Loans available to those damaged by Lili & Isidore

By SENATOR JOHN BREAU

Much of our state was ravaged recently by two of the most powerful storms in Louisiana history. Tropical storms Isidore and Hurricane Lili damaged hundreds of homes and businesses throughout the state both structurally and economically. Although Hurricane Lili was down-graded to a tropical storm by the time it hit coastal cities, our homes, schools, businesses and infrastructure did not go unscathed.

In the aftermath of these natural disasters, our federal, state and local governments have worked together to provide assistance to those whose homes and businesses were hit the hardest in recent weeks. Following President Bush's declaration of Louisiana as a Federal Disaster Area, the Small Business Association has made loans available for those whose homes and businesses were most badly damaged by the storms.

The Small Business Administration recommends that anyone whose home or business has suffered disaster damage apply for loans to cover their real estate, personal belongings and business property losses as soon as possible. The terms for these loans in the wake of Hurricane Lili are as follows:

Homeowners, renters and businesses in 28 Louisiana parishes are eligible to apply for loans to cover physical damages resulting from Hurricane Lili that began October 1, 2002. Applicants can call FEMA's toll free number 1-800-621-3362 where they will be referred to the Small Business Association. Small businesses in declared and adjacent parishes are eligible to apply for Economic Injury Disaster loans.

The declared parishes eligible for disaster relief loans include: Acadia, Ascension, Assumption, Avoyelles, Beauregard, Calcasieu, Cameron, Evangeline, Iberia, Iberville, Jefferson Davis, Lafayette, Livingston, Orleans, Plaquemines, St. Bernard, St. Charles, St. James, St. John the Baptist, St. Landry, St. Martin, St. Mary, St. Tammany, Tangipahoa, Terrebonne and Vermilion.

The adjacent parishes eligible for economic injury disaster loans only include: Allen, Catahoula, Concordia, East Baton Rouge, East Feliciana, LaSalle, Pointe Coupee, Rapides, St. Helena, Vernon, Washington, West Baton Rouge, and West Feliciana.

I urge home and business owners in these damaged areas to learn more about the resources available to them by contacting the Small Business Association at 1-800-U-ASK-SBA or by visiting their website at www.sba.gov.

Does Louisiana owe you unclaimed funds?

Christmas is right around the corner, and citizens who need extra cash to pay their holiday bills should check with the State Treasury to see if the state owes them money, according to State Treasurer John Kennedy.

"The holidays can be tough for Louisiana citizens, especially because of the economy," said Treasurer Kennedy. "I encourage you to go to our Web site or call our toll-free hotline to see if the state has your money. If we do, we'll send you a check in time to pay your Christmas bills."

The state holds $207 million in payroll checks, bank accounts, royalties, utility deposits, interest payments, stock certificates and life insurance proceeds. When businesses cannot locate individuals who owe money to, they turn it over to the state, and it becomes unclaimed property.

Unclaimed property also comes from banks and insurance companies that cannot locate individuals who have stocks, bonds or other types of inheritances bequeathed to them.

"We're hoping to spread a little good cheer this holiday season, because it's the mission of the unclaimed property program to return this money to citizens," said Treasurer Kennedy. "I've said it before that government expects us to pay our taxes on time and in the correct amount. Shouldn't it be held to the same standard when it has your money?"

To see if the state has Christmas Cash for you, log on to www.latreasury.com or call toll-free 1-888-925-4127. One in six individuals has unclaimed property listed with the state, and the average refund is $200 to $300.

Christmas meet

The Cameron Council on Aging, Advisory Council and Community Action Agency boards of directors will hold their Christmas meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 17 in the Cameron Senior Center beginning at 12 noon. All meetings are open to the public.

Federal funds possible for Cam. beaches

By Jeremy Harper American Press

A proposed project to stabilize the shorelines of Grand Lake in Cameron Parish and South White Lake is a good candidate to receive federal and state funds, a Department of Natural Resources official said Thursday at a Grand Chenier meeting.

The project is one of seven being considered for funding under the Coastal Wetlands Planning, Protection and Restoration Act, commonly referred to as the "Breaux Act."

It is the only new project being considered this year in Region 4, which includes Southwest Louisiana.

Waves are causing the shoreline of White Lake in Vermilion Parish to recede by an average of 15 feet per year.

