Supplemental Security Income, Aid to Dependent Children or Food Stamps.

3. They are not claimed as dependents on anyone's federal tax form. (People 60 years of age and older are eligible even if they are dependents.)

4. They have not received this discount within the last two years.

Once phone service is installed, new customers are responsible for paying their phone bills each month.

MUSING. . . . . .By Bernice Denny

Remember old syrup mills?

November nostalgia calls to mind the old syrup mills on Grand Chenier and the fields of sugar cane for which they waited.

When chilly autumn days arrived, the stalks of blue-ribbon cane were sampled for sweetness and maturity. Always on hand to assist with the sampling were we children, who chewed almost as fast as the adults could peel and cut the cane for us. During the grinding season we were just as willing to sample the juice from the crushed stalks.

The Chenier people never went in for making sugar. They always made syrup from the cane juice. However, they always referred to the place as the "sugar mill".

Earlier syrup makers on the Chenier produced molasses, too. It was made by boiling some of the thickest syrup until it became a stiff mass of syrup and crystals called massecuite. The massecuite was then placed in wooden barrels that had tiny holes in the bottom. The molasses seeped through the holes into containers set below. The sugar crystals remained inside the barrels. During the Civil War and the Reconstruction Period the main source of sweetening in what is now Cameron parish was home-produced syrup and molasses.

Syrup mills on the Chenier were quite primitive. Rollers for crushing the cane stalks and extracting the juice were turned by horses or oxen. During my childhood my grandfather bought a diesel engine to supplant the animal power upon which he had depended, but he often complained that it "lacked the horse sense" to which he was accustomed.

The juice was boiled in a series of open vats, or kettles. The boiling liquid in each vat was skimmed with a huge ladle, stirred by means of a long wooden paddle, and tested before it was allowed to flow into the next one for another stage of cooking.

The vats were built over a combination brick and earthern furnace. Wood, because of its proximity and abundance, was used for fuel. Grandfather, I remember, had pine wood shipped down the Mermentau River to him, for it made the hottest furnace fire.

The finished syrup was drawn off into sterilized gallon cans and sealed. Some was retained for home consumption; the surplus sold on the Chenier or shipped up the river to be sold in Lake Arthur or thereabout.

The crushed cane stalks, known as bagasse, were piled not far from the mill.

The women were just as busy cooking, serving meals and coffee at the kitchen as were the men at the mill or the cane cutters in the field.

My remembrance of those days are almost as sweet as was the fresh cane juice or the syrup itself.

We want to thank you for making us welcome and allowing us to use your bathroom facilities, and inviting us to eat our picnic lunch inside your beautiful complex on Wednesday, Oct. 26.

I suppose because we are farm people, we are more interested in crops, land, and seeing how things are done in other states, that is why we prefer to travel country roads rather than interstates.

Tips for fireplace use

With winter approaching, homeowners with fireplaces are looking forward to enjoying the warm glow of the fire. Some hope to reduce their heating bill with this secondary heating source.

"Despite its warmth and pleasant aroma, wood burning in the home fireplace gives only 10 percent heating efficient," says forester Dr. Bob Mills of the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

The reason, he explains, is because a fireplace draws warm air from the home while pulling cold outside air in through cracks around doors and windows. That combination causes the heating system to work harder, increasing the utility bill.

When using a fireplace, Mills says that it is best to cut off the central heating system, close off the room with the fireplace and open a window near the fireplace about one-half inch. The open window will allow fresh air to feed and improve combustion in the fireplace. He points out tht some newer fireplaces have built-in outside air intakes and are more efficient because less inside heated air is removed.

Mills says another way to increase fireplace efficiency is through the use of a C-shaped grate made of steel tubes welded together side by side. The burning logs rest on these tubes. As cool air is drawn from the room and pulled through the tubes, hot air is returned to the room.

Another way to decrease the flow of warm air from the room into the chimney is to install glass fireplace doors. The doors not only decrease loss of warm air from the room, but also radiate the heat into the room. The glass doors should be closed at bedtime or when you leave the room for any length of time.

Another effective option is a fireplace insert, which actually is a woodburning stove that has been adapted to fit into an existing masonry fireplace. These units can improves heating efficiency by 50 percent. They come with glass doors or screens.

A homeowner without a fireplace might consider a wood heat-circulating system. With efficiency ratings from 50 to 60 percent, these improves heat-exchange chambers surrounding the firebox walls. Blowers move air through the heat exchange chambers and return it back into the rooms. Many fireplace inserts can also be used as free-standing units, providing more heat output into the home.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. I've heard that sometimes if a child runs fever, it is the body's normal way of saying something is wrong. But, how high should the fever get before consulting a physician?

A. Dr. Spring Cloud, head of the pediatrics department at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge says that more calls are received from parents asking about fever than anything else. She adds that an infant under four months with a rectal temperature of 101 degrees needs to be examined by a doctor.

With older children, the main thing isn't how high the temperature is but how ill the child looks. If symptoms such as earache, abdominal pain, listlessness, or the like occur, you should consult a physician. If not--if the child is eating normally and playing happily--you can wait. However, if the fever persists more than three days, Cloud advises parents to contact the Doctor.

Fever,she explains, is not a disease but a normal body defense mechanism, usually in response to a viral infection. Even the mildest viral infection in young children can give rise to high fevers, Cloud continues. So in most instances, fever is not a cause for undue alarm.

The usual treatment is an acetaminophen like Tylenol; one grain (60 mg) per year of age may be given every four hours. Tepid sponge baths encourage the blood vessels of the skin to dilate, thus allowing the body to lose excess heat rapidly. Do not use cold baths or alcohol rubs, Cloud warns, as they are uncomfortable for the child and may even raise the temperature.

Dr. Cloud strongly discourages the use of aspirin to treat fever in children. Aspirin has been linked with Reye's Syndrome in children and adolescents. Although its cause is unknown, it usually follows a viral infection, such as the flu or chicken pox, and can be fatal. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration publishes a brochure advising parents about the dangers of Reye's Syndrome and explains several studies that suggest a possible link between aspirin and Reye's.

Since fever also causes a loss of body fluids through evaporation, be sure to give the child plenty of clear liquids to drink, she concludes.

Sabine hunting is set

The Sabine National Wildlife Refuge will open on Nov. 19, to public waterfowl hunting, Refuge Manager Walther announced. The designated hunt area contains 24,000 acres and is the same area that has been hunted in past years. Hunting is permitted three days each week - Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. The western zone state season is applicable to the refuge and hunting will be permitted through Jan. 8, 1989.

Hunters may enter the West Cove parking area to line up their boats for launching three hours before legal shooting hours. All hunters will be permitted to enter the refuge two hours before legal shooting hours. Sunrise is legal shooting time and hunters should plan their hunt so they are finished hunting and out of the refuge by noon, Walther continued.

Steel shot shells are required for hunting and steel shot reloads may be used. Again this year, all gadwalls taken by refuge hunters will be examined and a small square of abdomen skin and fat will be taken from each bird for use in a McNeese State University research project. Also no Canvasback ducks may be taken by hunters this season, Walther noted.

This year there is no minimum age for youth hunters but they must have completed their hunter safety course and have proof with them in order to enter the refuge hunt area. Also each hunter under the age of 16 must be under the close supervision of an adult (21 years or older). For safety reasons, each adult may have only one juvenile under his supervision.

The use of motors to run in the marsh is prohibited, Walther continued. Motorized boats can be used only in canals and bayous; access into the open marsh and ponds is limited to walking or push-poling a boat. Hunters are required to check in before hunting at the check station and check out upon completion of their hunt.

There are other special regulations which apply to hunting and boat operations on the refuge, Walther advised. No entry is allowed in the hunt area until opening day of the waterfowl season. Additional information, copies of regulations, or maps of the hunt area may be obtained by writing to: Sabine National Wildlife Refuge, Hwy. 27 South, Hackberry, La. 70645 or calling telephone number 762-3816.

Guide Your Child to Good Study Habits

by Glenn Hogen, Ph D
Vice President of Education and Development
Sylvan Learning Centers

Good study habits. You had a head start on most of your classmates if you practiced them when you were in school. Plenty of people never learned the right way to study, regardless of how many years they spent in school. Even today good study practices are a mystery to many students—perhaps including your own child.

Without proper study habits your child's efforts at successful learning are hampered unnecessarily, yet such skills are not difficult to attain. Here are some important tips to help you guide your child toward appropriate study practices. They'll make learning easier, as well as provide a boost to self-confidence.

- Establish a time pattern for study with your child, then adopt it as a standard routine and stick to it. Within reason, study time should occur when your child is most productive.
- Decide with your child what is acceptable as a snack. A crisp apple or orange juice is just enough to provide a healthy energy lift. The distraction caused by sloppy food easily can become a delaying tactic to put off study responsibilities.
- Select a quiet, well-lighted location apart from family activity with good seating and a desk or flat work area for studying. Soft background music is optional at your discretion; loud rock music is out.
- Discuss and agree in advance to your child's request for joint study sessions with a classmate or friend. Occasionally a session might be appropriate, but your child should explain clearly the need and plan the session in advance.
- Encourage your child to spend any study time productively. After a quick review of the day's assignments, he should allot the necessary completion time. Short periods of concentration—15 to 25 minutes each, depending upon his attention span—are best, separated by brief breaks. A regular weekly written review of highlights from memory will integrate the details of the daily assignments into a bigger picture, and he'll have the basis for test reviews.

What part should you play? Your role should be more interactive than supervisory. You should verify, not grill.

You needn't try to help him with his studies--most parents don't have that much patience, anyway! Ask him directed questions; with such interaction he probably can solve his own problems.

Your verification of your child's progress through interaction and dialogue is even more important if his best study time occurs while you are at work.

And by all means, you should reward your child for fulfilling studying responsibilities properly. It's a good way for you to firmly reinforce your standards of quality. And while success is its own reward, your child has earned a special privilege and your praise, as well.

Dental CARE HINTS

Facts from the Princeton Dental Resource Center

Did You Know?

By Tom Truhe DDS

Theories of good dental hygiene and painless dentistry go back hundreds of years, as a look at past history shows.

- Mohammed is credited with introducing basic oral hygiene in the Middle East during the sixth century A.D. He believed in rinsing the mouth daily. He also suggested cleaning the teeth by using a twig from the Salvadora Persica tree, which contains sodium bicarbonate and tannic acid, both of which are beneficial to the gums.
- The first step toward painless dentistry occurred in 1844 when nitrous oxide came into use. The discovery of ether soon followed and was quickly employed worldwide.
- The close of the 19th century saw the development of dental technology with the advent of the faster and less painful electric drill and amalgam alloys for fillings. It wasn't until 1890, however, that a preventive dental health campaign was launched in the United States.
- Today, the use of fluoride dentifrices, systemic fluoride, and sealants is helping to make dental disease a malady of the past. Modern day dentists advise their patients to brush twice a day and floss to prevent dental disease.

Soc. Sec. toll free N

"The Social Security Administration has improved its telephone service for the residents of Cameron Parish," Bill Dixon, Social Security manager in Lake Charles, said.

Anyone who has had to pay a long-distance charge to call the Lake Charles Social Security office can now call without cost by using the toll-free number, 1-800-234-5772. In addition, the hours people can call have been extended.

With the new toll-free number, anyone can call 24 hours a day. Calls between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. each business day will be answered by a live operator, and, at other times, a caller can leave a message which will be answered the next business day, or at a convenient time chosen by the caller.

Dixon said that callers should find SSA's new toll-free telephone service especially convenient when they need to change a mailing address, obtain their earnings record, or make an appointment to apply for benefits. Almost any kind of transacton can be conducted over the telephone. All calls in Cameron Parish to conduct Social Security business may now be made using the new toll-free telephone number.

Msgr. M. J. Bernard officiated. Burial was in Sacred Heart Cemetery under direction of Hixson-Guardian Funeral Home of Creole.

Mr. LaBove died Wednesday, Nov. 23, at his residence.

A lifelong resident of Cameron Parish, he had worked for the Cameron Parish Sheriff's Office for 25 years before his retirement. He was a member of the Cameron Knights of Columbus.

Yule trees being sold

Recreation Dist. hours announced

The 1988-89 yearly hours for the Cameron Recreation District 6 have been announced.

From Dec. 1 to March 1, it will be closed every Tuesday and Thursday, March 1-Sept. 1, closed each Monday, and Sept. 1-Dec. 1, closed every Monday and Friday.

Hang fund rule told

Effective immediately, anyone who wants to make a claim on the Fishermen's Gear Compensation Fund (State Hang Fund) for lost or damaged trawls or vessels, will have to use his income tax return to prove that he makes at least 50% of his income from commercial fishing.

In the past, a statement from a seafood dealer was often used instead of tax forms.

Any Louisiana resident who makes at least 50% of his income from commercial fishing and suffers loss or damage to his gear or vessel in the Louisiana coastal zone is eligible for compensation.

Claims should be made within 30 days of the damage by calling 1-342-0122 in Baton Rouge.

La. economy is improving

The Louisiana economy looks like it is finally pulling out of its recession, according to the recently published "Louisiana Economic Outlook," which is now available from LSU.

The positive signs of the recovery are expected to continue through the end of this decade, according to forecasts in the "Louisiana Economic Outlook: 1989-90," compiled by LSU economics professors Loren C. Scott and James C. Richardson with A.M.M. Jamal of Southeastern Louisiana University in conjunction with the Louisiana Bankers Association.

Wildlife dept. to cut 116 jobs

A plan to eliminate 116 filled positions, comprising nearly 15 percent of its 782-member staff, was announced recently by the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Virginia VanSickle, LDWF secretary, said that the layoff would take effect Jan. 2, and that all employees in positions targeted for layoff had been notified. In addition, all affected employees had been informed of their rights under Civil Service.

She said that under state Civil Service procedures, some of the personnel in positions targeted for elimination would be entitled to exercise "bumping" rights, based mainly on job classification and seniority.

She said the long-expected cutback had been made necesary by declining revenues in light of increasing operating expenses. The department's income has slumped by some $12.8 million in five years--from $47.3 million in 1983-84 to $34.5 million in 1987-88.

The big drop came despite a $6 million rise in revenue resulting from an increase in fees for hunting, fishing and other licenses in 1986. Much of the department's self-generated income is tied to the oil and natural-gas industry, which has been hard-hit economically in recent years.

VanSickle stressed that the layoff was spread throughout the department. For example, she said, Enforcement Division personnel had been reduced by 15.6 percent, Game Division by 18.1 percent and Seafood Division by 20.7 percent.

A total of 21 people were laid off in the Enforcement Division's four north Louisiana regions while 17 people were laid off in the four south Louisiana regions, where 17 vacancies already existed.

Mini-refuges planned

In an effort to lend a helping hand to declining duck populations private landowners in southwest Louisiana have entered into "No Hunting" leases with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This action is a Joint Venture Project among the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, and the landowners under the auspices of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan.

These mini-refuges, created by the leases, are located in Calcasieu, Jefferson Davis and Vermilion Parishes. There are three tracts in Vermilion parish, the 640-acre Vincent refuge owned by Mrs. Verga Mouton north of Kaplan; the 400-acre Flying "J" Refuge owned by Charles E. Broussard near Forked Island; and the 6,120-acre Amoco Refuge located southeast of Gueydan owned by Amoco Oil Company.

Amoco also leased 1,280-acres west of Holmwood in Calcasieu Parish. These "mini-refuges" are posted by signs.

These tracts will provide sanctuary for ducks, geese, and other species of wildlife for an established period during the winter each year. Agents of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service will share in the management and enforcement responsibilities on these areas with agents of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Both agencies remind all hunters that no hunting or firearms will be allowed on the "mini-refuges". These refuges will be administered under the authority of the National Wildlife Refuge Administration Act.

Use of farm plates expanded by Leg.

The Louisiana Legislature recently expanded the authorized use of vehicles bearing farm use plates, according to Superintendent of State Police, Colonel Marlin Flores. A minor change in wording from "exclusive use" to "primary use" permits the expanded interpretation.

Act 42 of the 1988 Regular Legislative session provides that trucks owned by persons engaged in the business of farming may be registered as "farm use" when the vehicle is used primarily but not exclusively in farm transportation activities. Those activities are described as carrying farm produce raised on farms from farm to market, or returning from market, carrying goods and merchandise back to farms.

Under the revised law a vehicle registered according to the farming provisions may now haul commodities such as goods or supplies so long as the primary purpose of the vehicle is farm use. The transportation activities may be carried out individually or cooperatively, but hauling for hire on a farm plate is prohibited.

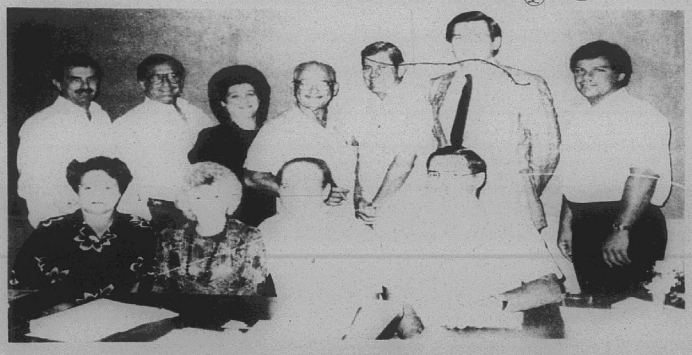
Previous law restricted vehicles bearing farm use tags from virtually all transportation activities except those directly related to farm products transportation. The law specifically required that such vehicles be "exclusively used in carrying farm produce."

There are approximately 6500 trucks registered with the Office of Motor Vehicles with farm license plates. State Police personnel and local law enforcement agencies have been advised of this change and will continue to monitor the usage of the expanded registration rules. The amended law became effective Sept. 1.

Ways told to obtain license

There are two ways a person may obtain a Commercial Fishing License, according to Paul Coreil, area Fisheries and Wildlife Agent for Cameron and Calcasieu parishes.

He can drive to the new Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries office on Quail Drive in Baton Rouge, and purchase his license directly over the counter. Bank money orders are preferred for the payment.



If someone other than the purchaser is sent to purchase the commercial license, a signed and completed license application must be presented to the LDWF license division with full payment.

A license application form can be filled out at home, signed by the applicant, and mailed with a bank money order covering the license costs to LDWF License Division, P.O. Box 15570, Baton Rouge, La. 70895.

Stereo speakers for entire family

If you're still looking for that big gift, the one the entire family will cherish for years to come, why not replace those outdated loudspeaker systems in the family stereo array with some new ones that are not only a fraction of the size of their mammoth ancestors, but far better sounding, as well?

Audio engineers, after years of research, have perfected some compact types that fill the room with astonishingly realistic sound.

The secrets, they say, are in making dramatic reductions in baffle area — which ends sound ambiguity ("diffraction") — and in finding new ways of utilizing bass drivers ("woofers").

A third design improvement, according to Jeff White, an engineer at Ohio-based Design Acoustics, is the use of crossover networks that assign the entire mid-range to one driver.

By doing this, he says, they secure smooth, even coverage of the critical listening area in which most vocal and instrumental sound is concentrated. Design Acoustics refers to its adaptation of this idea as an Optimized Decade Crossover."

One new loudspeaker system that utilizes all of these devices is the PS 8a, by Design Acoustics.

Although it occupies less than eight tenths of a cubic foot, the three-way system reproduces sounds over a frequency response range of from 47 to 22,000 Hz — broader than that of a normal hearing acuity.

At a recent Consumer Electronics Show, listeners found it difficult to believe that so small a unit could sound so convincingly realistic. A part of the reason it does so, White explains, lies in its special woofer positioning.

The eight-inch driver is directed downwards, through the bottom of the enclosure, so it downfires at a fixed distance from its integral bass.

This feature not only makes possible dramatic reduction in baffle area, but it also bass-loads the driver for cleaner, lower bass than would otherwise be possible.

Unlike the hoary behemoths of yesteryear, the diminutive speaker system is relatively inexpensive, carrying a price tag of only $189.95 per system (nationally advertised price).

The manufacturer, Design Acoustics, is a subsidiary of Audio-Technica, the world's largest manufacturer of phono cartridges.

The company also makes stereo headphones, audio accessories, microphones, CD players, mixer/recorders and professional audio products.

FIRST SPLIT ENDS

The first split of our duck season will end Sunday, Dec. 4. We had plenty of ducks down, due to the drought above us and also short of feed. Our hunters did well, some on some days only staying 10 to 15 minutes in their blinds to get their limits.

The second part of the split will be Dec. 26 through Jan. 8. If we don't get lots of rain or real bad cold weather, the ducks should stay here. I hope we do keep the ducks down because if they move on to Mexico that's where the slaughter starts.

STATE DUCK STAMP

A New Orleans artist, David Noll's painting of two blue winged teals in flight, has been declared the winner of the first Louisiana Duck Stamp. Second place went to Patrick Soper of Lafayette and Murrell Butler of St. Francisville, third place.

There were 45 entries submitted by Louisiana artists. The sale of the new Louisiana Duck Stamp will be for the 1988-89 waterfowl season at $5 each. Hunters will be required to have these in their possession while hunting. This program is expected to bring in a little over one million dollars.

ACCORDING TO Hobby Industries of America, craft items and kits provide year-round enjoyment and satisfaction for the whole family.

Handmade gifts to capture the spirit

Gifts made by hand are an endearing way to capture the holiday spirit. According to Hobby Industries of America, personal gift creations convey warmth and feeling that will be remembered for a long time.

Elegant, stylish craft items, easy to make, are wonderful gifts for women of all ages. Fashion accessories such as beaded necklaces and decoupage bracelets give today's clothing an up-to-date look in minutes.

Fashionable accessories

Wood, ceramic, paper or plastic beads combined with yarn, string or ribbon create glamorous and chic neckwear. For added effect, try coordinating necklace designs with favorite wardrobe colors and styles.

Decoupage bracelets are also beautiful, inexpensive accessories that are simple to create. Applying decorative paper to bracelet frames and then adding a high lacquer finish means giftmakers can design a different bracelet for every fashion occasion.

The holiday season is never complete without wreaths, tree ornaments and other Christmas decorations that brighten up the home. Ribbon, fabric and yarns are some of the many different materials used to make beautiful and festive pieces that will be treasured for many future holidays.

For the hostess

Attending parties and visiting friends is a favorite holiday tradition. Now, a token gift for the hosts doesn't need to strain the budget.

Beautiful baskets of fabric flowers in a variety of floral arrangements are lovely ways to evoke the freshness of spring throughout the dreary winter season and express thanks for hospitality.

Many women on the gift list are experts with crafts such as needlepoint, cross-stitch, embroidery and knitting. But all too often their pre-holiday energy is used making gifts for others.

Surprise them with materials for a project all their own, whether yarn and a sweater pattern or a unique painted cross-stitch picture to hang in a bedroom.

