Kansas zoo not to 'extradite' fugitive flamingo from Cam.

(EDITOR'S NOTE--Cameron Pilot writer Cyndi Sellers got a "scoop" last week when she reported the sighting of two flamingoes in Cameron Parish. She also had a photo of the two birds that she had taken. Her photo, when enlarged, showed one of the bird's leg band which indicated that it was an escapee from a Wichita, Kan. zoo. The following story from the Lake Charles American Press tells "the rest of the story")

After two years on the lam, a pink flamingo that escaped from the Sedgwick County Zoo in Wichita, Kan., has been spotted in Louisiana with a wild Caribbean flamingo in a ship channel area of southwest Louisiana.

The latest sighting three weeks ago was in the Calcasieu Ship Channel on private land in Cameron Parish accessible only by boat. Officials with the zoo in Wichita learned of the wayward flamingo's whereabouts late Friday because the birds were identified by numbers on their leg bands.

The zoo's flamingo was still traveling with the same companion that was with it during an earlier sighting. The two birds were seen at the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf Coast of Texas in December 2006.

The other bird, a rosy-red wild greater flamingo, came up from Mexico during Hurricanes Rita and Katrina. The discovery excited bird watchers in Louisiana because it was the first documented sighting of a wild greater flamingo in the state.

"We're very happy to see he's been spotted again," said zoo spokeswoman Christian Baumer. The zoo does not plan to try to get the flamingo back.

"There really isn't an easy way to recapture the bird. It would only disturb wildlife where it's been found and possibly could do more damage to the bird than just leaving him alone," Baumer said.

Flamingos are social birds, so it is not unusual they are staying together, she said.

Members of Louisiana's ornithological society tried to locate the birds a few days after they were identified, but they had left the area. The zoo expects more sightings as the birds continue to look for safe places, food and water.

Company to help rebuild arena

(Cameron LNG Newsletter)

Before Hurricane Rita, competitive high school rodeo in Cameron Parish was alive and well with the Hackberry School arena holding a popular, exciting and well-attended Louisiana High School qualifying rodeo each year.

Today, nearly two years post-Hurricane Rita, the damaged arena and associated structures are getting a helping hand from Cameron LNG. The company and its employees will assist in the rebuilding of the Hackberry Rodeo Arena and concession stand which provided a valuable source of income for the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA).

"This arena is not only a centerpiece of this community, but an important part of our students' core curriculum in agricultural science and math," says Kevin Moreau, a vocational agriculture teacher at Hackberry School. "We plan to use this facility for student events like livestock shows, exhibits and competitions."

While Cameron Parish received Federal Emergency management Agency (FEMA) funds to repair part of the facility, developing a plan to oversee the construction effort proved to be a challenging task for the school's officials. By providing project management experience for the rebuilding project, Cameron LNG will work with the Cameron Parish School District and local FFA supporters to utilize funding in

We goofed! We're sorry!

By JERRY WISE

Oops--we goofed!

Computers are wonderful inventions, but sometimes they seem to have a mind of their own.

Consider the advertisement run in the Pilot last week for Scott Trahan, who is seeking re-election as District 5 Police Jury.

Readers may have notice that the ad mentioned the Oct. 4 election--but the election is actually on Oct. 20.

This was because this was the ad that Scott ran in the Pilot for his 2003 re-election bid. In making up last week's paper, our layout person called up what she thought was Scott's current ad. Instead the computer picked up Scott's ad from four years ago.

We apologize to Scott for this foul up and promise to be a little more careful next time.

You will find Scott's correct ad elsewhere in the issue of the Pilot, whose correct election number is #78.

Jury to meet on Monday

The Cameron Parish Police Jury will hold a special meeting at 5:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 15 to consider approval of the Cheniere Energy Pilot Program.

The program, if adopted, will permit Cheniere to prepay some of taxes which would be a benefit to the Parish, which is still recovering from Hurricane Rita two years ago.

Random searches of Cameron schools are authorized by Board

By CYNDI SELLERS

Times have just gotten rougher for students who carry contraband into Cameron Parish schools. On Monday the Cameron Parish School Board voted to hire Interquest Detection Canines to conduct random searches in all parish schools.

School Board member Scott Nunez proposed the use of the service, saying principals wanted more searches than were being provided by the Sheriff's Office.

He also said that Interquest Detection's dogs are trained to locate more kinds of contraband than the Sheriff's dog. Items like alcohol and guns are not illegal on the road, so the K-9 unit does not train for them.

Interquest's canines, according to handler Kristi Munk, use a passive signal to alert on alcohol, prescription medications, any gunpowder related items, and illegal drugs. The company has been contracted in Calcasieu Parish schools for the past four years, and monthly reports show a decline in contraband, Munk said.

Searches will be completely random, with all schools being checked once a month. Interquest dogs, all golden retrievers or Labrador retrievers, will search buildings, lockers, grounds, and random classrooms. Any contraband located will be turned over to the school administration to be dealt with as policy dictates.

Munk said she is available for additional searches if requested, and also for extracurricular events like school dances. The $400 per day fee will be partially funded through Title IV Safe and Drug Free Schools.

POLICY CHANGE

The Board is considering a policy change in disciplinary action, allowing for in-school suspensions at Grand Lake High School and Friday suspensions at Hackberry, South Cameron, and Johnson Bayou High Schools for certain offenses. Students serving in-school suspensions will not lose study time or test grades, but will spend their time in supervised activities.

In-school suspensions are not available for certain serious offenses by law, such as weapons, arson, assault and battery. Others offenses have been chosen by principals to be included in the list. Board members discussed whether it would be best to make the list final or to allow more discretion to principals on some offenses.

For example, Rachel Abadie asked whether a high school fistfight would be treated the same as two first graders pushing each other over the water fountain, or whether intimacy includes a third grader kissing another on the cheek. School Superintendent Stephanie Rodrigue said principals would still be in charge of investigating the actions.

Nunez, who teaches in Calcasieu Parish, was in favor of more discretion for school administrators, but Rodrigue said that in Cameron Parish parents want to know that each child is treated equally, regardless of school, and principals need guidelines to make sure this happens. The proposal will be considered for a month and voted on in November.

KRISTI MUNK and her dog Tonka, of Interquest Detection Canines, demonstrated Tonka's ability at Monday's School Board meeting. They have been hired to conduct random searches of parish schools for the remainder of the year. Interquest Canine's dogs can detect many forms of contraband, including alcohol, prescription drugs, and gunpowder related items, as well as narcotics. (Photo by Cyndi Sellers.)

CROCS BAN VOTED DOWN

A proposal to prohibit "Crocs," imitation "crocs," or other similar rubber composite shoes was voted down. Dwayne Sanner moved to defeat the proposal, made last month by Marvin Trahan. Nunez seconded, saying that school administrators have better things to do than police shoes, and making parents buy new shoes midyear would be a hardship.

PROPERTY ISSUES

The Board voted to reject an offer from the US Army Corps of Engineers of $5,600 for an easement on 15.43 acres of school section 16-13-10 adjacent to the Sabine National Wildlife Refuge on which the Corps inadvertently built a containment dike. Board President pointed out that if the situation were reversed, the Corps would be demanding that School Board remove the encroachment.

The Board's previous suggestions, that property be exchanged or that the Corps build another, lower dike inside the refuge boundary and leave the misplaced one alone, were both rejected. By law, the boundaries of the refuge cannot be changed except by Congress, and project managers said that a lower dike would still require an easement in case the higher one ever eroded.

The Board authorized District Attorney Cecil Sanner to negotiate with the Corps of Engineers, and suggested that they should build another dike, to full height, in the right place and just leave the misplaced one alone.

PROPERTY SWAP

Another property matter, a swap between the Police Jury and the Board in Grand Lake, received the go-ahead. Final vote will have to wait on a survey of the Parish's land, 5,135 acres adjacent to Grand Lake School. The exchange will be for an equal value of property, 3.95 acres next to the Big Lake ball park. Both parcels are valued at $30,810.

FINANCES

Some relief is on the way to offset Cameron Parish's reduction in state Minimum Foundation Program (MFP) funds. The reduction was due to lower enrollment caused by Hurricane Rita displacement. The General Appropriations Bill passed by the Legislature this spring provides public school districts in Jefferson Parish, Cameron Parish, and the City of Bogalusa with 55% of the shortfall. In Cameron Parish's case, that comes to $598,344.