If the shoreline continues to erode, it could breach marsh management levees and hasten marsh loss rates in the area.

The estimated $25 million project would create breakwaters along 55,000 feet of shoreline to halt the erosion.

5-1A All District team named

Tarpon quarterback Brett Baccigalopi was named the outstanding offensive player and head coach Parry Lalande was named Coach of the Year on the class 5-1A All District team.

The district champion South Cameron Tarpons who finished 13-1 on the season, dominated the all district team placing 6 players on the offensive team and 4 on the defensive team. In addition to Baccigalopi, wideout Trey Lute, tight end Nick Pinch, offensive lineman Terry Menard and Parry Lalande and place kicker Nick Boudreaux were selected on the offensive team.

On defense, lineman John Theriot, linebacker Beau Duhon, and Trey Lute made the team as a defensive back and kick returner. In addition to the first team running back Kris Benoit made the second team on offense. On the second team defense Terry Menard, lineman; Keith McKoin, defensive back; and punter Chad Broussard were honored.

Great-grandpa wasn't popular in the South

by W. T. Block
(Reprinted from Beaumont Enterprise, September 28, 1998)

My great-grandpa Duncan Smith was about as popular among his slave-holding neighbors as a skunk in church. Most Southerners expected an Abolitionist to be from some Northern state, but Dunc Smith and each of his parents were born in North Carolina, and Dunc was raised in Brandon, Miss.

So how could a Southern boy, accustomed to watching slaves from the cradle, become an ardent Abolitionist? Probably he had to witness at times such extreme brutality to slaves that he could no longer endure it. Smith moved his family from Mississippi to Indian Bayou, La., in 1858, and later to Cameron, La., in 1861.

Smith did not hate the Confederate States so much as he hated slavery much more. His biographer, who knew Smith in 1870, wrote that:

"... Duncan Smith had opposed human slavery since long before John Brown's raid, and when the Civil War came on, his fiery opposition to it put him in bad odor with those who favored it, an Abolitionist bitterly opposed to slavery. He was ready at the drop of a hat to die for the principle..." (Beaumont Enterprise, June 30, 1907.)

Duncan Smith and his adult sons Phineas and Jerry rode aboard the Union offshore blockade ships at will. Smith also served as a Union spy.

On Aug. 2, 1863, a Confederate "recruiting" ship read the Confederate Draft Declaration at Cameron. The ship operated like a British press gang, obtaining "recruits" at gunpoint if necessary. Although 53 years old, Smith was rowing his skiff across the Calcasieu River, when the recruiters," assuming he was trying to escape, shot him through the leg. Smith's wife got him ashore and hid him in the marsh.

In April, 1864, Smith acted as an agent for the Mermentau Jayhawkers for the sale to the U.S. Navy of 450 stolen cattle and horses. After completing the deal at New Orleans, Smith piloted the U.S. gunboat Wave up the Calcasieu River, where it dropped anchor in front of Smith's home. A few days later, the Sabine Pass Confederate garrison attacked the anchored gunboats; Wave and Granite City, which surrendered after a 90-minute battle.

That afternoon the Confederates searched Smith's home, hopeful of capturing the arch-Unionist, as well as the $10,000 bounty on his head. Smith hid out for one hour under his wife's hoop-skirts, and after the soldiers left, she hid him in the marsh, where he remained for the next year.

My grandmother reported that her father's ragged hair and whiskers hung down to his waist when he finally came out of the marsh.

Our nation remembers the 358,000 Union soldiers who died trying to end slavery. It even remembers the 260,000 Confederates who died to preserve slavery, although only one of each 20 actually owned slaves.

However, it does not remember the Southern Abolitionists like Duncan Smith of Cameron or three others from Jefferson County, namely, James G. Taylor, Henry Clay Smith (no relation), and L. W. Pennington. After Taylor's capture at Matagorda for the third time, he was executed by the Confed-erates, and his probate file at Beaumont verifies the year of his death.

History told of Am. Legion Post #176

(EDITOR'S NOTE--The following article appeared in the Dec. 11, 1969 issue of the Cameron Pilot and told Richard Brothers American Legion Post history, the story of the two brothers for which it was named and the news on the new Legion Home. Pilot contributor Keith Hambrick researched this story.)