Youngsters also love to work with their hands and starter craft sets provide an excellent way to teach craft techniques.

Doll making, needlepoint, rug hooking and crocheting are all easy to learn and loads of fun to practice. Beginner sets are available for all ages and skill levels.

The best part of gift-giving each year is choosing items that will have special meaning for many Christmas seasons to come. Homemade gifts and craft sets are terrific ways to express joy and warmth that will last all year round.

Beauty tips for the winter traveler

During the holiday season, when winter's deep chill has burrowed in, more and more families and couples are spiriting off to festive vacation spots.

Whether it's a sun-kissed isle or a cozy ski chalet, here's how to beautify any mid-winter trip.

• Keep up fitness by booking into a hotel with a pool, gym or sauna. When that's not an option, take along your leotard, portable cassette player and best exercise tape for in-room workouts.

• Fight in-flight calories by calling 24 hours ahead to order a diet entree.

Many airlines offer special meals — for instance, fruit salads, seafood platters and vegetarian plates — at no extra charge.

• Pressurized airplane cabins are notorious skin-parchers. Helpful strategies: Drink plenty of water and sodas (but not diuretic coffee, alcohol).

Keep your face makeup-free. Massage often with a replenishing moisturizer.

• Caribbean-bound redhead or pale blonde? Though he doesn't endorse this practice generally, Dr. Jacob Rispler of Arcadia, California, suggests two or three pre-trip visits to a tanning salon.

• When you arrive, to avoid a bad tropical sunburn, Dr. Rispler suggests wearing a high-intensity UVB sunscreen (at least SPF #8).

Slather on at least 30 minutes before exposure so skin has a chance to absorb the activating PABA and PABA esters.

• Skiers, beware! Glare of winter sun off snow is as harmful as tropical rays. Protect face and lips with a high-SPF block, wear polarized sunglasses.

• Smartest beauty take-along: A plastic bag stuffed full of cotton puffs or pads. Use to remove eye makeup and nail polish, to apply skin toner and dust on loose powder.

Dipped in ice water, two puffs soothe tired eyes.

• Lost luggage? Perish the thought! Nevertheless, it's clever to stash a "Panic Pack" in your carry-on.

According to Clare Miller, Author of 8 Minute Makeovers, "In it go emergency basics: For skin, a travel tube of Cold Cream such as Pond's to remove makeup, deep-cleanse skin and exfoliate when used with a natural sea sponge.

"For makeup, a mirrored compact blusher, lipstick, powder eye shadow stick. For hair, a small brush and comb and other health and beauty must-haves."

• Pack a personal body cleanser, wherever you go, says Dr. Rispler. West of the Rockies, water's hard. A non-detergent bar will cleanse best, won't leave a drying film on skin.

Bring your favorite soap; cold cream is safe for the face.

• Refresh achy feet after a day's skiing or sightseeing. Soak in cool water, elevate for 10-15 minutes, soften calloused areas overnight by rubbing in a dry skin cream and donning a pair of cotton socks.

• Tailor skin/makeup formulations to your destination. In cold climates, switch to an oil-based foundation, cream blusher, silky eye shadow.

Surgery may be eliminated

Here's good news for the approximately 20 million Americans who suffer from gallstone disease. Technological advances in treatment may one day eliminate the need for painful gallstone surgery.

Over 500,000 gallstone surgeries are performed in the United States each year. Typically, the surgery requires four-to-seven days of hospitalization and up to three weeks before patients can return to work.

The new treatment, performed on the Dornier MPL 9000 gallstone lithotripter, which is investigational and not yet commercially available, uses shock waves to pulverize gallstones to sand-sized particles. It's hoped that lithotripsy treatment will require no more than a two-day hospital stay and patients will be able to return to work soon after the treatment.

Crawford Long Hospital of Emory University in Atlanta was the first hospital selected as part of a ten-center study to determine the safety and efficacy of the lithotripter.

One million cases of gallstone disease are discovered each year. Gallstones are caused by a fatty waste product, known as cholesterol, normally excreted in the bile (a secretion of the liver). Sometimes small crystals of cholesterol begin to form, growing to stones. Pain occurs when stones move around and obstruct the cystic or common bile duct. Pressure from passing gallstones and the inflammation of the gallbladder can be extremely painful.

It's hoped lithotripsy technology will save millions of patients the pain, inconvenience, and corresponding costs of gallstone surgery.

S.C. basketball teams winners

The South Cameron boys basketball teams have recently won two games to give them a 3-1 record so far this year, according to Coach Henry Griffin.

Tuesday night they beat Kaplan 61-58 with Ronald January getting 21 points and Walter Jones 19.

Last week the Tarpons beat Goretti 72-46 with Curtis West scoring 15 and Walter Jones 14.

Coach Griffin said the team really needs the Tarpon fans to come out and give them support.

ASK OCHSNER

Back pain exercise

Q. Is it common now for doctors to prescribe exercises for back pain? I was surprised because some movements cause my husband pain even when he is not exercising.

A. "Until recently, exercises were not applied in a therapeutic way," says Dr. Douglas A. Swift, head of the occupational medicine department at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans, "but it is now thought that exercise can actually have a curative power in certain conditions which cause neck or lower back pain."

"For example, we have found that the movement in specially prescribed exercises can provide the nutrients and promote the healing of herniated, or bulging, spinal discs, a common cause of lower back pain. In addition, we know that exercise produces endorphins in the brain which are stronger than morphine in alleviating pain," he adds.

The Ochsner Clinic developed a program called MET, for musculoskeletal exercise therapy, and it takes over where physical therapy leaves off. "This program has been shown to be effective for workers injured during the course of their job and also for those women who have had radical mastectomies in which some muscles have been removed and other muscles must be strengthened to take over," Dr. Swift explains.

"The usual sequence of back injury treatment involves bedrest for about two weeks, then physical therapy for two weeks, then six to eight weeks of a supervised exercise program. Then the patient continues the exercises at home. At the end of the program, we tailor exercise therapy to exactly what the person does for a living.

"For example, if one of his tasks is lifting boxes, we teach him how to do this effectively without injuring himself, instead of having him do standard exercises only. In this job-specific training, we watch body mechanics and provide tips on what to do about posture and body movements," he says.

Low back pains which last longer than three weeks are not due only to muscle strain. There may be other disease processes and the pain should not be neglected. In the case of injury, exercise treatment must be started as soon as possible as the condition is harder to treat the longer it has been since the time of injury.

Call box aid system to be installed

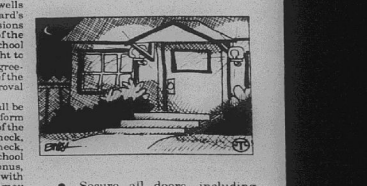
By next spring, the Department of Transportation and Development plans to begin operations of a motorist call box aid system on Interstate 10 between Lafayette and Baton Rouge, Secretary Neil L. Wagoner announced.

Secretary Wagoner said motorists will be able to use one of 72 call boxes to signal Louisiana State Police for wrecker, ambulance and police assistance during emergency needs.

"These call boxes will be positioned at half-mile intervals on both east and west-bound structures along the 18-mile elevated stretch of I-10 from a half-mile west of Henderson to a half-mile east of the Ramah exit," Wagoner explained.

Georgia Electric Company of Albany, Georgia, has a $2.2 million contract to complete the work in 180 working days.

SAFETY SENSE



FACT: A burglary occurs once every ten seconds in the United States.

FACT: Law enforcement experts report that the appearance of many unoccupied homes can offer criminals a standing invitation.

These same experts agree that proper home lighting is the best and least expensive deterrent to crime. On any given night, a burglar will select a poorly lighted house over one that is better lighted.

The Philips Lighting Company, sponsor of the 1988 National Night Out, a crime prevention awareness program celebrated by an estimated 20 million Americans in 7,000 communities, sheds some light on how you can protect your home:

- See that your home is well-lit if you are going to be away after dark. Lights connected to automatic timers and placed strategically throughout the home can give the impression that it is occupied. Use new longer life bulbs to assure that they will last.
- Turn on porch lights and illuminate the sides and rear of your home with outdoor spotlights to discourage criminals (who much prefer to work in the dark). The nightly cost of lighting front and backyards is about 18 cents.

- Secure all doors, including those leading into your garage, and first- and second-floor windows with deadbolt and double cylinder locks.
- Leave a car in the driveway and/or toys on the lawn to give your home that lived-in look while you're away for any extended period. While on vacation, secure such valuables as jewelry or coins in a safe deposit box.
- Keep shrubbery surrounding the home trimmed. Overgrown bushes give a burglar all the cover he needs to work unnoticed.

Court in Cameron

By Keith Hambrick

(Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 2, 1921)
COURT IN CAMERON

Judge Thos. F. Porter, Jr., and District Attorney Griffin T. Hawkins left Lake Charles Monday morning for Cameron, to hold a special session of district court to try the murder case of a man charged with a murder which happened about four years ago. Judge Porter stated that doubtless he and Mr. Hawkins would be kept in Cameron the entire week on account of the difficulty in securing jurymen from over the parish in case the regular veniere was exhausted.

Judge Porter and Mr. Hawkins went from Lake Charles to Big Lake in an automobile, taking the boat at that point. Lawyers and others going down on the Rex this morning from Lake Charles were: A. R. Mitchell, W. C. Braden, William Brickett, Justice of the Peace at Cameron, H. K. Midkiff, federal tick inspector, David Levingston and M. D. and E. D. Miller of Jennings. The latter gentlemen will defend the man charged with murder.

(Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 9, 1921)
CRIMINAL COURT IN CAMERON

Grand Chenier, La., Dec. 5--The regular term of criminal court was held recently and a large number of cases were on docket and disposed of. The principal case was that of a man charged with a murder that occurred in the winter of 1917. Attorneys for the defendant were Judge Miller and Minos Miller of Jennings and Arthur Edwards of Lake Charles. District Attorneys Hawkins and Pickrel acted for the state.

Some time was consumed in selecting a jury, due principally to relationship to the defendant's wife. Both sides put up a strong fight. The closing arguments were exceptionally splendid. About three hours after the jury received the charge from the court and retiring, they reached a verdict of not guilty. Before reading the verdict to the court, Judge Porter asked that no unusual remarks of approval or disapproval be made inside the court house, and his orders were obeyed.

Minor cases were also disposed of and also the first juvenile case on record in Cameron Parish came up. A young man charged with a stabbing some time ago was sentenced to the reform school for one year.

Civil matters were then taken up and disposed of. The judge, district attorneys and lawyers left Saturday morning on the steamer Rex for their homes.

News reached here recently from most of the fur firms that a decline of about 30 percent had taken place and for the buyers to hold off to a certain extent. The cause is believed to be that of an unusual good catch by the trappers and a rush to reach the market with it.

Etienne Miller and wife moved last week. They will farm some of the high land of the Broussard Land and Stock Company.

We are having some more cold weather. There have been heavy freezes and hard winds and the unlucky late rice farmer is now full of trouble as the rain has also put him back quite a bit.

Sugar grinding is still the order of the day.

Lowery plant has finished thresh ing a fine crop, which turned out considerably more than was expected.

Amar Miller and family are visiting at the home of their brother, Albert Miller, for a few days.

Rules given on purchase of seafood

Louisiana's wholesale and retail seafood dealers are required to make purchases only from licensed commercial sources and to keep adequate records of all transactions.

Dealers are obligated to buy only from commercial fishermen or from validly licensed dealers.

The individual dealer must be especially careful not to buy from a recreational fisherman.

Dealers also are required to maintain records of their transactions for three years to make these records available for inspection by the department.

The records must be kept in English and include the following:

1. Records of the quantity and species of fish acquired, the date the fish was acquired, the name and license number of the commercial fisherman, the wholesale-retail dealer or the out-of-state seller from whom the fish was acquired.

2. Records of the quantity and species of the fish sold, the date the fish was sold, and the name and license number of the person to whom the fish was sold.

When sold to the consumer, the records shall indicate the quantity, species and date, and should state that the fish was sold to the consumer.

License needed for fish dealers

The Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries has issued a reminder that all persons "buying, acquiring or handling fish or seafood must have a wholesale-retail dealers license."

This includes both crawfish dealers and softshell crawfish producers, even if they are handling farm-raised crawfish.

This license costs $105 for residents and $405 for non-residents and may be purchased in person at the Wildlife and Fisheries offices in New Orleans or Baton Rouge or through the mail.

Licenses for 1989 are now available.

Dealers should also be aware that a $35 transport license must be purchased for each delivery vehicle.

If the driver is handling any money or checks he must also be licenses individually as a wholesale-retail dealer.

Making your rooms festive for holidays

Greenery, lighting, color. These are the cheapest and most festive transformers for holiday rooms, according to internationally famous designer Mary Gilliatt, author of Decorating On The Cheap (Workman Publishing).

• Pep up your room by adding a contrast border all around the walls just below the ceiling and above the baseboard — and even around the doors and windows, if you like.

All you need to buy is yards of ribbon or even upholsterer's gimp (much cheaper than any manufacturer's border) and stick it up with staples (these can be removed easily at the end of the season).

• Another trick with borders, which will also add instant distinction, is to buy yards of slim picture framing wood from a framer (it can be either polished or gilded) and stick it up with staples. This is more expensive than the ribbon or gimp trim, but it's also more classy.

• Give each place setting at your dinner table its own candlestick surrounded by a small wreath of holly, ivy and Christmas roses.

• For a party, string Christmas tree lights all around the doorway and all around the top of the walls just below the ceiling.

• Give an instant (but not permanent) transformation to a room for a party by changing the wall color to, say, a festive red by using appropriately sized rolls of photographer's background paper. (This comes in about 20 assorted colors and different widths.)

• Give yourself a floor lift for the holidays by painting a floor cloth that you can use year after year. All you need is an unprimed or primed artist canvas of any size you want, water base interior paint and your own holiday design.

Finish with two or three coats of polyurethane and, when it is dry, fold under the borders and glue them down.

• Need instant chair covers but don't have enough time to recover your chairs? Buy enough of the material you need, stretch it over the back and seat of the chair, then tightly knot the material on both sides of the chair. You can always have them recovered properly after the holidays.

the dough into a ball, cover with plastic wrap or wax paper, and chill until firm, about two hours.

2. On a lightly floured surface, roll the dough into a circle about 1/8 inch thick. Line a 10-inch tart tin with the dough. Trim off excess dough and roll it out again. Cut it into decorative shapes with small cookie cutters and place on a small baking sheet.

3. Preheat the oven to 350°F. In a large mixing bowl, toss the pears with lemon juice and brandy. Sift together the sugar, flour and spices in a small mixing bowl, add to the pear mixture, and toss well to mix.

4. Transfer the filling to the pastry shell and dot with butter. Place the tart and the baking sheet with the decorative pastry shapes in the oven. Bake the tart until the fruit is tender and the edges of the pastry are nicely browned, about 1 hour. Bake the decorative pastry until golden brown, about 20 minutes.

5. Transfer decorative pastry and the tart to a wire rack to cool and arrange the decorative shapes on the fruit. Serve alone or with whipped cream.

The Challenge of Genealogy

by MARIE WISE

The Bristol Registers of Servants Sent to Foreign Plantations were discovered some two generations ago after 200 years of obscurity in the top floor storerooms of the ancient Council House at Bristol, then the premier English port for emigration to the New World.

Soon a summarized transcription, incomplete and not indexed, was published; but it was not until this year that an excellent compilation of the two hand written volumes was made.

Peter Wilson Coldham who is revamping the entire field of English emigration records, correcting and enlarging known records and making available many records heretofore unknown, has compiled and indexed the following book of some 10,000 seventeenth century emigrants to America.

BRITISH EMIGRANTS

The Bristol Registers of Servants Sent to Foreign Plantations, 1654-1686 by Mr. Coldham lists chronologically followed by, for most entries, place of origin (until 1661), length of service (4 to 8 years), destinations (usually Virginia, Maryland or the West Indies), name of master; and after 1670, name of the arriving ship.

All but a few of the emigrants were laborers, farmers or tradesmen and most were from the West Country, the West Midlands and Wales (the names of towns and villages are given in their modern version); but some came from London, Cambridge, Lancashire, Scotland, Ireland, France, and further.

Together these two registers, in the one new volume, comprise the largest body of indenture records known and are an invaluable and unique record of English emigration to the American colonies. There are four indexes, one each by servants, masters, places of origin, and ships.

This important reference book is hardcover with jacket, 6 x 9 in., 491 pages, $32.50 incl. mailing, available from: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS

German Immigrants: Lists of Passengers Bound from Bremen to New York 1863-1867 With Places of Origin is the third in this series which replaces in part the original lists that were totally destroyed.

Using arrivals rather than departures, this reconstructed list is based on official passenger records and manifests from the National Archives and is limited to those Bremen passengers for whom a specific place of origin was recorded.

The approximately 35,000 immigrants listed alphabetically in this volume represent about 21% of the total number of German ship arrivals from 1863-1867. With family members grouped together, age, residence, year, number reference to the Ship List and microfilm number are given with each full surname.

This partial reconstruction of the irreplaceable Brennan records is hardcover, 6 x 9 in., 221 pages, $24.00 incl. mailing, available from: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897.

SOUTH LA. FAMILIES

Gordon P. Bonnet, 21501 NE 60th Place, Redmond, WA 98053, a former Louisiana resident, wishes to corresp. with anyone having info on the following, all immigrating from the eastcoast to South Louisiana: Jacob BOGARD and wife, Marguerite RITTER, Jeffrey MURRELL and wife, mar. Zilphia ANDREWS, Aaron RULONG and wife Sarah HANDSBERRY. Also searching for any info on the FRENCH family, esp. Elisabeth who mar. c1878, probably in St. Landry Ph., Jules RICHARD.

America's first soldiers were its militiamen enlisted locally to protect their colony from attack by Indians or any other hostile force, including foreign powers.

Though having little equipment and minimum training, these early American military men were generally successful as home guardsmen or on the campaign trail and most descendants are proud to establish a kinship.

To genealogists, military records are invaluable in proving where and when a specific person lived, perhaps where he came from and where he went. Some enlistment rolls include even personal descriptions.

The barrier to using such valuable information has long been to locate what records were left behind and make them available for research.

A masterful job has now been completed for America's first colonial militia established in Virginia in the 1600's.

COLONIAL SOLDIERS

Virginia's Colonial Soldiers by Lloyd DeWitt Bockstruck is a comprehensive register of some 14,000 names as compiled from county militia rosters, muster rolls, the papers of George Washington from the French and Indian War, bounty land applications and warrants, court minutes and orders, courts martials, manuscripts, British and American archives, and various other sources.

For many here there is much more than a name, place and date — sometimes residence, occupation, age, height, physical features, place of birth, spouse or widow, specific military experience, etc.

This outstanding reference for America's early colonial soldiers is hardcover with jacket, 5 1/2 x 8 1/2 in., 443 pages, place and full name indexes, $20.50 incl. mailing, available from: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897.

PASSENGER LISTS

Passenger and Immigration Lists Bibliography 1538-1900, Second Edition, as edited by P. William Filby provides a list of more than 2,550 published works of names of persons arriving in the United States and Canada within the given dates.

Including all information from the 1981 first edition and its 1984 supplement, this Second Edition adds more than 750 new lists, all alphabetical by author or by title when no author is known.

Each entry has an identification number, gives its full publication and reprint information and describes what its Passenger or Immigration List contains.

The index to this bibliography includes ship names, place names collective names of various nationalities and peoples, places of emigration and immigration, ports of departure and arrival, places of settlement, and other special aid information for researchers.

Hard cover, 8 1/2 x 11 in., 348 total pages, indexed, $100.00, available from: Gale Research Co., Book Tower, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

WINDHAM DRY

Aubrey J. Dry, Sr. P.O. Box 957, Jasper, TX 75951 seeks parents and other background info on Willie WINDHAM, wife of Julius Alexander DRY, who mar. in Caddo Ph., LA, 1889. She d. c1899 in Cass Co., TX.

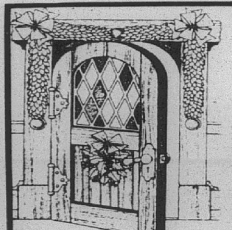
Deer hunters to be checked by officers

Sporadic roadblocks will be mounted throughout the state to make sure that hunters who are transporting cut-up deer parts are in full compliance with Louisiana law.

The crackdown was announced by Col. Winton Vidrine, chief of enforcement for the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The roadblocks are the first of their kind in five years, Vidrine said, and are representative of the department's increased emphasis on enforcement.

Vidrine reported that a recent three-hour roadblock on Highway 139 near Bastrop resulted in the ticketing of 10 persons on charges of field possession of deer meat without tags. Three of those charged were from out of state.



According to Vidrine, dressed deer carcasses or pieces being transported from camp must be identified as to species, with each package signed by the hunter and marked with the number of his hunting license plus date and place the deer was taken.

Violations are punishable by a fine of $100 to $350 and/or up to 60 days in jail.

6 Scouts given Eagle badges

By GENEVA GRIFFITH

Over 200 friends, relatives and officials packed the Cameron Knights of Columbus Church Hall Saturday afternoon to honor six young men at the Eagle Court of Honor of Boy Scout Troop 210.

The six inducted into the Eagle Scouts were: Bryon and Brady Richard, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Richard; Brad Saltzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolton Saltzman; Dennis Guilbeaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Guilbeaux; Michael Styron, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Styron; and Patrick Hebert, son of Mrs. Jennifer Bercier of Cameron, and Keith Hebert of Harahan.

Guest speakers were Randy Roach, state representative and Ernie Melhorn, Calcasieu Area Council Scout Executive.

Rep. Roach presented certificates of commendations from the Louisiana Legislature to each boy.

Mr. Melhorn pointed out that only two boys out of 100 became Eagle Scouts and the Cameron community has a lot to be proud of to have these six boys achieve this honor.

"The boys' leaders and their parents deserve a lot of credit because it is a family program, and the community also gives its support," he said.

Danny Didelot, BS Troop 210 Scoutmaster, gave the accomplishments of each scout who had also received letters of congratulations from President Ronald Reagan and Governor Buddy Roemer, and the United States Air Force.

Rev. Rod Kennedy gave the Eagle Awards to each boy, who in turn gave their mothers miniature poins and certificates to their fathers.

David Kandik, Executive Officer of BS Post 474, Game the Eagle Charge.

Parade entries

Oscar Reyes, Jr., parade chairman of the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival, is asking persons planning parade entries to contact him at 775-8562.

The parade will be held on Saturday, Jan. 14, on Cameron's main street and starts at 2 p.m. from the western end of town.

Pearl Harbor Day

Police jury news

ncern told over ferry, Rockefeller

The Cameron Parish Police Jury was informed at its meeting Tuesday that the state might close down the Monkey Island ferry and also the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge as economy measures.