These three districts were chosen because they had extensive hurricane damage as well as loss of students.

The Board authorized the president to sign an agreement with Cheniere Energy to accept payment in lieu of taxes of $811,537 for 2007, with authorizations to be signed annually for future payments, up to ten years.

The actual receipt of the check, originally expected in August, has been postponed, but a ceremony may take place in early November.

PERSONNEL

The Board approved the following appointments: Veronica Evangelina Caceres Faulk - Foreign language interpreter (Spanish.) SCS; Missy Poole - Special education teacher, GLS; Alaina Schexneider - First grade teacher, JBS; Jim Jordan - Part-time sweeper, GLS; Nicole Thibodeaux - Lunchroom tech, GLS; Mona Pierce - Bus Driver, GLS.

To The Voters of District 5:

I am asking for your continued support in the upcoming election on October 20, 2007. It has been an honor and pleasure to serve you these past 8 years, and with your vote, I will be able to continue our progress in making District 5 a better place for all of our families. We have worked hard these past 2 terms trying to improve our fire protection, which will ultimately save all of us from heightened insurance rates. We have gone from a rating of worst to first, (10 to 5). Among other things, we have worked hard to improve drainage, roads, recreational facilities, and ambulance services.

If re-elected as your Police Juror, I will continue to work with and for the people of District 5. I am asking for your support and vote on October 20, 2007.

I invite all of you to my home in Creole on Saturday evening October 20 to eat brisket and gumbo and enjoy a barn dance with live entertainment.

Improved airport facilities will greatly improve Cameron Parish's ability to attract new industries the Cameron Parish Police Jury was told Monday.

George Bailey, parish engineer, said the firm of Bovay Engineers was presently making a study of the aviation needs for the parish.

At the present Cameron is served by a privately owned airport at the town of Cameron, with a few other dirt strips located around the parish.

Bailey said the most companies such as oil companies, are now using small jet aircraft which cannot be handled by Cameron's present facilities.

Refuge Manager John R. Walther announced that the 1974 waterfowl hunt regulations for Sabine National Wildlife Refuge are now available for public distribution. Several major changes have been made this year in the regulations so all former and new refuge hunters are advised to obtain a copy or retain this article for future reference.

The Fish and Wildlife Service has adopted the use of iron shot shell for all refuge waterfowl hunts that will occur on federal refuges this season, said Walther. He noted that hunting will be limited to hunters having 12 gauge shotguns only and to the use of iron shot shells only.

CAMERON FEATURED IN NATIONAL STORY

(EDITOR'S NOTE) - Cameron got some more nationwide publicity last week when the Chicago Sun Times ran a feature on the $161.5 million Stingray pipeline project off the Cameron Coast. The article, which also ran in the New Orleans Times-Picayune and other papers, also mentioned Audrey.)

By PHILIP MOELLER

CAMERON, La. -- On June 27, 1957, Hurricane Audrey buried this Gulf Coast town, drowning 500 persons. When the water receded, the people returned only to be driven away six weeks later by a tropical storm. In August of 1962, a tornado tore through Cameron, causing loss of life and damage.

With such a past, if is not surprising that the Gulf of Mexico gets mixed reviews here. Yet, like many towns by the sea, Cameron needs the Gulf. In the beginning, it was for the fish. Today, oil and gas wells are the big attraction.

And Midwesterners, who may only dimly recall Audrey, have a sizeable stake in the biggest piece of action now going down in the Gulf--the $161.5 million Stingray pipeline.

Stingray is a joint project of Trunkline Gas Co. in Houston and Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America (NGPL), the gas transmissions subsidiary of Peoples Gas Co.

The two gas pipelines showed off the project to reporters last week, as work neared an end on laying 226 miles of pipe on the Gulf floor, the first and major phase of the project.

To the voters of District 6:

I am Ronald Gayle Nunez and I am running for Policy Jury of Cameron. I have been visiting voters in their homes, in my business, and trying to reach other voters by newspaper to help you understand why I want a seat on your next police jury. I have not been able to visit with each and everyone, and for that I am sorry but I am always available either at my store, Pitstop, or by calling me at 337-215-6615. Remember, every vote affects the way District 6 in Cameron will be run in the future and the way that we will rebuild it.

I have heard comments on the radio from a Police Jury employee that Cameron is coming back better than before Hurricane Rita... where are these people standing, because it is not in downtown Cameron. Most of the comments I have heard while out visiting with voters is how slow progress is and how little progress is being made. If the Police Jury is going to lie to you about the things you can see, what kind of lies are they telling you about the things you can't see. As a business owner, no one knows better than me how the police jury has held those of us who want to rebuild back from making progress for our community.

I think anytime you own the land and the buildings you should be able to do what you want with it. The parish government should not be able to tell you what building you can put on your land without a vote from the community. This sounds like dictatorship to me. The same goes for the local government putting up road blocks to keep you and your family from coming home.

In 2010 there will be a census taken in the United States. If the police jury doesn't change it's rules soon and allow people back home in lower Cameron Parish, there could be trouble. Low census counts in lower Cameron Parish could mean redistricting of the area. Lower census counts could also affect the way the legislature distributes funds for this part of the parish.

You need someone who will fight for the commercial fishermen, working class people, and fight for the future of our children. The same children who should have the right to know the Cajun way of life as their parents and grandparents did. Cameron belongs to the people, not the government. Help me give Cameron back to the people. Cameron should not be sold out to the government. I would love the chance to fight for you and your family to return to your way of life before the storm.

Your support would be greatly appreciated! Elect...

Check your heating system before the cold arrives

(NAPSA)-Don't freeze up when it comes to servicing your heating system. A regular system check before the season will help your system work efficiently when the temperature starts to drop. Here's what to do to avoid wasting energy dollars:

First, check your house to determine how airtight and insulated it is, and then ask your heating contractor to check how efficiently your system provides heat.

Things he can check:
• The "R" value (the relative value of your home's insulation) in areas like the basement, crawl space, attic, as well as in the living spaces;
• Leaky seals or gaps around doors and windows; and
• Ductwork for leaks.

Things you should discuss with him to help identify problems in your home:

• If there is moisture inside double-glazed windows or if they are cloudy; and
• Whether the snow melts and refreezes directly on uncovered window ledges or similar places.

When checking your heating system, ask the contractor to determine:

• If it is properly sized (one too large will do the job, but very expensively; and one too small incessantly cycles, running up bills while not delivering comfort);

• Whether flues are properly vented so combustion by-products are not sucked into your home;

• Whether a humidifier moisturizing air would make your home feel warmer;

• If your system's air filter is clean; and
• If there are small problems that could affect your entire heating system if uncorrected.

With proper care, corrective action and prevention, your heating system may provide you with affordable comfort. Don't put off a system checkup. Spending a few dollars this fall could save hundreds of dollars during the year.

When choosing a heating contractor, find one with NATE-certified gas, oil or heat-pump technicians. Certified professionals have proven their knowledge of heating by passing a stringent test, which is national in scope. Locate contractors with NATE-certified technicians at www.natex.org by clicking on the question mark.

Schedule a service call today so you're ready for whatever winter may bring. Let your contractor explain to you how affordable winter comfort can be.

These tips are brought to you by North American Technician Excellence, or NATE, the nation's largest nonprofit certification organization for heating, ventilation, air-conditioning and refrigeration technicians. The U.S. Department of Energy endorses NATE for raising quality standards and energy efficiency. # Coach Lalande wins his 200th game

The South Cameron Tarpons gave head coach Parry Lalande his 200th career win here Friday night with a 48-29 win over the Merryville Panthers.

The Tarpons scored seven touchdowns in their first nine possessions to totally outplay district rival Merryville and grab their third victory of the season and first district victory. The Panthers fell to 2-4 in the district opener for both teams.

Jonathon Trahan scored on two short runs and receiver Jaylon Ball back after missing last weeks game caught a 73 yard touchdown pass from Kyle Little to put the Tarpons ahead 28-14 at the half.

The Tarpons defense stiffened in the second half, not allowing a first down until a last minute Merryville scoring drive.

South Cameron's first score of the game came from the defense when lineman Matthew Miller recovered a muffed punt in the endzone to tie the score at 7-7. After that the Tarpons never looked back. The Tarpons final three scores came on short runs. Jonathon Trahan and Dex Murphy had 1 yard runs and Dylan Conner had a 4 yard run to cap the scoring for the Tarpons.