(Cameron Pilot, Dec. 11, 1969. Richard Brothers American Legion Post #176, serving the Cameron-Creole area, will dedicate its new post home in Creole Sunday, Dec. 14, with activities beginning at 10 a.m., according to Post Commander Jules Dronet.

Construction of the present home, located just west of the Creole intersection, began some months ago under the leadership of Edison R. Mhire, who was commander then. The building, valued at $15,000, was erected by the Legionnaires themselves.

The Legion presently has a membership of 119 members. A Legion auxiliary was recently formed with Mrs. Ellis McWhirter as president. The Legion post was organized at a meeting in the Cameron Parish Courthouse in 1931 with Edras (Bee) Nunez as the first commander. Mr. Nunez served in the first World War from Sept. 19, 1917 to July, 1919.

The new post was named in memory of two Cameron parish brothers, Remy (also spelled Raymie) and Dorsily (also spelled Dorcelie) Richard, who died in France during World War I.

Descendants of the Acadians who came to Louisiana in the 1700s, they were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sosthene Richard, Jr. there were six other children in the family.

Remy was born Oct. 15, 1892 and Dorcelie was born April 24, 1894, both in Grand Chenier. They died within three months of each other while fighting in France.

They attended the one room Boudreaux school located in east Creole on the Stanville Theriot Estate and walked three miles to and from school daily. Their favorite sport was baseball. They played for the Creole team.

Past presidents of the post were: Edras Nunez, E. Hunt, Charles Noble, (records of names of commanders, 1940-43 and 1944-45 have been lost), John A. Roux, O. B. Carter, Elton A. Bonsall, J. B. Jones, Jr., Roland Primeaux, E. J. Dronet, Dalton Richard, Edison R. Mhire, Gervis A. Conner, H. D. Primeaux, Joseph Lee Conner, Ellis McWhirter, Preston Richard and Jules Dronet.

Watch for hazards when buying toys

Shopping for toys is a holiday tradition that goes hand-in-hand with twinkling lights and jingle bells. It's a fact that toys are an important part of holiday gift-giving. After all, toys are at the top of most children's wish lists. But in the hustle and bustle of the holiday season, adults can become so focused on finding the perfect toy that they forget about safety considerations.

Although there are fewer hazardous toys on the market each year as a result of consumer product safety testing, adults should still take care to choose toys wisely. According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, hundreds of thousands of children suffer toy-related injuries each year.

Both pediatricians and safety experts agree that the most important rule for safe toy giving is to READ THE LABEL. "Toy manufacturers are required to meet stringent safety standards and to label certain toys that could be a hazard for younger children," says Guidry. "Look for labels that give age recommendations and use that information as a guide. Toys that are too advanced can be a safety hazard for younger children."

The Children's Clinic and the Safety Council recommend following these guidelines when shopping for toys:

*Choose toys with the child's age, interests and skill level in mind.

*Look for and follow age recommendations, such as "not recommended for children under 3."

*Think BIG when selecting toys for children younger than 3 years old. Avoid balls that have a diameter of 1.75 inches or less, and other toys or games with small pieces that could be a choking hazard.

*Avoid toys with sharp edges and points.

*Look for sturdy construction on stuffed animals, such as tightly secured eyes, noses and other potential small parts.

*Avoid toys made with thin, brittle plastic that might easily break into small pieces or leave jagged edges.

*Toys with long cords or strings can become wrapped around a child's neck, causing strangulation. Remove these items from toys before giving them to young children.

*If there is more than one child in the house, make sure those toys that pose a hazard for younger children are kept out of reach.

*Before buying a toy or allowing your child to play with a toy received as a gift, read the instructions carefully. If the toy is appropriate for your child, show them how to use it properly.

*Immediately discard giftwrap, ribbon and plastic wrappings on toys, which can pose suffocation and choking hazards to a small child.

By using common sense and these safety suggestions, holiday shoppers can make informed decisions when purchasing toys for children. "You shouldn't have to worry that your children are in danger while they play," says Dr. Decker. "Carefully selecting the toys you give your children, checking the toys they receive from others, keeping toys in good condition, and playing alongside your children can help reduce or eliminate the risk of toy-related injuries, allowing your children to get the most out of their playtime."

For more information regarding toy safety, call the Safety Council at 436-3354, or the Children's Clinic at 478-6480.

Nuisance animal rule is ratified

The Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission voted unanimously at their Dec. 6 meeting to ratify a rule that will help land owners control nuisance animals.