Cameron Juror George LeBouef asked the jury to write the state highway director urging the state to keep the Monkey Island ferry in operation. The ferry, only one of 12 public ferries still in operation in the state, serves a number of residents and businesses located on the island across from the town of Cameron.

He noted that these people living on the Monkey Island site before it was made an island by the construction of the ship channel years ago. He said the state owed it to these residents not to take away their means of getting in and out of the area.

LeBouef said that the Cameron police jury did not have the money to take over the ferry itself.

Juror Brent Nunez also asked that a letter be written concerning the rumor that the Rockefeller Refuge might be closed by the wildlife department. He said the refuge provides employment for about 20 persons and also provides a valuable service in protecting the wildlife of the area.

Hebert goes to Chicago

Charles Hebert of Grand Chenier attended the 67th annual National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Ill., and will return home Thursday, Dec. 8. His club project was beef and his trip was sponsored by Wrangler Jeans.

The Louisiana delegation participated in an event honoring more than 1600 teenagers for outstanding achievements in a broad range of progams and activities.

The youth delegates to the congress represent 4.5 million boys and girls enrolled in 4-H in the nation.

Most of Louisiana's representatives earned the educational trip with winning performances at last summer's state 4-H Short Course.

Three graduate

Three Cameron Parish residents will be among the graduates of the University of Southwestern Louisiana's fall commencement exercises Sunday, Dec. 18, at 4 p.m. in the Cajundome.

Meeting set

The monthly meeting of the Cameron Parish Coastal Concern organization will be held Thursday, Dec. 15, at 6 p.m. in the Police Jury Meeting Room.

Ordinance enforcement is assured

Effective Jan. 1, anyone who builds a home or business in lower Cameron parish will have to comply with all of the provisions of the parish flood insurance ordinance or they will not be able to get electrical service.

The parish has had an ordinance for a number of years requiring builders to build at certain elevations and meet other guidelines but it has not always been able to enforce the ordinance.

At the jury's monthly meeting Tuesday, Juror Brent Nunez noted that the federal government has been threatening to cancel the parish's flood insurance program if it did not enforce its ordinance.

Nunez said he hated to introduce the ordinance but felt the parish could not afford to lose the insurance. The ordinance, which was unanimously passed, requires all builders in the flood zones of the parish to obtain a parish permit and to meet provisions of the ordinance before they can secure electrical service from Jeff Davis Electric Co-op.

Suit filed here over swim pool

The Cameron Parish Recreation District No. 6 board of directors, who operate the Cameron recreation facilities, has filed a suit against a Lake Charles contractor and architect over what they allege are defects in the district's swimming pool and jogging track.

Named as defendants were Bartley, Inc., contractor, and Hackett & Bailey, Architects-Civil Engineers.

The suit alleges that the district entered into a contract in 1985 with Bartley to construct the swimming pool at a cost of $321,000 and to construct the jogging track at a cost of $19,408.

The suit states that on June 27, 1987, Shane LeBlanc dived from one of the pool's diving boards into the pool, struck his head on the sloping bottom, and has since filed a suit against the district for the injuries he received alleging a defect in the design and construction of the pool.

The suit alleges that the pool was not built according to the plans prepared by Hackett & Bailey and even if it had been the plans and specifications prepared by the firm did "not conform to acceptable standards and specifications for public swimming pools in effect at the time the pool was designed and constructed."

The recreation board is asking a judgment against the defendants for the cost of curing the problems of the pool and also of the running track in which it alleges the wrong type of materials were used.

Filing the suit on behalf of the recreaton district was the Cameron law firm of Badon & Ranier.

Jury stops dynamiting in the Gulf

A seismograph firm felt the combined wrath of the Cameron Parish Police Jury, local fishermen and the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission Tuesday but the matter was apparently satisfactorily cleared up.

Several local fishermen told the jury at its meeting Tuesday that Fairfield Industries had been shooting off dynamite charges just off the coast in the gulf endangering fishing boats and killing fish.

Police Juror Carroll Trahan told the jury that he, himself, had seen the dynamite charges going off in the Gulf as he flew overhead in a helicopter.

One fisherman said that he had had to time the intervals between the seismc shots in order to safely cross the area and get into port with his fishing boat.

Jurors noted that the permit issued Fairfield had specifically provided that airguns rather than dynamite would have to be used while shooting in the Gulf and jurors agreed to cancel the company's permit and to deny another permit request that it had just received from the firm.

A wildlife agent from Lake Charles told the jury that if it were true that fish were being killed and then picked up by the seismic crew charges would be filed for illegal taking of fish.

The company was called and about an hour later a representative showed up. He told the jury that the firm was under the mistaken impression that the wildlife department had given them permission to use dynamite in the Gulf. He said the firm would immediately stop using the dynamite and start using the airguns as provided in the jury's permit.

Apparently the matter was settled to everyone's satisfaction.

Lighting of 300 ft. tree set Dec. 16

The second annual lighting of the 300 foot Christmas tree at the Jefferson Davis Electric Co-op office in Cameron will be held Friday, Dec. 16, at 6:30 p.m.

The tree is really the Co-op's 300 foot radio tower and the employees last year spent hundreds of hours of their free time decorating the tower with thousands of colored lights that ran along the tower's guy wires.

The supplies were paid for by the employees themselves as a Christmas gift to the community.

All local and area residents are invited to attend.

Johnny Reina

Reina given national FFA recognition

Johnny Reina, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reina of Grand Chenier, received the National FFA Organization's highest degree of membership, that of American Farmer. Along with 713 other degree recipients, the South Cameron chapter member was honored at the 61st National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

One of the highlights of the convention, the American Farmer degree ceremony, included the presentation of a certificate and gold key to Johnny as he walked across the convention stage with over 22,000 FFA members in the audience.

The American Farmer degree is presented annually at the National FFA convention to the top two-tenths of one percent of FFA membership. Awarding of the degree is based upon a member's Supervised Occupational Experience program in agribusiness or production agriculture and his leadership ability as demonstrated through involvement in FFA activities.

Johnny was one of four American Farmer degree recipients from Louisiana. His SOE program included registered and commercial beef cattle. He also served the South Cameron chapter as president during the 1985-86 school year.

Hebert involved in fatal crash in L.C. Monday

Charles Terry Hebert, 48, Cameron businessman and a member of the Lake Charles Dock Board, was involved in an accident Monday night in Lake Charles in which two Lake Charles persons were killed.

According to City Police the car driven by Hebert struck and killed two persons who were standing beside a stalled car on the side of an I-210 overpass.

Hebert received minor head and chest injuries and was hospitalized overnight.

Police were continuing their investigation of the accident Wednesday.

Parish teachers among best paid

Cameron Parish teachers are still among the best paid teachers in Louisiana, according to the annual ranking of teacher salaries for the 66 public school systems in the state just released b the Louisiana Association of Educators.

According to the report Cameron Parish teachers ranked first in the B.A. Maximum (Step 26) division, MA + 30 Minimum, and Doctorate Maximum.

The parish ranked second in the BA Minimum division, MA Minimum (Step 1), MA + 30 Minimum, Specialist's Minimum and was third in the Doctorate Minimum.

St. Charles, and St. Tammany parishes were the two parishes paying higher salaries than Cameron in some of the categories.

Statistics collected for all school systems at the beginning of the 1988-89 school year show salaries start at a low of $12,682 for beginning teachers in four of the lowest paid school systems (Lasalle, Morehouse, Union and Vernon Parishes) to a high of $32,214 for an experienced teacher who holds a doctorate degree (Cameron Parish).

When one considers a typical teacher in Louisiana as one who holds a Master's Degree and has ten or more years of experience, a comparison of the various salaries ranges from a low of $18,617 to $30,730. Again, LaSalle, Morehouse, Union and Vernon Parishes pay the lowest in this category while Cameron Parish once again ranks on top.

Average teacher salaries in Louisiana still ranked only 48th in the nation in 1987-88 at $21,209. The 4.2% state raise which was granted for the 1988-89 school year is not expected to significantly impact Louisiana's ranking in the nation.

Ortego is honored

Robert Ortego, Assistant Superintendent with the Cameron Parish School System, received the Louisiana Association of School Executives Educator of the Year Award at a conference held in Shreveport Nov. 20-22.

CAMERON OUTDOORS By Loston McEvers

Split season ends

DUCK SEASON SPLIT

Our first 16 day duck season split as of Saturday, Dec. 4, and resume Dec. 26-Jan. 8 for another 14 days.

We saw quite a few duucks down but they held mostly to large pond areas and didn't really fly well for our blinds to do real good.

Water at this writing is awful low in lots of areas. I made a hunt with Philip Trosclair last week and the decoys were on the mud. We did have an excellent hunt as I had two greenhead mallards and a drake pintail in my limit and Philip the same.

DEER DRESSING

Road blocks have been in existence throughout the state of Louisiana to make sure hunters who are transporting "cut-up" deer parts are in full compliance with Louisiana law.

There is definitely a crackdown and it is being enforced. Ten hunters were arrested near Bastrop for field possession of deer meat without a tag.

arrested were from out of state. A total of 500 pounds of venison was confiscated during these road blocks. The seized meat was donated to charities.

Any dressed deer carcasses or pieces being transported from camp must be identified as to species, with each package signed by hunter and marked with the number of his hunting license, plus the date and place the deer was taken.

Fines of $100 to $350 and/or up to 60 days in jail if found in violation.

OYSTER LEASES
FOR STATE UPPED

Increase in oyster lease fees will probably go from $2 an acre to $5 an acre. A hearing is set.

BLACK BEAR KILLED

A black bear, equipped with an ear tag and radio collar on June 9, as part of a study to identify the bear's home ground and movement pattern, was found dead in November at the Big Lake Wildlife Management area in Madison Parish.

The two and one half year old female bear died of shotgun wounds. Hunting of bears is prohibited in Louisiana.

The Louisiana population of the black bear is being considered for listing by the U. S Fish and Wildlife Service as a threatened species and a statewide hunting ban is in effect.

DEER SEASON

I'm getting a few calls on the deer season, as there's not many pamphlets left in the area.

The doe days are over. Dec. 3, started the second split, until Dec. 11, still hunting only. The third and last split, will be still hunting only from Dec. 17 thru Jan. 1.

Hope this helps you out.

OTHERS

Dove season will open Dec. 10 thru Jan. 9 for the third and final split. Woodcock will open Dec. 10 thru Feb. 12; snipe is open until Feb. 26; gallinule is open until Jan. 20; as is rail.

The goose season will reopen Dec. 26 thru Feb. 14. Quail is open until Feb. 28, rabbit until Feb. 28, and squirrel until Jan. 15.

TRAPPING

Trapping of fur bearing animals has opened as of Dec. 1. Some are going for the mink because of the price. A good male mink should be around $24 and a female mink $12 to $14.

Word is some are waiting for a price on nutria and muskrats at the first sale. I was told nutria could be as low as $2.50 per top pelt and muskrat $1.50 per top pelt. Let's hope the prices are better than that. It's all a wait and see type of situation.

Christmas is just 16 days away, so gals, get your man a rod-reel-gun-boat-motor-tackle or all of that if that's what he wants for Christmas. You'll make him happy all year round.

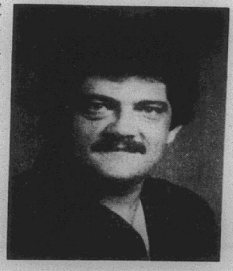
Hackberry girls win

By ROBERT MANUEL

The Lady Mustangs captured their third tournament title by devastating a strong Washington-Marion team 51-31.



The home court team kept the Lady Indians off balance throughout the contest pressuring every shot with a hustling aggressive defense and strong rebounding. The Lady Mustangs offense in the meantime was making their shots, getting excellent outside shooting from Monise Seay and Tiffany Kyle.

Leading scorers for Hackberry were Monise Seay with 22, Tiffany Kyle 13, and Tiffany Seay, 10. The Lady Indians were led by Tommeka Archinard with 15.

In the boys championship match Sam Houston outscored Beaumont central JVs 71-62.

Louisiana Purchase

One of the world's most famous real estate deals was completed on Dec. 20, 1803, when more than a million square miles of the Louisiana Territory was purchased by the United States from France. The French leader Napoleon sold the land for approximately $20 per square mile.

Tea Party

On Dec. 16, 1773, American colonialists protested the exorbitant British excise taxes on goods exported to the colonies by dumping the contents of nearly 350 chests of tea into Boston Harbor. Dubbed the "Boston Tea Party," the famous incident began a long tradition of American opposition to unfair taxation.

School concerned over erosion, Rockefeller

The Cameron Parish School Board recently adopted two resolutions expressing concern over two serious problems in the parish.

The board noted that the entire Louisiana coast is being eroded by tropical storms, wave action and high tides and that some of the beach frontage of Cameron parish has lost as much as 300 feet since 1957.

The board noted there was a projection that most of Cameron parish could be under water within a relatively short period of time if the erosion was not stopped.

The resolution asked the governor, legislature, Wildlife Department, etc. to do all they could to halt this erosion.

The board also adopted a resolution concerning the possible closure of the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge in the parish. It noted that the refuge staff had provided outstanding research on furbearers, waterfowl, fisheries and had been of great assistance to landowners in the management of their wetlands.

The board urged the state to respect the Deed of Donation by which the Rockefeller Refuge was obtained and keep it in operation.

Rundown given on four Cameron parish schools

By ROBERT MANUEL

The four Cameron Parish high schools fielded 7 of 8 basketball teams in the 87-88 basketball playoffs last year. The year 1988 could be another banner year as all four schools are again fielding competitive teams in pre-district competition.

Last year's playoff teams were the Grand Lake boys and girls, the Hackberry boys and girls, the Johnson Bayou boys and girls and the South Cameron girls. The girls teams, with most of their players back, seem to have the best chance for a repeat playoff spot whereas the boys team losses through graduation was heaviest in most cases.

GRAND LAKE

The Grand Lake Hornets have a 5-10 pre-district record. Without the return of a good experienced ball handler or point guard, Coach Mike Thomas has had to rely on time to come up with the missing ingredient. That could end soon as Richard Faulk, a junior, is growing fast in filling that demand.

Thomas has a stable of players with good size and height that could jell in time for district competition. Returning starters are juniors Dale Mancuso, 6'2"; Eric Morgan, 6'; and senior Larry Broussard, 6'. Other returning lettermen and squadmen are Chad Primeaux, Kirk Fruge, Derrick Robideaux, Roy Pesson and Kevin Benoit. These players all get playing time during the heat of the contest. Other players not listed give added bench strength.

HACKBERRY

Graduation took a heavy toll on Coach Byron Gibbs 1987-88 playoff team. Six seniors departed, taking big chunks of playing experience with them. Gibbs has rallied his remaining force for a 7-9 pre-district record under the leadership of returning lettermen Clint Hewitt, Sheldon Frey, Layne Kyle, Alfred Dervall and Johnny LaFleur.

The Mustangs have to rely on good fundamentals and sharp shooting, as the squad sorely lacks in height.

JOHNSON BAYOU

Coach Doug Welch retained but one starter from last year's playoff squad. Leading the Rebel effort is returning starter Scotty Sandifer and lettermen Donald Morris Sr., Berry Badon Sr., Layne Boudreaux Jr., and Paul Romero Jr. Sandifer is a 20 point plus performer and could get plenty of help as the season progresses.

SOUTH CAMERON

South Cameron's head basketball Coach Henry Griffin, has a tough district schedule ahead. As tough as the district is, the Tarpons should still be a better team this year, regardless of the winloss outcome. Returning starters Walter Jones and Ronald January will have strong support from Chad Mudd, Dexter Fountain, Ricky Miller and a horde of other possible starters.

Next week: Girls basketball and the parish basketball tournament at Hackberry Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 14, 15 and 16.

Lady Rebels are winners

By ROBERT MANUEL

The Johnson Bayou Lady Rebels captured the team championship in their own invitational tournament. The sharp shooting Rebel Ladies humbled the Lady Tarpons 42-28 in the tournament finals. It was the first tournament title for the improving Lady Rebels this season.

Point guard Sonja Trahan burned the nets for a season high of 27 points. South Cameron's scoring was led by Tiffany LaSalle and Freeda Blackwell with 11 and 10 points respectively.

The South Cameron boys took a 72-48 win over the Port Neches-Groves sophomores. The Tarpon scoring was led by Ronald January with 20, Chad Mudd 19, and Dexter Fountain and Walter Jones with 14 and 12, respectively.

Class is set

Hackberry High School will offer an adult education class in Word Processing and Spreadsheet Applications, beginning Wednesday, Jan. 11, and continue each succeeding Wednesday for 40 hours of instruction. The tentative time set is 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Hours are told

From Dec. 1 to March 1, it will be closed every Tuesday and Thursday, March 1-Sept. 1, closed each Monday, and Sept. 1-Dec. 1, closed every Monday and Friday.

CONGRATULATIONS. . .

. . .To Thomas and Lisa Johnson on their upcoming trip to Singapore, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Indonesia. They will be leaving on Thursday, December 15 and returning on Sunday, January 1.

While there, they will visit with their father who now lives in Indonesia. We hope that ya'll have a good time and a safe trip back home.

CAMERON OUTDOORS By Loston McEvers

Split season ends

DUCK SEASON SPLIT

Our first 16 day duck season split as of Saturday, Dec. 4, and resume Dec. 26-Jan. 8 for another 14 days.

We saw quite a few duucks down but they held mostly to large pond areas and didn't really fly well for our blinds to do real good.

Water at this writing is awful low in lots of areas. I made a hunt with Philip Trosclair last week and the decoys were on the mud. We did have an excellent hunt as I had two greenhead mallards and a drake pintail in my limit and Philip the same.

DEER DRESSING

Road blocks have been in existence throughout the state of Louisiana to make sure hunters who are transporting "cut-up" deer parts are in full compliance with Louisiana law.

There is definitely a crackdown and it is being enforced. Ten hunters were arrested near Bastrop for field possession of deer meat without a tag.

arrested were from out of state. A total of 500 pounds of venison was confiscated during these road blocks. The seized meat was donated to charities.

Any dressed deer carcasses or pieces being transported from camp must be identified as to species, with each package signed by hunter and marked with the number of his hunting license, plus the date and place the deer was taken.

Fines of $100 to $350 and/or up to 60 days in jail if found in violation.

OYSTER LEASES
FOR STATE UPPED

Increase in oyster lease fees will probably go from $2 an acre to $5 an acre. A hearing is set.

BLACK BEAR KILLED

A black bear, equipped with an ear tag and radio collar on June 9, as part of a study to identify the bear's home ground and movement pattern, was found dead in November at the Big Lake Wildlife Management area in Madison Parish.

The two and one half year old female bear died of shotgun wounds. Hunting of bears is prohibited in Louisiana.

The Louisiana population of the black bear is being considered for listing by the U. S Fish and Wildlife Service as a threatened species and a statewide hunting ban is in effect.

DEER SEASON

I'm getting a few calls on the deer season, as there's not many pamphlets left in the area.

The doe days are over. Dec. 3, started the second split, until Dec. 11, still hunting only. The third and last split, will be still hunting only from Dec. 17 thru Jan. 1.

Hope this helps you out.

OTHERS

Dove season will open Dec. 10 thru Jan. 9 for the third and final split. Woodcock will open Dec. 10 thru Feb. 12; snipe is open until Feb. 26; gallinule is open until Jan. 20; as is rail.

The goose season will reopen Dec. 26 thru Feb. 14. Quail is open until Feb. 28, rabbit until Feb. 28, and squirrel until Jan. 15.

TRAPPING

Trapping of fur bearing animals has opened as of Dec. 1. Some are going for the mink because of the price. A good male mink should be around $24 and a female mink $12 to $14.

Word is some are waiting for a price on nutria and muskrats at the first sale. I was told nutria could be as low as $2.50 per top pelt and muskrat $1.50 per top pelt. Let's hope the prices are better than that. It's all a wait and see type of situation.

Christmas is just 16 days away, so gals, get your man a rod-reel-gun-boat-motor-tackle or all of that if that's what he wants for Christmas. You'll make him happy all year round.

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Hackberry basketball teams, coaching staff, and myself, I would like to extend our sincere thanks to those who helped make the Hackberry tournament a success.

It was truly a team effort -- donors, concesson workers, hospitality room workers, gate workers, scorekeepers, timers, and clean up crews. Your help made the difference.

The tournament ran smoothly and efficiently and was a profitable venture.

Thanks from all of us.

Leading scorers for Hackberry were Monise Seay with 22, Tiffany Kyle 13, and Tiffany Seay, 10. The Lady Indians were led by Tommeka Archinard with 15.

In the boys championship match Sam Houston outscored Beaumont central JVs 71-62.

Christmas Greeting

December 19 marks the 30th anniversary of the first radio voice broadcast from space. Transmitted from the U. S. Earth satellite Atlas, the message was a recorded Christmas greeting from President Dwight D. Eisenhower: "To all mankind, America's wish for peace on Earth and good will toward men everywhere."

Louisiana Purchase

One of the world's most famous real estate deals was completed on Dec. 20, 1803, when more than a million square miles of the Louisiana Territory was purchased by the United States from France. The French leader Napoleon sold the land for approximately $20 per square mile.

Tea Party

On Dec. 16, 1773, American colonialists protested the exorbitant British excise taxes on goods exported to the colonies by dumping the contents of nearly 350 chests of tea into Boston Harbor. Dubbed the "Boston Tea Party," the famous incident began a long tradition of American opposition to unfair taxation.

School concerned over erosion, Rockefeller

The Cameron Parish School Board recently adopted two resolutions expressing concern over two serious problems in the parish.

The board noted that the entire Louisiana coast is being eroded by tropical storms, wave action and high tides and that some of the beach frontage of Cameron parish has lost as much as 300 feet since 1957.

The board noted there was a projection that most of Cameron parish could be under water within a relatively short period of time if the erosion was not stopped.

The resolution asked the governor, legislature, Wildlife Department, etc. to do all they could to halt this erosion.

The board also adopted a resolution concerning the possible closure of the Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge in the parish. It noted that the refuge staff had provided outstanding research on furbearers, waterfowl, fisheries and had been of great assistance to landowners in the management of their wetlands.

The board urged the state to respect the Deed of Donation by which the Rockefeller Refuge was obtained and keep it in operation.

Rundown given on four Cameron parish schools

By ROBERT MANUEL

The four Cameron Parish high schools fielded 7 of 8 basketball teams in the 87-88 basketball playoffs last year. The year 1988 could be another banner year as all four schools are again fielding competitive teams in pre-district competition.

Last year's playoff teams were the Grand Lake boys and girls, the Hackberry boys and girls, the Johnson Bayou boys and girls and the South Cameron girls. The girls teams, with most of their players back, seem to have the best chance for a repeat playoff spot whereas the boys team losses through graduation was heaviest in most cases.