Jonathon Trahan had 18 carries for 76 yards, Dex Murphy 48 yards on 7 carries, Dylan Conner had 6 carries for 27 yards and Kirby Kingery added 11 yards on 5 carries. Kyle Little completed 5 of 11 passes for 112 yards with his favorite target Jaylon Ball catching 4 for 101 yards. Thomas Trosclair had 1 catch for 11 yards.

To the people of School Board District 5,

I know it will be impossible to see all of you before the October 20, 2007 elections. Through this ad I wish to share some of my opinions with you and in doing so ask for your VOTE. The most common question asked to me so far is "How would I have handled the issue of a four day school week"? In my opinion it should have been handled like the school uniform issue. A ballot should have been sent out to every Head of Household with children attending South Cameron allowing the majority to set the precedence.

I would like to point out some issues that are very important to me. #1- I actually live in my district of Creole and have been there for over a year, like my opponent I received no insurance money or ICC, very little help from FEMA and what money I did receive from Road Home, just came in. After Hurricane Rita, my family and I lived in Lafayette until we could make living arrangements in Cameron Parish, this meant a two hour drive for us to attend meetings set forth by our school authorities and leaving at 5 a.m. in the morning for my children to attend school when South Cameron was reopened in Grand Lake and then a 2 hour drive back at night. We endured this because coming back HOME and back to South Cameron was the most important issue for my family. #2- I attend many school functions both academic and athletic. I did so even before my children became a part of many of these functions because I care about our school and plan on doing so for many years to come. I have three children in South Cameron and I truly care about the future of our school. #3- South Cameron is the lifeline to Creole, it is a vital part of this community and surrounding communities such as Grand Chenier and Cameron, as many of us live here. My opponent, when given the opportunity to bring our School Board back to Cameron, abstained from voting, when his vote would have been the deciding factor.

On August 31, 2007 a ground breaking ceremony was held on the South Cameron campus, conveniently right before elections. Over a month has gone by and the only dirt that has moved at South Cameron is from the ground breaking ceremony. Read my opponent's campaign card it says "It is a slow process, but were getting closer to coming to terms on what we can do and cannot do". Sounds like to me that many more senior classes of South Cameron will have to graduate from these portable buildings. In the months after Hurricane Rita, I attended a meeting which former Superintendent Doug Chance and former Principal Dale Skinner arranged, according to them the plan was to have the newly consolidated school in place by 2009. We had two years for the thinking process to occur, it's time to make something happen. Success is not accomplished through just thinking, but by taking action.

I feel my opponent has forgotten the most important thing, the voices of our children, parents and teachers. A vote for me is a vote for you and your family to have a voice. I will listen to your concerns as parents, as we do have a lot in common - what is best for OUR children. My agenda is not a personal one, but one that will represent the wishes of the majority. I have an open door policy; feel free to talk to me when and where we meet. My cell phone number is 513-9956, feel free to call anytime. I plan on taking action, and encourage you to do so as well by taking the time to VOTE in the October 20, 2007 elections. Your opinion does matter, make it count!

Sincerely,

Richard R. Richard

By LOSTON MCEVERS

David Cresson of Baton Rouge, has taken over the reins of the Coastal Conservation Association, replacing executive director Jeff Angers, effective Oct. 1. He will take on a huge chore for organization conservation program and head activities with the CCA's 30,000 members representing 22 local chapters and man the staff at the Baton Rouge headquarters.

I didn't get many local fishing reports, as I spent three days on Sam Rayburn fishing the annual Rayburn Oilmen's Classic, as they still allow retired oilfield workers to fish. My son-in-law Travis Broussard fished hard, catching a few fish, but the low water and lack of grass in most areas made fish hard to find. We never had a keeper limit for either day.

There were four other teams from Cameron Parish that we talked to, but there luck was about like ours. There was a 10 pounder caught on Friday and that stringer was 24 pounds, so they were in the fish. Water levels on Rayburn Lake are 168.8 feet with two generators running and I noticed one of the dams was open and lots of water flowing out of the lake.

Although Toledo Bend has had plenty of water, the water is dropping, now down to 168 feet from over 172 feet, but the generators are not running.

I did get a chance to talk with a couple of Big Lake Anglers, and their catching lots of trout from Turners Bay, all the way down to the South end of the lake. A few good catches of Flounders are also reported. A few redfish at the weirs are being caught, but jetty fishing for redfish and large drums is still the best bet.

DECOYS

Today we've seen duck decoys come a long way from back when decoys were made of hand carved wood and paints. Light-weight decoys are the trend, but some hunters will have up to a 100 decoys per pond while years ago hunters were satisfied to have three dozen decoys, but they set them out before daylight and picked them up after there hunt, where today decoys stay in the pond all through duck season.

Then we have the electric duck that flaps it wings and swims and splashes water. However, the most effective duck decoy and duck caller were live decoys, which are now banned by law since 1935. Some hunters used these decoys for several years after the ban.

I remember my grandmother had about 20 or so English Callers with the chickens in a fenced-in area and lots of times we had regular migratory ducks light in the pasture as these English Callers would lure them in.

My grandmother would dare my uncle to use these English Callers for hunting. One day my uncle asked me to go hunting with him, but for me to catch 4 or 5 of these ducks, put them in a sack and be ready for the next morning. Yes, I sneaked in and got 5 English Callers and yes we tied a string to one leg and also to a stake in the pond with the rest of the decoys.

It did work, so not having a gun for myself, my uncle decided to let me shoot the next time ducks would come and so I did, but I shot the wrong mallards and killed two of grandma's English Callers, but we just put them in the limits and I eased the other three back to the chicken yard.

Well it didn't take long before grandma was raising cane about the raccoons or something eating her ducks and you bet your bottom dollar, I didn't say a word.

LAKE DISAPPEARS

Scot Lake in Florida has disappeared, when last June one or more sinkholes literally drained the water from the lake as if someone had pulled a plug, like when you pulled the plug from the bathtub.

A massive whirlpool resulting from the sinkholes apparently sent everything from fish, turtles, and alligators into the ground in less than 10 hours. The sinkholes swallowed three-quarters of the 285 acre lake's aquatic life, about 65,000 pounds of fish.

Florida Wildlife Commissioners said, following the flow led them into the ground. Although alligators are strong swimmers, they had no place to go except down with the flow.

Fisheries disaster program to be explained in B. R.

The Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Law Enforcement Division (LDWF/LED) was recently granted approval by the Louisiana Police Officers Standards and Training (POST) Council to offer the Maritime Search and Rescue Course (MSARC) to qualified POST certified peace officers.

In the months after the devastating landfalls of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, several law enforcement agencies across the state of Louisiana realized a vital need to train officers in all aspects of search and rescue (SAR), especially maritime search and rescue.

The LDWF/LED is the primary agency for search and rescue in the state and the Governor's Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness (GOHSEP) designated lead for SAR operations. LDWF/LED agents have several decades of experience in boating safety enforcement, maritime patrol enforcement and maritime search and rescue, and the division has received several requests from law enforcement agencies to provide maritime SAR training to their officers.

As a result, LDWF/LED designed and implemented the 40 hour MSARC to train other law enforcement officers in such areas as marine search and rescue, Louisiana Emergency Operation Plans (ESF-9 SAR), navigation rules, vessel handling, waterborne arrest techniques and more.

The first offerings of the course have been scheduled for Oct. 29-Nov. 2, and Nov. 12-Nov. 16.

Officers must be Louisiana POST certified peace officers and have successfully completed a National Association of State Boating Law Administrators or U.S. Coast Guard approved boating education course before being eligible to attend the course. Law enforcement agencies interested in having their officers attend the course or for more information on the course itself can contact LDWF/LED at 225-765-2980.

For more information, contact Rachel Zechenelly at rzechenelly@wlf.louisiana.gov or 225-765-2984.

Maritime search, rescue training to be offered

The Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries (LDWF) will present information on the new $41 million federal fisheries disaster assistance program at a series of meetings scheduled for Oct. 4 - Oct. 12 at LDWF headquarters at 2000 Quail Drive in Baton Rouge.