According to the new rule, coyotes, armadillos, nutria, beavers, skunks and opossums may now be taken year-round by the land owners or their designee without permit. However, they may be taken only by trapping or shooting during legal hours.

Squirrels, rabbits, foxes, bobcats, mink, otter, muskrat and raccoons may be trapped alive and relocated to suitable habitat without permit, provided that they are treated in a responsible and humane manner and released within 12 hours. Written permission of the land owner where the animals are trapped and where they are to be released is also required.

The new rule will help land owners alleviate problems caused by these troublesome animals. However, this rule applies only when the animals are proven to be creating a nuisance or causing damage to property. The burden of proof will rest with the property owner.

TARPONS 2ND IN THE STATE

Although disappointed at losing the state title, the hundreds of fans who accompanied the team to Kentwood came home proud of the "best South Cameron team ever."

South Cameron lost the game to Kentwood, 19-6.

WHEN IT'S OVER, IT'S OVER

We've seen our first split of duck season fly by, however in most marshes, the ducks didn't fly by. I'll say this, this is the least shells I've shot in a 30 day period after ducks, and the least ducks I've ever killed in a 30 day period. Although some marshes had good shooting, I'd say 70 per cent of marshes were touch and go.

The old saying "No, I'm not a good shot, but I shoot often," didn't hold true in our first split.

I guess duck hunters will find out if history will repeat itself. In the early 1980's, the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, with the support of the waterfowl hunting community, began a five year experiment, called "standardized regulations," to set a goal of which to stick to the same limits a season for several years, to see what impact hunting has on these resources.

Old Mother Nature put a knick in this plan, when we saw the a drought in the breeding grounds and our duck populations went to falling.

The pintail count was already bad and the drought took it's toll. However the experiment went on. After two years the pintail population collapsed and the agency threw in the towel. Remember the 3 ducks with a 30 day season, now back in the 90's, we have seen a 60 day, 6 duck season and we still have it, although 9 of 10 key duck species had fallen from last year.

Loud voices, most in our waterfowl community were eager to stick to this formula and the experiment, through good times and bad. Well it seems so far this 2002-03 duck season is bad. I wonder if next spring, duck hunters could see if history always repeats itself.

Research shows that alien Zebra Mussels can take a high level of pollutants, and are currently a major food source for bluebills, and this could cause reproductive problems, even death.

We've seen a steady decline in scaup, "Greater and Lesser Scaup" since 1980. They are also called "bluebills. In 1972 we had 8 million bluebills and in 2001 that number was down to 3.7 million, however they brought the limits down from 6 to 3.

The total number of scaup in November for Southwest Louisiana was 3000, ringneck ducks were 224,000 and they didn't even get a count on canvasbacks, all in the same duck family species.

HUNTING SEASON

Between duck seasons, blue-snow-ross and specklebelly goose season opens this Saturday, Dec. 14. Rails, gullinaules and snipe seasons are also open. Woodcock open Dec. 18, deer season is open for bucks only. Crow, nutria, as well as squirrel and rabbit are open

FISHING REPORT

Fishing reports are fair, however the 4 plus inches of rain we've received has hurt our speckle trout and redfish fishing. Some of the running water from our marshes smells rotten and where we were catching redfish and flounder is now very slow.

NEWS BRIEFS

This is a good time between splits to check out the boat, clean the shotgun, recane blinds and even make new blinds now that our water has gone down.

Merry Christmas

TO ALL THE PEOPLE OF CAMERON PARISH...

It is my sincere desire to announce my candidacy for this important office of Sheriff. As in the last two elections, I know wholeheartedly that our Parish will benefit with my "Platform"...