GRAND LAKE

The Grand Lake Hornets have a 5-10 pre-district record. Without the return of a good experienced ball handler or point guard, Coach Mike Thomas has had to rely on time to come up with the missing ingredient. That could end soon as Richard Faulk, a junior, is growing fast in filling that demand.

Thomas has a stable of players with good size and height that could jell in time for district competition. Returning starters are juniors Dale Mancuso, 6'2"; Eric Morgan, 6'; and senior Larry Broussard, 6'. Other returning lettermen and squadmen are Chad Primeaux, Kirk Fruge, Derrick Robideaux, Roy Pesson and Kevin Benoit. These players all get playing time during the heat of the contest. Other players not listed give added bench strength.

HACKBERRY

Graduation took a heavy toll on Coach Byron Gibbs 1987-88 playoff team. Six seniors departed, taking big chunks of playing experience with them. Gibbs has rallied his remaining force for a 7-9 pre-district record under the leadership of returning lettermen Clint Hewitt, Sheldon Frey, Layne Kyle, Alfred Devall and Johnny LaFleur.

The Mustangs have to rely on good fundamentals and sharp shooting, as the squad sorely lacks in height.

JOHNSON BAYOU

Coach Doug Welch retained but one starter from last year's playoff squad. Leading the Rebel effort is returning starter Scotty Sandifer and lettermen Donald Morris Sr., Berry Badon Sr., Layne Boudreaux Jr., and Paul Romero Jr. Sandifer is a 20 point plus performer and could get plenty of help as the season progresses.

SOUTH CAMERON

South Cameron's head basketball Coach Henry Griffin, has a tough district schedule ahead. As tough as the district is, the Tarpons should still be a better team this year, regardless of the win-loss outcome. Returning starters Walter Jones and Ronald January will have strong support from Chad Mudd, Dexter Fountain, Ricky Miller and a horde of other possible starters.

Next week: Girls basketball and the parish basketball tournament at Hackberry Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 14, 15 and 16.

Lady Rebels are winners

By ROBERT MANUEL

The Johnson Bayou Lady Rebels captured the team championship in their own invitational tournament. The sharp shooting Rebel Ladies humbled the Lady Tarpons 42-28 in the tournament finals. It was the first tournament title for the improving Lady Rebels this season.

Point guard Sonja Trahan burned the nets for a season high of 27 points. South Cameron's scoring was led by Tiffany LaSalle and Freeda Blackwell with 11 and 10 points respectively.

The South Cameron boys took a 72-48 win over the Port Neches-Groves sophomores. The Tarpon scoring was led by Ronald January with 20, Chad Mudd 19, and Dexter Fountain and Walter Jones with 14 and 12, respectively.

Class is set

Hackberry High School will offer an adult education class in Word Processing and Spreadsheet Applications, beginning Wednesday, Jan. 11, and continue each succeeding Wednesday for 40 hours of instruction. The tentative time set is 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Hours are told

The 1988-89 yearly hours for the Cameron Recreation District 6 have been announced.

From Dec. 1 to March 1, it will be closed every Tuesday and Thursday, March 1-Sept. 1, closed each Monday, and Sept. 1-Dec. 1, closed every Monday and Friday.

CONGRATULATIONS. . .

. . .To Thomas and Lisa Johnson on their upcoming trip to Singapore, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Indonesia. They will be leaving on Thursday, December 15 and returning on Sunday, January 1.

While there, they will visit with their father who now lives in Indonesia. We hope that ya'll have a good time and a safe trip back home.

This past weekend of Dec. 4, was the closing of the first half of the duck season. Many out of parish sportsmen were bringing in their hunting equipment such as pirogues, boats and decoys until next half beginning Dec. 26.

The turn out of sportsmen was not as large as the starting of hunting seasn due to the scarcity of ducks. Sportsmen stated the duck hunting didn't improve in our area but was worse the last weekend than the starting of the season. Many only bagged one or two ducks per hunt and many came out with zero.

One parish sportsman, who has a hunting lease here for eight years, stated that was the worst season he has ever witnessed.

Winter begins Dec. 21, and we've only had several cold snaps so far and a large white frost on Dec. 1, which let us know winter is only 13 days away. Residents are covering flowers and young plants and also bringing out sweaters and jackets.

With Christmas approaching many folks are decorating with lights in homes and yards. With the first week of decorations, others this week doing lots of decorating were the families of Walter Theriot, Jodi McCall, Buster McKoin, Dean Miller, Ken Nunez, Joe Clark, Mitchel Kelly, Tommy Fawvor, Chester and Leroy Dyson, Bill Kelley, Rudolph Swire, Larry Miller, Gilford Miller, Tommy Bonsall, Richard Sturlese, Eugene Jones, Danny Boudreaux, Mrs. Ronnie Theriot, and Crain Brothers office.

DO YOU REMEMBER?
Cameron's farm situation in 1920

By Keith Hambrick

(Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 10, 1920)
THE CAMERON PARISH SITUATION

Conflicting reports come to Lake Charles from Cameron Parish. About ten days ago the local Red Cross received a call from Paul D. O. Perkins, representative of the Louisiana Pink Bollworm Commission and former Calcasieu-Cameron demonstration agent, that part of the citizenship of Cameron Parish was in dire need, not so much in the way of food, but of clothing and fuel. The good people of Lake Charles responded to the call and a shipment was assembled to be distributed among the Cameron destitutes on Thanksgiving Day.

A number of local citizens interested in farming or in the commercial interests of Cameron, state the report is exaggerated and that the inhabitants of Cameron are in as good condition as that of Calcasieu, Cook County, Illinois or any other county in the United States. They state the fact that $300,000 worth of good roads are being built in Cameron Parish at this time and this indicates a non-famine condition there. Further, that but few of the farms are mortgaged and the population has had a number of good years and many have laid away funds for the lean years.

There is merit to both sides of the question. We know that the staple crop of Cameron, cotton, was not cultivated there this year by order of the department of agriculture. Last year Cameron produced 585 bales of cotton, some of which was long staple cotton and brought the Cameron citizens about $125,000.

This fall no cotton money has come into the parish. The farmers agreed to allow their land to lie idle to stamp out the bollworm pest and the state in turn agreed to compensate the farmers to the extent of about $20 per acre on the heretofore cultivated cotton lands that were to lie idle.

That money has not been received. Therefore the small farmer who depended on cotton to bring the money with which to buy clothing and fuel naturaly is disappointed and no doubt is without funds to buy the necessities required during the winter months.

It seems that some means could be devised to procure the money promised the Cameron farmers, and make the settlement that was agreed upon. The amount is small and the credit of the state is good.

(Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 12, 1924)
CAMERON PLANS FOR BIG COTTON CROP IN 1925

The 1925 cotton crop in Cameron Parish is expected to double this year's crop which already has proved a banner one. Although there is considerable cotton yet to be picked, plans are being pushed for next year's work.

A number of farmers have recently moved into the section between Grand Chenier and Leesburg, and practically all of them will engage in cotton growing. In preparing for increased acreage a group of cotton planters purchased a barge load of horses to be used in helping to put the new land in cultivation. Lumber for fences around the new fields is now being unloaded from several barges at Creole.

This year has been the most prosperous one so far, not only for the cotton farmers, but for the gins as well. The Nunez & Miller gin at Grand Chenier and the Creole gin have been working to their capacity during the present season and they still have some time yet to run as cotton is being sent in continuously.

Although larger warehouses in which to store the cotton were built this year, the storage space has proved too small and the erection of additional buildings is being planned for 1925. The Nunez & Miller gin, which is one of the most modern in this section, has a capacity of about 35 or 40 bales a day.

Cotton growing is not the only business that brings money to the people of Cameron, as the fur industry is probably the most important one in the parish. Despite the recent long drouth, the trapping season promises to be a good one. While the number of rats and other fur bearing animals caught this year is far less than the number captured at the same period in 1923, the prices are much better and are expected to practically counteract the decrease in the number of furs.

The increasing prosperity of this section is reflected in the number of new automobiles, new residences and enlarged water traffic. At a recent public gathering at Creole, there were more than one hundred autmobiles seen, denoting that the people of this isolated parish are not far behind the times as outsiders sometimes believe.

Along the road between Leesburg and Cameron new houses have been erected at various points. Adam Nunez has built a fine residence at Grand Chenier and has erected a number of outhouses which will probably be used in the raising of poultry on an extensive scale.

All boats plying to and from Cameron report good business. Miller & Sons, who inaugurated a line from Creole, through the Creole canal to Grand Chenier and then to Lake Arthur, about two months ago, found that their best was too small to handle the traffic and they were forced to put on a new and larger boat. With the steamer "Rex" leaving for Lake Charles every other day and returning on alternate days, and with the Nunez & Miller boat plying between Grand Chenier and Lake Arthur, people can leave Cameron Parish by boat every day in the week with the exception of Sunday.

The partly shelled road from Leesburg to Grand Chenier is in good condition and serves to bring the people of the parish into closer contact with each other. The road, which is about 34 miles long, is about two miles from the Gulf of Mexico.

The various Cameron schools are functioning smoothly and great improvement and progress in the parish educational system has been seen during the last several years. Practically every child of school age is reported to be attending school.

Louisiana 5th Annual FOLKLIFE F·E·S·T·I·V·A·L

Here are some scenes from the 1988 Louisiana Folklife Festival held this past October in Eunice, La., "The Prairie Cajun Capitol". This festival offered a wonderful learning experience for the entire family in which Louisiana's diverse cultural traditions were brought together by participants representing overlapping cultural groups: Cajun, Creole, Isleno, North Louisiana Anglo, Native American, Black, Hungarian, Italian, Vietnamese.

LOUISIANA RESIDENTS are renowned for their storytelling skills.

THE MARDI GRAS Indians of New Orleans, actual descendants from the original African tribes which were brought to New Orleans during slavery days. They are noted for preserving African "dress art" and musical heritage.

THE HACKBERRY RAMBLERS led by fiddler Luderin Darbonne. This Cajun band has been working continuously since 1933 and is a South Louisiana tradition.

Granger autobiography

The following excerpt is taken from the autobiography of the late Mr. P. H. Granger of Grand Lake. He wrote it between the years of 1947-1956. Later he sent it to my late brother, Archie S. Hollister, for revision and typing.

Archie left most of his phraseology as was written because he considered it quaint, charming, and most graphical. Mr. Granger's descendants may well be proud of one of Cameron Parish's great early settlers. He was born around 1873.

"I got up at 2:30 a.m. this morning, and when I got in (the) kitchen I heard a mouse in a basket of cob in the house. So I took the basket outside and called the cat. I had the flashlight. Believe me, the cat can catch a mouse just as fast as in daytime. You just let the poor mouse go; she don't go very far.

"Fifty year ago we had our mail from Lake Charles on horseback. One man made two trip a week to Lake Charles to get the mail. He had to go the long road -- 25 mile going and 25 mile coming back. Next we had a steamboat to carry the mail. Now we got a car. Next, it will be an airplane.

"One time one guy had a plane, and he ask one of his friend to take a ride with him. The other guy said, 'No. If it go wrong up in the air, then what will I do?' 'No danger, as long as God don't call your number.' 'Yes,' he said, 'but suppose God call your number. What will I do then?' "

"I got seven oak tree in my pasture for the sheep, but I will open the pasture for the cattle this summer. Believe me, they will be glad, and if people want some shade when it is hot, they have the pleasure to come under the oak. They was 54 year old. I plant them myself. This is a good place for picnics. It is 3/4 of a mile from Mr. Euzebe Hebert's fishing camp on the east side of Calcasieu Lake (at) Big Lake or Grand Lake.

"There is a good water well close to the big oak tree. It will be free if any (one) wanted to come in the shade. I always like company. I can play the violin, same tune they was playing 100 year ago. My old fiddle is 288 year old, the best I can get about his (its) age. My daddy was playing on that same fiddle when I was six year old. He sent it to New Orleans before I was born to have it repaired."

Applications due on contest

Applications for Miss Cameron Parish are due by Friday, Dec. 9.

Forms may be picked up at any Cameron parish high school or Mary's New Looks in Creole.

You can get lost in Athens easily

By JERRY WISE

Joy and I recently had the opportunity to join a tour group to visit Greece during the Thanksgiving holidays and since many of our readers have expressed an interest in seeing an account of our travels, here goes . . .

Sponsored by the Northeast University Alumni Association of Monroe, our group of about 35 persons was made up of a number of professors, attorneys, business people, teachers and "just ordinary folks" who jelled into a congenial traveling group.

We flew out of the Monroe airport on Saturday morning; laid over at the very busy Atlanta airport for five hours before boarding our Delta jet for the 10 hour flight to Frankfurt, Germany.

If there is anything more uncomfortable that being cramped up for 10 hours on a jet without being able to move around very much and to sleep, I don't know what it is. However, we survived it and got our first taste of Europe and cold weather when we landed at Frankfurt.

Although we didn't have time to see anything but the airport, it was a relief to be able to move around and to see multi-lingual speaking travelers in the huge airport and to visit the many fancy shops with their wide offerings of all types of expensive gifts.

But soon we were on another plane, this time a Greek Olympic plane, which made one stop at Thessaloniki in northern Greece where it appeared to be very cold, before we at long last came in sight of Athens.

That sight of the vast and ancient city from the air is one that will remain with me for a long time. The closest thing that I could compare it to would be one of the futuristic cities that you see in such movies as Star Wars.

It was immense--of the 6 million citizens of Greece, 4 million live in Athens. The buildings were a strange sight--almost all are three or four stories in height, of white masonry construction and with almost no trees evident from the air. It looked almost like a city that might be built on the moon or Mars.

And setting off that immense white city was the beautiful blue of the Aegean Sea. What a striking sight it all was.

On the ground there was our very attractive tour guide, Connie, to hustle us on through the Greek customs to our bus to take us to our hotel.

Since we arrived on Sunday, we had light traffic driving into the city, but we quickly learned the next day that Athens has some of the most crowded streets in the world. In fact there are so many cars, the city has instituted a policy of allowing cars whose license plates start with an even number in the downtown area one day and letting the odd number cars in the next day.

Also because of the light Sunday traffic, there wasn't much smog the day we arrived, but it came out in force the rest of the week. On some of the days it is impossible to see some of the mountains in the distance.

My impression of no trees proved to be not exactly right. In our drive to the hotel, we found that most of the streets are lined with small trees, many of them orange trees loaded with fruit, but there are no large trees except in certain areas of the city such as the royal gardens.

The three, four or five story buildings that we had seen from the air turned out to house stores and shops on the ground floor and apartments on the upper floors. (I made the half-accurate comment to someone--"Athen's four million people live in layers--one million on the second floor, one million on the third floor, etc.")

But the sight that soon captured our attention and which would be our landmark for the remainder of the week was that of the Acropolis, that fantastic group of ancient monuments that are set atop one of the highest hills in Athens and which can be seen from almost any stop in the city.

Acropolis means "high city" in Greek and such a fortified hill along with temples and monuments can be found in many places throughout Greece. But The Acropolis is the one that is found at Athens and which features the Parthenon, that ancient temple that is perhaps the best known structure in the entire world.

The Acropolis was only about four or five blocks from our hotel and proved to be the only thing that kept me and others of the party from getting completely lost in our wanderings.

After checking into the very pleasant Divani Zafolia Palace Hotel at about mid-morning, many of our group went to bed since we had been traveling for more than 20 hours without sleep and were suffering from jet lag.

However, I just had to see a little of Athens before turning in, so I took off from the hotel on foot and promptly got lost after turning the first corner. Athens, I found, is like many other ancient cities, and is not laid out in blocks. Its streets, instead, run off at every conceivable angle and if you think you can walk around the block and get back where you started you are doomed to get lost.

Wandering around lost for about 15 minutes (and not even remembering the name of the hotel so I could make inquiries) I looked up to see the Acropolis looming over me. I walked down the street to its foot and then down a block where I remembered the hotel's street began and was able to find myself back safely to the hotel and a much needed rest.

As stos not big pr em in schools

By JER...

The Cameron Parish School Board received some "good news, bad news" concerning asbestos in parish schools at its monthly meeting Monday.

The bad news, according to consultant Wynn White, was that asbestos was found in all of the schools. However, the good news was that most of the material was of the type that poses no hazard to anyone "unless you abuse it."

White, who had been hired by the board to inspect all of the school facilities for asbestos, said all obtained the material in some form or another--floor tile, insulation, roof deck, etc.

However, he said that unless most of the material was "sawed, sanded, bored, etc." it posed no threat and it was his recommendation that it be left in place until some remodeling project was needed.

He said that all of the school's sweepers and janitors have been given special training in how to deal with the materials and if any repair people are brought in they should be notified of the location of the materials.

White said that Hackberry high school contained much more asbestos than the other schools and noted that asbestos insulation on steam piping needed to be repaired. He said this could be done at a lower price by a school maintenance employee but also could be put out on contract.

The board decided to advertise for bids for doing the Hackberry work and also for replacing some connectors made of asbestos materials found on the furnaces at all of the schools.

The school board some years ago removed large quantities of asbestos insulation materials from all of the parish schools after it was learned that some asbestos posed a cancer threat. The new study was made after federal guidelines were adopted requiring all schools in the nation to inventory the asbestos in their facilities.

White assured the board that the asbestos remaining in the schools were no threat unless it was abused. He pointed out that asbestos can be found almost everywhere since it was a widely used building material up until a few years ago when its cancer causing properties were discovered.

MINERAL LEASE

The board accepted a mineral lease bid of $75 per acre and 25 percent royalties on 160 acres in School Section 16-15-6. The board's geologist, David Sturlese, advised taking the bid although he said it was low due to the fact there has been little oil activity in that area.

The board approved advertising for bids on a new chiller for the air-conditining system at Grand Lake high school.

It also approved resurfacing of the South Cameron high school track and repairs to the Johnson bayou track.

LUNCHROOM WORKER

Lois Murphy was hired as a new lunchroom worker at the Cameron Elementary School. There were 21 applicants for the job.

Insurance Agent Eddie Joe Conner reported to the board that there would be no rate increase on the Blue Cross Health Insurance program for parish school employees. He said this was good news since many insurance groups were experiencing increases of 30 to 40 percent.

NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM

Following the presentation by Bob Dewey on a proposal for new telephone equipment for the entire parish school system, the board voted to approve a lease-purchase agreement covering a six year period in which the board will purchase its own telephone equipment.

Dewey said the new system will not only provide the school system with a vastly improved telephone system, it will be at a savings of $226 a month to the board over the present leasing arrangement and will give the board full ownership of its equipment in six years.

He also said the new system will be capable of tying in the computers at each of the schools with the main computer at the school board office.

USED SCHOOL BUSES

The board voted to advertise three used school buses for sale. It also revised its surface lease policy to permit the advertising for the remaining time on a lease when it is dropped by a lessee.

It was announced that the board has received some federal grants to make energy studies at Grand Lake and Hackberry high schools.

RESOLUTION

The board adopted a resolution congratulating Robert Ortgego, Cameron parish assistant school superintendent, for receiving the Educator of the Year award from the Louisiana Association of School Executives recently.

Charles Hebert

Hebert is given $1000 scholarship

Grand Chenier resident Charles Herbert, 19, has received a $1000 educational scholarship for his work in the national 4-H beef program, according to Varnell Moore, president, Wrangler Jeans, and Robert Rebholtz, chairman of the Beef Industry Council on behalf of The Beef Board, which co-sponsor the program.

"Through his project work Charles is meeting some very exciting challenges in the beef industry today. We salute his outstanding efforts and are pleased to offer this scholarship," said Moore and Rebholtz in a joint statement.

Hebert was one of six 4-H'ers to receive national 4-H beef scholarships, courtesy of Wrangler Jeans and the Beef Industry Council on behalf of The Beef Board. The winners were selected by the Cooperative Extension System, and presented with their awards during the 67th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, December 3-8. Awards are arranged by National 4-H Council.

As part of his 4-H work Herbert owns and manages a herd of 56 registered and commercial beef animals worth more that $72,000. He helps younger 4-H'ers with livestock selection, management and showmanship skills.

Adult class is offered

Johnson Bayou High School will offer an adult education class on word processing and spread sheet application beginning Tuesday, Jan. 3 from 4-7 p.m. Classes will be each Tuesday thereafter until 40 hours of instruction is complete. Consideration will be given first to unemployed adults, followed by under employed adults. All interested persons should contact the school at 569-2138 for further information.

Benefit set for Logue

There will be a benefit for Thomas Logue, Sr. Sunday, Dec. 18 from noon to 5 p.m. at the VFW Post 2130 on Country Club Road. Proceeds will benefit Mr. Logue's medical bills. He is a heart patient.

A dance, raffle, cake walk, auction, gumbo dinner, etc. will be part of the fundraiser. The cover charge will be $3 per person and $5 per couple.

Formore information contact Agnes Hutchins.

Rates to rise

Due to increased printing and postal costs, the subscription rates for the Cameron Pilot will be increased effective Jan. 1.

The new rates will be $12.12 a year in Cameron and Calcasieu parishes; $15.15 a year elsewhere in Louisiana and Texas; and $25.25 a year elsewhere in the United States. (These rates include a 1 percent sales tax.)

Present subscribers, if they desire, may renew their subscriptions prior to Jan. 1 at the old rates of $10.10 in Cameron and Calcasieu; and $12.12 elsewhere in Louisiana and Texas; and $15.15 elsewhere in the United States.

Band concert

The South Cameron High School band will present their Christmas Concert in the new gym Thursday, Dec. 15 at 7 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Hospital improving

The South Cameron Memorial Hospital's problems are getting a little better, Hospital Administrator Joe Soileau told the Cameron parish police jurors at their December meeting.

Soileau said the patient daily count was now up to about 13, as compared to 1 to 3 patients a day a few months ago.

He said that since the passage of the recent amubulance tax, the hospital has been able to order two completely equipped ambulances, which are expected to go into service in January.

He said that the hospital now has eight patients in its swing bed program for the elderly and has begun an elderly care program which offers care for an elderly person for a day, a weekend or a week in order that their families can make trips or do other things.

Jury President, Kenneth Ducote, complimented Soileau and the hospital staff on their efforts and Juror Ray Conner said he had noticed some "big differences in the hospital lately."

Fifty brands were appliqued on the king size quilt and it was quilted by local club members.

Hackberry gets new telephone system

Cameron Telephone Company is bringing "Information Age" technology to Hackberry on Dec. 13. The central office in this community will be replaced with a modern digital computerized switching system.

The new digital computerized switching equipment will give the Hackberry area customers improved and expanded service.

All Cameron Telephone customers in the Hackberry area will be able to enjoy the benefits of optional service features such as Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling, Speed Calling, and Automatic Wake Up Service.