Funding for a federal fisheries disaster assistance program, aimed at directly assisting fishing industry participants, has been sought by Louisiana fishing industry leaders, Gov. Kathleen Blanco and the Louisiana congressional delegation as part of the recovery funding package following Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

LDWF will be meeting with individual fishery sectors and fishery organizations, representatives and stakeholders, at the following times to provide information on authorized uses of these funds and to gather input on allocation and distribution options:

1:00 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 4, Charter Boat and Recreational Fisheries
9:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 5, Shrimp Fisheries
1:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 5, Menhaden Fisheries
9:30 a.m., Monday, Oct. 8, Oyster Fisheries
1:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 8, Crab Fisheries
9:30 a.m., Tuesday, Oct. 9, Crawfish Fisheries
9:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 12, 2007

Freshwater and Saltwater Commercial Finfish Fisheries Meeting agendas will include a welcome followed by introductions, LDWF presentations on the $41 million federal fisheries disaster assistance program and allocation and distribution options and to conclude with public input.

For more information on the LDWF federal funding assistance meetings, contact Martin Bourgeois at 225-765-2401 or mbourgeois@wlf.louisiana.gov.

Catfish and bluegills are being stocked in the state

As water temperatures drop enough to make fish handling safe, employees with the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries (LDWF) Booker Fowler and Beechwood Fish Hatcheries are busy stocking lakes statewide with channel catfish and bluegill.

Booker Fowler Fish Hatchery, LDWF's primary fish-production facility, is currently undergoing a partial renovation and did not have the pond space to raise the catfish or bluegill this year.

"Through a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS), the fish were raised at the Natchitoches National Fish Hatchery," said Kristi Butler, LDWF biologist manager. "The department is grateful to the USFWS for their assistance."

Inland Fisheries district biologists make requests for fish each year, which are prioritized by need into a single list. Hatchery employees then work to fulfill the requests, starting with the highest stocking priority and working down the list. This year, 745,000 channel catfish and 6.7 million bluegill were requested for 36 bodies of water around the state of Louisiana. The fish are transported from the hatchery to the stocking location by special trucks equipped with insulated tanks and oxygen distribution systems.

Channel catfish are usually requested for lakes in urban areas with high fishing pressure. Bluegill are usually requested for urban areas and lakes that have been renovated to provide forage for subsequent stockings of large-mouth bass in the spring. Some of the stockings requested this year are part of the department's continued efforts to restore fisheries impacted by the 2005 hurricanes.

Both the channel catfish and the bluegill stocked this fall should reach harvestable size after another growing season.

For more information, contact Kristi Butler at Booker Fowler Fish Hatchery at kbutler@wlf.louisiana.gov or 318-748-6914.

It's Time For A Change In The Way Louisiana Is Being Governed!

"I believe in my heart that a change in political leadership will benefit Louisiana, that's one of the reasons I'm running for the office of State Senator in District 25. We must change the way government is being conducted, change the way our tax dollars are being spent and more importantly, change the way we prepare for and recover from natural disasters. We must re-focus on identifying the things that Louisiana must do to move off the bottom of national lists which rank our ethics, education and economic development below par.

It's time to ask who's responsible for our poor roads? Who's responsible for our poor educational system? Who's responsible for our healthcare system, insurance problems...and so many other problems facing Louisiana? Career politicians are responsible, but they just won't admit it. They will, however, blame everyone else for our problems.

I offer a sound business like approach to government. I offer leadership, innovative solutions and most importantly...collaboration with other new members of state government. I would appreciate your vote and support."

Yes! Dig some worms. Dash to grab your pole and let's go fishing! Do you like to stand on the bank or a pier to fish? Maybe you like to row out to the middle of a lake or pond with Mom or Dad. ### A Personal Message From Christine Perry

Dear Neighbors,

In 1999, I was blessed to marry Jonathan Perry. Since that time, I have watched Jonathan become a police officer, a City Councilman, an attorney, and an Assistant District Attorney. But most importantly, I have seen Jonathan become a wonderful husband and loving father, and at all times keeping his faith in God.

Nothing has been given to Jonathan except the will to succeed and provide for our family. I will never forget the three years, early in our marriage, when Jonathan drove to Baton Rouge every day to earn his law degree and at the same time working to support our family.

I have seen firsthand the kindness and overwhelming help that he has given to those in the community, as a police officer, a City Councilman, and as an attorney.

Jonathan has worked hard for our family and our community. As your State Representative, Jonathan will continue to work hard to make our community a better and more prosperous place to raise a family. On October 20th, I hope you will join me in supporting my husband, Jonathan Perry.

Sincerely,

Christine Perry

What to do when a friend has cancer

(NAPSA)-The birth of a child is sweet. For Amy and Warren Taylor, the birth of a healthy baby boy was especially joyous because the fragile infant developed and survived his mother's treatment for stage-three breast cancer-including chemotherapy, blood transfusions and a mastectomy. His healthy birth ended months of uncertainty as to how the cancer treatments might affect him.

When Amy was diagnosed, the Taylors were overwhelmed with information, decisions and life. "When Amy was diagnosed, I told four people that first night and I was exhausted," Warren said.

When someone you know is facing a serious health diagnosis or a condition like breast cancer, there are many ways you can help ease the strain:

1. Help out at home: Mow the lawn, take the trash to the curb, water the plants or collect the mail or newspaper. Offer to fold laundry or clean the house.

2. Help with meals: Provide ready-to-cook meals, frozen and portioned according to the family's size. Make-and-bake meal preparation stores are convenient if you don't like to cook. Restaurant gift cards always come in handy. Go grocery shopping for those family members who remain at home-or invite them for dinner.

3. Take care of the rest of the family: Help the kids at home get to school in the morning or to their after-school activities. Provide rides for the kids or dinner for them before their evening activities. Offer to take them shopping for a special birthday, holiday or get-well gift. Walk the dog or change the cat's litter box.

4. Create a caring community: That's what Warren's brother did when he set up a free, personalized Web site where the couple could post regular updates to keep people apprised of her treatments. The site created through CaringBridge.org became the conduit for engaging the Taylors' friends and family to provide the encouragement Amy needed to persevere. Approximately 1/3 of the nonprofit's private, personalized sites are for individuals battling some form of cancer.

"When you're fighting cancer, you can feel like you're in a bubble and alone," Amy said. "The responses, the love from people reading my site, their prayers kept me going and helped me realize that I wasn't isolated in this bubble."

5. Don't do it alone: Coordinating daily dog duty or the kid pool to extracurricular activities among a group will help spread out the responsibility and time commitment. A group may even be able to tackle larger projects such as painting or landscaping that will really touch the family.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE

"When facing a serious health condition, people live in a slow-motion world filled with fear, uncertainty and important medical decisions. They simply can't focus on-or may even forget about-day-to-day activities," said Dr. Jesse Gruman, president of the Center for the Advancement of Health. "Those burdens cause action paralysis. Friends and family can best help by just doing whatever they see that needs doing."

Supporting family, friends and neighbors who are facing a serious health condition, treatment or a prolonged illness can be incredibly fulfilling, and your efforts will be a welcome relief during long days.

Nutrition in a nutshell

(NAPSA)-Since the late 1980's, adult obesity has steadily increased to the point at which more than 65 percent of all Americans are now overweight and over 30 percent are obese. Also, 15 percent of children and adolescents ages 6 to 19 are overweight-nearly double the rate of two decades ago. Prevention of obesity is based on managing energy balance.

The Food and Drug Administration says a great tool to help manage calorie intake is the Nutrition Facts Label on food packages. The label has a lot of useful information, especially the number of calories and serving sizes in your food.

When you select or compare foods, see what the label says about the serving size and calories. Ask yourself these important questions:

What is the serving size? How many servings are in the container? How many calories are in a single serving?

Many packages hold more than one serving. When you consume multiple servings, it is easy to eat or drink much more than you realize. This can affect your calorie intake (and over time, your weight). If you eat and drink more calories than you burn, you will gain weight. To achieve or maintain a healthy weight, be mindful of calories when comparing like products.

How many calories are high or low for a serving? This depends on your calorie goal for the day and how you balance your food choices during the day. In general, though, follow this guide to size up calories in a single serving:

New way to teach Science

(NAPSA)-It's no mystery that murder crimes and the use of forensic evidence to convict or free suspects has attracted the attention of millions with the popularity of shows such as CSI and its spinoffs.

Schools are even catching on to the craze and using forensic investigations to teach science.

Books such as the unconventional textbook "The Forensic Mission" (Wiley) by E.K. Hein are helping students learn about forensic science in an entertaining, engaging way.

"The Forensic Mission" draws readers into a suspenseful mystery while delving into forensic science and its role in solving crimes.