• These Proposals are my vision for a better Cameron Parish •

1. Keep DARE Program to 100% active.
2. Put the DARE Program in all the grades because I believe the earlier you start teaching our children to say NO to drugs the more lives we will save.
3. Coordinate and supervise all law enforcement activities at all functions throughout the Parish, such as; Fur Festival, Church Functions, School Functions, Children's Livestock Shows, Baseball, Football & Basketball, etc.
4. To start a Senior Citizen Program where someone from the Sheriff's Office will call every morning to check and see if that person is all right and if there is no answer, a deputy will go by and check on them. This program will also include handicapped people and single parents.
5. Reinstate the Substation on the Westside and if funds are available, open a Substation at the north and east end of the parish for easier access and quick response time.
6. Put portable radios in patrol cars so each deputy can have communication with the dispatcher at all times.
7. To give all employees 100% of their supplemental pay.
8. Provide Hospital Insurance to all members of the employee's families.
9. Keep all radars in our patrol units because radars save lives, and when the Sheriff takes the oath, he takes the oath to protect ALL the people of Cameron Parish, all the time, no matter what happens.
10. I will visit each community every month and talk to the people and hear their views on problems in their own community.
11. Work with the courts on first time offenders and juvenile offenders so there will be room for hardened criminals.
12. There will always be inmate trash pickup road crews and they will help in other duties around the area.
13. There will also be different ministers from every religion welcome to help the inmates and employees with their problems, because in the Bible it says to visit the prisoners.
14. I will start a Community Youth Program where the deputies and our young people will meet and become friends and learn that they can trust each other.
15. I will be at every function in the parish coordinating and helping in crowd control to make sure everyone gets home safely.
16. I will be on Twenty Four Hour call and will be at my office Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Always relying on God's guidance, I will protect you and your family with solid law enforcement as you entrust your lives in CAMERON PARISH

Mosquito research continues throughout winter

Mosquitoes don't hibernate in the winter and neither does LSU AgCenter medical entomologist Dr. Michael Perich.

Some mosquitoes are still active this time of year, and so is Perich - who is conducting an extensive two-year research project on West Nile virus in Louisiana.

"We're trying to determine what's going on with West Nile in Louisiana both with the mosquitoes and the birds," Perich said, explaining hundreds of Louisiana residents were infected with the virus this year and 20 people died as a result.

A part of Perich's overall research program on mosquitoes is a study being conducted in conjunction with the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine and the East Baton Rouge Mosquito Abatement District.

That study involves 30 sites across East Baton Rouge Parish. Each of those sites has two mosquito traps - and the first one attracts females looking to lay eggs.

"We have a grav-a-trap, which is the trap with the foul-smelling water," Perich explained. "It mainly targets Culex quinquefasciatus, which has been the principal vector of West Nile in Louisiana anyway."

Culex quinquefasciatus is the common southern house mosquito.

The second trap uses dry ice and a black light to attract mosquitoes such as the Asian tiger mosquito and other possible disease-carrying insects.

The traps are set for 24 hours. Then the mosquitoes are collected and put on ice to keep them, and potentially the virus, alive. After being collected, they are sorted by species, put in vials and sent to the LSU Vet School where the virus is isolated if it exists.

Perich started the East Baton Rouge study earlier this month, and he says winter actually is a good time to study mosquitoes. He said he is interested in seeing what happens to West Nile virus in mosquitoes when the number of humans contracting it goes down.

"We're looking for the weak link in the mosquito transmission cycle so we can figure out what's maintaining the virus," Perich said, adding, "Usually when you are maintaining a disease (as seems to be the case with West Nile during the winter here), you are at a low point and that's the time to attack the disease or attack the vector (the carrier)."

The state Board of Regents is funding this study. For more information on mosquitoes and the diseases they can spread, visit www.lsuagcenter.com and click on "Mosquitoes/West Nile."

New regulations proposed for 'gator release

A notice of intent regarding new regulations concerning the release of farm raised alligators into the wild population was accepted by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission at their December 6 meeting.

The new proposal would require that no alligators longer than 54 inches be released. It also calls for the alligator release season to end on August 15.

Currently, the maximum length of alligators allowed to be released is 60 inches, and the release season runs until August 25.

Noel Kinler of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries presented the proposal to the commission. He cited the desire of the department to close the size gap between the animals harvested and the animals released.

Public comment will be accepted for this notice of intent for 120 days. The proposal will be voted on by the commission at their April meeting.

Ideas for kids

Play Clay is a homemade modeling clay, which kids and crafts enthusiasts can mold into a variety of shapes, that become permanent after drying, to make holiday decorations, ornaments, jewelry, gifts and other items. Play Clay requires only three everyday household ingredients-corn starch, baking soda and water (with the option of food coloring and other decorations). Because it is made from food ingredients, it is environmentally friendly, gluten free and cost efficient.