Several changes in telephone service will be noticed after December 13:

1. All seven digits will have to be dialed when making a local telephone call.

2. Dial tone, busy signal and ringing tones may sound different.

3. A touch tone line is required in order for push button phones to work. Some cuswtomers now have push button telephones that will not function after the change.

4. If a telephone receiver is left "off the hook", a recording will be heard which asks that the receiver be hung up. If after a short interval, the telephone receiver is not hung up, a tone will come on the line to attract your attention.

Ancient Greeks were no prudes!

(EDITOR'S NOTE--This is the second of several articles on a recent trip that the publisher and his wife made to Greece with an alumni group from Northeast University of Monroe.)

By JERRY WISE

Joy was puzzled by the large number of partly finished houses that we saw throughout Athens. Most of the buildings were several stories high and only had the concrete frame work completed. Near Cape Sounion, where the beautiful Temple of Poseidon is located, we saw a whole subdivision of these unfinished houses looking out over a lovely bay.

No one had a satisfactory explanation of these unfinished buildings. However, while reading a monthly investment newsletter that I receive, the mystery was cleared up.

"That's the way that Greeks invest their savings", the writer said. "No one leaves money in the bank because inflation robs it of value. As soon as a Greek builds up any savings, he buys a piece of land. When he gets some more, he has the frame poured. Greece being treeless, they build with concrete and cinder blocks, which are not damaged standing open to the weather for years. Eventually the house becomes fully livable and any further savings go toward another floor."

The buildings in Greece are very similar to those in other countries in that area--of all masonry construction and three or four stories in height, which helps to explain the horrendous loss of life in Armenia in the recent earthquake. Their stone and masonry buildings do not give like wooden buildings and are easily shaken down in a terrible rubble on the home occupants during a large earthquake.

(You may recall that the Hughes Lumber Company which put in a pole peeling plant in DeQuincy some months ago is shipping out shiploads of the timber to Turkey for construction purposes--perhaps to put up buildings that are not so susceptible to earthquakes.)

The second day after arriving in Athens, after having finally recovered from our jet lag, our group ate a hearty breakfast at our hotel, where we saw our first group of Japanese tourists. We quickly learned that Americans are outnumbered wherever you go in Greece (and the rest of the world as well) by the Japanese who seem to have plenty of time and money for travel. They all seemed to be in a hurry, fearful, I suppose, of missing something.

We boarded our bus and took off for a tour of the sights of Athens. Highlight of the day was our visit to the Acropolis, the rocky hill that soars over the center of Athens and on which is located the most beautiful of all buildings, the Parthenon. This famous temple along with a number of other structures on the mount were built in the 5th Century B. C. under the inspiration of Pericles and despite being in ruins, they demonstrate what the glories of early Greece were.

The Acropolis survived virtually intact until 1687 when it was blown up during a battle between the Greeks and the Turks. Today, a massive and extremely expensive restoration project is being carried on by a team of international experts trying to rebuild it to some of its former glory. They are going through the thousands of pieces of rock strewn around the slope, trying to piece it back together like a jigsaw puzzle. We were told they have been working on just one small section of the structure for the past eight years, so the completed work may take decades if not centuries.

War hasn't been the only force trying to destroy the Greek heritage--the corrosive fumes in the air from all of the automobiles is slowly but surely eating away at the marble. At one spot on the Parthenon is a portico that was formerly supported by the six statues of beautiful girls. The fumes have done so much damage to these statues that they have been removed and placed inside a museum with plaster copies replacing them on the outside.

We did not get to see up clore many of the famous pieces of sculpture that have been found over the centuries and preserved in such museums as the National Archelogical Museum. To see these beautiful pieces of art that were created over 2,000 years ago and which still surpass much of the art today is to realize that while the world has made vast progress in technology, there are some areas, such as art and philosophy, where we have never come up to the ancient Greek standards.

(One observation: the ancient Greeks were apparently a lot less prudish than we are today. All of their famous statues were done in the nude and did not leave any bodily details to the imagination. One of our male members of the party, somewhat of a humorist, whispered to one of our lady tourists, that perhaps she was too young to be seeing such displays.)

We also visited the National Palace where we got to see the Greek honor guard dressed in their famous tutus, tights and funny looking shoes walking their beats as if they were mechanical dolls.

Nearby we saw the National Gardens which were an oasis of green and trees in an otherwise almost treeless Athens. There were numerous stray cats throughout the gardens and in many places in the city. Apparently Greeks are fond of the cats and there is always someone around feeding them.

Returning to our hotel early that afternoon, many of our group strolled off to explore the Plaka, the ancient section of the city near the Acropolis that is made up of narrow streets and hundreds of small shops and restaurants. Somewhat similar to the New Orleans French Quarter, the Plaka is much prettier and nicer with none of the squalor and danger that is found in the French Quarter.

MUSING. . .

Take Time To...

By Bernice Denny

Sometime during the Christmas holidays, take time to savor the beauty that never can be packaged. Key your senses that each may be in tune with the wonder and the glory of this hallowed season.

See the radiance in a small child's eyes and the love that glows in the faces of his parents as they show him the wonderland of Santa and toys. See the gold beams shot from a starry sky or the silver needles of winter rain. See the mist-haloed Christmas lights along the main street of a town and the rainbow colors of window-framed trees within. See the devotion and peace on the countenances of the old couple helping each other down the church steps. In your mind's eye, see the halo above the Babe in the manger.

Sometime during Christmas, hear the melody of a child's laughter, the click of Grandmother's needle as she knits the last gift, and the muffled sounds from Grandfather's workshop as he finishes the little wagon. Hear the majestic swell of a church choir or the wafted harmony of carolers at the nursing home door. Close your eyes and hear the two thousand year old "Peace on earth, good will to men" as the shepherds heard of the angelic host.

Sometime during Christmas, sniff of bayberry and pine. Smell the fragrance of December roses, the tantalizing aroma of baking fruit cake and ginger cookies. Inhale the tangy scent of cranberries and oranges and the tantalizing odor of browning turkey. Breathe deeply of wind-swept fields and rain-washed air. In imagination take in the incense of myrrh and frankincence.

Sometime during Christmas taste the raisin pie and spicy tea, the oyster dressing and the steaming roast. Relish the crisp salad and the icy sherbet. But more than all, quaff deeply of the water of everlasting life.

Sometime during Christmas, feel the cold tingle of outside air, the warmth of an open fire. Feel the softness of a newborn babe, the gentleness of a woman's hand, the strength of a manly arm. If in trouble or heartbreak, sense the comfort of a friendly shoulder. Feel the brotherhood of humanity swirling around you in the holiday rush. Feel the love of God enfolding you in a warm embrace. Sense the presence of the infant King, the risen Saviour. Feel the true meaning and spirit of Christmas. Feel that life and death hold purpose because long ago God gave the world its greatest gift, his only begotten Son.

Sometime during the Christmas holidays, take time to absorb through every fiber of your being the blessings of our Creator and the real meaning of "For God so loved the world. . ".

Coast Guard do not police boat speed

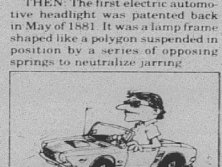
The U. S. Coast Guard has no authority to regulate the speed of vessels or the size of their wake, the Cameron parish police jury was informed at its December meeting by Commander Phil Wiczyski.

The Coast Guard had been asked to send a representative to meet with the jury concerning the damages being done by boats and docks in the Calcasieu river at Cameron by speeding boats.

Wiczyski said that local and state authorities do have power to regulate the speed of boats.

He noted that it was not so much the speed as the design of a boat that determined the size of the wake left by the vessel.

Concerning a question about the removal of sunken vessels, Wiczyski said that if such a vessel was a hazard to navigation it was the Corps of Engineers who had the authority to move them.



The commander suggested that the Eighth Coast Guard District might be able to assist the jury with the problems of wave wash and the jury voted to contact the district.

Headlights: On The Beam

These footnotes about the history of headlights may be enlightening.

THEN: The first electric automotive headlight was patented back in May of 1881. It was a lamp frame shaped like a polygon suspended in position by a series of opposing springs to neutralize jarring.

NOW: The first automotive headlamp to offer a lifetime warranty is the Wagner Halogen headlight. These are made to be 40 percent brighter and shine 200 feet further down the road than regular headlights. The lifetime warranty means that should one ever fail the company will replace it free, as long as you own your car.

Jury to name new member on dock board

The Cameron parish police jury is expected to name a new representative on the Lake Charles Harbor and Terminal District board of Commissioners possibly at its Janurary meeting.

Last week the jury received the resignation of Charles Terry Hebert from the commission following the filing of temporary charges against Hebert, 48, in connection with a double fatality auto accident in Lake Charles.

Two counts of vehicular homicide, driving while intoxicated and possession of marijuana were accepted by Calcasieu District Attorney Richard Ieyoub in connection with the accident in which two persons were killed when hit by Hebert's car on I-210.

In his letter to Police Jury President Kenneth Ducote on Dec. 8, Hebert stated: "I am not able to presently devote the time necessary to serve as the Cameron Parish commissioner."

Ducote said that Hebert "did a good job" during his brief service on the Dock Board.

"I don't think that he wants to involve the Dock Board or the Cameron Parish Police Jury in this tragic situation," said Ducote, "or cast a negative light on either body."

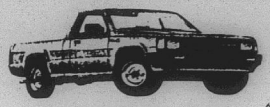
Earning base increased

The annual earnings base--the maximum amount of earnings that counts for Social Security--will increase to $48,000 for 1989, up from $45,000, the 1988 base, Bill Dixon, Social Security District Manager in Lake charles said recently.

The increase is based on the change in average earnings levels from 1987 to 1988.

The 1989 Social Security tax rate will be 7.51 percent, same as the rate for 1988.



Other Social Security figures are scheduled to increase in 1989 as well, Dixon said. The annual exempt amount used in the annual earnings test will increase. The annual earnings test is the measure used to determine whether a person who works will receive benefits during the year.

The 1989 annual exempt for people 65 and over will be $8,880 up from the 1988 amount of $8,400. The 1989 exempt amount for people under 65 in 1989 will increase to $6,480. The 1988 amount was $6,120.

A person whose earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount will receive all benefits due for the year. A person's benefit is reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount. The annual earnings test does not apply once a person reaches 70.

The amount of annual earnings needed to earn a quarter of coverage--the measure of Social Security work credit--will be $500 for 1989, up from $470 for 1988. In 1989, a worker will earn 4 quarters of coverage if his or her annual earnings are $2,000 or more.

"ECONOMIC SLOW"

1988 has really been slow for many Chenier folks.

Local folks who own land and farms here have depended on leasing land to oil companies, cattle farming and such. For many years one could ride the Grand Chenier highway and count eight to ten rigs drilling. In the past year, one may see one or two rigs drilling.

In the past several weeks a number of local residents have been laid off their jobs, which makes it bad both for Christmas time and for the coming year.

MILLER BABY

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Miller of Grand Chenier announce the birth of a son, Larry Brent, Jr., Dec. 7 at St. Patrick's Hospital, weighing 10 lbs., 10 ozs.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Miller of Grand Chenier and Mr. and Mrs. Everette Miller of Creole. Great great grandparents are Mrs. Eve Landry of Creole and Mrs. Ruth Miller of Houma.

More folks have put up their Christmas trees and outdoor decorations. Those who put theirs up this past week were, the Gerald Bonsalls, the Carl Broussards, the Dallas Broussaeuxs, the Jeffery Richards, the Pat Dolands, the Prevate Millers, the Paul Coreils, the Phillip Trosclairs, the Richard Caniks, the George Heards, Mrs. Nina LeBleu, the Whitney Baccigalopis and Billy Doland.

Letters

(EDITOR'S NOTE--Clayton T. Nunez Sr. of Sugartown asked the Pilot to reprint this letter to the Cameron VFW post.)

Mr. Oscar Reyes, Commander
VFW Doxey Vincent Post 10019
Cameron, LA 70631

Dear Sir,

I am not renewing my membership in the VFW for the following reason. On July 24 I needed a wheelchair for my son Tommy Nunez also a veteran and was refused because he was in a hospital in Houston, Texas.

As a veteran who spent time in the service of my country and as a charter and active member of the VFW I find this a degrading blow to me and my son. Everyone in Cameron parish surely knows that Tommy and I could be trusted to take care and return a wheelchair. If trust could be put in both my self and Tommy to defend our country surely we could be trusted with such a small item as a wheelchair.

I bought a wheelchair for Tommy and am glad that I did all I could for him. On Dec. 3 Tommy Nunez passed away. I do not plan on returning to the VFW membership, but perhaps this letter will aid you in more closely working with other veterans, and not give them this type of treatment. I would appreciate that this letter and my resignation be entered into the minutes of your meeting. Copies of this letter will be sent to higher VFW Officials because we feel our treatment was most cruel and unjust.

How to keep from putting on extra lbs.

What can I do to help prevent my annual weight gain during the upcoming holiday season? Do you have any tips to help someone who has little will power?

For some, the holiday season of food and parties means a gain of an extra ten pounds. Debbie Kern, a registered dietitian at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans, says that a lot of people eat because of emotions -- either they have negative feelings about the holidays because of stress, or they are excited and happy. It is important, she says, to know why your eating habits may be different during the holiday season.

Choose the foods which are your favorites and allow your self to eat those foods, but in small portions. The most important thing is to enjoy the holidays and not feel deprived. Before a party, eat something at home so you may not be as tempted to eat the hors d'oeuvres.

Remember to ask yourself why you are going to the party. Make sure you go to socialize with the guests rather than focus on the food table. Avoid the "I'm on a diet" response to the hostess when turning down food. Sometimes a persistent hostess can persuade you to eat it anyway, so just tell yourself you really don't want it and just say so, or say that you're too full.

Stay away from fried foods and cheeses at office or cocktail parties. Both types of food have high fat content, which add calories even if they are eaten in small quantities.

Alcoholic beverages are also high in calories, so when drinking spirits, choose lite beers or dry wines as they have the least amount of calories. Kern suggests alternating the alcoholic drink with a non-alcoholic one, such as fruit juice, club soda or mineral water.

DO YOU REMEMBER? By Keith Hambrick

Cameron Parish in 1922?

Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 15, 1922

STILL IN U.S.A.

Cameron, owing to its isolated position, without electric lights, telegraph or telephone connections, or even a road leading from it, makes some startling impressions on strangers. Not so long ago a party of northern folks were going down to Cameron to take their first peep at the Gulf of Mexico. On the boat they were told about the sort of country they would find, but with it all there were good people down there and they would see a section of the richest soil in the United States.

The long ride over Big Lake, then the slow drag through the shallow channel at the jetties ad then the flat barren country next encountered, with only a few head of cattle dotted about over the marshes, began to settle on the visitors' nerves.

Not many people know this, but Uncle Sam keeps a customs house officer in Cameron. He flies his flag during the day the same as all other ports. When the Rex landed, the Stars and Stripes, waving in the air at the top of a tall pole, was the first thing some of those Yankees saw.

"Thank God!" one sighed, pointing to old glory, "We are still in the United States." (From Gulf Breezes by David H. Levingston)

CAMERON MAY GET HIGHWAY

Cameron Parish, the only one in the state without a graveled road, is in a fair way, it is said, to get a state highway to connect the highlands of the gulf coast, near Cameron, to the improved highway of Calcasieu Parish.

Locating Engineer Nicholson of the state highway department has reached Lake Charles to make a survey of the proper route. Two routes have been discussed, the eastern and western routes, and both of these will be surveyed and the findings of the engineers submitted to Cameron people through their police jury for consideration. The highway commission will put up its maximum amount permitted by law on this project, but inasmuch as the assessment of Cameron is very low it may be necessary to secure outside help, it is reported.

LAKESIDE

Dec. 8.--The Lakeside rice crop has passed into history. On account of the bad weather only about half a crop was the result.

Gardens are doing fine and cabbage planting is being done more extensively than ever, but still not near enough. If an acreage were planted and a beginning made toward commercial vegetable growing, these farmers would get the surprise of their lives.

Mrs. Teto Lacomb had her little boy baptized Saturday.

The ducks have completely deserted this section of the country and almost none are to be seen.

Ulyses Benoit will continue at Lakeside and there will probably be very few changes the coming year.

Now is the time to get ready to put in a bumper crop of Irish potatoes. Abraham Broussard is taking up his fall crop and considers that he had made quite a good yield.

Concern expressed on Rockefeller's future

By LOSTON MCEVERS

ROCKEFELLER REFUGE'S FUTURE

There is lots of concern around Cameron Parish for the future of Rockefeller Refuge. We all heard about the layoffs in the Wildlife Departments, but how many programs will be lost that are the livelihood and income to Cameron Parish and the state of Louisiana.

One of the programs to be eliminated on January 2, 1989, is a waterfowl biologist position. If this position is dropped, there will be a great impact on Louisiana Waterfowl Conservation Management and Research. With the all time lows in duck population this year, what will happen here in south Louisiana to the management of our Louisiana economically valuable waterfowl resources? Any reductions of this program at Rockefeller Refuge will have a negative impact on these resources of our coastal Louisiana.

I think Rockefeller Refuge provides a valuable service to the people of Louisiana.

What's the next program to be eliminated, the fisheries department or the alligator research? We all know how well the study and stocking of game fish, commercial fish and other species has worked, very good. Now what about the great job done and still being done for the alligator, which brings Louisiana a great deal of monies. Do we just throw away 25 years of hard, honest work, just because some upper class people with authority want to?

I just don't see how the people of Louisiana and Cameron Parish can take this sitting down. It's time we stand up. Get in touch with Commissioner Norman McCall in Cameron; Representative Randy Roach and Senator Jack Doland of Lake Charles. Get in touch with Virginia VanSickle, secretary of Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries and Bob Misco, assistant secretary of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries. Bob Misco w is raised in Bossier City, educated at Louisiana Tech, La. State University and Texas A & M. He has worked 3 years with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and 15 years with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. He is here serving at the pleasure of the governor, who is also from North Louisiana. He is loaned out to Louisiana for 48 months beginning April 18, 1988. He must return to the Fish and Game Service at the end of 4 years or resign at that time.

He is better known as "Federal Bob", a nickname. he 's here to pay more attention to field activities, but if he cuts them out, what good is that going to do. He is for conservation, true, but why cut out the waterfowl program, since that's why Rockefeller Refuge was donated to the state in the first place, for a sanctuary for migrating waterfowl.

Now for the monies. Rockefeller received $4.4 million last year from revenues, plus $1.2 million in interest on a $20 million trust, which equals $5.6 million. Rockefeller's budget was $1.5 million, so there was over 4 million dollars left, so I still don't see why Rockefeller should lose any personnel.

Now, here's where some of Rockefeller refuge's money is going, to the other Fur and Refuge Divisions in Salvador, Pass A Loute, Point Au Cher, St. Tammany's Refuge, State Wildlife, to a maintenance crew which travels and does work for other refuges, to the Chief of Refuges, the Assistant Chief of Refuges, to Virginia VanSickle, our Secretary of Wildlife and Fisheries, $52,366.00; to Bob Misco, who is under Virginia VanSickle as an assistant secretary, $48,000 from the state and $12,000 from the Federal Government, which totals $60,000. What about the $8 million that came from Rockefeller Refuge for the new administrative building in Baton Rouge.

I think the people of Cameron, Vermilion and Calcasieu, with the other parishes of the state, would speak up. We've seen our oil and gas industry go down, are we going to let something else that has been helping both commerical and recreational people out go down the drain also?

I cannot in good sense see 84,000 acres of land left to Louisiana to be used for conservation of wildlife and a stop-over for waterfowl get cut out, especially knocking out a waterfowl biologist that takes care of this chore. Speak out and let your self be heard--we do have that right.

As best as I can understand the Finfish Division for the state was not touched by these layoffs and I'm very happy, but I don't think Rockefeller Refuge should be touched in these layoffs either.

I also understand that the Fish Biologist may be cut out in July 1989 at Rockefeller. If that should happen, we would lose the Fish Biologist plus three other personnel working under him.

I also understand there would be no more Refuge Division, but combined to be under the Office of Wildlife. I guess with the monies coming from Rockefeller Refuge and Marsh Island Refuge, it would be nice to run all of these combined, using these two refuge's money.

What's in store for Rockefeller, if you keep cutting personnel and funds, will it stay in operation or just let the grass grow and continue losing our coastline to the Gulf of Mexico and let saltwater take over the entire refuge.

I am not writing this article to be ugly or point the finger at any one person, but I think these matters should be made public and see what can be done to stop this before we lose something special and close to our hearts here in Cameron Parish.

WETLAND: FIRST DEPOSIT

The new Louisiana Duck Stamp Fund, a program created by the 1988 Louisiana Legislature to provide funds for wetlands preservation in Louisiana has officially received its first deposit.

The first deposit of $2,250 came from $50 entrance fees required by 45 participants in the recent competition.

The first year of the new state duck stamp is expected to reach $1 million, which will be used for wetland projects. The reason a projected $1 million the first year is because collectors will want the "first-of-state" stamps and prints.

BOW HUNTING

A St. Martin Parish resident was slapped with a 10 day jail term, a fine totaling $1900 and other penalties after he used an illegal rifle to shoot a deer during bow season.

A .22 caliber rimfire rifle was used to kill a deer. the smallest cartridge allowed for deer hunting is a .22 caliber centerfire rifle.

ASK OCHSNER

Should children be immunized to protect them from getting the flu?

Flu epidemics typically occur in winter; so November is the best time for children to get the influenza vaccine, suggests Dr. Lois Gesn, pediatrician at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge.

Children at high risk should definitely be immunized; that group would include any chronically debilitated children, such as those with heart disease or cystic fibrosis, as well as children who have no spleen and children who are on long-term aspirin therapy.

Immunization is also strongly recommended for children at moderate risk--those with diabetes, kidney disease, or sickle cell anemia and those who immune system is suppressed (because, for example, they are on chemotherapy).

"The flu vaccine is made with egg protein; so children who are allergic to eggs should not receive it," Gesn cautions. Children under six months old should not be immunized, but "it is safe for pregnant women to take it."

If your child does get the flu, the best treatment is supportive care, Gesn explains: Tylenol for the fever, aches and pains; increased water intake; rest; a decongestant if the child is coughing and congested; and a clear liquid diet if he is vomiting or has diarrhea.

"Usually the severe illness will last five to seven days," she says, "and for perhaps a week afterward the child will still seem fatigued and not quite himself."

Dr. Gesn strongly discourages giving aspirin to children or adolescents with symptoms of the flu because of the danger of Reye's syndrome. Though the cause of Reye's syndrome is unknown, it usually follows a viral infection, such as the flu or chicken pox, and causes swelling of the brain cells, convulsions, disorientation, vomiting and headaches. It can be fatal.

The Lights of Christmas

NOW!