This fictional work revolves around a string of perplexing homicides in Philadelphia, involving students from Roxborough High School, and stumping Philadelphia Head Detective Melinda Monsternick.

The book covers crime scene procedures such as blood typing, DNA, fingerprints, ballistics and stages of decomposition. There's also key terminology and instructive forensic lessons at the end of every chapter.

The book's cover may intrigue young adult fiction fans but its content doubles as a chilling suspense novel and science textbook. The book is available at www.wiley.com or where books are sold.

Following the rules is the key to charcoal Tailgating victory

(NAPSA)-Serious tailgaters are just as passionate about their parking lot buffets as they are about the game. And for a majority of tailgaters, only a charcoal grill will do when it comes to cooking the feast. In fact, according to the recent Weber Tailgating Study, 61 percent of tailgaters who bring grills with them opt for a charcoal grill when prepping for the "big game."

"Cooking a pregame spread over charcoal is a major matter of pride for a lot of us," says Chef Jamie Purviance, a renowned grilling expert and author of the new "Weber's Charcoal Grilling" cookbook. "The fickleness of a live fire requires more skills than a gas grill does, but once you've learned to control it, the rewards are huge, both in terms of taste and a sense of accomplishment."

Rookie grillers sometimes let their excitement get ahead of them, jumping in like a young quarterback off the bench for the first time and fumbling. One surefire way to avoid similar problems is to read the playbook on the top five grilling mistakes that always draw a penalty flag:

Flag: False Start

Thrown when: Lighter fluid is used to start the fire.

The Right Call: Chemical starters are dangerous and leave behind a nasty taste, so don't look their way for your start-up. Instead, place crumpled newspaper or paraffin cubes on the grate, cover with a pyramid of charcoal briquettes, and ignite. When your charcoal is coated with light grey ash (usually about 20 minutes after it's lit), you're ready to cook. A chimney starter makes this process easy.

Flag: Unnecessary Roughness

Thrown when: A spatula is used to press the burger against the cooking grate.

The Right Call: Squeezing only pushes out flavor. Let your meat cook until it separates cleanly from the grate (a light coating of oil will help it brown evenly and prevent sticking). Then flip-once. That's all most foods need.

Flag: Illegal Procedure

Thrown when: The grill lid is open while you cook.

The Right Call: Keep the lid down to cook your food faster and more evenly. This also reduces the chances of a flare-up.

Flag: Delay Of Game

Thrown when: You don't have the right equipment.

The Right Call: Missing gear can make you miss kick-off, so be prepared with this list: aluminum pans, paper plates and cups, tongs, spatulas, mitts, cutting boards, ice, condiments, seasonings, trash bags-and, of course, charcoal, a chimney starter and a grill.

Flag: Holding

Thrown when: Hot coals and ashes are not safely disposed of after grilling.

The Right Call: Always wait until coals have completely cooled before disposing in a fireproof trash bin or ash can. If you empty ashes every time you grill, you'll get better air flow when starting your next fire. Plus, ashes absorb moisture, which may cause your grill to rust.

For tips and tailgating recipes, visit www.weber.com/tailgating.

PEPPER STEAK TACOS WITH PICO DE GALLO

Prep time: 15 minutes
Grilling time: 5 to 7 minutes

SALSA

2 cups seeded, finely diced ripe tomato
1 cup 1/4-inch-diced red onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped fresh cilantro
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 teaspoon minced serrano chile
3/4 teaspoon kosher salt

RUB

1 1/2 teaspoons whole black peppercorns
1 1/2 teaspoons cumin seed
1 1/2 teaspoons kosher salt
3/4 teaspoon pure chile powder
3/4 teaspoon granulated garlic
1 1/2 pounds skirt steak, about 1/2 inch thick, trimmed of excess surface fat
Extra virgin olive oil
12 corn or flour tortillas (6 to 8 inches)

1. In a medium bowl combine the salsa ingredients. Mix well. If desired, to fully incorporate the flavors, let the salsa sit at room temperature for 1 hour.

2. Using a mortar and pestle or spice mill, crush the peppercorns and the cumin seed. Place in a small bowl and mix with the remaining rub ingredients.

3. Fill a Weber RapidFire Chimney Starter to the rim with mesquite charcoal and burn the charcoal until it is lightly covered with ash. Spread the charcoal in a tightly packed, single layer across one-half of the charcoal grate. Put the cooking grate in place, close the lid, and preheat the grill for 10 minutes. Leave all the vents open.

4. Cut the skirt steak into 2 or 3 sections so they fit on the grill. Lightly coat each of the steaks with oil. Season them evenly with the rub. Let the steaks sit at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes before grilling. Stack 6 tortillas on top of each other and wrap them in aluminum foil. Repeat with the remaining 6 tortillas.

5. Brush the cooking grate clean. Grill the steaks over direct high heat, with the lid closed as much as possible, until lightly charred on the surface and cooked to your desired doneness, 5 to 7 minutes for medium rare, turning once or twice and swapping their positions as needed for even cooking. At the same time, warm the 2 packets of tortillas over indirect high heat for 4 to 6 minutes, turning once. Remove the steaks and tortillas from the grill and let the steaks rest for 2 to 3 minutes (keep the tortillas warm in the foil). Cut the meat across the grain into thin slices. Pile the meat inside warm tortillas and top with the salsa, draining the juices back into the bowl so the tortillas don't get too wet. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

PEPPER STEAK TACOS with Pico de Gallo will spice up your next tailgate party.

Fried chicken recipe steals great-grandma's secrets

(NAPSA)-It doesn't get more American than fried chicken, and the crowd's expecting it for the big game-day party. Now you can reward them with a time-honored recipe that's been updated with a bit of zesty spice.

Tailgating Fried Chicken uses the old-fashioned flavor of buttermilk to sharpen the chicken's flavors and thrill even the pickiest taste buds. Then it gives the succulent meat a modern twist with cayenne pepper.

The peanut oil adds a robust, nutty flavor and intensifies the crispy texture of the breading. It also seals in the chicken's moistness. This oil's high smoke point lets you fry at higher temperatures for flaky, light and beautiful dishes that are never greasy or crumbly.

FRIED CHICKEN

1 whole roasting chicken, cut into pieces
6 cups buttermilk, divided
2 1/2 gallons LouAna peanut oil
2 large eggs
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon plus 2 teaspoons kosher salt, divided
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
Use a traditional propane fryer outdoors away from wooden decks, in accordance with the manufacturer's safety procedures. Or use a Masterbuilt Electric Deep Fryer in your kitchen and follow the directions.

Place chicken in a large, heavy-duty, zip-top plastic bag. Add 4 cups buttermilk to bag; seal. Refrigerate 2 hours, turning occasionally. Pour oil into a large deep fryer; heat to 350 degrees.

While oil heats, combine remaining 2 cups buttermilk and eggs in a large, shallow bowl, stirring well with a whisk.

Combine flour, 1 tablespoon salt, and peppers in another shallow dish, stirring well.

Drain chicken; discard marinade. Sprinkle remaining 2 teaspoons salt evenly over chicken. Dredge chicken in flour mixture; dip in egg mixture.

Return chicken to flour mixture; coat well. Fry chicken at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until done.

Serves 8 people. Visit www.louana.com for complete information on preparation, frying and safety.

A little fried chicken can make any meal a real picnic.

Now is the time to plant your fall vegetable garden

By DAN GILL
LSU AgCenter
Horticulturist

Cooler mornings in October make it a joy to get out and work in the home vegetable garden. A number of delicious and nutritious vegetables will thrive in the coming cool season. Indeed, some of our favorite vegetables can only be grown in Louisiana October through April.

Before planting, do a thorough job of removing any weeds that may have grown in the bed. Turn the soil and add at least a 3-inch layer of compost, rotted manure, leaf mold (partially decayed leaves) or other organic matter. Sprinkle a light application of an all-purpose fertilizer appropriate for your area and lime (if your soil is acid and low in calcium) over the organic matter, and dig everything into the bed. You could also use your favorite organic fertilizer.

Never scrimp on bed preparation, as it has a direct effect on how well your plants will produce. And, once your plants are growing don't forget to use mulches to control weeds.

Broccoli is an easy-to-grow and productive fall vegetable. Plant transplants you will find at area nurseries now through mid-October. Space plants 12 to 18 inches apart in rows or beds. The closer spacing will produce smaller heads, but total production is greater since you have more plants per row or bed.