Play Clay Ingredients

- 2 cups baking soda
- 1 cup Argo or Kingford's corn starch
- 1 1/4 cups cold water
- Optional: add food coloring to water to color clay
- (Note: Parents should always supervise young children when cooking, cutting and baking Play Clay.)

Stir together baking soda and corn starch in saucepan. Add water and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches consistency of moist mashed potatoes (approximately 10-15 minutes). If clay is cooked too long, finished crafts may crack.

Remove mixture to plate and cover with a damp cloth. When Play Clay is cool enough to handle, pat until smooth.

Meeting for trout management set

Speckled trout are easily the most popular fish amongst Louisiana saltwater anglers. Because of the popularity of the fish, a lot of interest has been generated on its management, including the possibility of managing for larger fish, especially in the Lake Calcasieu area. In response to this interest, the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries (LDWF) and the LSU AgCenter's Sea Grant Program are sponsoring a program, Spotted Seatrout Management in Louisiana.

The program is packed with wonderful biological information on this fascinating fish and its management. The program presenters are biologists Mike Harbison and Joey Shepard of LDWF. Harbison is the district biologist for Lake Calcasieu area and Shepard is a biological analyst. Both are well-informed on the subject.

The meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 4 at the Calcasieu Parish LSU AgCenter office at 7101 Gulf Hwy, just south of Lake Charles. For more information, interested parties may call LSU AgCenter biologist Kevin Savoie at 337/491-2065 or LDWF biologist Mike Harbison at 337/491-2575. Attendance is free. Bring your thinking cap and a notebook.

Be a Trout Watcher

Biologists can never have too much information about a fish, especially one as popular as the speckled trout. Some anglers like to catch lots of trout; others like to catch big trout. But everyone likes to catch trout, so demands on fisheries scientists are high. Biologists are now asking for help from trout fishermen.

Under a new program called Louisiana Trout Watchers, biologists with the LSU AgCenter's Sea Grant Program, the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, and the LSU Coastal Fisheries Institute are asking for anglers' help in gathering information on large speckled trout. While much is known about the biology of the fish, age and growth data on big trout is still somewhat sketchy. Some 6-pound and larger fish are genetically fast-growing 3-year old fish and some are 8 to 9-year old fish. Learning more about the make-up of the population of big fish is the goal of the Louisiana Trout Watchers Program.

Anglers who volunteer for Trout Watchers will be trained in how to collect the data needed from their catch, including how to remove otoliths. By reading the growth rings in an otolith, scientists can determine the age of a fish. Anglers accepted for Trout Watchers will receive a cap and shoulder patch identifying them as Louisiana Trout Watchers.

Otoliths will only be accepted from speckled trout 25 inches long or longer (5.7 pound average). Anglers wishing to volunteer for the program should self-qualify themselves by asking "Do I really catch at least one 25-inch trout per year?" Qualified anglers who are interested in becoming a Trout Watcher may call Jerald Horst at 504/838-1170 or e-mail him at jhorst@agctr.lsu.edu to register.

More information on Louisiana Trout Watchers can be obtained by calling Randy Pausina, 225/765-2889, or Kevin Savoie, 337/491-2065.

Unused Play Clay can be stored up to one week. Just place it in a tightly sealed plastic bag or container and refrigerate. Do not freeze and bring it to room temperature before using.

To make holiday shapes, roll clay onto a floured surface until 1/4" thick and cut with cookie cutters. To make ornaments, use a straw to make a hole at the top of the shape, so a ribbon can be strung through.

Play Clay crafts can be dried several ways. To air dry, place objects on a wire rack and let dry for at least 8 hours. For oven drying, preheat the oven to the lowest setting and turn off. Then, place objects on a cookie sheet for 10 to 15 minutes. To microwave dry, place objects on a paper towel at medium power for 30 seconds on each side, repeating until the Play Clay is completely dry.

For more information about the varied uses of corn starch-such as thickening up holiday gravy-visit: www.argocornstarch.com.

When it comes to cookies, there have been few as sinfully satisfying as a warm-from-the-oven oatmeal chocolate chip cookie, until now. Created especially for Oatmeal Month, Cocoa Peanut Butter Cup Oatmeal Cookies may be the ultimate in indulgence.

To create this irresistible cookie, the Quaker Oatmeal Kitchens embellished a rich oatmeal cookie dough with peanut butter and cocoa, then added big chunks of chocolate-covered peanut butter candies.