Trimming The Great Outdoors

It's time to deck the halls—but don't forget the porch and front yard as well! More and more people are showing their Christmas spirit to the whole community by decorating the outside of their homes and property.

Ride down Anystreet, U.S.A. this holiday season and you're bound to see homes gaily decorated with outdoor white lights, blinking strings of colored lights and colorful illuminated figures representing reindeer, Santa Claus and nativity scenes. Many people even decorate the trees in their yards, especially if they're evergreens.

Especially popular with many homeowners this year: wire-framed, weather-resistant illuminated figures that create a silhouette-effect. The figures can be viewed from a large lawn, outlined in miniature lights.

Chad Mudd

Chad Mudd All-State selection

Chad Mudd of South Cameron was named to the class A All-State football team selected buy the Louisiana Sports Writers Association. He was named as one of the defensive backs.

Mudd, South Cameron's quarterback, helped the Tarpons to a 7-3 finish and the District 8-A title. He totalled 59 tackles, seven interceptions with two going for touchdowns and recovered three fumbles on a squad that allowed 195 yards and 12.8 points a game.

Mudd named All-Around at Sulphur

Chad Mudd of Cameron was named All Around Cowboy of the Sulphur High School rodeo. He placed first in boys cutting and third in calf roping.

South Cameron won the team trophy.

Those representing South Cameron were Carlotta LaBove, second in girls cutting and third in pole bending; Ken Mudd, who teamed up with Jason Trahan of Sulphur in team roping, placed first.

Members of the Hackberry Rodeo Club who placed were Thad Little, saddle bronc, first, team roping, fifth, steer wrestling, seventh; Shane LeBlanc, bareback, first and bull riding, fifth; Brandon Devall, team roping, third; James Boudreaux, bareback, third; Missy Ewing, pole bending, fourth; Tanya Toups, pole bending, tenth.

Shrimping season has ended here

The shrimp season in all three zones of the state's inshore waters closed at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, it was announced by the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

In offshore territorial waters, LDWF said, shrimping will continue until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 31.

At that time it will close in all three offshore zones except for the area from Bayou Fontanelle (Empire Ship Channel) to Caminada Pass where the closure will be for that portion of Louisiana's offshore territorial waters in Shrimp Management Zone 2 from the inside-outside shrimp line seaward for three miles.

Rockefeller Refuge will remain open

(From American Press)

Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge will lose three employees, but will remain open as a research and oepr ational facility, it was announced following a meeting in Lake charles between area legislators and the head of the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Ted Joanen, chief biologist at Rockefeller, said the effectiveness of programs at the facility will be greatly reduced because the three most recent layoffs follow the loss of four other employees during the past 12 months and the loss of a computer operator who was "bumped" by a terminated worker from New Iberia with more Civil Service time.

Sen. Jack Doland said Wednesday's meeting was requested by area legislators to clarify the impact on Rockefeller of a decision to eliminate as many as 160 employees of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Doland said Virginia VanSickle, secretary of Wwildlife and Fisheries, told the legislators that the workforce at Rockefeller would be reduced by three persons.

Joanen identified the three as waterfowl biologist Tom Hess, who has been at Rockefeller about 18 months, a skilled carpenter and a tugboat operator.

VanSickle said that all other Rockefeller employees would remain in place and the facility would continue to operate in all of it present functions, Doland said.

Cameron Parish police jurors had been told last week that there were rumors that Rockefeller would be closed, Doland said, "That's absolutely not right."

Present at Wednesday's meeting with VanSickle were Doland, Rep. Randy Roach, Rep. Vic Stelly, former representative Conway LeBleu of Cameron and Wildlife and Fisheries accountant Bessie Baker.

LeBleu provided background and a report on current activities at Rockefeller. VanSickle and Baker detailed the economic problems leading to a decision to cut the 160 employees from Wildlife and Fisheries.

Income from minerals at Rockefeller has dropped from $15 million in 1983 to $4 million this year because of plummeting oil prices, Doland said. That money, along with various fees, provides funds to operate Wildlife and Fisheries. Dwindling funds brought the latest round of terminations.

"We were told that it would be unfair to exclude Rockefeller because reductions were being made all over the state. the end result is that Rockefeller loses one biologist and two other workers."

Last year, the Rockefeller staff included five biologists, about 20 support workers and three field agents. With the most recent cut, the staff has now been reduced by eight persons, Joanen said.

LITTLE MR. AND MISS Grand Chenier Elementary, Casi Cherami Pinch and Bubba Richard, were crowned Dec. 15, at the Grand Chenier school. Casi is the daughter of Bobby and Norma Jo Pinch and Bubba is the son of Armand and Denise Richard. They will represent their school in the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival.

Security exercise set

The West Hackberry site of the U. S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) will participate with various law enforcement agencies in conducting a security exercise designed to test security systems in a realistic manner.

Residents of the area near the site may notice official vehicles and personnel operating as if an actual emergency exits. There may also be blank ammunition fired and simulated demolitions may be heard.

SPR officials emphasize that this is an exercise and no real emergency is taking place. No date, time or specific details of the exercise were released so that the full effect of the exercise can be measured, officials said.

Early Christmases on the Chenier

By BERNICE DENNY

The Christmases of my childhood on the Chenier remain vivid memories. The observance of the holiday season then, as now, was quite similar to that of the nation as a whole; yet, there were phases of it unique to Cameron alone.

Because of the isolated position of the parish, nearby all of the shopping for gifts was done through mailorder catalogs. True, a few Cameron people traveled on the Rex from Cameron to Lake Charles or on the gasoline launches in the Mermentau from Grand Chenier to Lake Arthur to shop. The majority of the population patronized Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward since local stores carried limited stock.

Jim Bonsall, the mail carrier from Cameron to Grand Chenier for many, many years, was one of the most faithful assistants that St. Nicholas ever had. He transported mail over miry roads if at all possible.

SANTA'S DELAY

One Christmas morning we raced to our stockings to find fruit, candy, and two silver dollars in each, along with a note explaining that the roads had become impassable and that as soon as they were better Santa would bring our other gifts. We could not understand why bad roads should deter a sleigh drawn by flying reindeer. Our mother explained that it required more energy to fly than to travel on land and that every now and then Santa's deer had to pull the sleigh over the ground. Then, how had Santa reached our house to write the note?

It was fairly easy to fly lightly, came the answer. We were satisfied. A couple of nights later the loaded sleigh must have arrived for we found a wealth of gifts at dawn.

On Christmas Eve our grandfather solved the problem of no chimney for Santa to come down by taking out a window screen so that he might lift the window and enter. It stood to reason that the good saint could never have walked prosaically through an open door.

The children of my great-aunt and her husband, Jane and John Eagleson, usually spent Christmas during my earlier childhood with us. My first recollection is of mother and Cousin Lela writing each person's name on a box(since my grandfather ran a one-room department store there were plenty of boxes) and setting them around the living room.

Later when my brother and I were the only children in the home, we hung out our long black, ribbed stockings. Once my brother suggested using Mother's hose since they were larger, but Grandmother vetoed that idea by giving us a small lesson in that Christmas was for giving and not for grabbing.

DECORATION

Decorating for the holiday season was elaboraely done. Holly and mistletoe, red haw berries and greenery were brought in from the woods to be used in every room in the house. For days we children strung haw berries and plump white popped kernels of corn alternately or one of a kind into garlands to be looped along walls across curtains or on the tree.

Cutting the tree and decorating it was a momentous occasion. On Christmas Eve morning my grandfather rode horseback to the woods to procure the shapliest and greenest oak of a suitable size. As

Welch is elected registrar in 1921

CAMERON PARISH NEWS

The police jury, at a recent special session, elected A. P. Welch registrar of voters for Cameron Parish. D. Y. Doland and Judge Adolph Bruckert were also candidates.

Dr. Medkiff made a splendid talk to the police jury, outlining the future tick eradication program. He spoke of the lack of cooperation with a few parties from the Lowry section and recommended a man be placed there to inspect and keep in touch with the situation. Lowry will probably be the only part of Cameron required to dip next year. All inspectors from the fourth ward were released.

Due to cattle coming in from Texas and other points and in order to prevent a reappearance of the tick on Johnson Bayou, Dr. Flowers recommended that an inspector be placed there until January, stating that his office would pay one-half the inspector's salary. Dr. Medkiff stated that the federal inspector near the Texas-Louisiana boundary line had offered his co-operation in seeing that no infested cattle came across the line.

The sixth ward was cleaned up, but an inspector will be kept on the job in order to prevent infested cattle from other sections entering that locality. All of the third ward, second ward and most of the first ward have been free for two years. Dr. Medkiff has done his work well and, as far as is known, there has been no criticism made against him from this section. A great deal depends on the chief inspector in work of this kind, and there is no doubt that Dr. Medkiff possesss all that is required.

S. J. Snider, representing William Cooper & Nephews, from whom Cameron has been supplied with dip for cattle, came before the jury, thanking it for the splendid business and especially their promptness in meeting their payments when due.

The police jury within the next few weeks will call an election in the fourth ward, Grand Lake, as to whether or not a hog law is desired by the majority of the people living there. From petitions presented to the jury, the residents seem to be about equally divided on the question of a hog law.

CHRISTMASES

soon as my brother was old enough to handle a horse, he accompanied him. Once I rode along too, quite flattered at having been invited.

THE TREE

The tree was always set up in the northeast corner of the big southeast room. An oak was chosen because no other suitable evergreen grew on the Chenier. Ornamented with the haw and popcorn strings or with red and green roping and silver tinsel, brightened with baubles purchased or homemade,the oak was as beautiful as any fir or pine of today.

Since there was no electricity in the parish, candles in metal holders sputtered and flared on the tree for a few nights. As the foliage grew drier, it became too hazardous to light the tapers.

After dark on Christmas Eve the family gathered about the tree. Grandfather read the Christmas story from the Bible, usually from the gospel of St. Luke and led in prayer. We sang carols. The gifts piled under the tree were opened. Later, we children hung our stockings in the living room for Santa to fill. Milk and cake were placed on a table for his repast. A note of thanks for what we expected to receive was propped beside the food.

Our tree was always taken down on New Year's Day and hauled away with almost as much ceremony as had been used in putting it up.

CHRISTMAS BAKING

During the week prior to Christmas my grandmother and mother scoured and shined, waxed and polished the house from top to bottom. They baked from dawn till long after dark. I can still see the tall round cakes of five or six layers iced to perfect smoothness; the big square devil's food, lush with carmel frosting, the pecan cake, my grandfather's favorite, standing proudly on its crystal stand; the white coconut that was labeled mine since my birthday falls three days after Christmas. The pounds and pounds of fruit cake had been made and packed away weeks earlier.

I can see the raisin and mince meat pies, the lemon and butter. I recall my fascination as I watched the tiny ruby beads form on the meringue of the butter pies and wished that I might lift them out and keep them as real gems.

BUTCHERING

A pig was usually butchered a few days before Christmas in order to insure a big juicy pork roast on that day. Whether it was due to the oven of the old wood stove, to my grandmother's baking technique, or to a combination of the two, for me there has never been a roast so mouth-watering as that.

The two-year-old gobbler was dressed and drawn on Christmas Eve afternoon to be slid into the oven long before daylight the next morning so that it might bake slowly with frequent bastings in its own juice. Oysters direct from reefs in the gulf were shucked and prepared.

Dressings and salads were made; vegetables cooked; fresh rolls baked; jellies and preserves, cucumber and fruit pickles opened. With the juice of the wild muscadine, from our own woods and canned by Mother the summer before, as a base, punch was made.

"CHRISTMAS GIFT"

All through the day uncles and aunts, cousins and friends came by to drink coffee and eat cake, to catch the unaware with a joyous "Christmas gift!" and to admire all presents that had been received by members of the household. The young were overwhelmed that the great day had finally arrived. The old were heard to remark again and again how grateful they were that God had brought them safely through another year. Peace and joy seemed everywhere.

Each year the school presented a program on the last day before the holidays commenced. On it teachers and pupils had practiced weeks. Often, elaborate costumes had been made. The diversified entertainment included songs, plays, recitations, drills, and tableaux. It was the goal of the instructors to include every child in the program.

An immense oak had been set up in the auditorium. Once Santa's beard caught fire from the lighted candles as he leaned over to pick up a gift. His eyebrows and lashes were zipped off and he was slightly burned. Everyone was horrified at the near tragedy. From that season on candles were barred from school trees as a safety measure.

MISTLETOE

Mistletoe was always hung in school hallways. Teenaged girls, pretending unawareness coquettishly paused beneath it while teen-aged boys threatened to be daring enough to kiss them. Then there followed giggling and scuffling and running away.

The Christmases of the past have all run away too; are all huddled in the niches of memory. They wait, like shy children, to be coaxed forth; waver briefly in the foreground of our thoughts; then elude us once more.

Enjoy the Christmas of this year. Hold to its true meaning. Savor its wealth of loving and giving. Share its warmth and glory. For, the day after it, too, will have fled to join its kindred - the Christmases of years gone by.

Letters to Editor

Thanks from foster parents

Dear Sir:

On behalf of all of the foster parents and foster children of Calcasieu and Cameron Parishes, we would like to thank the citizens and businesses of Cameron Parish for their generosity in helping to make this year's foster children's Christmas Party such a tremendous success.

It is reassuring to know that people really do care about the childen of our area and are willing to give of themselves to help plan activities for these children.

Foster care children are very special people to us and we thank you for your generosity in helping us make things a little better for them.

We would like to take this opportunity to wish each one of you a happy holiday season and again say thank you for sharing with our foster care children.

Thanks for donations

Dear Editor:

It was a complete success. The Concerned Christians of Cameron's effort to provide a Christmas for less fortunate people of the Cameron area has exceeded the expectations, due to the generosity of Cameron Parish Citizens.

The Cameron State Bank has provided the space for the tree, which Concerned Christians of Cameron offer their heartfelt appreciation.

Thrifty Way, Cameron Food Market, Savers, Picou's Kajon, and Foreman's have each provided a drop off point for donations of food, which deserves a big thank you.

Largely the success is due to the people who have given abundantly. May your Christmas be as joyous as the ones you've made possible for the children.

How do you get to Sweet 16?

By ROBERT MANUEL

How does a girls basketball team from Cameron Parish get to play in the State Sweet Sixteen tournament? The only sure way is to simply outscore your district, bi-district, regional and quarter-final opponents.

The switching of the state site from Lake Charles to the Alexandria Dome could be the ice breaker. The Lady Mustangs were denied a passport three consecutive years, Grand Lake twice and South Cameron in last year's playoffs. A change of site could provide a fresh outlook for all four teams.

Grand Lake and Johnson Bayou in Class C division are in the same district with Hyatt and Reeves. Grand Lake has a good chance to repeat as district champs with all starters and squadmen back. Johnson Bayou with three starters back, could wedge in for a playoff spot.

Both teams are led by experienced and capable pairs. Kay Lynn Breaux, a 5 year point guard for the Lady Hornets, joins two other senior starters, Rachel Manuel and Rhonda Verzwyvelt. All three seniors were all-district selections their junior year. In addition, Rhonda Verzwyvelt capped the all-star squad.

Rounding out the returning starters are all-district honorable mention Amy LeBoeuf, a junior and sophomore inside shooter Jodi Montgomery. Interim coach, Assistant Principal Jim Melancon, in replacing on leave, Lady Hornet Coach Donald Caldwell, is trying to rebuild a confidence that was shattered in last year's quarter-final loss to Fenton. The team could reach its potential by the time the district games begin Jan. 12.

Coach Eddie Mechalko's Lady Mustangs at Hackberry are presently 19-2 with 3 tournament titles and two runner-ups in five tournaments. If ever there ws a coach and team that qualified for the right to crash the Sweet Sixteen pearly gates, then it has to be Michalko and the Lady Mustangs. In three successive seasons, the Lady Mustangs were stopped short of reaching the Sweet Sixteen by a 1 or 2 point margin.

If ever there ws a coach and team that qualified for the right to crash the Sweet Sixteen pearly gates, then it has to be Michalko and the Lady Mustangs. In three successive seasons, the Lady Mustangs were stopped short of reaching the Sweet Sixteen by a 1 or 2 point margin.

Gone are the Blanchard girls, Kelly, Tobie and Melanie. All were primary contributors to the string of district championships at the school. Still the program is going strong with the home grown product ready for another try at reaching the Sweet Sixteen tournament.

Like Grand Lake, the Lady Mustangs will field the most maturity of recent years with three seniors, three time all-state Monise Seay, D. D. Abshire and Marcie Duhon. Duhon, having recovered from a severe knee operation, splits time with starter Tara Sanders, a junior. Rounding out the starting five are sophomores Tiffany Kyle and Tiffany Seay. Kyle leads the Lady Mustangs attack as point guard, while Seay provides strong rebounding and inside and outside scoring. Monise Seay leads the team in rebounding and inside and outside shooting. The Mustangs are in Class B competition.

Johnson Bayou girls Coach Danny Trahan is suppose to be in a rebuilding year but indications are that they can still play ball. The Lady Rebels return three juniors, three year point guard Sonja Trahan and forwards Tiffany Romero and Betsy Koppie. One sophomore, April Trahan, and one freshman, Stephanie Vining, round out the Lady Rebel attack. The young improving team is measuring up well enough to be in contention for a playoff slot again.

Rounding out the starting five are point guard D'Juana Nunez and senior Belinda Hardie. Splitting time with the starters is Patricia Henke, also a senior. Chris Rutherford and Buffie Guthrie were seniors on last year's squad.

The Lady Tarpons are trying to grow into respectibility in time for district play beginning Jan. 6. Interim coach Eddie Benoit lacks a seasoned ball handler and depth in experience in his large squad to be an early contender in pre-season games.

Hackberry champions

By ROBERT MANUEL

The Hackberry boys and girls captured both titles in the annual Cameron State Bank parish basketball tournament.

The Mustangs won their third consecutive parish title, outscoring Grand Lake 48-47. Using constant pressure and ball-hawking tactics, the Mustangs kept a 5 point cushion throughout most of the contest. The Mustangs inability to put away the resurging Hornets resulted in a last minute scoring spurt by the Hornets that gave them a 47-46 lead with 22 seconds showing on the clock and with the ball in their hands, but the Mustangs picked off a deflected pass for the victory shot by freshman Layne Kyle. Two back to back free throws by Richard Faulk and two layups by Roy Pesson had given the Hornets their 47-46 lead.

The Hackberry Lady Mustangs regained the parish title from last year's winner Grand Lake, with a 46-32 convincing victory. The Lady Hornets kept pace with the intensity of the Lady Mustang play for three quarters leading 30-27 at the end of the third quarter.

The fourth quarter was all Hackberry's as they outran and outgunned Grand Lake 19-2 to take the title going away.

The Lady Mustangs capped their fourth tournament title and two runner-ups in six starts, while Grand Lake has one tournament title, one runner-up, one third and one consolation victory in four tournament entries. Hackberry is 22-2 and Grand Lake is 15-6. Both teams will do very well in their respective classification.

In third place finals, South Cameron outscored Johnson Bayou 65-54 and 46-31 respectively, in boys and girls play.

Hackberry 4-H

The Hackberry Senior 4-H Club held its meeting Dec. 12.

Ronnie Kershaw reported on the 4-H dance and Cecilia Walther gave a report on her recent trip to the 4-H Club Congress..

Mrs. Walther discussed Louisiana Arbor Day in January and the possible plans to plant a tree on the school yard with the approval from the principal. Mrs. Walther also said it was time to get in donations for the Christmas baskets.

The officers led a Christmas game. Mrs. Nancy gave out project books and discussed contest day on Dec. 17.

Reporter, Shannon Carroll

Clint Hewitt and Monise Seay of Hackberry were named Most Valuable player in their respective division, while All-parish player awards went to Layne Kyle, Hackberry, Scot Sandifer, Johnson Bayou, Walter Jones, South Cameron, and Roy Pesson and Dell Mansco, Grand Lake.

All parish girls award went to Tiffany Seay, Betsy Koppie, Tiffany LaSalle, Kay Lyn Breaux and Rhonda Verzwyvelt.

Congratulations to Tiffany Kyle for a fine exhibition of outside shooting, four 3-pointers, and to the players and coaches for their display of sportsmanship in the highly competitive games.

Season's Greetings Everyone!

To My Dear People Of Cameron Parish...

Again, we are preparing to celebrate the birth of our Savior. Our hearts are filled with gratitude for having received that great joy. Wouldn't it be nice to have all our people strong enough to know when we are weak and brave enough to face ourselves when we are afraid; proud and unbending in honest defeat and humble and gentle in all good dealings and sorry in our mistakes. Let us have the knowledge: to know ourselves would be the foundation of our community.

You know if we would ask the Good Lord, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under stress and spur of difficulties and challenge we could learn to stand up in the storm and have compassion for those who fail, and yet to ask the Lord, "Thy Will be Done."

Wouldn't it be nice to have leaders whose hearts are clean and whose goals are high. And one who will learn to master himself before he seeks to master others; one who can learn to laugh and never forget how to weep. And reach out into the future and yet never forget the past. And also have a sense of humor but also be serious in everyday life. Never take ourselves too seriously; to give us humility so we can always remember the simplicity of true greatness and an open mind to true wisdom and a meekness of true strength to always be truthful and honest. And let the Lord always be first.

My great concern during these holidays will be your safety, especially our young people. As you know, each holiday we have an accident or tragedy to occur. So far the Lord has blessed us with only two tragedies on the road this year. Let us try our utmost to keep it that way. I know from some of the accidents, he has spared your life in the past months. So once again - don't take any chances. Let us try to end this year without a tragic accident, so we can enjoy our holidays.

If the Sheriff's Department can be of any help to make your holiday safer and happier, don't hesitate to call, day or night.

I wish for all of you a Very Merry Christmas and a Safe New Year!

Your Computer

Choosing Software Shouldn't Be A Hard Job

New software programs available for home computers make balancing the family budget child's play.

Choosing the best available software for your computer needn't take a big "byte" out of your time or budget. Here's information from the software experts at Berkeley Softworks, creators of GEOS® (Graphics Environment Operating System) and GEOS-based applications, aimed to help you find the best software for you and your child's needs. The most popular software applications are graphically based with a mouse or joystick interface and include: desktop publishing, word processing, education, entertainment, financial management, graphic and paint programs and networking systems.

Desktop publishing, the most sophisticated application now on the market, enables you to print typeset quality documents, as well as mix text and graphics. You can produce customized newsletters, flyers, posters, invitations, greeting cards and more.

A word processor lets you type without worrying about mistakes. You can correct and edit sentences and move blocks of information as you go or after you're done writing. Many word processors include utilities such as an outliner, spell checker, and thesaurus. A merge program lets you create letters and merge them with personalized data.

As an educational tool, a personal computer can help both children and adults. Math drills and practice games designed to expand logic skills and touch typing lessons are a sampling of current software programs available.