Broccoli heads are harvested when the largest flower buds in the head are about the size of the head of a kitchen match. It is common for gardeners growing broccoli for the first time to leave the heads on the plant too long.

Never allow the flower buds to begin to open into yellow flowers, or quality of the head is reduced. After the main head is harvested, side florets will be produced, and harvesting can continue for several weeks.

Cauliflower is a bit more challenging than broccoli but is still a good choice for your fall garden. Cauliflower should be spaced 18 to 24 inches apart; closer spacing will greatly reduce the size of the head.

Cauliflower produces only one head, so after harvesting remove the entire plant from your garden to make way for planting something else. For white heads, blanch the cauliflower by pulling the leaves up over the head when it is about the size of a silver dollar. Fasten the leaves with a clothes pin and check the head frequently. Harvest before the curds of the head start to separate.

Kohlrabi is not nearly as well known or commonly grown as it deserves. It is grown for its round, edible stem, which tastes like a mild, sweet version of a turnip. Seeds or transplants may be planted now through February. From transplants, this fast-growing vegetable is ready to harvest in just 7 to 8 weeks. Harvest the stems when they range from a golf ball to a tennis ball in size. They are excellent peeled and sliced for vegetable trays or salads, stir fried, steamed or boiled.

Other related vegetables that are recommended for fall gardens include cabbage, kale and collards. All of these can be planted from seed or transplants now through February.

Garlic may be planted now through November by pressing individual cloves – big end down – into the prepared soil so that the tip of the garlic is about 1/4 inch below the soil surface. Space the cloves 4 to 6 inches apart in rows spaced about 15 inches apart.

Garlic growth is slow, and the 15-inch space between rows can be used for intercropping. Intercropping is a term used when two or more different vegetables are grown in the same bed at the same time.

The garlic plants will not use the 15 inches between the rows for several months, and a quick-growing vegetable can be grown in that area and harvested before the garlic needs it. Good choices would include radishes, leaf lettuce, beets, kohlrabi and spinach.

These vegetables are not large growers and will be harvested long before the garlic is ready next May.

Intercropping may also be done with other vegetables such as cabbage and cauliflower that are initially spaced far apart.

A complete listing of vegetables that can be planted this month includes beet, broccoli, cabbage, carrot, cauliflower, celery, Chinese cabbage, collard, endive, garlic, kale, kohlrabi, leek, lettuce, mustard, onion, peas (English, snow and edible podded), radish, rape, rutabaga, shallot, Swiss chard, turnip and many herbs such as thyme, sage, rosemary, oregano, French tarragon, lavender, chives, cilantro, dill, mints and parsley.

Halloween Fun Facts

Candy corn, jack-o-lanterns, goblins and ghosts. What do all of these things have in common? They're all a part of Halloween. Ever wonder how the celebration of the scariest day of the year got started? Read on if you dare.

According to many experts, the Druids were the first people to celebrate Halloween around 700 B.C. At the time, they held a festival called "Samhain" on November 1 to celebrate the end of the harvest and to honor the dead. On the night before the festival, the Druids would leave food on their doorsteps to keep hungry spirits from coming into their homes. At the festival, they would disguise themselves in ghost, witch and goblin costumes to keep the spirits from bothering them.

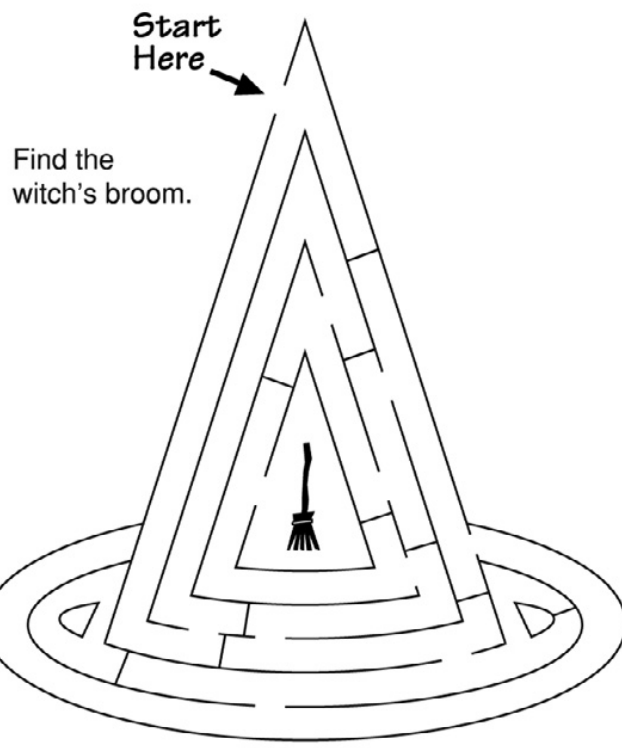

Eventually the day before Samhain became known as the Eve of all Hallows, Hallow Even and eventually, Hallow e'en. Today we call it Halloween, and like the Druids, we give out food and dress up in costumes.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On September 25, 2007, Black Bayou Storage, LLC ("Black Bayou") filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ("FERC") in Docket Nos. CP07-451-000, et al., an abbreviated application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity that would authorize Black Bayou to construct, own, operate and maintain a salt dome natural gas storage facility. The bulk of the project facilities will be located in Cameron Parish, Louisiana, but certain of the project pipelines will extend for a short distance into Calcasieu Parish, Louisiana.

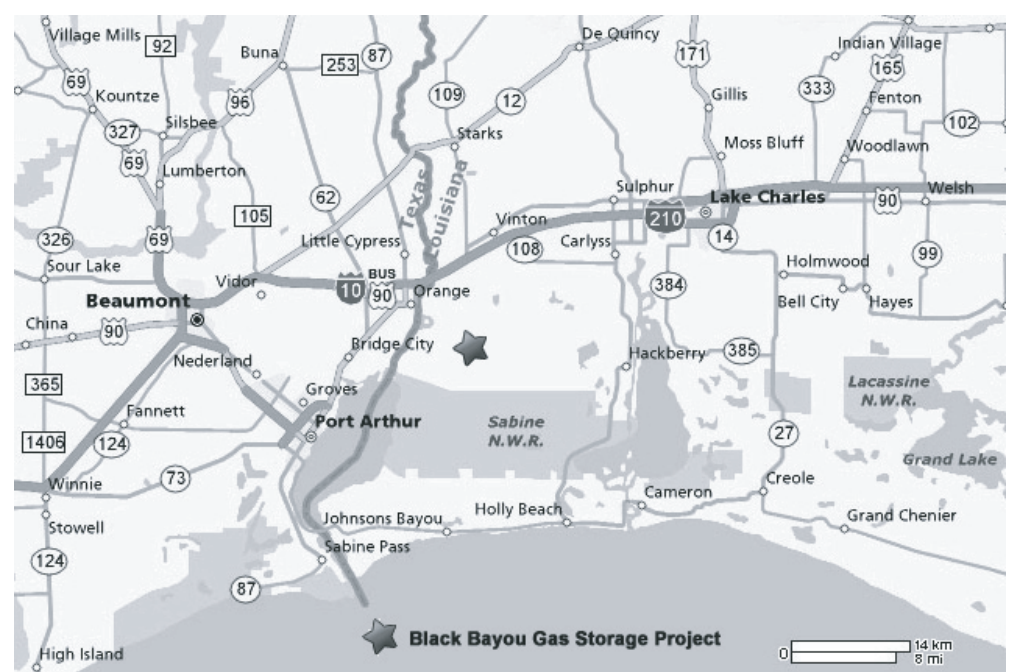

The abbreviated application also seeks (i) a blanket certificate that would authorize Black Bayou to provide open-access firm and interruptible interstate natural gas storage and storage-related services, (ii) a blanket certificate that would authorize Black Bayou to construct, acquire, operate, and abandon certain other facilities, (iii) an authorization for Black Bayou to charge market based rates for its proposed interstate storage services and storage-related services, and (iv) FERC approval for a gas tariff that sets forth the rates and terms of service for interstate storage and storage-related services.

The general location of the proposed natural gas storage facility is shown on the map that accompanies this notice. Those interested in the exact location should consult the maps filed with the abbreviated application. The construction and operation of the proposed natural gas storage facility will not have a significant adverse impact on the environment. Black Bayou proposes to begin construction of the facility in June 2008 and to begin the initial operation of the facility in May 2011.

A copy of Black Bayou's abbreviated application, excluding privileged and critical energy infrastructure information, has been placed in the Cameron Parish Public Library located at Main Street in Lake Charles, Louisiana, as well as in the Central Library of the Calcasieu Parish Public Library located at 101 West Claude Street in Lake Charles, Louisiana. Any person affected by this application who wishes to comment on the application and/or participate in the FERC proceeding in Docket Nos. CP07-451-000, et al., may do so by writing to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Office of External Affairs, First Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20422, or by contacting the Commission by phone at (202) 502-0042.

In addition, a FERC pamphlet, An Interstate Natural Gas Facility On My Land? What Do I Need To Know?, which addresses basic concerns of landowners and explains the FERC process for the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity, is available from the FERC Internet web site at <http://www.ferc.gov/for-citizens/citizen-guides/citiz-guide-gas.pdf>.

A separate notice has been mailed to each affected landowner and local/state government office. If you have any questions regarding this Notice, you may contact Mr. John Boone at (866) 923-0211 or Mr. John R. Staffier at (202) 638-6588.

Kick heartburn out of your exercise routine

(NAPSA)-Exercise may keep you healthy and strong, but most people don't know that it can also cause heartburn. The good news is that exercise-induced heartburn can be controlled for heartburn sufferers to help them continue an active lifestyle.

Researchers believe that certain exercises may increase abdominal pressure and push stomach acid into the esophagus, contributing to heartburn symptoms. Below are some tips from the National Heartburn Alliance to avoid heartburn during exercise:

- Avoid vigorous exercises. A bouncing type of exercise, such as jogging, can increase your chances of suffering from acid reflux.

- Pass up protein and fatty snacks. Food that is consumed less than two hours before exercising makes a huge impact on the occurrence of heartburn. Preworkout meals should be high in carbohydrates and low in fat and protein.

- Limit types of foods. Certain foods and beverages are more likely to cause heartburn than others. Moderate your intake of citrus fruits and juices, chocolate, onions, peppermint, spearmint, fatty or spicy foods and caffeinated or carbonated beverages.

- Time your meals. Exercising on a full stomach is not advisable, largely because it increases intra-abdominal pressure, which may contribute to heartburn. Wait at least two hours after a meal before exercising.

- Control quantity. Decrease portion sizes when eating prior to exercise. Reflux is more likely to occur when there is a lot of food in the stomach.

- Drink plenty of water before and during exercise. Water aids in digestion and also prevents dehydration.

- Talk to your health care professional. Confirm what types of exercises cause the least amount of discomfort for you and what you can do to ease the heartburn if it reoccurs. Your doctor can advise you and help you understand differences between available treatment options.

- Use the appropriate medication to help avoid future heartburn. In addition to speaking to your doctor, choosing the correct heartburn medication is an important step in preventing exercise-induced heartburn. Treatment options are available, including antacids (e.g., Tums®), H2 blockers (e.g., Zantac®) and proton pump inhibitors (e.g., Prilosec OTC®). Speak to your doctor about which is best for you.

"With the proper treatment, active individuals can continue their regular exercise regimen without worrying about the return of heartburn," says Dr. Janet Engle, a Clinical Professor at the College of Pharmacy at the University of Illinois at Chicago. "If heartburn induced by exercise continues to be a problem, you should talk to your doctor about the treatment option that is best for you."

For the more than 60 million people who suffer from heartburn each month in the U.S., understanding and finding treatment options can be difficult. The key to treating exercise-induced heartburn is to understand what type you have.

Heartburn is a condition caused by stomach acid flowing up into the esophagus; however, contrary to popular belief, there are different types of heartburn:

- Episodic or occasional heartburn is characterized by infrequent bouts of heartburn that are usually manageable or predictable in the short term.

- Frequent heartburn (FHB) occurs two or more days per week. Frequent heartburn sufferers may also be those who medicate heartburn symptoms more than

Cool, tasty & wholesome Feet are a mirror to your overall health

(NAPSA)-When you visit the cool aisles of your grocery store, you can find convenient and tasty foods such as cheeses, yogurts, dips, potatoes, eggs, juices and more. When you get them home, take note of these hints on saving and storing them:

- Your refrigerator temperature should be at 40°F-you can check it with an appliance thermometer.

- Store dairy products such as yogurt, milk, cream and cottage cheese in their original containers, with lids closed tightly.

- Refrigerate cheese in its original wrapper; after opening, store in air-tight containers.

- Cheeses are best stored as close to the bottom of the refrigerator as possible-the vegetable compartment is ideal.

- Store milk in the coldest part of the refrigerator-not on door panels.

- Avoid exposing milk,

two days per week. People with FHB might also find themselves using multiple over-the-counter (OTC) medications more than two days a week for relief.

- Severe or chronic heartburn occurs more than two days per week and persists while taking appropriate medications, despite dietary and lifestyle changes. Sufferers with severe heartburn should speak to a health care professional.

"Understanding these various types of heartburn is key to knowing how to choose the most appropriate medicine," says Dr. Engle. "Just as not all heartburn is the same, not all medicine is the same."

For more information on heartburn and how to treat it, visit the National Heartburn Alliance at www.heartburnalliance.org.

cream and other dairy products to bright light as it can affect flavor.

- Brush or vacuum dirty refrigerator or freezer coils-you can improve energy efficiency by as much as 30 percent.

Here, from The National Frozen & Refrigerated Foods Association (NFRA), is a delicious and easy breakfast to make, with key ingredients from the refrigerated dairy aisle:

Cheddar Potato Pancakes

- 2 1/4 cups refrigerated hash brown potatoes
- 1/4 cup refrigerated egg substitute
- 3/4 cup shredded, sharp cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped onions
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 tsp. dried thyme
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil, divided
- 3/4 cup dairy sour cream

Mix first 8 ingredients in medium bowl. Form into 8 oval patties. Heat 2 Tbsp. oil in a nonstick skillet over medium heat. Cook until golden, turning once (4-5 minutes). Drain on paper towels. Serve pancakes with a dollop of sour cream.

strip the natural moisture from your skin, potentially leading to infections. After washing, dry feet thoroughly, paying special attention to the skin between toes.

- Exfoliate - Because you can't recognize a problem if you can't physically see or feel it, regular foot exfoliation is key. Exfoliating feet on a regular basis can help keep away the discomfort of hardened calluses and cracked heels.

- Protect Your Feet - Avoid walking outside or within your home without socks and shoes, as this makes feet more susceptible to bacteria and infections.

Creating a "Spooktacular" Halloween With Flowers

(NAPSA)-Whether you are playing host to a swarm of trick-or-treaters or are looking for decorating ideas that reflect the colors of the seasons, you can do it with flowers.

"Fall is such a great time to add flowers to your home's decor," said Jill Slater, flower designer for www.flowerpossibilities.com. "The rich colors and whimsical design options are not only great inspiration, but also create instant pizzazz."

Slater offers the following flower recipe for fall magic:

- Pirate Pumpkin Materials
- One 7-inch pumpkin (faux or real)
  - One brick floral foam
  - One pirate eye patch and hat
  - One steak knife for pirate's mouth and sculpting
  - One large bunch (about 50 stems) bear grass
  - Two stems orange pin-cushion protea
  - Three stems green leucadendron
  - Two stems orange gerbera daisies
  - 10 greening pins or three pieces 27-gauge (12-inch long) straight wires
  - Floral clippers, floral food/preservative
  - Knife and spoon for cutting and scooping out pumpkin
  - Black permanent marker

- Directions
1. Soak the floral foam, for at least 30 minutes, in water that has been treated with flower food/preservative.
  2. Cut and scoop out the pumpkin.
  3. With permanent marker, draw eye and nose of Pirate Pumpkin.
  4. Insert the floral foam into the pumpkin. With steak knife, shape the foam coming out of the pumpkin into a cone/Christmas tree shape.
  5. Begin wrapping the bear grass around the foam, using the greening pins to hold the bear grass in place. (If using straight wire, cut the wire into 3-inch lengths; bend in half and use as bobby pins.)
  6. Place and pin (use greening pins or straight wire) pirate patch and hat on pirate and begin inserting flowers, leucadendron to one side and protea and gerbera daisies on the other.
  7. Finally, insert the steak knife in the mouth position.
- To learn more, visit the Web site at www.flowerpossibilities.com.

Many feel that the rich colors of the season can make the fall an excellent time to add flowers to a home's decor.