Many people like to use their PC for entertainment. You can have hours of fun with adventure, arcade and logic games.

Easy-to-use financial programs can calculate mortgage payments, create home budgets, manage stock portfolios and even figure income taxes.

Graphics and paint utilities are used to enhance documents or solely for creative pleasure. Several of these packages are available and they provide enough features to allow any user to create attractive images. The software helps users with unsteady hands draw perfect circles, ellipses, squares, straight and curved lines.

With a modem hook up, you can access educational services or networks, play games, exchange information and talk to other users.

Remember that these software programs are available for all types of computers—even the inexpensive Commodore 64, 128 and Apple II series computers. If you'd like to find out more about how these and other software applications can help you get more from your computer, write for a free buyer's guide to: Berkeley Softworks, P.O. 'The Lights of Christmas

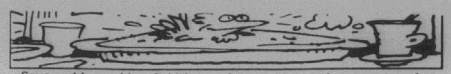
Tree Trimming Tips



Oh, Christmas tree! To make sure your evergreen is ever-beautiful this holiday season whether it's real or artificial, take these tips from the tree-trimming experts at the National Ornament and Electric Lights Christmas Association (NOEL):

- When trimming with lights, begin at the top and from the inside of the tree. Wind the wire along the branch toward the tip. Wrap around at the tip to secure, then wind back and cross over to the next branch. Repeat zig-zagging downward. Place bulbs only on the tips of the branch so the shape of the tree is outlined.
- Lights should have Underwriters Laboratories (UL) listing on their products. Also look for the "NOEL" logo on packaging. The general guideline is to use one set of 50 miniature lights per foot of tree, however, don't hesitate to use four or five times that many lights to create additional glamour and impact.

For the most dramatic effect each bulb should point upward—and slightly outward. The bulbs may be held in place by looping the wire around the branch.

- Replace burned out bulbs immediately to prevent strain on remaining bulbs. Do not plug more than 300 lights together in one continuous string.

Save and freeze bits of chicken and vegetables, such as carrots, celery, potatoes and onions to make a chicken pie.

Quick And Easy No-Bake Recipes

Are you willing to sacrifice the tradition and memories of Christmas treats because you're tired or busy? Bah humbug!

Here's the perfect solution for harried holiday homemakers. Re-create those traditional holiday recipes using all butter frozen pound cake—a versatile, convenient, and fail-safe ingredient for creating quick but very special holiday snacks and desserts.

Make these delicious easy-to-make Cookie Cut Outs, as pictured, using frozen pound cake and various toppings. Be creative! The child in you or your children will love preparing and eating this treat. Or serve the Neapolitan Pound Cake in which chocolate, vanilla and strawberry flavors combine for an elegant holiday treat. Garnish with chocolate fudge sauce, if you wish.

Pound Cake Cookie Cut Outs

1 frozen all butter pound cake (10 3/4 oz.), thawed
1-2 cans (16-17 oz. each)* chocolate or vanilla frosting

Optional: chopped nuts, chocolate chips, red hot candies, angel flaked coconut, colored decorator jimmies and sugar crystals

Slice pound cake into 4 horizontal layers. Place cookie cutters (or make cardboard patterns) very close together on cake layers to cut the most cookies. Place cookies on baking sheet; toast in preheated broiler until golden, then frost and decorate. OR Frost and decorate untoasted pound cake cookies.

Variation:

Stir 1-2 tablespoons boiling water into frosting to make thin glaze.

Neapolitan Pound Cake

1 frozen all butter pound cake (10 3/4 oz.), thawed
1 pint Neapolitan brick ice cream
1 cup hot fudge sauce or topping

Slice pound cake into 4 horizontal layers. Cut each flavor of ice cream into 2 slices. Place chocolate ice cream slices on bottom layer, top with cake layer and vanilla ice cream. Repeat for strawberry ice cream. Freeze cake, cut and serve with sauce. Serves 10.

Redfish charges

By Loston McEvers

ILLEGAL REDFISH BRINGS CHARGES

By now, everyone should know that commercial catching or sales of redfish is illegal, but a few people are still trying it, and getting caught.

Four men convicted of violating state fishing laws, were fined and ordered to forfeit their boats and motors to the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

One fisherman was sentenced to 30 days in the parish jail, $500 fine plus court costs. He also forfeited his 21 foot boat and 50 HP motor along with a gill net.

Two other men pleaded guilty to taking redfish on a commercial ban and each fined $350 plus court costs, and 30 days in the parish jail. One of the men's trammel nets, a 16 ft. aluminum boat, and 75 HP motor were forfeited.

The present state law states that no vessel which is fishing with a seine, gill net, hoop net or trammel net or with a net on board your boat, can have a redfish in possession.

There are also limits and sizes on our recreational fishermen. These people caught were fishing in eastern Louisiana.

In other arrests, an undercover investigation by state wildlife agents into illegal sales of redfish and speckle trout resulted in 16 individuals and places of business being charged.

In New Orleans there were 14 citations issued, one in Thibodaux and one in Grand Isle.

Eight agents working as three separate teams issued citation charges a total of 85 violations earlier this month.

Illegal redfish and speckle trout were bought from undercover wildlife agents between July and October of this year.

Besides being charged with buying speckle trout, which is restricted by quota and redfish, which is prohibited entirely, they were buying from unlicensed commercial fishermen.

All citations issued were to five wholesale and retail seafood dealers and eleven restaurants.

If convicted for buying speckle trout and redfish at any time during closure, offenders are subject to a fine of $350 to $500 plus 30 days in jail. Under the law, the license under which the violations occurred shall be revoked and shall not be reinstated at any time during the period for which it was issued and for one year thereafter.

SHRIMP SEASON CLOSURE

All three zones of the state's "inshore waters" were closed to shrimping at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, which was yesterday. This was announced by the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

In offshore territorial waters, shrimping will continue until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1989.

At that time it will close in all three offshore zones except for the area from Bayou Fontanelle (The Empire Ship Channel) to Caminada Pass, where the closure will be for that portion of Louisiana's offshore territorial waters in shrimp management zone 2 from the inside-outside shrimp line seaward for three miles.

SEASONS TO OPEN

Our deer season opened Saturday, Dec. 17, and will be open until Jan. 1, 1989.

A young boy and girl who were in love, were walking in the woods. They sat down by a tree and were kissing, when a bullet went through the young man's head and into the arm of his girlfriend. Yes, the boy was dead. A hunter hunting deer thought he saw one, so he aimed his rifle at his target and pulled the trigger, taking the life of a young 15 year old boy, wounding his girl friend.

Our last split of duck hunting will be Dec. 26, until Jan. 8. Goose season will open the same day as ducks, Dec. 26, but will go through Feb. 14.

Other seasons still open are king, clapper, sara and Virginia rails until Jan. 20; Gallinules until Jan. 20; snipe until Feb. 26; woodcock until Feb. 12; and doves until Jan. 9.

Also still open is quail until Feb. 28, along with rabbit closing Feb. 28 and squirrel which will close Jan. 15.

SEASONS GREETINGS

As another year rolls to an end, it's been a pleasure trying to bring you sporting and commercial news to all our readers. I would like to thank all of you who read my article for the comments, whether pro or con and to Jerry Wise for letting me speak my piece.

I wish each and everyone of you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Santa is universal. He represents the spirit of Christmas giving. The picture of him varies from country to country.

It seems that the legend began with St. Nicholas, the Bishop of Myra in Asia Minor during the fourth century. He is credited with having thrown sacks of gold through a window to help a poor nobleman supply dowries for his three daughters. The gold somehow fell into stockings hung to dry by the open fireplace. After his death he became a patron saint of Russia, Greece, and countries of western Europe, including Holland.

And it was the Dutch who brought Sinterklaas, their adaptation of St. Nicholas, to America when they founded New Amsterdam (now New York). Because English-speaking children had trouble pronouncing the Dutch name, they called him Sanni Claus and later Santa Claus.

In 1809, Washington Irving in his "Knickerbocker's History of New York" presented Santa as a Dutchman wearing baggy breeches and a broad-brimmed hat, smoking a long pipe, winking, and ever and anon placing his finger alongside his nose. Previously Santa was supposed to have ridden in a wagon drawn by horses as he arrived on December the sixth. Irving changed his mode of travel to a sleigh pulled by reindeer flying above the treetops.

Others say that the sleigh and reindeer were invented by Clement Clark Moore thirteen years later in his poem "The Visit of St. Nicholas" that begins with "'Twas the night before Christmas." He depicted Santa as a "jolly old elf" with rosy cheeks, a little round belly, white whiskers, and wearing a fur-trimmed suit, Moore changed the visit of St. Nicholas to Christmas Eve.

In 1863, political cartoonist, Thomas Nast, began his illustrated series of Santa for "Harper's Weekly." Nast drew Santa much as Moore had described him, but he did make changes according to his own ideas. Santa has changed but little in the years since. Perhaps he has grown a little plumper, a bit rosier, but he is still the genial, generous giver of gifts, the still loving spirit of centuries ago.

Christmas Blessings

Carefree approach to holiday cookery takes the pressure off the hostess...you!

Holiday entertaining often becomes so time-consuming that the hostess forgets to enjoy herself. Don't let that happen to you! Throwing a party should be fun and, with careful planning, it will be.

Whether you're planning formal cocktails, a caroling party or a casual open house, create a menu that requires a minimum of work. Surprisingly, that doesn't mean your choices are limited to cheese and crackers. By starting with a frozen prepared entree or side dish, the possibilities are limitless.

SPINACH STUFFED MUSHROOMS

1 package of Stouffer's Spinach Soufflé, defrosted
1 cup untoasted bread crumbs
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. instant minced onions
½ tsp. salt
24 large mushrooms 1½-2 inches in diameter
Melted margarine
Parmesan cheese

Thoroughly wash mushrooms; remove stems.

Place mushrooms on a baking tray; brush with melted margarine. Stuff with spinach mixture; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a 375° oven for 15-18 minutes.

Makes 24.

Microwave Method: Remove Spinach Soufflé from metal tray; place in a 1½ qt microwave proof dish. Defrost Spinach Soufflé on defrost cycle (50% power) 6-7 minutes. Microcook stuffed mushrooms in a microwave proof dish 3-4 minutes, turning dish once.

WELSH BREAD BOWL

2 packages of Stouffer's Welsh Rarebit defrosted
1 Tbsp. crumbled Bleu Cheese
2 Tbsp. minced onion
¼ tsp. tabasco sauce
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
⅛ tsp. garlic salt
¾ cup boiled, cooled beer
1-1 pound unsliced, round bread*

Combine first 6 ingredients until smooth. Slowly add cooled beer; blend well. Chill 3 hours or overnight.

To make bread bowl: Cut a circle around crown of bread. Scoop out most of the interior, leaving a shell about 1" thick. When ready to serve, fill bread shell with chilled dip. Cut leftover bread into cubes and place around bread bowl with cherry tomatoes, sliced zucchini, broccoli and cauliflower.

Makes 4 cups.

New child, maternity program approved

The Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals and the Louisiana Department of Social Services will implement the child health and Maternity Program which extends Medicaid coverage to poor and pregnant women, and infants and children born after Sept. 30, 1983 through age eight beginning Jan. 1, 1989.

Approval of shifting of funds within the two agencies by the legislative budget committee on Wednesday paved the way for the implementation of the program.

May Nelson, DSS Secretary, and David L. Ramsey, DHH Secretary, said CHAMP makes prenatal care available at an earlier point in pregnancy so as to reduce infant mortality and morbidity; contributes to reduction of state expenditures for the health consequence of inadequate prenatal care, such as mental retardation; gives a significant segment of the indigent population freedom of choice about where they will be treated; infuses an estimated $43.6 million into the private health care economy of which 71.07 percent would be federal funds, and achieves those ends through a decrease in state spending.

— NOTICE —

Effective January 1, 1989, there will be an increase in water rates in the Hackberry Waterworks District No. 2 to $6.00 plus 18 cents sales tax, totaling $6.18 per month per customer.

Elegant leather goods: Gift ideas with a personal touch

Holiday spirits will soar when you give family, friends and business associates personalized gifts of finely crafted leather accessories made in Italy.

With a wide array of beautiful belts, wallets, handbags, executive accessories and luggage available in specialty and department stores this season, there's a gift for everyone on your list.

Expert advice

• For the Executive — The newest, state-of-the-art desk accessory for the busy professional is a leather-bound time manager.

For traditionalists, choose a sophisticated appointment book in black, burgundy or chestnut kidskin with a smooth or semi-matte finish. For a slightly more contemporary look, choose stamped leathers in grainy textures or an all-over embossed geometric design.

• For Her — There's no better way to make a woman feel special around the holidays than to pamper her with feminine gifts.

In keeping with the luxury of this season's Renaissance look, select a scaled-down evening clutch or envelope in gleaming jewel-toned reptile, rich suede or glossy kidskin.

• For the student — Always on the move, a student needs a roomy, basic bag that will go from early morning classes to late nights at the library and away on weekends.

• Friends and Relatives — Replace a friend's well-worn wallet or add a dash of style to a family member's wardrobe of money managers.

Choose an ultra-slim billfold or credit card case in caramel, burgundy or jet-black kidskin for men, and slip a pair of tickets to a local sporting event inside.

For women, select a fresh color like jade, mustard or dove gray in a classic french purse or a wallet in a high-gloss reptile, and include a pair of tickets to a new movie.

Big holiday hit

Even last-minute shopping can be easy if you keep in mind that personalized gifts, carefully chosen to meet the needs of friends, family and co-workers, are always a big holiday hit.

Net Ban is told in lakes

Starting Jan. 1, fishermen will be prohibited from using gill and trammel nets at Black Lake and Clear Lake in Natchitoches and Red River parishes.

The ban will extend through Dec. 30, 1990, said the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

Bennie J. Fontenot, chief of the Freshwater Fish Division, said the Wildlife and Fisheries Commission approved the ban because the lakes do not at present support a viable commercial fishery for those species normally taken with gill and trammel nets.

He added that the fish population in the lakes will be monitored during the two-year closure and the information gathered will be used for future management recommendations.

The Challenge of Genealogy

by MARIE WISE

Ancestor hunting is not an exact science. Imagination and adaptability to new methods and new ideas are just as important as the careful search of essential records in the right order of doing so; and, of course, infinite patience and determination from the researcher.

So writes the author of an excellent new "How To" book for ancestor hunters, Angus Baxter, one of North America's most celebrated writers on genealogy and a veteran of forty years of research.

Few people could have less information or fewer sources than he had when he started, says Mr. Baxter; yet he eventually traced his family back for 500 years.

"If I can do it, so can you" he writes in his book's Introduction and proceeds to enlighten, encourage and even entertain the reader through some 20 chapters.

DO'S AND DON'TS OF RESEARCHING

Do's and Don'ts for Ancestor-Hunters by Angus Baxter begins with Why Start at All? How Do You Start? and The Start of a genealogy or family history.

Then he examines and explains Family Stories, Names, Places, The LDS Church, Civil Registration, Church Registers, Censuses, Wills, Other Sources including Passenger Lists, Military Records, Tombstones, Genealogical Societies, Newspapers, etc.

Chapters continue with County Record Offices, Religion, The Family Tree, Jewish Sources, Coats-of-Arms, Personal Stories, A Family History and a Baxter mini-history in Britain.

Mr. Baxter includes a number of stories about his own experiences in research and outlines the basic differences in using records from the U.S., Canada, England-Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France and Gemany.

This "You Can Do It!" spirited guide is stiffcover, 5¼ x 8½", 115 pages, $13.45 incl. mailing from: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897.

MOORE FAMILY

The Moore Family History by Musell M. Cauthern centers on Burt G. Moore, a son of Burt Moore who was in South Carolina at least by 1782.

Burt G., born 1799 in N. Car., married Mary R., born 1803 also in N. Car. Migrating south and east with a number of other families c1820's, they settled at what would be the Clay Community in Itawamba County, Miss.

Descendants of the 13 children of Burt G. and Mary R. spread this Moore line into other Miss. locations, the Gulf South including Louisiana, and further west.

Among other early families to the Clay Community were Bowen, Chamblee, Clifton, Dulaney, Johnson, Maxey, Medley, McDaniel, Pate, Toomer, Tucker, Webb, Wilson. The U.S. Census of 1850 shows 431 Moore families in Miss.

This Moore family history is stiffcover, spiral bound, 6 x 9 in., 195 pages, not indexed, a number of photographs, available at $12.00 from the author: Mrs. Musell Cauthern, Rt 4, Box 278, Fulton, MS 38843.

John/Jean DEHART, Sr. came to Louisiana with other families to settle in the District of Ouachita, arriving in April, 1797 from New Madrid, Missouri.

With him were his wife, Anne/Anna and five children: Abraham, 14; Jean, 12; Winston/Winant/Wynant, 10; Jeannette/Jane, 7 and James/Jacob, 2.

Per contract with the Baron de Bastrop who was bringing American settlers to the Ouachita District to establish the cultivation of wheat, each family was to be granted land up to four hundred square arpents, provided with seed and provisioned for six months.

Settling on Bayou Gallien where 1805 (U.S.) Ouachita records show John, Sr. and Abraham in possession of an 800 acre parcel, this Dehart family was among northeast Louisiana's early settlers.

A motion was made by Bryon Richard, seconded by Gary Kelley, and unanimously carried to approve the minutes of the Regular Meeting of August 16, 1988.

A motion was made by W. F. Henrt, Jr., seconded by Gary Kelley, and unanimously carried to approve the Financial Report for the month of August, 1988.

Bruce Lehto reported that the Soil Conservation Service has completed the annual inspection of drainage and flood control channels. They inspected all of Gravity Drainage District No. 3 drainage structures, and gave 100% approval of condition with no exceptions noted. This report was signed by President Quinn.

Hayes P. "Pete" Picou was recognized. He stated that it had been reported to him that the Phillips 66 property floods behind Gloria Baur's property, and it was agreed that Gary Kelley will discuss this matter with George LeBoeuf, Police Jury road superintendent for this area. Mr. Picou also said that it has been reported that water is standing behind the School Board property, and that the drainage ditch needs to be cleaned out to alleviate this problem. It was agreed that Bryon Richard will go look at the ditch that drains the Meadowbrook Subdivision. Mr. Picou then requested that payment of the $2,400 bill for engineering fees incurred in the project to lay pipe behind the Cameron Elementary School for drainage of floodwater be paid by Gravity Drainage District No. 3. Some discussion ensued, and the Board stated that it was their express understanding at the time they agreed to participate in the project, the only commitment made was to purchase $2,100 worth of pipe, and that any overage as requested by Mr. George LeBoeuf representing the Police Jury.

Additional discussion followed concerning a plan for draining of marsh in connection with the Cameron-Creole Watershed Project. Mr. Picou suggested asking for small foot bows across the marsh so half of the marsh can be drained at a time, rather than draining it all at one time. Board members as well as Engineer Harper explained that the agencies would not entertain any such suggestion, based on statements and policies firmly established during the years this project has been in the planning stages.

It was agreed that a load of shell will be provided to Russell Badon after he signs the easement relating to Project No. 1987-06-01 just completed by Larfay Ancelet Dragline Service.

Candles fitting symbol of Christmas spirit

By Bernice Denny

For many, many centuries glowing candles, a universal symbol of warmth and joy, have played an important part in the observance of Christmas. It is fitting since the deepest meaning of the season represents Christ as the light of the world.

The first use of candles for Christmas is not recorded anywhere. An old legend regarding the custom is believed to have originated in Ireland. According to it, the "Christ Child Candle" was burned in windows to light his way if he visited earth. It was also lighted in atonement for the night of his birth when there was no room for him in the inn.

It was believed by the Irish that the "Christ Child Candle" could be snuffed out by no one save a person named Mary.

"Who knows," they would say, "on some Christmas Eve Jesus and Mary and Joseph may come again, not to Palestine, but to the Holy Isle on the farthest edge of Europe."

From Germany there comes a similar belief that Mary, accompanied by a band of angels, floats over the countryside each Christmas Eve. Candles were placed in the windows of the Christians' homes as an invitation and guide to partake of the food traditionally set out for them.

An appealing story has been handed down from the Middle Ages when any light, no matter how dim, was a prized and valuable possession. The story tells of a shoemaker, who lived in a cottage at the edge of a village beside the dark woods. Poor though he was, each night he placed his candle in the window to guide travelers. Despite wars, hardships, and personal illness, by some miracle, his light never wavered.

The villagers were inspired by his thoughtfulness. During the Christmas season many of them began placing candles in their windows.

In medieval Europe the custom arose of lighting a giant Christmas Candle that would burn brightly till Twelfth Night.

Martin Luther is credited with having carried a fir tree into his home one Christmas Eve for his wife and children. To show them the glory of the night when Christ was born he decorated the tree with lighted candles to represent stars.

In Colonial days in our own country bayberry candles were used by the early settlers. It was believed that if the bayberry candle burned bright and clear throughout the Christmas season the coming year would be filled with luck and good health.

When animal fat for candle making was scarce, the colonists cut branches from bayberry trees and dipped them in wax for use as candles. When tallow candles became more plentiful the bayberry remained as a traditional part of the Christmas observance.

Although electric lights have replaced candles on Christmas trees, candles are still burned in homes and churches all over the world. They are impressively used in altar services and in candlelight caroling.

At the December meeting of the South Cameron High Junior 4-H Club Mrs. Nancy Cronan, home economist, gave a demonstration on washing clothes. It covered everything you need to know to wash your clothes and keep them in good shape.

Also at the meeting those club members who participated in the Cajun Christmas Classic were recognized. They were Kirk LeBleu, Todd Conner, Kenny McDaniel, Amy Helms, and Kevin Rutherford.

Kevin Rutherford and Troy Conner gave a demonstration on pet care. Mrs. Cronan discussed a Record Book Workshop and activities at Contest Day to be held Dec. 17.

Oyster Task Force will meet 29th

Louisiana's new Oyster Task Force, created by the Legislature to help remedy the decline in oyster production, will hold its initial meeting Thursday, Dec. 29, in Baton Rouge.

The task force was established by the last Legislature to study the downturn in oyster output and other resource management problems. It was instructed to report its findings and recommendations prior to the opening of the 1989 legislative session.

Among others, the 13-member panel includes four legislators, spokesmen for the oyster industry, and representatives from the Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals and the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

THIS WAS A scene from the Greek Island of Poros, which has an economy built on fishing, farming and tourism. It is just one of the many beautiful islands in the Aegean Sea.

Island Cruise was almost cancelled

(EDITOR'S NOTE--This is a continuation of an account of a recent trip the publisher and his wife made to Greece with an alumni group from Northeast Louisiana of Monroe.)

By JERRY WISE

What we thought was the highlight of our Greek trip almost was cancelled--the cruise to three islands in the Saronic gulf south from Athens.