Clean house naturally

(NAPSA)-Cleaning house has come a long way since the days of doing laundry in a washbasin and scrubbing the floors with vinegar and water. Yet with all that progress comes some drawbacks, namely dangerous chemicals that can pose risks to your family's health as well as the environment.

Prior to World War II, most homeowners kept a cleaning toolbox of only a few healthy, natural items they mixed themselves to use all over the house. Today, advances in chemistry and cleaning have stocked store shelves with products for nearly any household chore. But those choices might not make your home any healthier, so it might be time to consider looking to the past for safe, all-natural cleaning tools.

Here are a few time-tested, all-natural cleaning products, as well as a couple of recipes to consider incorporating into your home-cleaning routine.

White vinegar - One of the most versatile and affordable cleaning agents around, white vinegar's grease-cutting powers can be used to clean your dishes and countertops, polish some metals, clean glass and even absorb smoke odors.

20 Mule Team Borax - For doing laundry, nothing kicks out stains better than 20 Mule Team Borax, a brand-name natural laundry booster that's more than 115 years old. Team it up with your favorite laundry detergent for whiter whites and brighter colors. Borax is also versatile enough to make everything sparkle-from fine china and cookware to show-ers, tubs and tiles. It's also a natural deodorizer.

Lemon juice - Affordable and naturally fresh smelling, lemons are excellent for breaking down hard water and soap scum build-ups.

Lemons can also be combined with vinegar to create a bleach substitute, to be used on clothing and cutting boards. Throw one down the garbage disposal to get rid of unwelcome odors.

Baking soda - This is another solution for absorbing bad odors, such as those in the refrigerator. Rather than dumping unhealthy chemicals into the sewer system, mix baking soda with boiling water for a safe and effective drain cleaner.

Here are a couple of recipes to get you going on the road to natural cleaning:

General Household Cleaner
1/4 cup baking soda
1/2 cup 20 Mule Team Borax
1/2 cup vinegar
1 gallon water

Window/Glass Cleaner
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 quart water

Motorcycle insurance

(NAPSA)-A motorcycle is a significant investment. Before you get your motor running and head out on the highway this season, you owe it to yourself to make sure your insurance is up-to-date and you're properly covered.

"Just as riding a motorcycle is much different than driving a car, riders should know that their motorcycle insurance needs are different, too," said Rick Stern, motorcycle product manager, The Progressive Group of Insurance Companies.

Here are some tips: Update your policy. First, verify that all your coverages are still in force. Be aware that some companies have a winter layaway period during which some coverages are restricted. Check with your insurance company to see if you currently have any type of limited coverage.

Next, note any changes such as additional riders or a new garaging address. A quick call to your independent agent or insurance company will ensure coverage that reflects your current needs.

Consider additional liability coverage. If you have significant assets, it may be to your benefit to carry a higher limit just in case you are involved in an accident that causes injury to someone else or damage to property.

Look into medical payments coverage. Medical payments coverage pays your medical bills as well as your passenger's and is available in limits up to $25,000 in most states.

Make sure custom parts and equipment are covered. Additional parts such as chrome plating, a custom paint job, saddlebags or special rims usually increase the value of your motorcycle and may not be covered. If you've added any custom parts or equipment, you'll want to check your policy or call your independent agent to make sure they're covered.

Know your options. Rates can vary, so shop around to see if another company offers you a better rate or if you qualify for any discounts. If you have comprehensive and collision coverage, consider raising your deductibles. Doing so can help to lower the cost of your policy.

Choose a company that specializes in motorcycle insurance. For example, Progressive is America's largest motorcycle insurer. Progressive agents and brokers understand the special needs of motorcycle owners and offer specialized coverages that are designed for them and their bikes.

Five ways to stronger bones

by MINDY HERMANN,
R.D.

(NAPSA) - Take these simple steps now to delay joining the millions of American adults over the age of 50 who have osteoporosis.

1. Go for three daily servings of naturally calcium-rich low-fat or nonfat milk, cheese or yogurt. Or include other high-calcium beverages and foods; for example, soy milk with calcium, calcium-fortified juice, and all five varieties of Whole Grain Total cereal.

2. Make sure that your daily routine includes walking, jogging, dancing, hiking or other weight-bearing activities that help preserve your bones.

3. Catch a few rays. Exposure to sunlight stimulates production of vitamin D-a vitamin that helps the body absorb calcium. Vitamin D is also added to milk and some yogurts.

4. Boost your balance. Core-strengthening exercises on an exercise ball, yoga and Pilates can all improve your balance and lessen your chances of falling.

5. Try recipes that include high-calcium ingredients, like our delicious Banana-Wheat Muffins.

Car trunk essentials

(NAPSA)-Before loading up the car for your next road trip, get rid of the junk, but make sure you don't dump the items that every driver should have on the road-from the basic essentials to the ultimate car accessories.

When it comes to preparing for the unexpected and preventing roadside trouble, your car trunk should include these items:

• First-Aid Kit - Better to be safe than sorry. A first-aid kit is a must for every car.

• Flashlight - In case problems arise after dark, make sure to have a flashlight with fresh batteries.

• Jumper Cables - Whether it's your battery or a fellow driver's, when it needs a jolt of energy, it pays to have jumper cables in the trunk.

Husky offers a Portable AC/DC Power System available for less than $90 at The Home Depot. It can jumpstart your car or truck, run any 120v or 12v product (think TVs, cell phones and car vacs) and it can inflate tires.

• Tire Pressure Gauge - Properly inflated tires help increase rider comfort and save fuel. Keep a tire pressure gauge on hand for a quick check at any time.

• Spare Tire and Jack - Tires go flat in the worst of times, so before you go anywhere make sure you've got a working jack and the spare tire is fully inflated.

• 1-Gallon Gas Can and Siphon Hose - Forgot to fill up the tank? A gas can and siphon hose ensure that you can load up enough gas to get to the nearest gas station.

• Hand Tools - Whether you're a mechanic or not, keeping some hand tools in your trunk can help out in a pinch. Try Husky's 30-piece Ratchet and Socket Set for $24.99.

• Blanket or Towel-In case you get stuck waiting for help, keep a blanket in your car to keep warm.

You can also throw a towel on the ground when changing a flat, avoiding damage to your pants and shoes.

Police Jury Assoc. meets

By CYNDI SELLERS

The Region 7 meeting of the Police Jury Association of Louisiana was held Wednesday, Oct. 3 at the Grand Lake Fireman's Center.

Cameron Parish hosted the event this year because the Region 7 president for the past year has been Douaine Conner, last year's Police Jury president.

Bonnie Conner has been Secretary/Treasurer of Region 7 for the past year. Chris Landry of Calcasieu Parish was elected as Region 7 president for the coming year. Region 7 is composed of Calcasieu, Cameron, Allen, Beauregard, Jefferson Davis, Vermillion, Acadia, and Evangeline Parishes.

At the meeting, representatives of the eight member parishes discussed issues important to their parishes and adopted six resolutions to present to the state meeting later this year. All six resolutions were from Cameron Parish and relate to improvements to parish transportation infrastructure.

Conner said these resolutions, if adopted at the state meeting, will be presented to the legislature in the next session with the full backing of the Association. The resolutions are;

Requesting the LA DOTD to designate Fournert Road and Calcasieu Parish Ward Line Road as evacuation routes and bring them up to that standard.

Requesting LA DOTD to raise the elevation of Hwy. 27 north of the Kelso Bayou Bridge.

Requesting LA DOTD to raise the elevation of a section of Hwy. 384 (near Boone's Corner in Grand Lake).

Requesting the LA Legislature to appropriate funds to DOTD to four-lane the entire loop of LA Hwy. 27. Requesting LA DOTD to conduct an in-house study of a bridge or tunnel across the Calcasieu Ship Channel.

Requesting the LA Legislature to fund construction of a bridge to Monkey Island.

The group was entertained by Cajun comedian Jonathan Perry before hearing remarks from Lynn Bankston of the Louisiana Recovery Authority and Police Jury Association President Richard Billings.

Bankston announced that $3 million has been added to the Capacity Planning Program, of which Cameron Parish will receive $60,900 per year for three years to fund a new position in recovery planning. She also explained that property bought by the Road Home program from residents who want to relocate can be transferred to parish government.

Billings, who was very impressed with the shrimp and crab stew served for dinner, encouraged all police jurors to keep doing what they think is best for their areas, and promised that the Association would support them in lobbying all the agencies that can help.