When the Greek trip was planned early in 1988, one of the outings from Athens planned was a day's cruise to the islands of Hydra, Poros and Aegina. However, in July terrorists attacked the cruise ship, City of Poros, on which we were to sail, killing several people.

Ten members of our 35 member group cancelled the Greek trip because of concern over the incident, and Dr. Jim Caldwell and Dr. Jerry Holmes, our tour leaders, then scrubbed the cruise from the itinerary.

But as our November departure neared and there were no more incidents in Greece, it was decided to reinstate the cruise because so many of us were looking forward to it.

This decision was made because it was felt that the attack was an isolated incident with no other trouble being reported in Greece. Also, it was believed that the Greek authorities would step up their vigilance to make sure that the tourist cruise vessels would not be endangered.

All proved to be right as there was no hitch in our cruise. When our bus arrived at the dock, we passed the City of Poros, which had been attached, and instead loaded on to a similar vessel, the Hermes. There was a police car keeping watch on the wharf.

There were about 500 or so vacationers on our cruise vessel, and again we were outnumbered by the Japanese tourists.

Leaving the harbor, we had a beautiful view of Athens from the sea, with the Acropolis in the distance, and dozens of big white cruise vessels lined along the shore.

Although the island cruise is usually smooth, that day the gulf was rough and one or two of our party got a little queezy. Once when the vessel took a vigorous roll, a Japanese passenger, in a deck chair, was given a complete flip.

After about an hour's cruise, we pulled into the dock at our first island, Aegina, a beautiful sight of the white buildings contrast against the blue of the sea. We had the choice of taking a bus tour to see the ruins of a 5th century B.C. temple, or visiting the many interesting looking stores and cafes along the waterfront, which we chose.

We rented a horsedrawn carriage for a 15-minute tour of the waterfront which was enjoyable even though it was overpriced, and then walked the same route making all of the shops.

There were many pretty things to be bought, leathergoods, handicraft, etc. Some of the men in our group purchased black Greek sailor caps and looked more Greek than the Greeks themselves. Big sacks of sponges were everywhere for sale.

After an hour and a half, we boarded our cruise ship, and sailed for our second island, Poros, which we found to be even prettier than the first. From the long waterfront street, the town rose up the side of a mountain, with a church perched a long way up. Several of our party climbed the thousand steps to the church and praised the view but damned the climb.

All of the little back streets were little more than alleys that were wide enough only for motorbikes, which everybody seemed to use. Most of the homes were white with colored shutters.

One of the big crops of this island was pistachio nuts as they were on sale at many outdoor stands. Joy bought a big bag, but I was afraid that when we returned home the agriculture department would not let them through customs, but they did.

Our next stop was scheduled to be the island of Hydra, which was said to be prettiest of the three islands, but when I inquired of someone while we seemed to be going north when we should have been going south, I learned that Hydra had been cancelled because the rough seas would make docking hazardous.

But the two hour sail back to Athens was not a loss. An hour long show of Greek dancing and music was put on for us in one of the ship's lounges and soon about half of our group was engaged in a Congo-line like dance throughout the ship.

We had had a wonderful day of cruising and would like to go back again some day and visit the many other Greek islands that have won the hearts of visitors for many years.

One I would like to see is the island of Santorini located further south of Aegina. This all white building island, contains an earlier civilization that is covered by blankets of lava and there are some who claim that this was the legendary island of Atlantis, said to have supported a very advanced civilization thousands of years ago before being destroyed.

One of my readers wistfully mentioned to me recently that she and some friends had cancelled a cruise of the Greek islands several years ago after terrorists seized the Achilles Lauro and killed an American passenger. She regretted missing the trip.

My theory on all of this, although it could be wrong, is that terrorism is a relative infrequent occurence and that the odds of being attached by a terrorist are far less for you than being involved in an automobile accident at home.

I would suggest that no one put off a visit to Europe or any other civilized area of the world because of the fear of terrorism--the incidents are just not that many. (But of course, I am not including some obvious dangerous places as Beruit and some countries in Africa and Asia where there is unrest. But even in these cases, the American government will advise you if they think a country is dangerous to visit.)

Cameron's jobless rate up

Cameron parish, which for the past several years has had one of the lowest unemployment rates in the state, jumped nearly two percentage points from October to November.

According to the Louisiana Dept. of Labor, the jobless rate in the parish increased from 9.5 percent in October to 11.3 percent in November, as compared to the state average which rose from 9.5 to 9.6 percent in the same period.

According to the report, Cameron parish in November had a work force of 4,600 with 4,075 employed and 525 unemployed. For October the work force was given at 4,950 with 4,475 employed and 475 out of work.

The Lake Charles-Calcasieu parish jobless rate was 10.3 percent in November up from 10.2 in October.

Both Cameron parish and Louisiana had jobless rates much higher than the national rate which was 5.2 percent, up from 5 percent in October.

West Carroll parish reported the highest unemployment rate with 21.0 percent; and Lincoln parish reported the lowest with 4.9 percent.

Rules given on LSU camper space usage

Cameron Parish residents planning to apply for camper spaces at the LSU Spring Livestock Show should note the following regulations just received by 4-H Agent Gary Wicke:

1. Applications for the 54 space lot on the show grounds must be received in the Livestock Show Office by Jan. 9. A check for $45 must accompany the application.

2. Only one application per family will be accepted. Reservations are not transferable.

3. There will be overflow camper parking in the paved lot off Nicholson Drive again this year. This lot has no electricity, limited water and no sanitary dump.

4. No waste water may be dumped on the ground in either lot. The EBR Parish Health Unit says that they intend to enforce this rule. LSU is subject to a fine and/or closure of the camper facility if they do not abide by the law and DEQ regulations. Campers who do not plan to abide by this rule are requested not to apply for space.

Prayer asked for victims

The annual Jubilee Day sponsored by the Cameron NAACP Chapter on New Year's Day will not be held this year, according to Louise Cole, president.

Instead, everyone in the parish is urged to pause for a moment of prayer at 12 noon on New Year's Day in memory of those who lost their lives in the recent plane crash in Scotland and in the earthquake in Armenia.

Mrs. Cole said anyone wishing to renew their membership in the NAACP Chapter should send their $10 check to the NAACP Chapter at Box 109, Cameron, La. 70631.

Festival named as top event

Bird-watchers from the U. S. and Canada find the Cameron Parish marshes a wonderland, the Southwest Louisiana Convention and Visitors Bureau was told last week.

Capt. Sammie Faulk, operator of Cameron Wildlife Inc., said he has staged several tours for birders, and they are enthusiastic about the wildlife they see. One group had six bird hobbyists from different parts of the United States and one from Quebec.

Two groups of 12 have scheduled trips for May and June, the nesting season on Rabbit Island in West Cove of Calcasieu Lake, Faulk said.

Faulk said his company also arranges duck hunting trips and speckled trout and redfish expeditions, as well as sightseeing tours.

The Cameron Fur and Willdife Festival, to be held Jan. 12-14, has been designated in the top 20 events for the quarter by the Southeast Tourist Association, Shelley Johnson, executive director, said. The festival will receive a plaque and be included in STA promotional materials, she explained.

Rehearsals to be held

Various rehearsals have been announced for contests in the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival. The rehearsals will be held at the Cameron Elementary School auditorium.

The Little Miss and Mr. contestants will rehearse Monday, Jan. 9 at 6 p.m. and the talent contestants will rehearse Tuesday, Jan. 10 at 6 p.m.

For further information call Rosalie Perry at 538-2226 or 542-4419 or Sue Mhire at 538-2277 or 775-5784.

Refuge options are told

The Fish and Wildlife Service has released a draft environmental impact statement reviewing management of the Nation's 445 national wildlife refuges. Cameron Parish presently has two national refuges--Sabine and Lacassine with a third planned in the Sweetlake area.

"The National Wildlife Refuge system protects 90 million acres of varied habitats for migratory birds, endangered species, and a host of mammals, reptiles, fishes, amphibians, and plants," said Frank Dunkle, Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service. "It is a complex matter to manage these unique areas in a way that balances the need to conserve a variety of species and also provide the public with opportunities to enjoy wildlife. This environmental impact statement details the kinds of decisions refuge managers must make every day. We welcome comments from the public and interested organizations in order to help the Fish and Wildlife Service do the best job we can."

The draft statement outlines four "alternatives" for managing habitat and public use. Each "alternative" is then compared to various environmental consequences. Highlights of the four alternatives are as follows:

Alternative A:

The current management program. Allows for a variety of management options within statutory mandates and provides refuge managers with maximum flexibility. Opportunities for wildlife-oriented recreation are encouraged to the extent they are compatible with refuge objectives.

Alternative B:

Compatible recreational and economic uses would be encouraged. Would expand multiple use opportunities and allow more non-wildlife-oriented recreation such as swimming, picnicking, and camping.

Alternative C:

No management approach. Eliminate management practices so as not to interfere with natural habitat succession and the natural

SECOND DUCK SEASON

This past Monday, Dec. 26, opened the second half of the split duck season. There was almost as big a turn out of sportsmen as the first half who have duck leases here. On the first day of the second opening season sportsmen reported doing fair but most getting their limits with smaller ducks. Sportsmen reported more teals than the first half season. This season made up of teals, gadwells and wigons.

The second day it slowed down for many sportsmen. One party of four hunters bagged their limits, while another party of three bagged two teals. Two different parties of two, all came out with zero.

TOURISTS Here walk through the ruins of the old market place of Corinth in Greece where St. Paul preached nearly 2000 years ago. The ruins are remarkably preserved for their age.

Following in the footsteps of Paul

(EDITOR'S NOTE--This is a continuation of an account of a recent visit to Greece made by the publisher and his wife along with an alumni group from Northeast University of Monroe.)

By JERRY WISE

If you make an organized tour to Greece, one of your day trips surely will include the one that Joy and I made with the Northeast group on our fourth day in the country. This was the tour of the Peloponnesus, the southern part of Greece that is shaped like a glove and which is really a very large island.

Our bus proceeded west out of Athens, passing many industrial plants, and thickly settled suburbs. The traffic was heavy as was the pollution, which began to lighten as we got out into the country and began to see large groves of olive trees. We also saw some cotton fields, which made our North Louisiana travelers feel right at home.

At the city of Corinth we came to what could be considered one of the "Wonders of Greece" - the Corinth Canal. Although only four miles long, this is one of the most important waterways in Greece as it joins the port of Athens and the Aegean sea with the Ionian sea and the Adriatic sea on the west and greatly shortens the distance for ships bound for Athens from the north and west.

In ancient times, the city of Corinth became wealthy chiefly due to its location between the two seas. Ships were even pulled across the isthmus on logs and as early as

THIS IS one of the most famed sights in Greece--the Lions Gate leading to the ancient ruins of Mycenae, dating back more than 3,000 years. How the ancient Greeks raised such stones in place is still a mystery.

A.D. 62 Nero began digging a canal. However, since this site consists of all rock it was not until 2000 years later in 1893 when the canal was finished by a French company.

We stopped at the canal and walked back to the center of the bridge to see the full wonder of the canal--here is a ditch dug down in pure rock 270 feet (nearly the length of a football field) and only 90 feet wide. We did not each a ship in the canal, but could easily see that one would not have much leeway on either side.

A short distance further, we stopped at the site of ancient Corinth, one of the most prosperous cities of ancient Greece. The ruins that have been uncovered here are nothing short of spectacular. It includes the Temple of Apollo, where seven of its magnificent pillars, erected in the sixth century before Christ, still stand.

Down below the temple is the ancient shopping center of Corinth where you can still see the walls of the various shops, bath houses, and even an ancient bathroom complete with holes for toilets in solid rock and a conduit for water. (Could this have been the first flush toilet?)

Corinth was said to be a wicked place in the old days and was famous for its "sacred prostitutes" who lived in the temple.

Our guide pointed out the raised platforms where Saint Paul may have preached. It was to the newly converted Christians of this city that he wrote his "Epistle to the Corintheans."

From there our bus climbed higher into the mountains until we came out on a plateau from which we could look down into an immense valley in which our guide said there were four or five millon olive trees growing. (If like the song used to say: "There's a lot of coffee in Brazil" you certainly would have to say the same about olive trees in Greece.)

Our guide assured us that olives on trees are too bitter to eat. I tested one out and found her right. To get the bitter taste out, the olives must be soaked in salt water for several months.

Our next stop was for the famous excavation of Mycenae which was done in 1876 by Schliemann following his famous discovery of the city of Troy, using the Odyssey of Homer as a guide.

Here the German businesman discovered what he believed was the grave of Agamemnon. Although this was proven later not so, his find still was fabulous--gold masks, jewelry and other artifacts that can be seen in the National Archeological Museum.

Giant rocks as large as cars were intricately fitted together to form the walls around the city. (How were these giant rocks moved here and put in place to fit so well thousands of years ago--could extracelestrials have given a hand?)

We approached and went through the most famous part of this site--the Lions gate which dates back to 1250 BC, a huge rock portico over which two lions rise.

Inside this gate we saw the "shaft" graves in which 16th century B.C. kings were buried standing along with all of their gold and finery.

Climbing the ancient paved pathway we reached the top of the mountain where once stood the Grand Palace which must have been magnificent in its day.

An old man with a candle beckoned several of our party to follow him into an underground passage to view some of the ruins that less adventurous tourists missed.

Nearby we visited a huge beehive shaped tomb, once thought to be that of Agamemnon, which was completely sealed and buried for thousands of years before being discovered.

(Lake Charles American Press, Dec. 30, 1927)

CAMERON OIL LAND SOLD

The Yount-Lee Oil Co. and W. T. Burton closed a deal today whereby the company and Mr. Burton become the owners of 11,000 acres of land in fee formerly owned by the Gulf Land Co.

The acreage in question begins at a point on the west bank of Big Lake and extends a distance west of six miles, and includes acreage within 160 feet of the No. 2 Doiron gusher of the Calcasieu Oil-Union Sulphur-Magnolia refining companies.

While the transfer papers show only a nominal cash consideration, it is considered by oil men that the transfer really represents more than a million dollar deal.

This move on the part of the Yount-Lee Co. is looked upon locally as the biggest transaction ever recorded in transfers in Cameron parish, and possibly the largest oil land deal ever made in this district.

Included in the purchase is approximately 600 acres of land now under lease to the Calcasieu Oil-Unicn Sulphur-Magnolia Refining companies, on which a derrick has been erected and drilling about ready to start. The derrick is within a few hundred feet of the big No. 2 Doiron gusher, and all of the oil produced by the companies holding the lease will be subject to the usual 1/8th royalty to the land owner, which will, in this case, go to Yount-Lee.

The Yount-Lee Oil Co. has been buying land in the Hackberry territory for several years, and in addition to the purchase above referred to, within the last two years, the company purchased several hundred acres of land adjoining the Calcasieu ship channel, the Yount-Lee was credited with making preparations for a tank farm for future use in connection with the oil development of the Hackberry field. The 11,000 acres the company has just purchased from the Gulf Land Co. joins its holdings on the ship channel.

The Gulf Land Co. holdings are referred to locally as the "Watkins lands," being a portion of the vast holding acquired in Southwest Louisiana by J. B. Watkins about 30 years ago, with the Gulf Land Co. still controlled by the heirs of Mr. Watkins.

Mr. Burton, together with the Yount-Lee Oil Co., has been one of the most persistent operators in the Hackberry area, and while the two, after years of drilling operations, have no oil producing wells in the field, drilling operations are now under way, and have been for years about two and one-half miles west of the location where the first and only Hackberry gusher is located.

While, apparently, very little trading has taken place in the Hackberry since the bringing in of the first oil producer, this one deal is looked upon as making up for hundreds of smaller ones, and no doubt, it means the beginning of a development program for that field that will result in major activities, with all the possibilities that a big oil field always has in store.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT CAMERON

The Methodist Sunday school of Cameron enjoyed a Christmas tree (a party) at the home of Mrs. Wm. Laurents on Christmas Eve. The program opened with the singing of Luther's Cradle song, by the junior department of the Sunday school, followed by the story of Christmas, including the birth of Christ and its significance at this time and season, told by Rev. L. F. Johnson, the pastor of the church, and the superintendent of the Sunday school.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. L. F. Johnson, after which each person was presented with a bag of nuts, fruit and candy. The evening's festivities came to a close with an hour of games and contest. There were 345 present to enjoy the occasion.

CAMERON MAY GET RAILROAD

The information that James J. Hill is behind the scheme to purchase and reclaim a vast amount of marsh and swamp land in Cameron Parish is reviving in railroad circles the old story that Hill is again seeking for the gulf outlet to his vast northern business, and that the fight so long waged between Hill and the Harriman interest is not yet over even though Harriman during his lifetime did score most of the victories in the desperate battle of finance.

Shrimping ends

The day our inland shrimp season closed, I heard a wildlife spokesman say it was one of the better seasons, and better than last year.

Then I hear one industry spokesman say he may push for federal disaster relief to help bail out some of his shrimpers who had a bad year, with low harvest, increased competition and low prices.

It seems the shrimpers who made half as much as last year did well. Now, all of this will have to be backed up by hard facts.

One report I got was that this year's shrimp harvest was running about 11 million pounds behind last year's catch through October.

With about 70 percent of imported shrimp being consumed in the United States today, this drives down the shrimp prices.

We all know due to the oil patch slow down there's 10 to 1 now shrimping, compared to the early 1980's.

In 1987 there was a big jump in net licenses sold for Louisiana. Over 40,000 in 1987 compared to a little over 20,000 in 1986. For 1988 there were a little over 34,000 sold. All these extra shrimpers have put more pressure on shrimp, plus less catches for each shrimper.

The youngest general the United States Army ever had was George Custer, who achieved that rank at 23.

The Concerned Shrimpers of America will take their problems to Governor Roemer to try and get federal grants and low-interest loans by declaring a disaster in the shrimping industry.

I know our local shrimpers have had a hard time the last couple of years, and I think they should get some kind of help.

DUCKS, WATER

Our second split of the duck season is under way, but our water condition is not good. Most marshes had a problem with low water at the end of the first split and the small amounts of rain fall we've had have not made matters much better.

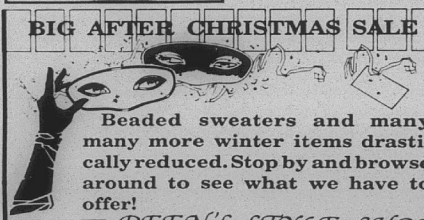
We do however, have quite a few more birds than the first split, but how long that will last is a good guess.

TRAPPING

From what I gather, nutria and muskrat pelts are low in catches, low in demand and low in price. There is a lot of talk going on, but I heard Europe didn't want any rat pelts and that surely is going to hurt the prices.

This could be a low blow to the trappers of our parish and state. Let's hope for the best.

Don't forget the Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival coming up Jan. 13 and 14 in Cameron. There will be plenty of activities going on.



As I close, hope you have a Happy New Year.

It's Here!
Best of Luck in '89

MUSING . . . . . By Bernice Denny

New Years customs

With Janus, the two-faced god of Roman mythology, we look back upon 1988 and ahead to 1989. We view the joys and tragedies, the successes and failures, the bits of day-by-day living that formed the mosaic of our past year. We attempt to peer into the new one to find the affirmation of our hopes and aspirations, the negation of our fears.

As with other holidays, customs peculiar to New Year's Day itself have been handed down to us. Although the various early nations observed different dates for the beginning of their new year, each celebrated it in a special way.

The Romans exchanged presents, refrained from lawsuits and strife, masqueraded and feasted. They gave gifts to their emporer and wished him luck.

The Persians celebrated their day by exchanging presents of eggs. Since eggs hatch into life, this custom meant "beginning a new life." There is a Persian tradition that even the most slovenly take a bath and trim the beard on this day.

The Druid priests in old England cut off branches of mistletoe that grew on their sacred oaks and gave them to the people for charms. In later England, the people cleaned their chimneys on New Year's Day. This was supposed to insure good luck during the coming year. Today, we speak of "wiping the slate clean" instead of "cleaning the chimney." This means resolving to make the new year better by correcting bad habits.

In the 1800's when machines were invented to manufacture pins, the custom disappeared. But the term "pin money" is still in usage.

The French and the Scottish gave gifts on New Year's. The Dutch exchanged calls. During the days of the Russian Empire, great festivals were held. Boxes of candy were exchanged. The wealthy sent their candy in beautiful caskets of porcelain or of enamled silverware. The Japanese and Chinese decorated their doorways with greenery to keep out evil spirits.

As a child on the Chenier I hung up my stocking on New Year's Eve just as I did on Christmas Eve. A tall, thin old man called Uncle Lett rode over the world on his bicycle leaving one or two small gifts for each child. Like Santa, he, too, wore a long white beard. I pictured him wearing faded blue and being round-shouldered and stooped as he held on to the handles of his wheel. As I recall, my mother had so described him.

A Creole custom that startled me the first year I taught there was the good old one of greeting each acquaintance with a smacking kiss on each cheek.

My late mother-in-law, whose father's people were from the North, always cooked black-eyed peas on New Year's Day as insurance against want during the coming year.

There is another, a universal custom, and this I send to you: A happy New Year to each. May you find peace, happiness and security. If such be denied, may you be granted the grace and the strength that endureth to the end.

Savoy book planned

Francois Savoye arrived in Acadia (now Nova Scotia) around 1641. He subsequently married and raised a family as evidenced by the fact that his name, along with those of his wife and nine children, appear in the 1671 census of Acadia.

During the lifetime of the first three generations of the Savoye family there was constant strife between the French and British. Although all but the very youngest of the fourth generaton grew up under British rule in relatively peaceful conditons, the political situation eventually deteriorated to the point that the Acadians were exiled from Nova Scotia by the British.

When the Acadians were exiled the family was scattered and many were imprisoned or died evading capture.

The Savoye adults who eventually came to Louisiana were, with one exception, fourth generation brothers, siters, and first cousins, consequently, it is almost certain that all Acadian Savoys are related.

"Savoy/Savoie/Savois Familie of Louisiana" traces the famil from from Francois's first appearance in Acadia to the establishment of five Savoy/Savoie houses holds in Louisiana. Each of the five Louisiana families is then tracec in detail to the ninth generation of the early 1900's.

Anyone with Savoy/Savoie ancestors should be able to find his own branch and trace his heritage back to the 1600's using this book as a guide.

The author, Harry Savoy, began doing research on his own family and in so doing gathered information on all the other Savoy's. He believes that this book is an excellent means of making the genealogy of the Savoy family available to more people and dedicates it to the memory of long forgotten kin and ancestors and to those descendants interested in their lineage.

The book is scheduled for publication in early 1989, the price has not yet been determined, but it will be in the $5-$10 range in order to make it available to as many people as possible.
